Probably I could begin by telling you all that Dr. Elliott is around 6 feet tall, weighes about 175 pounds, has dark blue eyes, black hair, dimples, a twinkle in his eye, denoting happiness; that he wears a cameo on his left hand, and is about 30 years old (more or less.) I COULD tell you all that—but it's much more fun to talk about him from the human interest angle. He has his likes and dislikes just like any college student who eats in the dining hall and sleeps in the dorm. Would you guess that he enjoys reading "Dick Tracy" and "Smilin' Jack" more than any other comic strips? His favorite food is branflakes, bananas and cream. His net aversion is untidiness. And if you were listening Thursday morning in chapel you too would know that his favorite musical instrument is the harp. Speaking of music, while in college, Dr. Elliott was quite outstanding in musical affairs; he sang in the choir and in the glee club. In the latter he was soloist for three years and assistant director for his senior year. Incidentally, don't ask him to sing a solo—he says he hasn't sung one in 10 years.

Although he played football in high school, in Park college his momentary athletic interests turned to intramural tennis and basketball. At present his outdoor favorite is golf, and for rainy days, like we've been having, he prefers pingpong.

Along with athletics and music, this versatile man participated in debate and oratory. During his junior and senior years he was an assistant in public speech. Not only that, but he starred in major productions all the way from "Her Husband's Wife"—he was the husband—to "Robin Hood" and back again.

Now please don't get the impression that he never had time for extracurricular activities. So far as I could learn, he had his fingers in every type of pie. He was president of the Cueoo Club which arranged pep meetings for any and every major event. In addition, he was judge of the Kangaroo Court which took care that all freshmen obeyed the rules laid down by their big brothers. As president of the student body in his senior year, he was privileged to entertain important personages like Taft, the great sculptor, and

Girls' Basketball Is Almost Rough, Includes Guarding, Shooting, Passing

BY THELMA RICHARDSON

Not so many weeks ago, an alleged sports writer for the HIGHLAND ECHO, whose name I won't mention (his initials are L. C. B.) and who writes columns about love on the side, saw fit (or misfit as the case may be) to poke fun at the way point system girls play basketball. He made derogatory remarks about the shooting, guarding, passing, and the general tenor (all right so it's soprano, be technical) of the game. If interested in what were his prejudiced quips, refer to the December fifth issue.

Before I go any further, I want you to know that we girls love basketball, and even if we do look silly, we don't do some of the things you boys are guilty of. Also, that this is written with all due respect to the four or five intramural teams which are by way of all right.

We realize that the War and the government have done really drastic things in making some of the fellows get out on a court and play. But just for the record, there is more science to opening a can of beans, than the way some of them dash around. Talk about catch as catch can, flip when flip flops, and drop where drip drops—most of the players commit so many fouls that there would be nobody left on the floor, and the referee called them all.

Now take the poor referee—or maybe that's the trouble—nobody leaves him alone. You see, that's what I like about the way the girls play. If the ref says it's so, it's so—they don't waste their time arguing needlessly.

And some of the things those boys say. They could as easily and politely state, "Sir, I'm afraid I disapprove the decision you are attempting to enforce upon us." I'm sure the referee, if approached gently, would consider their point of view.

Then there's that matter of roughness. I can see one fellow jumping up in the air, and having another land on his toes (a mishap you understand). But when four or five players land on him, and he lands in the bleachers, ah, that's going a little bit too far. If things like getting a mouthful of sawdust continue, there is a chance the intra-muralists might start looking askance at one another, or say a few cross words to each other, or maybe an encounter of the fists might occur—and that would never do.

French Club Elects Three New Officers

Members Plan Movies For Future Meetings

Officers of the French club for this semester were elected at the last club meeting Thursday, January 28, at 6:35 p. m. in the Y. W. rooms.

Eleanor Williams, president was elected at the final meeting of last semester. Officers chosen at this time were: Jane Glass, vice-president; Lloyd Anderson, secretary; Johnnye Gudel, treasurer; and Paul Cooper, Betty Ballard, and Phyllis Irshay as members of the program committee.

The business meeting was preceded by a program planned by Lloyd Anderson. Dave Seel played his violin, accompanied by Gordon Stone at the piano. Paul Cooper read a French story.

The club is planning to work up a French play to be given sometime in March. They also hope to secure some French movies to show at their meetings.

The next meeting will be Thursday.

UNITED WE PRAY

Something akin to the beauty of harmony in melody, or something of the impressiveness of earnest unity in human thought and purpose was shown this week. With apparently no tug in the other direction, with apparently nothing of disinterest or dissension, a single-minded faculty and student body has seemed to enter into the spirit of the annual February Meetings. The large attendance at all of the services, the vigorous response to the urge to song, and more, the sympathy in thought, the devotion exhibited in dormitory meetings, the earnestness of listening has shown a cooperation with the spirit of the meetings that is good indication of strong school spirit, and more important, a commendable loyalty to the highest part of a many-sided life.

The realm of the spiritual as we know it implies the direction of man's attitudes to something that is enabling but not simple to reach. It is somehow uplifting to see a large group of people with minds turned to what is higher than daily life, to a lofty and commendable devotion to that which really makes possible whatever else of life is of fine calibre in a world such as today's.

Again there seems to be unity in the feeling of appreciation for these Meetings and to Dr. Elliott for consistent inspiration. For those of us who have gone along turning over new leaves till we are now parked somewhere down in the middle of a growing Volume Six, the services have furnished a valuable opportunity for a definite pledge, for a setting forth with sympathetic strength from others on a consistent, unswerving idea of good living. We should like to thank and commend those who earnestly lead and those who as earnestly respond to the tone of the spiritual emphasis week.

And there's more of this fluid weather where the last of it came from. Let's just drag out our kyaks and make ourselves to home, 'cause it sure is going to rain some more.

The longhairs are no more! A major blitz has hit the campus in the form of huge shears. You all must get in the swing and get a hair-cut. You might copy B. J. Miller's or Bob Bayliss' heinie, or you could go original and dream up your own personality cut. Just shut your eyes, take a deep breath, and wade in. It takes a lot of courage, but after the first two whacks there isn't anything else to do but go ahead. G'wan — it's a double-dog-dare!

We'd like to know which of the little Shines executed the mural on the blackboard in Daddy's classroom. It's a humdinger of an Indian with all sorts of fringe and multitudinous feathers.

And the visitors in uniform—whew!! The navy hasn't done Dave McDaniel any harm. The way he looks now he could knock any woman in the radius of 15 feet colder than the proverbial herring. The wolfuses were in top form when he ventured out into Pearsons lobby, and none of the fellows could get near enough to shake his lucky hand. Then there was just that glimpse we caught of Tom Cragan, but those silver bars look perfectly at home on his shoulders.

Speaking of graduates — there's Mildred Hester who has recently been accepted into the WACC's. Mildred graduated last year with a major in history, and she's due to report for her newest of ventures on February 15.

Gracie Wakefield has some expensive reading material on her hands now — and she is willing to rent it out to a very select few. Reason for the renting idea: it took her last 15 cents and somebody elses last 16 cents to pay postage due on the strange parcel which had been sent 1st class mail— and then it turned out to be the mid-winter catalogue from Monkey Ward. Under trying circumstances Grace has a lovely philosophy.

They are losing their wisdom by ones and twos. It's all perfectly tragic, but Jean McCutcheon and Marty Moore had some of theirs removed the more or less painless fashion by a dentist. And they were both so brave and calm over the petrifying experience.

Where's our pal — that little fuzzy white dog. Haven't seen him around for awhile. Maybe after the gals in Memorial got through shampooing him with Drene and fixing him up with all sorts of cologne someone decided that he'd be fun to have around permanently.

Everything comes to him who waits. Even to Olsen Pemberton ! ! Olsen is now one of the big, happy Three DeMerit family. Must be French ancestry there somewhere. Anyhow—15 minutes late will get you every time. There ought to be a moral here, but early to bed's to trite. How about "never hit your grandma with a shovel — be sure and use a brick instead."

There are clubs and clubs and some more clubs. The most recent brain-child is the brotherhood of the M. B. I's. Brother Ed Ballinger states profoundly and eloquently that Morale Builders Inc. is an organization open only to those wrestlers who never undertake the impolite job of pinning an opponent — or maybe we didn't understand correctly!

The talk of the week should be Les Boyd and Eleanor Boyles. They pulled a faster fast one than anyone else has tried for a long time. And my, my, just look at everyone who fell for the story.

Then there's the little moran who—

From This Corner

By BEN LYNT

It is at times like these after much rain and dismal atmosphere, that the soft spot in the old harassed bundle of gray matter, located somewhere inside the cranium, whose primary function is to keep the spine from unravelling, comes to the fore — supersaturated with jolly good thoughts for bad times and occasionally for worse times. One of the first such suggestions was to be glad that one is yet alive and given the privilege of going to bed any time one wants to before 11:00 p. m.

It has really been a boost to the flagging morale to realize that the indomitable spirit of cooperation was not yet dead among the lads in Carnegie and that no great problems have arisen over enforcing the new quiescence required curfew at 11:00 p. m. each night of the week. Bouquets are in order for Mr. Mac and whatever other organizations are responsible for maintaining this splendid spirit.

Next methought that it was a real privilege indeed to be among the fortunates yet enjoying the idiosyncracies of pursuing with vigor the liberal arts at an institution so richly endowed with tradition and desirable features as is Maryville. Not many colleges do we know of where are conducted weekly Sunday vespers, or where the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.s play such prominent parts in the lives of the student body, or where annually are held such inspiring meetings devoted to religious emphasis as are our well-known February Meetings, or where the grounds and buildings retain and emanate such quiet charm and beauty, or yet, where the students as a whole are so genuinely friendly.

"Forget the dark clouds above, and think on Democracy and be glad; it is yet alive and flourishing in this nation, and functioning typically right here before your very eyes. Know that it is good, and go and give of what you have for the war stamp drive, and attend the fortnightly discussions in Bartlett hall sponsored by the International Relations Club and put in your car, or better yet, listen attentively while others better informed discuss pertinent world problems. For these pleasures and privileges be grateful, and above all be happy." These were the mutterings of that cerebral soft spot, and I thought that it would be well to break out the old smile and to laugh out loud, should occasion warrant it.

These things we can all be thankful for, we are an active and vital part of all of them, and without us they would lack an element of reality. There are other things, too, of course which contribute to making college life good to live, and especially by us, and more especially here. We are singularly blest with a sympathetic and understanding faculty, always willing to listen, and recommend, and point the way toward richer living. We are often prone to forget this feature of Maryville, but whether we remember or not, it is very real.

It has always seemed like a most happily attractive feature of this college that the dining and dining hall have been set up in the fashion which we enjoy each day. Not many schools have the facilities or the desire to adopt the very healthy attitude toward the practice of dining the entire student body, both men and women, at one time, and under the same roof, and in the same room, and at the same tables. One major social handicap is overcome in this manner even before it is given an opportunity to arise. We are extremely grateful, and even a trifle happy, for this feature of this college life.

There are many more features for which we are truly happy — and then there is always the comforting thought that Sloane's linament is yet available. And in my own case, when all things about me are at their lowest possible — I remember that there is Kay Bonner, and I am bucked no end. Lest your imagination run away with you, let me hasten to explain; I know for a positive fact that she has been known to read this column from time to time which makes her the third so known person (only the other two don't count, for they are my roommate and one other who have to be bribed with food.)

TALK OF THE WEEK ... " By" SPRAGUE

Dr. Elliott and Mr. Stringham Widely Acclaimed Leaders of Feb. Meetings

set, and Dr. David H. Briggs.

Dr. Elliott used as his text the twenty-fourth verse of the sixteenth chapter of Matthew, "If any man will follow me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me."

As to denying yourself, "say no to self and yes to Christ." To be a Christian means that Christ's will must be above our own. None of self, and all of Thee, that's what it means to be a Christian". "Christianity," said Dr. Elliott, "is the most liberating force on earth."

Taking up one's cross does not mean taking up a burden. To be a Christian one doesn't have to give up anything, except that which is harmful or cheapening to himself.

"And follow me. To be a Christian is to wear His sandals." Then one will want to do what He would do. To follow Him one must pray earnestly and sincerely and attend divine worship, said the speaker. "It doesn't take much of a man to be a Christian, but it takes all there is of him", ended Dr. Elliott.

The meetings were continued at the chapel services at 9:45 on Thursday. His topic for this meeting was taken from Psalms 137, "Three Harps Become Silent." Three harps that we too often leave silent are those of dependability, integrity, and purity. As to dependability, "men's characters are falling to pieces." We must stand by our contracts and our views, challenged Dr. Elliott. In his second point, he said "purity means devotion to truth." Lying is social suicide; let us tell the truth regardless of the personal sacrifices involved. "We must have purity in our thoughts, speech, and daily living." Today, too many people think it smart to be dirty and unclean. "Let us be clean. Let us be done with filth!"

"Let us play these harps to the glory of God and the strengthening of our nation. Let us give our lives to God. Only He can bring forth the music in us!"

The fourth service, held again in the chapel at 7:00 Thursday evening, began with the singing of several hymns by the audience, and by the singing of a solo by Mr. Stringham. Rose Pinneo, Sid Duke, Malcom Thompson, and Miss Elmira Bassett let the congregation in prayer. The one hundred sixteenth Psalm was the text for this sermon: "I love the Lord because He hath heard my voice and my supplication and hath inclined his ear unto me. Therefore I will call upon Him as long as I live."

Concerning the first part, I love the Lord, the leader said that "The Lord is a person. He is just what Jesus said he was, our heavenly father." These words set forth the essence of the Christian faith, a personal relationship between a man and his God through Jesus Christ. "Being a Christian is falling in love with Jesus Christ."

As to the second part, "because he hath heard my voice," Dr. Elliott said that "God may not always answer the prayer, but He always answers the man." We must trust our lives to God, and we must commune with Him through prayer, the greatest force on earth.

"Therefore I will call upon Him as long as I live." One must have implicit faith no matter how wrong the immediate present may seem. That is being a Christian.

Throughout his sermons Dr. Elliott has made continued use of many poems which have added considerably to his force as a speaker.

Continuing the third day of these Feb. Meetings, Dr. Lloyd announced as Dr. Elliott's theme for the meetings "The Important Matters of Religion and Life." Ruth Meineke and Hal Lloyd led the prayers.

"Have you the courage to be different?" queried Dr. Elliott. Most people want to be the same in all they do, but it takes moral courage to be different. "This psychology of conformity is not good for us," he added. "When you get out of college you will enter a world where the general swing is away from Christ. It will be hard to keep faith!"

Too many people commit social evils because of convention, because they haven't the moral courage to refuse. "I salute the person who can say no," challenged Dr. Elliott.

In conclusion the speaker cited an example of people climbing a rocky mountain. At the bottom of the heap are the many; at the timber line where life is more difficult only a few; and at the very top, only two, you and the Son of God.

The sixth meeting, held last night at 7:00, commenced with the choir singing "Wide, Wide As the Ocean." Mr. Stringham next introduced a chorus, the words of which are as follows:

There's joy in following Jesus all the way,
There's joy in following Jesus every day;
His love is like the rainbow when earthly skies are grey,
There's joy in following Jesus all the way.

In his announcements Dr. Lloyd said that there would be no Saturday night service, the meetings being continued at the Vespers service Sunday evening. It was also revealed that Dr. Elliott is to speak tomorrow morning at the New Providence Presbyterian Church, and that Mr. Stringham will preach at the First Methodist Church, these services beginning at 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Lloyd also outlined the procedure to be followed in signing up for interviews with the leaders. Those who wish to talk with Dr. Elliott are to sign a chart placed in Anderson Hall, and those who wish to see Mr. Stringham should arrange their meeting with him in person.

The audience was led in prayer by Ruth Case, Mary Cowan, Jim Barr, and Dr. William Stevenson, college pastor emeritus. Following this, Mr. Stringham sang a solo, "Someone Who Cares."

Dr. Elliott's text for this sixth meeting was taken from Hosea, the eleventh chapter and the ninth verse, "I am God and not man."

"In our effort to understand God," he said, "We have pulled Him down to our level. We have made Him in our image." But because God is God and not man, He is never out of character. He never vasciliates. "He has infinite faith in people, not for what we are but for what we might be under divine guidance."

God is uncompromising in His hatred of sin. Nowadays we don't think sin is so bad, and it is just that which is wrong with our social life. We are guilty not only of sins of the body but also of the disposition and the mind in our condemning and judgment of others and out intellectual pride. "What is sin," he pondered. "Sin is that which spits in the Lord's face, nails Him on a cross and leaves Him there to die." Again he challenged, "God hates it and we must learn to hate it too!"

God's love is infinite; his patience unexhausted. God is eager to forgive, to pour His Soul into ours. "I wish we could all have God's viewpoint." Let's test our philosophy of life with His.

Dr. W. E. Cole Speaks At Faculty Banquet

Dr. William E. Cole, head of the sociology department of the University of Tennessee, was the guest speaker at the last Faculty club banquet. His topic was "Minority Groups in a World War."

Dr. Cole discussed the adjustments that must be made after this war is over. He emphasized the race feeling in our country in wartimes, especially the attitude toward the Negro. He explained how war emergencies tend to aggravate the existing tensions.

Dr. Cole was a student at Maryville during 1933-34, but he received his degrees from other institutions.

A homely girl must exert herself
To make the men act sweet,

SCOTSPORTS

WRESTLE!

Mr. Cox put on quite a show for us all with his "Wrestlers ready?" and "Timers ready?" "Wrestle!" But the big show came when Ed Wilson put the bee on the App heavyweight. And in only one minute and twenty-eight seconds! All of the Scots gave good accounts of themselves. The Appalachian team was very strong in spots. Bruton, the little man who took care of Frank Bradford so quickly was a three-year champ in high school. Bill Thompson did remarkably well in spite of his injured hand and Gordon Rettke did a fine job with Austin, the App Captain. A lot of credit goes to our Captain Joe Suitor who started the Maryville comeback. It was a battle of curly-heads but O'Connell just couldn't stand up to Joe.

The match tonight will probably feature a slightly revised line-up. Rettke, 145 lb. frosh, will probably be out with a shoulder injury. Lloyd Anderson, a junior with some experience, is finally in shape after several drawbacks and will probably get the call at the 175 lb. spot. Several new boys have been reporting regularly and may grab starting berths from the usual line-up. Among these are Bob Morton, soph footballer, Frank Kramer, Bill Proffitt, Ross Honaker, and Frank Still. The heavyweight match should prove to be especially thrilling, pitting UT's Sugar Bown center, Art Brandau, against either Mack or Ed Wilson. Brandau pinned Appalachian's Kirk to pick up five of UT's nine and a half points.

IT'S THE TRUTH!

There is being waged at the present time a controversial battle between a number of colleges and certain government spokesmen. The issue: calisthenics and body exercises vs. competitive sports. Arguments for both sides have been published and repudiated. "Calisthenics build hard muscles." Competitive athletics build hard muscles and also create a valuable combative spirit." In spite of the verbal battle our college has given its full support to both. Both body exercises and some kind of competitive sport is required. Following is part of a former student's letter which is worthy of note:

January 25, 1943.

Dean of Students, Maryville College

I noticed in your letter that you mentioned the new physical training program which Maryville has put into effect. I wish that the students could realize the importance of that program. We have a very stiff program here which would have been so much easier if I had the training the colleges are giving now. For one example of our work I will mention the "Burma Road" which is a race we run once a week. It is six miles long and we run it in doubletime. That's without stopping. We train physically in rain, cold, or any kind of weather. I guess they are getting us in condition for our flying."

Sincerely yours,
Rodford Brindley
U. S. Army Air Corps
Maxwell Field, Ala.

HERE AND THERE

The Army couldn't understand how Tami Mauriello could make such a name for himself in heavyweight boxing circles when he had been in the army at Ft. Hancock, N. J. for two years. An investigation showed that Tami the heavyweight was the little brother of their Tami in the Army! The fighter had taken his brother's name into the ring with him.

We have a little trouble with fourteen basketball teams in our intramural system but Great Lakes has 1000 teams!

The Maryville College football team of 1915 is the only unscored on team in the history of Maryville. Among their victories was a 99-0 landslide over —of all people—Carson-Newman.

Not unusual in the eastern basketball circuit was Rhode Island State's 106-64 win over Northeastern a while back. Two players racked up 42 points— a record which threatens some of our hot intramural teams!

The University of Kansas basketball squad hopped up to New York City to play three games—All in one night! And they won all of them: 45-36 over N. A. Bombers; 71-22 over Rosecrans Field; 57-23 over Camp Crowder. Maybe that's why!

The Carson-Newman Eagles, in one of their most successful seasons, hung up their thirteenth straight victory with a 44-33 win over ETT lately.

The physical training program is most enlightening! Did you know you had all those little muscles in those out-of-the-way places? Wonder what they've been doing all the time!

Great sport—this swimming class. But be careful when you go in the door. Sixty-one fellows in the pool raises the water level about three feet so be sure to wear your bathing suit. Or something.

Woody Everett's Grunters Put On Whirlwind Finish To Beat Apps 18-14

Opening Match Uncovers Real Wrestling Talent for Maryville; Thompson, Suitor, Mack and Ed Wilson Win Bouts

Coach Woody Everett's premiere as a wrestling coach took on the glow of a glorious beginning last Saturday night in Alumni Gym as the '43 Scots opened their season by edging the Appalachian Mountaineers 18-14 in a meet that was not decided until the last match. After trailing 14-3 with but three matches to go, the locals staged a grandstand finish by piling up 15 points on two pins and a default.

The climax, and incidently the surprise of the evening was Li'l Brother Ed Wilson's triumph in the heavyweight class. It was the big freshman's first match. That, and the fact that he had had but a week of practice made the triumph seem the more sensational.

Captain Joe Suitor, Mack Wilson, and Bill Thompson were the other winners for the Scots.

Trevor Williams started off by dropping the 121 pound contest to Joyce in a fairly slow match. Trevor never got started against the Mountaineer and was able to eke out but a singe point against seven for his opponent.

Inexperienced, but game, Frank Bradford was easy prey for Bruton, the experienced 128 pounder in the Appalachian fold. He fell victim to the only pin suffered by the Scots. Bill Thompson hung up three points on the Maryville side when he decisioned Miller. Rettke's match at 145 was lively with plenty of action but Austin of the Apps finally outpointed the Maryville frosh Ed Ballinger pulled somewhat of a surprise by dropping a decision to Hendrix. Long Ed outweighed the App freshman four pounds.

Then came the climax, with the score at an almost impossible 14-3, Joe Suitor pinned his opponent in a thrilling match. Mack Wilson added five more points when his opponent dislocated an elbow. Ed Wilson completed the Wilson triumph by pinning Kirk in 1:28.

Coach Red Watkin's boys provided some tough opposition for Woody Everett's opening night. They had gone unbeaten for eight years until loosing to the same Kansas State team that beat the Scots last year. This year they have been beaten by Maryville, North Carolina Pre-Flight, and Naval Apprentice. Their sole win was over U-T who is slated to meet the Scotties tonight.

The summary:

118 Joyce (A) dec. Williams (MC)
128 Bruton (A) pinned Bradford (MC) 1:06.
135 Thompson (MC) dec. Miller (A).
145 Austin (A) dec. Rettke (MC)
155 Hendrix (A) dec. Ballinger (MC)
165 Suitor (MC) pinned O'Connell (A) 5:05 .
175 Wilson (MC) won by default from Ousley (A).
Heavy Ed Wilson (MC) pinned Kirk (A) 1:28.

Girls Supplement Exercises With Pt. System Events

WAACS Prove To Be Too Much For WAVES in Volleyball

The first team of the WAACS was invincible in the volleyball tournament of the girls' point system. In last Thursday's game, the WAVES were defeated for the third time in the 3 game series.

The two final games were played Thursday. Both teams were in top form, so that the plays were exciting and the scores close—15-13 and 15-11.

A game apiece has been tallied by the second teams. The tie will be played off this Tuesday.

Captain of the WAACS is "Stevie" Boretsky; Margaret Witt is their manager. Betsy Burleigh captains the WAVES, who are managed by Rose Pinneo.

Stunts will be next on the schedule, according to Becky Jones, who is in charge of point system this semester. There will be one day of practice and one day of testing. There will be no team competition—only individual tests. Week after next aerial darts will begin.

Nearly the same number of girls are turning out for the point system this semester as last. The girls meet for an hour's exercise each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the Alumni gym. Point system is optional in addition to the three hours a week of the regular physical education classes.

Scots Ready For Second Test of Year

Ike Peel's UT Vols To Form Opposition Tonight at 8 p. m.

Woody Everett's Scottie Grapplers start off on their quest for the state title tonight when they square off against the UT Vols at eight o'clock in Alumni gym. It will be the second match in as many weeks for the Scots who took the Appalachian Mountaineers into camp last week by a 18-14 score.

There will be few changes from last week's line-up with the possible exceptions of Gordon Rettke and Li'l Ed Wilson who are out with sore shoulders. Lloyd Anderson will probably take over the 175 lb. spot with Mack Wilson moving up to the heavyweight class..

Williams at 118, Bradford at 128, Dunning or Thompson at 135, Honaker or Morton at 145, Ballinger at 155 and Captain Joe Suitor at 165 will round out the line-up.

The Scots are favored to take tonight's bout because of their victory over Appalachian. The Vols took a beating at the hands of the Apps in their meeting; so the chances of a Maryville victory seem good.

One of the sidelights of the match will be the fact that Bob Smith, U-T 128 pounder, was wrestling under the colors of Maryville last year. He transferred to the University as a soph and has already made a name for himself as a grappler for the big school.

Using the Appalachian matches as a basis for comparison, it looks as if the Highlanders will take the measure of Coach Ike Peel's team tonight. The Vols were able to pull but two wins and a draw out of their match with the North Carolina Mountaineers. Brandau, who is known for his work on the Vol football team is regarded as an excellent heavy and will give Wilson a battle. Freeman, 155 pounder holds a decision over appalachian's Hendrix, who in turn decisioned our own Ed Ballinger last week. However, Ballinger showed pre-season form against Hendrix and he may snap back for a win. The 118 pound class holds two fast boys, Williams of Maryville and Webb of U-T. Webb drew with Joyce of Appalachian in the match, while Williams was decisioned by the Mountaineeer.

GERMAN CLUB

On Thursday, January 28, the German club met in the Alumni Gym. The business of the meeting consisted of electing a new president. Chuck Edwards, of Rochester, Pennsylvania, was elected, but on Friday he received a letter from his draftboard containing orders to report. He left by plane Saturday. At the next regular meeting of the club on Thursday, February 11, another president will be elected.

After the election the club members participated in a treasure hunt across the campus.

GAMES PLAYED THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4

Y Cabinet 20 Athenian 18

The resolution proposed at the last Y Cabinet meeting for the purpose of winning a basketball game must have had some effect because the Y Cabinet finally overcame the Athenians in a close shave game 20-18. Jim Garvin led the Cabinet boys with 7, Bushing and O. Pemberton each got 4, C. Brown 3 and Kidder 2.

Bergquist led the Athenians with 8 and Pratt came across with 6. Hodges, Boyd, Hopkins and Smith each got 1.

Cooties 18 Supermen 0

The Cooties managed to hold the Supermen and rack up a total of 18 points for themselves. Leroy Dillener again was the leader in the Cooties' offense, scorin a total of 8, Collins came through with 5, Purvis 3 and Kolter 2.

Alpha Sigma 33 Choir 13

Alpha Sig managed to keep her perfect record against the Choir as Al Rock led the scoring with 13 points. Rettke and Stevens each got 4, and Les Rock and Mair each got 6. For the Choir Henderson led with 4, Winkle 3, and Easter, Hunter, and Lloyd got 2 each.

Mud Hens 42 Gladiators 9

The Gladiators kept their winless record as the Mud Hens rolled up a total of 42 points to their 9. Talbott led the Mud Hens in scoring with 16, Mitchell came a close second with 10, Faulkner6, Renfro and Ezell each 5 and Bayless 3. For the Gladiators Francis led with 5 points and Parvin and Scott each got 2.

Varsity Outcasts 21 Celtics 13

The Outcasts won their first game over the Celtics in a close battle all the way. Roseborough led the Outcasts with 10, Cooper 3 and Brand, Evans, A. Spears, O. Spears all got 2 points each. Breazeale led the Celtics with 7 points, Miller and Scapellati each 2, and Meineke and Sawmiller 1 each.

Invincibles 29 Jr Commandos 13

John Runion led the Invincibles to a 29-13 victory over the Junior Commandos by scoring 16 points, Gualtieri got 8 and Pope 3. For the Junior Commandos Moore led with 7 and Kluth 4 and Hertzberger 3.

GAMES PLAYED TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2

Athenian 41 Choir 15

The Athenians were led to a one-sided victory 41-15 over the Choir by Bergquist who rolled up 27 of the 41 points. Hodges racked up 6, Pratt 4 and Smith and Boyd 2 each to make the total. Hunter led the Choir with 6 points, Easter followed with 4, Moehlman 3 and Lloyd 2.

Mud Hens 20 Outcasts 19

The Mud Hens barely were able to overcome the varsity Outcasts in one of the closest games of the season. Nearly everyone on both teams scored. The Mud Hens led 11 to 7 at the end of the half and the Varsity Outcasts played a much better game the second half but not enough to beat the Mud Hens. Bob Bayless scored 3 out of 3 foul shots for the Mud Hens, Talbott scored 4, Mitchell 2, Spence Renfro led with 8, Ezell 4 and Faulkner 1. For the Outcasts Roseborough, Evans, and Cooper each got 4. A. Spears, Aston, and O. Spears each got 2 and Enloe got 1.

Sons of Liberty 64 Supermen 30.

The Liberty boys went to town against the Supermen and held a scoring spree of 64 points to the Supermen's 30. Ford led the Libertys with 24, Jim (no longer 2 pt.) Hogue 16, Conkle and Cato 10 each and Sidner with 4. For the Supermen Busby, Smith and Tarwater each got 8 and Yunker got 6.

Y Cabinet Loses to Alpha Sig 13-28

The Alpha Sig boys slipped by the Y boys to the tune of 28-13. W. Stevens and A. Rock led the Alpha Sigs with 6 each, L. Rock, B. Mair and B. Adams each got 4, and Rettke and Rowley each got 2. O. Pemberton led the Y Cabinet with 4, Garvin 3, and Kidder, DeForest, and Boyd 2 each.

Cooties 24 Ringers 8

The Cooties over-ran the Ringers almost 3 to 1 with their 24-9 victory. Leroy Dillener was the star for the Cooties and made a total of 18 points.Collins 4, and 2 for Burgreen rounded out the total. Peter Van Blarcom, as always, played the best for the Ringers making a total of 6 points. Others scoring for the Ringers were: Lynt, Proffitt and Segraves with 1 each.

Celtics 36 Gladiators 9

The Celtics overran the Gladiators 3 to 1 with Miller leading their scoring with 10 points. Breazeale, Meineke, Scapellati, and Sawmiller with 6 each. Pepper slipped in the other 2 points for the Celtics. Francis led the Gladiators with 4, J. Brown and R. Parvin each got 2 and Buford got 1.

GAMES PLAYED SATURDAY, JANUARY 30

Invincibles 20 Ringers 13

The Invincibles ran over the Ringers in a close hard-fought battle, scoring 14 points for the Invincibles. Sprague, Runion and Pope each scored 2. Bill Hopkins was especially good on offense. While he did not score he set up many plays. For the Ringers Peter Van Blarcom again led with 6 points. Segraves, Lynt, Proffitt and Milligan each made 2 points.

Cooties 27 Hi Flyers 1

The Hi Flyers made a very weak showing in their last game, before the team members were absorbed into other teams. The Cooties were really going to town as Leroy Dilliner led with 14, Purvis 6, Collins 5, and Charles Burgreen 2. The only point made by the Hi Flyers was made by Sanderson.

Doubles Handball

The Doubles Handball tournament has been drawn up and placed on Carnegie bulletin board. The Second Round of the tournament must be played by Thursday, February 11, and the results given to Harold Huffman in Room 303.

The tournament promises to be interesting although only eleven teams are represented. Hopkins and Easter got by the first round with a bye and will play the winner of the Huber-Segraves and Winkle-Moehlman match. Cooper-Swartzback will meet Seel-Parvin and the winner will meet J. Brown-Bushing who drew a bye in the first round. Scapellati and Adams who drew a bye will meet Bayless and McClelland who also drew a bye. Pemberton-Pemberton meet Jim Barr and his as yet un-named partner; the winner will meet C. Brown and Williamson who drew a bye in the first round. With all these athletically inclined boys the tournament promises to be an exciting one.

not return to school this semester. Scott has been accepted into the Ohio State Veterinary School and will begin his studies there this spring.

The four upper classes also elected new Student Council members. The four seniors chosen to serve are Margaret Clippinger, Ruth Wynn, Jim Garvin, and Ed Rowley. They were selected to replace four members who were graduated in December. They were Marian Magill, Frances Sisk, Bob Calvesbert, and Brasher Bailey, who served as president of the Student Council and of the Student Body.

Three juniors were elected to take the place of council members who attained the rating of senior at the end of last semester. New members are Marian Stout, Lloyd Anderson, and Chuck Dunning. The three former members were Eleanor Williams, Bob Francis, and Douglas Roseborough, who have all been reclassified this semester.

The two sophomores who were chosen are Joe Brown and Abner Richard. They will take the positions formerly held by Jack DeForest, who is now a junior and the president of that class, and Dale Wiley, who has been accepted to the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School.

After the recent elections were completed, the Student Council reached its quota of twenty-two members. Present members and their classifications are: seniors, Ted Pratt, Ted Kidder, Nat Yelton, Willie Williams, Ruth Wynn, Margaret Clippinger, Jim Garvin, and Ed Rowley; juniors, Fred DePue, Betty Jane Miller, Jeana Eddleman, Marian Stout, Chuck Dunning, and Lloyd Anderson; sophomores, Katharine Scott, Louise Henry, Abner Richard, and Joe Brown; freshmen, Mardee Fletcher, Catherine Sisk, Bob Barker, and David Briggs.

tiful buildings and the shabbiest mud huts, and the best and poorest soil.

"Why is India disloyal to Britain?", asked Dr. Jones. "Because the people want freedom and England will not give it to them. No people can be loyal under such circumstances." As to India's ability to govern herself, he expressed the opinion that the two main parties, Mohammedan and Hindu, would be able to work together and form a good government. "But Britain will not trust India. India wants complete independence, not of Britain especially, but the independence of choice."

If given her independence India would not side with Japan, for "India hates oppression, that of the Axis worse than that of the British."

"The will to settlement has been lacking. The crisis is Britain's fault, and the struggle which will result will be her fault."

Referring to the Atlantic Charter Dr. Jones quoted Winston Churchill as saying that "the Atlantic Charter does not refer to India." This has been the point of irritation between the two peoples, and, said Dr. Jones, "a war is sure to follow, and it will be a racial war."

"We can cut it off, and India's the place. Freedom for all—that is the solution. More specifically", he said "we ought to put forth a Pacific Charter which would embrace all peoples, all lands."

Among the points of Dr. Jones proposed Pacific Charter were equality of opportunity, abolition of imperialism equal access to raw materials and world markets, political, economic, social, and religious freedom and equality for all, a world federation, and a form of world socialism. "We should establish a world order of mutual aid."

Dr. Jones concluded with a few remarks about Ghandi, and ended with the thought that America should help to solve the Indian problem, for "our nation is the one hope of a new world order based on freedom and equality."

Many members of the Maryville college student body and faculty attended the meeting. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Lloyd and Hal Lloyd, Dr. Frank D McClelland, Dr. William P. Stevenson, Mr. R. S. Dollenmayer, and representatives of various college organizations.

Since there is so LITTLE of romance in the studious, esthetic lives of Maryville undergrads, it might be of interest to hear about the romance of Dr. Elliott and his wife Helen. I don't know whether it was love at first sight, but in his sophomore year at Park college they met at a picnic for college students, where she was playing softball. In his junior year they got themselves engaged.

Their honeymoon was spent in Scotland where Dr. Elliott had two fellowships to the University of Joseph Hergesheimer, the great novelist.

As for the duller moments of college life, I dare tell this bit of devilry 'cause it's too late for the fellows to get any ideas since they go to bed at 11 o'clock. In the dead of night—say midnight—a gang of fellows, Dr. Elliott included, would enact very realistic murder scenes under the windows of the girls' dorm.

But so much for the lighter side of college life. Here's something for the Maryville groaners and crudderers to think about. Appearance at breakfast at 6:30 in the morning was required because morning prayers were held. Anyone absent— 1 demerit chalked up in the little black book. Furthermore, they had compulsory Chapel services 5 days a week and on Sunday students went to Sunday School, morning worship and vespers PER force! Doesn't that make you all feel much better? As for dates, fellows wrote what they called number 2 notes to their girls for dates to chapel affairs, supper and after supper. The name—rule number 2 in the catalogue specified dating regulations. Edinburgh. While there he heard the Duke of York (now king) speak as Lord High Commissioner at the General Assembly. Queen Elizabeth was there too. (That bit of info is for sundry autograph hunters to sigh over.)

To know a man's family is to know the man—is that quoted? Nevertheless, Mrs. Elliott, who is from Tacoma, Washington, was planning to be a missionary or pastor's assistant. She is a pastor's assistant. . . .

Dr. Elliott loves to tell this one about his 11-year-old son Joe, a little redhead who, at the age of 4, exasperated his mother so much that she finally said, "Joe, you do get on my nerves so!" That night, little Joe was saying his prayers. This is what he said, "Dear Father, bless all the people that have nerves." Doubtless a frequent prayer of many an older person!

Several days ago after the birth of Jeanette Louise, her father's daughter even to the profile, Dr. Elliott overheard Carol, 8 years old, ask her brother "Would you love baby more than me?" Little Joe in all his wisdom said, "Oh, for a little while!" Honesty is the best policy you know.

As Dr. Elliott's favorite radio program is 'Take It or Leave It', you can take this biography or leave it. In my opinion, this versatile athletically-inclined, dramatic, musical man brings a wealth of background and training to these February Meetings and it has been a pleasure to have him here this past week.

Choir Gains Tenors, Basses, 1 Soprano

New Members Pass Critical Voice Tests

Tryouts for tenor and bass positions in the Choir were held in the Fine Arts Studio on Monday evening at 6:30; one soprano was also chosen. The new members are to fill the vacancies caused by graduation and the armed forces. Those who have been accepted are: Catherine Sisk, Peter Van Blarcom, Neil Proffitt, Bill Robarts, Bob Seel, David Seel, Fred Smith, and Max Willocks.

Mr. Richard Vine, assistant professor of music, in speaking of the qualities which were considered in choosing, stressed the fact that the dependability of the person counts as well as his singing ability. Other things considered in selecting the members were: how the voice blends with others, its pitch, quality, range, and flexibility.

Catherine Sisk, the only soprano chosen, is a freshman who lives in Maryville. Peter Van Blarcom, a junior, is an English major from Boonton, New Jersey. Neil Proffit, a junior and art major, lives in Maryville. Bill Robarts, who is a sophomore, comes from Lake City, Florida. He is an English major. Bob and David Seel are both freshmen from Bradenton, Florida. The only senior selected was Fred Smith, Chemistry major from Hardy, Virginia. The other freshman, Max Willocks, is from Maryville.

Dr. George Davies To Speak To YM On "Rules of The Game"

Dr. George E. Davies, father of Miss Katharine Davies, professor of music, will speak to the YMCA tomorrow at 1:30 in Bartlett hall. His topic will be THE RULES OF THE GAME.

On last Thursday the YMCA Fellowship committee sponsored a fellowship meeting for approximately 25 men students. Fun, fellowship, and refreshments was the purpose of the meeting. Dr. S E Stringham was among those present. At brief intervals throughout the college year the YMCA Fellowship committee sponsors meetings of fellowship for small groups. During the whole year all the men are included.

Dean of Women Will Speak At YW Sunday

Mrs. Grace Snyder, dean of women and supervisor of women's residence and head of Pearsons will discuss Henry Drummond's essay on "The Greatest Thing in the World" at the YW meeting Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the YW rooms.

Miss Jessie Johnson And Jordy Meadows To Read At Workshop

The next meeting of the Writers' Workshop will be held in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom on Wednesday, February. At this meeting Miss Jessie K. Johnson and Jordy Meadows will read.

Dr. Hunter will be the critic for this meeting.

At the last meeting, Billye Ruth Braly and Frances Harris read short stories. Phyllis Anne Cain was the critic At the meeting several new members were also elected for the Workshop.

David Seel Will Speak To Student Volunteers

David Seel, brother of Bob Seel, freshman chemistry major from Bradenton, Florida, son of a Presbyterian missionary to Colombia, S. A., will be the speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Student Volunteers after vespers Sunday evening in the Y. W. rooms.

The special music for the evening will be sung by Frances Smith and Frances Harris, members of the Maryville college a capella choir.

This is the third meeting in a series featuring speakers from the college campus.

Dr. Elliott Closes February Meetings With 15th Sermon

Speaker Explains Spiritual Growth, Urges Faith, Devotion

Thursday morning in chapel Dr. William M. Elliott of Atlanta preached the fifteenth and last of his sermons for the sixty-seventh February Meetings of Maryville college. Dr. Elliott used as his general theme "Important Matters of Religion and Life."

Last week's ECHO carried accounts of the services through the evening of February 5. Saturday morning in chapel Dr. Elliott spoke on "Talking to Myself." He emphasized the fact that we often set before us. The late Queen Victoria was quoted for an example as saying, "I will be good; so much depends on me."

Sunday morning Dr. Elliott preached at the New Providence Presbyterian church. Dr. Sidney Stringham delivered the sermon at the First Methodist Church.

"Making Your Faith Your Own" was the topic of the morning address on Monday. Dr. Elliott used as his text Psalms 63:1, "O God, Thou art my God." That evening he discussed "Making Your Faith Your Own," which is one technique of successful spiritual growth.

February 9 was the twelfth meeting led by one of the youngest ministers to be in charge of these annual services at Maryville. Dr. Elliott used as his text Revelations 3:20, "Behold I stand at the door and knock . . . " He showed how Christ is ready and willing to come into hearts if they will only open to Him. Tuesday evening he revealed "The Secret of a Christ-like Personality."

A pertinent thought in these slang-filled days was "Who Would Have Thought It?", the topic of Wednesday morning's address. The reference in this statement was to the words spoken by Nathaniel in

Sophs Sponsor Valentine Party In Gym Tonight

Tonight at 7:30 in the Alumni gymnasium the sophomore class will give a variety show that will be in keeping with Valentine's Day. Those who take part in the show will be people who have never before appeared on the Maryville stage. Don Barker, head of the social committee for the sophomore class, Billy Segraves, head of the publicity committee, and Jessie Fowler are working on the program and have released this story.

After the program there will be a square dance. Ben Russell, a resident of Maryville will call the dances.

Players Present Two One Act Plays

Last night the Experimental Theatre presented two one act plays and the reading of a short story.

One of the plays, which Sara Crider directed, is TRIFLES by Susan Galsworthy. It is a murder mystery, and the action takes place in the Wright home after Mr. Wright has been murdered. Included in the cast were Jack Scott as Mr. Hale; Mary Grace Hall, Mrs. Hale; Don Barker, Mr. Henderson; Douglas MacMartin, Mr. Peters; and Nancy Russell, Mrs. Peters.

Dorothy Harned read Margaret Presscott Montague's "England to America", which was inspired by World War No. 1.

Florence Knox's "For Distinguished Service" was the second one act play. Alice Jones as Catherine Burton, Betty Jean Kennedy as Ethel Hardy, and Dorothy Toomey as the maid enacted a scene of conflict, which was caused by the eternal triangle.

The work done by this group is under the direction of Mrs. Hamilton and occasionally one of the students in the theatre. Its object is to allow the actors to portray many diverse roles, and also to coach one act plays. Plays are presented as class room exercises or projects.

Chapel Speaker Is Former Leader Of February Meetings

Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Broady of Birmingham, Alabama, will speak at the Wednesday chapel service on February 17. His subject has not been announced.

Dr. Broady has been for the past thirty years pastor of the 6th Avenue Presbyterian church in Birmingham, Alabama. Since last fall he has been speaking throughout the United States in behalf of the War Emergency Fund of one million dollars that is being given by the Presbyterian church for work among the soldiers.

Dr. Broady is one of the most vigorous and best known ministers in the Presbyterian denomination. He has held many important positions and has often been a prominent speaker at the National General Assembly.

Dr. Broady is of special interest to Maryville College students and faculty for various reasons. He has been the leader of the February meetings four times. He grew up in Maryville and attended Maryville college before going to Theological Seminary. He is a director and vice-chairman of the Board of Directors of the college.

ARTISTS' SERIES PRESENTS JOHN GURNEY IN RECITAL ON MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22

Gurney Brings Rich Bass-Baritone Voice And Wide Repertoire

OPERA STAR

Sang Don Basilio In "Barber of Seville" At Maryville in 1941

Mr. John Gurney, bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company will appear in a recital in Voorhees chapel on the evening of

JOHN GURNEY

Monday, February 22.

In the five seasons that John Gurney has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, he has sung several hundred performances with that famous organization both in New York City and in the cities visited during its road tour each spring. With each performance he has proved his right to be considered among the foremost low-voiced artists of the day. In recital and with leading orchestras and choral groups he has also proved himself one of the outstanding singers of the times. An account in the "New York Sun" say "John Gurney's voice is remarkable in its richness and depth of tone. The soft, smooth quality of his higher notes was produced with an ease that was astonishing . . ."

Born in Jamestown, New York, Mr. Gurney was brought up in a musical atmosphere. He attended Oberlin college, in Ohio; and although he continued his musical interests there, he distinguished himself in football and as captain of the varsity baseball team. After his graduation, he entered Harvard University Business School, and soon became soloist with the Harvard Glee Club. It was not long until the director persuaded him that he should seek a career in music rather than in business. It required considerable diplomacy to win his parents over to this idea, but eventually this was accomplished and Gurney was sent to France to study under Jean Mauran of the Paris Opera.

When he returned to New York,

College Will Be Host For Annual Music Festival

For the third consecutive year the District Junior Competitive Festival of the National Federation of Music Clubs will be held here at Maryville college Saturday, March 6.

Entrance blanks and the accompanying fees are to be sent to Miss Dorothy Horne, Maryville college, who is District Chairman. The deadline is February 15.

The events, which include piano solo, voice, violin, organ, and orchestral instruments, and various ensembles, will be judged by the music faculty of the College.

Because of transportation difficulties, the district ratings will be considered final. The state finals usually held in Nashville have been called off. To further conserve gas and tires, East Tennessee has been divided into three districts instead of two as in former years.

Other announcements concerning the entrants and the program schedule will be made very shortly.

Publisher To Speak Sunday Evening At Vesper Service

The speaker at the Vesper service Sunday evening will be Mr. Clyde B. Emert, the editor and publisher of the Maryville Times. His subject is "The Price of the Best."

Mr. Emert is a graduate of the University of Tennessee and was a former state editor of the Knoxville News-Sentinel. He is a prominent layman in the Methodist church having held offices in church and civic organizations. At one time he was Governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee District of Kiwanis International. At present he is an active member and teacher of the Men's Bible Class at the First Methodist Church in Maryville.

Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor emeritus, will preside at the service and will introduce the speaker.

Miss Harriet Miller Will Speak at IRC

On Monday evening at 7:00 in Bartlett auditorium the Discussion Group on Current Affairs will hear reviewed "The Making of Tomorrow," by Miss Harriet Miller. This is a well-known and interesting book which Miss Miller will lead discussion after her review. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The International Relations Club which plans the programs of this Discussion Group has announced its program for the rest of the semester. Included on the list are two leaders from the University of Tennessee faculty. They are Professor J. W. Hoffman, head of the History Department there, and Associate Professor Paul Walp who is also Chairman of the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace in East Tennessee. This Commission is a section of the nation wide organization, and Dr. Walp will speak on the work the Commission is doing.

NOTICE . . .

Any freshman interested in trying out for a position on the editorial staff of the ECHO may report at the regular staff meeting next Tuesday at 6:30 in the ECHO office. In accordance with the policy and annual procedure of the paper, tryouts for new freshman apprentices are held each year about this time. Tryouts will continue for approximately five weeks.

Rags and resin have been combined into a war- emergency building material and used as a substitute for critical materials.

Ruth Randolph, who will sing the first number, is a sophomore from Black Mountain, North Carolina. Jean Leslie Ford, a freshman from Steubonville, Ohio, will give the next selection. Peggy Fisher, a junior from Warsaw, New York, is an organ music major. Dorothy Gredig is a junior music major from Maryville. Estelle Farrow, a junior and violin major is from Montclair, New Jersey. Marcia Keirns, a sophomore from Alcoa, and Frances Harris, a junior from Maryville will sing a duet from the Nutcracker Suite. Ruth Wynn is a senior from Fork Mountain, Tennessee. Catherine Crews, a violin major, is a senior from Athens, Tennessee.

Stribling Will Be Disc Club Speaker

The Grieg Piano Concerto and Passacaglia as rendered by the Boston Symphony orchestra will be played at the second meeting of the Disc club next Thursday at six thirty in Voorhees chapel, their new meeting place. Oliver Ruth Stribling one of the members of the Disc club committee, will deliver the commentary.

In line with their program to offer many types of good music this semester, at the meeting March 4, Bill Buzby will trace the growth of jazz. He intends to use some of his own records to illustrate its development. They will include New Orleans jazz, boogie-woogie, and Dixie land jazz. Such immortals as Bix Biederbecke, Bud Freeman, Bunny Berrigan, Cootie Williams, and Toots Mondello may be featured.

Women Debate In Tourney at Va.-I.

Pi Kappa Delta Question Discussed By Five MC Students

On February 26 and 27 the varsity Debate squad will take part in the Women's Smoky Mountain Debate Tourney to be held at Virginia Intermont in Bristol, Tennessee. A larger tournament than has been held in former years, it will include a greater variety of contests.

At this time women will participate for Maryville: upholding the affirmative will be Jordy Meadows and Dorothy Lehman and on the negative will be Muriel Geisler and Phyllis Anne Cain. Natalie Yelton will enter oratory. The question is the National Pi Kappa Delta one: Resolved that the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union to tax and regulate commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other states who adhere to the principles of the Union.

Among the other contests Maryville will enter are Extemporaneous speaking in which Phyllis Anne Cain will be the MC contestant; After dinner speaking by Muriel Geisler, Impromptu by Dorothy Lehman, Poetry Reading by Jordy Meadows, and Radio speaking by Phyllis Anne Cain. There will be five rounds of debate in addition to these extra contests. The debaters accompanied by Debate Coach Verton M. Queener, will leave on Friday morning and return on Saturday night.

"Three Ghosts" and "Sandals" Were Used By Dr. Wm. Elliott

Throughout the course of the February Meeting, the sermons of Dr. Elliott have been permeated withe lines of poetry. Many of the students and members of the faculty have requested that the HIGHLAND ECHO print some of these poems.

The three ghosts on the lonesome road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that stain about your mouth
No lifted hand may cover?"
"From eating of forbidden fruit,
Brother, my brother."

The three ghosts on the sunless road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that red burn on your foot
No dust or ash may cover?"
"I stamped a neighbor's hearth-flame out,
Brother, my brother."

The three ghosts on the windless road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that blood upon your hand
No other hand may cover?"
"From breaking of a woman's heart,
Brother, my brother."

"Yet on the earth clean men we walked,
Glutton and Thief and Lover;
White flesh and fair it hid our stains
That no man might discover."
"Naked the soul goes up to God, Brother, my brother."

—Theodosia Garrison

We gambled for the clothes He wore.
His sandals fell to me.
They had been scarred upon the road
That winds to Calvary.

I clasped them on unholy feet,
Set out upon my way—
The paths were strange the sandals chose.
I could not make them stay.

They took me to an olive grove
So dark I could not see—
And I, who always scoffed at prayer,
Knelt down beneath a tree.

—Goldie C. Smith, Sandals.

Frantic Freshmen Seek Lonely Man To Show Tower-Eye-View of Campus

Cathey, Dick, Richardson

Once upon a sunlight Monday afternoon, there were five pretty coeds. Well a little pretty-well-well we're writing this article, so we're entitled to our own opinion-so there. After having put the Waacs to shame by precise column rights, and countermarches, and to the rear files, and what-have-you— Mrs. Queener, please don't note—they decided to march on to bigger and better (?) things like soaring over six-foot bushes. Fortified by food from one of Maryville's better restaurants (sorry, no advertising permitted) this dauntless quintet (sounds like a basketball game) felt that now, nothing could stop them.

Some bright young thing decided that bigge rand better things pointed skyward to the tower atop Anderson. With courage peculiar to Maryville coeds, this winsome quintet approached our august president with that pretty-please-we're-just-dying-to-go-up look in their eyes. When it's a case of life or death, who could refuse. Well, what gentleman could refuse. So off they tramped to get the key, only to find their troubles had just begun. For all things n man was needed for a guide. Silly idea. On a campus where the ratio is 2 to 1, and half of the other fellows are engaged. Nothing ventured, nothing gained, however, so five girls on the loose(how unusual) began to hunt.

No bear traps, no hidden pits we assure you—just plain go out and haul him in. The first haulable thing in sight proved to be . . . (Gee, this is mysterious too.) The situation now well in hand (more or less), the ascent began. Up, up, they dashed; up, up they pounded; up, up, they trudged. Time out for a moment to pay due respect to a little, dead bird that bit the board. Perhaps the altitude was too much for him. Anderson peak or bust. Up, up, they—(O. K. so you've had enough).

Sky, more sky, blue sky, mountains, Smokies, Cumberlands, six pairs of hands clutching to the flagpole, six pairs of lungs gasping for breath and wonder: Our campus—we're on top of it. Ooh, Car-

No One Admits It, But We All Like to Look at the Birdie and Act Beautiful

By ROBERT F. HUBER

During the past several weeks the members of the Chilhowean staff have been up to their necks in work, for there aren't very many weeks left until the year book is published. All over the campus one can witness its gradual development. If you see a group of students standing around with no seeming purpose in life, you can rest assured that they are about to have their picture taken.

"I'm having my picture took," are words of many a charming co-ed who wishes to make her jealous competitor for masculine attention even more envious. To have your picture taken is reserved to the elite.

"Daddy" Webb is the gentleman who does most of the "shooting." You don't know him? Surely no one can mistake that old southern gentleman, for whenever you see a tuft of white hair blowing in the breeze you know who it is. He is an old campus fixture, having started his photographic career here long before Dr. Lloyd's time.

The typical procedure in having a picture taken receives its impetus by an innocent announcement in chapel. But once the date has been set it is sure to rain. Maybe the next day is fair enough for the group to assemble, and this is always amusing, for someone is sure to remark about "breaking the camera" and "Daddy" Webb invariably says, "Look at the birdie". Someone tweeks an ear, and "Ouch, don't pull my hair," says the pretty blond in the front row. This is just a sly technique the feminine sex has of attracting attention. Some day the wolves on the campus will wake up to their tricks.

"Wait, wait," a voice shrieks in the distance. Two tardy waitresses hurry up, fully five minutes late and too out of breath to say anything at all, if it is humanly possible for a woman to be speechless. "Is everybody ready?" the man with the birdie asks. No, wait a moment. Some cute brunette standing in front of handsome Billy has to comb her hair. "You know I'd hate to spoil the picture" is her excuse for this delay, but every-

ACT YOUR AGE

Most of the time most of the people manage to filter away twenty-four hours from world's supply at rather regular intervals and put it to use in some highly proper or commendable manner. As a rule one doesn't see aged dignitaries playing leap frog on the neighbor's lawn each twilight, hear infants determining through statistical interpretation the probability of an approaching depression, find a line forming to the right after each class for a slide descent down the Thaw hall banisters.

It is probably undeniable that all of us have a secret record of occasional lapses into quasi imbecility or second or third childhood which we greatly enjoyed. But it is not an admirable quality of unquenchable youthfulness which in itself is appealing we would mention, but, rather, certain childish ways of acting which head the list of those things we can do without, ways which are, moreover, somewhat prevalent and annoying.

For instance . . . Actually a library and a study are by definition practically identical, the first an apartment or a building devoted to a collection of books kept for use, study or reading, the second a building or room devoted to study or literary work. Both apparently are places for quiet work with books.

But perhaps a more colloquial definition would be—a dispensary of fellowship, conversation, and promenading exercises. The word study seems sometimes to have little connotation with library. Indeed it seems occasionally rather too bad that the campus coterie is not well enough bred to wear the proper gloves or white ties for the daily evening social hour.

It seems unnecessary that the librarian must go on patrol duty as in a grammar school study hour and quiet the audible whispers, while the whisperers in the midst of planning anything from the next six weeks' club program to the cooperative Spanish homework look up with cherubic smile, not still toothless perhaps but about on the six year old level, say "Yes'm", and proceed with more talk. Perhaps you could help hand out little placards saying "I have not yet learned how to be quiet" and have the people put them on when they feel the call to intimate filibusters.

Now and then when the Chatterbox takes stock of its income outgo ratio, something is quite wrong— and the reason is known. Children like to pick up whatever they see, having little sense of ownership. But people of college age might respect the ownership of the Chatterbox counters, or try not picking up the Box's own empty bottles and turning them in for food. People are supposed to come of moral age when they are about twelve.

And after all, how old are you?

By JORDY MEADOWS

Did they get fooled? ? Seems as though fifth hour on Friday was too hard a time to remember to meet a class—soo Mr. Kiger's frosh history class agreed gleefully to meet at six o'clock. Were those kids surprised, chagrined, and any other superlatives that you can think of when they found out their prof meant six in the morning! Why it's still dark as the holy beard of the pink toed prophet at that hour. Needless to say things reverted to the original plan.

Flirtation on a very large scale occurred when Mardee Fletcher leaned out a window to whistle the proper whistle at Ken Cooper. Guess she was surprised to a blushing state when she looked again and saw Dr. Elliott, who had appeared out of the middle of a bush or something equally fantastic, waving vigorously at her.

She shor can take a dare—that Mountain Gal Geisler! That's the only explanation we can find for Muriel's sudden appearance in the library Thursday afternoon with her bare feet on. And did she start something. As soon as the violent rain started Becky Jones and Willie Williams decided that the only way to keep their shoes and self-respect dry was to revert to stubbed toes acquired on the gravel path from the Chatterbox to Pearsons.

Sometimes there are just lots of things we wonder why!* Stuff like—going hungry for simply months and then a box comes and everyone else gets a box too and you eat until inevitable sickness comes and then you start going hungry again oh gee— Valentine day is only going to come once a year tomorrow—all of us don't buy a couple dozen more war stamps—Alice Jones' hair simply defies gravity to make us pretty jealous—and why weather figure-outers bother to exist in Tennessee ? ? ? ?

Just any time run up and poke your finger at Bill Evans' right eye hard. Don't be surprised if he howls with rage and starts clutching at your throat. It's simply that there's no lens in that side of his specs. Simple explanation, huh?

We know that everyone saw him, but it's just one of those things our weak nature can't resist. It was Doc Stringham on roller-skates. Don't be discouraged, Dr. Stringham, it's really much easier the second time.

The visiting spirit hath struck again. And it was but nice to see both Tom Mise and Harry Lyle again. That sort of thing makes us all get that the-farther-I-go-the-longer-you'll-all-stay-feeling.

The junior class is losing one of its best. Jane Trotter left Thursday night for Purdue University as an aironautic cadette, where she is going to take a course in aironautical engineering sponsored by the Curtiss-Wright Corp. Sounds to us as if she is going to get a big thrill, and just think, someday she'll be helping to keep-em flying!

That Bill Ford is comfortable enough to sleep any time and any place—or maybe he just gets too tired to stay awake regardless of circumstances. At any rate he doesn't need an upholstered chapel seat.

And who were the "handsome" young men who tore up to the front of the chapel to place their request numbers? ?

Well strip our gears and call us shiftless, we're afraid that the poor little moron and his twin brother are both dead. Somehow it seems as though they deserve proper burial. What say?

From This Corner

By BEN LYNT

In last Saturday's mail, along with some instructive information from the Bible Tract Association and two letters from up north, there was a rather unimpressive penny postal card marked "free" and postmarked Las Vegas, Nevada. I turned it over idly and then with interest read the few lines scrawled almost illegibly thereon. It was from Hilton Wick. He said something about shooting this week from P 17's and 35's. "I have one more week here", he said, "before being shipped out to?" That "one more week here" referred to the U. S. Air Corps Gunnery School at Las Vegas, and that question mark after the words "being shipped out to" sent cold chills up and down my spine, for it obviously stood for any or all of the foreign theatres where that most horrible of all the fascinating spectacles of mankind—War—is being currently featured as played with vigorous determination, the out-come of which will decide just who will control and by what principles the immediate future of the world.

Hilton was president of the Y last year; he was a debater and a jolly good scout as well. He graduated at Christmas time and left an enviable record and reputation behind him here. It is hard for me to picture him behind the gun-sights preparing to unleash a torrent of death and destruction somewhere over there, and yet so it must be. He closed the card with these words, "Give my best to all—H. Wick", and I'm certain there was a smile attached to be taken personally by all who knew him while he was a student here.

There are lots of Maryville boys who are giving their best in the armed forces of this country in this great war of the people which means that they are called upon daily to give their very lives if necessary.

Last year the U. S. Government began a bond and stamp drive on a nation-wide scale in order to help finance the tremendous re-organization and re-distribution of industry and government administration on a war-winning basis. An appeal was made to all people in all walks of life to participate in this program for certain very obvious reasons. It requires a staggering amount of ready cash to make the necessary purchases for the successful prosecution of this war. I believe every moderately sane man in the country is well aware of that fact. I believe also that it is hardly necessary to point out the reasons for the Allies' interest in winning this war. I further believe that every literate member of the student body is in full possession of a knowledge of just what it might mean to him should we fail to win this war. But I cannot help wondering if all here are aware that stands for the convenient purchase of stamps by the student body and faculty have been set up in prominent positions about the campus. The results of the total stamp sales thus far in February would seem to indicate that there is a wholesale lack of interest on the part of the student body in participating actively in such an enterprise. To date the total for this week has not yet passed the $30.00 mark. Only 35 juniors out of a class of 118 have purchased stamps this week. The other class figures are equally unencouraging —24 from the frosh, 28 from the sophomore, and 45 from the senior class, making a grand total of 132 from the entire student body.

Now I know that it is hard to remember to bring your money with you to meals to buy stamps with, but somehow the Y store has managed to flourish throughout these difficult days of the war. I know also that an ice-creaem cone or a candy bar or a soft-drink does come in mighty handy after meals, or as an excuse for a date, but I wonder if we couldn't all, for one day each week, take in another notch in our respective belts after supper and invest our date bait or mad money in a small share of tomorrow's new world.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... " By" SPRAGUE

WHO IS SYLVIA, THE NEW REPORTER? SHE CAN DO EVERYTHING BUT WRITE

There were a lot of people fooling around the ECHO office, and no one paid much attention to the other fellow's business. Someone wrote this feature, (if they call it a feature) but no one would claim ownership. It's almost one of those "Who Did Its?" Only no one did anything. Watch for the surprise ending anyway!

"I was assigned to sweep this week, instead of writing my usual paragraph for page four. So not having anything to sweep-up (the ECHO office maintains a clean and wholesome atmosphere at all times) I wrote this piece of paperwaster. So now I have something to sweep up. As usual, the wastebasket is full of "heads" (not what falls into a basket when a guillotine hits its mark) with too many letters in them and half pieces of chewing-gum paper. Pretty soon we'll have to get a bigger wastebasket, or else empty the one there now.

"I'm not a freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, nor am I a summer school misfit. But I wrote this —to the tune of the Flit Parade. The two top-ranking numbers this week were "Flight of the Bumblebee" and "The Glow Worm."

"At this point I stopped blowing bubbles and (proofreader's note: no, a line was not left out, but I don't think it makes sense either) went to the wrestling match to see the future Gravy Bowl team do its best for Alma Mater. They won—or at least they were at the half, after the other team had fouled and and nearly made us win with a love game.

"No one put the calendar in the paper this week. Maybe if I write it out, that will remind someone to put a good one in the paper.

Monday—8:30-12:10 Classes
1:10-3:00 Fifth and sixth hour classes.
7:00 Lamar Memorial Library opened to students for furtherence of higher education. (New magazines are here too.)

Tuesday—Ditto.

Wednesday - Thursday — Ditto Again.

Saturday—No Afternoon classes this week.

"Oh yes, I nearly forgot—three meals will be served each day, Monday throught Sunday. Campus maps with the dining hall outlined in orange chalk may be purchased for thirteen cents at any of the fruit stands over the campus."

This immortal document was neither signed nor sealed. Reward will be paid for the prompt abduction or abolition of the author if you find IT before we do.—Thanks for listening—turn in again next week for advertisements which will occupy this space.

one knows she wants to look like Hedy Lamar. A hush falls over the crowd, and "the old grey mare" shoots the picture.

There is just one more step in the usual procedure. That is the vying of the members of the feminine sex as to who is the prettiest girl in the picture. Noses are turned up for a week afterwards.

The men take all this as a matter of fact, for you must remember there are three girls to every boy, so it won't matter too much who is the most handsome. Besides that, everyone knows that Les Boyd is the Errol Flynn of the campus.

The other day the Spanish club had its picture taken. Led by Dr. Jack Stellwagen, the adviser of the club, everybody stood around and looked dumb. Los estudiantes braved the wind and rain in their hair just to get their "ugly mugs" i nthe annual.

The other day the ECHO staff had its picture taken after lunch, despite the fact that they had to struggle over to the office on empty stomachs. (Most people use their feet.) Whether to have the picture taken inside or outside in the sunlight (it was one of those days when the sun was out) was the question for debate. A vote showed the staff in favor of using the office as a background since this would make everyone look more businesslike.

"Now is everybody ready? O. K. Now look at my nose and smile." . . . with that "White Top" ducked behind his black cape where no one could see his nose despite its prominence. Although old sol was beaming brightly the old spice in the air gave everyone a frozen smile.

Would you like to have your picture taken? Well then, go home and comb your teeth, polish your hair, and brush your shoes. Then you'll be in pretty good condition to have your portrait painted on a strip of cellulose nitrate.

A message recommending drastic changes in the existing Social Security system is expected from the President in January. The proposals will follow the lines of the Eliot bill and provide for federalization of the State Unemployment Compensation Systems, a total ten per cent unemployment tax — five on the employer and five on the employee for hospitalization, disability, and health benefits.

he joined the American Opera Company, beginning a career that would be hard to duplicate for variety. He sang for one season as leading man in the Ziegfield Follies, another as star of Roxy's Gang, during its hey-day. He gained invaluable experience in the lyric-theatre by engagements with the Cincinnati Zoo Opera, the St. Louis Municipal Opera, The Russian Opera Company, and the operatic performances each summer at the Lewishon Stadium in New York. For the past years he has starred as Don Basilio in Charles L. Wagner's touring production of "The Barber of Seville". This will be Mr. Gurney's second visit to Maryville, the previous appearance having been two years ago in this opera, "the Barber of Seville".

Mr. Gurney was first engaged at the Metropolitan Opera during the Spring season 1936. His success was instantaneous and he was engaged at once as a regular member of the company. He then was soon engaged by the Chicago Opera where he was hailed with wide acclaim.

In concerts, John Gurney has been hailed enthusiastically from coast to coast. He has everything to offer for a concert career: a rich, warm bass-baritone voice of great range which is tastefully employed at all time; a commanding stage presence; a genial personality; and a repertoire and artistry that makes for thrilling programs. A serious and hard working artist, John Gurney also possesses that other attribute essential to a first-rate concert artist—a sense of humor. With such a wealth of qualties to offer the musical public Mr. Gurney takes his place as one of America's outstanding concert singers.

Mr. Gurney will present this concert as the second in the Maryville college Artists' Series programs for 1942-43. The first of the concerts was a joint recital presented by Miss Lucielle Browning, a mezzo soprano, and Miss Rose Dirman, lyric soprano, in Voorhees chapel on November 12.

Ticket reservations for the student body will be on sale in the lobby of Pearsons hall on or about February 18. Announcement of the exact date will be made in chapel. Ticket sales will be handled as in previous Artists' Series productions.

R. Aiken and H. Kell Former M. C. Students Wed January 30th

On January 30, Ruth Aiken and Harry Kell were married in the Trinity Episcopal Church in Clarksville, Tennessee. Last year Ruth was a sophomore Latin major from Rockwood, Tennessee. While a freshman she was a member of the Freshman Debate Team and won first place in the State Woman's Tournament. She is now working as a chemist in her home town.

Harry is now a sergeant in the Army and is stationed at Camp Campbell, Tennessee. He is a graduate of Maryville and while here was a track man and a political science major.

Last Saturday they came to the Maryville campus to visit Margaret Spayd, Ruth's former roommate.

SCOTSPORTS

By TED PRATT

U-T MATCH

All the statistics pointed to a Scot victory when the Everett boys took on Ike Peel's UT Vols last Saturday night. But the statistics just didn't come through. We didn't have a heavyweight and several of our lightweights forgot the basic fundamentals of the sport.

In the 118 lb. division Trevor Williams lacked a lot of the stuff that earned him a pin and a decision over his Vol opponent last year. He was able to amass only two points against his foe's eight. Frank Bradford showed up better in his 128 lb. spot although he was subdued by our own "Smitty" who is wrestling under Orange and White colors this year. Bob put the well-known bee on Frankie in five and a half minutes but in that time our 128 pounder learned a lesson that should prove valuable to him in future matches.

Chuck Dunning and Frank Still at 135 and 155 lbs. respectively, put up commendable fights in their spots and pushed their UT boys all the way. Frank was outpointed 4 to 1 and Chuck succumbed to a pin just before the second period ended. With more experience, both of these grapplers could soon become regular starters in the Scottie line-up.

Wrestling ten pounds out of his class because of Gordon Rettke's injury, frosh Bill Thompson turned on the power and the tricks to easily defeat his 145 pounder. He winged his man time after time to build up a 14 to 5 advantage to clinch the bout. He showed a degree of wrestling knowledge as he slid out of every hold the heavier Vol could get on him and only the nine minute limit saved the UT boy from a pin.

The 165 and 175 lb. bouts were almost beyond description. Joe and Lloyd did just about as they pleased against the UT big boys, roughing them up and both achieving pins in the first period.

Joe didn't waste any time with his man. In 25 seconds he was o nthe mat and the fatal pinhold came at 1:04. Lloyd's approach was similar but the Vol held out a bit longer. After several devastating attacks Lloyd applied the bugaboo and not too quickly as the pin came in 2:59 of the first period. Mack Wilson was the heavyweight victim. Outweighed over twenty pounds the veteran Scot fought a remarkably stubborn fight against the huge Vol footballer. Brandau knew how to use his weight advantage and Mack was subdued in 5:52.

In the exhibitions Jim Yunker pulled a surprise when he pinned his man in 6:47. It was a close match all the way and the pin came as a result of some smart thinking by the senior Scot. Louie Zimmerman in the other show match went down to his man by one point and a time advantage.

HERE AND THERE

Sugar Robinson's amazing win streak was stopped at 129 when Jake La Motta stopped him with a close decision last Friday night. That makes it even —their rubber match should be a honey!

Detectives rushed to their riot stations in big Madison Square Garden last Friday night when Referee Otto gave Beau Jack an objectionable decision over the "coming-back" Fritzie Zivic. 21,000 fans violently showed their disgust when the ref gave 21 year old Beau Jack the eighth round because of an alleged low blow dealt by Zivic. Another rematch that's sure to be a natural!

A look at the point-makers in intramural basketball after the first half shows a definite deterioration from last year. Spence Renfro leads with 62 points in six games whereas last year at the end of the first half of tournament play Turk Graham had racked up 89 points in five games. This year Don Conkle is running second with 61 points and Dan Gaultieri third with 59. This year is distinctive in one respect however. There have been several complete shut-outs in which one team was held to no score. What this war won't do!

Ramblin' Wreck Falls Before Scotties

Scot Grapplers Go Down To Vol Mat Team 21-13

Rettke, Ed Wilson, Ballinger Not In Line-Up Saturday

Maryville's hopes for another state title in wrestling took a nose-dive list Saturday night when the U-T Vols came to town and upset the dope by handing the Scots a thorough 21-13 beating. It was the first time that a wrestling team from the big school has been able to walk away with a Highlander scalp in a number of years.

The Vols pressed an early lead that was piled up at the expense of the first three Scots, Williams, Bradford and Dunning, and never gave the local grapplers a chance to cut down the advantage. Thompson, Suitor and Anderson were the only Scots to chalk up wins, but they did it in a maner that took some of the sting out of the defeat. Joe Suitor apparently bewildered his man with a sudden, vicious attack that pinned his man in a scant 1:04. Ander was no less gentle, but his man was able to

Everettmen Put On Pressure To Earn 28-8 Win

Georgia Tech's Ramblin' Wrecks rambled back to Georgia last night after losing their wrestling meet by a decisive, if not overwhelming 28-8 score to a rejuvinated Scottie team that was on rebound after last week's disasterous defeat at the hands of U-T. The Highlanders were stronger than ever with a renovated line-up that enabled Woody's boys to take all but two of the matches, winning four on pins, one on a forfeit, and one by a decision. Even the one exhibition match went to Maryville when Louie, "Zeke" Zimmerman dumped his man.

Although winners over U-T on Thursday night by a close score, the visitors showed little except in the 165 pound class where Newton showed a great deal, thanks to Lloyd Anderson's tearing attack. Ed Wilson, Joe Suitor, Bill Thompson, and Anderson remained undefeated for the season, while Williams took his first out of three and Mack Wilson his second in three, and Rettke and Bradford continued without a win. Rettke put up a game fight in spite of an injured shoulder, while Bradford continued to improve.

Zimmerman pinned King in a preliminary in the third period to start the Scottie off on the right foot. Williams showed a marked superiority over Stopinski, hand-

2nd WAVES Win Over 1st WAACS

Next Tuesday point systemers ability to perform stunts will be tested by Mrs. Queener in the Bartlett gymnasium. Free standing, camel walk, duck walk, dog walk, frog jump, head stand, three successive somersaults, knee dip, and the novelty walk are some of the physical tricks, they are expected to have mastered.

At the meeting on Thursday, practice for the aerial dart tournament will begin.

The Volley tournament ended with the second team of the Waves victorious over the Waacs second team. The third game was fought to a 15 to 12 finish, which shows how close the competition was. This raised the morale of the second team WAVES to such a pitch that they scored 15 to 6 in an exhibition game over the champion first team WAACS.

Y CABINET WINS OVER ALPHA SIGMA 17-16

The heretofore undefeated Alpha Sigmas went down under the fast moving Y Cabinet. Olson Pemberton lead the Y Cabinet with 9 points. Jim Garvin got 6 and Ted Kidder 2. Al Rock led the Alpha Sigmas with 8 and Wayne Stevens and Les Rock each got 4.

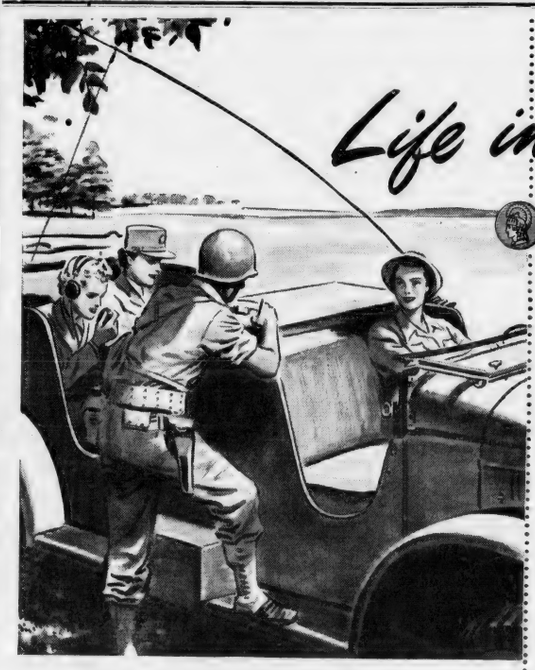
VARSITY OUTCASTS TOP MUD HENS BY 1 POINT

In one of the closest battles on the Alumni hardwood the Varsity Outcasts barely overcame the Mud Hens by the score of 24-23. Artie Spears led the Outcasts with 9; Roseborough got 7, Charlie Brand 4 and Bill Aston and Ken Cooper 2 each. Talbott led the Hens with 8, Renfro 6, Ezell 3, and Mitchell, Bayless, and Faulkner with 2 each.

SONS OF LIBERTY 36 JUNIOR COMMANDOS 18

The Liberty boys overcame the powerful Commandos in a hard fought game by 36-18. Don Conkle and Jim Hogue led the Sons of Liberty players with 10 points each. Ford was next with 8 and Sidner and Long had 4 each.

For the Commandos Moore led with 9, Herzberger and Lippard each had 4 and Kluth had 1.



ATHENIAN 20 CHOIR 10

Bergquist led the Athenians to a 20-10 victory over the Choir by dropping in 8 points. Hodges and Pratt each raked up 6 Wally Easter and Bob Hunter dropped in 4 for the Choir and Paul Moehlman 2.

CELTICS 41 GLADIATORS 2

The Celtics ran away with Gladiators with the lopsided score of 41-2. Miller led the Celtics with 14, Sawmiller 9, Meineke 8, Scapelatti 6 and Breazeale and Pepper each 2. Bob Francis scored the

Life in the WAAC

Some questions and answers of interest to every patriotic college woman

First of all, is the WAAC really needed?

Emphatically yes! Already the President has authorized the Corps to expand from 25,000 to 150,000. The Air Forces and Signal Corps have asked for thousands of WAAC members to help with vital duties. Both Ground Forces and Services of Supply are asking for thousands more. Members of the WAAC may be assigned to duty with the Army anywhere — some are already in Africa and England.

Can the WAAC really help win the war?

The whole idea of the WAAC is to replace trained soldiers needed at the front. If American women pitch in now to help our Army (as women in Britain, Russia and China do), we can hasten Victory — and peace.

What can my college education contribute?

College training is important equipment for many WAAC duties too long to list. Cryptography, drafting, meteorology, laboratory work, Link trainer and glider instructing, for example. If you are a senior you may enroll at once and be placed on inactive duty until the school year ends. See your WAAC faculty adviser for more details.

But can I live comfortably on WAAC pay?

There are few civilian jobs in which you could earn clear income, as WAAC enrolled members do, of $50 to $138 a month — with all equipment from your toothbrush to clothing, food, quarters, medical and dental care provided. WAAC officers earn from $150 to $333.33 a month.

The drilling sounds so strenuous—?

Nonsense! The most beautiful women in America today are the girls in khaki! Some calisthenics and drilling are vital to general good health, discipline and tuned-up reflexes. After a few weeks at Fort Des Moines, Daytona Beach or the new Fort Oglethorpe training center you'll feel better than ever in your life.

Maybe I wouldn't like the work?

People are happiest doing what they do well. Every effort is made to place you where your service will count most toward final Victory. You may have some latent talent that will fill a particular need for work interesting and new to women — such as repairing the famous secret bombsight, rigging parachutes, operating the fascinating new electronic devices — or driving an Army jeep over foreign terrain.

Then I have a chance to learn something new?

Yes, indeed. And the list of WAAC duties grows constantly. The training and experience you get in the WAAC may equip you for many stimulating new careers opening up for women.

What are my chances of promotion?

Excellent. The Corps is expanding rapidly and needs new officers, both commissioned and noncommissioned. Those who join now have the best chances. All new officers now come up through the ranks. If qualified, you may obtain a commission in 12 weeks after beginning basic training.

What is the age range and other requirements?

Very simple. You may join if you are a U. S. citizen, aged 21 to 44, inclusive, at least 5 feet tall and not over 6 feet, in good health — regardless of race, color or creed. But the Army needs you now — don't delay. Total War won't wait!

Linguists needed. If you speak and write Spanish, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Russian, French, German or Italian, see your local Army recruiting office now! You are needed for interpreting, cryptography, communications.

Gladiators only 2 points.

RINGERS 14 SUPERMEN 8

The Supermen came up to scoring par but not enough to outdo the Ringers who led at the end of the game by a 14-8 score. Peter Van Blarcom again led the Ringers to victory, scoring this time 11 of the 14 points. Ben Lynt, Van Blarcom's roommate, score the Ringers' remaining 3 points. Bill Buzby led the Supermen with 4, and Robarts and Tarwater each got 2.

Sons of Liberty 37 Ringers 14.

The Liberty boys outrung the Ringers to the tune of 37-14 as Don Conkle led in scoring with 13 points. Ford and Hogue racked up 8 each for the Sons of Liberty. Long and Sidner and Cato got 2 each. For the Ringers Van Blarcom led with 6, Proffitt 4, Segraves and Lynt with 2.

Invincibles 13 Cooties 8

The Invincibles, becoming so in "deed" as well as in name, outclassed the Cooties in a close 13-8 victory. John Runion led the Invincibles with 4, Gib Wiess, Bob Seel, George Pope, and Bill Hopkins each got 2 and Dan Gaultieri got 1. For the Cooties Leroy Dilliner led with 4, Dwane Collins got 3 and Medidith Purvis 1.

Alpha Sigma 27 Athenian 24.

The Alpha Sigers barely took the Athenians in a close game which ended 27-24. All Rock led the Alpha Sigmas with 10, Wayne Stevens 9, Bill Adams 4 and Les Rock and Ed Rowley 2 each. Bergquist led Athenian's scoring with 16, Boyd 4, and Ted Pratt and Hopkins 2 each.

withstand the attack for 2:59. Thompson took a clear-out 14-5 decision in the 145 pound class, ten pounds over his usual weight.

Frank Still gave U-T's Freeman a scare in the 155 pound match by holding the experienced Vol to a close 4-1 decision. Still, in his first meet, handled himself creditably in spite of his inexperience and promises to become a valuable man in the Everett fold.

Williams again met his match, Webb took an 8-2 decision from the tiny soph. who has been unable to get started against either of his opponents. Bradford put up a good fight against Bob Smith, reformed Scottie, but the Vol was too much for him. He showed improvement over his match against the Appalachian 128 pounder two weeks ago however. Chuck Dunning faced a stronger, more clever wrestler and fell victim to a pin in the second period.

Mack Wilson gave up 25 pounds to Art Brandau, but managed to give a good account of himself in spite of all that. Mack fought valiantly, if hopelessly, but the match reached its inevitable outcome when Brandau pinned him in 5:53.

Jim Yunker took an exhibition by pinning Raimes in the last period and Louie Zimmerman dropped a close 3-0 decesion to Jamison.

ing the visiting flyweight a terrific beating. Bradford was pinned by Shiver, Thompson took his time in pinning Shearer, but Paul came back with a decision over the ailing, but game Rettke. That was all for the Ramblin' Wrecks from Georgia Tech though, for Maryville copped every one of the remaining contests. Captain Joe Suitor had a tough time with the slippery Donalson who was able to wriggle out of more scrapes than a greased pig at the county fair. Anderson embarrassed Newton by practically disrobing him and then pinning him, Mack Wilson put Lowry's shoulders to the mat and then his brother, Li'l Ed, pulled the old Wilson stunt of disabling his man, Morrow, who had sustained an injury at U-T.

On the whole, the team showed a vast improvement over last week's lacing. Joe Suitor was the main disappointment, coming out of his match with a mere decision. Williams came into his own after a couple of setbacks and showed some of the stuff that he had last year. Thompson, Anderson and the two Wilsons kept up their usual good work.

The Summary:

Williams (M) pinned Stopinski (GT) time 5:25.

Shiver (GT) pinned Bradford (M) time 4:50.

Thompson (M) pinned Shearer (GT) time 7:30.

Paus (GT) dec. Rettke (M) score 7-0.

Suitor (M) dec. Donalson (GT) score 8-5.

Anderson (M) pinned Newton (GT) time 3:57.

Wilson (M) pinned Lowery (GT) time 4:10.

E. Wilson won over Morrow on default.

February Meetings

John 1:46, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" He mentioned also prejudiced attitudes in dealing with racial problems, especially those concerning the negroes in the South.

"The Secret of a Happy Home" was the culmination of the evening services on Wednesday. Dr. Elliott emphasized God as the essential member of any Christian home. He furthermore advocated learning to control our tongues, cultivating a forgiving spirit, and carrying into our homes the same patience we practice outside the family circle. "Except the Lord build a house, they labor in vain that build it."

Dr. Elliott's final sermon on Thursday morning was on "The Conquest of Doubt." Mark 9:24, "Lord, I believe; help Thou my unbelief," was the text used. In opening he mentioned that doubt has its place in life, but that one should measure a man not by his doubts but by his beliefs. He then gave several steps in the technique for conquering doubt. Just because one does not understand God and His mighty works is no reason not to have faith in Him. We must keep reminding ourselves that faith is possible. "Religion isn't taught as much as it is caught" was a good suggestion for those who think Christianity can be gotten from books and sermons. He urged that people make ourselves open to conviction. "An experiment may turn out to be an experience."

Dr. Elliott's stay on this campus has brought spiritual enlightenment to many and a blessing to all with whom he has come in contact. Dr. Stringham, who completed his twenty-first series of February Meetings as song-leader, again evidenced his ability to guide a group in singing hymns of praise.

Ministerials Hear Talk on Colombia

Bob and Dave Seel discussed "Colombia, a Study in Black and White" at the last meeting of the Ministerial association in Athenian hall Thursday, February 11. Since both boys lived in Columbia for five years, they were able to give an intimate, first-hand picture of the United States' South American neighbor.

The recently-organized Ministerial Quartet provided entertainment. Its members are Ed Henderson, Wally Easter, John Scott, and Owen McGarity.

Nine new members were received and installed into the association.

Army Aircrew Students To Be Stationed At Maryville College For Five Months Training

John Gurney, Metropolitan Star, Sings At Artists' Series Program On Monday

Studied And Sang In France, Played In Zeigfield Follies

Mr. John Gurney will appear in the second Artists' Series Program of 1942-43 on Monday evening, February 22, at 8:15. Mr. Gurney has a repertoire from among the operas of twenty-four well-known composers. Furthermore, he included seventeen masters in his list of oratorio repertoire.

A bass-baritone, Mr. Gurney has sung several hundred performances both in New York City and on nationwide tours. He has been connected with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York since 1936.

After distinguishing himself at Oberlin College in Ohio as a football and baseball player he entered the Harvard University Business School. At first his parents protested, but finally they consented to John's going to France to study for a musical career under Jean Mauran of the Paris Opera. Upon returning to New York he began a varied career. For one season he sang as leading man in the Ziegfield Follies, another as star of Roxy's Gang, during its hey-day. He was also a member of the Cincinnati Zoo Opera, The St. Louis Municipal Opera, The Russian Opera Company, and summer opera performances at the Lewishon Stadium in New York. Recently he has sung the part of Don Basilio in Charles L. Wagner's "The Barber of Seville."

Mr. Gurney was first scheduled to sing at the Metropolitan Opera in 1936. Instantaneous success merited his immediate engagement as a regular member of the company.

"He has everything to offer for a concert career: a rich, warm bass-baritone voice of great range which is tastefully employed at all times; a commanding stage presence; a genial personality;" ". . . John Gurney also possesses that other attribute essential to a first-rate concert artist—a sense of humor."

The New York SUN stated that " . . . Gurney's voice is remarkable in its richness and depth of tone. The soft, smooth quality of his higher notes was produced with an ease that was astonishing . . ."

" . . . His voice had that brightness and flexibility which is so often lacking in low register voices; consequently the florid passages were brilliantly executed, the distinct pitch of the rapid notes was especially fine . . ." was the Cincinnati TIMES-STAR's report of the artist.

Seats may be purchased to the concert at the box office Monday at 7:00 p. m. Students are asked to remember to bring their student activity cards to make reservations.

Interested Sooh Looks at Student Body Constitution

At the Student Council meeting held last Monday, Feb. 15, a proposal was made by a visiting member of the student body that certain revisions be made in the existing constitution.

In order to clarify the issue and to arouse the interest of the student body, these proposed revisions and the reasons given for them are printed below.

THE PURPOSE of these suggested revision of the constitution is primarily to create a greater interest among the members of the student body, to provide a more democratic system for the transaction of business and election of officers, and thus to better prepare everyone for the part

Freshmen Prepare For Future Debate

Four Colleges Agree To Participate In Coming Tournament

Monday, February 15, the Freshman Debate squad held its first meeting with Professor Verton M. Queener, professor of history, in the debate room in Thaw hall.

Work has been started in preparation for a tournament to be held March 20 at the Whittle Springs Hotel at Knoxville.

To date the following four schools have agreed to participate in the tournament: William Jennings Bryan, Virginia Intermont, Tennessee Wesleyan, and Carson Newman.

There are eight members of the debate squad: Dorothy Dick, a dietetics major from Hanover, Pennsylvania and a freshman apprentice on the ECHO staff; Marinell Ross, a political science major from Maryville; Bette Lou McCoy, a religious education major from Endicott, New York; and Helen Marie Wilson, an English major and a freshman apprentice on the ECHO staff, from Erie, Pennsylvania; Ralph Sawmiller, a mathematics major from Delphos Ohio; Bob Barker from Maryville, a mathematics major, and a member of the Student council; Tom Smith, an English major from Maryville, and Byron Sprague, an English major from Cincinnati, Ohio, who is a cartoonist for the ECHO.

The question, the same as the one used by the varsity squad, is as follows: Resolved that the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with the power to tax and regulate commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other states which accept the principles of the Union.

Pres. Ralph W. Lloyd Speaks In Atlanta

President Ralph W. Lloyd is in Atlanta attending the annual meeting of the Southern Area Council and Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. He is chairman of the Southern Area Committee on Student Work. He presided at the Student Work dinner last night and was on the program this afternoon for a discussion of Y. M. C. A. work at colleges and universities of the South.

Pi Gamma Holds Luncheon Thurs.

Red Cross Work Is This Year's Project

Thursday at 12:15 in the YW rooms the Pi Gamma club had a luncheon to which each member brought a girl from the Hill. Pi Gamma was organized for all town girls attending Maryville college who care to come to the meetings. Since so many of the town students cannot come to the club meetings on the Hill, this society was designed primarily to give them a social organization.

There are no officers of the club other than a chairman who is Mary Ruth Hoyt, a senior English major. There is a social committee composed of Jeana Eddleman and Jane Trotter. Jane has recently enrolled as an aironautic cadette at Purdue University. Doris Murray heads the program committee. Each fall this club for town girls has a tea to welcome all the girls on the campus. Every two weeks they have a luncheon to which a town girl brings a girl from the dormitory.

The club's project this year is helping the Red Cross. All girls are urged to help roll bandages whenever possible at the Red Cross headquarters i ntown.

Dr. Samuel Wilson, Pres. Emeritus, Observes Birthday

Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, President Emeritus of Maryville College was 85 years old Wednesday. (Feb. 17).

He was born in Home, Syria, where his father and mother were missionaries, in 1858 and was brought to the United States when a small boy. He graduated from Maryville College at the age of 20, in 1878, and from the theological seminary four years later. He was then a missionary in Mexico for two years until sent home by broken health. In 1884 he became the first professor of English Literature Maryville College ever had. Seveenteen years later, in 1901, he became President of Maryville College and served with great distinction until 1930, when at the age of 72 he announced his retirement and was elected President Emeritus.

The first year of his retirement he spent back in Syria, the land of his birth, with his daughter Lois who has long been a missionary there. Since 1931 he has made his home on Indiana Avenue with his daughter Mrs. Clyde T. Murray and her family. Mrs. Wilson died in 1937. Dr. Wilson has been in frail health for a number of years.

Miss Armstrong Accepts Position In Defense Work

Miss Mary Rachel Armstrong, Assistant Professor of Home Economics, and a member of the faculty for the past eight and a half years, has resigned and will leave at the end of February, President Ralph W. Lloyd announced today.

Miss Armstrong has accepted a position as Nutritionist at the Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant of the Proctor and Gamble Defense Corporation, Milan, Tennessee. Her duties will extend over several counties.

Miss Armstrong, who holds B. S. and M. S. degrees from the University of Tennessee, came to Maryville College from the faculty of Austin Peay Teachers College.

Theta-Alpha Sig Plan Radio Show In Chapel Tonight

Bette Clevenger, president of Theta Epsilon, says "Come and listen to the music of Harry James, and see in person Kate Smith, Red Skelton, Bob Hope, and numerous other well-known stars presented by radio station Theta Alpha-Sig tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Voorhees chapel. Maryville Quota Is Three Hundred; Will Arrive In Groups, March 1, April 1

Students Are To Live in Carnegie And Bartlett Halls; College Faculty Members Scheduled As Teachers For Special Classes

President Ralph W. Lloyd has released to the ECHO the following statement concerning the army program to be conducted at Maryville College.

"Maryville College was one of the 281 colleges and universities announced by the Manpower Commission on February 6 as selected from the 1700 higher institutions of the United States for the college training programs of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps. Because of proximity to a major airport Maryville College is one of about 100 institutions which have been designated for training of aircrew students. We have been notified by the Army Air Forces that plans are in process for assigning to us 300 men, one-half to arrive on or about March 1 and the other half on April 1. These aircrew students will be in preparation for later training as aviation cadets. They will be in uniform and will have had some preliminary military conditioning before reaching the College.

"The program at Maryville will consist of academic, physical, military, and aviation training. The course will last five months. The College will provide the following training for each aircrew student; the teachers named are those for the classes that start March 1 only, an equal number of teachers being added April 1:

Mathematics: Professors Sisk, Griffitts, Williams, and Collins. English: Professors Shine, Heron, Johnson, and Jackson. History: Professors Queener, Jewell, Kiger, and Bassett. Geography: Professors Gates, Barker, and Stellwagen, and Public Relations Secretary Smith. Physics: to be arranged. Physical Training: Coach Honaker. Civil Air Regulations: Miss Carson. Medical Aid: to be arranged.

"The College will furnish housing and meals, but military training and supervision and discipline will be under two first lieutenants and two sergeants of the Army Air Corps assigned for that purpose. Some of them have already arrived and will be introduced in person or by description to students and faculty in due time.

"The aircrew students will live in Carnegie and Bartlett, eat at Pearsons, have separate classes, and be under rigid military discipline similar to that of aviation cadets.

"In this program Maryville College will be making a direct contribution to the war effort, and is assured of earnest cooperation of all the faculty and students. The present college program will continue except for such adjustments as are necessary to correlate the two programs. Further announcements will be made from time to time."

News is Received From Pieper, Davis

Service Addresses Printed Below

In the past few months two members of the Maryville faculty have left Maryville to join the armed forces in the United States.

Coach J. A. Davis went to camp at the close of the semester in December. Those who are interested in contacting him may reach him at:

Headquarters Company
94th Infantry
Barracks 605
Camp Phillips, Kansas.

Mr. Archibald F. Pieper, assistant professor of political science and coach of the freshman debate team, was called into the United States Marine Corps in the middle of January. Mr. Pieper is located at Parris Island, one of the principal marine training centers of the United States. His address is:

Platoon 49, Recruit Depot
Marine Barracks
Parris Island, South Carolina.

In a letter written February 1 to President Lloyd, Coach Davis had this to say:

"My work is in special service. Our job is to see that the boys are properly entertained and to provide athletic equipment for the five recreational halls here. I am supposed to be stationed here for

HERE TODAY AND NO HAIR TOMORROW IS THE UP AND UP MOTTO OF TODAY

What this war won't do next. We can pretty truthfully say that this man-made creation has made a few additions and numerously more subtractions to our present day mode of living. But all's fair in love and war, so when Uncle S. takes things away from us we get atonement in the form of little paper books which makes it authentic for each person to get just a pinch of the rationed goods. Of course, these ration books are as common this day and time as the old Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic ones used to be in Granny's day. As for what to do with them, have you seen the latest in men's coats? Maybe not in "Mademoiselle", but in some recent magazine, there was a picture of the latest rage—rows and rows of little pockets inside your coat where there used to be only one. They're not to carry baby kangaroos in, but instead, the very practical place to file your ration books. And such a conglomeration of stuff to file. Tickets for everything from sugar and gasoline to fat juicy steaks, covering for our pet feet, and tin cans.

Of course, the modern girl doesn't mind giving up her favorite sweets, her beloved car rides, lots of new shoes, or even her favorite man to be vamped by foreign secret women, but when it comes to the subject of hair. Well, we might as well grin and hate it, for that's getting to be taboo too. It got close enough home when WAACS and such creatures got their victory bobs, but now the federal government's saying that certain types of hair-do are a menace to war production. And naturally, they're claiming that Veronica Lake is to blame for thousands of women wearing their

MY DAY

OLD, BORROWED, NEW By BILLYE RUTH BRALY

My Day is a little on the too too side—as if all our lives were not open books. But then I thought it might be a good idea to keep the public informed—in case anyone gets a box from home and wants me to share the food.

Each morning I plan to rise at exactly 6:00 a. m., and not a minute before. "We are ready to start out bright and early and shall have a busy day." (No footnote necessary.) Promptly at 8:04 I arise—whether it's late or not. The custom is to attend chapel, and being a type and not an individual, I follow the herd to chapel. With pajamas rolled up and a borrowed coat put on going downstairs, we the people go to chapel.

First and second periods are set aside for the gentle art of dressing and eventually appearing in a class. It takes only about twenty minutes to put on my face (no, I'm not two-faced—it's the only one I have). Perfume and all those other finer things in life besides fingernail polish require such special care and meditation.

Chemistry is third and fourth periods, or maybe it's ex and dx. Anyway usually the class arrives on the scene just in time to prevent the whole class being murdered. Chemistry might be a good major, but they always laugh at me in the store room. The other day I asked for a burning splint. I was frigidly informed that this was no fire department and anyway the insurance company might not like the idea. Then I asked for a piece of meat to try an experiment—'nuff said.

Luncheon was delightful, only a little tattle-tale grey dog walked under our table and wouldn't come out. I don't remember what we had to eat, because Spanish is right after lunch. And you know how we busy women always have to do that first-minute cramming before class. (P. S. I flunked the test.)

Afternoon was the same old stuff—stiffening my muscles. Charles Atlas is going to have so much competition by the time this physical education program is over that he'll gladly retire to

Measure Taken Of Dorm Facilities

Ernest C. Brown, campus engineer, stated this week that measurements are being made of Bartlett hall gymnasium and dormitory facilities in anticipation of the arrival of soldier students in the next month or two. It is expected that shower room and dormitory facilities will have to be increased to accomodate the expected number.

The road between Pearsons and the Hospital has been leveled, and better drainage systems have been put in on several parts of the campus.

The regular routine work of keeping the campus clean and beautiful has been carried on in spite of the shortage of help. The fences and garage at the farm have been completed, and the choir loft in the chapel has been raised to a higher level.

HOLD YOU THESE TRUTHS TO BE SELF EVIDENT?

On class to class hookup every hour by the hour come more or less routine sound effects as we bang into classrooms, make our little speeches about haven't read this awful stuff, have you?, and proceed henceforth to move the chairs out of order into some other position adapted to comfort or possible listening.

By a process of careful though probably unwarranted extraction and synthesis, we can erect a super structured concept about age. In psychology discussions we learn or at least hear mentioned something of the ages at which a human being is supposed to possess the intelligence, maturation, and ability to complete a specified performance. Shakespere class gives more or less attention to a more or less unfavorable revelation of the seven principal ages of man. From other intellectual stations come mention of the age of accountability, old age pensions, and act your age. Which rough ramble brings us approximately to the intellectual level of the question we would mention.

Recently a rather strong movement has arisen called the March of Youth, Inc., having its headquarters in Washington and having as its principal aim gaining the franchise for 18, 19 and 20 year olds. The program is a non partisan affair, seeking to work in a dignified manner through the support of public officials to effect its purpose.

The argument seems surfacely sound. If the young people of America "are old enough to fight and die for democracy, to fly combat planes and fortress bombers, to parachute from the skies and dive in submarines beneath the seas, to sustain gruelling marches and bloody campaigns in the freezing temperatures of the north or the sweltering, merciless heat of the tropics, to work day and night manufacturing guns, tanks and planes and ships, to till the soil and bring in the harvests —they are old enough to have a voice in the affairs of state and national government." Further it is said that present youth is far more mature than the teen-agers of the passing generations because of the accelerated education, the improved methods developed by science in transportation, radio, motion pictures, and industry. Grant fighting, responsible youth the ammunition of peace, the ballot, is the slogan.

Ability to obey definite commands and carry a gun in a prescribed manner does not necessarily mean maturity of thought, intelligent understanding of government policies, independent efficiency in handling large problems, is the spirit of the opposition. Physical bravery and mature intellectual grasp of situations are not identical.

A recent survey conducted by FORTUNE magazine discovered that a large percentage of high school youth feel that they are uninformed on questions of national and international importance today. Perhaps these people leaving high school at 18 can fight, but evidently their mature understanding of votable issues is not outstanding.

It is not our intention here to essay an opinion. Several state governors and leaders have expressed approval of the idea and have taken steps to have it voted upon by the state legislatures. Others heartily disapprove. But at any rate it is a matter worth the consideration of you who are in this age and you who are soon to become the government of the United States, faced with this and similar problems.

And did you see what blew in with the spirit of Valentine day? There were so many visitors that it made the campus look just like the good old days back in '41. First of all there was Hank Lawson. The guy is doing right fine—in fact he's getting married just any day now. Then Bill Sweeney blew in—and he wishes that he were getting married any day now. About the time Bill arrived, Oscar Proffitt dragged into town on leave. And then in the form of a big surprise, minus the huge red ribbon, Sing Kremel and Hecky Heckendorn just casually strolled in from Pennsylvania way.

Why don't some more of you students send in requests to the 12:40 Club? We guess you know that they love to hear from each and every one of you.

Blow the trumpet and peal the bells. There's intestinal fortitude in the female character yet. Proof: Pam Curtis got her Valentine package four days early from Don Black. On the box was a request not to open it until 9:10 the evening of the 14th. And guess what? She didn't open it until 9:10 the evening of the 14th. That's moral stamina in the raw. We shudder to think what would have happened if we had been in the same situation. But it's a beautiful ring, Pam.

There's one sure way to get a date. Ginny Williams, Jean Scheibelle, Marty Moore, and Ann Halabrin swear by their plan. Marty and Ginny just assume the respective names of Hubert Grimm and Arthur Zogg. Jean and Ann become Ada Bell McConnell and Delpha Jean Young! And there you are. It's really a lovely foursome. Especially when they all go formal to a dinner at the practice house and scare their hostesses into burning the potatoes!

It's good to see Betty Burton circulating again She hasn't lost any of her glamour even if her appendicitis is all gone!

Might we suggest for your entertainment a little time spent at the Theta-Alpha Sig program tonight. We sneaked a preview, and the whole thing looks O. K.

Would it be indelicate for us to suggest that the Scotties literally licked the Georgia Tech trousers off??? If it's indelicate then we won't suggest it. How's that?

Here's some news. Remember Aggie Miller—well, it's ski-trouper Miller now. Isn't that exciting?

If you want to know what the talk of the week is just let the way the guys and gals stagger around speak for itself. There seems to be no end of the strangest muscles.

Is there a second to the motion? Well, shucks, we just thought that it might be fun to have another blackout. There's something so romantic about a full moon in a blackout, we guess. There hasn't been a chance to speak from experience.

We knew you two didn't want those ice-cream cones as badly as you want to go halvers on a defense stamp. How about it?

Courage, gals! March 1 isn't too far away. There's something about a uniform that's morale-lifting even if it is all the way across campus.

The true confession of the year comes from Ray Swartzback, who brazenly admitted that he read the whole ECHO. Absolutely covered it from cover to cover. Isn't that lovely? Wonder if anyone else in the history of the Institution has ever tried it?

AN APPLE FOR THE TEACHER

Mr. Harry Lloyd Hopkins, LL. D., Grinnell, 1935, White House resident, ex-secretary of Commerce, one time Federal Administrator of Emergency Relief, three-year director of W. P. A., and at present the executive-appointed head of the Lend Lease Program—though better known currently as Roosevelt's lackey, and right-hand man—made a statement or two in an article entitled: You and Your Family Will Be Mobilized" which appeared in the December issue of the "American Magazine", and later in a condensed article in the February issue of the "minister's source book", "The Reader's Digest," which rankled, to say the least.

The article was designed rather obviously as a bolstering, if occasionally threatening, bit of government propaganda intended to condition citizens of this free land for the regimentation which Mr. Hopkins feels must come, and on a rather grand and complete scale when it does, if we are to be an undefeatable nation in this war for political and social domination of the world. This "handwriting on the wall" managed to cover all fields of endeavor and phases of life, some of which Mr. Hopkins is thoroughly familiar with, and some of which seem to me to be out of his range of adequate nowledge.

Where industry and labor and big-business are concerned we might be justified in conceding Mr. Hopkins authority, but when he goes so far as to suggest dogmatically that "Every college and university should be turned completely into an Army and Navy should decide whether he should stay in college to be trained for war, or inducted into the fighting forces at once. The women, too, should remain in college only while they are being trained for their part in the war effort . . ."—we sit up and wonder just what goes on. We are not opposed to winning this war or to doing "our part" for the all-out war effort, but is this the part for universities and colleges? I was more or less under the impression that the principles for which this war was being so zealously fought were those best fostered and engendered by our liberal arts curriculum and institutions where are gathered the foremost thinkers and leaders of social as well as abstract thought to guide rising generations successively and equip them for the responsibility of protecting their rightful heritage—these United States—from the ravages of crass materialism and social exploitation.

Mr. Hopkins in this article also takes a crack at the high schools and their curriculum and meditates upon the potential power for war production lying untapped in the hundreds of thousands of young people of high-chool age. He says, "High school courses should be shortened so students will have more time to work, especially on farms. Some students should quit high school entirely. I see no reason for wasting time on what today are nonessentials, such as Chaucer and Latin. A diploma can only be framed and hung on the wall. A shell that a boy or girl helps to make can kill a lot of Japs." Lovely sentiment that, isn't it? And his statement that Chaucer and Latin are nonessentials reveals all too clearly the category into which his type of thinking naturally fails. Honorary doctorate of Literary Laws or no, Mr. Hopkins has committed the unpardonable sin in my estimation for condemning either or both the subjects of Latin and Chaucer by branding them as "nonessentials." Nonessentials indeed, sir!

It may be quite true that time spent in studying Middle English or Vergil is time not given to building an instrument of destruction for use against the allied enemies of these United States, but would it be treason to suggest that time so spent will have a lasting effect upon the character and personality of the youth of the land who might be being liberally educated into good citizenship while studying Chaucer and Latin?

And certainly if this war is worth fighting it is worth fighting for something. Unless there is a rising generation, indoctrinated with a firm belief in the principles for which America has thus far stood, to preserve we might just as well cease fighting. I have no argument with the Lend Lease director's views concerning the need for adjustment in industry and big business in order to aid in the winning of the war, but I do believe that to cease teaching Chaucer and Latin would contribute nothing to the effective prosecution of it.

If all of Mr. Hopkins' suggestions are followed to the tee we will be privileged to see the youth of this country converted en masse into the very type of efficient assembly-line machine, or reasonably accurate facsimile thereof, which people the Axis countries today and are our avowed enemies to the last man. I wonder if it would be out of order to suggest that we have heard very nearly enough talk from Washington, and elsewhere, about how we are not winning this war because someone at home is reluctant to part with an heir-loom gym-crack of metal, or because those on the home-front are not giving till it hurts all the time, and raise the question about why there is as yet no really unified command under a competent general not of the political hot-house variety?

I somehow feel that the ex-secretary of Commerce might have had his tongue in his cheek when he mentioned discontinuing some of the liberal arts subjects even for the duration, for such a statement would be out of his realm. Let us hope that few, if any, take that part of his otherwise worthwhile article too seriously, for it is on such stuff as the fine arts that a man's soul finds sustenance when the mercenary materialism of the world about him becomes a cankerous bane.

"What profit hath a man.....?"

CONSTITUTION

he must play in the affairs of our nation.

THE FIRST change proposed is the student body be allowed to elect the president which is to represent it. At the present time the president of the Student Council is, according to Article I Section I, the president of the student body and shall represent it as such. Under present conditions the president of the student body is elected by a mere handful of student council members. Since it would be more democratic, and since he would better represent the student body as a whole it is proposed that the president be elected by the popular vote of the entire student body. This would likewise increase the interest of the majority of students in school and class affairs and in their responsibilities as students at Maryville College.

THE SECOND proposed change is that some provision be made in the constitution that Robert's Rules of Order be used as a guide in conducting class meetings and elections, and that this manual of parliamentary procedure should cover all instances not specifically covered by the present constitution. In the constitution adopted in 1941 there was a provision that Robert's Rules of Order be followed when no specific provision of the constitution covered a certain point. As it now stands many cases and points of dispute arise which are not covered by a provision in the constitution. For instance, there is no provision in the constitution stating what should be done when the president of the Student Council is graduated during the middle of the year. The present constitution simply states that the officers of the council shall be elected "within one week following the election of senior, junior, and sophomore class representatives in the annual student election in the spring," the retiring president presiding. At the end of last semester the president was graduated, leaving the council and the student body without a president. Some provision should be made for such cases which may arise and which are not provided for in the constitution.

As to the conducting of class meetings and elections, Robert's Rules of Order should be made the standard guide so that there will be some definite democratic method of procedure. At the present time class meetings are conducted in a slipshod manner, no one seeming to know just what to do or what should be done. With some guide book of parliamentary procedure this situation would be averted, and class meetings could be conducted in an orderly manner according to some specific plan.

THE THIRD point of revision deals with primary elections both of student council members and class officers. Under existing conditions nominations and primary elections are held at the same meeting. Since this permits of no open campaigning, unqualified persons are often elected to office. The proposed revision would change that and provide that nominations be held at least one week before the primary elections thus permitting campaigning. One might object that this would lead to corrupt political practices, but if open campaigning were permitted politics could and would be run honestly. Because of this campaigning before primary elections, officers who were interested and qualified would be elected to offices of responsibility. Everyone would be able to ascertain the qualifications of each candidate by the speeches he made and by the principles he stood for. Campaigning would also be permitted before the regular elections, but so great a length of time would not be necessary since all those candidates running would have previously expressed their views. This system would strengthen our democratic system by permitting qualified students to be elected to office.

A definite method of voting should also be provided for in thes primary elections. As it now stands any number of ballots are required to determine just which ones are to run in the final pole. A more democratic method could and should be provided for.

If one office is to be filled and there are more than three candidates in the field, the voters should designate first, second, and third choice, first choice counting for three points, second for two, and third for one. The candidates with the highest number of points should be declared the winner, than one office is to be filled, such as in the election of student council members, the voters should designate five choices in order, the above procedure to be followed from there on. In this way the sentiments of the class could be better expressed.

All these proposed changes have been suggested to the Student Council which is to more fully discuss them at its next meeting on March 1st. In the mean time student opinion is desired, and student organizations are asked to express their opinions on the matter Only in this way would it be possible to achieve changes in the constitution and to determine if these changes would really be desired by the student body.

In brief the changes proposed are as follows:

1. Election of the president of the student body should be by popular vote.

2. Robert's Rules of Order should be used as a guide in conducting meetings and elections and should cover any point not provided for in the constitution.

3. Campaigning should be permitted before primary elections, these elections being held one week after nominations. A more detailed plan of balloting should also be provided for.

Ministerials Make Plans For Annual Banquet in April

Plans are being formed for the annual Ministerial banquet to be held in the Masonic hall in Maryville sometime during the last of April. The name of the speaker has not yet been announced. All ministerials are invited whether a member of the association or not.

Ten active members and one associate member have been voted and installed into the association recently.

An attempt is being made by the association to make the programs more interesting by having open forums, debates, student speakers, amateur contests, and musicals.

Burgreen Presides At Cotton Club

Cotton Club amended its constitution to extend membership to students from all Southern states at its last meeting Monday, February 15. Charlie Burgreen, a junior from Florida, presided.

To all students who come from any Southern state, Cotton club members extend invitation to attend the next meeting of the club March 1, at 6:45 p. m. in Athenian hall.

Bob Seel Talks At Spanish Club

At the next meeting of the Spanish club to be held on Thursday, February 25, Bob Seel will speak and the Hill William Saloon Ensemble will play. The club will meet in the YWCA rooms at 6:30.

Bob Seel, whose father is a missionary in Colombia, South America, is a freshman. Last semester he spoke at the Student Volunteer meeting on Colombian Missions. His topic at this meeting will be "Amusements in Colombia."

The Hill William Saloon Ensemble will play several selections of real Spanish music. The Ensemble is composed of Charlie Burgreen, Paul Cooper, Ellis Burcaw, Don Conkle, and Lloyd Anderson.

This program has been planned by the program secretaries of the club, Carol Reynolds and Mary Elizabeth McKnight, both freshmen.

The Spanish club is still continuing its drive for membership which was initiated several weeks ago. At the last meeting there were about twenty-five students present. Anyone interested in Spanish, South America, or languages in general is invited to attend the meetings of the club which are held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

Pictures Finished For '43 Chilhowean

The CHILHOWEAN pictures have been finished this week, and will be sent to the printers next week. If the book is not held up at the publishers, it will come out the latter part of April.

This year, in an effort to economize, only five-hundred copies have been ordered instead of the five-hundred and fifty usually prepared. Therefore there is less chance this year for a person to secure an annual without making a down-payment. Members of the business staff advise making an immediate payment to reserve a copy.

According to the contracts signed last fall, those purchasing the CHILHOWEAN on the installment plan have already paid three dollars. The final dollar is due on or before March 1. Payments may be made to Betty Parker and Jim Faulkner.

SCOTSPORTS

By TED PRATT

ECHO SPORTS

SOB STORY

The Army and Navy announcement that their enlistees in training on college campuses throughout the country would not be permitted to participate in intercollege athletics was received on every campus with no little sadness and sorrow. Both large and small schools, happy in the prospects of a mass of supplementary talent for their athletic teams, were disappointed by the government action. And since the great majority of athletes remaining in school are members of the various military reserves and are to be called approximately two weeks after the close of the first school term of 1942-43, the institutions realized that the continuation of intercollegiate sports of any kind was going to be definitely threatened. Again, if this action will shorten the war and bring quicker and surer victory, we're all for it! And that's no foo, Ling.

SWEET VICTORY

Maybe it was the row of sweater girls that yelled their heads off for the Scots. Or maybe it was just the adverse conditions of the match. At any rate, when the once-defeated Everettmen met the powerful Vol grapplers in the return match Thursday afternoon, the Scots came out with a handsome and well-earned 23-13 victory. And what a sweet victory it was, reversing the previous decision and piling up four falls and a decision to beat the Peelmen. Surprise match of the day was Les Rock's stunning attack which netted him a pin in 6:32. It was the football captain's inaugural in the mat sport and he proved beyond a doubt that pure old fight and will to win could win a match.

Lloyd Anderson was forced to go his first full match in competition and came out supreme. UT's Haynes was able to hang on for the full nine minutes but not without Lloyd putting on the pressure to win by a pin in the second period. Mac put on one of the best shows of the afternoon as he pushed his big Vol into every possible position for a second period pin. Brandau found Ed Wilson easy meat as he applied the pin in 2:55 in the heavyweight match.

'JUST BRAGGIN'

28 to 8! That has a musical sound to it for some uncanny reason. When the Scots rolled over the Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech, they not only pulled a surprise but they did it in such a way that there was never a doubt as to the outcome. Bradford and Rettke, the only losers for Maryville, were definitely improved from their last appearance and deserve credit for their spunk and fight. Captain Joe Suitor, with his characteristic will to win, uncovered a new angle with his double-jointed opponent. Although the entire evening lacked a first period pin, the Everettmen gave commendable accounts of themselves as they took the count of the Yellow Jackets with four falls, one decision and one forfeit. The match calls for a carbon copy next Friday when the Scots invade the Tech camp in Atlanta.

NEITHER HERE NOR THERE

Some of the follows on the Hill have been agitating for some kind of an athletic competition with Emory and Henry. It seems the Virginia school expects to entertain a few WAACs in the near future!

If the wrestlers think it's hard to lose weight, they ought to take up basketball. Harry Boykoff, Brooklyn St. John's six-foot nine inch center, has lost thirty pounds this season and is still losing!

There has been some question about the scoring method in wrestling. An individual bout is won by the wrestler accumulating the greater number of points. In the case of a fall, it must come in the first three minute period or beat the time of the opponent's pin in the second or third period. Points are given in the following manner:

2 points—Take down
2 points—Reverse position
1 point—Escape (Even break)
2 points—Near fall

An additional two points are given for a time advantage. That is, for the wrestler who has had the advantage (has been on top) for the longer period. There must be sixty-seconds difference in the time advantage in order to be awarded the two points.

The same "freaky" R. I. Staters had 78 points scored against them by Mass. State. And they only got 121!

The New York Celtics are no more. War-time travel and drain on men forced them to disband last week. Their name remains high up in the top professional basketball teams of all time.

Wood Everett, Maryville graduate and ex-wrestler for the Scotties became the newest member of the Maryville coaching staff several weeks ago when he replaced Coach J. D. Davis who was called to serve in the armed forces. Woody, as he is known to all, was a champion wrestler for the Scots having performed under Davis and the late Bob Thrower for four years.

A local boy, Woody lives at the edge of town, is married and has a six months old daughter, Wooda Graylene. His coaching duties leave him time to work on the graveyard shift at the Alcoa plant where he has been working since leaving school in 1941. Being a sports enthusiast in general and a wrestling fan in particular, Woody gets a great kick out of his new job.

For four years, three under Bob Thrower and one under Davis, Wood was a wrestler here on the Hill. As a freshman his top weight was 135, in his sophomore year hit 155, went up to 165 as a junior and wrestled 175 in his last year here. He wrestled on two state championship teams and on one that tied for the championship.

The new coach has already guided the Scottie team to three victories and only one defeat. He may be seen every afternoon in the wrestling gym working with his different boys, and actually demonstrating difficult holds and ways of escape. Using his wealth of wrestling knowledge, Coach Woody Everett has built a team in his first year that stands high in even Maryville's great mat history. He's doing a fine job and we wish him all the luck in the world.

Lassies Become Stunt-Minded

Aerial Darts Begins Next Week

Girls of the point system tested themselves on stunts Thursday, February 18, in the Alumni gym. Also pictures of the WAAC and the WAVE teams were taken for the CHILHOWEAN.

The limber lassies stood on their heads; turned somersaults and then maneuvered themselves in the duck, camel, and novelty walks. They performed deep knee bends and heel clips- knocking their heels together twice as they took the hop. Finally they tried the free standing. This was one of the most difficult stunts to perform. The girls lay on their backs, clasped their arms over their chests, and then attempted to stand up without using the hands. A certain number of points were awarded for each stunt executed, but those who twisted and untwisted themselves successfully in each test were able to gain only 25 points for all their hard work.

Practice for the aerial darts tournaments will begin next Tuesday. Two girls will be pitted against each other in the matches. 20 points will be awarded for entering and an additional 5 points for each tournament won.

Scotties Chew Vols in Return Grudge Match Thursday Afternoon In U-T Gym.

Everettmen Pile Up 23 Points To Vols' 13; Les Rock, Anderson, Wilson Put on Outstanding Bouts To Clinch Match

The Maryville College Scotties exhibited a whirlwind attack and completely overwhelmed the University of Tennessee Vols in their return match on Thursday afternoon. Accumulating a total of four falls and a decision, the Everett men reversed the former decision with a decisive 23-13 win over the only team that had defeated them this season. More than a hundred yelling fans witnessed the thrilling match, which was held on the precarious stage of the big UT gymnasium.

The battle took on an aspect of a grudge battle as the two teams took the floor. Rooters from both schools lined the mats and the stage, eager in their enthusiasm to see a real bruiser of a match. With a 21-13 defeat against them, the Scots took the mat with an air of revenge that consequently carried them on to supreme victory.

Wrestling for the first time under collegiate competition, Bob Schwartzwalder found the experienced Webb too much for him and succumbed to a pin in 3:28. The match was slow but quite even all the way and both men were thoroughly exhausted at the end of the nine gruelling minutes. The second match also went to the Volunteers although it was won by a decision. Wrestling ten pounds out of his class, little Trevor Williams of the Scots put up a game fight against the heavier Smith of UT, but was outscored four points to one.

Bill Thompson started the Scottie fireworks. Forcing the fight all the way, Bill swept the UT man off of his feet for a number of takedowns. His aggressive manner proved wise for he was able to out-point Ed Brown ten to three. The surprise of the afternoon appeared in the 145 lb. class when Les Rock, football captain and baseballer, christened his inaugural with a bruising attack and a fall in the third period. The veteran end came out fast and quickly had the Vol on the mat; a brace of near-falls and Les had his opponent in the shape he wanted him for a pin.

Lacking an uninjured 155 pounder, the Vols substituted Tompson's Ed Brown as Joe Suitor's opponent, and Joe, realizing the disadvantage of the Vol, proceeded to coast for most of two periods. The UT man put up a dogged resistence but Joe accomplished a pinhold for the five points. In one of the best matches of the day Lloyd Anderson pinned Haynes, the husky Vol 165 pounder. Lloyd was his old aggressive self as he tore in time after time to rough up the Peel-man. Punishing his foe with a particular two arm hold, the Scot completely overcame the Vol in 2:10 of the second period.

The final bouts featured the Wilson brothers—Mac, winning; Ed, losing. Mac exhibited his best attack of the entire season as he hit the Vol frosh with everything but the referee. He had his opponent in a near-fall position for over two minutes of the first period but put on the clincher in the second and third to take five points. Ed Wilson had the ill-fortune of having as his opponent the "Invincible" Brandau. Showing complete confidence and probably justified in it, the huge Vol accomplished three near-falls on Ed in the first period and finished the match in spectacular style by pinning Ed in 2:55. In an exhibition match, Frank Bradford looked better than in his previous matches in pinning Cristberry in the 135 lb. class. Summary follows:

128 lb. class Smith (UT) dec. Williams (MC)

145 lb. class Rock (MC) pinned Jamison (UT) 6:32

175 lb. class Wilson, M (MC) pinned Workhoven (UT) 3:26

Heavyweight Brandau (UT) pinned Wilson E (MC) 2:55.

Exhibition: Bradford 135 (MC) pinned Cristberry (UT) 135.

Referee: Cox.

Wrestlers Leave For Georgia Trip At 6 A. M. Friday

To Tangle With Georgia Tech and Georgia Pre-Flight

Coach Woody Everett's grapplers swing next week for what will probably be the last meets of the current season when the Scots tangle with Georgia Tech on Friday, February 26, and with the Georgia Pre-Flight School on the 27th. The Highlanders easily whipped the Engineers 28-8 in their last meeting, and are expected to repeat, although not as easily, as the Ramblin' Wrecks will be on their own floor and will be in better physical condition than they were on their trip to Alumni Gym. The Pre-Flight School promises to be tough although the actual strength of the Fliers is unknown.

About twelve men including the regular team members and several men for exhibition matches will make the trip in the station wagon and an automobile. It will be the first and only extended trip for the team this year. They will leave at 6 a. m. on the morning of the 26th and will wrestle the Engineers at four the same afternoon. The next afternoon will find them in Athens where they will tangle with the Pre-Flighters.

The Scots will take a good record with them to the southern schools. Only one loss, a freak upset by UT that was avenged handily last Thursday, mars their record. They have beaten Appalachian, UT and Georgia Tech, but remain in a tie for the mythical state championship because of their one loss.

Bainonians To Hear Recordings Tonight

Bainonian plans an unusual program to be presented tonight in Bainonian hall. Margaret Boretsky, a junior biology major from Pennsylvania, will be the announcer at a meeting of the "6:20 Club". Popular numbers requested by various girls will be played with Stevie giving interesting details with regards to the reasons for which the recordings were chosen.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By Bill H. Segraves

On last Thursday, February 18 the second half of the basketball schedule was begun. MY DAY obscurity on a small annual income.

Now comes the climax of such a lovely February day. It was unusual, because it was reported that somebody saw the mercury in the thermometer about noon. Shh, idle quips may sink ships. I suddenly remembered that I had to write a feature for the ECHO. That's the name of this paper, if you've read this far. I spent the next two and one-half hours hunting for some feature material—(too bad I never found it). Neither of my friends knew of any good junk to expostulate on. So I asked my faculty adviser for advice. He advised me to (censored). I always learn by the error method. And don't ask for advice if you're not going to take it. Deah, deah, there I go, being philosophic again. It's really my second nature.

"Climbing up dem wooden stairs" to get a dime for a war-stamp was my name after supper. Each ligament or tendon, or whatever biology majors call them, cracked and yelled out loud with every step. Each dawn I die—

It hurt me deep down to shake the last nine pennies out of Gloria, my pig bank. It was even harder to get my roommate to accept an IOU for the tenth penny. Reputations travel faster than characters.

Evening passed as only an evening can. Finally I got to bed, between one green and one lavendar sheet, only to remember that I hadn't rolled up my hair. Not wanting to look as bad the next day as I had that day I rolled out onto the cold hard floor. And so on, into the night.

and Webb 2. For the Gladiators Francis led with 7 and Buford and Parvin each got 4 points.

ATHENIAN 19 CABINET 7

Bergquist again led the Athenian to victory as he scored 9 of the 19 points which defeated the Y Cabinets 7 points. Ted Pratt scored 6 points and Jim Hodges and Boyd each got 2. Olsen Pemberton again led the Y Cabinet with 5 and Arthur Bushing and John DeForest each got 1.

OUTCASTS 30 CELTICS 20

Roseborough led the Outcasts, again led the Outcasts to victory, this time making 10 of the 30 Outcast points. Enloe made 6, Ken Cooper, Oliver Spears and Art Spears each made 4 points and Bill Evans scored 2. The Celtics were handicapped by having only four players. Breazeale led with 7, Sawmiller 6, Scapellatti 4 and Miller 3.

INVINCIBLES 23 RINGERS 10

Gualtieri led the Invincibles with 9 points as they overcame the powerful Ringers 23-10. Weiss got 6 for the Invincibles, John Runion (who was called to the Air Corps, so long, John, and good luck to a swell guy and good basketball player) 5 points. George Pope and Bill Hopkins each scored 2 points For the ringers Van Blarcom led with 6 and Ben Lynt and Bill Segraves got 2 each.

ALPHA SIG 26 CHOIR 22

The Choir gave the Alpha Sigers a big race but the Alpha Sig came through to a 26-22 win. A. Rock led the Alpha Sig boys with 12 points, Rettke got 7, L. Rock 4, and Stevens 3. Paul Moehlman led the Choir with 12 and Bob Hunter got 6 and Wally Easter got 4.

The Invincibles over came the Junior Commandos 23-4 led by John Runion with 15 points on last Saturday, February 13. On the same day The Supermen were defeated 62-8 by the Cooties led by 31 points by Leroy Dillener.

Dr. Wm. Crothers To Speak at Y W On Leper Society

At the YW meeting Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the Y rooms Rev. Dr. William H. Crothers of Maryville will speak on the American Leper Society, basing his talk on the book "Who Walked Alone." A trio composed of Miss Jessie K. Johnson, assistant professor of English, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, instructor of Bible and religious education, and Mrs. Charles Webb of Maryville will sing.

Last week Mrs. Grace Snyder, dean of women, discussed Henry Drummond's essay on "The Greatest Thing in the World."

Choruses Featured At Prayer Service

Bill Segraves led the singing at prayer meeting Wednesday night while Marion Avakian played the piano. Most of the songs were selected from a new chorus sheet. Jane Metcalf led the devotions, and Hal Lloyd closed the sentence prayers.

Wednesday afternoon the prayer meeting committee, consisting of Marion Stout, Marion Avakian, Purnell Darrell III, and Richard Boyd held a meeting. They made plans for keeping a more reverent atmosphere during the meetings, and some of the members exchanged duties.

McLaren and Hunter Perform Tonight On Athenian Program

Athenian society will meet tonight at 6:00 in Athenian hall. The program will include a performance by Libby McLaren and a trumpet solo by Bobby Hunter. Plans for the coming banquet are to be completed.

Next Saturday evening Athenian and Bainonian societies will sponsor a program in the chapel. Jack Jones and Willie Williams are co-chairmen for this program.

NO HAIR

tresses flowing down over eyes and noses.

So the War Manpower Commission took up the problem of half blind war workers with the War Production Board, and they immediately notified Miss Lake of the castrophes being caused by the public patterning after her blinding hair-do Veronica's reply was what sporting women would have been expected to say — that she was tired of looking at the world through one eye, anyway, and from now on—it would be Veronica-a-la-hair-on-top.

Yes, it looks like something else in our life has got to go, or if we're going to be patriots, we must have that hair cut, or at least use a lot of pins to hold it back, the former preferred. So girls, and any of you boys that the shoe fits, really, shouldn't we patronize the barber shops a little more? For we never know at what minute of the day or night we'll be rushed off to a big production job; even here on our own campus—could be in Chemistry Lab. that our peek-a-boo-bobs and strangling strings might cause us to lose all our hair in the hypoid gears and maybe our heads too.

Rev. Alex Batchelor To Speak At YMCA

Rev. Alex R. Batchelor, regional director of Religious Education in the Synod of Florida for the Presbyterian Church, U. S., will be the speaker at the YMCA meeting Sunday afternoon at 1::30 in Bartlett Hall.

Mr. Batchelor, who is from Orlando, Florida, is well-known to our campus, not only as a speaker but as the father of two Maryville students, Jean, a junior, and Mary, a freshman.

Miss Armstrong Accepts Position In Defense Work

Honored Monday At Reception In Practice House

Miss Mary Rachel Armstrong, assistant professor of home economics, left Thursday to accept a position as nutritionist at the Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant of the Proctor and Gamble Defense Corporation, Milan, Tennessee.

"The work will include working with the dietitians to plan the food used in the cafeterias for the working people and the food sent to them. It is an educational promotion work, which will be among the community groups to educate people to eat healthfully," said Miss Armstrong. This work will extend over several countries. When asked if she looked forward to her work, she said. "Yes, quite." Her work here will be carried on by Miss Meiselwitz and Miss Lane of the Home Economics Department.

Miss Armstrong's home is in Knoxville. She came here from the faculty of Austin Peay Teacher's college and has been a member of Maryville college for the past eight and a half years. She attended the University of Tennessee where she received B. S. and M. S. degrees.

After the Artist Series Concert Monday night, Miss Meiselwitz and Miss Lane were the hostesses at a reception in honor of Miss Armstrong. The faculty was invited. They were served by the fifteen senior home economics girls. After the reception the girls presented Miss Armstrong with a leather brief case. The reception was held in the Practice House, which was decorated with red and white flowers and blue bowls, and red, white, and blue candles, carrying out a patriotic theme.

Dr. Case To Speak At YMCA Sunday

Annual Banquet Planned for Spring

Dr. Ralph Thomas Case, associate professor of sociology, will be the speaker at Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 1:30. He will speak on a subject of inspiration, which has not been announced. Dr. Case has been here at Maryville College since 1939. He received his B. A. degree from Parsons College and the degree of B. D. from the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in 1919. In 1929, Dr. Case received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Iowa.

The date for the annual Y. M. C. A. banquet generally held in March or April, has not been set because of the difficulty of finding a place to hold it. The fellowship committee composed of Olsen Pemberton, chairman, Ralph Parvin, and Paul Jamarik, has charge of arrangements. Last year about one hundred men attended the banquet, which is open to any fellows who wish to go. In former years the Southern Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church, and the home economics department have been hosts to the Y. M. However, this year because of food rationing and higher prices, the two churches have been forced to decline as host to the group. Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics and head of the department, has agreed to sponsor the banquet but can accommodate only 50 or 60 persons.

For these reasons the plans for the banquet are indefinite. There is the possibility that the Masonic Hall or a restaurant down town may be able to serve the banquet. Further notice will be given when more definite plans have been made.

NOTICE

The publication schedule of the ECHO does not call for an issue on March 6. The next one will be on March 13.

President of Columbia Seminary To Speak Here

Will Lecture To Student Vols and Show Colored Films

Dr. James McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary at Decatur, Georgia and vice-president of the Federal Council of Christ Churches in America, will conduct a joint meeting of the Student Volunteers and Ministerial Association Sunday evening after Vespers in Bartlett hall. He will show colored moving pictures of Columbia Seminary.

Dr. Richards will be in the Public Relations office Sunday afternoon to hold conferences with any students interested in talking with him. Appointments may be made with Guy Lambert or Olson Pemberton.

Dr. Richards was born in Statesville, North Carolina, November 6, 1902. His father was the Rev. Charles Malone Richards. Dr. Richards married Mary Evelyn night in Clearwater, Florida, December 31, 1929. In 1923 he received his MA degree from Princeton University. He was a Rhodes Scholar, Oxford University, London, England from 1923-26. In 1928 he received his BD at Columbia Seminary and was licensed and ordained July 31, 1928 by the Athens Presbytery, Athens, Georgia.

Dr. Richards was pastor in Clarkesville, Georgia from 1928-31 and in Thomasville from 1931-32. Since 1932 he has served as president of Columbia Theological Seminary.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Changes To Be Made in Schedules

Four Class Rooms Will Be Vacated for Cadets

The Office of the Director of Curriculum announced this week that there will be a change in class schedules when the Army Aircrew students arrive. Classes will start every hour on the half hour, ten minutes being allowed between each class.

In reference to this change Dr. E. R. Hunter said that "this is the best concrete result of the war." The change is being made at the request of the Army officials, although many faculty members have long desired this change.

Lunch will be served at 12:30 instead of 12:20, but nothing definite has been arranged as yet as to the time physical education classes are to meet.

It was also revealed that four class rooms in Anderson hall will be vacated, these rooms to be used by the soldiers for instruction and supervised study.

British WRENS, corresponding to American WAVES, do not go to sea, but they replace naval men in about 40 categories of shore duty.

SENIORS LEAD

15% of Student Body For Last Semester Are On Honor Roll

Last semester's honor roll has been released from the Personnel Office with Jean Barnes, a senior, and Jean Lehman, a junior, heading the list. Both students vying for top place had an average of 8.6. The other high ranking seniors were: Clyde Brown with 7.6, Irma Holly Criswell 7.5, Sidney Duke 7.6, Jean Patterson 8.5, and Evelyn Williams 7.6. Ranking next to Jean Lehman in the junior class was William Evans whose average was 8.1. Leila Ruth Case came next with 7.8, and Elizabeth McConnell followed with an average of 7.6.

Margaret Messer with an 8.0 average stood at the head of the sophomore class, while the next highest was Dorothy Lehman with 7.5. Highest scoring freshman was Madeline Cook with 7.9. All except three of the thirteen with a 7.5 average or above are shown in the picture.

Altogether, there were 102 students on the honor roll. This is about 15 per cent of the total number of last semester's student body. As usual, the seniors led the honor list with the largest number, that of 30. The junior class was close behind with a number of 26. On down the scale were the sophomores with 24, and last, the freshmen with 22.

The complete honor roll follows:

SENIORS—

Alette, Carl—6.4

MY NIGHT

Glamour of the Evening

By LESTER BOYD

Night on the campus. The giddy whirl of campus life after dark. The bright light and gay laughter of the Chatterbox. The more subdued atmosphere of that lover's tryst, the library. The dim lights and balmy breezes on the campus that are conducive to forbidden kisses, tender, stolen caresses. The peaceful quiet of the dorm, gently shattered by a block buster or a hushed scream of "Lights"! These are the things that are typical of night on our gay campus. These are the things that I will want to remember when my eyes grow dim and life grows cold within my aging breast.

Then will my memory filter back across the long years to nights spent in eager, almost fanatical, search for truth and knowledge in a parlor chemistry text book. Then will I recall how I loved and laughed the evenings away in all of my youthful effervescence. What part would carry me back for one more carefree night?

You will recall that in last week's ECHO my worthy compatriot, Billye Ruth Braly, gave an account of her day on the campus. Bear with me, gentle reader, while I tell you of My Night.

Supper at six and a delightful meal it is. Need I describe a dining hall meal? Then an hour spent in the kitchen where I am working my way through college along with four other boys and 62 waitresses. Even at a ratio of twelve girls to one boy, we manage to keep our collective minds on the job long enough to get the dishes done. Then home to the dorm where I brush my teeth (after carefully inspecting every possible corner for a possible hidden explosive) give my roommate back his toothbrush, and collect my books for my nightly, except for Satur

President Lloyd Goes To Atlanta

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd traveled to Atlanta, Georgia this week for a three day joint meeting of committees of the Presbyterian church. While there, Dr. Lloyd met with a sub committee of the Department of Church Cooperation and Union of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. and a sub committee of the Permanent Committee on Cooperation and Union of the Presbyterian Church U. S. to discuss church union matters.

Dr. Lloyd left for Atlanta on Monday night and returned to the campus Thursday night.

Next week, Dr. Lloyd will travel by train to Philadelphia for a meeting of the whole department of Church Cooperation and Union of the Presbyterian Church of which he is chairman. This will be a one day meeting.

Billye Ruth Braly Editor This Week

Billye Ruth Braly, junior associate editor of the Highland Echo staff, is serving as editor of the paper this week. According to custom annually observed by the Echo junior staff members eligible for election to position of editor the following year takes turns in editing one issue. New week, March 6, there will be no ECHO published. The following week, the editor will be Ben Lynt, and the week following Jordy Meadows.

Little Things In Life That Make You Sorry That You're Alive

By THELMA RICHARDSON

It's the little things in life that count. Things we say, do, or use, like scotch tape; that extra blue book somebody brought to a test; or the watch on the fellow next to you.

That tune you hum all day; the climb to third floor Anderson; Johnson's baby powder; the nickel someone borrowed two weeks ago; your mark on the Chemistry six-weeks examination; the six o'clock rising bell; explosions in Carnegie (from firecrackers to "Molotov cocktails").

A certain smile before breakfast; a certain smile before lunch; a certain smile before supper. (Monotonous isn't it.)

Your name in the ECHO; mail twice a day; milk in the Chatterbox; shower room before dinner; square dancing in the Alumni gym; reminiscing about what you did when You were a freshman.

Verve (Dr. G., I've only borrowed it): two weeks after February meetings; sunlight through classroom windows; Dazzle Dream shampoo; pictures the person next to you in history draws.

Victory shoelaces; yellow nail polish; chapel at 8:12; "What will I wear today?"; Black Magic; Fred Waring at 10; column right-counter march-to the rear march. (I must be dreaming. Such things don't happen here.)

First row balcony at the Capitol; This is how I get to the movies so often; outside reading due March 1 (sound affects plop); Freshman musical, "Springtime in the Chilhowee's, March 20. (Advertisement)

Aviation cadets (with emphasis on aviation cadets); daffodils in February; seven mile loop; boys hanging out the windows of Bartlett gym (wonder why?); girls hanging out the windows of Bartlett gym (wonder why?); moonlight over the campus; Orion over the campus; dogs all over the campus; sunset behind Carnegie; (They don't even pay me for stuff like this.)

Professors Howell And Griffitts Speak At Faculty Club

Effects of War On Chem. and Education To Be Discussed

Professor George D. Howell and Associate Professor F. A. Griffitts will be the speakers at the regular monthly Faculty club dinner Monday, March 1, in the home economics rooms of Fayerweather science building at 7:15 p. m. They will discuss the bearing of the war on chemistry.

Mr. Howell will speak on "The Effects of War on Chemistry and Chemical Products." It is said that a decade of progress in chemistry had been made due to the war. Mr. Howell, in a non-technical review, will give the high points of the changes the present chemical research will have on post-war industrial products, such as, automobiles, houses and airplanes.

"Effects of the War on Chemical Personnel Displacement and on Chemical Education" will be Dr. Griffitts' subject. He will go into the extent to which chemists have been called into active participation in war research, and comment upon the temporary calling of women into this field. In addition he will present the changes our colleges and universities are making in their methods for training chemists.

Those students who were enrolled in the gas school led by Professor George Howell and Dr. Frank McClelland will be interested in "Wargases" by M. B. Jacobs. This study of gases—their identification and decontamination—will be of value to air raid wardens and others interested in civilian protection and defense.

A valuable addition to the college library is that of one hundred and eleven books acquired from the library of Dr. John McKnitt, Alexander, former director of the college. Classics from English and American literature are among these books.

Mr. Baen Chu Will Speak In Chapel Wednesday, Mar. 3

Chinese Leader To Address Other Campus And Town Groups

Mr. Baen Chu, one of the outstanding leaders of the Chinese Student Christian Movement, will be the chapel speaker Wednesday morning, March 3. Mr. Chu will be on the campus Wednesday and Thursday, and various student groups will have an opportunity to hear him.

In his talks, Mr. Chu will probably discuss the present Chinese political situation, the Christian movement in China, and educational work in his native land.

As an undergraduate he was active in the Chinese Christian Student Movement in Hangchow Christian College where he took his B. A. degree. Since then he has held different positions of responsibility in the YMCA in China, especially in Shanghai. Mr. Chu represented the Chinese YMCA at the last world conference in Mysore, India.

During the last year in this country, Baen Chu has been studying at Brown University and Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. In addition, he has been actively engaged in the YMCA in Providence, Rhode Island, and in the general Christian movement here.

Wednesday noon Mr. Chu will address the Maryville Kiwanis club Thursday, fourth period he will speak at a meeting to which all who wish to attend are welcome. The announcement giving the location of this meeting and also the schedules of his other talks will be made in chapel sometime next week.

Musical Minstrel Tonight in Chapel

Athenian-Bainonian Present Program

The Athenian and Bainonian societies will present a musical minstrel show in Voorhees chapel tonight at 8:00. All the student body is invited to attend.

The program has been divided into three parts. The first is to be a Negro street scene, the second a church service, and the third a steamboat on the river scene. The cast consists of over twenty-five "Negroes".

Ellis Bucraw and Art Bushing are to be two city slickers, and Lawrence Sthreshley is to play the part of the parson in the church scene and will use as his sermon "Jonah and the Whale." The Three Flats, Ralph Parvin, Ted Pratt, and Don Hopkins, are to sing several numbers, and Jim Walker will also sing. Polly Parks, a "jiving darkey" is to be a colored boy, and Jack Scott will sing Dixie ballads. Jack Jones will give a monologue in dialect called "An Abe Lincoln Court Scene. Betsie Watkins and Ray Swartzback are to be the principals in a Negro wedding.

There will be music by the congregation, and the newly organized band will play. The band is composed of Paul Kolter, Bob Francis, Bob Hunter, Dick Hobart, Bob Seel, Charlie Burgreen, Mary Batchelor, Owen McGarity, Don Conkle, and Jack Houdeshel.

Practices have been held for the past four weeks, and the following committee planned the program: Jack Jones and Willie Williams, chairman; Esther Wynn, Eleanor Anthony, Jane Metcalf, Eleanor Stout, Art Bushing, Abner Richard, John Scott, Clyde Brown, Ray Swartzback, and Ken Cooper.

College Choir Holds Weiner Roast In Woods

Thursday night, the choir had a weiner roast in the fireplace of Hal Lloyd's hut in the College woods. Ralph R. Colbert, and Assistant Professor Richard W. Vine were chaperones. There were around thirty-five choir members present. They served themselves the usual picnic supper.

WELCOME

Uniforms in the dining hall—not one but several. That spells war as we are coming to know it even in our guarded erudite lives. Inspection visits, rumors, commanding officers, news—and the cadets are coming.

Many transitions are in evidence. Tables in the dining hall have brought us even nearer the "one big happy family;" meeting hours of classes will be scheduled anew; a wing of Carnegie was vacated to move grand seniors into "large closets;" and faculty members will teach subjects not in their chosen field. None of these vicissitudes is undertaken with any but the complete spirit of co-operation. We are licking the other side by sticking together. And we'll have fun doing it!

Nevertheless, let us remember the only ones relinquishing our c small space allotted to the Army future pup tents and shell holes o field. Those for whom we are mak uniform that signifies they are the supreme sacrifice in our stea

Just in case you ordered a BUTTERSCOTCH one with goo and lots of nuts, —a— Jordy'll be back next week. At the moment she's suffering from a severe case in debate.

And having had our chocolate sundaes with pineapple ice cream for a week anyway, what's to wit?

Just for ignition on the trek of thought, hope you felt the Indian influence this week. It was quite a stop and yank out an arrow atmosphere when everybody started ration book worming his way down to Fort Craig school and suddenly discovered he was on Tuckaleechee Avenue. We looked around hopingly for an Indian chief, but all we saw was "Red Rose" Smith.

We quite agree with Miss Heron's nomination for cutest appearance at the concert Monday night —the "Profit widows", Bobilee Knabb and Marylee Deyarmon, well corsaged and together. Esther Farrow takes the curtain call on the costume angle though. Down the stairs she started, daintily holding aloft a blue and white gown, when lo! Cinderella-like, out pranced joyfully her two feet—clad in fuzzy red bedroom slippers. Were her feet red! Ouch. Though from our vantage point backstage holding a glass of water for the singer, Janet Brown looked quite the something in her mantilla romantique.

We just happened to notice the new side door and steps near the Pearsons basement whereby the mythical aircrewers are to march into their dining room. Wonder if it'll be a case of Left My Datebook at the Laundry Door Canteen.

Whatever way you enter, it's quite a feat to reach the table in the far depths of the dining hall now under the new accelerated traffic system. We'd love to see a square dance there just for once—all join hands and promenade the hall (if any).

Every dog has his day, and apparently every day a new dog. Frances Bowman says every day she hears the noble Three-hundred are coming, and all that come are more dogs. Some howling wolf-like pack they do make though, especially the horrible brown barking one. And it's something—in modern terminology—to be pursued to the library by six wolves. Ask Laura Mae Weber.

By way of this-es and thats, we like Catherine Crothers' Bible test answer that Saul was the great man's real name and Paul is his nickname; the sight of Dr. Williams with a bright pink ice cream cone and Mrs. Williams; the tale that Libby McClar-

By ROBERT F. HUBER

DO YOU WANT SELF-GOVERNMENT?

Government is on trial all over the world! Our democratic form of life is being fought for with every ounce of energy, and every drop of blood the American people can muster. We are trying to safeguard our way of life from foreign agression, but we must at the same time protect it from internal foes.

Everyone knows that the real backbone of any democracy is its people; and if that democracy is to survive, the people must take an active part in the affairs of their government, or at least show an intelligent interest in such matters.

The best place to begin, maintain, and manifest this interest is while one is in college. That brings up the question of the Student Council, which is the nucleus of student government and reflects student opinion concerning this.

Most student councils are organized to control government matters and to train students for their future duties as good citizens. To be effective, a student council must have power, and there must be a purpose for its existence. This situation is not to be found at Maryville, however. Our council has no real power, and no fundamental purpose except to guide the opinion of the student body.

Would we like to change this deplorable situation and have a real student council with effective power and a genuine purpose? We can do it if we have the will!

But how?, you ask. The answer is simple. We must manifest an interest in school affairs and in the student council, and we must show ourselves to be capable of self-government.

In last week's issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO three specific changes were suggested. If these were to be made, student interest would be aroused, and once aruosed it would, I am sure, show itself to be capable of ruling itself. But if all this is to be accomplished, we need your support and interest. Let me then, review briefly those three proposed changes.

FIRST, the president of the student body should be elected by popular vote. SECOND, "Robert's Rules of Order", should be used as a guide in conducting class business and elections. THIRD, campaigning should be permitted before primary elections which should be about one week after nominations.

It is in this way that we can prove our interest and show ourselves to be capable of self-government. Perhaps then we would be able to have a really effective student council.

But what powers would we give to it? That will have to be worked out and expanded as time pro- can give one specific example here. s the student council has control discipline, and most of them do at maintaining order too. nitory disturbances have brought he fore. Exit the hero with four strong steps to the right.

We wondered rather occasionally why, but evidently it's just another bump on the head case which gives "Ding Dong" Bell his special brand of dignity and nobility. Evidently gym on a muddy baseball field was pretty smooth the other day (these be not climes that dry men's soles). Gulp. Anyway Ding Dong slipped in the particular mud puddle he was in and, according to his account had a head to head encounter with a rock and has not been so headstrong since. Oh yes, we know what they mean by the skeleton rattling his bones now—after the deep knee bending exercises.

Aside from the change in editorship for this week, any change in the paper is due to the cricket. Intentional malevolence too. A horrible creature, twelve feet each way to judge by the effect, ruled the roost behind the radiator in the office for sometime. It had about reached the 149th movement of the Fifth Cricket Concerto for cricket wings and orchestra when the accumulation of brooms, rulers, grape-ette, and feet finally did for it. But our heart strings were touched by it; our shoe strings were thrown at it; our—oh well, enough obituary.

Will you pass the weather, please?

Freshman Class Plans "Springtime In the Chilhowees"

"Springtime in the Chilhowees", a musical extravaganza is being planned by the Freshman class for Saturday, March 20, at eight o'clock in the Alumni gym.

The coming of Spring, its impressions on the minds of the average college youth is the theme around which the revue is based.

Committees, under the direction of Bob Bruce, president of the freshman class, are now at work. In charge of Advertising and Decorations is Cynthia Johnson, assisted by Marilyn Chapman, Dorothy Dick, June Gowenlock, John Kirstine, and Byron Sprague. On the program committee are Thelma Richardson, chairman, Mardee Fletcher, and Ray Saunders. Mardee is also in charge of costumes, and Ray, properties.

French Club Plans To Present Movie

On Thursday, February 25, at 6.30 p. m., the French club presented a dialogue in the form of a radio skit. Ed Burkhart and Beverly Jackson portrayed the dilemma of two people caught in an elevator.

The program committee, under the leadership of Betty Ballard and Phyllis Irshay, is planning to present a French movie sometime this spring for anyone on the campus who may be interested.

A program of piano music by French composers is scheduled for the near future.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The committee appointed by the Student Council received the permission of Mr. Eulie E. McCurry, supervisor of men's residence and proctor of Carnegie, to have the back door of Carnegie open during the day.

The Student Senate will begin meeting March 2, and the results of this meeting will be printed in the next issue.

NAVY SAYS YES

A split in the Army and Navy decisions regarding enlistees' participation in intercollegiate sports somewhat complicated the outlook for college athletics. The Army acted first. The brass hats held a pow-wow and it came out that intercollegiate athletics for soldier-boys in training in colleges was out. The Navy was a bit more on the deliberate side. A full week after the Army's verdict, the Navy waved a green light. They stated that "any (Navy) student who is able to meet the requirements of the curriculum, which includes compulsory physical drills, swimming, and setting-up exercises, and is able to devote additional time to participation in college athletics or other extra-curricular activities, will be permitted to do so."

The results will be interesting and amusing if not satisfactory. Schools which have been selected for the training of Naval Reserves, although fewer in number than those colleges chosen for Army trainees, will have a wealth of athletic material on their campuses. The Army-invaded institutions, on the other hand, can not be expected to furnish any competition —if they are able to put any kind of a team on the field at all. The action of the Navy with the "If-they-find-time" clause in it may prove to closely parallel the Army action, but just in case the Navy boys are smart and get their spherical trig done pronto, just watch the Navy schools go to town! It may take more than a couple of service announcements to slow down the big universities but we'll wager the difference in the caliber of the athletics played will be almost disgustingly evident.

HOME FRONT

The remains of a successful tennis team still haunt the Hill and it is said that new talent is not lacking. With tennis season just around the corner, thoughts turn to the racket-weilding sport. There has been some inquiry as to the possibility of a team and many have expressed the hope that Maryville would continue tennis. Considering the fact that it takes only five or six men to win a match, the main problem of transportation does not look insurmountable.

The scene was the Maryville dressing room immediately preceding a wrestling match. The wrestlers were stretched out all over the floor—relaxing. Who should breeze in the door but ex-Scottie champ Dave McDaniel—fresh from Georgia Pre-Flight. (The same team the Everettmen wrestle tonight) "Yeah, I wrestled some down there", Dave admitted. "They've got some good boys, too". He went on to give his old team-mates a few tips — how we could take the Fliers. The Navy builds 'em strong—but they'll know they've met a real team when Joe & Co. hit Athens tonight.

Brother Don Spargo of our own Tusculum College piled up quite an athletic record at the institution. Racking up 43 points from his pivot spot, the ace scored more than half of the Pioneers' points as they plowed under Mars Hill 79-55. Spargo is Tusculum's only four-letterman, having won honors in football, basketball, baseball and track. He leaves for the Reserves immediately.

After a six-hour discussion, a group of Big Ten moguls in Chicago decided to drop the ban on freshmen which has been in effect in Big Ten codes since 1906.

Then there's the record two intramural teams hung up this week. Thirteen points in one game! That's for both sides!

Who knows—we might have some future ordnance technicians right on the third floor of Carnegie. But it doesn't seem like the most appropriate time to start shooting the works. Let's save it till we get to Tokyo, huh?

Wrestlers Hit The Road For Georgia

Twelve Men Take Southern Trip For A Brace Of Matches

Georgia Tech and Georgia, Pre-Flight will be the opponents of the Scots this week as the Maryville grapplers swing southward to tangle with Tech Friday night and the Eagles tonight. Coach Woody Everett took about twelve men with him, half of them leaving Thursday and half of them Friday. Those making the trip were Williams, Bradford, Thompson Ballinger, Suiter, Anderson, Ed and Mac Wilson, and Dunning. Wilbur Chapman and Schwartzwalder, Elmer Engle also made th trip.

Tech's matmen have been set down once by the Scots, but a match in their own gym may prove to tell a different story. When the Ramblin Wrecks were here they had wrestled the night before against U. T.'s strong team and that may account for the ease in which the locals triumphed. The Georgia Pre-Flight is a reputedly powerful team that is drawn from some of the best colleges in the nation.

Sixteen Teams Enter Aerial Dart Tourney For Girls

WAACS and WAVES of the girls' point system practiced aerial darts Tuesday, February 23 and Thursday, February 25 in the Bartlett gymnasium.

Tuesday, March 2, at 3:00 o'clock the WAACS will play the first rounds and the WAVES will play at 4:00 in the Alumni gymnasium. The playoff between the WAAC and WAVE winners will be Thursday, March 4, at 4:00.

"Target For Tonight", War Picture, Shown In Bartlett Hall

Last Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, February 23 and 24, a moving picture entitled "Target for Tonight" was shown in Bartlett auditorium. The picture was presented through the courtesy of the Maryville Kiwanis club, the film being obtained from the Office of War Information. George W. Howell, professor of chemistry, was in charge.

The picture explained in detail the intricate planning which is required for each bombing raid. Every step in the process was clearly portrayed, actual preparations of the Royal Air Force being filmed.

The operations of the R. A. F. in a raid over a German industrial section were next shown. The precision and accuracy of the bombers were illustrated by photographs taken of the damage done.

The next meeting will be held in YWCA rooms and all interested are invited to come.

Writer Makes Survey of Physical Education Classes — Finds Surprises

By RAY SAUNDERS

While talking with Coach Honaker the other day, I managed to get in a few direct questions about this physical education business, and coach answered them just about as direct as they were put.

Among the questions were the following:

Q. Would you say that the Physical Education classes will do as much good as three days on a farm, or in a defense plant?

A. Yes—from a point of physical fitness.

O. What are these exercises expected to do for us?

A. These exercises are to develop coordination and endurance, the two things that the Army and the Navy want in men before they get them.

Q. Are these exercises similar to the ones used by the Army and the Navy?

A. Yes, they are the same as those used by the Army and the Navy, and are the ones recommended by the Army and Navy clinic in Atlanta, Georgia.

Q. Do you think that the boys here at the college are taking the right attitude toward the classes?

A. Yes, most of the fellows have taken a really fine attitude toward the classes, and have shown themselves ready and willing to go to work.

Q. Is the average Maryville boy soft?

A. No, not as soft as I expected. The fellows have shown more ability and stamina than I expected to see.

Q. Are we softer than other classes that you have taught?

A. No, you compare favorably with all other groups. Most Maryville men are more physically fit than men of larger colleges, because so many of our men have worked to earn their way here.

Coach Honaker also remarked in a general statement that the war has drawn our attention to the value of physical education and fitness. He told of a statement by Lt. Miller, a well-known swimming instructor, to the effect that many of the men who washed out of the Air Corps said that their failure was because somewhere along the line they had not had enough physical education.

I suppose that you are saying that Coach would naturally say things that way anyway. I know that Coach is speaking from a wise and thoughtful, as well as experienced, out-look on the affair, and I will back up his statements with words from some of the boys on the campus. The questions asked of a number of fellows, and their answers were as follows:

Q. Do you like physical education?

A. Yes—now that I am used to it.

Q. Do you think that the classes will help?

A. Yes, I think that they have helped already, and I shall be disappointed, if they don't help more.

Q. Do you think that the exercises are too strenuous?

A. There was a large variety of answers on this question, but a large number of them said— no.

Q. Would you take these exercises, if they were not required?

A. Most of the boys said—NO.

Q. What is your chief objection to the classes?

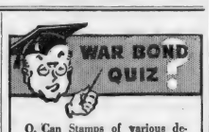
A. Most of the fellows said that they needed the time for other things. (not being at all specific)

There were a few odd answers such as the one given by a witty sophomore, who said, "I don't mind jumping up and down as if I had ants in my pants, or rolling around on the floor like a sick dog, but when I have to kick my legs up like a chorine girl, that's too much."

Well, it seems that we all have our own little pet complaints about the classes in general, but I guess that we all have to admit that there is more good than harm in them. If when we have tired muscles and sore backs, and coach is up on his stand counting for a hard exercise, we think of Goldsmith's famous quotation: "Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay", perhaps we will put just a little more snap into those bends and swings, and be the happier for it. A nation made of strong backs is a strong backer to push the Axis back.

Sermon On The Mount Is Theme of Service

Chapel speaker on Wednesday morning was Dr. George Davies, retired Presbyterian minister and father of Miss Katherine Davies, professor of music. Dr. Davies was a member of the National Board of Missions for twenty-four years and was chairman in the states of Ohio, Minnesota, and Utah until he retired last April. He spoke to the Student Volunteers last Sunday evening and has taken part in services on the campus many times before.



For the service Dr. Davies read the entire "Sermon on the Mount" from the fifth, sixth, and seventh chapters of Matthew. He ended the reading of this greatest of all sermons by saying: "What Jesus deemed sufficient for His day ought to be sufficient for our day and all the days to follow."

Disc Club Meeting Will Feature History of Jazz

The history of Jazz, featuring New Orleans and Chicago jazz, will be presented at the Disc club, next Thursday at 6:30, in Voorhees chapel. Bill Buzby will deliver the commentary and also supply the music by use of his own records.

The artists who will perform via the wax, are Bix Biederbecke, Louis Armstrong, "Jolly Roll" Martin and his Red Hot Peppers, "Miff" Moe and his little Molars, "King" Oliver, Bud Freeman, Jack Teagarden, the Commodore Swing orchestra, Bessie Smith singing the blues, and boogie-woogie as interpretated by Albert Ammons.

Buzby would like to stress the fact that this is not dance music, but red hot jazz.

Q. Can Stamps of various denominations be placed in one album?

A. More than one denomination in an album greatly increases the work and cost of redemption. Please, therefore, don't mix denominations.

Q. May a minor designate a co-owner or beneficiary?

A. Yes, if the purchase is made by the minor from his own wages or earnings.

Q. Do I lose my investment if my War Savings Bond is lost, stolen, or destroyed?

By Gib Crockett.

A. No; upon satisfactory proof of loss or destruction, the Treasury Department will issue a duplicate, usually without requiring a bond of indemnity.

Q. May I register the name of a beneficiary on a Bond without his knowledge?

A. Yes. Records of War Savings Bonds are confidential. It is not necessary for the Treasury to contact the beneficiary during the owner's lifetime. Only individuals may be named as beneficiaries. No associations, churches, or clubs may be so named.

Remember—the longer you keep War Bonds, up to 10 years, the more valuable they become.

NAVY'S NEW SCOURGE OF AXIS SUBS

MORE TROUBLE IS IN STORE for Axis subs now that the navy has turned out this new land-based bomber, the PV-1. It carries depth charges and torpedoes. It is the first sub-buster in production to fill the navy's need for twin-engined, land-based aircraft with plenty of sock. Gas tanks under the wings of the new plane carry extra gasoline for long trips over the water in search of undersea prowlers. (International)

Several hours of hard work in the library and then home. By hard work I mean wasting two hours while she takes home ec. notes. I can't understand why anyone would want to study in the library with so much else to do and talk about.

No milk at the Chatterbox; the girls took it all again so I settle for a pepsi. The usual crowd is there and the usual late girls are trying to be served. The Chatterbox had good food before the war, but candy bars are as scarce as A's in philosophy these days.

The half hour before lights go out is known as the children's hour. The patter of little (and otherwise) feet and the popping of firecrackers are heard, while resounding through the corridors is the steady tramp, tramp of the feet of Mr. Mac. Just as eleven strikes, the last rush of boys make it in from town. Someone shouts "Lights out, what do you think we are, a bunch of night owls?", and peaceful darkness descends on the dorm. As it is written in the relatively obscure works of an absolutely obscure poet, "Dark, ain't it?"

Spanish Club Holds Discussion Of Games Of South America

Spanish club met in Bainonian hall Thursday evening for a program of music and a discussion led by Bob Seel. The Hill William Saloon Ensemble played the Pennsylvania Polka, Polly Wolly Doodle and the Old Spinning Wheel.

The discussion centered around the various sports and games in South America. Most games are imported. The men are quite athletic and are satisfied to entertain themselves. Soccer is a favorite, and national teams play each other.

Coming of Cadets Causes Changes

Changes in Carnegie, Pearsons, and Bartlett have been made this week to make room and way for the 150 Aviation cadets moving in this week end.

Boys from the north end of Carnegie, facing the chapel have vacated the rooms on the first, second, and third floors, and in the basement. The rooms are being put in shape and additional beds are being put in them.

The intra-mural room and the reading room in Bartlett are being fixed up as offices for Army personnel. The game room will be used to store things.

The annex to Pearson's dining hall has been turned over to the Army. The cadets will use the side door over the laundry to march in and out for meals.

GOVERNOR COOPER ADDRESSES CHAPEL

Popular Knoxville Speaker To Lead Wednesday Chapel Service March 17

Has Recently Returned From Mission Field In Far East War Area

The Rev. Courtland Van Deusen of Tsingtao, China will be the speaker at the chapel service Wednesday morning, March 17, and will center his talk around his experiences as a prisoner of war in China.

Mr. Van Deusen went to China in 1914. In 28 years of evangelistic and administrative work in Shantung Province through war, flood, famine, and revolution, he has become familiar with some of the international problems of the Far East and has helped the foreign community and Chinese Christians to meet them. He was in charge of building student-teacher hostels and pastor of five rural chapels.

As treasurer of the Tsingtao Station schools and various funds, Mr. Van Deusen supervised the building of the hospital of Weihsien Station, raised money for the Ssufang chapel, and organized a Tsingtao community church. He was the only male missionary at Tsingtao Station when war broke out with Japan in 1937, and he became treasurer of the Emergency Committee formed to arrange for thecare of refugees, both missionary and Chinese. Mr. Van Deusen acted as head of Presbyterian mission work until communication was restored and the China Council in Shanghai could function again.

Mr. Van Deusen served on the Shantung Mission Executive Committee during most of his stay in China and was active on many other committees. He has been a member of the China Council and on the Board of Directors of several schools. He was chairman of the China International Relief Committee which cared for refugeesduring recent hostilities and took part in many community activities for Chinese and foreigners. He returned to the United States in 1942 on the repatriation liner, MS Gripsholm.

A native of New York, Mr. Van Deusen graduated from Princeton University and Auburn Theological Seminary. He works under the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

DINING HALL CHANGES

A new plan has been adopted by the dining hall for asking the blessing before meals. The change involves the ringing of the bell only once, to be followed immediately, without announcement, by the returning of thanks. The same person will say the grace for all three meals in one day. Those who will take part in this new program for the coming week, selected from the Ministerial Association, are the following:

Monday—Jack Scott.
Tuesday—Owen McGarity.
Wednesday—L. Sthreshley.
Thursday—Joe Suitor.
Friday—Ben Lynt.
Saturday—Bob Burd.

Varsity Squad Wins South Atlantic Forensic Tourney

LENOIR-RHYNE HOST

Team Takes Many Firsts In Extra Speaking Events

In the South Atlantic Tournament held March 4 through 6 Maryville College won many first honors. Although officially no College was designated winner, the MC squad came through with more places in the main section of the tourney than any other college. Under the direction of the host college, Lenoir-Rhyne, the contests took place in Hickory, North Carolina. Eight schools in this southern area participated; they were: University of Florida, Lenoir Rhyne, Appalachian State Teachers College in Virginia, Winthrop College, Mitchell College Emory and Henry College, and Maryville.

Winning all eight rounds the Maryville College women's teams took first place in women's debate. They were the only teams to go through undefeated and included Margaret Clippinger and Natalie Yelton on the negative and Dorothy Lehman and Jordy Meadows on the affirmative. The Maryville men's teams won second place in men's debate, with the teams composed of Ed Rowley and Bill Evans on the affirmative and Dick Boyd and Paul Jamarick on the negative.

In extra speaking events Maryville, represented by Ed Rowley won first in men's after dinner, first in men's extemp by Bill Evans, second in women's extemp by Phillis Anne Cain, first in women's impromptu by Margaret Clippinger,and first by Jordy Meadows in women's situation oratory.

The week before the women's teams participated in the Women's Smoky Mountain Tournament held at Virginia Intermont College in Bristol, Virginia. Five girls from Maryville attended: Dorothy Lehman, Jordy Meadows, Muriel Geisler, Natalie Yelton, and Phyllis Anne Cain. The affirmative debate team composed of Lehman and Meadows went through undefeated and along with Carson-Newman affirmative team who did likewise were acclaimed winners of the tourney. The negative team composed of Muriel Geisler and Phyllis Ann Cain lost two of their rounds. In extra speaking Natalie Yelton won 2nd in after dinner, Dorothy Lehman 2nd in Impromptu, Muriel Geisler 3rd in after dinner, and Jordy Meadows 3rd in poetry reading.

Pres. Lloyd Elected Head Of P.C.U.

Organization Of Colleges, Seminaries

During the past week President Ralph W. Lloyd was notified of his election as president of the Presbyterian College Union for the year 1943-1944. The election was held at the annual meeting of the College Union held in Chicago in February. The Presbyterian College Union consists of the fifty-two colleges and the eleven theological seminaries related to the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The Union meets once each year, usually in January.

A few years ago Dr. Lloyd was president of the Pan-Presbyterian College Union. which includes the institutions mentioned above and those connected with the Southern Presbyterian Church, the United Presbyterian Church, and the Reformed Church.

Welcome Aircrew Students

To you, the members of the Forty-second College Training Detachment, the Student Council wishes to extend its sincerest greetings as you become a part of the Maryville College student body. We would have you know that it is with the utmost willingness and spirit of cooperation that we welcome you to our campus. In behalf of the student body of Maryville College the Student Council hereby declares its intent to cooperate in every way with you and your program. May your stay at Maryville be an enjoyable one and one that you will remember as benificial and worthwhile.

Navy Plans New Reserve System

V-12 Program Absorbs College Students Now In The Reserve Corps

The new Navy College Training Program will be inaurated about July 1 with the enrollment of students to be selected after tests to be given on or before April 2. The new program, designated as the Navy's V-12 program, will also absorb most of the college students now enlisted in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps with Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard preference, and those who hold student probationary commissions in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Students to be trained under the Navy's College Training Program for general duties will receive one and one-third years of study at colleges and universities under contract to the Navy. This period of training will consist of four terms of college work of 16 weeks duration each. The length of course for students who are in training for specialized service, including chaplain, medical, dental and engineering officer candidates, will vary from six to twelve terms. At the conclusion of their college work, students will take specialized Naval training leading to commissions.

All men accepted for the V-12 program will go on active duty in uniform under military discipline. They will be rated as apprentice seamen, U. S. Naval Reserve.

Qualifying tests to be held on or about April 2 will take place throughout the nation. Students selected on the basis of officer-like qualifications including scores on these tests will be assigned to the Navy College Training Program in two groups. The first group will report to colleges and universities, now being selected by the Navy, on or about July 1, 1943. The second group will report on or about November 1. Another group will report about March 1, 1944, following selection late in 1943.

Only young men who are as yet classified as civilians, that is who are not in any branch of the enlisted reserves, will be eligible to take the April tests. High school or preparatory school graduates who will have attained their seventeenth and not their twentieth birthdays by July 1, 1943, regardless of whether they are presently attending college or not are consequently eligible to take this test.

Theta-Alpha Sigs Present Comedy Friday, March 19

Kennedy and Harned Take Lead Roles In "Arsenic and Old Lace"

"Arsenic and Old Lace," a comedy by Joseph Otto Kesserling, will be presented next Friday evening, March 19 at 8:15 in Voorhees Chapel. This is the annual mid-winter Alpha Sigma-Theta Epsilon presentation. Bette Jean Kennedy and Dorothy Harned will play the leading roles of Abby and Martha Brewster, two slightly insane spinsters. Both of the actresses have had experience in past performances in plays at Maryville. Bette Jean took a leading role in "The Truth About The Blades" last year, and Dorothy was in the recent "Kind Lady" production.

Jordy Meadows and Jack Lippard will supply the romance, in the roles of Elaine Harper and Mortimer Brewster respectively. Jordy was also in "Kind Lady."

Other students in the comedy are: Robert Mair, who will take the part of the Reverend D. Harper; Bill Buford, who will be Teddy Brewster, another member of the "clan"; Bill Ford and Ellis Burcaw, who will portray Officers Klein and Brophy respectively.

Robert Burd will characterize Mr. Gibbs, and Robert Herzberger will take the part of Dr. Einstein. Neil Proffitt, also of "Kind Lady" fame, will play the role of Officer O'Hara. Winton Enloe will be Lieutenant Rooney; and Ed Ballinger will take the part of Mr. Witherspoon.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" takes place in the Brooklyn apartment of the two demented old maids and their equally crazy brother. The three rent a room of their dwelling to a lonely man, whom they immediately put out of his misery and loneliness with the aid of arsenic. This murderous practice continues until thirteen unfortunate victims have been extinguished in similar manners. A seemingly grusome plot has been made into one of the most popular Broadway hits with the aid of witty and well-suited dialogs and acting.

Mrs. Nita E. West, associate professor of dramatic art, will be the director. Mary Dawn Noblitt has been appointed assistant director.

Other members of the business staff have also been named. Alice Mathews is chairman of the publicity. Edward Rowley is the business manager, and Charles Dunning is stage manager. Bette Clevenger and Grace Wakefield will be in charge of the costumes, and Alice Jones is property chairman.

Maryville Is Host To Music Festival

College Faculty Serves As Judges Of Program Events

On last Saturday, March 6, Maryville college was host to music students from the middle section of East Tennessee who participated in the annual Music Festival. Previous to this year there was only one Festival which has been held here several times, but this year due to tire and gas shortage there were three festivals held to encourage and accommodate those participating. These festivals for East Tennessee were held in Chattanooga, Maryville, and Johnson City.

The program began Saturday morning at 9:30 and lasted until 3:00 in the afternoon. There were 45 entries with a total of 61 people taking part. The students ranged in age from 5 to 18 years old.

The events on the program were: piano solo, entered by primary students on up to the musically advanced; violin solo; cornet solo; accordian solo; piano duo; vocal solo and accompaniment; hymn playing; and a rhythm band of fourteen members.

The judges for the festival here were members of the music faculty: Miss Davies, Miss Horne, Miss Cowan, and Mr. Vine. They were assisted by Mr. Grady Cox, Head of Music at Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate, Tennessee and Miss Bernice Cathcart, a recent graduate of Maryville who is now a music teacher in the public schools of Maryville.

Sophomore Reporter Gets Info In Toto, But Not From Mr. Moto

By DOROTHY DICK

There was only one point on which my feminine curiosity wasn't satisfied. I couldn't guess the age of Mr. Baen Chu! And I couldn't ask him either—I didn't have the nerve. So I've decided that by the standard "You're only as old as you think you are" Mr. Baen Chu is very young indeed.

November 1941, a month before Pearl Harbor, Mr. Chu came to America for a stay of 7 or 8 months. Time and circumstance have lengthened his stay here to 16 months. He hopes to return to his native home in June. Speaking of home, we must not overlook his family. He is the only one of three brothers and one sister married. It amuses him that his youngest brother, a government employee, gets the largest salary and his father, a Presbyterian minister who graduated from college and Nanking Unoin Seminary, gets the least. At one time Baen Chu seriously thought of giving up the ministry because of the low financial returns but now, he realizes that happiness and satisfaction mean more than mere salary.

As for his own family, Mr. Baen Chu is quite justifiably proud of his four year old son and seven year old daughter. His wife is very lovely and little Chang-chih (whose name means "toward purity") and tiny Chang-yo— "towards glory"—make an adorable picture for anyone's dresser.

Someone wonderd whether his marriage was arranged by his parents. Baen Chu smiled and said, "No, it was all voluntary. Her father was a friend of my father." So naturally that made them friends too. Her Chinese name is Way-ching-Hsia. Her American

SPEAKS OF TIMELY MATTERS

Senator Crawford, Rep. Nuchols Col. Huddleston, Lieut. Ladd Judge Kramer Share Platform

Governor Prentice Cooper, Jr., chief executive of the state of Tennessee, addressed the student body and the Army Aircrew students last Wednesday morning in chapel. The Aircrew students were special guests in honor of the governor's visit. First Lieutenent Donald B. Ladd, commandant in charge of the detachment at Maryville, was seated on the stage.

President Ralph W. Lloyd presided and introduced the governor and his staff, some of whom are former Maryville students and graduates. Governor Cooper received his B. A. degree from Vanderbilt University in Nashville and his M. A. from Princeton. He received his LI.D. degree from Harvard, and was admitted to the bar in 1922. He participated in the first World War as an officer in the artillary. He takes an active part in the American Legion and is now serving his third term as governor of this state.

The choir sang a special number, "Inflammatus," by Rossini. Marcia Keirn was the soloist and Gordon Stone accompanied the group on the piano.

Gov. Cooper spoke on service in these trying times. His theme was emphasized by the repeated statement, "There is no darkness but ignorance." He said the greatest darkness is not physical but the darkness of the soul. He used the life of the blind Helen Keller as a stirring example of what an individual can do with his resources.

"How can we serve best?" was another pertinent statement from Mr. Cooper. He asserted that this is an age of doing, and he told what women especially can do on the home front to help in the war effort. The girls can help preserve the food supply of the nation, and they can take men's jobs at home. It is not necessary to wear a uniform to help win the war, the governor maintained.

"Keep the light of classical learning burning" to aid our postwar lives. Particular reference was made to the possibility of continuance in education of the classical fields of learning in comparison to advancements in the technical fields. With increased airplane travel there is an increased need of an understanding of technical subjects involved in the mechanics of a plane. Mention was made of how pilots have to be skillfully trained to understand the complicated workmanship of modern airplanes.

Mr. Cooper said the entire nation gets inspiration from colleges like Maryville. He paid tribute to Isaac Anderson, the founder of this institution, and also noted some high points of the school's history. He stated that Maryville's standards are so high that criticism would have difficulty in scaling its walls. This college's general background is typical of the American institution in that it has overcome its many difficulties. "The only darkness is ignorance."

Gov. Cooper spoke of several Maryville students and graduates who have been prominent in state and national affairs. M. John C. Crawford, Jr., State Senator from this district, is a Maryville graduate. The same applies to Mr. Thomas Nuchols, a member of the House of Representatives from Blount County. Col. A. D. Huddleston, a former student, is regional supervisor of the Aluminum Company of America, the largest in the world. Mr. Russell R. Kramer is chairman of the executive committee of the state Democratic committee. State Attorney General Roy H. Beeler is a Maryville graduate of the class of 1906. James Hardin is also a graduate, and Justice Rutledge of the Su-

Freshmen Debaters To Participate In Knoxville Tourney

Five Colleges To Be Entered In Annual Tournament

Next Saturday, March 20, the freshman debate team, coached by Professor Verton M. Queener, professor of history, will journey to Knoxville to participate in the annual tournament held in the Whittle Springs Hotel. The tournament is under the direction and sponsorship of Dr. Queener. Because of transportation difficulties it is still rather uncertain as to whether all the schools invited can take part in the debates.

Teams have been chosen by Dr. Queener as follows: affirmative, women, Marinell Ross, Maryville; and Dorothy Dick, Hanover, Pa. The men's affirmative is composed of Tom Smith and Bob Barker, both of Maryville. The women's negative team consists of Betty Lou McCoy, Endicott, New Jersey and Helen Marie Wilson of Erie, Pennsylvania. Ralph Sawmiller of Delphos, Ohio and Byron Sprague form the men's negative team.

The teams who expect to attend the tournament this year are Carson-Newman, Virginia Intermont, Tennessee Wesleyan, and Jennings-Bryan. Last year Mars Hill, Carson-Newman, East Tennessee Teachers, Hiwassee, and Virginia Intermont debated on March 21 in Knoxville.

The question on which the freshman teams have been working is the same as that of the varsity, resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent federal union with the power to tax and regulate commerce, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements, to maintain a police force and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union.

The freshman debaters were chosen at the end of last semester in tryouts judged by Dr. E. R. Hunter, professor of English, Dr. Verton M. Queener, and Professor David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education. Mr. Archibald Pieper, assistant professor of political science, who has since gone into the U. S. Marine Corps and is located at Parris Island, one of the principal marine centers, coached the freshmen who were interested in debate last semester. They received one hour credit for taking one class a week and debating in the tryouts.

LETS DO IT

Somewhere in the third chapter of one of the unspellable books of the Bible it says that there is a time for this and a time for that, and elsewhere in that same book is a reference to the amount of time a man should devote to labor and intellectual pursuits. Then there is the old, old saying which we first heard our old Dutch Grandmammy utter as she whistled throug her upper plate, to wit: "All work and no play makes Jacob a dullard." We have long been exponents of that group of toilers upward through the night who are so much admired publicly by the scolars and instructors of institutions of higher learning, but we have also, on occasion, taken time out for moments of unhampered diversion from the daily grind—even winding up one evenings festivities by a jaunt to town. There has been proposed a plan rather recently which, if adopted by the college authorities, would make it possible for students to take Friday evenings off from the usual routine and venture into town or elsewhere, subject to certain restrictions of course, which we would like to endorse as a sound project, designed to fill a need which has long been felt here among the student body as a whole, but more especially by the women. Aside from offering an opportunity to get away from the same old four walls, this plan will take some of the pressure off of the much-harried social committee which has been operating under somewhat of a strain of late, what with reduced capital and the ordinary structural limitations of the campus facilities. We're for it.

For the first and last words look at the cadets —or are we being too slow as usual. Perchance yuo have all looked many, many times. Anyhow those fellows are going to be pretty important around here for some time to come. And there is something to the fact that much feminine morale is being lifted sky-high. Quarantine will be over soon; so will appear inevitable "Hands off—he's mine. I saw him first."

There's always gossip that dosen't happen. Take Art Bushing. He was supposed to go to the army all of a sudden. We don't know what happened, but he isn't going. Maybe the Army changed it's mind. It has happened before. There is the sad, sad case of Jeannie McCutcheon, Yesterday she was going home for a whole week, and so was He. But then, the hard-hearted officer cancelled His furlough. Tough luck, Jeannie. And should we say ditto to Art— or are congratulations in order?

And how do you think March will go out? Like a Lamb?

If you want a floor waxed just call on Alice Jones or Bette Jeanne Kennedy. They'd be only too glad to oblige. And if you want to take a gander at some of their work, just rush over to the Bartlett gym and look at one corner of the floor. It also serves as a mirror.

And have you heard???? Phyllis Ann Cain got all dressed up in a red dress. She was going to floor some of the judges at the debate tournament. But at 4:00 in the morning her eyes just aren't what they should be, and she discovered that at that horrible hour she had grabbed one blue shoe and one black one Grrrrrr!

We're awfully sorry to have to say s'long to Bob Bayliss. So is Little McCutcheon, but there is still hope.He might get sent back to Maryville Oh joy!

Betty Winton's man is definitely on the glamourous side. Wouldn't it be lovely to have something like that to show off?

SWAN SONG

The last time this column went to press, young Lochinvar Huber from West Jersey (Young Republican's Club, Passaic) leaped into the old breech and expressed himself on the prerogatives of citizenship at Maryville College which, of course, means that he mentioned the aeolian student council, that VOX POP of the campus, and some recently suggested changes in its organization and purposes; he ended his columnizing with a "let's do it—let's do it now" theme to the accompaniment of flag waving and bugle-blaring.

If there are no major objections form either party involved in this question, I should like to use Bob's column of two weeks ago as a springboard preface to a few remarks and take off into the rarified atmosphere of this controversy from a slightly different angle, Timers ready?

First, that we may all understand exactly where we stand, I would like to cast an arrow (synthetic rubber) of condemnation and an arched eyebrow at the student council for not having taken a stand publicly in this matter of a "recent dormitory disturbance" which was heard the length of Broadway (Maryville) and in the outlying sections of our quiet little community. And, unless it be treason, I would like to suggest to the "powers which be", involved in the administration of justice and maintenance of discipline, that the present methods are highly ineffective and calculated to result in anything but mutual confidence between the students and faculty or devotion to duty on the part of the students.

No student dormitory resident dare assume any responsibility for the safe and sane conduct of his fellow residents so long as his knowledge of what his next door peers are doing or have done is considered by the dean of student's office to be rightfully the property of that office, lock stock and barrel. Under the present high-minded method of gathering evidence a man is made to feel that his first duty is to these exalted inquisitors and that any consideration of his fellow-travellers on the road to higher learning is blasphemy and deserving of prosecution under seven kinds of criminal law.

It is my candid opinion that dormitory disturbances will continue unabated so long as the present practice of dealing with such matters as followed and boys remain boys. Possibly the best thing, from one point of view, which could have happened in this recent case would have been for the authorities never to have discovered just whose hand it was that lighted the match, for once they had discovered that information, they had only one course of action open, and that was the one taken. They were bound to this by an agreement with the county police. But what was this course? Your guess is as good as mine; all I know is that there are certain vacancies here and there where there used to be boys, which sort of remedy seems to me to be very much like the suggestion that the town at the foot of the cliff over which so many autoists had unwittingly plunged to their deaths purchase an ambulance to cart away the victims. Iwould make so bold as to suggest, as you probably would, that a stout fence be erected at the danger point on the cliff top.

The kind of fence which might be given a whirl here, and which it would seem that my friend Huber as well as certain of the college faculty profess to endorse, is that type of student government which really governs—which has certain powers, among them the power to deal with all such disciplinary cases, making recommendations to the faculty from the findings of their own investigations. If such were the case, students would readily feel that it was their responsibility to see that the necessary evidence be presented, and to see that it be presented to the council in such a manner that no more than one person need know or even care about whence the information came. When all dormitory residents come to know that such an arrangement has been set up, the feeling that anything can be "gotten away with" will no longer be a reality, and peace and quiet and no more destruction of property will.

Under such a situation, if there were any criticism offered by the student body as to the kind of action taken in a disciplinary case, it would be directed at, and ultimately borne by the collective backs of the student council; but, it seems from here, that such criticism would not be forthcoming, for the council are the mouders of student opinion and are the student body's peers.

What we do today is more than likely to inspire or indict us tomorrow.

Just in case you didn't get to see Mary Morgan while she was here, she was! From Sunday until Tuesday, and it was nice just to have her around for awhile again.

In spite of the fact that we officially buried the moron who slouched around this column, Dr. Hunter knows some new jokes. Ask him about the moron with the plaster between his toes. That's absolutely all we have to say.

There's more of this fluid weather where the other came from.

Anybody interested in nylon had better rush to see Ed Rowley. From what we hear he's practically running a Black Market. That is—one on a very small scale.

Spring is in the air, and so is bridge. Pearsons practically has a monopoly on After Dinner parties. And what fun. If you want to get a membership card just see Johnnye Gudel, Becky Jones Willie Williams, or Stevie Boretsky.

Ginny Williams has a new rogue's gallery. Bill Sweeney in his uniform. Bill Sweeney in his uniform, and Bill Sweeney in his uniform. Cute uniform! And Bill, as always, definitely nice.

The Chatterbox is going to wax strong in some new culinary efforts. Ask Francis for what's new on Monday and see what you get.

Now why don't you grab a date for "Arsenic——". And on your way to the play, don't forget to bring your cyanide.!

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By "By" SPRAGUE

Shakespere Drama Will Be Given At Commencement

Shakespeare's pastoral romance, "Much Ado About Nothing", has been selected as the commencement play. This play, which will be given during commencement week, is presented annually by seniors and other students on the campus. The presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing" will be the third time a work of Shakespeare has been presented on Maryville College campus. The play will be directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West with the assistance of Betty Clevenger and Alice Jones.

Most of the cast has been selected, but a few more members are yet to be added. Students who have been selected are: Jack Jones, Bill Buzby, Ben Lynt, Hal Lloyd, Clyde Brown, John Scott, Tom Smith, Bob Swartzwalder, Mary Grace Hall, Alice Mathews, Carolyn Harper, and Mary Dawn Noblit.

SPANISH CLUB

Members of the Spanish Club were entertained by Cuban songs as recorded by Ernesto Lecuona at their regular meeting Thursday evening March 11.

The club has recently adopted a constitution which was ratified at the meeting. The members are to be chosen for their interest as shown in attendance, in cooperativeness and in the performance of duties assigned. The purpose of the Spanish club is to stimulate an interest in Spanish culture. Any students of the language or others interested in Spanish are urged to attend the meetings.

name is Elizabeth or as Baen Chu said "Betty".

Did you notice his dimples—there's one on each side. Perhap the only way Mr. Baen Chu fitted into my ideas of the Chineses was in respect to his eyes. I always thought orientals had black eyes and his certainly bore out my theory! And don't ever let anyone kid you about the Chinese sense of humor! I asked him if anything particularly funny had happened to him in America, whereupon he laughed and laughed. Do you think he would tell me? Instead he said, "It is what you call funny, but be better not told. I find you a milder one." I'm still wondering what was so funny.....

Did anyone ask him if he were a laundryman or a cook? That's his pet peeve. Said he, "It's not that I think it not good to be a laundryman or cook, but all Chinese are not cook or laundryman, just like all "American are not all cowboys with big hat and gun."

Like every true American, Baen Chu vows he could LIVE on American ice cream. He likes all kinds of cheese except cottage cheese, "that he does see nothing in."

Baen Chu did not come to America with no knowledge afore hand Six uncles and numerous friends who had made trips to America supplied him with a lot of second hand information. Nevertheless, our "Dutch system" was completely new and strange to Baen Chu. THAT expression rather confused ME, until he went on to explain what our "Dutch system" is. Not so long ago, an American friend invited Baen Chu to go to the movies. On arriving at the theatre his friend asked Baen Chu to take care of his wife while he bought the tickets. Imagine his amazement when his friend came back with only TWO tickets, and neither one of the "Live and learn—and be prepared!" Incidently, the movie he saw was Fantasia, and he says it was the best one he ever saw in spite of the fact that he had to pay his own way!

I asked him if it was very hard to think in English. His answer was that before he had mastered English it was necessary to translate THAT back into English! Cheer up you language students, you may be able to do it yet!

Although Baen Chu likes to play basketball, soccer, and vollyball, he can't play American football or box. As proof of his athletic ability, Baen Chu was physical education director at his college alma mater, Hanghow University. "But look now," he says, "'gained 40 lb. since gave up job as 'fizal edication'."

There is only about one way in which Baen Chu differs from Americans in likes and dislikes. He cares nothing for the comic strips and he dosen't like the sports news. I secretly think it's because he dosen't catch on to our slang and sports jargon!

Just like all American men, Baen Chu pokes fun at our perfectly lovely headgear. Women in China never wear hats, but here as he expressed it, "They like them high like smoke stacks, or flat as plates, or whole birds on top, or baskets of fruit." I think he secretly likes them—but of course that's the feminine viewpoint.

Baen Chu admited that this was his first stay in a girls dorm. He liked it, it was so nice and and quiet—imagine that. His only objection was the hour we—or most of us—get up. He said he was a night worker—never going to bed before 12 or 1. Then, he likes to sleep late. Imagine my surprise when he told me what he meant by sleeeping late. "Oh, I sleep to 8 o'clock or maybe 7:30. THERE you people who CAN'T get to chapel before 8:11 because it's too early.

Our American cities don't suit Baen Chu at all! As for our villages, they're all just one main street with the same kind of shops lining every one. Baen Chu says Maryville's no exception but he does like the campus very much.

Like many average Americans, Baen Chu feels that a world federation is not possible yet. "The idea, the truth of it is good, but different backgrounds, and—oh—he was having trouble in expressing himself—cultures and lives, they are against it. The time will come when we grow into federation. But now we need more cooperation among nations of world."

After this delightful chat with Mr. Chu, I for one am ready to mentally toss a lot of my crackbrained ideas of the Chinese out the back door. Educated, Christian Chineses aren't so very differian Chinese aren't so very differand living, and liking and disliking, after all.

SCOTSPORTS

By TED PRATT

ECHO SPORTS

CONGRATS TO A REAL WRESTLING TEAM!

The 1943 Scottie Wrestlers brought another season to a successful close with their double-win down Georgia way. They repeated their previous performance over the Ramblin' Wreck of Georgia Tech with a 23-11 victory. On the following afternoon Woody Everett led his victory-minded grunters against the highly-touted Georgia Pre-Flight team. Again the Scots came through in traditional style—nosing out the Navy men 17-14. Only the fighting skill and the condition of the Maryville wrestlers gave the Scots victory in the gruelling match with the tough Fliers from Athens.

Again it was the heavy boys who chalked up the vital points. Captain Joe Suitor, whose best efforts netted him only a decision over his double-jointed Techman when the Jackets wrestled here, went to work and accomplished a spectacular 50 second pin over the same opponent in Atlanta. Mac Wilson and Lloyd Anderson contributed a total of 14 points during the two-day trip, and frosh Bill Thompson turned in a double-win, receiveing a forfeit from the Tech Jackets. Every Scot did his best—a fact borne out by the results of the matches. The wins gave Maryville a total of five wins against one defeat for the season, a record that fully comes up to the high standing of Maryville mat teams. Coach Woody Everett and every member of the squad deserve much credit and prise for their hard training, conscientious work, and successful season.

TENNIS AND BASEBALL—YES AND NO!

The Faculty Committee on Athletics at a meeting Thursday morning discussed the possibility of spring sports for the College. It was decided that Maryville would try to continue the sport of tennis providing an acceptable schedule can be arranged. The outlook for baseball, however, is much darker. Crowded thletic facilities and lack of time and material were cited as definite arguments against the continuation of baseball. the difficulty of securing a schedule was also a factor in the decision. There may be a possibility of some local baseball, however, if students or pre-cadets find the time.

Tennis, on the other hand, seems plausible. With five lettermen returning and an adequate supply of tennis balls, the sport has a fair chance of continuing successfully. The schedule necessarily will be limited by transportation, but it is believed that a number of colleges are planning to maintain the racket-sport.

PE IN THE SPRINGTIME

Plans are being made for extensive use of outdoor facilities for physical education. The migration has been promised "as soon as weather permits". There will be some cross-country running, confined mostly to the college woods. It it also hoped that an obstacle course can be constructed. The course will be located on the athletic fields and will include a number of obstacles. A three-foot hurdle, a fence vault, wall climb, balancing test and a 10 or 12 foot ladder will probably be included. The course is designed primarily to build up endurance and speed.

HERE AND THERE

Western Kentucky Teachers, St. John's, Toledo, Manhattan, Rice, Creighton, and Fordham have accepted bids to the National Invitational Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden. The Tourney starts on the 18th of March.

Wouldn't Yale's Alan Ford who cracked the 100 yard dash in 50.6 be a good match for "our own" Lt. Ladd! We'd pick the Lieutenant by a "lenght."

Just for the benefit of Ralph Parvin and others, Cadet Jim Sturgis at Iowa Navy Pre-Flight School performed 2003 consecutive sit-ups. And he couldn't even do FIFTY when he joined the Navy!

Nine Wrestlers Awarded Letters

The Athletic Board of Control met Tuesday, March 9, for the purpose of awarding athletic letters to the following members of this year's wrestling team: Captain Joe Suitor, Trevor Williams, William Thompson, Ed Ballinger, Robert Morton, Lloyd Anderson, Mack Wilson, and Ed Wilson.

The name of Leslie Rock was given honorable mention as a candidate for a letter. The committee also approved a recommendation for the awarding of an intramural letter to Oliver Van Cise, Senior Manager of the Intramural Staff last semester.

Annual Festival Begins At 7:30

The annual intramural festival, featuring the finals in the ping-pong foul shooting and basketball tournaments gets under way tonight when the Varsity Outcasts, independent league champs and Alpha Sig, leaders in the club league, tangle in the battle for the college championship. The foul shooting finals, including the sharpshooters who qualified in Thursday's elimination contest, and the ping pong finals will both be played.

The rest of the program will include a boxing exhibition between Jim Hodges and Wally Easter, a wrestling match between unnamed contestants and a waterpolo game between two teams of picked swimmers.

Gudel Wins Aerial Darts; Baseball, Swimming Next

Final playoff for the aerial dart championship between the WAACS and WAVES of the girls' point system was on Tuesday, March 9, in the Bartlett gymnasium. John nye Gudel, winner from the WAAC team, beat Nancy Russell, her WAVE opponent, in contested matches with 15-5 and 15-10 score.

Gudel went to the finals by beating her fellow-contender Stevie Boretskq in the last rounds of the inter-team tournament on Thursday, March 4. Russell defeated Betsy Watkins on the same date to become champion of the WAVES and runner-up for the championship. The two teams had been practicing for only a few days; thirty-two girls entered the tourney, eight teams from each side.

The next sport to be taken up by the point system athletics is baseball. Practice, which will be inside the gymnasium until warmer weather, is to be from March 9 through the 23.

Swimming examinations will be March 23. All WAACS and WAVES are required to take this test which includes everything from treading water to jack-knife dives. Fifty is the highest possible number of points to be awarded for swimming.

Scotties Close Successful Season With Double-Win Over Tech, Pre-Flight

Wood Everett's Wrestlers Trim Yellow Jackets 23 to 11; Edge Georgia Naval Cadets By 17 to 14 Score At Athens. Ga.

By FRANK BRADFORD

At last the day came; Thursday morning dawned bright and clear The day the wrestlers had been looking forward to because they were making their first and only wrestling trip of the year. They were going to Atlanta, Ga. and to Navy Pre-Flight at Athens. It seems as if dinner time would never come, but it eventually did. The boys were just a bit nervous and jumpy, and didn't have much appetite. They met in front of Bartlett Hall, surrounded by a few loyal supporters who were there to send them off.—Miss Heron, Mac Wilson's girl Lois, Bill Thompson's Betty, and her roommate, Ruth. A certain boy in one of the light weight classes kept looking toward Baldwin for his send-off committee but she had an Organic Test (so she said) and couldn't see him off.

At 1:15, they left. Captain Joe Suitor was at the wheel of the station wagon, with Ed Ballinger and Budde Engle in the front. Mac Wilson, Lloyd Anderson and Frank Bradford in the middle, and Bill Thompson, Trevor Williams, and Chuck Dunning in the back. The rest of the boys were to get up at 6:00 o'clock Friday morning to leave for Atlanta. Coach Woody Everett, Bob Schwartzwalder, Bob Morton, Ed Wilson, Wilbur Chapman and Coach Honaker filled the other car. The first bunch pulled into Atlanta at 6:45 p. m. The route followed was from Maryville to Etowah, to Benton, to Ocoee and into Georgia. From there to Chatworths, and on into Atlanta. Budde Engle, the trusty trainer, went to the gym and found out that the team was supposed to stay in one of the biggest hotels in Atlanta, the Hotel Georgian Terrace

Incidentally, all the way down every time the boys passed a big bill board advertising some hotel they would try to guess which one they would stay in. Chuck Dunning was the one that picked the hotel that the boys stayed in. And what a hotel—like a palace. Several of the boys who had never been in a hotel before were amazed at the elaborateness. The wrestlers had a suite and rooms on the sixth floor overlooking the colorful street. In one room Captain Joe Suitor, Bill Thomposn, and Ed Ballinger spent the night. In the other suite were Trevor Williams, Chuck Dunning, Lloyd Anderson, Mac Wilson, Frank Bradford, and Budde Engle. After a generous supper in the Gray Room of the Hotel, all proceeded across the street to the Fox Theatre to see "Yankee Doodle Dandy", The theatre was even more luxurious than the hotel. For the ceiling a sky with stars that twinkled and big white floating clouds served. The sides of the theater resembled big castle walls with little guard houses at each corner. After the show the boys went back across the street, up to the sixth floor, and to bed. It was difficult to sleep with the city noises, honking of car horns, and street-cars coming and going. But most of them got a good night's sleep, because no one got up until about 9 o'clock. At nine all got up, dressed and went over to the gym to work out and to lose a bit of dressed, and went over to the gym Thompson, Captain Joe Suitor, Ballinger and Bradford had making their weights! After that the team went to a big restaurant and had a big dinner—their last good big meal until after the last match with Navy Pre-Flight. The match with Ga. Tech was to start at four, so the boys went back to their rooms to sleep. At 3:15 the wrestlers got out of bed and went over to the gym where the match was supposed to take place. Before the regular match began there were two exhibition matches. Bob Schwartzwalder lost by decision, and Bob Morton won his by a pin. In the 118 pound division Williams had a tough time with his man. Trevor had to go for two two-minute periods and finally pinned his man in the last minute of the last period. Frank Bradford lost his by a pin in 6:45. Bill Thompson, who has a perfect record for the season, didn't wrestle because Ga. Tech did not have a man in the 135 pound division. Ed Ballinger lost in the 145 pound class by a decision. Then Captain Joe Suitor, 155 pounds, nearly broke a record in pinning his man, It took Joe only 50 seconds to put his man's shoulders to the mat. Woody Everett hold the record with a pin in 40 seconds. Lloyd Anderson who had a hard time keeping his man on the mat because it was much smaller than the one he had been accustomed to, won by a decision. Mac Wilson won his match by a decision. Ed Wilson, Mac Wilson's brother, lost his by a decision. But Maryville won by a score of 23 to 11. After the match the wrestlers had supper and journeyed 70 miles northeast of Atlanta to Athens, Ga. to take on Navy Pre-Flight the next day at three o'clock.

Coach Honaker, Coach Woody Everett, Bob Morton, Bob Schwartzwalder, Ed Wilson and Chapman left Maryville Friday at seven o'clock and got into Atlanta about 12; the wrestling match with Ga. Tech was sceduled at four so the boys had plenty of time to rest before the match. The team left Atlanta about 7:30 and got into Athens around 10:45. The boys stayed in some empty rooms in the barracks. Next morning about 9 o'clock everybody got up and went over to a large gym to work out and loosen up. At the match, the Navy Pre-Flight had no 121 pound man, since the Navy does not allow anybody that light to enlist, so Trevor Williams wrestled in the 128 lb. division and was decisioned. Chuck Dunning wrestled in 135 lb. division and was decisioned. Then Bill Thompson dropped a bombshell in the crowd and started things off by winning his match in the 145 lb. division against a much heavier man. Next Captain Joe Suitor won his match by a pin. Lloyd Anderson took his match. Then Mac Wilson came through with a pin in 5:50 but his man in turn pinned Mac in less time than it took Mac to pin him, so Mac lost his match. Ed Wilson was finally decisioned after going two two-minute extra periods. Bob Morton wrestled exhibition and pinned his man. Maryville won the match 19 to 14. After a big supper in the eating quarters of the Navy the team left at six o'clock and rolled into Maryville at eleven o'clock with no demerits and happy over a clean sweep of the two victories.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By BILL SEGRAVES

INTRAMURAL FESTIVAL TONIGHT

Tonight in Alumni Gym the annual Intramural Festival will begin at 7:30 with Championship playoffs of Intramural Basketball, and Table Tennis. The foul throwing contest between both men and women of the campus, relays between club teams, boxing exhibition, wrestling exhibition, and an exhibition water polo game will be given. The Intramural Festival has always been one of the gala affairs on the Maryville campus. One of last year's high-lights will be remembered as a rough and tumble wrestling match between Al "Tiny Tim" Chambers and George "Man Mountain" Tibbetts. This year more thrills than ever have been promised by the Intrmural staff.

FINAL PLAYOFFS BETWEEN WINNERS OF EACH HALF

Cooties vs. Buckeyes on Thursday.

Buckeyes (having won the above) vs. Alpha Sig on Friday.

The winner of the above will play the Varsity Outcasts tonight at 7:30 at the Festival.

FOUL THROW CONTEST

Twenty-nine boys and four girls entered the Foul Throw contest last Thursday. Two of the four girls qualified for the finals by making 18 out of 25 shots. The four girls who entered the cantest were Margaret Witt, Betty Lou King, Dot Justice, and Sue Clarke. The first two girls named qualified. Nine of the twenty-nine boys qualified. Those making 18 out of 25 were. Don Conkle, Hal Lloyd, and Douglas Roseborough. Those making 19 out of 25 were: Ken Cooper and Wally Easter. Those making 20 out of 25 were: Bob Hunter, Bob Bayless. Wayne Stevens, and Jim Faulkner, the latter who won the Foul Throw last year.

Basketball Playoff Between Buckeyes and Cooties

The Buckeyes barely took the Cooties in what became a scoring duel between Don Conkle of the Buckeyes and Duane Collins of the Cooties. Conkle bagged 12 for in 6 to make their total 18 points. Collins raked up 6 for the Cooties, Dillenor 2, Purvis 4, and Burgreen 4 to make the final score Buckeyes 18, Cooties 16.

Alpha Sig 37, Choir 18

The Alpha Sigmas rolled up another high score to finish a good season, Al Rock led the Alpha Sig scoring with 15 points, G. Rettke got 10, Bill Adams 8 and W. Stevens 4. W. Easter andB. Hunter led the Choir with 5 points each, P. Moehlman raked up 4 and H. Lloyd and G. Winkle each added 2 points.

Athenian 34, "Y" Cabinet 6

The Athenians finished this season with a big 34-6 win over "Y" Cabinet. Bergquist led Athenian with 21 points, while Ted Pratt came through with 8, Hopkins and Crawford 2 each and J. Hodges 1. For the Y Cabinet Art Bushing dropped in 4 and Clyde Brown dropped in 2.

Mudhens 42, Buckeyes 23

With only four men Talbott, Renfro, Mitchell, and Ezell the Mudhens defeated the Buckeyes 42-23. Mitchell led the scoring with 15, Renfro got 12, Ezell 11. and Talbott 8. Don Conkle led the Buckeyes with 10. Sidner 6, Cato 4, and Long 3.

Celtics 18, Ooucasts 19

D. Roseborough and Oliver Spears led the Outcasts in their defeat of the Celtics with 13 points A. Spears, Evans, and Enloe got 2 each. I. G. Breazeale led the Celtics with 10, Pepper dropped in 5, Sawmiller 2 and Art Miller 1.

Gladiators 10, Cooties 13

The Cooties eased out the Gladiators by only 3 points with M. Purvis and L. Dillener getting 4 each, Collins 3, and P. Kolter and G. Paul 1 each. For the Gladiators Bill Buford led with 8 and Bob Francis scored their other 2 points.

Invincibles 18, Ringers 8

The powerful Ringers were overrun by the Invincibles in their last game of the season by a score of 18-8. F. Still led the Invincibles with 6 points, and Seel, Gualtieri, and Pope each rung up 4. Peter Van Blarcom, who led the Ringers all season in scoring, again led with 6 points. Babe Williamson played a fast game for the Ringers.

Jr. Commandos 31,Supermen 10

The Junior Commandos again raided the Supermen. This time the final score was 31-10. Bob Moore led the Junior Commandos with 17 points. F. A. Green came across with 8, Jack Lippard 4, and Bob Herzberger 2. Bill "at Athenian tonight" Buzby led the Supermen with 6 points and Hubert Rust raked up 4.

Table Tennis Singles

In the table tennis singles it looks like a close race between Bill Evans, Jim Faulkner, Bob Huber, Bill Buford and Ted Pratt as we write this column and by tonight the field will be narrowed down to only two. Ted Pratt (last years runner-up) took Gualtieri, Pemberton and met Bill Buford for the semi-finals. Gualtieri had taken Conkle and S. Pemberton had beaten both Scapellati and W. Roberson. Bill Buford had beaten Bob Bayless, John Kirstein and Wally Easter. Bayless had beaten Roberts and Ezell who had beaten B. Seel. Bob Huber has won over Bill Adams, Purvis, and Parvin. Adams had won over Rowley who had beaten Stevens. Purvis had beaten O. Pemberton. Evans has won over Brand who had beaten Segraves. Faulkner has won over Ford and Scott. Ford had beaten McGarify. The match tonight between the winners of the semi-finals will determine the college Champion.

Water Polo

For the next few weeks the talk of the Intramurally-minded will be Water Polo. Several teams have already been made up and the sport promises to be one of the most popular games in the Intramural program. Swimming as an Intramural sport will be given on a Saturady night sometime in the future, the date has not been set as yet.

Softball

Softball teams are being signed up already for the Softball tournament which begins immediately following Water Polo. We advise everyone to get eligibility blanks from the Intramural Staff and get up a team right away.

This talk is in preparation for the trip the club will make to a local greenhouse on Saturday, March 20. Dr. Green will accompany the club on the trip and will explain the greenhouse to them. Club members have been reading about greenhouses and will give brief summaries of their outside readings at the meeting Monday night.

The club will next take up a bird project. Rose Pinneo spoke at the last meeting on "Taxonomy."

Council Begins Work On "Town Night" Plan

At their regular meeting on March 1st., the members of the Student Council discussed the pending proposal of a "Town Night". The plan was referred to a committee which was to write-up the proposal and submit it to the Student-Faculty Senate and Executive Council for approval. The Council also discussed the student body constitution and decided that sufficient interest had not been shown after the two-week criticism of it in the ECHO, it warranted no immediate action. It was the attitude of the Council that the constitution has not had sufficient time to prove its worth and that it should be maintained in order for it to prove its workableness. After several reports the Council adjourned.

The next meeting of the Council will be Monday, March 15 at 8:00 o'clock. It is to be an important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Muriel Geisler, Newly Elected YWCA President, Appoints Cabinet for '44

Installation Of New Officers To Be At Candle-Light Service

Muriel Geisler is the newly elected president of the Young Women's Christian Association for next year. Muriel succeeds Jean Patterson, who has served in that office this year.

Other recently elected officers are: Ruth Meineke, vice-president; Mary Evelyn Waisman, secretary; Johnnye Gudel, treasurer; Agnes Peterson, Nu Gamma Chairman.

The new YWCA cabinet has been announced by Muriel. Committee chairmen and their duties are listed below. Artist Series, Rachel Galbreath. This girl will represent YW on the artist series committee of which Mr. George W. Howell is the chairman. Likewise, YM has a representative. Athletics, Betsy Burleigh. This committee is responsible for the Fall and Spring hikes and for working with the point system in arranging the Y tennis tournament.

Barnwarming, Virginia Cain and Peggy Caldwell. These girls plan the annual barnwarming program. Devotions, Ethel Hanners and Ruth Anderson. Cooperation with YMCA in planning the weekly student prayer meetings held in Bartlett hall each Wednesday evening and arranging the prayer meetings held in the girls' dormitories is the work of this committee. House, Marion Garvin and Jeanne Bellerjeau. These girls are responsible for taking care of the YW rooms. "M" Book, Virginia Cain. This person cooperates with the editor and business managers of the "M" Book, who are chosen from the YM.

Mission, Mary Metcalf and Louise Henry. Y maintains mission work with the children at two different missions nearby. These girls are the ones who go out to conduct recreation and Bible story hours in the missions. Music, Dorothy Lehman. This person is responsible for obtaining all people who take part in the weekly worship service as musicians and song leaders.

Orphanage, Hope Pleyl. Each week this person goes out to the orphanage to conduct a play and Bible hour. She is also responsible for the Christmas party which is given on the campus each year for the children at the orphanage. Program, Marion Stout and Helen Anderson. The program chairmen are responsible for arranging each weekly meeting and certain special meetings such as the consecration service held in the woods each fall.

Social, Lucile Gaultney and Jane Hays. This committee is responsible for all of YW's social functions. The biggest job is working in connection with Mrs. Nita West on the production of May Day. World Fellowship, Ruth Case. This person keeps YW in contact with various inter-racial groups by correspondence and is responsible for arranging the programs of an interracial nature which are held in cooperation with nearby colleges.

Publicity, June Gowanlocke. The posters which are displayed each week on the Y bulletin board are the products of the work of this committee.

President Muriel Geisler has been active in YWCA work during her college career. She is a Bible major from Kissimmee, Fla. Ruth Meineke, vice-president has also served on the cabinet before.

Installation of the new officers and cabinet members will be in the form of a candlelight service in the YW rooms. The exact time will be announced at a later date.

Theta-Alpha Sig Give Mid-Winter For Full House

Yesterday evening, Friday, March 19, the comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" was presented in Voorhees chapel by Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies.

William Buford, who played the part of Teddy Brewster, Fred DePue playing Jonathon Brewster, and Bette Jan Kennedy, interpreting the role of Abby Brewster, were outstanding in the production. Oscar Lippard and Jordy Meadows ably played their parts as an unusual engaged couple, and Dorothy Harned and Robert Herzberger were equally excellent.

Also included in the cast were Robert Mair, Ellis Burcaw, William Ford, Robert Burd, Neil Proffitt, Winton Enloe, and Edwin Ballinger.

The play was enthusiastically applauded by the audience which completely filled the chapel. Appreciative ovation greeted the actors as they appeared for a curtain call. An amusing part of this reappearance was the spectacle of the thirteen corpses.

Mrs. Nita E. West, assistant professor of dramatic art, was the director, with Mary Dawn Noblit as assistant. Mrs. West was presented with a bouquet of roses at the conclusion of the play.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" is a murder-myster-comedy and involves the lives of the Brewsters, one of whom, Teddy, is insane, believing himself to be Teddy Roosevelt. The two old aunts made a practice of killing men, and are

ALPHA SIGMA MEETS

Alpha Sigma is making a membership drive. All old members are asked to come to the meetings, and new members will be accepted.

A musical program is being planned for a near future meeting.

Friday night in the chapel the joint societies of Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon presented their annual mid-winter play, "Arsenic and Old Lace," a comedy, written by Joseph Otto Kesserling.

Student Council Approves Proposal For Town Night

Monday evening, March 15, the Student Council held its regular meeting. The main business of the meeting was the "Town Night" proposal, which was approved by the council after a prolonged discussion. The plan is one providing for special privileges for students to visit town on specified night. The proposal is now up for approval of the Executive Council of the Faculty and will probably soon be printed in the ECHO in complete form. There was an attendance at the meeting of eighteen representatives.

Freshman Debate Trip Cancelled

The Freshman Debate team will be unable to participate in the planned tournament because of the decision of several schools not to enter. In place of the scheduled debate, the team will debate local high schools.

Campus Buildings Undergo Improvements

The coming of army troops to Maryville campus is having an effect on more that the schedules—the campus and the buildings are also undergoing changes.

Mr. Louis A. Black, director of maintenance, stated that this past week Bartlett hall has been the scene of various plumbing activity, the result of which will be fifteen new bathroom fixtures.

In Anderson, night classes have created a demand for better lighting, five rooms on the second and third floors of the annex are being refitted with electrical units for night study. Five other Anderson rooms are to be refixed in two weeks.

The steps at the side of Pearsons Dining hall are also a recent addition.

Mr. E. C. Brown, engineer, reports that fourteen dining room tables have bee remodeled with linoleum tops, to match those already in use in the dining hall.

New cabinets are being made for the hospital and first aid department.

In preparation for the advent of warmer wather the tennis courts are also being improved.

Theatre Groups Enacts Three Plays

Experimental Theatre To Arrange Monthly Dramatic Performances

A scene from "The Importance of Being Earnest", "The Florist Shop," and "Overtones"—two one act plays—were presented by the Experimental Theatre in Bartlett auditorium, Friday, March 12, at 7 p. m.

The portion of "The Importance of Being Earnest" given was the humorous scene which evolved when Jack Worthing approached Lady Bracknell to ask her daughter's hand in marriage. Thelma Richardson took the part of the very particular mother, while Neil Proffitt was the suitor.

The plot of "Florist's Shop" revolved about Maude, the bookkeeper in the shop, who tries to hasten the marriage of a couple who have been engaged for fifteen years. Betty Clevenger played Maude. Ben Lynt was Mr. Slovsky, the owner of the shop. Mary Grace Hall played the role of Miss Wells. Bill Ford was scheduled to play the part of Mr. Jackson, her fiance. Bill was unable to take his part because of illness; Alice Jones who directed the play, dressed as a boy and took his place.

Nancy Russell directed "Overtones." This unusual play was built around the conflict between two women in love with the same man. The cast made up of the outer self and the inner self of each woman. was played by Mary Dawn Noblit. Her inner self was Hetty, taken by Caroline Harper. Dorothy Toomy took the role of Margaret, the other woman. Jean Batchelor was Maggy, Margaret's inner self.

This was the first production of the Experimental Theatre this semester. The group was started last year by Miss Evelyn Seedorf. This year, the work has continued under the direction of Mrs. Anna Rene Hamilton, instructor in dramatic art. The members rehearse three afternoons each week in Bartlett auditorium. Although most of the group are taking private instruction in dramatic art, anyone who is interested in trying to act may turn his name in to Mrs. Hamilton.

About 25 people are in the Theatre now, and they plan to give similar programs once a month.

Talented Group Is Lauded By Critics; Town Hall Performers

SCHILLER, PIANIST

Repertoire Includes Bach, Hadyn, Mozart, Modern Composers

Harry Farbman and his Farbman String Symphony will be featured on the third Artists' Series program of the year next Saturday, March 17. The concert will begin at 8:15 P. M. in Voorhees Chapel.

Edith Schiller, young American pianist, will appear on the program as guest soloist. Miss Schiller has also appeared with the String Symphony at Town Hall.

The Farbman String Symphony made its debut in New York in December, 1940. The next day's Metropolitian press lauded the concert without end, and critics and the music-loving public immediately placed the ensemble on the list of valuable additions to America's musical life.

In October, 1941 the orchestra made its second Town Hall concert. Their fine appearance, technical finish and perfection of their ensemble work, and the vitality of their performance won the "rave" notices from the critics.

To their leader, Harry Farbman, goes the credit for bringing together a talented group of instrumentalists. Credit also belongs to him for drilling them in the niceties of ensemble playing and welding them into a highly coordinated orchestra.

Classicists such as Bach, Haydn and Mozart form but a small part of the String Symphony's repertoire. A beautiful symphony by Mendelssohn—hitherto unperformed in America—and the popular "Serenade" by Tschaikowsky are among the group's listed romantic

Law Club Plans For Mock Trial

Bob Huber Elected Secretary-Treasurer

Law Club held its first meeting of the semester Thursday, March 18, at 6:45 in Alpha Sigma hall in Anderson. Margaret Clippinger, senior from Atlanta, Georgia, presided over the meeting. Robert F. Huber, a sophomore from Passaic, New Jersey, who was sergeant-at arms, was chosen to fill the office of secretary-treasurer left vacant by the graduation of Pat Carter.

Plans were discussed for the coming mock trial to be held some time in the near future, the definite time to be arranged by the Social Committee. Malcolm Thompson and Robert F. Huber will be the lawyers presenting one side of the case, and on the other side will be Lawrence Sthreshley and Paul Jamarik, both juniors from Hopewell, Virginia. There is to be a special meeting next Thursday evening, March 25, to make more definite arrangements for the mock trial.

It was also decided at this meeting to hold regular meetings twice a month for the discussion of pertinent problems which are to interest the members.

Beethoven Played In Disc Club

Beethoven's Violin Concerto in D major was presented at the Disc Club Thursday, March 18, in the Fine Arts Studio with Catherine Crews as commentator.

A Special Easter program will be held April 1 in which Alice Mathews will read poetry. "Death and Transfiguration" by Richard Strauss is amoing the selections to be played.

Dr. Walp of U.T. To Speak at IRC

Topic To Be On Post War Peace

A week from Monday night, on March 29, the International Relations Club is sponsoring a meeting whose speaker will be Dr. Paul K. Walp of the University of Tennessee faculty.

Dr. Walp, whose field at U. T. is political science, is executive secretary in Tennessee of the Organization to Study the Organization of Peace. This is a nationwide commission, the agency which has done as much study and which contains as experienced a personnel as any other organization in the country. In February the Commission published its Third Report which has caused considerable attention. The subject of Dr. Walp's talk will be the activities and progress of this work.

Anyone who is interested is invited to attend this meeting which will be held in Barlett hall at 7:00.

Library Receives Books Pertaining To War Situation

Last week several new books were added to the college library. All of the books are of present-day interest and are recommended by well-known book sellers.

Six of the books that pertain to the present war are as follows: They Were Expendable by W. L. White; Flight to Arras by Antoine de Saint-Exupery; Sabatoge by Michail Sayers and Albert E. Kahn; We're in this with Russia by Wallace Carroll; and Report from Tokyo by Ambassador Joseph C. Grew. A copy of The Beveridge Report, which is a British report on social security and post-war problems, is included. Several new books ordered by the International club have also arrived. These books were placed on the shelves on the reading room Thursday..

Tusculum President To Be Chapel Speaker

Rev. John McSween, D. D., president of Tusculum College in Greeneville will speak at the chapel exercises Wednesday March 24 at 8:00.

Dr. McSween was president of a Presbyterian college in South Carolina before coming to Tusculum last summer. He has served as a pastor in the Southern Presbyterian church.

Be It Ever So Humble, There's No Place Like Staten Island

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Buildings, buildings, our campus is resplendent with them, tall ones, short ones, wide ones, log ones, wooden ones, brick ones. It is these noble edifices in which we eat, sleep, study, (Well, it gets cold outside, and there's always convention you know.) Let us, however pass on to view their more lofty aspects. Consult college catalogue for a bird's eye view.

Anderson: To thee we trip gaily every month to pay our bills or to have a wee visit, inspired by a wee slip, handed to us by a wee girl in the wee hours of the morning. (Chapel is at eight o'clock now.) In this place also, art students draw Charlie. 'Nuf said.

Voorhees chapel: This is indeed a romantic building. What with the sounds of voices, violins, pianos (I don't know the names of any other instruments besides the harmonica—so you carry on from here) issuing from its lower regions; what with students of the theatre murdering people in the chapel (Arsenic and Old Lace is that scary); what with the mighty away upstairs, live and let live has come into its own at Maryville.

Thaw: Classrooms and the library, both make up the core of the student's life, the center of his activities. This is the home of the Echo, the Chilhowean, the Y rooms, practice house, and the College Maid Shop. Busy aren't we? Somebody once said the motto of he Maryville student is Play and he school play with you, work and you're jerk alone."

Baldwin and Memorial: To avoid having things thrown at me (including nasty glances, for they make a girl weep) I place these two side by side, and in alphabetical order (in case you didn,t know B comes before M).. I shall say no more for things manufactured behind those walls are secrets (tall, dark ones).

Aircrew Students Like Maryville, Meals, and "Free" on Their Envelopes

By PAUL KOLTER

Hup, Hup, Ho! Here are the soldiers on the march again. They have been here only a short time, but it seems as if they are a real part of our campus life already. We haven't seen much of them as yet; but wait until the quarantine is lifted. Till then we shall keep on wondering. But not so, say the mail men, who are laden down with mail from the girls, to their known—or unknown—soldier boys.

Anyway, here are a few facts I have been able to acquire here and there. Most of the fellows in this detachment had a short notice of call anywhere from a half-day to three days notice to settle up their affairs and start for the induction center. The made the trip to—the induction center—by train. Needless to say they were crowded; some of the fellows stood all the way or slept on the floor, in the baggage compartment, or wherever they could find room.

At the induction center they were assigned to one of the finest hotels in town. Only one or two other hotels in town rated higher than the hotel where our soldiers were quartered. Here again conditions were crowded, five and six men being assigned to a room.

The first week was spent in orientation, not of our freshmen variety, but in learning to make beds, eat food the army way, and to become accustomed and adjusted to army life in general. One of the most difficult tasks of the soldiers is to endure the shock of the change from civilian life to army routine. Many say it is not like they thought it would be; the discipline and many other factors peculiar to the army account for this. One little custom that got everyone was the G. I. hair cut of one and one-half inches all over. Only it isn't always that much all over!

It was five days before the uniforms were issued to our soldiers, so they had to wear their civilian clothing until then. Needless to

The Early Bird Catches

Ding-dong. Toll-toll, Rattle-tinkle. Brrrrrr

Well, anyway, a bell rings. And immediately up pops everybody, rushes to the nearest escalator, and dashes away furiously to be on time for his appointment, conference, date, class, or what-have-you. That is—theoretically.

More on the side of reality, through a kind of remote control on the part of the individual an uninterested eye pilots a casual glance toward the clock, returns for five or ten minutes more of that at which it was so rudely interrupted, then in close proximity to a pair of ambling feet makes its tardy way hence.

Ten minutes late to class, two minutes after an efficient Janus closes the chapel door, in time to see the waitress return with the third plate of bread, pronto for the cold "Oh, I thought you'd forgotten the meeting". So we do.

A few remarks heard on the pleasant promptness of army class attendance, the futility of trying to begin chapel at the time it is scheduled, the annoyance of having to wait and wait for "that jerk" to make an appearance before business can be begun have made evident the need for a bit of double quick time march on keeping appointments.

In situations where efficiency is important, punctuality is sternly required. Campus activities would be more pleasant and efficient, were we on time. It would not be difficult to form the habit of leaving on time to be present for the beginning half of things. Were we to receive twenty lashes for each minute late or a dollar for each one early, we'd be there. Could we try to have chapel really begin at eight, eat our mealswith the rest of the world, not hold up the works and exhaust the available supply of patience?

And a silver lollypop to the first hundred first-comers.

By JORDY MEADOWS

When Beth Pascoe makes trips they are all sure to be very profitable. She came without what every woman wants for Easter, but before she left—well, it's a beautiful ring, and we think that Vergil is fortunate.

And maybe some of you haven't heard that Phil Wye has made it official by giving Betty Burton a diamond. For the rest of us who are such jealous, covetous cats it's small comfort to know that such a sparkler is only a form of carbon.

There are more things than Spring dragging in for a visit on campus. Everyone has seen the Robinson sisters, and it was fun to have Mary Fisher in for a vacation from Vandy.

Those Kadets again!! They make such good use of their study hours in Thaw. Sorry, fellows, Dr. Hunter erased the board before any of us could copy the names and addresses thereon scrawled. But one was willing for a blond or blonds to contact him, they all would love to have letters, and one with the surname Neal was AVAILABLE!

For mass production in sweaters just contact Pat Howarth or Katie Tominson. To say that those gals are little geniuses is to speak but mildly. And on top of everything the sweaters are the most beautiful things we've seen in ages—on and off! It's amazing.

Said one ghost to another, "Do you believe in human beings?" Aren't ghosts cute?

Bob Francis got mixed up with an army patrol the other evening. If it hadn't been for his fabled fast talk, he would have us believe, it would have been a campus bench for a couch that night! How about guard duty for Memorial, Baldwin, and Pearson's?

People are farewell partying tonight for Bob Weldon and Vergil LeQuire. One of those ice cream and cake jobs. And what do you want to bet that they are having fun!

There's something about March that's pretty nice after all. High winds———pigeons on the grass———magician weather———new romances———yellow ribbons———comprehensives to look forward to——— six week exams to look backward on———the evening star———shirt sleeves———new clothes———too bad it's almost April.

And in case you are interested. Bernard Stern and Mary Madeline Nemunis were married February 14. Right now they are "at home" in Newport News, Virginia. Let's go calling.

It's Nashville this week-end for Jeannie McCutcheon. Wouldn't it be nice to have friends who would appreciate one's gadding spirit.

Have you noticed Martha Walker's braids. They're nothing if they aren't the cutest things we've seen in simply eons. She looks like something Jon Hall would draw.

Marty Moore woke up with laryngitis again. It's just getting to be a bad habit. And she actually squeaks when she has it.

Now is the time———well you finish it——— we never did learn to type———but it still is the time for flying kites———you could take a twirl around the golf course———you might even take a hike down town! Could it be that the collective student spring fever has taken a turn for the worse? Well, perhaps it's best to let nature take its course. We're willing.

Mr. Huber has been conducting classes in Dr. Queener's absence. Mr. Huber has been doing very well, even if Mr. Huber is only a Republican. He must have been born one.

And now we'll sigh once, sigh again and go back to take another look at the flowers what is budding. Gulp (after L'il Abner)!

Arsenic and Old Lace

Last night in Voorhees Chapel, the amateur thespians of Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon trooped, sprawled, grimaced, and staggered across the boards in better than conventional fashion to produce a sparkling interpretation of Otto Kesserling's recent stage triumph, ARSENIC AND OLD LACE. It was an entertainment success from the first drop of elder-berry wine (flavored with arsenic, cyanide and strychine) administered in the first act, to the last, administered to the unsuspecting superintendent Wihterspoon in the final act.

The question, savoring of philosophy 314c, as to whether or not wholesale homicide can be good entertainment on the legitimate stage was answered to my complete satisfaction with this presentation last night. Adhering to the Greek tragedy tradition, no bodies were seen and none of the murders took place on the stage; adhering to the American theatre tradition, it was a witty, fast-moving vehicle, running the gamut of passions in quick succession sparked by delightful repartee.

In my opinion, not to be confused with the truth or the views of Betty Querns, everyone in the cast did his part extremely well, from the two charitable old maids who had only one bad habit between them, to the last victim of that habit, Mr. Witherspoon, superintendent of Happydale home for the mentally deficient. Nothing more could have been asked for, save perhaps a bit more restraint on the part of Oscar Lippard, who had the slightest tendency to over-animate his lines to the detriment of the total effectiveness of particular scenes, but who was convincing enough as the one sane member of the Brewster household and lover of the next-door minister's daughter to out-weigh this one minor defect.

Let the laurel-wreaths be prepared and brought forth in great profusion—Bette Jean Kennedy and Dorothy Harned did the parts of Abbey and Martha Brewster to perfection. Well cast, well made-up, two sinisters of Brooklyn, they set the pace for the whole performance; and solomon himself would hesitate to choose btween them for the best performance of the evening.

Running the daffy dames a close second in audience appeal was Bill Buford playing the part of the local loco Teddy Brewster who fancied himself to be the late president, Theodore Roosevelt. His whole life was conditioned by this obcession—he looked like Roosevelt, he talked like him, and behaved in the best Roosevelt tradition: now charging San Juan Hill, now blowing a bugle, now signing a proclamation, now digging another lock in the cellar version of the Panama Canal, and once or twice appearing in field uniform prepared for a wild animal hunt in darkest Africa.

Fred DePue as Jonathan Brewster and Robert Herzberger as Dr. Einstein, Murder Incorporated on tour, turned in consistently good performances. DePue looked the rat he was portraying, and Herzberger only had to breathe to be the German doctor accomplice.

The remaining cast of supporting characters were all well chosen and remained in charactor while on stage. Bob Mair ought to be sighted for achievement perhaps above the others, for he had the difficult job of overcoming his naturally attractive flair for ironic humor and double talk to be in charactor as the retiring Rev. Dr. Harper—which he was. The police force of flat-headed flat foots was played by Ellis Burcaw, Bill Ford, and Neil Proffitt, with Winton Enloe as the not much brighter lieutenant Rooney. Robert Burd was the prospective lodger Mr. Gibbs who almost became number thirteen on the Brewster sisters direct hit parade. Ed Ballinger showed just the proper amount of reserve and confidence to be in fact Mr. Witherspoon, superintendent of Happydale and number thirteen for the Brewster bags.

The set was the best I've seen on the Chapel stage since CHARLEY'S AUNT, having four doors, two windows, and a staircase to boot. The costuming was well done and the lighting more or less expertly handled. Everything seemed to work together for a good evening's entertainment including Mother Nature who put on a display of rain, thunder and lightening which did not detract from the performance one bit but rather contributed substantially that extra something to the total impression of the evening. P.S. Professor Stellwagon was magnificent.

The average day at the induction center ran something like this:

Rising—plenty early.

First formation—still early.

Chow—waiting in line mostly; the feeding was necessarily done in shifts.

Second formation—and then march one mile to the physical training field for two and one-half hours of drill, calisthenics and running the obstacle course.

A litle later—a march to the "Dust Bowl", a small and very rough and dusty drill field—more drills.

Return to barracks—but not for long.

Feeding time again.

Formation—and off to the "Dust Bowl" again.

Return to barracks — supper. That took about two hours because of the limited accomodations of the mess hall and the large numbers of hungry soldiers.

Free time—but confined to the barracks.

To bed and lights out—and not only for the soldiers but for the entire civilian population.

The week-end was free time, but the men were confined to a certain area.

At the induction center the soldiers received their basic training. However most of them took some time out to nurse a cold or severe sunburn. After spending some time at the induction center, the air cadet candidates boarded a train for places unknown—Maryville College to you—and arrived here on the morning of March 3. Remember the morning? In spite ofthe inclement weather, the soldiers were pleased to get here; and the small school appeals to them. And it is really a treat for themto see civilians again.

They like the college, but not the quarantine. They are enthusiastic about their studies, but regret the short time they can spend on them. Carnegie fellows have been very friendly, and the girls would like to be. At present all signs look favorable.

The most favorable sign to the soldiers is the privilege of writing "Free" on the envelopes, and letter-writing is the favorite pastime, next to letter-receiving.

Social Committee Gives Programs

The social committee headed by chairman Don Conkle met on Wednesday, March 17, to schedule the programs on the social calendar for the rest of the month. The committee with the aid of the subcommittee has arranged for the programs to be sponsored by the following organizations:

Saturday March 20, exhibition of the miracles of Liquid Air.

Saturday March 27, Artists' Series.

April 3, Ministerial Association.

April 10, Freshman Class.

April 17, German Club.

April 24, Junior Class.

May 1, Surprise.

Chairman Conkle said that there are many fine Saturday evening programs scheduled, and that the committee has some surprises to spring on the student body.

The social Committee, which planned and carried out many Saturday night programs for the school, arranged these programs for enjoyment. Large attendance usually marks the success of the committee's work.

Pre-Meds To Hear Dr. Lea Calloway

Pre-Medical club will meet on Thursday, March 25 at 6:45 in the chemistry lecture room. Records of the heartbeats will be played, and Dr. Lee Calloway will discuss the various types. Another feature of the evening's program will be a discussion of the latest medical developments on the war fronts by Carol Gillette, Ken Cooper, and Charles Dillener. The program chairman pleads "Bring your heatthrobs and learn all about heartbeats."

SCOTSPORTS

By TED PRATT

'RASSLIN' IN REVIEW

Maryville 18—Appalachian State 14

The tradition-soaked Scottie mat team met the tradition-soaked Appalachian State Teachers College wrestling team in the opening match of the season and came through with flying colors. Captain Joe Suitor and kid brother Ed Wilson were the only Scots to win by falls but Mac Wilson got a forfeit and Bill Thompson got a decision to round out the scoring. It was the team's first appearance under the tutelage of Coach Woody Everett and the four-point victory gave promise of better things to come.

Maryville 13—University of Tennessee 21

Guess these weren't the "better things". Coach Ike Peel's boys from the Big School had a lot of talent in the lower weights and particularly a lot in the heavyweight division. Lloyd Anderson made his first appearance with a 2:59 pin that eased the sting of lower-weight losses. Joe Suitor came through again with a pin and Bill Thompson maintained his record with a decision. Jim Yunker put on a nice exhibition match which he won by a fall in 6:47.

Maryville 28—Georgia Tech 8

There was no stopping the Scots this time. Trevor Williams, Bill Thompson, Lloyd Anderson, and Mac Wilson got falls; Joe got a decision and Ed Wilson took a forfiet. 128 lb. Frank Bradford succumbed to a pin in 4:50 and Gordon Rettke lost the only other Scot bout with a decision. The Tech boys were in pretty bad shape after the Everettmen turned on the steam.

Maryville 23—University of Tennessee 13

The revengeful Highlanders snapped back at the cocky UT grapplers with a terrific beating. Les Rock put on the match of the season with a grueling battle against UT's Jamison. Les couldn't stand up when it was over—but who wanted him to—he won lying down. In fact, lying right on top of poor Jamison. Suitor, Anderson, and Mac Wilson got falls. Bob Smith, converted Scot, took his eighth point from Maryville wrestlers this year with a decision over Trevor Williams. Again Brandau-the-Invincible did as he pleased with our heavyweight. But don't think that the gallery of feminine pulchritude didn't have anything to do with the whitewash either!

Maryville 23—Georgia Tech 11

The Scots started their three-day trip with a repeat smash victory over the Ramblin' Wreck. Williams, Thompson, Suitor, and Mac Wilson all contributed five points to the cause and Lloyd Anderson added three. Bob Morton took a spectacular exhibition match for his season's debut.

Maryville 17—Georgia Pre-Flight 14

The Everettmen put everything they had into this match and the Fliers took it all—almost. The reknowned Pre-Flighters were tough all the way through and this was easily the toughest match on the Maryville schedule. Thompson, Suitor, Anderson, and Mac Wilson were responsible for three points apiece as Williams, Dunning, and Ed Wilson suffered defeats. In an exhibition match Morton added another scalp to his record to make it spotless.

MEN WANTED

That bunch of agriculturists you've seen out on the tennis courts every day is the tennis team. Of course there will be a large number out for the racket sport after the courts are fixed up. It never fails. Still any new recruits are welcome—welcome as long as they can man a rake and a wheelbarraw. Roadwork and inside drill will constitute the training program until the courts are playable. Under the direction of Coach Honaker, top man Ted Kidder is investigating schedule possibilities and has already received several favorable replies to his letters.

HERE AND THERE

Highlight of the collosal Festival was the murderous massacre between the one and only Masked Marvel Suitor and The-Only-Wrestler-To-Be-Carried-INTO-a-Ring Ballinger. Isn't it remarkable how they both managed to survive the slaughter so they wouldn't miss this week's classes!

Speaking of murder, this Water Polo ain't tiddly-winks! Some of the players even get wet. On the other hand, some of them never dry up!

75,000 sports fans turned out to see a recent England-Wales soccer game. No sir, sports just don't have a place in war-time.

C'mon Uncle Mike, give us a return Joe Louis-Billy Conn fight! Something's got to be done about the pugilistic sport.

Tennis Season Begins With Work on Memorial Court

Players Engage In Inside Drill And Brisk Road Work

With the green light from the Athletic Committee of the Faculty, the tennis team has started its work-outs. Under the direction of Coach Lombe S. Honaker the squad hopes to secure enough matches to arrange a practical schedule. The team has taken some of the responsibility of contacting teams and several replies have bee received from neighboring colleges. Possible opponents include Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, East Tennessee Teachers, Chattanooga and Swanee.

A small number of veterans have been working the courts into shape during the past week. The rain and cold weather have made itimpossible to get the usual early start, but a number of the boys are working out inside the gym and running. Ted Kidder, veteran three-year man who played number one last year, is back and is taking an active part in organizing the team. Ken Cooper and Ted Pratt, last year's number two doubles combination, are back as are Hal Lloyd and Bobby Hunter, a couple of two-year men. Wally Easter, transfer junior from Maryland University, has reported for duty and may pull down a starting position. Glenn Winkle, Bill Adams, and George Pope round ou the small but hopeful squad. It is hoped that before long a number of new boys will report for the racquet sport. A tournament will be run off with opportunity for everyone to prove his skill.

Murder, He Says; Accident, She Says

Male Hoopsters Prove Superiority Over Fairer Sex

Another nail was driven into the already-firm proposition that men are vastly superior to women last Saturday afternoon in Alumni Gym when a pick-up team of boys burlesqued through 32 minutes of basketball to score an astonishingly-easy 64-32 victory over a picked team of girls. The game, played according to the perplexing girls' rules, was a one-sided affair in spite of a ten point handicap given to the girls and a slight error in the scoring that netted the losers ten more markers, a total of twenty points that had the distinction of appearing on the score sheet without ever having been scored.

The boys were aided, of course, by height, shooting ability, supremacy on the floor and the ability to think in action. The girls were, by a familiarity with the mysterious, not to say baffling, rules and by the referees who called innumerable technical and personal fouls on the boys, while letting the girls go Scot-free for their misdemeanors. The fact that the scoring bench was pro-female by a three to one majority aided the lost cause immeasurably.

There was no set offense or defense used by either team. The boys whipped the ball around, shooting at will and mercifully passing up chances to make crip shots. The girls' offense was built up around anyone that happened to have the ball at the moment. They scored several baskets.

The Amazons were not opportunists evidently, for upon being handed six foul shots, awarded to them on a unique interpretation of the rules as stated by the highly partisan scoring table, they proceeded to miss all six tries. The situation came about when the three guards on the men's team, weary of watching the three forwards toss in basket after basket with no opposition, switched positions during a time-out to relieve the tired point makers. Immediately six technicals were called, one for each man, by the scoring table. Intending to humor rather than to antagonize the already-beaten girls, the boys stood by while Betsy Watkins and Johnnye Gudel missed the six shots.

Betsy Watkins, Johnnye Gudel, Lucille Gualtney, were best for the girls. Betsy, incidentally, was the one credited, through no fault of her own, with 16 points while actually scoring only six. The error was made apparent after the game, so the 16 points go on the record as official along with the ten point handicap.

The boys' honors were heaped upon no particular player, although Spence Renfro's points made him high man. Bad boy Oliver Spears fouled out in the last quarter to become the only casualty via the foul route.

ON WATER POLO.....

And Other Sundry Subjects .....

By LES BOYD

It has been the custom of this modest example of journalistic might for feature writers to pounce upon each and every new intramural sport as legitimate material for a feature. Far be it from me to break this time-honored tradition. A new sport, water polo, has come into our midst and is pregnant with ideas for a feature. I'll speak more of water polo in a moment.

This idea of feature material is a thought in itself. Time-honored, hide-bound, inveterate tradition has it that certain features must be written and to neglect them would be to leave the school year's program as unfilled as next week's diary. For instance, no semestetr has gone by without a bit of humor on falling asleep in class or dropping pencils while the teacher is pouring his or her heart and soul into a discourse on the internal structure of the earth-worm orthe antinomies of Kant. In a few short weeks the open season on features entitled, "'Reporter Finds Last Week of School is Big Rush", or headed with the illustrative title, "Cute Co-eds Can't Concentrate during Customary Confusion of Packing" will open and inspired reporters will attack with the usual fearlessness and loquacity.

Back to water polo and thephys ed. program. This phys. ed. is all ok except for new game that Lombe thought up for us. It's known as Sixty Man Suicide and is more strenuous that girls' basketball. In the words of our eminent instructor, "It ought to be a good game when we get some rules made up for it." The idea for the game came while he was looking at a basketball and was as spontaneous as a hiccup.

But back to water polo. I watched one game and was so exhausted that I had to adjourn to the Chatterbox for whatever refreshment I might salvage from the war-torn provisions there. No reflection on the Chatterbox, of course, but food is so scarce there now that I eat at the dining hall. I remember the good old days when a man could get sandwiches, cake, and candy and buy as much as you could pay for. Now you go in and take your pick of peanut brittle or sherbet and feel like a heel if you buy more than a nickle's worth of anything. Oh well, there is always my waistline to consider.

As I was saying, water polo is so rough that I could only stand to watch it for a little while. It is a game for strong men, andI am not strong enough to put up a struggle when a girl tries to kiss me. I'll be too old to struggle by that time anyway. Old age is a wonderful thing. I look forward to the day when I can read what General Hershey has to say without developing a heart murmur or some other 4-F ailment.

Water polo, as played by the boys here at school is a rough game. Or did I get that far before? It is a variation of Murder, Inc, and one who participates must be ready to make the supreme sacrifice for his team. Which reminds me, it is time for dinner.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

INTRAMURAL FESTIVAL

By DAN LONG

The annual Intramural Festival came off with a bang last Saturday night, presenting simultaneous ly the climaxes of several veteran intramural activities and also giv ing a preview of a newcomer.

The Varsity Outcasts started things rolling by defeating Alpha Sigma in the basketball playoff, 24-18. Alpha Sig seemed to have the situation well in hand for the first two quarters, building up a lead of 13-8 by halftime. But the Outcasts came back with plenty of fire in the third quarter to take the lead away, 19-18, and in the last period, as the club boys' desperation plays backfired, they were able to pile up the score without too much trouble. Enloe and Roseborough led the winners, each tossing in six counters, while Rettke headed Alpha Sig's scoring with seven points.

In between halves of the ball game, the foul throw contest and the table tennis finals were run off. Doug Rosebrough hit the basket 21 times out of 25 attempts to carry off the honors in the former event. His closest competition was provided by Ken Cooper, who was just a notch behind with a score of 20. As for the ping pong, Ted Pratt finally finished on top after losing to Corporal Van Cise for three straight years. He stopped Bill Evans in great style by scores of 21-17, 21-15.

After the ball game an exhibition wrestling match was put on by Chief Horizontal and the Masked Marvel. (funny, it looked like Ballinger and Suitor). The Chief showed great consistency by coming in and going out the same way, but the Masked Marvel's exit was quite different from his entrance. He ended in the same position as the chief. The winner?—You've guessed it It was Conklevitch, the ref, who used his head by letting the other boys wear themselves out while he saved himself for a whirlwind finish.

Wally Easter and Jim Hodges put in a good word for boxing after that, sparring three rounds in good style. Wally was helped into a more restful position once, but his left hook dusted Jim's whiskers (?) several times..

Then, to many, the big event of the evening came up. This was the relay race. The Athenian team, composed of Sam Crawford, Ted Kidder, Jim Hodges, and Ralph Parvin, took the honors away from the Ministerials and the Chickens, propelling the ol' stick around the gym four times in 46.1 seconds. This was the only event that was marred in any way. The barefooted Chickens did the damage here by giving out with many shameful alibis about splinters, blisters, and the like. We regret this blot on Intramural history. Bainonian could not find any opposition, and so the girls ran against themselves. Nancy Russell and Lois King beat the Gillette sisters with the fine time of 26.7 seconds for the two laps.

The scene then changed to the swimming pool where an exhibition of water polo, Intramural's infant sport, was given. Despite the inexperience of some of the participants, an interesting show was put on. Exhibition or no exhibition, the competition was terrific; in fact the boys took special pains to emphasize the fact that in water polo you can do practically anything to your opponent except hit him with a brick. Bill Sidner was a hot shot for his team, which won by a good margin.

The Intramural Staff hopes, in particular, that the demonstration of water polo didn't scare anyone out of participation in the sport. But more than that, it hopes that this year's festival has provided inspiration for renewed interest in the increasingly important activities.

By BILL SEGRAVES

GAMES PLAYED THURSDAY MARCH 18.

The Water Buoys overpowered the Starfish 4-1 in a close swimming battle. Stan Crews hit the goal for 3 and Bergquist made a foul for 1 for the Buoys and Still made a foul shot for the Starfish for their point. F. A. Green showed good "stuff" as goalie for the Buoys with long throws down the length of the pool.

Charlie Brand led the Crawfish with 6 points and Bill Evans pushed up 5 for their total of 11 points. The "Y" Cabinet went scoreless but not until after a hard fight led by Hal Lloyd.

The Ministerials went down in an easy-going battle to the Athenians 17-2. Ted Pratt led the Athenians with 7 while his roommate, Don Hopkins, came up second best with 5. Ralph Parvin slipped over 2 and Bob Seel 3 The Ministerials' lone 2 points were scored on a beautiful throw by Paul Smith (good old roommate).

BASKETBALL ALL-STARS

The Intramural Basketball All-Stars have been chosen by the managers of all teams participating and are to be found elsewhere on the sports page.

SOFTBALL

Softball begins in only one more week so if you're not signed up on a team already, get up a team yourself. Eligibility blanks may be obtained from any member of the Intramural Staff.

"Air, Air, give me air. I haven't got the ball, I don't want the ball and I DON'T CARE WHO WINS THE GAME." Not bloody murder but just one of the many screams heard from the swimming pool this week as WATER POLO got underway. And what fun and excitement! No football game, boxing or wrestling match could ever compare. "You have the ball and three husky athletics push you under and you think they'll never get off. You've been under five minutes and you've just got to have AIR." You can see that in this coming week more thrills are in store. If you were not one of the GIRLS or BOYS cheering from the bleachers this past week, how about the games coming up???

GAMES TO BE PLAYED TUESDAY, MARCH 23

3:30-4:00 Cray Fish vs. Water Buoys.

4:00-4:30 Starfish vs. Ministrials.

4:20-4:40 "Y" Cabinet vs. Athenian.

GAMES TO BE PLAYED THURSDAY, MARCH 25

3:40-4:00 Cray Fish vs. Star Fish.

4:00-4:20 Ministrials vs. "Y" Cabinet.

4:20-4:40 Waterbuoys vs. Athenian.

CRAY FISH VS MINISTRIALS

In the first official Water Polo game of the season the Crayfish "swam" up 14 points to the Ministerial' 1. Charlie led the scoring with four touch goals of 3 points each. Bill Evans added points in the second half with a thrown goal. Evans and Brand were assisted with a good passing attact of Purvis, Enrico Scapellati, Frank Bradford, Joe Suitor and Glen Winkle. The Ministerials lone point was made on a foul shot by John Kirstein. The Ministerials put up a good batle and their team made up of such "stars" as

WATER BUOYS VS. "Y" CABINET

The "Y" Cabinet went downunder more than the water as the Water Buoys scored 20 points. The WaterBuoys were led by Bob Herzgerger with three touch goals, and by Layton Bergquist with one touch goal and two foul shots made, and a touch goal by F. A. Green and Ray Swartzback. Hal Lloyd led the "Y" Cabinet play assisted by Olsen Pemberton, Clyde Brown, Art Bushing, Bill Segraves, Sid Duke, and Joe Brown. The "Y" Cabinet failed to score a single point but it was amusing if confusing to watch little Joe "Goalie" Brown in the deep water and as he held on to the goul with one hand and beat off the Big Water Buoys with his other.

STAR FISH VS. ATHENIAN

The closest game of the day was the Star Fish's 5-2 defeat of Athenian. Ken Waggett scored a touch goal for the Star Fish and Lloyd Anderson scored a thrown goal. A good passing attact of the Star Fish was very effective. Besides Anderson and Waggett the team consisted of Don Conkle, I. Breazeale, Bill Long, Still, William Roberson, Enloe and Allan Rock. Athenian's Three Flats, Pratt, Parvin, and Hopkins, proved they could do more than sing but couldn't come up to the Star Fish. Other outstanding Athenian players were Ken Cooper as goalie, Ted Kidder, Bob Seel, and Jack "Polly" Scott.

WATER POLO RULES

1. 6 men on a side; minimum 5 men.
2. Substitution can be made only between quarters.
3. Scoring: Touch goal 3 points,
   Thrown goal 2points,
   Foul throw 1 point.
4. A thrown goal must be made from outside the 10 foot area.
5. A foul throw will be made at the unguarded goal from the 15 foot line.
6. Fouls: it is a foul—
   if any player not in possession of the ball is tackled.
   if any player is guilty of unnecessary roughness.
   if any player in possession of the ball holds on to the side of the pool.

A man against whom a foul is committed may take 2 free throws at the unguarded goal from 15 feet away in the water.

7. A boll out of bounds is given on the side line to opposite team from one which touched it last.
8. After any goal is scored, the scoreing team withdraws beyond the half line mark, and the ball is put into play at the goal line by the team against whom the goal was scored.
9. Games shall consist of 4 two minute quarters.
10. Hiding ball under unless tackled by opponent is foul.

Dr. Van Deusen Tells Chapel About His Work In China

The experiences he went through as a prisioner of war in Tsingo, China and the work that is there for missionaries, were the subjects about which Dr. Courtland Van Deusen's talk was centered Wednesday morning in chapel.

Dr. Van Deusen, who spent twenty eight years in Shantung Province, describled how in the morning of December seventh, December eighth in China because of the International Date Line, a squad of Japanese marines took over the school and held the missionaries prisioners of war.

"If you should get in contact with the Japanese, don't ever joke with them, don't believe what their authorities tell you, be polite according to Japanese rules of politeness, and don't underestimate the Japanese willingness to sacrifice." warned the member of Board of Foreign Missionaries of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A.

He returned to the United States in 1942 on the repatriation liner MS Gripsholm with the realization that the Chinese expect a lot of Christians, that there are hard days ahead, that Christian people must unite in Christian teaching with sincerity and a fuller sense of missions.

"We press on", the motto of the Board of Foreign Missions was stressed by Mr. Van Deusen, and the fact that five hundred new missionaries will be needed after the war to carry the message in a world of darkness."

works. Modern composers have also made important contributions to the repertoire. Shostakovich, Hindemith and Bartok are only a few of the many worthy of mention.

The New York Herald Tribune made a comment about the musicians which is worthy of repeating. "This group is a lively addition to our musical life; and Mr. Farbman, its conductor, is, as we say of politicians and baseball players, worth watching. Even more important, the music he makes is worth hearing..."

Reserved seat tickets will be on sale Tuesday, March 23, from 3:00 to 5:00 in Pearsons Lobby. Students wishing to buy them must bring their student activity cards.

The other two Artists' Series programs this season were concerts by Miss Lucielle Browning, mezzo soprano, and Miss Rose Dirman, lyric soprano, last fall. John Gurney bass-baritone, presented the most recent concert several weeks ago.

Dr. Ralph Case Will Speak At Vespers

Dr. Ralph T. Case will speak at Vespers tomorrow night on "The One Thing In Life". Before coming to Maryville in 1939 Dr. Case, who is an associate professor of sociology, was a minister in Blackville, Oklahoma. Previous to that he was on the faculty of Lindenwood at St. Charles, Missouri, and Wabash at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Miriam Bowditch To Present Message At Jail Service

Miriam Bowditch, a sophomore Religious Education major from Toccane, North Carolina, will give the message at the services conducted at the Blount County Jail this Sunday afternoon, March 21. These weekly meetings are under the direction of John Taylor, junior English major from Philadelphia, and are sponsored by the Ministerial association. Special music is planned by John Kirstein, ministerial student from Asheville, North Carolina.

Last week the speaker was Lenore Wise, a junior Home Economics major from Pennsylvania. A mixed quartet from the Calvary Baptist Church of Alcoa sang several numbers.

The group of student leaders meets every Sunday afternoon in front of Carnegie Hall at 1:45. Anyone interested is invited to join them.

Point System Girls To Play Softball

All point system girls have been practicing softball in the Alumni gym this week. After another week's practice the girls will choose two teams, which will be known as the WAACS and the WAVES. Each of the two teams will elect a captain and a manager before the tournament begins the following week.

Tuesday night there will be swimming tests for all intramural girls. The tests will be held under the direction of Mrs. Verton M. Queener.

German Club Will Sponsor Saturday Night Folk Dancing

German club wil meet Monday, March 22, in Bartlett auditorium at 6:30 p. m. Associate professor Ralph S. Collins will teach the group folk dances to be used in a Saturday night program which the club will sponsor in the near future.

On Thursday, April 8, the German club will have a picnic and a scavenger hunt in the college woods. Becky Davis, Vern Feeback, Charlie Burgreen, and Winton Enloe are in charge of the refreshments and plans for the hunt. All students interested in the German club are invited to come.

Due to a conflict with so many other clubs, the meeting time for the German club had been changed from Thursdays to the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Further announcements will be made concerning the Saturday night party.

Cain And Lehman Are Winners In T. T. Alexander Oratorical Contest

Bible Department Judges Annual Talks On Selected Topics

Phyllis Anne Cain and Dorothy Lehman have been chosen as the winning contestants to enter the annual T. T. Alexander oratorical contest. Tryouts were held Tuesday afternoon and were judged by Dr. Horace Orr, Dr. John A. Gates and Mr. Raymond Dollenmayer. Eleven girls entered the contest, the largest number ever to try out.

Both Phyllis Anne and Dorothy have taken part in inter-collegiate debates, and both are on the Varsity Debate Squad. Phyllis Anne's topic was "Christ's Atonement for Sin" and Dorothy's was "The Resurrection." The other two subjects of the contest were "The Diety of Jesus Christ" and "Salvation Through Faith."

The two orations will be given in chapel on April 7. The T. T. Alexander prize fund, established by a generous friend of the college, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of Bible and Religious Education faculty. The prize, which is cash, is the interest from the endowment.

Participation by men and women students is in alternate years. Last year the contest was open to men, and the winners were Hal Lloyd and Paul Smith.

Miss Almira Bassett Student Vol Speaker

Miss Almira Caroline Bassett, assistant professor of Latin, will speak on "Greek People" at the Student Volunteer meeting Sunday night after Vespers in the YW rooms. Having traveled in Greece, Miss Bassett will discuss the customs and characteristics of the people.

Marion Stout, a junior from Brooklyn, New York, spoke at the last meeting last Sunday night. Her subject was "World Fellowship," taken from a convention she had previously attended.

Ministerials To Meet Thursday In Y Rooms

The Ministrial Association will meet Thursday, March 8 at 6:45 in YW rooms. There will be a worship service, "The Hall of Heroes" conducted by members of the Student Vols and the Ministerial Association. Members please note change of meeting place.

Last Thursday night, March 25 two army officers of the 42nd Detachment spoke to the Association on the work of the chaplain and of the life in the army.

Election of officers will be April 22, and the installation service will be May 6.

HARRIET MILLER TO BE SPEAKER AT YW SUNDAY

Miss Harriet Miller will speak at the YW meeting at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, March 28 in the YW rooms, Her subject will be, "Living All of Life".

Miss Miller, assistant from the Student Help Office, graduated from Maryville College in 1940. She lived in Fort Lauderdale, Florida before coming to Maryville to work.

Installation of the newly-elected officers of YW will be at the following meeting in a candle light service.

Hospital Patients Recently Released

Jo Gillette, Rosland Gargas, and Lois Collett have been patients in the hospital this week. Jo was admitted Wednesday in order to recover from the flu. After a week of the measles, Rosiland was dismissed yesterday. Lois also was thought to be suffering from the measles, but she was released after one day.

Experimental Theater Will Present Plays

Kennedy, Swartzbach, Busby, Richardson, Crider Take Part

Next Friday evening, April 2, the Experimental Theater group will present two plays under the direction of Mrs. Ed Hamilton, assistant in dramatic art to Mrs. Nita E. West. The first is a scene taken from "Life With Father", a play by Clarence Day. Bette Jean Kennedy will play the feminine role. Bette Jean, a junior from Hickory, North Carolina, recently played one of the leads in the Theta-Alpha Sig comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace". She also played a leading role in "The Truth About the Blades" last year. The male character will be portrayed by Ray Swartzbach, a sophomore biology major from Baltimore, Maryland. Ray took the lead in the recent Bainonian - Athenian mid - winter production of "Lost Horizon".

The other play, "Supressed Desire", is centered around the Mrs. Mrewster and her mania for psychoanalysis, The Steven Brewsters are to be played by Bill Buzby, afreshman from Pennslyvania, and Thelma Richarson, a freshman form Staten Island, New York. Both Bill and Thelma played leading roles in this year's "Lost Horizon" presented by Athenian and Bainonian Societies. Mabel, a sister of Mrs. Brewster, will be portrayed by Sara Crider, a senior of Maryville, who was assistant director of "Lost Horizon".

New Stamp Goal Set For April

The War Stamp Committee is setting as a goal for the coming month selling enough War Stamps to be equivalent to purchasing a life float. This means the total must be $187.50 for four Wednesdays, which is a little higher than the average which so far has been sold. The float which will save ten men is made of balsa wood which does not capsize or splinter.

Even though the goal is somewhat higher than what has been achieved, it cannot be out of range since never has more than 25 per cent of the student body participated. Without a doubt if the remaining 75 per cent would buy but one ten cent stamp the total wouldl be greatly boosted. Breaking down the student body into classes for percentages, last week the senior, sophomore and freshman classes reached a percentage of 21 while the junior class went considerably ahead to 34 percent. In all $38.00 was sold. As the average so far this year has been around $30.00 this is a definite advance.

Editor of the Echo this week is Jordy Meadows, junior associate editor on the Echo staff.

Law Club Plans For Mock Trial

Miss Harriet Miller Is Faculty Sponsor

A special meeting of the Law club was called Thursday evening, March 25, by president Margaret Clippinger. Plans for the mock trial to be presented some time in April before the entire student body were discussed. Robert F. Huber and Malcolm Thompson were appointed attorneys for the defense and Paul Jamarik and Lawrence Sthreshley, district attorneys. Dr. L. L. Williams, associate professor of Biology, is to serve as judge. Dr. Williams studied law for a year.

Miss Harriet Miller was recently elected faculty advisor of the club to take the place of Mr. Archibald F. Pieper who was called to the Marine Corps. Miss Miller, who graduated from Maryville in 1940, is now assistant in the Student Help Office. While in college she was a member of the varsity debate team, and is at present a member of the national honorary society, Pi Kappa Delta. Miss Miller is a member of the International Relations Club and is interested in current affairs. She lived in Fort Lauderdale, Florida before coming to Maryville to work.

At the regular meeting of the Law club to be held next Thursday night in Alpha Sigma Hall, further plans will be made for the mock trial and members of the jury will be selected.

Anyone who is interested in law, current affairs, or any of the social sciences is invited to attend the meetings. At a recent meeting it was decided to hold meetings twice a month and to discuss problems of current interest.

Dr. Wm. T. Bartlett Speaks at Vespers

Tomorrow evening Rev. Dr. William Thaw Bartlett, D.D. will speak at Vespers on the topic, "Christ's Principles of Service", Rev. Bartlett is the son of a former president of Maryville. He graduated from Maryville in 1901 and received his Doctor of Divinity degree June 8, 1916.

Rev. Barlett's father, Rev. Peter Mason Bartlett, D.D., LL.D. was president of Maryville from 1869 to 1887. He was also professor of mental and moral science.

Dr. Paul K. Walp Speaks For IRC

On Monday evening, March 29, Dr. Paul K. Walp will speak in Bartlett Auditorium at 7:00 o'clock on the activities of the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace of which he is chairman in Tennessee. The meeting is being sponsored by the International Relations club and everyone is cordially invited to attend. The problems of the peace are being more and more intensively discussed by civilians as the war progresses. This Commission is the outstanding agency in the country to center study and thought on the matter.

WATCH THOSE HAIR RIBBONS, GIRLS— IT'S ALL IN THE WAY YOU WEAR THEM

By MARY BATCHELOR

"Around her head she wears a yellow ribbon; she wears it for her lover who is far, far away." But don't be too sure about this fellows, it may be that you are the one that she has her eye on— And as for you girls— "It's all in the way you wear it".

Here is the latest, so watch your step.

Oh, so you wear your ribbon on the back of your head, Your really don't want to make an impression: you've been a man-hater all along. If you've finally tamed your wolf, the wear it on top in the front of your hair and we'll know to beware—it's a steady affair. Want a date? Wear it on the side. But, "If at first you don't succeed—" don't get discouraged, he just didn't see the right side. Pull out both ribbons and give it the works! One on each side becomes you anyway and with results practically (?) guaranteed, what more can you want?

Of course, if he just doesn't take a hint, you might try impressing him with your personality or mood. Say, you are in that happy-go-lucky, fun-loving mood; then it the yellow ribbon you should wear, because it expresses that you are youthful, bright, and positive. Show him you are the dreamy type-mystic, poetic, and full of imagination. The violet one is right for this. Cock it to one side behind your pompadour and watch 'em fall. Your red ribbon, believe it or not, may mean you are creative, unselfish, gay and of single purpose. This is one way, but you could wear your white ribbon and

Navy V-12 Exams To Be Given Apr. 2

All Men In Reserves Required To Take The Examinations

The Navy V-12 Examinations will be given to eligible students on Friday morning, April 2 at 9 o'clock in Philosophy classroom 214, Thaw Hall. It was formerly announced that these tests would be open only to civilians, but notice has been received this week that all men in all branches of the enlisted reserves are expected to take them. The examinations which are to be supervised by Dr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of physchology and education, and Mr. James R. Smith, public relations secretary, will be given strictly according to governmental instructions. They will last for two hours, and no person will be admitted to the room after the exact time scheduled for its beginning.

Persons taking the examinations must be high school graduates who are, or may not be attending college at the present time, and who are, or will be 17 and not over 21 years of age by July 1, 1943. The final requirements for taking these tests are to have an 18-20 visual acuity, and be an unmarried male citizen of the United States. Students will be selected on the basis of officer-like qualifications and scores on these tests. Those who are selected will be assigned to the Army-Navy College Training Program and will be sent to college and university centers on or around July 1, or November 1.

Mr. John L. Brewer Speaks Tomorrow At YMCA Service

Annual Banquet To Be April 2 At Smith's Cafe

Mr. John L. Brewer, superintendent of Maryville schools, will speak on the subject "As A man Thinketh" at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Association tomorrow at 1:30.

The YMCA announces its annual banquet to be held Friday, April 2 at Smith's Cafe in Maryville. The speaker will be announced at a later date. Mr. Ralph Colbert, former associate professor of music at the college, will be the toastmaster, Special music is also being planned as a part of the program.

Because of existing conditions, the number of men attending the banquet will be limited. Formerly, approximately one hundred men were able to attend. This year, the first seventy men to pay twenty-five cents will be eligible to go. This is but one-third of the expense of the dinner. The remaining two-thirds is paid from the treasury of the association. The men are requested to pay their money to Paul Jamarik, Ralph Parvin, or Olsen Pemberton as soon as possible. A paper will be posted on the Carnegie bulletin board for making the reservations.

Two members of the YW and one member of the YM associations will attend a Leadership Institute to be conducted in Atlanta, Georgia March 27, 28 under the direction of the Student Christian Association. Muriel Geisler, the newly elected president of YW and Marion Stout, program chairman; wil represent the YW of the college. John DeForest, head of YM community committee will represent the YM.

The YM is cooperating with the churches of the community in an effort to plan what they may be able to do for the benefit of the air-crew students stationed at the college.

NO MEETINGS

There will be no meeting of Theta Epsilon, Bainonian or Alpha Sigma Societies this evening due to the Artists' Series program tonight at 8:15.

Four Seniors Leave For Medical School

Duke, Francis, Weldon, LeQuire Begin Study

Four seniors, Sidney Duke, Robert B. Francis, Robert Barton Weldon, and Virgil S. LeQuire having taken advantage of an accelerated program of classes, left this week for Medical schools. The accelerated program allowed the students taking part to finish a term of work in time to enter the spring term of the Medical schools. Students taking these courses usually carried only two subjects.

Sidney Duke, from Arlington, Texas, was at one time a reporter for the Echo, and this year he was editor-in-chief of the Chilhowean and also editor of the M Books. Sid had completed two of the accelerated courses, physics and comparative anatomy. He left Wednesday afternoon and entered the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago on Friday, March 25th. Sid is now a member of the Writers' Workshop. He is on the workshop committee of the YMCA. As a sophomore Sid was president of his class.

Bob Francis left Friday morning for Philadelphia, Pennsylvania where he will attend Temple University Medical School, beginning April first. Bob's home is in Bridgeport, Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia and he will commute to school. Bob completed a course in Physics and one in French under the accelerated program. Bob was associate editor of last year's Chilhowean and vice-president of Student Vols.

Robert Weldon, from Greenport, New York, left early in the week after completing on accelerated course in Physics. Bob, who was president of the Pre-Med club, will attend the University of Georgia Dental School.

Virgil LeQuire, of Maryville, left several days ago for Nashvile where he will attend Vanderbilt Medical School.

Mathews To Read At Disc Club April 1

The Disc club will hold its regular meeting next Thursday evening, April 1, at 6:30 in the Voorhees chapel. The program, centered around an Easter theme, will feature Richard Straus' "Death and Transfiguration". This selection is a symphonic poem about the thoughts of a dying man. It was inspired by a poem which a friend of Richard Strauss wrote. The music follows the meter of the poem. Alice Mathews will read "The Terrible Meek," by Charles Kennedy.

Jeana Eddleman New Pi Gamma Chairman

Wednesday afternoon at a general election for town girls in Thaw Hall Jeana Eddleman was elected chairman of Pi Gamma. Louise Henry, Ruth Case, and Frances Smith were chosen to serve as the social committee. Frances Harris and Jean Walters were elected to the program committee.

Farbman String Symphony To Present Concert Tonight at 8:15 in Chapel

Daisy Chain Is Chosen For Annual Commencement

Fourteen Juniors Participate In Colorful Tradition

In accordance with an old Maryville College tradition, Lois Jeanne Howarth, vice-president of the junior class, has appointed fourteen young ladies of that class to serve as members of the annual daisy chain which is a colorful feature of the commencement program. Those who have been asked to participate in this delightful portion of the year's end activities are the following: Helen Anderson, Billye Ruth Braly, Margaret Boretsky, Ruth Carter, Lucille Gaultney, Dorothy Harned, Lois Jeanne Howarth, Betty Jean Kennedy, Bobilee Knabb, Georgia Lu Meadows, Betty Jane Miller, Mary Jean Partridge, Catherine C Tomlinson, and Martha Walker.

Freshman Debate To Be Scheduled

Professor Verton M. Queener, professor of history, who is coach of both the varsity and freshman debaters, has announced that debates may be arranged between the freshman debaters of Maryville and Athens or Virginia Intermont. As yet no definite word has been received from these schools, but it is very likely that some debates will be arranged. The problems of transportation and expense will have a great deal to do with the decisions of the schools as to whether they will consider debates with the freshmen or not.

The freshman debaters are Marinell Ross, Dorothy Dick, Tom Smith, and Bob Barker taking the affirmative side of the question, For the negative, are Bette Lou McCoy, Helen Marie Wilson, Ralph Sawmiller, and Byron Sprague. The question is the same as that of the varsity.

Miss Edith Schiller, Young American, Is Piano Soloist

The Farbman String Symphony will present a recital tonight in Voorhees Chapel at 8:15. This is the third of this year's Artists' Series programs.

Harry Farbman is the conductor, and Edith Schiller, pianist, is the guest artist. The orchestra has been highly praised throughout the United States. The group has presented several concerts at Town Hall in New York.

The program will be divided into four parts. The first group will contain numbers by Vivaldi and the second by Tschaikowsky. After intermission, the orchestra will play a concerto by Mendelssohn.

"La Oracion del Torero" by Turina and the well-known "Turkey in the Straw" by George Steiner will conclude the program.

Miss Schiller, the piano soloist, will appear with the orchestra. She is a young American who has been acclaimed by the best critics in the country.

Harry Farbman, the conductor, deserves all the credit for organization and direction of the symphony orchestra. He has worked to attain the high place in the musical world of today.

This is the third program on the 1942-43 Artists' Series concerts. The last one was by John Gurney, bass-baritone. The first of the programs was a joint recital presented by Miss Lucielle Browning, a mezzo soprano, and Miss Rose Dirman, lyric soprano.

Theta Alpha Phi Will Manage The Graduation Play

The commencement play, "Much Ado About Nothing," will be managed by the members of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic society. This is the first time in several years that the group has relieved Mrs. Nita E. West, director, of the task, and the hope at present is that they shall do it hereafter.

Theta Alpha Phi will have charge of the staging, costuming, and business end of the play. Arranging the costumes for a Shakespearean play is particularly hard. The dramatic art department already has some costumes, but a number will have to be made especially for the play.

Membership in Theta Alpha Phi is earned by acquiring points through participation in dramatic productions. The members are the students on the Hill who have had the most dramatic training. This will give them an opportunity to become acquainted with the mechanical side of a stage production.

At present there are five members of the society: Bette Clevenger, Alice Jones, Charles Dunning, Ted Kidder, and Ben Lynt..

A complete list of the cast will probably be announced next week. The temporary date for the play is Friday, May 14.

Athenians will not meet this week because of the scheduled Artists Series tonight. There will be a meeting next week, but the program has not yet been arranged

EDITORIAL

Since Aristotle said in the ancient adage "Spring is sprung, we now misquote that learned sere and say "Spring is springing!" This new season marks the beginning of an end for all of us. Term season marks the beginning of an end for all of us. Term papers are coming due. Comprehensives are too near. Seniors are already seriously considering graduation invitations and announcements. At the end of this present semester—an end for all of us of one sort or another—will we all be able to look back on the term and say honestly "That was a job well done."?

Or will we have to face unpleasant facts to find that a grade or even just getting by was our sole motive? Will we find that in order to get a grade we used others work, cribbed on an exam, or made futile attempts to "Apple-polish"? Will we be forced to realize that lazily we have given less than our best merely to slide by with a passing grade.

If we could all realize that the letter grade is not what counts— that A or C is not important in itself—that it is only relative—we would have come a long way toward true understanding. If we were convinced that honest effort was the thing that counted, then we would know that what we put into our work ould indicate the results. Then we would be able, at the end of the semester, to look back and say with satisfaction, regardless of the grade, "That was a job well done!"

Strictly Incidental

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Could it be that March is going out like a lamb? I don't dare exclaim over the wonders and the beauties of these past few spring days, for fear a burst of thunder, or a flurry of flakes will have intervened between the writing and the printing of this colyum. (Golly, that word sounds important. I just had to stick it in.) They say in the Spring a young girl's fancy lightly turns. What with all the Springs we've had since school started there sure must be a lot of turning going on. Which reminds me, what's happened to ye old groundhog, this year.

Before leaving for med school, Bob Francis was presented with a skeleton of paper. But it was good strong paper. He plans to hang it over the cadavers he works with at Temple. Who knows, maybe this is the very inspiration he needs to make him a great surgeon.

A few days after ARSENIC AND OLD LACE, every time anybody looked at Bill Buford, his ears would be greeted with a thunderous, "Charge". Satan wouldn't be waitin' if the next day in history class, the lesson wasn't about Teddy Roosevelt.

Talking about Arsenic, wasn't that set simply Dunning? Despite the fact that the whole cast and then some wanted to help.

Open letter to Lester Clarke Boyd:

Dear Friend(?),

It all Boyles down to this. You can't have your cake and eat it too.

From,
One who likes cake too.

P.S. Well you got your name in, didn't you?

There's something about Mary Dawn Noblit that makes us want to call her "Lady" Dawn. She has a kind of calm majesty, Why she even waits tables at Pearsons with dignity. And that's something.

We claim the privilege of having been one of the first on the campus to see Papa Vine after baby Joanne was born. It was in front of Voorhees that I saw him jump out of his car, smile and wave at me. (Me, whom he dosen't know from a hole in the wall.)

Pat Howarth has reached a new high in receiving flowers. Gladiolas, roses by the dozen, and gardenias crowded her room last week. Most of the girls on the Hill clattered up to fourth floor pearsons to see them. Whoever said "Jim doesn't ever send me pretty flowers, "had yet to meet la Howarth.

One memorable Tuesday evening that inevitable trio, McGarity, Buzby, and Kirstein were walking along, humming or singing to themselves. One of them swung into Dinah. It being a nice tune, the other two followed suit. When lo, and behold, it hit them. They were good, really good together. As soon as they can grab an opportunity, (allright, we'll be more subtle) as soon as they are given an opportunity, they are going to allow the public (no longer unsuspecting) the benefit of their talents.

Then there's that joke Dr. Griffitts told one of his chemistry classes about Damascus steel. A, to prove the blade's keenness swung it through the air a few times. B, scornfully asks, "What's so sharp about that." To which a encounters, "Shake your head a few times and find out." Gory, isn't it?

Has it ever struck you how perfectly some roommates go together. Remember how cute black-headed Soapie Bernardini and blond-headed Margaret Kinnie looked last Sunday, Soapie, in her white sweater and Margaret in her black one. The there's the case of Louise Corbett, or maybe it would be more proper to say the case of Rosalind Garges. For it was Roz who was abed with measles. Anyway Louise in her determination to see her roomie decided she'd either be allowed to go inside and get the measles or stay outside in the rain and catch pneumonia.

There's nothing a waitress likes better than to know her table thinks about her when she is sick. June Gowenlock, despite the fact that her room was a "mess", and her hair was in curlers, was "tickled pink", or maybe blushes rose when two highly esteemed campus leaders visited her.

Teddy Coffer deserves to be called the Florence Nightingale of Baldwin or the angel of mercy or lauded in some manner for the way she pitches in and helps when girls in Baldwin are ailing. Some people know how, others know how and do something about it. Teddy is one of those people.

Ask Hop who took the first outdoor swim this year, Oor maybe he's to kind to tell.

By way of good-bye to Bill Long, Neil Proffitt said, "I'll sure miss your sweaters when you're gone, Bill." And what number are you in line for Neil's reindeer affair. Lucky me! I'm 126.

From This Corner

By BEN LYNT

Swivel Drivel

Filed under "unfinished business" along with two inches of very flat Pepsi- cola, a collection of perfectly horrible snap-shots, and an old (high-school) address book, I found two pennies, a bobby pin (for goodness sake) and some once begun but early discarded paragraphs which at one time I had thought might be used as column material if an emergency ever arose. ..... It has. During the past week so many things have happened to me in such short order that I have become, without the least shadow of a doubt, what my roomy chooses to call "mentally unsprung." To begin with we chose to hoe out our Carnegie cubicle the morning of the big snow and fire-extinguisher battle between the more or less permanent occupants of the west end of the building and the temporary east-enders. Whatta tragedy! We were in the line of fire. So we abandoned the project, but in the early beginnings of the process, I managed to unearth the above mentioned objects. I also found that peachy new solid mahogany combination badminton racket and pogo stick which my maiden aunt Agatha sent me in my freshman year from Australia.

First of all there is that paragraph which almost cost me my head because it didn't get in last week's column for no good (or bad) reason. It just didn't get there. It might have been due to the vissisitudes of the accelerated program impinging upon me in the early morning hours after a big night at the play, or it might have been due to the idiosyncracies of the graphic commerical arts and the general frailties of human nature. At any rate I would like to take this opportunity to make what amends can be made at this late date and run that part of last week's column about ARSENIC AND O. L. which had to do with the interpretation of the part of Elaine Harper, the daughter of the next door minister, And I quote:

Jordy Meadows was a "natural" as the minister's daughter and better half of the young love interest in the drama, providing just the proper amount of light and beautiful relief from the sinister situations which developed all over the Brewster household in the near dead of night. Her in character presence rendered numerous scenes hunorous, which without her would have been merely wonderfully gruesome. She was as interesting in the clinches with Mortimer as she was in the clutches of the homicidal Jonathan.

O yes, one very important thing which I never quite had the nerve to mention in print (believe it or not) which I must take this opportunity immediately to mention. And that is concerning the one Valentine which I received this past February 14th. one, that is, not counting the numerous penny comics which I always look forward to getting. The handwriting was foreign to me and all of the amatuer sloothing which I did for days and days thereafter availed but nothing. It was really sweet, and I did appreciate the thoughtfulness of the person who sent it. It was the one bright spot on an otherwise dismal horizon that week, and if I only knew who was so kind to me, who even went so far as to mention that she read this column weekly (or could it have been weakly?), I would gladly offer to take her to the Artists' Series some time. Seriously, whoever you are, I'll try to see to it that you get an extra star in your crown when the time comes.

And, although I never expect to hang for my knowledge or appreciation of esthetics, I love it in Vespers when we have soloists and every thing is quiet, with the whole choir blending so perfectly in the background, and Mr. (proud-papa) R. W. Vine conducting so assiduously and concernedly down front, I can just close my eyes and listen, and then open them at the first two rows of the choir and mumble "brother, this is paradise, heaven can wait!" And then there is Betsy Watkins and her unparalleled intoning of "Sugar Blues" and "If I Didn't Care", and "Mad About You Blues", and other folk ballads. Gladly would I trade my whole collection of match-box tops and tiddl y-winks trophies, for a whole evening's entertainment of her singing. It haunts me. I love it.

And if there has been any doubt about the umpire, referee, or whatever his title is, at the water-polo games these past two weeks, you should have been on hand at the close of the third game last Thursday and there no longer would have been—he was all wet, and we can prove it. We personally think that it was a delightful innovation and have only regretted that there hasn't been a large body of water on hand at some of the intra-mural basketball games to bring into play for some of those blind defs. Those puritan ancestors of ours had the right idea, the combined opinions of two hundred years' scolars notwithstanding, there just ain't nothing like the "water cure" for pure cussedness.

There were other paragraphs too, I'm sure, but I'm afraid that some of them must have gotten mailed home under the guise of weekly letters, or something. Maybe that accounts for the strange replies I've been getting of late from up Noath, and the chilly aloofness I detected in the fortnightly epistle from the Chicago Free Bible Tract Assn. Ah well, gentle reader, all the better for you. Before I close this lofty treatise (replete with footnotes, bibliography, and apologies to Mrs. Gilbert) let me take this opportunity to forecast coming columns. There will be an appraisal of the campus Y's, the published results of an investigation of what happens to the little pieces of soap-bars, a discussion of the local draft board and its mal-practices, and one whole column of advice on sure-fire methods for passing comprehensives. And, oh yes, student government.

Bobilee Knabb is a home economics major from Hawthorn, Fla. She is an assistant to the librarian and has long been active in campus activities. Georgia Lu Meadows has served on the staff of the ECHO since her first year, is a member of Writers' Workshop, has participated in dramatic productions here on the campus from time to time, and had one of the leading roles in the recent hit "Arsenic and Old Lace." She is a member of the Varsity Debate squad this year which brought honor and distinction to the school from South Atlantic Forensic Tourney held in Hickory, North Carolina. She is home at Beaver, Pennsylvania. B. J. Miller, from Roselle, N. J. has been a member, and a very important one too, of the Student Council, serving as secretary for the Student-Faculty Senate for one year. She has been prominent in other campus activities since her Freshman Year. She is majoring in French. Mary Jean Partridge is from Pensacola, Florida, and was runner-up for the sponsor of the junior calss. She is a sociology major. Katie Tomilson, from Anchorage, Kentucky, is a Home Economics major. She has been a consistant participant in the girl's point system program, and is generally well-liked for her charming personality. Martha Walker, a Maryville girl, is majoring in Home Economics. She was class sponsor in her freshman year, and is considered by many to be one of the campus beauties.

Billye Ruth Braly has served as a member of the ECHO staff and is at prestent one of the Chemistry assistants, She is a member of Writers' Workshop, and is well-liked for her unusual brand of witticisms. Margaret Boretsky, better know as "Steve", has long been active in girls' sports, YWCA activities, and class functions. She is a biology major from Scottsdale, Pa. Ruth Carter has made a name for herself as a member of the fine arts department, specializing in oils and water colors. She is an art major from Pensacola, Florida. Lucille Gaultney, one of the popular Home Ec. majors from Dellrose, has served on the Student Council among other things, and is popular for her beaming countenance seen at all the important functions on the Hill. Dorothy Harned, seen latest as one of the Brewster sisters in the campus hit of the season, "Arsenic and Old Lace," has long been active in dramatic productions on the Hill, and is a dramatic art major from Maryville. Lois Jeanne Howarth, better know to her friends as "Pat" is vice-president of the junior class, and a morale builder for the 42nd detachment of the Air Crew Cadets, Betty Jean Kennedy, is a Dramatic arts major from Hickory, North Carolina, and was seen recently as the other of the Brewster sisters, starring in Arsenic and Old Lace.

ing at Maryville?

SHOT: "I will try to make life brighter with all the noise I can make."

IGNITION: Pvt. Ralph Murray is from North Carolina. Ralph, what do you think will happen when quarantine is lifted?

POP-OFF: "There'll be a hot time in the old town that night."

AN AIR-ARMY ANALOGY

Being quarantined since the day they arrived at Maryville College made the cadet candidates appreciate even more the liquid air demonstrator, Mr. John Sloan. Of course because he happened to mention that he had lived in Florida and Georgia had nothing to do with it. Although Mr. Sloan had the coldest subject of any speaker in the world he got a warm welcome from fellow-scientist, Dr. Griffitts, who teaches Geometry to the army men.

The fantastic liquid air froze a yellow banana, enabling the banana to be used as a hammer. A green banana could not be used because it would get so brittle after being frozen that it would crack up after being hammered. This is signifiicent since, whether the enemy is yellow or green, they will crack up under the "hammering" of the flying cadets. The liquid air froze soap bubbles, fried eggs, and exploded aluminum fixtures as it rapidly evaporated before the aircrew students' eyes. This was appropriate since in the future the same men as flying cadets will show the world how fast the enemy will evaporate.

SCOTSPORTS

By TED PRATT

ECHO SPORTS

LOOKING FORWARD TO TENNIS

Although the possibility of having an intercollegiate tennis team this year is still uncertain, a group of last year's tennis players are continuing to work on the courts and are slowly getting into shape. The three Memorial courts have been raked, dragged, and rolled in an attempt to get a hard, smooth playing surface. The scorers stands have been painted and the courts have been lined. It is hoped that the team can begin regular outside practice at the beginning of next week.

The team will miss the services of Oliver Van Cise, veteran Scottie who is now Corporal Van Cise of the Quartermaster's Corps, Camp Blanding, Florida. Van played three years of top-flight tennis at Maryville, helping to cop the State Doubles Championship in 1940. Van, a tennis "Bitsy" of 135 lbs., made a respected name for himself among all of the Scotties' opponents and proved himself to be a bit of "dyna-mite" when it came to pulling matches out of the fire. His excellent record of 51 wins against only 9 defeats in the three years he represented the Scots speaks for itself. Van's steady drive and consistent game will be sorely missed in the coming campaign.

"BLOODY MURDER"

It was just a passing whim of Coach's, but now it's the most popular (?) game on the Hill. All of the men's phys ed classes indulge in this mass-massacre. In fact they spend the first half of the period yelling "C'mon, Coach, let's play "Bloody Murder!" The other half of the period they play it. "Slugger" Enloe originated the name for the game, which is probably the greatest contribution he will ever make to this noble institution of higher learning. Sides are picked at random with approximately 25 corpses on each side. A basketball is tossed into the air above any two opponents and play begins. The object? Well, there are a variety of answers for that but the one in the "rules" is "to dribble the ball across the goal-line at one end of the floor." Anyone who dosen't hit the floor several times is a sissy and if a guy dribbles or passes the ball, he's fouling. One word of warning —get the hospital ready, and don't say we didn't warn you!

HERE AND THERE

The Maryville Collegiates breezed through The Southern Appalachian Independent Basketball Tournament to win the Boys Class B title. They defeated the UT Ag Club 23-16 in the finals and placed several players on all-tournament teams. Starring for the Collegians were Doug Roseborough, Gordon Webb, "Igee" (Gone With the Air Corps) Breazeale, "Easy" Ezell, Ken Talbott, and Marv Mitchell.

A flock of sheep is keeping the Rose Bowl turf in trim. That's an idea for "Brownie" when the grass on the Campus begins to grow

The war sort of gave baseball a cold shoulder—and is it cold up there! Something's definitely wrong —"Joisey" was never like this!

Cornelius Warmerdam's recent 15' 8½" is another one for the books. It was the Flying Dutchman's 33rd successful jump oner 15 feet. Now representing the North Carolina Pre-Flight School, Corny's shootin for 16 feet!

New York basketball fans were treated to a lot of big-time basketball when the National Invitational and the National Collegiate A. A. Tournaments were begun last week. A number of top teams are appearing in the Garden, including Dartmouth, St. Johns, Toledo, Fordham, and New York University.

With the help of Chief Engineer Brown, Coach, and parts of the old power house, the college is practically in possession of a full-fledged obstacle course. Happy landing, fellas!

Climaxing a brilliant debut last Thursday was Referee Benny Lynt's timely immersion to cap the Water Polo season. Propelled by four pairs of eager hands, Mr. Lynt flew through the proverbial air with the greatest of splashes. Or something. The sport (water polo) proved popular on the Hill and everyone seemed happy about the whole intramural set-up. Especially when it was all over.

but one bout this year, a pardonable defeat at the hands of Tennessee's Art Brandeau. He is a member of the Marine reserve and may be called at the end of the present semester.

Lloyd Anderson, soph "white hope", expects to be around when things start popping next year in the wrestling gym because of a 4D classification. He has wrestled in both the 165 and 175 pound classes, doing equally well in either division. Anderson is one of the best wrestling prospects to appear on the hill in a good many years

The well known "Brownie" (Ernest Brown) was the toastmaster for the evening and introduced wrestling coach, Woody and head coach Lombe Honaker. Retiring captain Joe Suitor also said a few words.

The banquet put an official end to another highly successful wrestling season here on the Hill With Woody Everett clicking as a freshman coach and making the best of a manpower shortage, the team exceeded a good many of its expectations.

Cotton Club

Cotton Club will meet in Athenian Hall Monday night at 6:30. The program committee has planned a sing of the familiar southern songs. Thelma Richardson and Cynthia Johnson will present a skit representative of the south.

The constitution was changed at a previous meeting and the club now includes all southern states. If you consider yourself from the south don't forget the meeting.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

FINAL STANDINGS OF WATER POLO

	won	lost	pct.
Water Buoys	4	0	1.000
Starfish	3	1	.750
Crayfish	2	2	.500
Athenian	2	2	.500
Ministerials	1	3	.250
"Y" Cabinet	0	4	.000

CRAYFISH VS. STARFISH

The Starfish overcame the Crayfish by the score of 11-2. Ken Waggett was big man for the Starfish, scoring two touch goals of 3 points each. Still and Anderson did the Starfish other scoring with a touch goal and a thrown goal respectively. The scorers had good passing assistance from Don Conkle, Bill Roberson, I. Breazeale and Spears. The only Crayfish score came in the second half when Frank Bradford scored a thrown goal for 2 points. The Crayfish, made up of Purvis, Winkle, Suitor, Brand and Guaitieri had a good passing attact but it was no match for the fast-moving Starfish.

—"Y" CABINET VS. MINISTERIALS

The Ministerials overcame the "Y" Cabinet 8-2 in what was supposed to be one of the most even matches scheduled. The "Y" Cabinet kept coming back for more but were not quite up to manager Kirstein's boys. Hal Lloyd opened the scoring in the first half by scoring a thrown goal for 2 points and the "Y" Cabinet was in the lead. In the second half the Ministerials began to work and in rapid succession Hubert (not too Rusty) Hust and Paul Smith each scored a touch goal and Jim Yunker scored a thrown goal. The Ministerials had a big supply of reservists. The whole team roster was composed of Guy Lambert, Hubert Rust, Owen "Sinking-second vice president" McGarity, Jim "office boy" Yunker, Paul Smith, John Kirstein, Harry Ferguson, and Bill Buzby. Hal Lloyd was assisted by Clyde Brown, Joe Brown, Bill Segraves, and Art Bushing.

WATER BUOYS VS. ATHENIAN

One of the closest games of the water polo scedule was the Water Buoys 6-2 win over the Athenians. Bergquist did the scoring for the Buoys with two touch goals. He was aided by good passing attack from his teammates: Green, Herzberger, Adams, Swarzback, Sidner, and Hogue. The Athenian 2 points were scored by a thrown goal by Ralph Parvin. The Athenians had a colorful team made up of Scott, Hopkins, the Seel brothers, Pratt, Cooper and Sam Pemberton.

GAMES TUESDAY, MARCH 23

WATER BUOYS VS. CRAYFISH

The Water Buoys took the Crayfish in their stride with an 8-1 win. Herzberger led the Buoys with 4 points scoring 1 point on a foul shot and 3 points on a touch goal. Swartzback and Hogue scored 2 points each by thrown goals. The Crayfish scored their 1 point on a foul shot in the second half. Charlie Brand scored the point.

ATHENIAN VS. CABINET

he "Y" Cabinet forfeited to the Athenians on last Tuesday by not having enough men present for the game.

STARFISH VS. MINISTERIALS

The Starfish overpowered the Ministerials in one of the biggest scores of the season, 21-0. Bill Roberson led with 4 touch goals of 3 points each. Still was next with a thrown goal, a touch goal, and 1 point made on a foul shot. Bill Long scored the Starfish' other 3 points by a touch goal.

REFEREE

Benjamin A. Lynt, a junior ministerial student and English major, from 1915 Lawrence St., N. E. Washington, D. C., well-known debator, actor, speaker, and athlete was the referee for all the water polo games. His service did not go unrewarded.

HORSESHOES (SINGLES)

Singles horseshoes tournament begins next week and 14 men have already signed up. There are Bill Buford, Doug Roseborough, Bill Adams, Ralph Parvin, John Kirstein, Don Hopkins, Wallace Easter, Robert F. Huber, Sam Pemberton, Olsen Pemberton, Wilber Chapman, Bill Segraves, Ed Rowley, Winfred Ezell, and Ken Cooper. The tournament promises to be an exciting one and any of the above slingers bear watching.

SOFTBALL

Softball will be the big sport for the coming weeks and always is one of the best-liked sports on the Hill. If you haven't signed up on a team, do so right now. All Eligibility lists must be handed to Abner Richards by tonight. Play begins next Tuesday. The schedule will be posted on Carnegie bulletin board.

Apologies to the song-writer, but you get the idea. Maybe we are all a shade off with our blue-green; but perhaps we've restless or imaginative and inventive. At least it may catch his eye. Ah, and then with spring comes green which with its royalty, wisdom and arrogance sets the stage for all the "twitters". And why not be patriotic with red, white, and blue; or loyal with "orange and garnet"? Show him you can be true with the ribbons which stand for all that's in good school spirit. This is one way to let him know you're full of pep and fun, thoughtful, and of even disposition. Tie it into a "beau" with a little romance, mystery and imagination mixed in. Then—

Well, now you know—It's up to you. It's all in the way you wear it.

By The 42nd College Training Detachment

APPRECIATION

By William McMillian

For Maryville's whole hearted cooperation toward the Officers and men of the 42nd College Training Detachment, we wish to forward our sincere appreciation. It can be truthfully said that none of the cadets expected the College to literally open its doors to them. And now that the quarantine is about over, the College can expect their courteousness returned —to the letter

SICK CALL

As the College hospital opened its doors one morning not so very long ago, in rushed no less than (censored) husky cadets, some complaining of high tenperatures. Before the night was over, (censored) of these boys were diagnosed as measles cases. This they shall never live down. Cadet Wilson (I miss you so) was a first customer. It is suspected that the groans which came from his room were only the wails of disappointed gamesters—get it? Ask Wilson. Many were the mysterious letters sent to—Home and nearby vicinities. Cadet Pinson (of the light brown hair) swears that his measles were real—but admits he was caught talking to co-eds who gathered beneath his window. How he does it, no WON knows. It has never yet been discovered just who it was getting a breath of fresh air at 2 or 3 in the morn and hanging half way out the hospital window to do it! If only someone would RAT! Sounds interesting. Cadet (is that all there is to eat?) Roe was a bit careless with a certain letter from—home? And now a very tall boy knows all. Better investigate! It was on Saturday night that the Jam session occured. Cadets O'Hara, Frazier, Pimm, and Shewfelt made perfect dancin partners during the Gay Fandango that followed radio's one and only "Hit Parade" Pajamas and all! Ask a guitar-playing Cadet Sergeant—he only stayed a few days—what the plans were that he made with a certain Hospital orderly Corporal. This is worth looking into, boys. No kidding!

The mystery of the radiator pipe-tapping has never been solved yet. Roe had a copy of the code first—but didn't keep it long when the new patients downstairs proved to be co-eds who had the measles too!

DON'T QUOTE ME

By Bob Sherley

Saturday March 27, 1943 will be a day long to be remembered in Maryville and the immediate vicinity as the 42 College Thaining Detachment stationed at Maryville College will be enjoying their first open post in almost six weeks WE HOPE.

It has been rumored that our guidon flag bearer Johnny Clampitt has been following the Marines Slogan to at all times to have the situation well in hand to the letter. I think his line is very good don't you Vicky? Careful she may be engaged?

Every night after first aid or study hall the telephone booth is monopolized by the same group. Your girl will wait, Jowers, you don't have to call her every night give us a break.

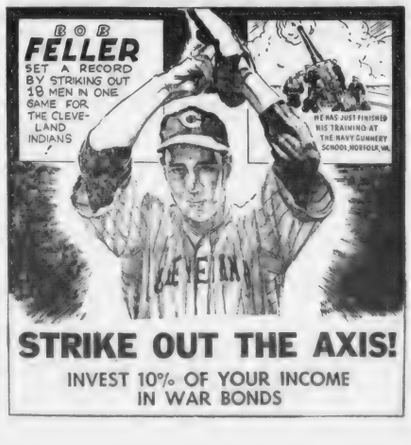
It seems that Cadets Nicholson, Friedel, Irwin and Schoffield have quite a monopoly on the pilot detail. Those post holes really look good, boys. Keep up the good work.

Lt. Samuel D. Wade would like someone to tender him a formula for keeping certain Cadets from continuous chattering at meal time. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated.

Boys will be boys, but floor chief Bill Brown would like to know who hid his favorite picture the other day. Keep trying, Brown, you may find out.

I wonder why the sudden rise in the sun glasses department. It can't be that the boys would like to take Cadet Sherley's rating as inspection chief away from him, would it?

Business maggot Cadet Morris Arnovitz, is now in charge of the PX, Coca Cola machine, room orderly and etc. What I'd like to know is how does he do it all and still keep up his scholastic standing.



In my endless wanderings I ran across a little Poem that could be very likely called the "Soldier's Courage". To know that his girl back home was waiting in this attitude would make him fight harder than ever for what he feels sacred. What do you think?

Do you remember when the night slants down
And all the Inns roused dreamlily from sleep,
Do you remember when this gilded town
Made promises that it can never keep?
Do you recall a waltz that once we heard?
Do you believe a kiss our lips have known?
Is there a dream that beckons to be stirred
Across the miles that keep us so alone?
You have few hours for memories, I know
And yet I like to think that you find time,
To read these simple words: "I love you so."
And know how well you made those moments rhyme—
That was a happy world we had then
So fight, sweetheart, to bring it back again.

—Phil Stack.

In all respect to the poem above, we wish to offer our deepest and most solemn sympathies for Cadet John G. Sommons' recent disillusionment. No offense old boy, perhaps its all for the best. Things have a way of turning out at the right time—and, well, life is just a little way past the hour. That old saying about Time— you know. And the Oceans are full.

INVEST 10% OF YOUR INCOME IN WAR BONDS

WAR BOND QUIZ

Q. In what denominations are War Savings Stamps available?

A. Savings Stamps are issued in denominations of 10¢, 25¢, 50¢, $1, and $5.

Q. Is the registration of War Savings Bonds a matter of public record?

A. No. Records of ownership of War Savings Bonds are confidential and information is given only to those persons whose right to it is fully established.

Q. Where can I buy a War Savings Bond?

By Gib Crockett.

A. At United States post offices of the first, second, and third classes, and at selected post offices of the fourth class, and generally at classified stations and branches; at Federal Reserve Banks and branches; at most commercial banks, savings associations; credit unions; other financial institutions; many retail stores, theaters, and other official sales agencies; or through a Pay-Roll Savings Plan. You may also buy them by mail direct from any Federal Reserve Bank or branch, or from the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Q. What is the limit of ownership of War Savings Bonds?

A. There is an annual limit of $5,000 maturity value, a $3,750 cost price for each calendar year, of bonds originally issued during that year to any one person.

Remember—the longer you keep War Bonds, up to 10 years, the more valuable they become.

BUY ONE 25 CENT WAR STAMP AND FEED A CARRIER PIGEON A MONTH

By MADELINE COOKE

Did you know that the money collected from last week's war stamp sale was only enough to provide one soldier with socks, a mess kit, a steel helmet, a blanket, a pup tent, and a gas mask? That dosen't include any fighting equipment at all. The $38 of this week before would furnish him with a pair of shoes also and a bayonet and seven clips of bullets for a Girand rifle. It takes four $18.75 bonds to pay for the rifle, however.

The Stamp Committee has recently acquired several posters which show just how much one stamp can buy. For example, one 10-cent stamp will purchase oxygen enough to keep a pilot high above anti-aircraft range for 40 minutes. One 25-cent stamp will pay for one month's feed for a carrier pigeon. Three 10-cent war stamps will pay for two sandbags which can stop any type of rifle or machine gun bullet. Six 25-cent stamps will purchase one hand-grenade. It takes fifty $18.75 bonds to pay for a jeep. Figuring that Maryville students have purchased a total of $750 worth of stamps since last October, we've paid for only 80 per cent of one jeep.

Next week each student will be urged to buy a stamp for something definite—say bandages or five cartridges (one10-cent stamp). The following week a project for each class will be announced—something like hickory skis for six men ($15) or a walkie-talkie, a two-man radio ($18.75).

Where can we buy stamps? In the Bookstore always. On Wednesdays stamps are on sale after meals in Pearsons' lobby. A temporary booth is going to be erected soon, and patriotic recordings will be played to call attention to it.

True, if our allowance has arrived at all, the Chatterbox is terribly convenient, and it's a nuisance to bring our purses over to meals with. We've got part of the Army on our campus now. It's for fellows like them that we're buying stamps. Let's really get war- conscious and ring up some figures we won't be ashamed to show Lieutenant Ladd.

Dr. R. F. Caverlee To Speak At Chapel

Dr. Robert F. Caverlee, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fredericksburg, Virginia, is going to be the speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service April 3.

Edna Ballerina Is Queen O' April For M. C. Campus; Silence Reigns

TRAINBEARER KITTY

Discipline Committee Votes; Trainbearer Is O' Tillie Loesch

STREET CAR MAIDEN

Regal Procession Will Be Held In College Library

QUEEN EDNA

Miss Edna Ballerina has been elected by popular vote to reign as the annual Queen O' April. She was chosen by vote of the Disciplinary Committee.

Miss O'Tillie Loesch will be trainbearer and moral support. This sweet young thing kindly offered her services to the new royalty.

Edna is well-known as a campus cutie and has taken part in athletics and other intellectual pursuits.

O'Tillie is also a leader in any group. She was elected to Tri Beta Phlappa in her freshman year. She is at present a member of one of the gym classes in the physical fitness program sponsored by the college.

The regal procession will begin its pace of grandeur at one end of the library. To the tune of "Alexander is a Swoose" the sweet-sixteen-and-never-been-run-over by a streetcar maiden will glide (as only uncrowned queen can) to the library desk. O'Tillie will pick up the train in case it gets caught on any of the chairs or lamps. She will also move any tables that are in the way. Edna coyly admits that she is a bit awkward in front of more than two people.

The endearing Edna will wear lavender green taffeta hair ribbons and yellow pajamas. Her auburn beauty will be enhanced by her court of just-as-beautiful ladies in waiting. The nineteen ladies in waiting will be selected from the Ministerial society. Names will be announced in next Sunday's ECHO.

Miss Loesch will wear a black bathing suit with red collar and

YM Staggers To Smith's For Feed

Knoxville Speaks Eighteen Teeth Plug For Jamarik

YMCA held its annual banquet on Friday, April 2, at Smith's Cafe. Approximately 250 men attended the banquet assembled on Carnegie steps at 5 p. m. to begin the annual trek to Smith's. Jimmy Garvin acted as guide and it was a tired and hungry group that arrived in downtown Maryville promptly two and a half hours later in front of the Post Office, the Bluebirds, lead by Captain Paul Jamarick and the Busy Bees, lead by Captain Lawrence Sthreshley, set out to paint the town a deep shade of pink. After a few hours of this, the weary men were taken on reclining Roman couches to the Blue Room of the Smith's Cafe for dinner. A few words of welcome were declared by someone and all sat to a table laden with such good things to eat as beans and greens. Speaker for the evening was Mr. Robert S. Hamilton of Knoxville, who spoke on the timely subject, "The Heroes and Heroines of the Revolutionary War". Mr. Ralph Colbert acted as postmaster while music was furnished by Glen Miller and His Orchestra.

The YM also wishes to call attention to its approaching election. According to the constitution, article 68, the four officers of the association shall be selected for the retiring cabinet if they can be wakened. It is requested that all who are interested in becoming officers should sign the paper on Carnegie bulletin board. The only requirement is the minimum of eighteen sound teeth, with at least two molars opposing on each side and four opposing front teeth. Polls will remain open all night to accommodate the guards at Carnegie. All are urged to vote.

Vineyard's Choir To Croon Cantata In New York Soon

of the Chapel choir will journey to New York City to present the cantata, "Rejoice in F flat Minor" by Honjo Eichelbreski, a famous Russian composer of the 21st century. This musical composition is in three parts, beginning with the first note of the overture, and ending with the lost chord. Eichelbreski was a world famous child prodigy, being able to play any composition of famous composers upon sight.

The Choir under the direction of Mr. Richard Vineyard, offered to render this musical program as a token of appreciation to the New York management who has arranged such a fine group of Artists' Series this year. The offer was gratefully accepted, and word has been received to the effect that they will perform before an audience similiar to the highly intellectual group who witnessed the Artists' Series here at Maryville College.

There are a number of outstanding solos in the cantata which will give the talented members of the Choir a chance to show the true merits of their respective voices. Payen' McGarity will sing "Over the Hill and Far Away, the Farther the Way the Better". Marcia Kierns has been chosen to sing the "Bread of Life", a solo especially adapted to her hereditary make-up. The "Refrain from Spitten" will of course be sung by that inseparable couple, Oscar and Ellen.

As the finishing touch to this novel musical program the Choir mascot, little 11-day old Joan deVine will croon "Oh Daddy" in her best style.

If enough Maryville college students are interested in making the trip to New York to hear the choir, permission will be granted by W. T. B. to charter the buses required. As an incentive, the bus fares will be paid by the administration. Reservations may be made with Dr. McClelland or Mr. Pieper.

Beginning next Monday, stairs will be available in all dormitories for students to get to the upper floors.

Dr. Lloyd Pleads For New Forward Fund, Fish Pond

Immediate Action Must Be Taken Or Fish Become Extinct

At dawn on Wednesday morning, March 31, President Ralph W. Lloyd, amid cheering students, left the Maryville Airport on a P-38 bound for Cincinnati and other points north. The sole purpose of his trip is to secure a new Forward Fund for the construction of a fish pond on Maryville college campus, a project which has been contemplated for several months. The urgency for immediate action had become so great, that Dr. Lloyd thought it best to postpone a previously scheduled trip to the Orient where he was to discuss the relation between the present meat shortage and the Japs rats. He plans to make this important flight as soon as the pondless crisis has been met.

President Lloyd's first stop will be in Cincinnati where he will speak to the Pan-Methodist College Union Deacons. This speech scheduled for Sunday morning, April 4 at 8:15, will be first of a series, with ten minute intermissions between, in which he will present to the Board the horrible financial need for funds to forward the building of the proposed placid pool. His tour will cover most of the north-eastern states and will be concluded with a final appeal to the Co-eds of the Presbyterian College Union on Forty-second St. Chicago.

It is very evident that there is a necessity for a new fish pond, as the sole lake on the campus is the 5 by 5 one behind the Chatterbox which has been located in the same spot since the founding of the institution several centuries ago. It is not only inadequate in length and width, but is far too shallow to house decent fish. Due to this shallowness, either people or cats have been able to exterminate almost all the fish from the pond. Unless immediate action is taken for their preservation, the complete species will be wiped out.

Blue prints for the future pond are almost completed, and it is estimated that the total cost will be between two or six thousand dollars, or maybe two bits, and will be somewhat larger than Thaw hall. The exact location has not been decided on. However, it is the common sentiment that it should be placed just out from Pearsons. This spot holds water very well, and the inmates who eat here could feed excess morsels to the fish, thus saving food. The new pond is to be ultra-modern, and will be complete with both kinds of running water, automatic feeding device, and an apparatus straight from Berlin to keep the color of the water changing constantly.

Cotton club, an organization for students who grow cotton in their victory gardens, met Monday night 11:00. A discussion was held as to how the roofs of Memorial, Baldwin, and Pearsons could be enlarged in order to give members more space for their gardens. Plans were completed, and it is expected that any day now the additions will be made. The work will be under the supervision of all Cottonclub members, who will line up at the windows and outside to watch developments. The Sweater's Workshop will receive the contract for the work.

IRC Artfully Occupies New Artless Hall

Hundreds of serious, World-minded M. C. students thronged to the meeting of the International Relations club this week which was held Artless Hall—B.U. (before unseated). Since the speaker had arrived thirty minutes early the meeting opened promptly at seven.

In announcing the program for the remainder of the year the president declared that because the stamp drive has been making a hugh profit the club has on its possible list of outside speakers such persons as Mrs. F. R. Roosevelt who plans to speak on "My Daze", John L. Lewis who has divulged that he will tell us of the recent much publicized union suit, and Charles McCarthy who so far has remained silent as to his subject (unusual as that may seem.)

Pink Ruffles At Mid Nite Perched On Summit Of Voorhees

The Writers' Workshop had an interesting meeting last Thursday at midnight atop Voorhees chapel. They found their style was cramped in the confines of a classroom.

They chose the midnight hour so Jordy Meadows could gather material for her mystery thriller, "Cyanide and Pink Ruffles".

At the last meeting Ben Lynt read his latest poem entitled "Hit the pool, fool", or "Hit the stage, rage."

Miss Jessie Heron in a critique extradinaire expressed the views of the club by the choice expression, "Ugh".

A system of management that will provide a clean farrowing pen, a clean pasture for the sow and pigs will go far toward preventing worms.

Faculty Field-Day Ensues, Rich Vein Unearthed In Ruins

Gold has been found on the Maryville College campus. Yesterday night about the bewitching hour of midnight some Maryville college students found gold in the vicinity of Carnegie hall. The students were peacefully digging when they were surprised by one member of the faculty who was prowling around looking for someone to whom to give demerits. It was then that the explosion occured which shook the entire hamlet of Maryville (pardon me, Shakespeare) and roused the Memorial Maids and the Baldwin Babes from their sweet slumbers.

An ever alert ECHO fotographer snapped the above picture when he happened on the scene of destruction and devastation while pursuing one of his straying chickens. Bloodthirsty, wasn't he?

The destruction done to the college campus has been estimated at $200,000, according to the class business statistics. There remains little of Carnegie hall except the front and back walls. No lives were lost in the explosion, but bodies were hurled hither and yon by the force of the explosion. The police have failed to question anyone on the matter, for it seems that everyone is too busy digging for the precious yellow mettle to stop to worry about how the explosion occurred.

The reports so far indicate that there is an extremely rich vein running directly beneath Carnegie hall, extending from the steps almost to the chapel. Classes have been discontinued to permit the students and faculty members to dig for gold. Early on the scene were Miss Jewell, Mrs. Snyder, and Dr. E. R. Hunter.

Debaters Debate Debatable Debate

Four Eggs Per Day Required Of All HENS

Last Wednesday the Maryville College silver tonged cacklers engaged in a debate on the question, Resolved: That all hens should be conscripted for national defense and should be required to lay four eggs per day.

Four other institutions participated in the debate held in the fair city of Passaic, New Jersey, that renowned Republican center. The Alumni Association of Alcatraz was the host; members of the Happy Dale Asylum, and Organization for Ornery Orphans were the other organizations represented.

The Maryville team composed of four females and four wolves hitch-hiked to the scene of the fray. The debate heckler, Verton Dolly Madison Queener, P. Y. R. C. (president of young republican club) accompanied the team on the trip and almost tripped himself.

Debating for Maryville were H. M. S. Wilsonivitch, B. L. Tim McCoy, Barney Ross, and Dotty Doppydick, The men who participated were T.B. Smitivitch, Roberto Barkleroffinowitz, Ralph Seasawmiller, and Lord Byron Spraguelle, These students are all one grade removed from high school and represent the freshman debate team from Maryville college.

The negative team, represented by Wilsonivitch and McCoy, won all its matches. They used these to light their cigars with. They pointout in the course of the debate that hens could not be conscripted for national defense, since some one must remain to keep the home fires burning and the hens are the

"Time Marches Back" Or Debaters Go From Worse To Bad

By BETTY LOU McCOY

It was 11:40 p.. m. as I tripped (and I mean tripped) up the steps to Pearsons third floor, thoroughly determined to have a good time on the debate trip from which we had just returned. Just as I approached the porch, my camera dropped on the sidewalk with a clatter loud enough to waken the whole dorm. Then tired, wrinkled, but elated from our victory over the Virginia-Intermont and Emory-Henry debate teams, and just as noisy as when we had left, we jerked to a dead halt in front of Carnegie and all scrambled out of our jitney.

In a Knoxville restaurant, Dr. Queener demonstrated his best debate tactics upon a waiter who seemed to be somewhat confused about our bill and who thought we owed him more than Dr Queener wanted to pay. The same waiter was also somewhat confused about the drinks we ordered, getting them from seven milks, one hot tea, and one iced tea to seven milks and two hot teas, to five milks and four iced teas, to five milks and two hot teas and two iced teas. There was also a slight mixture of sandwiches; some of them never found their intended owners. This confusion that pervaded the atmosphere around our presence was typical wherever we went, and helps explain why we so completely overwhelmed our opponents.

The drive from Bristol, together with the starlit night was greatly enhanced by the musical abilities of the group, who still hadn't gotten all the meanness out of their systems in spite of the tournament, but who were determined to do so before arriving home. (We wanted to spare Maryville; always considerate—that's us.)

Before we got to Kingsport, we had some discussion to decide upon a movie we didn't want to go to. Marinell Ross had seen "The Road to Morocco" twice and I had seen it once so we came to the conclusion that that was just as good a one to see as any. When we came

Pre-Meds Feature Fleas, Canned Cats

Thursday, March 25, the Premed club met in the biology lab at 6:45 p. m. After a short business meeting taken charge of by the newly elected president, Miss Janet Browne, canned cats were passed out to members who arranged themselves at the lab tables and spent the evening experimenting with different operations shown in moving pictures at a previous meeting.

The next meeting will be held April 8, when Dr. Lea Calloway will speak on the "The Flea's Appendix".

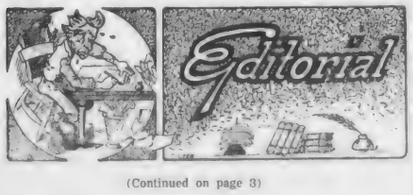
"Use equipment more" is a better wartime slogan than "Use more equipment."

Popular Seniors Spurn Exams In Order To Have More Dates

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Nuts that crack, or thrills that kill, or it could happen only at Maryville, or I'd like a chocolate ice cream cone with sprills, or the musings of a musey phililamagig.

Real serious is our name in keeping with the serious note the paper has adopted this week. After all is a war going on, so why laugh or sing or dance? Er, pardon me, why laugh or sing or jump into the air with glee. Talking about the air (no, I'm not psychic, I just live with girls, too) makes me think of a joke Mr. Kiger told our history class. If you beg me real hard I won't tell you. I accept bribes, too.



As I was saying, war is no time for hysteria. Anyway it's bad for the digestion. Apples are supposed to be good for the digestion. In fact they are the secret of my success. To show you how successful I am, last night six girls got into a fight over who should shine my shoes. I told them they could each take turns, and the one who did them the very prettiest could shine them on Sunday. So it goes. The penalties of popularity. It calls for such snap decisions. Like whether to go for a walk alone, or take my roommate.

My life is one long haunt in the chemistry lab, for fear some jealous girl will throw acid on my face. Faces, faces. that reminds me. There is nothing I hate worse than a two-faced person, unless it's a person with three faces. It's the lack of balance that upsets me. Of course they say variety is the spice of life, but frankly I like a little salt. That is if you call six feet tall, little. To stress an already pointless point, yes, the navy will be donning their whites soon.

I have brains, also. You see our chem, teacher believes in giving real hard tests. The last one was a corker, and to make it more difficult he asked the questions in Greek. But I fooled him, I answered in Latin.

Anyway this is a serious business. War, I mean. Have you ever noticed the grim expressions on the faces of the soldiers when they enter the dining hall. They know what's ahead of them.

There's a prof on the hill who says you can't write nothing, but so help me, I've done it.

"KEEP ON THE GRASS" or "BEWARE: MAD DOGS"

It was brought to our attention in a manner quite romantic
There's a certain campus custom needs amends,
Since it's paganized professors, drives the freshest freshman frantic.
(Y'all come early and bring all your friends).

Yes, it rains and drips and drizzles in a manner
most depressing,
And the mud and muck grow deeper every hour;
Ankle-deep you squish through mud banks in a way
well worth repressing
Had we presidential verbage in our power.

But the point that we're lamenting is the manner detrimental
That you crafty campus culprits crude and crass
Track the mud upon the sidewalks, on the side walks ornamental,
When you know you ought to walk upon the grass.

Oh, our eyes have been affected in a manner much heart-breaking
To see the silvery sidewalks so abused;
While the broad green grassy stretches, pathways ready for your taking,
Lie aloof, forlorn, neglected, hurt, unused.

We would change our meter slightly but to ask you--but politely--
Just what you think a sidewalk was made for;
When you tread it under foot, it cannot again takek
root;
Don't you realize the GRASS can grow once more?

But the clean shiny pavement, swept and cared for every-daily,
Has no rebirth once its lofty top you spoil;
With your boots on, it dies daily, and you help its dying gaily--
(Makes the contents of our three corpuscles boil).

We suggest the Student Council in capacity official
Put up posters on the campus cedar trees,
That will make you quite effectively by warning words judicial
Forevermore "Keep off the Sidewalks" please.

By JORDY MEADOWS

As is always the case, so many extraordinary things have happened during the week that this column is having a struggle to get started, We simply can't imagine which juicy bit of scandal to start whispering about. But perhaps it would be wiser and safer to start at the bottom of the list and work up. And indubitable it would be much more interesting to leave out the unusual items and concentrate on homely, everyday noises.

In the first place we have been viewing with dread and eying with alarm the presnet spring season. Year after year the same thing happens. Students forget their playful little ways, forget home, mother, and ice-cream cones, and live in and for their work. We find that there are only two results from such inane acting. The first is that someone might have to graduate cum lousy. If that dreadful fate dosen't fall, he would surely pass at least one exam. It would be better if we did not allow such conditions to exist. Something should be done. In fact it might be wise for the disciplinary committee to take action. No more of this boning.

Enough of the lighter, brighter, more frivolous side of campus life. Now is the time to get down with our brass knuckles and beat out light, clever fluffy, delicate bits of homespun.

We have noticed that Phillis Anne Cain's new diet program is stupendous. She takes one rolling pin, a box of Ry Krisp, and a malted-milk. All these ingredients she mixes well --andegad--the woman is down to 200 already! Amazing, but may we add---very effective.

Last night as Big Date Nyte on campus was a huge flop. Everyone had a date including all the girls. Such a unhappy state of affairs. A strike should be the outcome. However, it is something to converse about, if conversation happen to be your aim in life.

Some of Carnegie's Junior Commandos are probably due for three of them-what-ti-you-haven't-got-some-of-how-can-you-say-you've-lived. Mr Mac evidently caught them in bed before eleven o'clock. How tragic! Flower will be gratefully received by the little group.

And had you heard about the purple dots? Yes, that's What Jean Walters sair about her little brother. Seems as if each toe yelled seperately. But then you never can tell how the wallpaper wants to hang. Those individuals are all kleptomaniacs. Aren't they lovely???? Five of the drops floated downstream

You thought we'd at least mention Ann Halabrin and George Howard! I guess we fooled you. Instead we'll mention---might even talk about---Peggy Claypool, Winton Enlow, Superman Joyce Jordan, Leslie Ford, Butch Butch, Toots, Jean Vine, or Dr. Barker. How's that?

This farewell forever business is the nuts! And it works too!

And by the way, we thought we might just suggest that the students who plan to get in late search for a place other than the roof of Pearsons on which to park their airmobiles. The ceiling on fourth floor is beginning to sag. And there is nothing that looks more dowdy than a floppy ceiling.

Amen!

From This Corner

By BEN LYNT

OUI, OUI, DEBRIS.

After much smooth talking (a la Jimmie Smythe), and a great deal of rattling of the trusty keys to the Exchequer where the family jools are kept, I finally coaxed the visiting state senator, O. Howie Talques, Sharpe county, away from the clanging mart of the everyday world into the comparative solitude and shelter of This Corner on the ground floor of Carnegie hall for a "special to the Highland Echo (ten cents a line, less luxury tax)" interview on current affairs. The interview went more or less as follows:

"From the rock-bound coasts of Maine to the muscle-bound shores of Muscle Shoals, from the Atlantic to the Specific, from the Sublime to the Ridiculous, this great nation of ours stretches across imperishable—"

Just a minute senator, this is a private interview; have another pretzel. Now, senator, about this student-government question. Would you care to state your views, simply if possible, so that all who read may comprehend? You're fairly familiar with our situation here, are you not?

"Yes, my good patron, mister Lymph, I have spent many sleepless nights in my modest fourteen room apartment in the Blount Hotel pondering over the intricacies of your most difficult problem. Those letters I received from so many of your readers, and my constitutents, here at Maryville College, have etched indelibly in my brain the more lucid details of the whole affair, and I have spared no expense in tracing down any possible leads to a solution of the whole nasty business. I recall in particular one passionate plea from among the lady members of your well-known a cappela choir.--- ah, the ladies, bless 'em, ... but, back to the subject. Now, what was her name? . . . . and her letter showed her to have such an impetuous nature, too. Oh yes, Frances Harris was her name; sure and she must have known of my Irish ancestry, for she sent along her own sweet picture taken years ago, on her twentieth birthday, as she kissed the blarney stone in old Ireland.---

"It seems perfectly clear to me, young man, that all you need do to gain some real power for your students is to equip all the members of your student council with short arms each time they meet to confer with the authorities of the school. In that way, there will be an equality, more or less, of persuasives established so that neither side need be thought of as holding the upper hand. Once such equality and fraternity----" . . . . . More whipped cream on your cucumbers, senator?

"Oh, fudge, Link, but if you say so. It'll be ten cents for it just the same, young man. I said it you know. Saaay . . . who was that little dream I just saw drifting by? I thought you said that this was a men's dorm, and that liberal education hadn't invaded the campus yet except for the few inroads made by Dr. Shinehill. She must be one of the reasons why your boys all make such a mad dash to be in the building by 11:00 o'clock each night, no?

No,senator, she is only one of the three hostesses in the DoB, er, pardon me senator, I mean USO lounge established last week by a joint committee from the YM and YW. It's in the elevator temporarily; but only until they can make arrangements to move the proctor to some other section of the building and put it in the wing which he at present occupies. But, as you were saying, senator, ... What?, Oh, just a little more ketchup on your ice cream; there you are senator . . . . now, please say a few more words for your public, and my reader. No?, well, let me introduce a few of our campus leaders. Here's fair Helen, the little slip that launched a thousand faces, a van, and ran up a little bill on the side. This next is an undecided freshman, Jeanne, who is decided about being a freshman, but can't quite make up her mind about her crowning glory. And, senator, I especially want you to meet these two boys coming now. Yes, the ones with the five legs apiece --- they live right above us on the second floor, and give dancing lessons in the dark each night. And here comes dear little June, looking just like a Christy version of the 17-year-old's "girl of my dreams." She is the little nymph who teaches young fellers how to wash the dishes and set the table in the dining hall.

Wait, come back, senator. I've got some more people I want you to meet. But he was gone. Just like that . . . . up the elevator shaft in a puff of smo--- (oops, I almost said it!), one of the by-products of oxidation. The last I saw of him, he was hanging from one of the guy-ropes, and blowing a bugle and raving something about Buford's being an impostor.

'Charge!" he shouted, and was gone.

cuffs. The knee-length skirt will be plaid, with colors predominating.

After the coronation, war stamps will be sold by the new royalty. A heated discussion led to the decision that stamps would prove more profitable than kisses. Anyway, "Queenie," as she will be called from now on, is a bit bashful.

The election was won after a heated campaign, which was efficiently and economically handled by Edna's campaign manager, Pixie Keyes, Pixie is well-known as a campaign manager for all elections on the campus, but she specializes in those that the Disciplinary Committee is interested in. The expenditures will be enumerated and publicized later, but it has been reported that they totaled seventeen cents.

When interviewed, Edna was reticent to commit herself, but we finally got her to say a few words. She was taking a chocolate milk bath in order to get that "tanned" effect for the big event. "Te-hee" were the exact words uttered by the queen. This is an excellent indication of her famous intellectual capacities. "She serves who only stands and waits" were O'-Tillie's comments on the matter when this raving reporter interviewed her. She too was getting ready for the performance by putting transfer pictures on her fingernails.

The Greatest Show On Mirth will begin promptly when a large enough crowd arrives. Proceeds will go to the Society for Delinquent Dues Payers. Interest from the endowment will be divided among several campus clubs. The admission will be three pins—only one if it is a safety though.

Queen O'April is a tradition singular to Maryville. No other college has dared even to seek equality with such a performance. Each year the queen is chosen for some outstanding feature. (Next year we hope to have an ECHO reporter to be the honored gal.) The public is invited, and so are the faculty members. Several performances will be given in the rain.

Metropolis Students Ask For Game Room

Members of the student body of Maryville college abodes are in the metropolis of Maryville have petitioned the Student Council for a lounge to be the headquarters for their fraternal gatherings. This decision was reached at the special meeting held on the chapel steps following chapel, Thursday morning, April 1.

This room, complete with magazines and radios, is to be used exclusively by these leisure-loving individuals who exercise by a daily trek up to the Hill. This lounge would be the means by which Lowlanders might enjoy the social privileges which are prerogatives of the Highlanders. It is hoped that the need for such a room will be realized and acted upon within the next few days.

Sinister Plot Is Discovered On Hill

Plan To Bury Two Alive In Siberian Wastes

Student Volunterr organization has announced a new venture which has never before been undertaken. The radical measure was told to those attending the regular meeting last Sunday evening, March 28. The members of the Vols cabinet, after much deliberation and careful thought, presented the names of two individuals whose inherent abilities are so marked that they are considered worthy applicants to the Board of Foreign Missions. The two young people thus honored are Georgia Lu Meadows, a junior English major from Beaver, Pennsylvania, and Enrico Scapellati, ajunior Economics major from Bangor, Pennsylvania.

Four specific qualification are listed as a basis to determine the two selected. The first was a sense of humor. Second, third, and fourth are: An interest in people, a sense of humility, and a knowlege of what to do in a "Pinch". "Scappy" is noted for his wit and aptitude at playing pranks in Pearsons Public Cafeteria. Among these is his attempt last Tuesday, March 30, to water Douglas McMartin's new crop of hay.

An interest in people is the next qualification which is ably upheld by the two. Jordy has many friends who are eager to entrust with her their Jewelry, especially that made by Uncle Sam.

Scappy is versatile: He not only likes people, but also has a fancy for pipe organs and pie.

The final quality is perhaps the most important. Those attending the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace" saw a splendid demonstration of Jordy's ability in knowing what to do in the aforementioned clinch. Scappy's courteous nature has made him a valuable help in chopping Pearsons' weekly brick ice cream.

Proposed destinations for these two have been tentatively decided upon as follows: Miss Meadows will probably be assigned to the Union of South Africa and will be able to continue her activities. It is likely that Mr. Scapella may go to Northern Siberia where his ice-cream cutting technique may be used to advantage in picking his was through icebergs.

Mr. Huber To Preach At Vesper Service If It Dosen't Rain

Mr. Robert F. Huber, assistant professor of history, will be the speaker at Vespers Sunday, April 4, at 7 p. m. in the chapel. His text will be Hebrews 13:5, "I will never let go your hand."

Because of the absence of Mr. Vine, Peter Van Blarcom will direct the choir. It will sing "List, the Cherubic Host" with the tenor solo to be taken by Ken Cooper.

A cordial invitation is extended to the Aircrew Cadets to attend this evening worship service. A committee from the Y. W. will serve as ushers to assist them in finding seats. Any girls wishing to serve on this committee should turn their names in to Jean Patterson by Sunday noon.

ones that will do this. Further more, they could not be required to lay four eggs per day since that would create a shortage in iron and copper, two metals which are necessary for the production of eggs. No logical substitute could be found to take the place of the materials in the composition of the egg shells, Besides that, the rubber that goes into the yolk of the egg must be used for important war equipment. Maryville college is already patriotic in this respect, for no eggs are being served in the dining hall.

Following the return of the debaters a party was held in the basement of Carnegie Hall. Pretzels, and pink lemonade were served. The pink lemonaid helped to color the elephants. The hosts at this party were the student council and the ECHO staff, both arch-friends of the debate team.

The next debate is scheduled in mid-April and is to be held at Hipswitchgulch, North Carolina, and is to be sponsored by the national dishonor society, Eata Bita Pie. The question to be debated is, Resolved: That everyone should be required to walk up stairs backward and eat peas with his knife.

Honaker Accepts Call To Notre Dame

SPRING TRAINING GIVES PREVIEW OF ROUGH AND READY 1943 GRID TEAM

Although others colleges and universities have been hard hit by the draft and enlisted reserves, Maryville managed to assemble a vicious array of talented football players during the spring practice. As a preview of the '43 football season, the above gridiron warriors gathered together after a hard work-out one afternoon last week and consented to have their pictures taken. The squad will be somewhat smaller than usual but before leaving Coach Lombe S. Honaker was able to salvage a group of stalwarts who will unquestionably be back for the coming '43 grid season.'

Honaker, before he left, also managed to secure a schedule for next year including a number of breathers. Boston College, Fresno State, Pulse Normal, and Blud Presher High appear on the Scottie schedule, making for a well-rounded and healthy season of games.

ZOOT SUIT

The College has just issued a new uniform to Captain Ralph Irwin of the FBO (For Bushes Only) on the campus. Mr. Irwin will christen his resplendent togs with a personal individual appearance to every couple on the campus. The uniform, a classy khaki one with leggins to match, will distinguish him from any common guards or CP's found on the campus. While on the campus, Mr. Irwin has done much to further the education of youth on tracking subjects and the like on the campus. Moral of this little bit of news: Stay on the campus, Gracie.

Slim McGarity Amazes Sports World By Slashing 4.4 Seconds Off Of Mile Record

Maryville College will never forget that day last week when Owen McGarity, freshman track star, brought fame to its athletic field with an all time record in the mile run here on Maryville's own oval. McGarity beat it out to the time of four minutes flat, cutting a sizeable piece off of Glenn Cunningham's collegiate record of 4:4.04.

The track was in perfect condition that day, except for a few inches of mud every few feet. The contestants were at the line. Their figures bent forward toeing the mark. Several false starts were made, then the gun cracked, and the figures leaped forward. McGarity got off to a slow start (3 guesses why), but came up fast and jockeyed for an inside position. The pace established, the starting sprint for a position settled into the grind for the race. But not McGarity, he never slowed a bit. With the cautiousness of a seasoned veteran he tracked his man, and as they came off the far turn, Mac streaked by him with an air of absolute unconcern. Mc's next victim seemed to be standing still as Mc. splashed by him in the middle of a puddle on the far stretch. At the half way mark our bonnie boy bounced bouyantly by his next man. Yard by yard flashed under his feet. With every step Mc. drew up on the leader. The gun sounded for the heat. McGarity leaped forward. Like a new man he threw himself into the stride. Taking the curves low and on the inside, Mc. swept away the yards with the lightness of a deer and the swiftness of a panther. His man was a hundred feet ahead fifty—twenty—they hit the stretch—Mc came up fast—ten—five—he was laying 'em down hard—the earth shook, but it held. Four—three, two yards ahead of him. One yard—two feet—one foot—they were neck and neck. Then McGarity's stomach appeared out in front. That low chest of MC's took the lead. Then that mere slip of a lad McGarity blew across the line. What a victory!

Owen afterwards surrounded by a group of admiring friends, told us the secret of his success. In traditional modesty the great star gave the credit for his victory to a black cat. It seems that the cat passed in back of Owen at the half way mark and started across the field. Owen knew that if the cat got across before he did, the cat would pass in front of him. So Owen determined to beat the cat. "After that", said Owen, "it was momentum, just momentum. I couldn't help myself." Then with a tear in his eye the star looked down at his shadowy figure worn down to a mere hundred pounds by the run, and with a groan of dispair, bemoaned "what will mother say?"

Beloved Mentor Leaves Today For South Bend, Ind.

SOBS SOLONG

Coach L. S. Honaker left Maryville today after 21 years of successful coaching to take his new post as head football coach and director of athletics at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana. The popular football, basketball and baseball mentor will replace Frank Leahy, who was discharged last fall after starting a full team of Irishmen when he could have used Poles, Russians, or Czechs.

The Notre Dame Athletic Board of Control made the announcement last night after having sent feelers to Honaker and several other equally prominent coaches across the country. The decision was no surprise to the sport scribes who had seen the move coming since Leahy's dismissal last fall. Father Patrick Mulvany Timothy Koldeijzk, member of the board said to the press yesterday, "We feel that Little Lombe is the man for the job. His thorough knowlege of the sport, his fine competitive spirit and sense of fair play, his unquenchable sense of humor and his ability to get along with the boys has made him the type of man we need.

No one has been selected to take Honaker's place as yet, but either Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, George Halas of the Chicago Bears, or Denny Myers of Boston College may get the call. Because of Halas' success with the Bears, it is believed that he may get first chance at the coveted post.

In spite of the fact that he will have to take a salary cut, Honaker was pleased with the appointment.

When interviewed by the press, Honaker was quoted as saying, "I hate to leave my friends here on the Hill, but the Indiana climate and the better drinking water will make up for that, The $10,000 slash in salary will cut down on my '43 income tax".

A farewell dance was given in the gym last night by the football lettermen with Coach as guest of honor. Refreshments were served by the point system girls.

At approximately 2:40, Wednesday afternoon, the men of Squadron A were dealt a terrible blow. Pay Day had arrived! Many of the group feel that they will not be able to survive the particular demand of the Army. A forlorn twosome were heard to exclaim. "Oh No. Not that!" before they were gently hushed by the gig system. Cadet (Lonesome) Lobo says, "I can take any thing they dish out. K. P. is my specialty. But not THIS!" Twocents worth was added by Cadet Francisco (Tall, dark and famished) Gonzales who sums it up by saying, "Theese thing she is pretty gosh awful, as you are saying it. Who ees want to go any place fathermore? Moneya—! At home I am having my own printing press."

(To add a slightly serious note, as the pay line grew shorter, the group at the head of the second floor stairway grew larger strange noises issued forth from many throats as the worry of monetary value quickly vanquished. There is no boy in this man's Army that can throw things any better than Cadet True. author's note.)

The scene: The lobby of Carnegie hall. The time: Sometime Monday. The actors are a morbid bunch of Cadets drooping at the writing tables, their expressions woeful. Enter an extremely handsome Officer. He speaks.

"Weeee'l boys, I suppose you heard the good news. On Sunday, open post ends at five-thirty." (special note to Dot).

The sorry specimens at the desk leap to their feet with a quick change of expression. They speak.

"Oh Thank you sir!!! (with much emotion, feeling) We really don't deserve it, Sir. We were afraid you'd ask us to go away from the post on Sundays. You see, the people here scare us—always staring so! Besides, nothing like a nice quiet afternoon writing letters, we always say. Oh, thank you again;" The Officer smiles good naturedly and leaves the now happy bunch of cadets to their whims. AH.——such is life in the Army.

Cadet Hudson is still hunting for his hat. He accidently dropped it on the table and immediately it was covered with syrup, cut in four pieces and swallowed! Gosh, if we only had more time to eat. Of course the girls can't help the seating arrangement, but reaching over heads busily engaged in that good old American pastime, is more than some have bargained for. The casualty lists are increasing by the (censored). Broken heads, hot coffee burns, etc. That dosen't include sprained wrists a la waitresses. You see, they're trying too.

Not a little fun was had making cracks about Cadet (I am not!) Clamppett to everyone in the vicinity of one of the very nicest girls on the campus. (Just wait everybody, your turn shall come) Oh, how cruel this old worlld can be. Tain't true anyhow, cause Clamppett is the truthful sort—just ask him if you don't believe me.

Say ——NOW I know what's the matter with this colleuymnnn. Its got something to do with April Fool! Now would you have guessed—?

Next week we get serious—honest!

NOTICE

The monkey court is now in season. Any man having to appear before said court twice in aweek loses his open post privileges. No April Fool!

Cadet Billy Swenson is a changed man. It's wonderful what a woman can do. Keep up the good work, Edith.

Cadets John Simmonds, Larry Fassbinder and assorted group are strictly G. I. after last Sunday night. They must really be Honeys. How about an introduction.

It is amazing that Cadets Mercer, Frazier and Flowers are full fledged concert music lovers. Why didn't you tell us, boys. No secrets you know.

We of the fourth quintile appreciate no end the authoritive voice of Cadet (Sugar) Creech. Can't be that he is related in some way to a Bullfrog.

Cadet Arnovitz is now the most popular man in the ranks. It can't be that having his car makes a difference.

We would likke to know how Cadet Hopkins got the name of "Gramps". Just because he is almost bald dosen't mean he is old. How about an answer. Gramps?

There is no tougher and meaner Sergeant that Cadet Sergeant Johnson. His favorite saying is, "You don't want none of me".

The highlight of the week is the color of section marcher Graves' face when the C. O. came up unexpectedly and caught him off guard the other day. First Sargeant Helm is really having trouble. Some one please advise him as to how it is possible to keep up with his duties and Jeaney.

I believe a suitable name has been found for Cadet Evans. "Frankenstein."

It seems that Cadet Fussell had a close shave with the barber last week. Oh well, I like short dark hair, don't you, Margaret?

The question of the week is Who were the Cadets who are guilty of the misdemeanors that have placed Squadron A back under restriction? 'Fess up, boys, and take your punishment and maybe we will be released again someday. Remember we are honor bound to be good soldiers.

We have been informed that Cadet Pinson has a good understanding. Size 13 shoes, so he says. But the boys on the floors below him when he walks swears they are bigger. Who knows?

The boys are fighting toward peace! — We must do our job by buying War Stamps and Bonds now if we expect them to bring us Victory.

BOWDITCH WINS BREAKFAST BISCUIT BATTLE

M. Elizabeth Bowditch won the Annual Breakfast Buscit Battle for the second straight year last Thursday. B. Joanne Burleigh ran Miss Bowditch a very close race and was leading in the last quarter when she was disqualified for stuffing her buscuits with brick ice cream. Miss Bowditch was awarded 100 of Pearsons Fluffy Dufty Biscuits for first prize. Because of Miss Burleigh's disqualification, the second prize of 101 Pearsons Buiscuits went to E. Marie Farrow who put up a good defensive battle but could not compare with Miss Bowditch.

Miss Bowditch eliminated her first opponent, A. Cabbage, with a heavy boonbardment on the head. Her next six opponents, V. Lee Cain, M. Louise Henry, M. Jane Hays, A. Woods Peterson, J. Hoddow, and M. Ruth Garvin, were conquered by direct hits between the eyes (M. Elizabeth is known for her deadeye aim).

The only accident of the Biscuit Meat came when Miss Ware was caught by a cake-fragment. Miss Ware was acting as referee but following her accident, Miss Butcher became the official. Miss Ware's accident was the first since 1905 when Mr. Black, who was officiating, was chased to Knoxville for one of his decisions.

Leading faculty members praised M. L. Batchelor, Senior Intramural Manager, for her direction of the sport. Said one member of the faculty, "There's nothing like good, mean fun." The large attendance of the faculty members was probably due to the free passes issued to them by the Intramural staff. The free passes permitted the faculty to hang from the chandeliers in the dining hall to watch the sports event.

JEANNE BELLERJEAU CAPTURES COLLEGE WINKING CHAMPIONSHIP

Jeanne V. Bellerjeau won the Intramural College Winking Championship from last year's champion, R. Anna Anderson, Miss Bellerjeau had a total of 345,597 winks at the close of the 48 hour period. Miss Anderson was leading in the contest at the half, but early in the third quarter, her eyes stuck and doctors are still trying to get them open. There has been much talk that because of danger of this kind the sport would be discontinued, but the sport will be continued. Second place in the winking contest went to Miss M. Ruth Clippinger, who is best known as a Cas Walker fan. Only three faculty members entered the competition. They were Miss Carson, Mrs. Cummings and Miss Jewell. Other outstanding winkers were: Oneda Whitehead, Mary Jane Barrows, Laura Lesette Gessert, Virginia Mathews, Martha Jeane Shaw, Matilda Housch, and Betty Querns.

Coach Honaker and Mrs. Queener reccommend the winking sport as one of the most beneficial sports on the Hill. Many of the students are realizing its possibilities and by much practice are becoming quite skilled at the game.

WAITRESSES WIN OVER GOLD-DIGGERS IN MANCATCHING TOURNAMENT

Last Saturdaywasn't Sadie Hawkins day, or Wolf Holiday, or just an ordinary day at Maryville. No, the Intramural Staff composed of E. Kristine Boyles, head of the information department, Nancy Russell, manager of the C. F. B. C. B. T. I. A. D. A. T. D. A. D. (Committee for better cooperation between the Intramural department and the Dramatic Art Department) and Sibyl Annette Tallent who is President of the Baptist Intramural Staff sponsored the most popular past-times on the Hill. Two teams, namely the Waitresses and the Gold-Diggers, met out on the sports field and four remaining boys in the school were given a 10 yard start and then the two girls' teams were released. Each girl team was made up of 25 girls but a large number of substitutes were put into the game from time to time. The Waitresses caught three of the four boys to win the contest. The last boy to be caught was "Bashful" Bob Abe Burd. Said Bashful Abe. "I don't see what they wanted to catch me for anyway." Leading Man-catchers on the Waitresses team were Jane Hays, Margaret Jane Messer, Bette Jeane Kennedy, Ada Yaden, Elizabeth M. Hoagland, Lenore Wise, and Ruby Louise Shelly.

MARGARET ELIZEBETH TROUTT WINS INTRAMURAL LOUD-TIE CHAMPIONSHIP

Margaret Elizabeth Troutt won the Intramural Loud-Tie Championship last Thursday with flying colors. Miss Troutt's nearest competitors were Oliver Ruth Stribling and Rose Pinneo. The girls wore cowboy shirts, mostly of one solid color for background. The ties were of various sizes, shapes and colors. Miss Troutt appeared after each meal and class with a different colored tie. The ties she wore were of many mixed colors but the one that was the most appealing was one of a yellow background with purple border and several wild animal designs such as lions and tigers. Miss Troutt, on being asked where she got her beautiful collection of Loud-ties said she had been col'ecting them for a number of yea's. Said Miss Troutt, "When I was a very small girl I read in an old ECHO about the Annual Intramural Loud-tie Tournament and determined that someday I would win if I possibly could. I entered Maryville for that one purpose alone." Miss Troutt refused several scholarships to leading colleges so that she could come to Maryville for the Loud-tie Tournament. Almost as proud as the winner herself was her roommate Beatrice Hunter who, since the contest, has been going their around like a chicken with its head cut off.

MARGARET CROSS WINS INTRAMURAL TIDDLEY-WINKS CONTEST

Margaret Cross, freshman softball major from the Antartic, former University of Alabama Football star, won the Intramural Tiddley Winks contest which was played in the college pool last Thursday and manhole covers were used for the winks. Miss Cross was the first of 1999991 girls to flip all of her manhole covers into the pool. N. Roselth Crispin won second place. She ran Miss Cross a close race all the way. Lucille Cathey provided a big thrill when she fell into the pool.

DOROTHY DICK LEADS INTRAMURAL POINT SYSTEM

The following list is the leading first 10 in the Intramural Point system. No awards are made except for the publicity received by getting the participants' names in the Intramural column which is ENOUGH.

1.	Dorothy Dick	465 dates
2.	Jeanne Keyes	455 dates
3.	Billye Ruth Braly	300 dates

TIME MARCHES . . . .

to Kingsport where that picture was playing, we were fully prepared to turn up our noses and proceed blithely on our way.

As we left Virginia-Intermont, Ralph Sawmiller and Byron Sprague got out with the intention of shooting some beautiful snap-shots so we stopped our station-wagon and let them pose to take our pictures.

We ate supper hurriedly because we had to finish in order to get through our debates before supper-time.

When our illustrious teams were ready to begin the tournament, the judges gave their decisions. We started off with the first affirmative rebuttal and worked up to the first affirmative speech, trying toconform as nearly as possible with the judges' decisions so as not to disappoint the poor men. (Kind-hearted, ain't we?) Bob Barker pointed out that we should have explained to our opponents that what we said in our rebuttals was only a slip of the tongue, anyhow.

By then it was time for lunch, and our appetites were not in the least bit dampened by the thought of the approaching verbal jousts. We enjoyed every bit of the meal from the dessert on down.

Soon we were merrily bouncing along again toward our destination. Every joint in the old buggy was squeaking and trying to outdo every other joint, and every once in a while the back end took a notion to kick up its heels, with the result that our cranial cavities got chummy with the ceiling. We were packed in there so tightly that we felt about like the two worms who were necking in dead Ernest.

Dorothy Dick's derby was the center of attention, only when she pulled it down over her scholarly brow the resulting moronic appearance moved us to drastic action—we made her take it off because we knew that if the opposition ever saw that they'd KNOW they could walk off with the laurels.

Besides, it was much more becoming on Tom Smith.

Then there is the one about the moron who poked out his eyes because he wanted to go on a blind date, but Helen Marie Wilson persuaded us this wasn't right—she explained that the only reason we eat tomatoes in Pearsons dining hall is because monkeys like bananas.

We started out on the trip in the college station-wagon — you you know, the one that has MARYVILLE COLLEGE ATHLETICS on the door, and we could tell by the way passers-by (or rather,passed-byers) stared that they knew by looking at us that we were wrestlers.

We met in front of Carnegie, anticipating a long day full of fun. The last member of the debate team squeezed himself in, and with a rattle and a bang we were off. It was already six a. m. and we were rarin' to go.

Faculty Holds Monthly Farce

Plan To Have Stage-Struck Stellwagen Refute Geographers

The regular monthly meeting of the faculty came to order at the home of the President, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m.

The most startling action of the meeting was the decision to take over one wing of the Mountain View Hotel in Gatlinburg and conduct summer school there. The students will get a better rest at summer school since classes will be held only two periods each morning. Swimming, tennis, picnics, and hikes will be planned to help them while away their afternoons.

For some time the directors have felt that it might not be wise to allow Maryville college students to go horseback riding until the situation had been investigated closely. A committee, therefore, had been appointed to go out to the stables and make the acquaintance of each horse. After hearing their report, the members of the faculty decided that equine beasts were not suitable company for young people seeking a higher education. To settle the problem entirely, they voted to purchase the horses and give Miss Ware an opportunity to try out her new recipe for "dobbinburgers."

The program for the final meeting of the Faculty club, which will be held Monday, April 5, in Fayerweather hall, was announced. Dr. John H. Stellwagen, assistant professor of Spanish, will review Victory Through Air Power by Alexander De Seversky and Human Geography in the Air Age By Renbe purchased through the book store for 64 cents) exposes the fact that geography which has been taught in the public schools up to this time is a pack of lies. By integrating the information in these two books, Dr. Stellwagen will attempt to reveal some of the drastic attacks which the enemy might make upon the United States.

Spring Snoozers' Snooze Contagious

Miss Hall, head of the Lamar Hospital staff, has announced that a serious epidemic of spring ferver is rampant among the students. As a consequence, the whole student body will have to be quarantined instead of the new detachment of soldiers which arrived this week. Miss Hall has asked that any studentwho notices afellow student suffering from this serious and contagious malady report the case at once. The symptoms of spring fever one should look for are listlessness, far-away look in the eye (also a sympton of those suffering from the fatal bite of the philiophilus or love bug as it is commonly called), and the absence of the desire to study. A tendency to snooze at the slightest provocation and a yen for night air are definite signs that a person suffering should be confined to bed at once. Such patients need not be brought to the hospital if they keep away from students who have not contracted the disease. There is no room in the hospital for students at present, for they are hopefully expecting an outbreak of mumps and chickenpox. with a sprinkling of measles thrown in for variety, among the latest newcomers.

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies To Maryville For Theta Meeting, Food

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of Mr. Roosevelt, the present Democratic president of the United States, arrived at 9:15 today at the Municipal Airport. She is to speak at the Theta meeting tonight at 6:15 in Theta hall. Bette Clevenger, president of Theta, and Alice Jones, Former Theta president, and Mary Dawn Noblit met Mrs Roosevelt at the airport and accompanied her to the college. A luncheon was given in her honor today at Ye Olde College Tea Room with Dr. and Mrs. F. Albert Griffitts serving as host and hostess.

The subject on which Mrs. Roosevelt will speak is not definite, but she has as a choice either of two subjects, "How To Make The Most of Your Looks' or "The Qualities of a (First) Lady".

Mrs. Roosevelt is not only well-known as the wife of the President but she is acclaimed by the world as being one of the best journalists and speakers of that time. The column "My Day" is published in practically all American newspapers, including the HIGHLAND ECHO.

When asked to make a statement about visiting Maryville college, Mrs. Roosevelt exclaimed, "This invitation to speak at the Theta meeting means so much to me, and I hope to become too well acquainted with Maryville college before going back to Washington".

Heart Attact Strikes Poor Fellow

Oh my, oh my. There should have been a semi-colon after the word strikes and also before the word poor in the above headline, but mistakes will be made. Anyway, this is a story about some poor old guy who died the other day and left a fist full of frog furs to ye olde Maryville college bath tub fund. It wasn't surprising at all that he died so suddenly, for he was 96 years old and his heart ceased to beat and just stopped and

Although others colleges and universities have been hard hit by the draft and enlisted reserves, Maryville managed to assemble a vicious array of talented football players during the spring practice. As a preview of the '43 football season, the above gridiron warriors gathered together after a hard work-out one afternoon last week and consented to have their pictures taken. The squad will be somewhat smaller than usual but before leaving Coach Lombe S. Honaker was able to salvage a group of stalwarts who will unquestionably be back for the coming '43 grid season.

Honaker, before he left, also managed to secure a schedule for next year including a number of breathers. Boston College, Fresno State, Pulse Normal, and Blud Presher High appear on the Scottie schedule, making for a well-rounded and healthy season of games.

ZOOT SUIT

The College has just issued a new uniform to Captain Ralph Irwin of the FBO (For Bushes Only) on the campus. Mr. Irwin will christen his resplendent togs with a personal individual appearance to every couple on the campus. The uniform, a classy khaki one with leggins to match, will distinguish him from any common guards or CP's found on the campus. While on the campus, Mr. Irwin has done much to further the education of youth on tracking subjects and the like on the campus. Moral of this little bit of news: Stay on the campus, Gracie.

Slim McGarity Amazes Sports World By Slashing 4.4 Seconds Off Of Mile Record

Maryville College will never forget that day last week when Owen McGarity, freshman track star, brought fame to its athletic field with an all time record in the mile run here on Maryville's own oval. McGarity beat it out to the time of four minutes flat, cutting a sizeable piece off of Glenn Cunningham's collegiate record of 4:4.04.

The track was in perfect condition that day, except for a few inches of mud every few feet. The contestants were at the line. Their figures bent forward toeing the mark. Several false starts were made, then the gun cracked, and the figures leaped forward. McGarity got off to a slow start (3 guesses why), but came up fast and jockeyed for an inside position. The pace established, the starting sprint for a position settled into the grind for the race. But not McGarity, he never slowed a bit. With the cautiousness of a seasoned veteran he tracked his man, and as they came off the far turn, Mac streaked by him with an air of absolute unconcern. Mc's next victim seemed to be standing still as Mc. splashed by him in the middle of a puddle on the far stretch. At the half way mark our bonnie boy bounced bouyantly by his next man. Yard by yard flashed under his feet. With every step Mc. drew up on the leader. The gun sounded for the heat. McGarity leaped forward. Like a new man he threw himself into the stride. Taking the curves low and on the inside, Mc. swept away the yards with the lightness of a deer and the swiftness of a panther. His man was a hundred feet ahead fifty—twenty—they hit the stretch—Mc came up fast—ten—five—he was laying 'em down hard—the earth shook, but it held. Four—three, two yards ahead of him. One yard—two feet—one foot—they were neck and neck. Then McGarity's stomach appeared out in front. That low chest of MC's took the lead. Then that mere slip of a lad McGarity blew across the line. What a victory!

Owen afterwards surrounded by a group of admiring friends, told us the secret of his success. In traditional modesty the great star gave the credit for his victory to a black cat. It seems that the cat passed in back of Owen at the half way mark and started across the field. Owen knew that if the cat got across before he did, the cat would pass in front of him, So Owen determined to beat the cat. "After that", said Owen, "it was momentum, just momentum, I couldn't help myself." Then with a tear in his eye the star looked down at his shadowy figure worn down to a mere hundred pounds by the run, and with a groan of dispair, bemoaned "what will mother say?"

Beloved Mentor Leaves Today For South Bend, Ind.

SOBS SCLONG

Coach L. S. Honaker left Maryville today after 21 years of successful coaching to take his new post as head football coach and director of athletics at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana. The popular football, basketball and baseball mentor will replace Frank Leahy, who was discharged last fall after starting a full team of Irishmen when he could have used Poles, Russians, or Czechs.

The Notre Dame Athletic Board of Control made the announcement last night after having sent feelers to Honaker and several other equally-prominent coaches across the country. The decision was no surprise to the sport scribes who had seen the move coming since Leahy's dismissal last fall. Father Patrick Mulvany Timothy Koldeijzk, member of the board said to the press yesterday, "We feel that Little Lombe is the man for the job. His thorough knowlege of the sport, his fine competitive spirit and sense of fair play, his unquenchable sense of humor and his ability to get along with the boys has made him the type of man we need.

No one has been selected to take Honaker's place as yet, but either Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, George Halas of the Chicago Bears, or Denny Myers of Boston College may get the call. Because of Halas' success with the Bears, it is believed that he may get first chance at the coveted post.

In spite of the fact that he will have to take a salary cut, Honaker was pleased with the appointment.

When interviewed by the press, Honaker was quoted as saying, "I hate to leave my friends here on the Hill, but the Indiana climate and the better drinking water will make up for that, The $10,000 slash in salary will cut down on my '43 income tax".

A farewell dance was given in the gym last night by the football lettermen with Coach as guest of honor. Refreshments were served by the point system girls.

We would likke to know how Cadet Hopkins got the name of "Gramps". Just because he is almost bald dosen't mean he is old. How about an answer. Gramps?

There is no tougher and meaner Sergeant that Cadet Sergeant Johnson. His favorite saying is, "You don't want none of me".

The highlight of the week is the color of section marcher Graves' face when the C. O. came up unexpectedly and caught him off guard the other day. First Sargeant Helm is really having trouble. Some one please advise him as to how it is possible to keep up with his duties and Jeaney.

I believe a suitable name has been found for Cadet Evans, "Frankenstein."

It seems that Cadet Fussell had a close shave with the barber last week. Oh well, I like short dark hair, don't you, Margaret?

The question of the week is Who were the Cadets who are guilty of the misdemeanors that have placed Squadron A back under restriction? 'Fess up, boys, and take your punishment and maybe we will be released again someday. Remember we are honor bound to be good soldiers.

We have been informed that Cadet Pinson has a good understanding. Size 13 shoes, so he says. But the boys on the floors below him when he walks swears they are bigger. Who knows?

The boys are fighting toward peace! — We must do our job by buying War Stamps and Bonds now if we expect them to bring us Victory.

BOWDITCH WINS BREAKFAST BISCUIT BATTLE

M. Elizabeth Bowditch won the Annual Breakfast Buscit Battle for the second straight year last Thursday. B. Joanne Burleigh ran Miss Bowditch a very close race and was leading in the last quarter when she was disqualified for stuffing her buscuits with brick ice cream. Miss Bowditch was awarded 100 of Pearsons Fluffy Duffy Biscuits for first prize. Because of Miss Burleigh's disqualification, the second prize of 101 Pearsons Buiscuits went to E. Marie Farrow who put up a good defensive battle but could not compare with Miss Bowditch.

Miss Bowditch eliminated her first opponent, A. Cabbage, with a heavy boonbardment on the head. Her next six opponents, V. Lee Cain, M. Louise Henry, M. Jane Hays, A. Woods Peterson, J. Hoddow, and M. Ruth Garvin, were conquered by direct hits between the eyes (M. Elizabeth is known for her deadeye aim).

The only accident of the Biscuit Meat came when Miss Ware was caught by a cake-fragment. Miss Ware was acting as referee but following her accident, Miss Butcher became the official. Miss Ware's accident was the first since 1905 when Mr. Black, who was officiating, was chased to Knoxville for one of his decisions.

Leading faculty members praised M. L. Batchelor, Senior Intramural Manager, for her direction of the sport. Said one member of the faculty, "There's nothing like good, mean fun." The large attendance of the faculty members was probably due to the free passes issued to them by the Intramural staff. The free passes permitted the faculty to hang from the chandeliers in the dining hall to watch the sports event.

JEANNE BELLERJEAU CAPTURES COLLEGE WINKING CHAMPIONSHIP

Jeanne V. Bellerjeau won the Intramural College Winking Championship from last year's champion, R. Anna Anderson, Miss Bellerjeau had a total of 345,597 winks at the close of the 48 hour period. Miss Anderson was leading in the contest at the half, but early in the third quarter, her eyes stuck and doctors are still trying to get them open. There has been much talk that because of danger of this kind the sport would be discontinued, but the sport will be continued. Second place in the winking contest went to Miss M. Ruth Clippinger, who is best known as a Cas Walker fan. Only three faculty members entered the competition. They were Miss Carson, Mrs. Cummings and Miss Jewell. Other outstanding winkers were: Oneda Whitehead, Mary Jane Barrows, Laura Lesette Gessert, Virginia Mathews, Martha Jeane Shaw, Matilda Housch, and Betty Querns.

Coach Honaker and Mrs. Queener reccommend the winking sport as one of the most beneficial sports on the Hill. Many of the students are realizing its possibilities and by much practice are becoming quite skilled at the game.

WAITRESSES WIN OVER GOLD-DIGGERS IN MANCATCHING TOURNAMENT

Last Saturdaywasn't Sadie Hawkins day, or Wolf Holiday, or just an ordinary day at Maryville. No, the Intramural Staff composed of E. Kristine Boyles, head of the information department, Nancy Russell, manager of the C. F. B. C. B. T. I. A. D. A. T. D. A. D. (Committee for better cooperation between the Intramural department and the Dramatic Art Department) and Sibyl Annette Tallent who is President of the Baptist Intramural Staff sponsored the most popular past-times on the Hill. Two teams, namely the Waitresses and the Gold-Diggers, met out on the sports field and four remaining boys in the school were given a 10 yard start and then the two girls' teams were released. Each girl team was made up of 25 girls but a large number of substitutes were put into the game from time to time. The Waitresses caught three of the four boys to win the contest. The last boy to be caught was "Bashful" Bob Abe Burd. Said Bashful Abe. "I don't see what they wanted to catch me for anyway." Leading Man-catchers on the Waitresses team were Jane Hays, Margaret Jane Messer, Bette Jeane Kennedy, Ada Yaden, Elizabeth M. Hoagland, Lenore Wise, and Ruby Louise Shelly.

MARGARET ELIZEBETH TROUTT WINS INTRAMURAL LOUD-TIE CHAMPIONSHIP

Margaret Elizabeth Troutt won the Intramural Loud-Tie Championship last Thursday with flying colors. Miss Troutt's nearest competitors were Oliver Ruth Stribling and Rose Pinneo. The girls wore cowboy shirts, mostly of one solid color for background. The ties were of various sizes, shapes and colors. Miss Troutt appeared after each meal and class with a different colored tie. The ties she wore were of many mixed colors but the one that was the most appealing was one of a yellow background with purple border and several wild animal designs such as lions and tigers. Miss Troutt, on being asked where she got her beautiful collection of Loud-ties said she had been collecting them for a number of years. Said Miss Troutt, "When I was a very small girl I read in an old ECHO about the Annual Intramural Loud-tie Tournament and determined that someday I would win if I possibly could. I entered Maryville for that one purpose alone." Miss Troutt refused several scholarships to leading colleges so that she could come to Maryville for the Loud-tie Tournament. Almost as proud as the winner herself was her roommate Beatrice Hunter who, since the contest, has been going their around like a chicken with its head cut off.

The runner-ups in the contest borrowed their ties. Miss Stribling's favorite color was yellow and she was quite a Fair-Child with her ties. Miss Pinneo wore a wide variety of ties but her favorite color seemed to be Red.

MARGARET CROSS WINS INTRAMURAL TIDDLEY-WINKS CONTEST

Margaret Cross, freshman softball major from the Antartic, former University of Alabama Football star, won the Intramural Tiddley Winks contest which was played in the college pool last Thursday and manhole covers were used for the winks. Miss Cross was the first of 1999991 girls to flip all of her manhole covers into the pool. N. Roselth Crispin won second place. She ran Miss Cross a close race all the way. Lucille Cathey provided a big thrill when she fell into the pool.

DOROTHY DICK LEADS INTRAMURAL POINT SYSTEM

The following list is the leading first 10 in the Intramural Point system. No awards are made except for the publicity received by getting the participants' names in the Intramural column which is ENOUGH.

1.	Dorothy Dick	466 dates

to Kingsport where that picture was playing, we were fully prepared to turn up our noses and proceed blithely on our way.

As we left Virginia-Intermont, Ralph Sawmiller and Byron Sprague got out with the intention of shooting some beautiful snap-shots so we stopped our station-wagon and let them pose to take our pictures.

We ate supper hurriedly because we had to finish in order to get through our debates before supper-time.

When our illustrious teams were ready to begin the tournament, the judges gave their decisions. We started off with the first affirmative rebuttal and worked up to the first affirmative speech, trying toconform as nearly as possible with the judges' decisions so as not to disappoint the poor men. (Kind-hearted, ain't we?) Bob Barker pointed out that we should have explained to our opponents that what we said in our rebuttals was only a slip of the tongue, anyhow.

By then it was time for lunch, and our appetites were not in the least bit dampened by the thought of the approaching verbal jousts. We enjoyed every bit of the meal from the dessert on down.

Soon we were merrily bouncing along again toward our destination. Every joint in the old buggy was squeaking and trying to outdo every other joint, and every once in a while the back end took a notion to kick up its heels, with the result that our cranial cavities got chummy with the ceiling. We were packed in there so tightly that we felt about like the two worms who were necking in dead Ernest.

Dorothy Dick's derby was the center of attention, only when she pulled it down over her scholarly brow the resulting moronic appearance moved us to drastic action—we made her take it off because we knew that if the opposition ever saw that they'd KNOW they could walk off with the laurels.

Besides, it was much more becoming on Tom Smith.

Then there is the one about the moron who poked out his eyes because he wanted to go on a blind date, but Helen Marie Wilson persuaded us this wasn't right—she explained that the only reason we eat tomatoes in Pearsons dining hall is because monkeys like bananas.

We started out on the trip in the college station-wagon — you you know, the one that has MARYVILLE COLLEGE ATHLETICS on the door, and we could tell by the way passers-by (or rather,passed-byers) stared that they knew by looking at us that we were wrestlers.

We met in front of Carnegie, anticipating a long day full of fun. The last member of the debate team squeezed himself in, and with a rattle and a bang we were off. It was already six a. m. and we were rarin' to go.

Faculty Holds Monthly Farce

Plan To Have Stage-Struck Stellwagen Refute Geographers

The regular monthly meeting of the faculty came to order at the home of the President, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m.

The most startling action of the meeting was the decision to take over one wing of the Mountain View Hotel in Gatlinburg and conduct summer school there. The students will get a better rest at summer school since classes will be held only two periods each morning. Swimming, tennis, picnics, and hikes will be planned to help them while away their afternoons.

For some time the directors have felt that it might not be wise to allow Maryville college students to go horseback riding until the situation had been investigated closely. A committee, therefore, had been appointed to go out to the stables and make the acquaintance of each horse. After hearing their report, the members of the faculty decided that equine beasts were not suitable company for young people seeking a higher education. To settle the problem entirely, they voted to purchase the horses and give Miss Ware an opportunity to try out her new recipe for "dobbinburgers."

The program for the final meeting of the Faculty club, which will be held Monday, April 5, in Fayerweather hall, was announced. Dr. John H. Stellwagen, assistant professor of Spanish, will review Victory Through Air Power by Alexander De Seversky and Human Geography in the Air Age By Renbe purchased through the book store for 64 cents) exposes the fact that geography which has been taught in the public schools up to this time is a pack of lies. By integrating the information in these two books, Dr. Stellwagen will attempt to reveal some of the drastic attacks which the enemy might make upon the United States.

Spring Snoozers' Snooze Contagious

Miss Hall, head of the Lamar Hospital staff, has announced that a serious epidemic of spring fever is rampant among the students. As a consequence, the whole student body will have to be quarantined instead of the new detachment of soldiers which arrived this week. Miss Hall has asked that any studentwho notices afellow student suffering from this serious and contagious malady report the case at once. The symptoms of spring fever one should look for are listlessness, far-away look in the eye (also a sympton of those suffering from the fatal bite of the philiophilus or love bug as it is commonly called), and the absence of the desire to study. A tendency to snooze at the slightest provocation and a yen for night air are definite signs that a person suffering should be confined to bed at once. Such patients need not be brought to the hospital if they keep away from students who have not contracted the disease. There is no room in the hospital for students at present, for they are hopefully expecting an outbreak of mumps and chickenpox. with a sprinkling of measles thrown in for variety, among the latest newcomers.

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies To Maryville For Theta Meeting, Food

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of Mr. Roosevelt, the present Democratic president of the United States, arrived at 9:15 today at the Municipal Airport. She is to speak at the Theta meeting tonight at 6:15 in Theta hall. Bette Clevenger, president of Theta, and Alice Jones, Former Theta president, and Mary Dawn Noblit met Mrs Roosevelt at the airport and accompanied her to the college. A luncheon was given in her honor today at Ye Olde College Tea Room with Dr. and Mrs. F. Albert Griffitts serving as host and hostess.

The subject on which Mrs. Roosevelt will speak is not definite, but she has as a choice either of two subjects, "How To Make The Most of Your Looks' or "The Qualities of a (First) Lady".

Mrs. Roosevelt is not only well-known as the wife of the President but she is acclaimed by the world as being one of the best journalists and speakers of that time. The column "My Day" is published in practically all American newspapers, including the HIGHLAND ECHO.

When asked to make a statement about visiting Maryville college, Mrs. Roosevelt exclaimed, "This invitation to speak at the Theta meeting means so much to me, and I hope to become too well acquainted with Maryville college before going back to Washington".

Oh my, oh my. There should have been a semi-colon after the word strikes and also before the word poor in the above headline, but mistakes will be made. Anyway, this is a story about some poor old guy who died the other day and left a fist full of frog furs to ye olde Maryville college bath tub fund. It wasn't surprising at all that he died so suddenly, for he was 96 years old and his heart ceased to beat and just stopped and

Student Body To Hear Explanation Of Approved "Town Night" Proposal At Special Meeting Tuesday Morning

Privilege To visit Town One Night A Week Involves Necessity For All Students' Cooperation

Through the close cooperation of the Student Council, the Student-Faculty Senate, and the faculty of the College a "Town Night" proposal has been drawn up and approved. The proposal originated in the Student Council on the assumption that the extension of social privileges to the student body would make a better-rounded college life. The plan, drawn up, revised, and agreed upon by the various student and faculty committees, is the first step in the direction of student responsibility and student government. Its success depends wholly upon the willingness of the student body to cooperate with the plan and with the Student Council. If it proves unworkable, it will not be continued. The proposal will be discussed and explained at a special meeting of the entire student body on Tuesday morning, April 13, after chapel. The complete proposal as approved by the three aforementioned bodies follows in full:

Student Council "Town Night" Proposal

PREAMBLE

The proposal hereby submitted grows out of a need for a better-rounded social program, the primary purpose of which is to promote a more normal campus life through the extension of social privileges. The plan provides for students to visit town on specified evenings. Students will be permitted to go to movies—an opportunity which lately has been reduced by the accelerated academic and physical training programs.

PLAN

In a "Town Night" proposal the Student Council has suggested that special privileges be given to all members of the student body to visit specified areas in the city of Maryville on one night each week, the student being privileged to select one of two designated evenings.

RESPONSIBILITY

The Student Council is to assume the responsibility of carrying out the plan and enforcing the terms. These special privileges are to be effective only as long as the Student Body is willing to cooperate with the Student Council and Executive Council of the Faculty. The Student Body is to signify its willingness to recognize the authority of the Student Council by a vote of approval of the plan.

PROVISIONS

The suggested provisions of the proposal are as follows:

1. The special privileges are effective either on Tuesday or Friday nights on which no all-campus functions has been scheduled. It shall be the duty of the Faculty Committee on Scheduling of Activities to designate which Tuesday or Friday nights activities are to be considered all-campus.

2. Couples and groups of girls (four or more) are eligible for the privilege.

3. All girls must sign out in their dormitories for definite destinations and sign in when they return.

4. The privilege goes into effect immediately after supper on the specified nights. Ten o'clock is the proposed time limit with penalty being applied at ten-fifteen.

5. Definite boundaries and limits are to be observed.

(a) Court and College Streets are the only streets to be used going to or from town.

(b) In town, the north and south limits are the bowling alleys and the theaters. The east and west boundaries are Broadway and Harper Street (Bus Station).

(c) Sanctioned restaurants and druestores can be visited.

(d) The usual restrictions of residential districts and campus areas are to be observed. Students must walk directly from their dormitories to town and back without loitering.

PENALTIES

It shall be the duty of the Student Council to recommend penalties in the following cases:

(a) Removal of the privileges

(b) Being out of bounds.

(c) Conducting oneself in an unbecoming manner or displaying an uncooperative attitude.

Dr. Orr Speaks At Faculty Dinner

Army Officers Are Special Guests

Faculty club held its monthly banquet last Monday night, April 5, in the home economics dining room. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy. Dr. Orr discussed a paper he has written, "As I See the Church". Dr. Orr graduated from Maryville College, receiving his B. A.. degree. He attended and graduated from Lane Theological Seminary in 1915. In 1924 he received his M. A. from the University of Tennessee. He also studied at Northwestern University in 1927 and 1928. Maryville College granted him an honorary D. D. degree in 1926. Dr. Orr, who is chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy, and Education, has been a member of the faculty since 1920..

Among the guests of the faculty club were Lieutenant and Mrs. Donald B. Ladd, Lieutenant and Mrs. Chesshire, and Lieutenant Garrison, of the 42nd detachment stationed here at the College.

This is the last of the faculty banquets this year. The Home Economics department under the direction of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz has prepared and served these banquets each month this past year.

A special feature of this closing banquet was a recognition ceremony accorded Mr. Horace Lee Ellis, to whom the club presented some agriculture trophies. Mr. Ellis is leaving the Maryville faculty after being a member thirty-one years, to take up residence at his country home.

DeForest, Buford Are Chosen to Fill Chief YM Offices

Barker, Easter and Houdeshell Also Elected to Cabinet

Last Tuesday, April 6th, John DeForest was elected president of the Maryville College Young Men's Christian Association at the annual spring election. Bill Buford was elected vice-president, Don Barker secretary, Wallace Easter treasurer, and John Houdeshell freshman representative.

The election was held Tuesday afternoon in the lobby of Carnegie Hall, and for an hour in the evening following the annual business meeting held in Fayweather hall. Those newly elected will succeed the present incumbents: Clyde Brown, president; Ted Kidder, vice-president: Jim Garvin, secretary; Ted Pratt, treasurer.

John DeForest is a medical missionary student from Dedham, Mass., and has spent several years as a missionary in Alaska. He is at present a member of the student council and president of the junior class.

Bill Buford is a junior transfer student from Vanderbilt. He is a medical student and comes from Florence, Alabama. He starred recently in the play "Arsenic and Old Lace".

Don Barker is a sophomore from Maryville and is a ministerial student. He has made the honor roll, was a member of the freshman debate team last year, is chairman of the sophomore social committee, and was recently appointed business manager of next year's M book.

Wallace Easter is a junior philosophy major who transferred this year from the University of Maryland. He makes his home in Washington, D. C., is a ministerial student, and has been accepted by Princeton Theological seminary. He is at present secretary-treasurer of the ministerial association.

John Howard Houdeshell is a freshman ministerial student from Branchville, Maryland.

The new officers will be installed some time next week when the YMCA cabinet has its annual retreat.

As is customary during examination periods, there will not be an edition of the HIGHLAND ECHO published next week.

Jane Glass Chosen To Be May Queen By Senior Class

Walker, Shelley, Calloway Will Represent Classes

At separate class elections on Wednesday, April 7, the May Queen and her court were chosen by the various classes. Jane Glass, a senior French major from Norwood, Pennsylvania, was chosen by her class to be Queen of the May Day festival. As is the custom, Jane will choose two senior women to be her attendants, and she will be crowned by Arthur Bushing, president of the senior class. Jane is a member of the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A., French club and has actively participated in campus activities since her freshman year. She is at present secretary of the senior class.

Martha Walker and Lloyd Anderson were chosen by the junior class to represent it in the pageant. Martha has been chosen to be a member of the Daisy Chain, and she was class sponsor her freshman year. She is a Home Economics major from Maryville, Tennessee. Lloyd who hails from Richmond, Virginia was recently elected co-captain of the wrestling team. He was president of his freshman class.

Representing the sophomore class in the May Day program will be Miss Ruby Shelley and Mr. Richard Hobart. Ruby is a Home Economics major from Seymour, Tennessee, and she is also a member of the French club. Dick is a Chemistry major from Washington, D. C. He is a member of the band and orchestra, and is program secretary for the Pre-Med club.

Lula Calloway and David Seel were chosen by the freshmen for their part in the program. Lula is a student from Maryville and her major will be either English or Biology. She has recently been chosen Nu Gamma leader for next year. David is a transfer student this semester and his home is in Bradenton, Florida.

The students who have been elected by their classes will choose another student to be their partners in the procession proceeding the queen to the throne in the annual May Day ceremony to be held in three weeks in the college amphitheatre. Details of the program will be announced later.

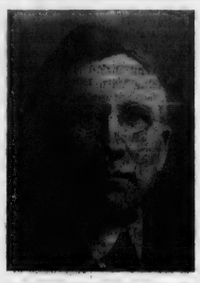
Lehman and Cain Win First, Second Places In Oratory

Prize Is Cash From Memory Endowment To T. T. Alexander

Last Wednesday morning at the chapel service the finals of the T. T. Alexander Oratorical Contest were held, Dorothy Lehman winning first prize and Phyllis Anne Cain second.

The T. T. Alexander prize fund, established by a friend of the college, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places in an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty. The subject for the contest must be chosen from the following group: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith. A plan of alternation is used so that men and women compete every other year.



Dorothy Lehman, a sophomore English major from Beverly, Kentucky and a member of the varsity debate team, spoke on the topic, "The Resurrection." Living hope came in with the risen Lord and gave us victory over death, she said. "Christianity is like a nail: the harder you hit it, the deeper you drive it in. That is a real faith in a risen Savior." Miss Lehman concluded with the thought that because our Christ lives we too can have hope to live and have faith to endure.

Phyllis Anne Cain, the second place winner, is a senior history major from Morristown, Tennessee, and is a member of the varsity debate team, president of the Maryville chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, and president of the International Relations Club. She spoke on the topic, "Christ's Atonement For Sin."

Man's soul needed relief and forgiveness from sin, and God, recognizing this need, sent his Son to redeem man. Christ made the supreme sacrifice of which man was incapable. "The ultimate meaning of the atonement is surrounded in mystery, but three truths stand out as to the importance and meaning of the atonement." Christ established a medium between man and God so that we are able to commune with the Lord. Jesus also brought a new conception of God the God of love who gave His son for us. "Calvary," she concluded "is God's heartbreak for your sin and mine."

The judges for the contest were Rev. D. John A. McAfee, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian church, Mel H. Ashley, principle of Maryville high school, and Rev. Mr. Dillsworth, pastor of the West Maryville Presbyter-

Seniors Prepare for Comprehensives

Sophomores To Take National Tests

Wednesday and Thursday, April 14 and 15, are the dates set for the senior Comprehensive examinations and the national tests for sophomores. Exams begin at 1:30 P. M.

Seniors are expected to write three hours each afternoon. They may write four but no more. Majors will learn from the head of their department where their test will be given.

The sophomore test will be given in the chapel. It must be taken by all sophomores and any juniors who have never taken it.

There will be no afternoon classes for any students on the test days. Seniors taking comprehensives are, in addition, excused from attendance at chapel or morning classes. Sophomores and all others will attend chapel and morning classes as usual.

Mr. Horace Ellis To Retire From Library Position

Former Student Has Been in Educational Work For 45 Years

President R. W. Lloyd has just released to the HIGHLAND ECHO the following statement. "Mr. Horace Lee Ellis plans to retire from active service as Maryville College Librarian after the present college year. He celebrated his seventieth birthday on November 20. Seventy is the usual faculty retirement age at Maryville and Mr. Ellis has requested that he be permitted to close his work at that age. He offered his resignation because of limited health a few years ago but now feels he should give up his work at the College. He has sold his home in Maryville and he and Mrs. Ellis plan to make their year-round residence at the home to which they have formerly gone for the summer only at Burrville, Tennessee, some miles northwest of Maryville. Mrs. Ellis is there already while Mr. Ellis is reliving some of his own student days by taking a room on the first floor of Carnegie Hall.

"Mr. Ellis graduated at Maryville College in 1898 and during all the forty-five years since then has been in educational work, thirty-one of them on the Maryville faculty. His career has been a distinguished one and has included service as a teacher in elementary school, high school, and college; as a high school principal, as a college dean and treasurer, and as a college librarian. He was at Carson-Newman College seven years, three as Professor of Latin, three as Dean, and one as Treasurer. He came from Carson-Newman to Maryville College in 1924 as Professor of Education and Principal of the Preparatory Department which then had 522 students and was more than twice as large as the College Department When the Preparatory Department was closed ten lears later he became College Librarian and has served in that capacity for the past nineteen years.

"Because of his long teaching career he is called "Professor" Ellis by all but the more recent students and faculty. He is well known in Maryville and East Tennessee where he has long been a leader in the Baptist Church and in educational and civic circles. He has given to the College not only loyal, efficient, and Christian service but also some intangible things that belong especially to the Old South with its courtesy of manner and spirit.

Navy Life Float Is Stamp Goal

Committee Requests 65 Percent More Student Cooperation

Enough war stamp sales to purchase a Navy life float is the goal set for the month of April by the stamp commttee. A modern Navy float saves ten people. Its balsar wood buoyancy is unaffected by capsizing, splintering, or shell fragments. This goal means that Maryville students must purchase $187.50 worth of stamps.

Breaking the total down, it is found that this amount can be reached if an average of only 40 cents is purchased by each student. Just one 10-cent stamp each week will make this possible. This amount seems ridiculously low—less than the price of a movie; less than the average weekly purchases at the Chatterbox. Yet the amount has to be small or Maryville students connot reach it.

For some inexplicable reason, high schools are able to purchase tanks ($75,000) and mobile canteen units ($10,000) while their brothers and sisters in college seem frankly apathetic toward supporting the country for which they will soon be fighting.

War stamps aren't expenditures; they are investments. College students should be mature enough to plan for the future. They should be able to imagine how much $25

Wacky Business Made Clear, Or Women's Place Once More Defined

By ROBERT F. HUBER

A wack is sometimes defined as a person, usually a woman, with a scatter-brain and a loose tongue who serves no useful purpose. But a WAAC is more than that. A WAAC (the alphabet comes up again — Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps) must be a young patriotic woman willing to make sacrifices for her country and devote her efforts toward the making of a better, more democratic world in which to live.

Once one is accepted as a WAAC, she is sent somewhere for basic training, the instruction being similar to college training. She is instructed in map reading, military courtesy and discipline, chemical defense, air attack defense, military sanitation, first aid, close order drill, and safeguarding military secrets. This last one may be a little hard at first, for all women love to talk, but a WAAC soon learns to keep her mouth shut.

There is a definite need for college women, said Lieut. Florence M. Bangert. Lt. Bangert, who spoke to the student body last Thursday, was herself a student at the University of Pennsylvania when she became a WAAC. She was wacky before that, however. Lt. Bangert and Pvt. Eleanor Dale hope to come back to Maryville some time in May so that they may see the May Day Festival. They have been making a tour of Southern colleges and will visit the University of Chattanooga and Vanderbilt next. Many Maryville students requested application blanks for consideration to become WAACs, as if they weren't already wacks.

The purpose of the WAACs is to take the place of men not in the armed forces, for it takes seven million men behind the lines to keep one million men on the front. Many WAACs—and ninety percent prefer it—are sent for duty overseas. This is one advantage they have over the WAVES and SPARS who cannot leave the country.

Women now majoring in home economics, dramatic art, or physical education are especially desired. They can be used as cooks, (let's hope they learn to cook), dieticians, recreational and physical education insructors.

The WAACs receive their uniforms free until they become officers. Their hair will not be crop-

Maryville Music-Makers Achieve Evening of Approval, Orange Juice

By MADELINE COOKE

A week ago Thursday, April 1 to be exact, sixstudents from the music department climbed in more or less dignity aboard the bus for metropolitan Knoxville. An hour later these same six ,plus Miss Katherine Davies, Mr. Richard Vine and 16 or so of turnpike covered were eating supper at the S&W cafeteria as guests of the Knoxville Piano Teachers' Guild. At eight o'clock they changed into evening dress and were assembled alias musicians, in the Church Street Methodist Church.

These lucky people had been invited to put on the program at a parent-teacher meeting of the Knoxville music teachers. Miss Davies had planned a program of compositions representing classical, romantic, and modern music. She prefaced each of the numbers with a few interesting observations.

This was the program:

La Folia ... Corelli
Katherine Crews, accomp. by Gordon Stone

Sonatina in A ... Scarlatti
Gordon Stone

One Fine Day ... Puccini
Marcia Keirn, accomp. by Sibyl Tallent

Carnival ... Schuman
Pierrot
Valse Noble
Ruth Wynn

Prelude No. 2 ... Gershwin
Ruth Wynn

Hejre Kati ... Hubay
Katherine Crews, accomp. by Gordon Stone

The Maiden and the Nightingale ... Granados
Gordon Stone

Flower Duet (Madame Butterfly) ... Puccini
Marcia Keirn and Frances Harris, accompanied by Sibyl Tallent

The talent of the students and Miss Davies' charming manner captivated the audience. One enthusiastic parent judged the program better than some he had heard at conservatories. Another enjoyed it so much, so concretely, that she invited the group to her near-by home for grape juice. The house was an old-fashioned mansion, and grape juice turned out to be orange juice; so the evening ended with a slight bit of the unusual touch.

So well-liked was the program that Miss Davies has been asked to give it again at the end of the month at a joint meeting of the students of the Guild members.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

In times of war symbols of democracy take on added meaning and significance, but too often we fail to realize this. More often than not we take for granted those things which are dear to our hearts. Our attitude toward the American flag is one strong example of this lack of respect and spirit of indifference.

The lack of knowlege on this subject among college students is appalling; and now that Maryville is the home of a College Training Detachment, we must of necessity learn more about our flag and must demonstrate our respect toward it in a more palpable manner.

Here are a few rules to follow in showing respect to the flag. Instead of waving at the person lowering the flag a civilian should stand at attention until the ceremony is completed. He need not salute but should always remove his hat. This is the attitude we should demonstrate when the soldiers go marching by with Old Glory.

Another rule unobserved here applies to the showing of the flag in the chapel. The national flag code states that the American flag should be flown in the position of honor at the speaker's right and the Christian flag should be on the speaker's left as he faces the audience. The flags in our chapel are exactly reversed.

The American flag symbolizes the throbbing heart of a great nation, the joys and sorrows, the hopes and aspirations of its people. If our flag is to mean anything to us and is to be a symbol of the democracy for which we are fighting, we must show a greater respect for it.

BUTERSCOTCH has gone to war—so be patriotic and swallow a bitter pill. Feel better? It's only for the duration, only there's nothing "Lucky" about this task; it's an infliction the paper has.

Marilyn Bryant has been authorized as an airplane expert—specializing in R-38's. For further information please contact Esther Bettye Baker, Ruth Randolph or Mable Marshall, members of her secretarial staff.

True confessions column this should be. "It seems that Mr. Segraves prefers the Lone Ranger to Cas Walker," waxed Dr. Queener reproachfully. After a moment of contemplation, "Well, so do I." We're glad something is good for the soul.

On with the new . . . . spring has sprung with its full array of WASPS buzzing around budding flowers like little bees. Popular sentiment advises against association with these creatures, however. We know—the hard way.

Shakespeare didn't know he would influence women's dress styles. (Neither did a vegetable garden either, for that matter.) Anyhow, the rule is for everybody to wear the same color sweaters to Shakespeare class. Fr'instance, blue Monday evidenced itself the other day before Tuesday. Anyone willing to donate a bright yellow neck-tie to Dr. Hunter for next Friday please phone the sweater committee, Edith Monroe, chairman.

And speaking of yellow ribbons, what happened to the Army theme song?

Things worth noticing . . . . . the drum and bugle (singular) corps on parade . . . . . anything (even a T-bone steak) thinner than Shadow Scheibelle . . . . WAAC Lieutenant Bangert . . "Crowd" Cain carrying blue paper to match her outfit (but not her mood) . . . . chocolate anythings . . . .

Cynthia Johnson was the inspiration for the following ballad, after seeing her recent gymnastics:

"She climbs in the trees with the greatest of ease,
You'd think her a man on the flying trapeze.

Her movements are graceful, all men she does please.
And now we've found the Missing Link."

The older chewing gum gets the better it pops. And we like Dr. Lloyd's way of noticing the evident.

That noisy soft ball game last Monday A. M. after breakfast was a bible class. Instructor, "Home-Run" Gates. The lesson was on recreation, so the class learned to do by doing (that is, trying). Such celebrities were ball rolling. P. S. There was more cheering than scoring.

It's not the quantity but the quality that counts, say the dwindling eighty-five. At this rate there won't be enough men on campus to have a chess team.

Congratulations to Dr. Griffitts on his twenty-fifth birthday anniversary. Surprised was his name when the ECHO staff hiked down and stormed his homestead. Many happy returns of the (day, staff —choose one.)

VIVE LA COMPANEE!

Wednesday night at the meeting of the Student-Faculty Senate, at which I did not happen to be present, having been defeated for the umteenth time last September for the post of representative, some vital business was transacted which will have a very real effect on every member of the student body. It was the proposal about which there have been many rumours running rampant for so long and which many, myself included, felt had been lost in the executive shuffle along with spring house-cleaning and the coming of the army air crew: namely, the "Town Night" proposition which will make it possible for students to date in town either on Tuesdays or Fridays between certain hours and within certain limits, without a chaperon.

Most everyone is more or less familiar with the stipulations of the proposal and with the various restrictions. Those who are not will please listen carefully when the proposal is read before the house at chapel service next Tuesday or Wednesday and will kindly vote either "yea" or "nay" when the question is put. The most significient thing about the whole affair is not that new liberties and pleasures are now to be open to students regardless of sex, politics or previous conditions of servitude, but that new responsibilities must be assumed by both the student council and the whole student body at large.

And, further, let it be pointed out, that with the assumption of these new liberties and responsibilities, the council automatically receives new powers, which when exercised, accrue new and deserving (now) prestige for this body of office holders. A real step will have been taken, with the passing of the proposal by a vote of the student body, toward that which every progressive and forward-looking liberalarts institution of comparable size has long been enjoying — student government that is what its name implies.

There may be some doubts in the minds of many of the members of the faculty and of the student body cencerning the possibility of student government working efficiently and effectively here at Maryville College; and justly so. But certainly if student government will work anywhere, it will work here where such a large portion of the student body are responsible agents of high calibre and capable of shouldering responsibility and dealing in such businesses as bodies of this type must. When problems arise, as they certainly must in any such new enterprise, it is expected that this body of young legislators will be perfectly competent to deal with them in a creditible fashion and will receive the support of the entire student body which they represent. Perfect cooperation and willingness to USE and not abuse these new privileges must be the resolution of everyone on the Hill else the whole plan is most certainly doomed to become just another dismal failure and all hope of real student government become just another straw in the wind.

While we wait with bated breath pending the out-come of the campus-wide vote on this new and promising project, let's all take time out to see and speak to our student council representatives and let them know that at last we have become aware of the tremendous amount of work, time, and secrecy each is required to give to the cause —our cause — and that we really do appreciate the fine [illegible] which all of them are doing. Let us encourage them in their endeavors for the future, and let them know that we stand behind them to a man.

will mean to them in ten years. It may mean the first installment on a living room suite. It might mean a new coat. It might help an ex-service man to come back and finish his education.

If the April war stamp sales reach the $187.50 goal, one of the members of the faculty had given her promise that she will purchase a $75 bond through the college. The members of the faculty purchase their bonds and stamps regularly through their Faculty club committee. Hence this promise is not too easily made, for it means lowering the Faculty club's record considerably.

The war stamp sales of March 31 reached $20.45. At the repeat performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace," everyone except the Air Cadets was required to purchase either one 25-cent stamp of there 10-cent stamps for his admission. $38 was taken in. Sales from this week on April 7 totaled $30.55. This is just one-sixth of the month's goal. It will not take more effort on the part of those who are already buying to put this thing over; it will just take the cooperation of the 65% who aren't buying at all.

The punishment to be recommended by the Student Council and imposed by the Executive Council is to include:

(a) Removel of the privileges for the remainder of the semester, and

(b) Two demerits.

The Executive Council may inflict more severe penalties at its discretion.

If approved by the student body, the plan will go into effect on Friday evening, April 16.

V. Boynton Discusses Migration of Birds At Nature Club

Those attending the last meeting of the Nature club, April 5 in Fayerweather heard a study of the "Migration of Birds" as given by Verneda Boynton, a sophomore home economics major from Pikeville, Tennessee. Following this talk, Paul Smith, a sophomore psychology major from Orlando, Florida, presented ideas gained from the reading of an article on the soybean. Mary Caroline Somerville, Latin major from Mason, Tennessee, gave a similar talk on long-legged birds entitled "Stilts".

Mary Jane Barrows, a junior transfer student from Columbia Bible College, Columbia, S. C. will speak on birds at the next meeting of the organization on April 17. The general topic for the month of April is birds, and the club meets every first and third Monday. Betty Hains, a senior Education major from Harrisburg, Pa. is the president.

Miss MacKenzie Former Missionary, Is YW Speaker

Miss Virginia MacKenzie, secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, will speak at the regular meeting of YWCA tomorrow at 1:30. Miss MacKenzie was formerly a missionary to Japan for twenty-one years. She will tell about her work there.

Jane Hayes will present special piano music. She will play a Beethoven interpretation of a well-known piece.

Rev. R. B. Hamilton Is Speaker At YMCA Banquet Friday

On April 2, 1943, fifty-one members of the YMCA attended the Spring Banquet of the YMCA at Smith's Restaurant. A chicken dinner was served, being followed by group songs, led by Ralph Parvin, a trumpet solo by Bob Hunter, accompanied by Gordon Stone, and an inspirational talk was given by Rev. Robert B. Hamilton of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Knoxville.

Mr. Ralph Colbert served as toastmaster, with Dr. Horace Orr and Mr. E. E. McCurry representing the faculty. In addition to the main speaker and the musical numbers already mentioned, the Three Flats, Don Hopkins, Ted Pratt, and Ralph Parvin, sang two numbers and president Clyde Brown made a few remarks.

At the regular business meeting of the organization held Tuesday evening, April 6, reports from various committees were given. Plans and suggestions were discussed in regard to next year's work. President Clyde Brown presided at this meeting which was open to all members of the YMCA.

Disc Club To Hear Sibelius Symphony Thursday Evening

Jan Sibelius' Symphony No. 2 in D Major will be played next Thursday, at 6:30 during the Disc club meeting in the Fine Arts studio. Known as Sibelius' Pastoral Symphony it will be rendered by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Serge Koussevitsky. Gordon Stone, music major from Knoxville will be the commentator.

One of Sibelius' seven symphonies was written by the Finnish composer in 1901 and 1902. The four movements are Allegretto D Major; Tempo andanto, Ma Rubato D Minor; Vivacissimo B flat Major; and Allegro Moderato D Major.

Rev. Van Deusen Is Student Vol Speaker

Rev. Mr. Courtland Van Deusen of Tsingtao, China will speak to the Student Volunteers on Sunday evening, April 11, in the YW rooms. Mr. Van Deusen spent 28 years in evangelistic and administrative work in Shantung Province, thus making himself acquainted with Far Eastern problems. Mr. Van Deusen addressed Wednesday chapel, March 17 and has spoken to a joint meeting of the Y. W. and Y. M.

Nominations for officers for the coming year, 1943-44 will be announced at this meeting.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP

Writers' Workshop will hold its next meeting on April 21. This meeting will take place in Dr. Hunter's classroom at 4:15. The readers will be Phyllis Anne Cain and Charles Dunning. Frances Harris will be critic.

Hospital Dismissals

In the past two weeks the Lamar Memorial hospital has admitted a number of student patients. Mary Curtis, Howard Meineke, and Danny Long, having had the flu, have been dismissed. Bette Lou McCoy and Leroy Dillener have been measles victims, but are now back to their classes.

ECHO SPORTS

Guest columnist today is the well-known Lester Clarke Boyd, ace ECHO sports writer. Boyd was on his way to take a new position with the government and was all packed to go, but the army got wise; so we gave him a chance to redeem himself. He's a gone duck so you don't have to read it if you don't want to. But don't expect to become one of the intellectually enlightened if you don't. What is it? Well, let's call it

SPORTS CHATTER

There is an extreme shortage of sporting news. With only one varsity sport, tennis, going on, the sport page is going to look like the candy counter in the chatterbox from here on in. It is being told about that there will be no sport page next year. It is to be converted into a woman's page with fashion notes, hints on how to get a man after they come back from the army and a column on point system. There's a thought for a column or a feature next year. "How to Get a Man in a Fifteen-Day Furlough."

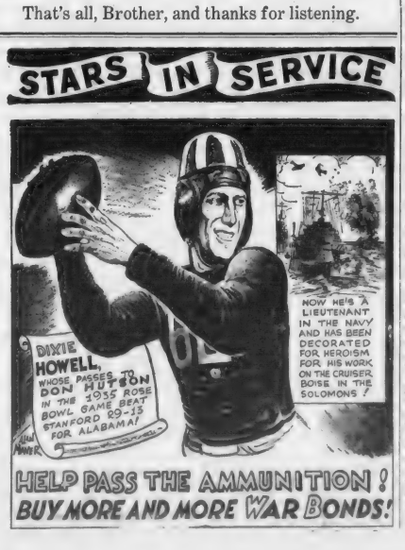
It's really a fact though, that out of 218 men who took part in the intramural program last semester, only 133 are in school now As almost every man took part in intramurals this year, that is a pretty good yardstick. Next year the intramurals will be strictly a la Ward-Belmont.

If it were possible for the Air Crew students to take part in intercollegiate sports, we could put out a tough football team next fall. We have several ex-college players with us, one of whom is Bill Early of Notre Dame. Those boys are tough, as anyone who has seen touch football. To them, touch football means that the ball carrier, or anyone else for that matter, has to touch the ground to be stopped. I'd hate to play tackle with them.

From now on the army will be a little more careful about where they drill their men. A detail of them got mixed up in a "bloody murder" game on the football field last Wednesday morning and the whole formation became pretty much broken-up about it.

What goes up, must come down. The job is to get it up in the first place, says Owen McGarity, as he tries to hoist himself over a high hurdle on the obstacle course.

Coach Davis was back on campus last week. He had a new suit on and he looked mighty good in it. I hope I look as well when I get mine.



And looking out into the sporting world we see that Henry Armstrong, probably the greateset fighter for his weight ever to crawl into a ring, finally came to the end of his career when he was decisioned by a younger, stronger opponent, Beau Jack. Henry the Hammer was on the comeback trail after his sensational record of a few years ago when he held three world titles at one time. There was no dishonor in the defeat. Henry fought all the way through, never quitting, pitting his courage and experience against the youth and stamina of a boy who is on the way up. Here's hoping that the Hammer quits now, while the taste of his greatness is still in the mouths of the fight fans, before he becomes one of those fighters who dosen't know when he's done and hits the bottom hard.

One bloodless, merciless, cruel ball team will be around this spring—the team that donated 23 pints of blood to the Red Cross.

Take a gander at some of these softball teams. It's amazing what talent you can stir up among 4-F's and reserves!

You can let the air out of the basketballs now and grease up that old ball glove. The big league season hits the pages for a five-months stand. So it's "Take Me Out To The Ball Game" and don't spare the peanuts.

That's all, Brother, and thanks for listening.

SPRING CLEANING

By WINTON MACK

Dark clouds loomed across the horizon as the combined Squadrons were assembled before Lieutenants — er, both of them, and received a bit of unlacing in good old military style. It seemed that the unholy few who had been leaning over in an effort to keep things clean — but in such a way as to use just the least possible effort — had at last used the least possible effort and had caused discipline to rear its head in repartion. The theory of Open Post was discussed most openly and many new ideas added, not all of them beneficial. What would it be — scrubbed floors and Open Post or business as usual and NO Open Post? At this writing, there is no official answer known as yet. Still, the attitude shown by all Cadets was indication enough that Open Post would be held as per last week. If they worked hard and cleaned the barracks carefully, freedom would be theirs—so the rush to the barracks was held down to a mere 210 a minute and many were the promises made on the QT to fellow rankers. "Ha! I'll show 'em. Why, I'll clean the whole flooor for Open Post, by myself too. Any body can keep barracks clean if they just but try (this in a modest tone) Ha! I'll show 'em." With this attitude in every mind, old Carnegie trembled to its foundations as grim intentioned Cadets thundered up its stairways. Voices came from nowhere, "Hey, has anyone seen a mop or a GI brush — any soap, gotta have soap, SOAP! Activity hummed and dust flew — only to settle right back to its original position as energetic scrubbers passed by. Cadet (I'm no Nawthener) McCloud insisted his position, self inflicted, as bed tester be permanently established. "Aw gosh, You'all think I'm just fooling, don't you'all? Ya gotta rest at least a half hour in each bunk before You'all call 'em all right, so just keep business at home I'll try my own first — I've already forgotten how it feels. Gd'nite — ah, that is, See y'uh later." (author's note: What's a bed?)

Open house was held down in the basement by some of the best in the game and a fine time was had by all. That is, until the Cadet F.B.I. (for best interests) crashed the party uninvited. After that, all goldbrickers were formally escorted around to a messy bit of mop detail a la Graves; may his grain wither and locusts descend upon all his lands.

By the way, since Cadet Graves lost his voice, life in the fourth Quintile has been livable. If only that guy would get his own girl 'stead of cashing in on one poor guy who has enough trouble as it is. "Ronnin" isn't his name, either. Speaking of trouble, Cadet Nicholson is taking DuBerry's success course to acquire a body beautiful. He still has fifty pounds to lose though — can't kid me — what he needs is less knowledge of what are among sciences; Goldbrickering. Now that's one thing that'll get a fellow to lose his angles before he knows it. Nick graduated long ago in that school — and with a Masters Degree too. Why, he's getting so fat he's beginning to overlap. Just take a look and see. Can't miss him, and wouldn't you know it, he stays on the bottom floor, too. One hundred and fifty Cadets can't be wrong about everything; so take our word for it all. I would like to add here that if any one thinks I write this hash, they're wrong! Someone else does and I can prove it — given a little time. I wouldn't put it past that Sherley Guy to blame it on me either. He's the type that Jack Benny played in "The Meanest Man In Town" but not nearly so pretty, Old Stiff Neck Sherley, they call him. Swipe candy from a baby if no one was looking, he would! Just look at him objectively sometime — you'll see that Jekyl and Hyde personality plus just grining at you.

Cadet Shannon actually didn't know that pork came from pigs. He asked for the "Cow" one noon and was insulted because the cream was passed to him. "You guys are Nuts" HE said! Bet that guy thinks Palm trees and coconuts have some vital connection with the milk and butter shortage. Just for fun, ask him where ham comes from. Go on, try it.

And then there was the one about the Cadet who said, "Oh, was I supposed to have guard duty last night?"

To all those grand and glorious Cadets who have had duty as Sgt. of the Guard or Officer of the Day, I offer my deepest consideration. Just nothing to do but sit up all night and do homework — Ah, that's the life for me. First hundred years are the hardest though; after that you don't mind anything. But thats what it takes to be a soldier and we all want to be soldiers and good ones, too. Cadet Robbins damaged his wingtip and scratched up his fusilage a bit during a bit of unintentional flying off the front stairway at Carnagie the other day.

That's what I call really being eager — still, recovery is pending upon eagerness and of course, all kidding aside, we all hope he patches up quickly. Keep your flaps down, Robbie: honest, its all been tried before and ya gotta have wings.

This Author (title in question) has a sporting proposition to put before the millions of readers who scan this collyeum weakly, or every week. Do you dislike someone heartily? have you been scorned? Spurned? Did Wrong? Are you smarting under the sting of a shove-off? WELL then, write in care of this collyeum or see me personally and get revenge! Rates are high but results guaranteed. Not responsible in case of reprisal. Just give it a try. Won't take but a minute to jot some bit of choice scandal down and send to Winton Mack, care of Carnegie hall. You see, I figure this way. Wouldn't you like to see your OWN exagerations in this collyeum? No on I write about likes my exagerations; so why don't you try it your way for a while? Otherwise I'll get my own news and snoop more than ever, so help me. This applies to College Students too. (free adv.) I shall expect my flood of letters to begin immediately after ye olde paper is published. Details must be given for accurate description. And best results.

Norman were seen in Knoxville drinking — of all things — milk shakes. Imagine Cadet John Nipper, the pretty boy of the outfit was seen in the company of a very charming young lady in Knoxville. He certainly has what it takes.

Cadet Arthur Pate, incidently one of the Tarheels of the outfit, seems to be trying to monopolize the market. He had three girls last Open Post. That's no fair, Art.

There is quite a bit of secrecy as to why Cadet Clampett appeared Sunday morning with a decided limp. He says he ran into a door. We wonder?

Cadets Billy Pratt and Red Merrett we are told were among the many invited out for dinner last Sunday noon. How do you do it boys?

Cadet Winton Mack, our very competent Collegue in this weekly escapade was seen running wildly down stairs followed by a furious pack of fellow Cadets. Boys, what's in these colums is all in fun. Don't take it to heart.

Last week we gave credit to a certain girl for being responsible for the sudden change in Cadet "Ronnie Jr." Swinson's attitude, but I'm afraid we made a very serious mistake. He has a whole covey of them now. What a man!

If anyone should wonder why the plaster is falling so rapidly from the walls of dear old Carnegie, it is because the Cadets are hitting the wall when an officer enters the halls.

We were surprised to find Cadet Larry Fassbinder with that eternally bewildered look on his face in the hall the other day. After some investigation, we found that he had come face to face with one of the Cadet Officers and had swallowed his cigarette. Careful, Larry, You might burn someone.

Cadet Mack Towne has been deceiving us. He lead us to believ that he was the frivolous type; but after last Saturday night, he's just a home boy at heart.

"Colonel Stinky" Graves has finally gotten into the old army rut of passing the buck. No matter what happens, he says "It's not my idea". Sometimes we of the fourth Quintile wonder.

We overheard acouple of young ladies talking among themselves, as women do, and one of them said, "Oh Jean, don't you think that Cadet called "pinky true" is just a darling? He's so small." Phil, how do you rate?

Cadet Karl O'Quinn was seen the other morning industriously engrossed in gathering finger and hand prints from the basement hall wall. Can it be that he is a detective?

Long, tall and easy going Cadet Gilkkerson really has a way of covering ground. We can truthfully say that he is the most difficult man to investigate that we've ever known. Cadets Bill Johnson and Mosely also have a habit of pulling the disappearing act every Saturday afternoon. Boys, just where do you hang out?

Cadet Stan Simmonds seems to be extremely popular. He gets more letters than we knew there were people in Manhatten.

My curiosity was aroused last week as to what certain Cadets did with their spare time on Saturday and Sunday, so we did some snooping and this is what we found.

Cadet "Baby Sessoms" and fiancee and party were seen eating T-bone steaks with all the trimmings despite rationing problems.

GAMES PLAYED THURSDAY, APRIL 8

Ramblers17, Cooties 6

The Ramblers composed of Buford, Ezell, Bergquist, Rock, Pepper Adams, Pemberton, Brand, and Mair with a total of seventeen hits brought in seventeen runs. The Cooties with only one hit brought in 6 runs. The Cooties team is made up of Glen Paul, Bob Burd, M. Purvis, Leroy Dillener, Chas. Burgreen, Pete Van Blarcom, Paul Cooper, and Dick Moore.

The Ramblers look to be the best team on the field, in either league but they will probobly meet stiff competition if the Air Corps students put in a team at the end of the first half of the soft ball schedule. The Ramblers have beaten all of the other teams in their league.

Volunteers 7, Buckeyes 3

The Volunteers won over the Buckeyes with the same score they were beaten with the first time they played the Buckeyes, so it looks like a close race for second place in the Independent league. The Volunteers are composed of Stevens, Aston, E. Wilson, Talbot, W. Davis. A. Spears, Enloe, M. Wilson, Morton, and Wagnor. They made 3 hits and scored 7 runs. The Buckeyes composed of Miller, Evans, Conkle, Mitchell, Scapellati, Meineke, Cato, Kramer, and Roseborough.

Athenian 30, Ministerial 9

The Athenians seem to be doing in the club league what the Ramblers are doing in the Independent league. They have lost no games and ran up 30 runs to the Ministerials 9 last Thursday. The Athenians team is composed of C. Brown, Bushing, J. Suitor, G. Williams. J. Hodges, S. Crawford, D. Hopkins, F. Bradford, Jack Deforest, and B. Seel. The Ministerials team is made up of Guy Lambert, Jim Hogue, Hubert Rust, Owen McGarity, John Taylor, John Scott, Bill Buzby, and Paul Smith.

The Laymen forfeited to the Giants and seem to be the weakest team in the Independent league. The Giants are tied with the Ministerials for second place but the Ministerials won the first game 13-9 getting 8 runs in the next to the last inning. The two teams seem to be evenly matched despite the difference in the scores the first game. The Giants are made up of Paul Schuster, Nelson Ernest, Dan Gualtieri, Bob Huber, Dick Hobart, Olsen Pemberton, Ken Waggett and Bill Segraves.

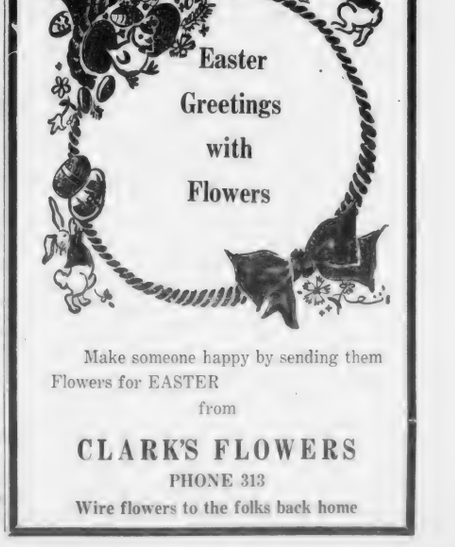
Kidder Takes Lead In Varsity Tennis



Team Schedules A Number of Matches For April and May

Work in resurfacing has been completed on two of the courts in back of Memorial hall. The surfacing and lining of the courts was done by members of the tennis squad. The third court will be finished when the need is felt for it. The team has worked hard to finish the courts for use by the students at anytime except during varsity team practice which comes between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock. The team appreciates the cooperation of the students in keeping the courts in good condition. Rules for the use of the courts have been posted on the bulletin board near the courts. Observance of these rules will make for better courts for our school.

The varsity team which has been playing off for positions this week has set its order of players as follows:

T. Kidder, number one man.
T. Pratt, number two man.
K. Cooper, number three man.
W. Easter, number four man.
R. Hunter, number five man.

The team has eight matches tentatively scheduled. The first match will probably be held within the next one or two weeks.

Jane Glass and Arthur Bushing Take Leading Parts in Annual May Day Festival Based on the Four Seasons

Attendants Chosen; Classes Represented In The Procession

YWCA SPONSORS

Mrs. West, Queener YWCA Cabinet Make Plans for Program

The annual May Day Festival will take place next Saturday afternoon, May 1 at 2:30 in the outdoor amphitheatre in the college woods. As is the tradition, the YWCA is sponsoring the program which is under the direction of Mrs. Nita E. West, assistant professor of dramatic art, Mrs. V. V. Queener, physical education instructor, and a committee of the YWCA cabinet.

This year's program will be centered around the four seasons of the year, with a girl to represent each season. Songs by the women's glee club, under the direction of assistant professor Richard Vine, will play a large part

The principals in this year's festival will be Jane Glass as May Queen and King Arthur Bushing, representatives of the senior class. Jane is a French major from Norwood, Pennsylvania, and Art is an English major from Jamestown, Tennessee. Jane has chosen Jean Patterson and Ruth Wynn as her attendants. The junior class will be represented by Martha Walker and Lloyd Anderson. Martha has chosen Matney Reed to walk with her, and Lloyd has selected Marion Stout.

The sophomore class has elected Ruby Shelley and Dick Hobart to lead its procession. Don Barker will walk with Ruby, and Winnie Sommers with Dick.

Lula Callaway and Davil Seel will lead the freshman procession Bob Bruce and Barbara Shearer will walk with them.

The crown-bearer will be Lamar Alexander. Erica Collins will be the flower girl.

Ministerial Society Conducts Services During Holy Week

Events of Trial Week Subject for Talks In Daily Meetings

The annual series of Holy Week meetings was held this week under the auspices of the Ministerial society to commemorate the events of the week of trial in Jerusalem which led to the Crucifixion and the Resurrection.

Each day from 12:45 to 1:15 a student led the service in the YW rooms for the benefit of both students and faculty. Monday, Guy Lambert, a senior ministerial student from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, led the service, using the theme "Christ Cleansing". His text, Matthew 21:12 concerns Jesus cleansing the temple of the moneychangers. The special music was a solo "Open Ye Gates" by Marcia Keirn, a music major from Alcoa, Tennessee.

Tuesday the theme was "Christ in Controversy". Muriel Geisler, a senior religious education major from West Palm Beach, Florida, used as her text Mark 12:13. This was the day that the Pharisees and Herodians tried to catch Jesus with their questions. Frances Harris, a junior English major from Maryville, sang a solo Before the Crucifix."

The theme for the third day of Holy Week was that of "Christ in Contemplation". Clyde Brown, a senior ministerial student from Pennsylvania, used as his text, John 15:4, 7. This was the only day of Holy Week about which nothing was recorded in the Gospels other than the fact that Jesus spent the day in thought and seclusion in preparation for the extremely trying days ahead. Betty Parker, a junior biology major played a selection on her accordian

Sixth Annual Easter Sunrise Service In Amphitheatre Tomorrow Morning At 5:50

Keirn and Lippard To Sing Solo Parts With Choir Members

TRUMPET TRIO

Band Will Play Music On Campus Before Breakfast

Tomorrow morning the sixth annual Easter Sunrise Service will be held in the Maryville College Amphitheatre at 5:30. At 5:00 the band will begin playing in front of the Post Office. There will also be a trumpet trio playing from the tower of Anderson hall. Bob Hunter, Ted Kidder, and Paul Mohlman will make up the trio. The music will consist of Bach Chorales and hymns.

President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd will entertain members of the faculty, choir and band at breakfast before the service gegins.

Marcia Keirn and Oscar Lippard will sing the solo parts in the service in the woods. This is the first year single parts have been taken by choir members. Both Marcia and Oscar were soloists in the recent presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" during the Christmas season.

In marching out to the Amphitheatre the band will play antiphonies on Easter hymns.

President Lloyd will preside at the service, and Dr. William P. Stevenson, college pastor emeritus, will participate. The Easter scripture lesson will be read from Mark, chapter 16.

"Christ is Arisen" by Hirsch will be the first number to be sung by the choir. Other seasonal anthems will include "Alleluia", "The Strife Is O'er" by Palestrina, "Easter Alleluia" by Baird, and "Easter Bells" by Christiansen.

There will be a responsive reading and a reading of the Apostles' Creed by the audience.

It is the custom of the college to hold the service each year at the exact hour the sun is to rise.

Mrs. Walker Celebrates 91st Birthday With Showers of Flowers

By MADELINE COOKE

Last April 9 the downstairs living room of Morningside resembled aprosperous florists shop; it was Mrs. Walker's ninety-first birthday. Friends from many parts of the United States had expressed their best wishes with cards, gifts, and flowers. There were flowers flown by plane from her daughter's garden in California. Orchids had arrived from Pittsburgh. Among the many other floral arrangements were two dozen long-stemmed red and yellow roses from the boys in Carnegie, a potted plant from the girls in Pearson's, and a "flat" of blooming pansies. All day long Mrs. Walker, dressed in white as she always is, received callers. The Maryville high school choir surprized her at noon by arriving in a body and singing a group of songs.. The college choir serenaded her that night. Even a girls' gym class which was marching out in the woods stopped by to sing a lusty "Happy Birthday to You."

Mrs. Walker was born in 1852 in the old part of Pittsburgh. Her home was there until she came to Maryville ten years ago. During her lifetime she has seen many great men shine on the horizon of fame for a few brief years and then vanish like falling stars. She well remembers the time she and her cousin went to the railroad station to see President Lincoln as he passed through Pittsburgh. Her cousin was a girl of about sixteen. Much to her feminine indignation. the President said, "You're a pretty girl," stooped, and kissed her.

Despite her nine decades, Mrs. Walker follows an active daily schedule. The mornings are spent working—loking after her business affairs, and arranging projects for the improvement of the college and the community. The landscaping on the campus and our attractive dining hall in Pearsons are products of Mrs. Walker's generosity and planning. Not only is she civic-minded, but she is also aware of individuals and goes out of her way to do some kindness for them. Her afternoons are spent knitting blankets for small babies, listening to the radio, enjoying music from her wonderful record collection, or reading.

Mrs. Walker has a fine knowlege of music and art. She is quite an artist herself. She took up painting when she was 72 and then went into it intensely. At first she used to make water color paintings to amuse her grandson; later she began a special interest in flower painting. Upon coming here, she ordered a special imported paper for her living room. When it was put on, one panel was lacking. More paper was unavailable; so Mrs. Walker got out her paints and brushes and filled in the missing design herself.

One day in reading Mrs. Walker learned of some people who listened to music which was enhanced by the tinkling of a nearby fountain. This so fascinated her that she had a fountain built just outside her living room to provide an accompaniment for the music she hears.

Occasionally Mrs. Walker gets a sudden desire for a change. She is likely to call her chauffeur and announce that she wants to start for Canada the next morning, and leave without any farewells.

In addition to her kindness and common sense, Mrs. Walker has a sense of humor. But perhaps most amazing of all is her interest in everything about her. Her maxim all through life has been to make whatever she is doing—no matter how disagreeable it may seem on the surface—interesting and to enjoy doing it.

Billye Ruth Braly Is Elected Editor Of Echo; Marion Schanck Selected First Woman Business Manager

Editorial Staff of Fifteen Members Is Chosen For 1943-44 At Recent Meeting of Publications Committee

BILLYE RUTH BRALY

MARION SCHANCK

Billye Ruth Braly was elected editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO for 1943-44 by the newly chosen staff at a special meeting held early in April, in the ECHO office. Billye Ruth, a junior English major, is from Chattanooga, Tennessee. She has been a member of the ECHO staff for two years and during this time has served as associate editor and feature writer. She is a member of Writers' Workshop, is a student assistant in chemistry, and was recently appointed to serve as a member of the annual daisy chain at the commencement program. The managing editor will be appointed by the new editor sometime in the future.

Marion Schanck, junior sociology major from Perth Amboy, New Jersey, was elected business manager of the ECHO for next year. Marion has served as junior business assistant on the paper this year. She has been a member of the social committee and president of the Triangle club. Marion will be the first woman business manager the ECHO has ever had.

The incoming senior members, Ben Lynt and Jordy Meadows, will fill the senior positions of staff editors. Lucille Cathey, Robert F. Huber, and Paul Kolter will become junior associate editors. Lester Boyd and William H. Segraves will continue on the sports staff. As a result of the recent freshman try-outs, Betty Lou McCoy and Ray Saunders have been added to the editorial staff of the paper. The five other freshmen selected to remain on the staff to fill the positions of sophomore reporters were Ruth Chandler, Madeline Cooke, Dorothy Dick, Thelma Richardson, and Helen Marie Wilson. Mable Ruth Marshall and William Robarts, the present sophomore business assistants, were promoted to the rank of junior assistants.

It seems probable, in the light of the present decreased enrollment in the college and the increasing difficulty in securing war time advertising, that some departure will have to be made next year from the present procedure of having an ECHO published weekly. Whether this seemingly necessary change will involve curtailment of size of the paper or of the number of issues is as yet uncertain.

In preparation for her duties next year, the new editor will edit one of the future ECHOES this term.

The newly selected editorial staff members have been elected by the publications committee composed of Dr. Fred A. Griffitts, Dr. Hill Shine, Dr. Ralph T. Case, and Miss Almira Bassett as representatives of the faculty; a Student Council representation of Margaret Clippinger, Bob Barker, James Garvin, and Catherine Sisk, and senior members of the Highland Echo staff, Jean Barnes, Phyllis Anne Cain, and Ted Pratt.

Theater Presents Plays May 7th

Kennedy and Hall Are Directors

The Experimental Theatre according to custom adopted this year, will present two one-act plays and a scene from a long play, a week from Friday night, May 7, at seven o'clock in the Philosophy classroom. The time has been set a half hour ahead, so that students desiring to go to town may do so, at an early hour.

Bette Jean Kennedy is directing the first play, "Brittany Coast", which is a war tragedy written by one of the Modern Language professors at the University of Tennessee. Starring in this one-act are Dorothy Harned, Fred De Pue, and Carolyn Harper.

One scene from Claire Booth Luce's widely produced "The Women" will be offered with Mary Dawn Noblit interpreting the role of Crystal Allen, and Jordy Meadows that of Mrs. Haynes.

The third, "Sugar and Spice", has for its cast Ruby Shelley as Jane Jones; Billy Robarts, Chump Edwards; Margaret Kennie, Susan Darling; Miriam Bowditch, Mrs. Jones; and Ralph Parvin as Mr. Jones. Director of this comedy is Mary Grace Hall.

Rust, Shreshley, New Officers of Ministerial Society

Hubert Rust is the newly elected president of the Ministerial association. He was chosen at the last meeting to fill the office for the fall term. Lawrence Shreshley has been elected first vice president, and John Taylor second vice president. Paul Moehlman will be secretary-treasurer.

The Ministerial Association announces plans for its annual banquet to be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, April 28, in Smith's banquet room in Maryville.

Dr. Clifford Barbour, a member of the Board of Directors of Maryville College and minister of the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the speaker following the banquet. Maryville students will also remember him as last year's leader of the February meetings.

Dr. Verton M. Queener, professor of history and chairman of the division of social sciences at the college, is to be toastmaster for the evening.

Those members of the association planning to attend the banquet and who have not yet paid their money are asked to do so immediately to Harold Huffman or Guy Lambert.

The Ministerials anticipate one further meeting of their organization this semester. This meeting will be held in the college woods Thursday evening, May 6, for the purpose of installing the newly elected officers. Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, will be the speaker

WOMEN, WAR, CAMPUS ELECTIONS

Marion Schanck has been elected the first woman business manager of the HIGHLAND ECHO. She will begin her new duties next fall. This is an indication that the feminine sex will almost necessarily take over the important campus offices next semester. Only a few men will return to shool in the fall, thus leaving forthcoming Maryville entirely inhabited by girls and the army.

Sometime in the near future the three under classes will elect their officers for 1943-44. The CHIHHOWEAN editorship and position of business manager must be filled. Whose names will be opposite each title? Will the weaker sex be given a chance to exercise its strength?

We feel that in no instance in ordinary campus offices should any discrimination against women be evident. Now is a good time to put this belief into effect. Heretofore women have held offices and there has been no indication of their inability to fill them capably and with dignity.

Other factors relative to the war have made elections more difficult than before. The accelerated program has motivated hurrying through college. Students change their class rating in the middle of the year, often necessitating re-elections for one semester only. If this could be prevented, classes would be run more smoothly and cooperation would be higher because the backbone of the class would be a full-fledged classmate for two semesters.

Now is perhaps the only opportunity for girls to serve in as many of the prominent positions as boys usually hold. After the war men will be elected again. But for the duration, the women will do their part not only because they have to but because they want to.

Which leaves us no doubt about the exact center of nowhere, north-northeast, surrounded by three lovely. No? Speaking of lovely, period, we'd like to suggest for opening remarks the open swim period Saturday and star of the splashing, Water Boy Eaken, Doctor of Divingity. Many came, many sought, but Harold conquered . . . although the runners-up were fine on the approach. Pride goeth before a sprawl perhaps, but they were all right good sports.

It's such a nice and comfortable feeling—to have the doors in Pearsons finally behaving like little doors should. It was so frustrating to start banging head first through the door in the usual ten-minutes-between-bells-tangle and then discover the door isn't there or else works the other way now. What with the sawdust trail, all the close shaves on the floor, dirty windows, and Barbara and Bud too.

And that's really worth playing music and trying to borrow quarters from eight people about—the way the war stamps and bonds sale went over the top heavy. It dosen't seem natural anymore not to see Helen Anderson dash with hurriedness out of the dining room to the lobby with her little box of stamps. And worth mention of course was Ed Rowley's radiant grin after his triumphal radio debut on the Pearsons hooked-up.

Before you leave the section, how is your opinion on the several-course breakfast? Us too.

The dining room technique is right cute in some respects. The Scapellati table (for want of a better name) for instance does a beautiful heave ho effect on the sherbet cups. The plate comes blithely over the table, piled with containers; so everyone grabs at once with a wide scattering ofthe aforementioned sherbet cups, Teddy Cofer, Don Conkle, and other table debris to the four corners. The one with the longest arm wins, and it's anybody' soup.

Through ages immemorial of course there have been those Who thought an editorial should take the form of prose.
But in our estimation when the matter's unprosaic,
It deserves delineation in dactylic or trochaic.
If the rest of this week's papers could contain, for lack of news,
An account in verbal capers of most anything you choose—

We would like to answer inference and satisfy a hope
By making subtle mention of the Intramural Dope——
But a matter more terrific in the light of present daze Disdains a theme pacific, and on second thought who's writing an editorial anyway, and who wants to spend two minutes at a Saturday dance reading poetry?

It's just one of those things you catch, like measles or fly balls.

It's been interesting to see Dottie Harned appear every day this week in a new dress. The money the child must have. Strange, too, how the new ensemble resembled the day before's every day. No taste, probably. Could make additional reference to Neil Proffitt's hair "bang up" part of dramatic initiation, but Ishkabibble on the Act Too of the torture.

Have you met the freshman who went crazy trying to pronounce "A" and "I" at the same time?

And all they wanted was a little peace and quiet.

It is only to be hoped that you have noted with appreciative smirk the ghostly midnight blue of the lamplighter's effect in the army half of Carnegie, Ray Saunders' ninety mile an hour and still holding his hat sprint to and from ECHO meetings, the freshman girl's interiorspection of Carnegie, Glenn Winkle's fine vocal accompaniment of Ed Henderson's solo, the too-too-ness of Margaret Speyd's "Class Notes", the eight mile hike from Pearsons to Bartlett and back.

Or even Bob Burd bedazzling as a golfer, Rose Wells' artistic designs on her nitric acid hand, Dave Gulick's pedal work on the chopping trees idea, good old Talk-of-the-week, page twenty-four of your fifth term paper, Claude Shell's agreement to propose, the things you can do with your schedule of final exams.

Oh well.

We know what's well about it either. And so forth and so forth and so forth in seventeen and a quarter languages.

Now that the campus is showing itself definitely socially improved, we also might commend the Student Council for the thus far on its metropolis idea. Slight blindness from the traditional bright lights having been successfully countered, all is calm, all is bright.

And where do you go from here, and therefore, wherefore? This is the last musty trace of old spice you detect. The resemblace is faint at midnight.

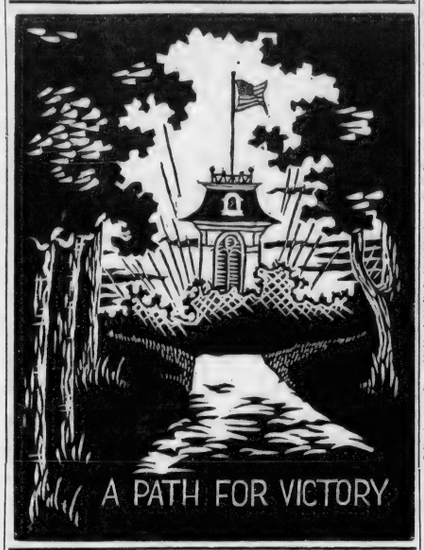
Ah yes, tomorrow being tomorrow, we'll see you at sun rise, should it so move. "——— Came the dawn ———".

From This Corner

By BEN LYNT

Spring has been here for over a month now, though one would hardly know it save for an occasional glance at the calendar, "twon night" has become a successful reality, the stamp drive has been a phenomenal success, the full moon this past week was right on time and left but little to be asked for, Neil Proffitt wore his hair in the duckiest bangs, the food from home is now but a pleasant memory, and the campus is just one beautiful view after another—all green and pink and white. All relatively well. . . . . The one discordant note is the ever-present threat of unmitigated mayhem to be committed by her ladyship the editor on one insignificant junior, namely me, if the column space is no filled before the inescapable dead-line unquote.

Which reminds me that some may not have been on hand last Monday night when four of the leading faculty wits held forth in the Philosophy lecture room, Thaw Hall, on an I. R. C. sponsored round-table discussion of the problems of establishing a permanent peace after the war in which we are at present indulging ourselves is brought to a close. There was a record crowd on hand, every seat was taken, and those who came late had to set up their own chairs. President Phyllis Anne Cain introduced Bill Evans who served as interlocutor and foil as well as guide for the pertinent remarks of the faculty participants.



It seemed altogether fitting that this meeting be held as scheduled, despite the fact that it was on the first evening of Holy Week, for the whole discussion was significantly charged with high social, moral and religious principles and was the more enlightening therefore. It was a real booster to my own morale to know that students and faculty were interseted on such a large scale in hearing the current theories on post-war reconstruction explained and discussed so completely, and also to realize that men of letters were interested to such an extent and willing to commit themselves by comment publicly.

The Drs. Hunter, Orr, Queener and Stellwagen were in their best platform mood, and to say that the show was entertaining as well as instructive is to be guilty again of gross understatement. From the opening question, directed at Dr. Stellwagen, to the closing word of summary by Dr. Hunter, a jolly good time was had by all within hearing distance, and the comments sparkled back and forth uninhibited save by a brief word at the half interjected by the initial interrogator and time-keeper Evans.

Possible the two highest points in witticism were engineered by Dr. Stellwagen. One was his droll reply in support of his insistance that the plan, being currently discussed and apparently approved at the moment by the others in the group, just wouldn't work. His answer to the question of how he knew, was simply stated, in the drollest Stellwaggian manner. "I read a book, once." the other was his frankly non-bookish "Heck, I don't know." when Dr. Orr asked him if "Uncle Joe" Stalin would be willing to join up.

Although the question was not definitely settled for all time (probably the first such instance in the annals of a faculty discussion) there were more people, by a room-full, who were better informed and provided with ample thought-provoking material to last for some time; more than enough to have made the program justifiable. Those who were responsible for this program are deserving of every praise, and it is our personal hope that this will not be the last such.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By "By" SPRAGUE

New Plans for YW Made At Retreat In College Woods

Mrs. Walker Is Host To Entire Group at Her Home

On Saturday, April 17, the Y. W. C. A. held its annual retreat. About fifty YW women, clad in slacks and carrying tin cups. etc., left at 8:30 in the morning and headed for the college woods. The services and business meetings were held at the Guest House. Advisers at the retreat were: Mrs. Bonnie Brown, Mrs. Lincoln Barker, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, and Mrs. R. J. Dollenmayer.

The thought for the day was centered about the theme that has been adopted for the coming year: "If Thou Would'st Enter Into Life . . ." The morning devotional service was led by Christine Testa who spoke on the subject: "The Gateway of Life." Christine began her talk with an illustration of a man who was going "Somewhere". Everywhere that he went he was told that to go "Somewhere' he must take something with him. First "You must have a Dream in your eyes." Then, "a Voice in your ear." "a Sword in your hand", and a "Song in your heart." Christine elaborated on these phrases, twining them into the current theme.

Following this there was a period of reports given by Muriel Geisler, Marion Stout, and Mrs. George Brown, on the conference which they attended several weeks ago at Atlanta, Georgia. There was also a discussion of plans for improving the organization.

At the afternoon worship service Mrs. Walker and Miss McCampbell were guests. Mrs. Cummings spoke on "The Pathway of Life."

After the service there was a business meeting of the old and new cabinets. The Nu Gamma leaders had their meeting separately.

The group then accepted the invitation of Mrs. Walker to go home with her and listen to a recording of Alice Duer Miller's "The White Cliffs of Dover." Upon Mrs. Walker's suggestion, a tour of inspection of her house followed.

The women returned to the tea house for supper, after which the final service, in charge of the Rev. "Scotty" Cowan of Norris, Tennessee, was held. Mr. Cowan, in keeping with the thought of the day, spoke on "The Goal of Life." He startled his hearers by beginning his speech with the announcement that there was no goal of life, and then elucidated by saying that the goal is a flying one and can never be reached. He also said that those who are here in this country should make life worth-while so that when the boys from overseas return they will not find that they fought in vain.

The evening was concluded by an informal sing around the fireplace.

On Sunday afternoon, April 18, the Y.W. program was centered around a worship theme. Christine Testa told a story, "Hall of Heroes." Jane Metcalf read the scripture. Special music was furnished by Frances Harris, who sang "I Would Be True."

The Y. W. cabinet has been proposing to invite Henry Ware, Southern Regional Secretary of Y. W.C.A. with headquarters at Atlanta, to come here on May 1 and 2 to speak. Following the Y.W. meeting, plans are pending to hold a joint meeting with the Y.M. that Sunday, Mr. Ware to be in charge of a discussion of campus problems.

WHAT GIVES?

Recently sportscribe Joe Williams donated one of his daily columns to the question of how best to physically equip a man in our fighting forces. With no mincing of words he pointed out that the problem faced by both the Army and Navy was essentially the same — that of preparing the service man for tough, aggressive, and long warfare. But, he said, the two branches are going at the task in exactly opposite ways. The Navy, looking at their boys in the various chosen colleges and universities all over the country as special students majoring in studies geared to military purposes, has given the green light to them in the way of extracurricular activities. They are encouraged to engage in strenuous competitive athletics in which a fighting spirit is fostered and made necessary.

The Army, on the other hand, stands for six hours of knee bends and breathing exercises a week for their trainees in colleges. Athletics they participate in are strictly on their own time, unorganized, and picked up. Army trainees have no time for extracurricular activities although they are free most of every Saturday. We're not here especially to talk for Joe but we'd like to throw in a second to his motion. Trainees in colleges, either Army or Navy, are primarily college students who have been given uniforms and are taking purely military subjects in their respective institutions of higher learning. They should have liberty — at least opportunity to participate in fighting games — games which draw out the good old combative spirit in the men. The Navy allows their trainees to take part in any intercollegiate sports, whether they're professional boxers, football players, or merely amateur gin rummy champions. Any and all of them may try out for college teams — and both teams and individuals are benefitting greatly from this opportunity. College sports are continuing; the competitive and fighting spirit is being kept awake, and men are coming out of their college training tougher, rougher, stronger, and fired with a fighting spirit!

SCOTS LICK CHAMPS

The tennis team's victory over Sewanee is no little feather in the Scot's cap. Sewanee has taken the State Championship for the past three years straight. Weakened considerably this year by the return of only one man from last year's star-studded team, Sewanee is perhaps below its usual level. Jervey, tennis genius who won the State Singles Championship for Sewanee in '41 and '42, is gone; but the University of the South is still considered by some to be the leading contender for the State Championship. And, whipping the team that for three years straight has captured all-state laurels is in itself an accomplishment. Another benefit reaped from Maryville's semester plan and the allowance of Enlisted Reserves to still function under Orange-Garnet instead of khaki!

Color was not absent when Wally (What's up. Doc?) Easter and Kenny (How 'bout that?) Cooper went into action in the second doubles against Sewanee and TPI. They found Sewanee to their liking but TPI threw a scare into them. But after they agreed (?) on who was going to be boss in the family, they went to town and took the wind out of TPI's sails to the score of 6-1. Just get within earshot and you'll see what we mean!

HERE AND THERE

Seventy-two scribes picked the Cards to win the National League this year. They might have to go out and substitute to save face.

Max Schmeling, Nazi paratrooper and former heavyweight boxing champion, is reported to be a prisoner of the Russians, Nice catch, huh?

Question of the week . . . . Where was the tennis team all day Tuesday? They left at 7:30 Tuesday morning and played their first match on Wednesday afternoon.

Answer of the week . . . . The old station wagon broke down and the team was treated to its first real roadwork of the season. They pushed same vehicle halfway to Chattanooga. Then back. Well, not exactly, but almost!

Old "98" gave out over the Latin America and Tommy Harmon called the best play of his career. Bailing out at 1500 feet he landed in a tree and spent four days in the dense jungle fighting his way out. It was definitely his first successful attempt through the middle without the help of Forrest Evasheski.

Scottie Tennis Team Opens Season Wt h Victories Over Sewanee and TPI

Trim State Champs 6-1 in Decisive Match at Sewanee

The Maryville College tennis team opened its 1943 season last Wednesday afternoon with a decisive 6 to 1 victory over The University of the South. The match was player under good weather conditions on the Sewanee home courts. Only in the number one singles match did the Scotties find any real competition as "Honey" Elebash, veteran all-round athlete at the southern school, stroked his way to an easy win. Elebash, star in football, basketball, track and tennis, managed to overpower the Scots' Ted Kidder in two sets.

This was the first match of the season for both net teams, Sewanee having had only about a week of practice. The Maryville team, on the other hand, started training in March, but have also been hampered by stretches of cold and rainy weather.

In the second singles event Ted Pratt played steadily to outpoint Jim Caton, his opponent, in two sets. Ken Cooper, playing Chuck Blakeslee at the number three spot, played some of his best tennis this year to win. He exhibited a great deal of stamina and drive as he took two long, drawn-out sets. Wally Easter, making his first appearance in Orange-Garnet, took George Eckles, number four Sewanee man, over the coals to win in fine style. Bob Hunter also came through with a win over fifth man Austin Parker.

Although the match was already decided by the singles events, the doubles matches gave opportunity for workable combinations and resulted in two Scot wins. Kidder and Pratt exhibited potential strength with a win over Elebash and Caton. They showed a need for practice, but also made it clear that with practice, they will win their share of the doubles matches. Cooper and Easter, playing second doubles, also gave promise of a clicking duet but found their opponents to be one-sided. Sewanee's Prior showed up well in the second doubles match but his partner was pounded to a two-set defeat. The summaries follow:

Singles:

Kidder (M) lost to Elebash (S) 1-6, 0-6.

Pratt (M) beat Caton (S) 6-1, 6-4.

Cooper (M) beat Blakeslee (S) 10-8, 7-5.

Easter (M) beat Eckles (S) 6-1, 6-1.

Hunter (M) beat Parker (S) 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles:

Kidder and Pratt (M) beat Elebash and Caton (S) 6-4, 6-4.

Cooper and Easter (M) beat Prior and Moise (S) 6-2, 6-0.

There will be no meeting of Theta Epsilon this evening.

42nd BOASTS OF MORE THAN ONE BIG-TIME ATHLETE

After more than twenty years of coaching at Maryville College Coach Honaker has at last got the material to put the Scotties on the football map in big time style, for rooming in Bartlett are dozens of the best footballers ever to trod the hallowed precincts of the Hill. Trackmen, basketball players, baseballers, and wrestlers, all of them with experience in intercollegiate athletics are also available. The only thing standing between them and us, however is a thing called U. S. Army regulations, which immediately puts these athletes as far away as yesterday.

Included in the bunch are Bill Early, first string back from Notre Dame, Bill Major, Ohio U., Dick Colvin, Kentucky, Bill Dietrich, Ohio U., Ernie Petrilli, Ohio State, Bill Randolp, Notre Dame, Harry Delaplane, Notre Dame, Ted Thoma, Xavier, Ed Langas, Ball State Teachers, and Pete Masonis, Morehead, who, incidently, helped in the defeat of Maryville when the two teams met last fall.

There are many other athletes, including a jocky, in the group that is stationed in Bartlett. All but two of the group are college men, mostly from the Mid-West.

No Match Today; Tusculum, ETT, And Milligan Next

The third match of the season, one scheduled for this afternoon with Coach Moorman's racketeers, has been called off because of the continued wet weather. TPI, whom the Scots defeated 5-2 only last Thursday, were to arrive in Maryville this morning with six or seven players for a return match. The match will probably be scheduled for a later date.

The Scots, winners in both of their starters, hit the road for a second trip Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. On Tuesday afternoon the Scots engage the Tusculum Pioneers at Greeneville. On the following morning they will take on the East Tennessee Teachers on the Johnson City courts. And in the afternoon Milligan will form the opposition. All teams are unknown quantities, but all have in previous years put up some good competition for the Scottie netters. Making the trip Tuesday will be Ted Kidder, Ted Pratt, Wally Easter, Ken Cooper and Bobby Hunter.

Ted Kidder Leads Team to 5-2 Win Over TPI Thursday

The Varsity Scottie tennis team made it two straight as they took the measure of Tennessee Polytechnical Institute 5-2 in their second match Thursday afternoon. The match was played on five of TPI's clay-sand courts under uncertain weather conditions. A light rain started to fall during the second doubles match but the players managed to finish their match without getting too wet. TPI picked up its points in the third and fifth singles events.

In the first singles match Ted Kidder started slow with a 5 to 1 handicap. Johnson, veteran briuser for the Cookeville boys, piled up an early lead with low, forcing shots and Kidder was evidently out of range. At the count of 30-5 in the seventh game for TPI, Maryville's number one man decided to play a little tennis. Running his larger opponent all over the court, he bewildered him with low placements, a good net game and a steady back court game. Slowly he crept up until it was five-all in the first set; then putting on the pressure Ted staged a whirlwind finish that netted him the next two games and the set. The second set was merely a matter of form for Ted allowed big-boy Johnson only one game the entire set. Playing his same opponent from last year, Ted Pratt took TPI's number two man Agee to win in two easy sets. Cooper found that a man about half his size isn't to be pitied. Playing superbly the first set, Ken managed to outshoot his opponent with crisp, long strokes. The second set was a different story. Running Ken all over the court, litle Marsh of TPI sweated out a 6-4 victory with smooth strokes and mixed forcing shots. Again in the third set he set them up for Cooper to miss and he was rarely disappointed as he took the third and deciding set 6-3. Wally Easter kept his spotless record clean with a hard-fought win over Jordan, smooth-stroking freshman from TPI. Wally let down a bit in the

The Giants put the Ministerials Sweatsox under in what started out to be a runaway game for the Giants but the Sweatsox rallied near the end of the game for quite a few runs but not enough to win the game. Owen "Slim" McGarity started the Sweatsox with a homer with two men on base. A few errors from the Giants and the Ministerials looked like they were going to twon but the Giants tightened up and the game ended 20-16. The Giants led at the end of the first inning 10-0. Ernest, Gualtieri, and Schuster each got a single as the first three men up for the Giants; Lynt singled and loaded the bases and bringing in one run. Segraves smacked a homer over center field and the game continued uneventful except for a few runs for each team until Owen McGarity began a rally which ended a little short of victory for the Ministerials Sweatsox.

RAMBLERS 4, BUCKEYES 1

The Buckeyes led the Ramblers through most of their game last Thursday after a run brought in by Evans. In the third inning Ezell and Rock came in for the Ramblers and in the next inning Buford and Faulkner came in to give the Ramblers a 4-1 win over the Buckeyes.

Quote ME IF YOU CAN

By BOB SHERLEY

Before I start this weekly escapade I want all readers to please understand that I am in my right mind, I think, but I am told that to think while I am what I am where I am why I am can at some time become very injurious to one or parties. In view of this fact I would like to state that maybe I'd better not think what I think where I am. I am going to endeavor to tell you about our trip up here where we were and give you our comparison of the two places.

Allow me to place you at ease by stating in clear and undeniable truth that we arrived here safely as do all people who reach here at all. Before we left where we were for here we hadn't the remotest idea that our trip would ultimately find us arriving here, from there. However, after we had left where we were, in what we left by, and after traveling a given number of days that cannot be confused with the number of nights, we found ourselves arriving here and our transfer complete.

The weather here is just as it is today; in fact, the weather is as it should be at this time of the year in this part of the country. Now that means that it is quite unlike the weather where we were before we came here. Without divulging the exact location of our assignment, the land and air here are just as they should be in this part of the country, and are not to be compared with that part of the land where we were formerly.

I cannot give you the exact distance but to relieve somewhat your mind, the distance from there to here (one way) is exactly the same as from here to there (one way).

If you have read this so far as it really is you will not get the true meaning. What I'm trying to say is, that if you read it like it isn't rather than like it is, it isn't as it should be in the manner it was originally intended. I hope you have learned a lesson from the above. The moral of this is: "Never read anything, such as this, until you have thought everything over carefully."

AIRCREW BOASTS OF YOU'RE IN THE ARMY

By SAM SCHAFER

This is just a sequel to the above column, I suppose, for last week's dirt wasn't published last week. At any rate, here are the comings and goings of Squadron "B" for the past week, which included our first open post.

Late in the afternoon of April 17th, a memorable occasion, the boys of Squadron "B" were released from quarantine. Some unfortunates were on the guard detail for that night, but the majority of us went downtown and had a rousing good time. Some went to Knoxville on Sunday, and others simply reconnoitered the local district, but at least each of us knows what the twon looks like now.

The cadet who asked "Do we have to?" when ordered to "Fall ont" last week earned the admiration of his whole flikht. The reason? There were three charming co-eds standing before the group.

And so, it's time for us to walk out to the gate to watch the "Eagle Beavers" go downtown for some leisure. We less fortunate "Aviation students" must hit the books tonight.

Here's a swell slogan from Camp Atterbury: KEEP MUM, CHUM, AND KEEP THE BUMS DUMB."

SPRING MELODY

By WINTON MACK

I have been asked by not a few to comment on the music heard at Pearsons hall this past Wednesday evening, and so this is to say "gracias" to the powers that decide such things. It certainly was grand. One strange thing about this music was some of the records played were the same that Squadron A heard while at mess hall down South. Music creates such a heavenly atmosphere, don't you think? And just a little a day helps more than a four mile cross-country run.

Ah, now comes a little publicity for the one and only kind organization in captivity — the Cadet Monkey Court. (Just kiddin. fellows—Heh, Heh.) This author, having gone-up-the-river for numerous reasons all of which I still claim were frame-ups or at least reasonable facsimiles. (still kidden fellas) I still ache all over from running up and down stairs, falling in correctly in the street, and then runnin' back up the stairs again. So monotonous! And only fifty times too. And then of course the three square meals were just atrifle bothersome too. Ya ever try it? The first hundred years are the hardest. If you want a real graphic description of what one must do when one eats a square meal, see me privately. As a mat-second set but came through in great style to take the Cookeville opponent. Hunter closely followed the play of Cooper in his number five match. He too lost in three sets. Playing steadily the first set, he outpointed Weddington with passing shots and cross-courts. But litle Weddington came back in the final sets to win in a hard-fought contest.

With the score standing at a shaky 3 to 2 for Maryville, it was anybody's match as the doubles players took the court. Feeling out their opponents, Kidder and Pratt experimented often with pulling-apart shots and down-thecenter shots. Their strategy seemed to work because both Johnson and Agee had trouble in making strong returns. Playing the aggressive tennis taught them by Coach Fischbach, the two Teds put on the pressure in the second set to win easily. This was the deciding match of the day. Cooper and Easter, teaming again in the second doubles event, started off in slow characteristic style. Fighting a light rain and a slippery court, they managed to pull up and take the lead in the first set. The second set found their foes making enough errors to assure them of victory and it did. The summaries follow:

Singles:

Kidder (M) beat Johnson (TPI) 7-5, 6-1.

Pratt (M) beat Agee (TPI) 6-1, 6-2.

Cooper (M) lost to Marsh (TPI) 6-2, 4-6, 8-6.

Easter (M) beat Jordan (TPI) 6-1, 8-6.

Hunter (M) lost to Weddington (TPI) 6-4, 3-6, 3-6.

Doubles:

Kidder and Pratt (M) beat Johnson and Agee (TPI 6-3, 6-1.

Cooper and Easter (M) beat Marsh and Jordan (TPI) 9-7, 6-1.

vice on Thursday. His text was from Luke 22:24, concernig "Christ in Communion". On this day so long ago, the Lord's Supper was first commemorated by the disciples and Jesus. Gordon Stone played a piano solo "Jesus Joy of Men's Desiring".

"Christ on the Cross" was the theme for Friday's meditation. Paul Smith, a junior ministerial student from Orlando, Florida, used as his text Mark 15:25. This was the day of the crucifixion when all hope seemed dead to the disciples. Estelle Farrow from Montclair, New Jersey, played a selection on the violin.

The last service of the week of trial was held today. Jack DeForest, a junior pre-medical student from Dedham, Massachusetts, led this devotional service with the theme "Christ the Conqueror". His text was Matthew 28:6, a verse which tells all Christians that Christ has risen, even as it was prophecied. Jimmy Walker sang the negro spiritual "There is No Death" to commemorate this memorable resurrection from dead.

All of the themes and texts used were taken from the pamphlet "Today", a monthly publication for daily devotional use.

ter of fact, now I believe that no life time is complete without at least three meals included of the square type or variety. Ah—That's really the life!! If only a feller had seven complete uniforms—or more. And of course enough money to pay all laundry bills. Pharaohs, that's what they are! (Ah—Pharaoh means nice guy in Egyptian, Guys) Ohhh, my legs! If only I get to be a Judge before those guys leave here. Why, I'd make 'em wear those stairs out—and then build new ones! Of course, you've heard the one about the guy who was so mean that he invented barbed wire so the birds couldn't sit down? Well, wait until I get in the seats of the mighty—Heh! I'll make that guy look like a piker.

Alumni, Baccalaureate, Commencement Close 124th Annual Graduation Service

The 124th Commencement will be held on Monday, May 17. Saturday will be Alumni Day and Sunday Baccalaureate Day. Intramural awards will be made at chapel Tuesday, May 11, and Senior Chapel and the exchange of chapel sittings will be next Wednesday, May 17. Awards other than Intramural will be made at chapel Friday, May 14.

In view of all the circumstances it has seemed wise to omit the Commencement Play this year and therefore the more direct activities of Commencement will begin Saturday morning, May 15, with a musical and dramatic program at the chapel hour. On Saturday afternoon will be the reception at the President's home to Seniors and their parents, to Alumni and to other guests. Saturday night at eight o'clock the Annual Aiumni Meeting will be held. This year it will be in the Library instead of the Dining Hall since it is not possible to serve a banquet. There will be a program, refreshments, and a brief meeting of the Alumni Association. All seniors are invited.

At nine-fifteen o'clock after the Alumni Meeting, there will be a band concert on the hillside beyond the Hospital and Pearsons Hall.

Writers' Workshop Holds Election For New Members

At the last meeting of the Writers' Workshop on May 5, ten new members from the sophomore class were elected to the organization. Those who were elected to membership are Eleanor Anthony, Lester Boyd, Don Barker, Virginia Cain, Edward Gates, Bob Huber, Dorothy Lehman, Paul Moehlman, Carol McCutcheon, and Evelyn Whitehead. At the same meeting before the elections were held Dr. Hunter and Helen Anderson read while Edith Monroe was the critic. Dr. Hunter read an informal essay and Helen Anderson read a character sketch.

On May 6 the annual Workshop picnic was held in the college woods for the purpose of initiating members of the organization who were taken in at the first of the last two semesters. New and old members and faculty members were present at the time. Those who were initiated were Billye Ruth Braly, Helen Anderson, Frances Harris, and Charles Dunning.

Theta Alpha Phi Initiates Five New Members May 5

Kennedy, Harned, Crider, DePue and Proffitt Elected

Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic society, held its annual banquet Wednesday night, May 5, at Smith's Cafe, to formally initiate the newly chosen members into the society. Following the banquet, a formal initiation was conducted at the Guest House in the College Woods. Five new members were chosen. Bette Jean Kennedy, a junior from Hickory, North Carolina, who is a dramatic art major was one of these chosen. She played one of the leads in the recent Theta Alpha Sig production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." Last year Bette starred in "The Truth About the Blades." Dorothy Harned, a dramatic art major from Maryville, is a junior and gave evidence of her dramatic ability in "Arsenic and Old Lace," playing one of the leading roles. Earlier this year Dorothy protrayed one of the roles in "Kind Lady." Sara Crider, who comes from Marion, Kentucky, was one of the three girls chosen. Sara, a senior dramatic art major, took one of the parts in "Kind Lady" and was Mrs. Nita E. West's assistant for the production of "Lost Horizon." Fred DePue, a junior economics major from Bangon, Pennsylvania, is one of the two men chosen. He played one of the major roles in the recent "Arsenic and Old Lace" production, and in last year's production of "Wuthering Heights". Neil Proffitt, a junior from Maryville, and an art major, is also a newly elected member. Neil took part in "Kind Lady" and also in "Arsenic and Old Lace", two major productions of this year, and in "Charlie's Aunt" which was produced last year.

Only one percent of the student body may be chosen each year for membership in the society. For each play participated in, so many points are accrued towards eligibility for membership. When a candidate has obtained 20 points, the members of the society vote as to whether he may enter this nationally known fraternity. There are chapters in 38 states at present.

Billye Ruth Braly, editor elect, is editing the ECHO this week.

Freshman Class Leads Stamp Drive

Student Council IRC Sponsor Drive

The grand total from the sale of defense stamps by the Maryville College students for the school year 1942-43 is $1500. This sum does not include bonds and stamps bought by the faculty members, who pledged certain amounts at the beginning of the year. The sales in general were sponsored by IRC and Student Council members. The Freshman class made the largest amount of sales with a total of $234.90, while the Sophomore came next with $21.00. The sales of the Seniors amounted to 208.05 and that of the Juniors $204.55.

Malcolm Thompson was in charge of all finances and Helen Anderson served as chairman for the advertising committee. Kitty Loesh and Jack DeForest were responsible for table decorations in Pearsons. Besides these, members of the individual classes cooperated in helping with the sales at the tables. Students from the senior class were Marian Avakian, Phyllis Ann Cain, Alice Matthews, Layton Bergquist, and Joe Suiter. Representing the junior class were Helen Anderson, Mary Metcalf, and Neil Proffitt. From the sophomore class were Kitty Loesh and Dan Long, while freshmen were Eleanor Stout, Madeline Cooke, Mary Elizabeth McKnight, and Bob Bruce. Ed Rowley and Ray Swartzback assisted in speaking over the P.A. system in the dining hall.

Spanish Club Attends Movies

As their final group activity for the semester, the members and friends of the Spanish club had a theatre party Thursday night. They saw "The Pied Piper." Dr. John H. Stellwagen, faculty advisor of the club, was the chaperon.

Last Monday, May 3, the club held a special meeting at which was shown "American All," a travel picture of South America which is in much demand at present. This year's executive committee met with next semester's officers for a few minutes after the meeting. The movie was shown in the physics lecture room at 6:45 p. m.

Seven Members Are Elected To Alpha Gamma Sig

Dr. Derryberry Speaks In Chapel Service On What Do You Believe?

Last Wednesday morning, April 28, Dr. Everett Derryberry, president of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute at Cookeville, Tennessee addressed the student body at a recognition service for the recently elected members to the scholastic honorary fraternity Alpha Gamma Sigma. Dr. Derryberry is a graduate of the University of Tennessee. While there he was an outstanding student and athlete as well as a prominent figure in the extracurricular activities on the campus. He was the Rhodes scholar from the University in 1928, and he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Offord University.

At the recognition service there were seven students honored, Jean Barnes, Clyde Brown, Irma Criswell, Sidney Duke, Majorie Gugger, Jean Patterson, and Josephine Gillette. The names of six seniors and one graduate were read, although three of the seven students could not be present at the time. Among those formally inducted into the society were Jean Barnes, who has distinguished herself in many other campus activities. Jean is the present editor of the Highland Echo, a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and a member of Writers' Workshop. She is a psychology major from Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania, and she was a psychology assistant last year.

Marjorie Gugger, a biology major from Dunmore, Pennsylvania, was also presented at this service. Marjorie is at present a member of the college shoir, and she has been a chemistry assistant for two years. Marjorie transferred to Maryville after one year at Marywood College, Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Jean Patterson, an English major from Orangeville, Pennsylvania, is president of the Y.W.C.A. She was a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and she was a member of the Writers' Workshop. Jean was not able to be present at the service.

Josephine Gillette is a senior mathematics major from Vineland, New Jersey. At present she is a member of the M club, and she has been very active in women's athletics on the campus.

Clyde Brown, a history major from East Waterford, Pennsylvania, was president of the Y.M.C.A. for the second semester this year. He is a library assistant, and he has been on the honor roll consistently. Clyde was not able to be present at the service.

Sidney Duke, who is now a student at medical school, was a biology major from Arlington, Texas. He had been editor of the Chilhowean, and he held many class offices.

Irma Criswell, who graduated in December and who now holds a position on the Personnel Office, was also publicly recognized at the service.

Dr. Derryberry addressed his speech to the young people who have the privilege of being in college, and he gave is its title "Young America, What Do You Believe?" He stressed the importance of education in a democracy, and he gave examples about how education has been perverted in the Axis nations and how it has lead to an idea of truth and the search for freedom in the Allied nations. Dr. Derryberry pointed out that young people must believe as well as think because conviction is as important as ideas, and he showed that what young people believe will shape the pattern of the future world

Registrations For Summer To Be Held

Registrations for summer school are to be made on or before May 15, or a late registration fee of $2.50 will be charged. Those who do not make their advance deposit of $10.00 within fifteen days before the start of the session will lose their places on the schedule at the Personnel Office and have your major adviser check your schedule.

The maximum load during the summer term will be three nonscience courses or two science courses, in addition to physical education.

May Queen, King, Glass and Bushing Reign O'er Seasons

Patriotic Tableaus By Gym Classes and Girls' Glee Club

The May Day Festival held last Saturday in the college woods' amphitheatre, attracted hundreds of people from both the college and the town. The amphitheatre, by the addition of four tall white pillars took on the appearance of a Grecian dell. Each pillar was graced by the presence of a lovely young lady (one of the four seasons) leaning against it. The four seasons were represented as follows. Summer, Jean Batchelor; Spring, Mary Dawn Noblit; Fall, Nancy Russell; Winter, Thelma Richardson.

Jane Glass was chosen to be the May Queen, while Arthur Bushing was the King. Senior attendants to the Queen were Jean Patterson and Ruth Wynn. Junior attendants were Martha Walker and Marian Stout. Matney Reed and Lloyd Anderson walked with Miss Walker and Miss Stout. The sophomore class was represented by Ruby Shelley, Donald Barker, Winifred Sommers, and Richard Hobart. The freshmen were represented by Lula Calloway, Robert Bruce, Barbara Shearer, and David Seel. The part of the Crown Bearer was taken by Lamar Alexander, while the Flower Girl was Ercia Collins. Trumpeters who announced the entrance of the royal party were Robert Hunter and Paul Moehlman.

In the tableaus presented for the Queen's pleasure, Summer manifested the Spirit of the Fourth of July. The college glee club sang "This is Worth Fighting For".

Lloyd Anderson was recently elected alternate captain of the 1944 wrestling team and served last year as president of the freshman class. Lloyd will be a member of next year's YM cabniet.

Pi Kappa Delta Has Initiation Banquet For New Members

Lehman, Meadows, Boyd, Clippinger, Geisler Elected

On May 4, at 6:30 in the Y rooms five new members were formally initiated into the national honorary forensic fraternity Pi Kappa Delta. The new members are Richard Boyd, Margaret Clippinger, Muriel Geisler, Dorothy Lehman, and Georgia Lu Meadows. Richard Boyd, a senior philosophy major from Trenton, New Jersey, is a member of Writers' Workshop and he is on the governing board of this organization. He has been a member of the Y.M. cabinet, and this year he is doing honors work in his major field.

Margaret Clippinger is a senior political science major from Atlanta, Georgia. She is a member of the student council and she has been elected to other class offices.

Muriel Geisler, the recently elected Y.W. president, is a senior religious education major from West Palm Beach, Florida. Muriel has been active in debate during her four years here.

Dorothy Lehman, a sophomore English major from Beverly, Kentucky, was recently elected to Writers' Workshop. She won the first prize in the T. T. Alexander Contest, and she has held class offices.

Georgia Lu Meadows, a junior English major from Beaver, Pennsylvania, is a member of Writers' Workshop. She has been on the Echo staff for three years, and she has been active in dramatic work on the campus.

Immediately after the formal initiation election for new officers for next year was held. Dorothy Lehman was elected president of Pi Kappa Delta;Georgia Lu Meadows, vice president; Benjamin Lynt, secretary; Muriel Geisler, treasurer.

After the election of officers all members of Pi Kappa Delta, the varsity debate team, the freshman debate team, and faculty guests went to Smith's Cafe for the annual banquet and informal initiation of the new members. The pro-

What a Freshman Has Learned Is Always Worth Printing

By THELMA RICHARDSON

On surveying my first year at Maryville College, or much ado about nothing. All punning aside, I really have learned a great deal this year. Maybe I haven't figured out how to win the war, or how to avoid inflation, or what makes Saroyan Saroyan, but I can look a person square in the eye and say "Hey". In fact I have no qualms about it anymore. Nor do I fear they'll snarl, and say "Who do you think you're calling "hey", or "Ladies just don't say hey, dear".

Mustard and ketchup I have come to adore with a purple passion and yellow spots (Worse luck), and my culinary achievements include slinging a mean dish rag, swooping a snazzy broom, and singing "Why Don't You Do Right" to the splash of dish water. (At this stage of the game I am sure I have the sympathy of all the girls who parade around Pearsons in green smocks and with broken finger nails).

I have learned it is folly to believe in a rising sun, and so I have set my raincoat and rubbers where I can dive (or do I mean swim) into them at a second's notice. The fact that I turn out with red sweaters, pink skirts, and yellow socks ought to indicate something. Maybe haste makes waste, or rush makes mush.

The war has affected us to the extent that we had to learn to sit down without using our muscles (we don't have mantles to eat off) and we can walk by 50,000,000 soldiers without blinking an eyelash. (Now you wonder why I changed to the third person).

Like all my other Maryville compatriots I have learned to walk. Need I expound farther? I'll give you a hint, from Pearsons to chapel, from chapel to the bookstore . . .

The fact that people from Tennessee, Massachusetts, Staten Island, and all points north, south, east, and west are equally sane or insane has penetrated my otherwise intolerant mind. Well, you've got to believe in something.

Words like D.A.R., moonshining, crudding, and bushes have been added to my already onesided vocabulary.

And last but not least I have learned that coeds should be seen and not heard.

NOTICE

Refunds of the advance deposits will be made at the close of school. Students rooming on the campus will receive tickets when keys are returned to the dormitory head, seniors will receive tickets when caps and gowns are returned to the Book Store, and all students will receive tickets when textbooks are returned to the Book Store. These tickets must be presented at the Treasurer's Office in order for one to receive his refund.

Breakage and other charges will be deducted, after which the balance will be refunded.

F. L. PROFFITT,
Treasurer.

HATS OFF!

On occasion we become somewhat generous in our attitude, i. e., from time to time we feel like offering orchids to you or flowers for the living. On the other hand we definitely feel constrained at times to write in opposite vein. We like to ask pointed questions or bring out certain trespasses that we notice.

This being one of our generous moments, we pause to offer congratulation to the following groups and organizations:

1. To the participants and staff in May Day. Faculty members and students alike worked and practiced for our benefit when others of us "didn't have time." But if it hadn't been good . . . .

2. To those recognized recently as electees to Alpha Gamma Sigma. Their claim to fame is rightfully taken and should be "jealously cherished" by us all. They are the ones who have applied their talents.

3. To the people elected to important class offices for next year. They were chosen by those who know them best; therefore, we hope we are giving honor where honor is due.

4. To the administration of the college, for keeping the difficult program successful under extreme circumstances. Summer School and other parts of the accelerated curriculum have been dealt with in a manner to make our load easiest. The hard work behind the rearrangement of schedules and class meeting places is all too often forgotten when we have to get up ten minutes earlier each morning.

5. To the College Training Detachment for giving us a closeup of army and war training life. They have not interfered seriously with our normal campus activities; on the other hand they have displayed an excellent example of order and discipline, which our students often neglect.

To our knowledge, we have given credit where credit is deserved. If you have been omitted, let us know by return mail.

There's really some connection between jazz, alarm clocks, "eight o'clock jumps," and Voorhees Chapel—that is, if you believe in the transforming power of the uniform, sword, popgun, etc. Of course, it's a recognized fact that something pretty terrific happened to our world on Friday night—talk about convoys and armed escorts—natives of the town are still bewildered, what's coming next? But then, Mrs. Walker doesn't know how much she's really appreciated. They say the show was good—even to the tenth row in the balcony with seats-a-la-aisle on the hard dirty floor—but there's always stray morsels to pick up—corn kernels and thumb tacks.

It's still debatable, perhaps we'll never know—but did Pilgrim Tom Smith really fake all that embarrassment Saturday just because the army gave him the horse laugh as he started towards the woods? Not that you can blame them—it's not every day that you see promising young freshmen bedecked in knickers and white knee-hose. And as for Queen Jane—almost as lovely as a bride—but that'll come later, and doesn't King Bushing have a gentle touch when he pushes little kids up steps?

It's really hard to collect dirt if you don't live in a dorm. Of course you can always come over to the dirty dorm and salvage razor blades. No offense, but it is hard to write sharp stuff sure enough. Only Charley Spurlock originally of Social Problems class 2o2dg, says it's merely a matter of knowing the right people. You might ask him how to go about meeting them—but take it from several people who've been dipped in with the tad-poles, don't think you'll meet the upper half on any of Dr. Griffitts' sponsored free-for-all weiner roasts. Then if you want to change subjects—you can always ask Mr. Engle for his simplest directions on how to get introduced to wines while touring Europe—wonder if that's where he got the mustache idea.

If you consider yourself a pretty good friend of Duane Collins' maybe you've got the nerve to ask him if "it's really all in the rule book." He was among those present when it was read to him along about Monday nite.

To quote Jackie DeForest: "Generally speaking, women are generally speaking"—and with elections coming up looks like it'll be more truth than poetry. A lady CHILHOWEAN head at last. Politics and finals don't mix, so well, let's just give the jobs to the first up and then start cramming. Dr. Hunter doesn't like blue books—something wrong with the psychological effect of the coloring, might suggest decorating them with tomato ketchup or better worse— just have oral exams. Latest food for thought—Sunday morning breakfast in the woods.

Since we're still waiting to hear how the Saturday's wedding turns out, and don't believe that Jamarick will ever get his profs off to the subject of Lewis and the coal bins—well, just read BUTTERSCOTCH next week—the last time—until Maryville sinks into deep seclusion as a femme's institute. Picture it—a whole column of butter scotch—and not once blurred with a man's name.

The most appropriate closing would probably be to write no more—first, don't forget to ask Thelma Richardson to croon her most bewitching theme song—something about "I'd be so nice to come home to"—conceited Staten Island brats. But may-be we'd prefer the Kennedy-Jones and Lynt's "We Three."

FINE ARTS

The past week I have been finding out, in a most real and vital fashion, just of what the "arts" part of a liberal arts education consisted; I found out in my freshman year what the "liberal" meant. There have been held in the Voorhees chapel a number of fine arts recitals in which both music and non-music majors, dramatic art majors, and others in the fine arts departmene have performed with singular dexterity and in a most creditable fashion, designed both to entertain and enlighten the appreciative few who were on hand for each performance. The one regrettable thing about all of the recitals was that they did not come at more convenient times so that more students might have been present.

No doubt you have already heard about, in raving tones, the magnificient showing which the four non-music major voice students made some two weeks ago. There was a fair sized crowd on hand, insluding some of the more discriminating of the faculty members, and Jack Lippard, Jimmy Walker, Ruth Cathcart, and Frances Harris were more than just not disappionting . . . . they were terriffic, even estheticay satisfying on eleven differnt counts. I hear tell that that Harris gal might have passed off as an understudy for la Heddy LaMarr.

While the good taste left by this excellent exhibition was yet lingering, it was my pleasure to attend the senior students' dramatic art recital in which Bette Clevenger and Alice Jones participated with gusto and verve. It was the first such recital in my limited field of experience, but I was most favorably impressed to say the very least. Bette was as good as always in the first solo number, which incidentally was written by Mrs. Annarine Atkins Hamilton, and the two girls together were at their best in one act play by Kremborg called Minnikin Mannikin. Although some had to leave before the whole program had been presented, one of the finest readings I have ever heard was given by Alice as the final number of the evening; she read EGna St. Vincent Millay's "Murder of Lidice." Esther Farrow and Gordon Stone provided lovely musical interludes between numbers, lending additional charm to the whole evening's program.

Last Saturday, the Maryville College Symphony orchestra—Richard W. (Leopold) Vine conducting—gave a splendid and spirited performance, featuring Mendelssohn's Concerto for Violin with Esther Farrow doing the solo, and Haydn's "Surprise" symphony. While the program was not quite up to what the Boston Symphony orchestra with Koussevitsky conducting might have been, it was not expected to be, and had there been a wee bit stronger horn department, not much more could have been askd for. The final number of the concert. "Waltz from the Serenade for Strings" by Tschaikowsky, was by far the most satisfying of the evening, and again left me feling a better person for having been on hand. This concert was relatively well attended, for it was a Saturday night and there was no other public attraction open to students.

Last Monday night, Oliver Ruth Stribling and Ruth Wynn, gave a joint piano and organ recital which, for more details consult Bob Huber, was a real achievement. Both girls were in their best professional appearance form and not a line was dropped the entire evening. Thursday evening Katherine Crews and Gordon Stone presented a perfectly delightful joint piano and violin recital. It was the last of these arts exhibitions which I took in, though I plan to be on hand tonight for the Glee Club Concert.

We have other fine arts here than those which have been brought so recently to our attention publicly — there is the splendid department housed on the second floor of Anderson, where people play about with oils and canvases and pallets and the like, and drape the most impossible combination of things about the most improbable objects and from them create the most attractive and beautiful pictures one could imagine.

Then there is the art of getting term papers in on time, of doing the obstacle course in 1:08 (not me brother!), of getting a second piece of cherry pie in Pearson's eatery, of keeping two dates for the same evening (not me brother!), the art of wearing one's shoes backwards, of getting elected to office any time anywhere, etc. (not ME brother!); and the art of not being a member of one of those organizations which don't exist even if they can't so well that practically everybody knows about it, and, the finer art of graceful Sunday Morning breakfast in the woods.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By "By" SPRAGUE

Ministerials Install Officers Thursday

The installation of officers of the Ministerial Association took place in the college woods Thursday evening, May 6, at 6:45 p. m. Dr. John A. Gates was the speaker at the ceremony. Following the installation there was a social period with refreshments.

Fifty-seven attended the Ministerial banquet held in Smith's banquet hall. Frances Harris began the musical part of the program by singing "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Charms." Dean Stiles played a trumpet solo. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Knoxville, spoke on "Being Born for Such a Time as This."

The installation ceremony was the last meeting of the Association for this year as the group will not function as a society during the summer sessions. The cooperation of all Ministerials will be needed next September to give next year's meetings a good send-off.

MAY QUEEN . . . .

Members of Mrs. Queener's gym classes, dressed in red, white, and blue, demonstrated their marching ability and formed an American flag.

In the Autumn tableau, Pilgrims of 1620 were shown on their way to church; to show the evolution of church-goers, patriots of 1943 were portrayed in similar activity. A "Prayer for Thanksgiving" was then sung by the glee club.

The Winter season presented the song, "White Christmas," and a special number, "Chattanooga Choo-Choo."

Spring presented a pantomime, "How a Cake is Baked for a May Queen." Students participating in this were: Cynthia Johnson. Estelle Farrow, Dorothy Toomey, Minnie Davis, Carolyn Harper, Zenobia Bernardini, and Jean Smith.

A ballet dance accompanied by a choral interpretation of Tchikowskys' "Waltz of the Flowers" performed by Jean Smith.

The festival was concluded with a May Pole dance.

Freshman Debaters Go To Tenn. Wesleyan

Saturday, April 24, four members of the Freshman Debate Squad accompanied by Professor Verton M. Queener made a trip to Tennessee Wesleyan College in Athens, Tennessee, where they debated members of the Wesleyan debate group. Those who went from here were Dorothy Dick, Marinell Ross, Bob Barker, and Tom Smith. .

Debating on both sides of the Pi Kappa Delta question in the morning and again in the afternoon the Maryville teams received favorable comment although the debates were non-decision ones.

PI KAPPI . . . .

gram of the evening was based on "The Place of Speech In A World At War." Speakers for the evening were Natle Yelton, Paul Jamarik, Bill Evans, and Ed Rowley. Dr. Queener, debate coach, also made a few remarks.

At this time the last tournament which the five senior members of the varsity debate squad attended was discussed. The Grand Eastern Tournament was held at Charlotte, North Carolina, and it was divided into two parts. In the South East Province, Maryville men and women placed second, Richard Boyd placed third in oratory, Margaret Clippinger second on women's oratory and afterdinner. In the Grand Eastern Tourney at which 27 colleges took part Maryville women placed in the top five women's teams.

Student Council To Elect New Officers

Students Urged to Bring Books to Chapel

The last meeting of the student council for this year will be Monday night, May 10, at 7:00. The meeting will be brief, and officers for the next year will be elected.

The last regular meeting of the student council was held May 3rd at 8:00. A favorable report was given on the town night plan and hope was expressed that there would be even better cooperation in the future than there has been this semester.

A report was received from the flag committee which was appointed by the president at the last meeting to look into the matter of the position of the flags in the chapel. The committee found that there are variable practices since no definite law has been passed and that the flags are properly displayed in the chapel although the general practice is to give precedence to the American flag.

Chuck Dunning, chairman of the book campaign committee, reported on the student council's project of having each student bring a book to chapel Friday. The student council held a picnic in the college woods and approximately fourteen members attended.

A report was given by the elections committee, and a committee of eight with Willie Williams as chairman was appointed to take care of the general elections held last Thursday.

The meeting ended with the council agreeing to forward some recommendations to the new student council.

YW Officers Conduct Service

The senior officers and members of the Y. W. cabinet will be in charge of their worship service Sunday, May 9, at 1:30 p. m. in the Y rooms. Jean Patterson, this year's president, will speak on "Seeking for God." The out-going president of Pi Gamma, Mary Ruth Hoyt, will discuss "Listening for God." "Serving God" will be the topic of Eleanor Williams, a cabinet member.

Last Sunday afternoon there was a joint YW-YM meeting in the Fine Arts studio at 1:30 p. m. The program was made up of recordings: "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, "Swan of Tuonella," "I Know My Redeemer Liveth" from Handel's Messiah, and the last part of "Religion Mass."

The program Sunday will be the last for this year.

At the last meeting held in Bainonian Hall Marian Stout, a junior from New York, was elected president for next term. The following were also elected to offices: Helen Anderson, vice-president; Marian Garvin, secretary; Dorothy Toomey, treasurer; Jeanne Bellerjean and Betty Jane Meyer, program; Thelma Richardson and Cynthia Johnson, Rush Week, Miriam Gutzke and Miriam Wickman, house; and Jean Keene, pianist.

OBSTACLE COURSES

After seeing a number of variously-constructed obstacle courses now being used by other East Tennessee colleges, we feel a strange unexplainable affinity for the local hop, skip, and boon. The local course, consisting of a few bars to go over, under, or around and a wall or two to scale beats all the others from the standpoint of convenience. It really supplies adequate training for some army game though, maybe it's for KP duty! For instance, Sewanee's rope climb and wall climb would make our 7-foot wall look like a half-pint low hurdle. And there's a pipe-like box at Teachers College in Johnson City that you're supposed to wriggle through like a worm. Well, you do. At any rate we'll still maintain that Coach's local "hindrance" course surpasses them all in comfort. C'mon out, girls, it's for you, too.

SEVEN DOWN, ONE TO GO

With the defeat of TPI (it took 183 sets to whip them!) the win-conscious Kiddermen wound up their regular season with their seventh straight victory. Only one encounter remains—and it naturaly is the biggest—the State Meet which is being held at Sewanee today. Word has not been received as to what schools will be represented but it is rather certain that a number of schools from all over Tennessee will be entered . Each school enters four singles players and two doubles teams.

Although Sewanee's Elebash is favored to win the singles crown, and other schools may have more skilled individual players to enter, the Scots have a very good chance of putting Maryville on the tennis map. Points are awarded for advances in the two tournaments and if the Scots' four men can keep up their winning ways, nothing can stop them from placing high among the teams entered. The meet, beginning Friday morning and continuing until this afternoon, is always a colorful event, but as most things in wartime, its program may be cut a little. The State Track Meet is being held in conjunction with the tennis meet, assuring The University of the South of a full week-end of athletic competition. Those representing Maryville at the tennis meet are Ted Kidder, Ken Cooper, Wally Easter and your writer. Who knows — with that bunch almost anything can happen!

HERE AND THERE

$160,000 isn't a bad salary for a three-year old. And Count Fleet intends to make a lot more before he retires!

The Director of theAmerican Institute of Public Opinion, namely, George Gallup, says 59% of us want baseball to be continued and 28% just don't. Did anyone ask you?

A report of the Office of Civilian Supply of the War Production Board says that billiards, bowling, movies, baseball, and skating are "in" for the duration. Shooting gallaries are "out"—naturally.

Best record to date on the obstacle course is Wayne Davis' one minute flat.

Bobby Hunter, Bill Evans and Layton Bergquist again distinguished themselves by coming out on top in the golf tournament. 110 for three rounds of nine won't be seen on this course for quite a while after this year. Nice going, Bobby!

Congrats to all those who have stuck with the Life Saving Course. Hope you came out all right without getting too water-soaked.

What with softball, tennis doubles and shuffleboard tournaments going on this week, there was plenty of sizzling action and exciting thrills.

Who will volunteer to write back to Ross Honaker and tell him where to get off? He advised his dad to give the boys plenty of running, because that was what they did in the Army Air Corps at Keesler Field.

Racketeers Score Triple Header Over Opponents

Five racketeers from Maryville College scored a grand slam in Tennis last week whn they defeated three rivals in two days without dropping a single match, The Scotties clubbed Tusculum into submission by a 7-0 score on April 27, defeated Teachers College by the same score the next morning and went on to blank Milligan in the afternoon.

The Highlanders were led by player-coach Ted Kidder who is in the No. 1 spot for the second year, Ted pratt, senior No. 2 man and Hal Lloyd No. 5 man, all of whom went through the trip without dropping a set to the opposition.

Mr. Sneed,Alumnus Returns Here As P. E. Instructor

Mr. Guy Sneed former Maryville student and graduate of Peabody College in Nashville, has returned to the Maryville campus to instruct physical education classes. Mr. Sneed whose home was in Normandie, Tennessee, graduated from Maryville in the class of 1924. While at Maryville he was one of the college's star athletes. Mr. Sneed played as half back in football, outfielder in baseball, and forward in basketball. The Chilhowean of 1924 tells that he was among the best in his field. He was also on the gymnastacs team of that year.

Mr. Sneed has nineteen years of teaching experience, part of which was gained as recreational director at the Methodist Church in Chattanooga, Tennessee. After earning his masters degree in physical education at Peabody College he taught at Madisonville High School, before coming to his present position as principal at the Alcoa High School.

As physical education teacher on the campus Mr. Sneed will teach classes in swimming, and calisthenics; he will have work in some of the sports. Mr. Sneed says that he is glad to be back on the Hill and that this is the kind of job he had always wanted.

Scots Annex Two Matches With Milligan and TPI

Techmen Are Seventh Straight Victims of Team

On April 29, the day after they had defeated the Milligan College tennis team 7-0 on the Johnson City courts, the undefeated Scottie tennis team met and conquered the same team in a return match on the Memorial courts. The score of the match this time was 6-1, the Scots losing only the third singles event, Ken Cooper's battle against the Buffs' Pearce. Although Cooper had previously beaten Pearce in two sets, the Milligan netter put the pressure on to subdue the tall, blond, and good-looking in three sets.

OTHERS WIN

The other matches were won comparatively easily, with only the fifth singles event going into three sets. In that match Bobby Hunter of the Scots defeated Walker of Milligan with 7-5, 6-8, 6-2. The number one match found Ted Kidder disposing of Bob Showalter (brother of the Buff footballer) in two quick sets. Wally Easter turned in a bright performance at the number four spot with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Hurt of Milligan.

The summaries for the match follow.

SINGLES:

Kidder (M) defeated Showalter (Milligan) 6-1,6-3.

Pratt (M) defeated Tate (Milligan) 6-1, 6-3.

Pearce (M'gan) defeated Cooper (M) 4-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Easter (M) defeated Hurt (Milligan) 6-1,6-1.

Munter (M) defeated Walker (Milligan) 7-5, 6-8, 6-2.

DOUBLES:

Kidder and Pratt (M) defeated Tate and Pearce (M'gan) 6-1, 6-1.

RAMBLERS TAKE SOFTBALL CHAMPIONCHIP

The Ramblers won over Athenian to the tune of 29-2 to take the Intramural Softball Championship last Thursday. The Ramblers had a field day as they battered the old ball all over the field for runs almost at will. The Athenians couldn't seem to connect with the fast pitching of Les Rock but when they did the Ramblers fielders came across with consistent good playing. One of the most spectacular plays of the game was when Joe Suitor knocked a sure hit about 10 feet back of first base but little first baseman Bill Adams came through to rob Suitor of a hit by making a thrilling one handed catch.

The Buckeyes forfeited to the Ministerial Sweatsox in the Championship game the two teams were to have played and the Volunteers forteited to the Giants.

DOUBLES SHUFFLE BOARD

The Intramural Doubles Shuffle Board Tournament was begun this week and scheduled to be finished by today. Both men and women of the college were eligible for the tournament. Pemberton and Pemberton won a bye on the first round and were to meet the winners of the Adams-Brand and Segraves-Huber match were to meet the winners of the Russell-Bushing and Lehman-Parvin match.

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

By SAM SCHAFER

This column must necessarily be as brief as possible, and compiled so as to please both the make-up staff and Squadron "B" for whom it is written, so bear with me while I give the latest news bulletins.

The porcine examples are not so-o-o-o bad after all, eh, Findlay and Rudd? They can sing, TOO. Wonder what Knoxville thinks of our fair-haired boys? At least, we conducted ourselves as gentlemen, so our reputation is still probably spotless.

Owens has more co-eds on the string than he knows what to do with. The lucky boys had open post Sunday night to compensate for guard duty on Wednesday are the envy of the squadron. By the way, guard duty on Post No. 3 is a pleasure — not a drudge.

Big-time operators were seen operating all over Maryville last week. "Sleeping Beauty" Schwartz had a chick—she was so cute, in fact, that the "B" boys are definitely interested. Cordea hit an all-time high last week-end with five dates—four of them in one night. If he can get that many dates, how about the good-looking soldiers? Chick Dold is on the inside track with Betty C! Meredith and Cormany showed up for retreat formation last Sunday afternoon about a half hour late. Walt Shuirr's floppy cap and his fuzz-festooned upper lip combine to make him look "zoot."

Delaplane manages to pull at latest tal—he suffered the intrinsic pains of a charley-horse while eating Easter dinner in a civilian home. The pain made itself known on the now-famous Delaplane mug, while the hosts, terrified at first by the horrible spertacle at their dinner table, burst into gales of laughter. Finally, the mood passed (as Harry's frequently do) and the repast continued as planned.

Schleuter is to be congratulated for his work on the morning detail. "There's another dirt load.... Dusty." Todd is a much happier man now that his wife has been down to see him. (High School gossip columns please copy.) one of our drill sergeants has been going around with a burr——. Perhaps he's still wrathful because Stueve stole his girl at the last dance. Ralph and the sergeant's girl made a charming pair. Talking to one's wife seems to be capital offense around here — ask Knowlton or Rock.

Jack Carnes is "OFF LIMITS" "Hennie" is still "SIAM" and nothing seems to cure him of it. McCarthy and his quintile are the shining lights of the drill field. but fourteen other guy were with him when he found her.

The boys in the third flight haven't decided whether Lewis' trembling voice is a joke of the McCoy. Godfrey was ejected from his regular position and relagated to the rear of the squadron for "activities unbecoming a cadet." Careful now, fellas.

And so—I'd better drop stop this drivel for another week. But remember—I have eyes and ears in every secluded spot on the campus. (Sometimes I collect the news in person.)

Dr. Imes, President Knoxville College, Addresses Chapel

The speaker for the Wednesday chapel program, May 5, was the Dr. William Lloyd Imes recently chosen as president of the Knoxville College at Knoxville, Tennessee. Dr. Imes, who is a prominent clergyman in the Presbyterian Church, graduated from Fiske University in 1910, received his M.A. from that institution in 1912, and from Columbia University in 1915. In that same year, 1915, Dr. Imes graduated from Union Theological Seminary, New York. Lincoln University in 1929 granted him his D. D. degree. Dr. Imes was pastor of St. James' Chapel, New York, from 1925 until April 1 of this year when he took over his duties as president of Knoxville College. A man of many interests, Dr. Imes, who is listed in Who's Who in America, is a trustee of Fiske University, vice-president of Ministers' Union of America, a member of the committee of direction race relations of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and a member of Association for study of Negro Life and History. He is also a member of Alpha Phi Alpha. In addition to his many other accomplishments, Dr. Imes is author of "We Believe in Immortality", "The Music of the Gospel", and co-author of "Best Sermons".

The theme of Dr. Imes' address was "Building a New World from the Old". He centered his talk around three factors which, he said must be removed from world relations if a new and better world is to be achieved.

An even greater problem than ignorance confronting the world at present, said Dr. Imes, is the question of prejudice—race prejudice.. Prejudice against the Jews was a major factor in this second World War.

The third problem which Dr. Imes brought to attention was the very serious one of hatred in the world today. A secure and peaceful world cannot be built in an atmosphere of hate and disunity. So, to build a new and better world from the old, everyone must recognize the necessity for overcoming ignorance, race prejudice, and hate. Everyone must do all he can toward erasing these feelings from the face of the earth.

DeForest Speaks Tomorrow at YM

Student speaker at YMCA on Sunday afternoon at 1:30 will be Jack DeForest, sophomore ministerial student.

After the program someone will be choser to represent Maryville College YMCA at the Race Relationship Council which is to be in Knoxville next week.

Smith, Lynt Elected New Vol Officers

Sunday evening after Vespers Rev. Courtland Van Deusen will speak to the Student Volunteers concerning his work as a missionary in China. Rev. Van Deusen graduated from Princeton University and Auburn Theological Seminary. He works under the board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. He is living at present in Maryville.

Last Sunday Mrs. Margaret Cummings, instructor in Bible and religious education, spoke at the installation program on "Service". The new Student Volunteer's president for next year is Paul Smith, a junior from Florida. Ben Lynt was installed as vice-president dent, Lenore Wise as secretary, and John Taylor as treasurer.

Paul Smith has recently appointed the following to serve on the cabinet for next term: program, Marian Garvin and Joe Brown; music, Ben Lynt and Margaret Messer: special music, Ruth Anderson and Ethel Hanners; publicity, Jeanne Bellerjeau; spiritual life, Marion Stout; prayer meeting, Margurite Grissett; social, Frances Lane; house, Lloyd Anderson; devotions, Miriam Bodwitch.

Vespers to Feature Mr. Van Deusen

The speaker at Vespers service on Sunday, May 9, will be the Rev. Courtland Van Deusen of Tsingtao, China.

A native of New York, Mr. Van Deusen graduated from Princeton University and Auburn Theological Seminary. He has served for many years in China, working under the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Mr. Van Deusen spoke at the chapel service on Wednesday morning, March 17.

TENNIS . . . .

Cooper and Easter (M) defeated Showalter and Hurt (M'gan) 6-1, 7-5.

SEVENTH WIN

Accompanied by the strains of the Army Air Corps song and the color of the May Day celebration the Maryville tennis team went into action against TPI in a return match on Saturday. The day proved to be favorable to the Scotties, for they emerged victors with a 7-0 score. The score, as many who saw the matches can witness, does not show the closeness of some of the matches. Several were hard-fought and well-matched. The match of the afternoon was Wally Easter's number four marathon with TPI's Jerry Jordan. Having taken Jordan in two sets at Cookeville, Wally decided to give the Techman a chance to show his stamina or whatever it showed. The first set ran up to 28 games and not satisfied with that, Wally played 22 more to clinch the match. Again in the first doubles match, Teds Kidder and Pratt ran up their first set to 11-9 but disposed of their opponents easily in the second set, making it a love set.

Playing brilliant tennis, Ted Kidder outpointed "Heavy-boy" Johnson with well-placed shots and cross-courts. Ted Pratt kept his record clean, allowing Agee of TPI a total of five games in two sets. In the third singles event Ken Cooper redeemed himself as he defeated his previous victor in two sets. Playing steadily the first set, Ken took an easy set from TPI's Bucky Marsh and then ran up to 9-7 to capture the second. Wally Easter, playing number four, insisted on keeping the first court occupied for most of the afternoon but came through to remain one of the two players with unblemished records for the season. Bobby Hunter was the other conqueror for the afternoon, turning back Weddington of TPI in three sets, after losing to the same foe earlier this year. It was Cooper's and Hunter's day, for they allowed the Scots to carry off a 7-0 victory whereas the last score against TPI in the second match of the season was 6-2. In the doubles, where the training of Ex-Coach Fischbach has resulted in no defeates for either combination, the Scots captured a total of four sets. Summaries follow:

SINGLES:

Kidder (M) defeated Johnson (TPI) 6-4, 6-3.

Pratt (M) defeated Marsh (TPI) 6-3, 6-2.

Easter (M) defeated Jordan (TPI) 13-15, 7-5, 6-4.

Hunter (M) defeated Weddington (TPI) 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

DOUBLES:

Kidder and Pratt (M) defeated Johnson and Marsh (TPI) 11-9, 6-0.

Cooper and Easter (M) defeated Agee and Weddington (TPI) 6-3, 6-2.

College To Hold 124th. Commencement Service

The Rev. L. E. Bond To Give Graduation Address

D. Lehman, Cain, Patterson, Lloyd, Gillette Given Prizes in Chapel Friday

J Lehman, Gugger, Weber, Win Awards For Scholarship

Friday morning, May 14, in chapel the following prizes were awarded to outstanding Maryville students. Each year one chapel service is devoted entirely to recognition of those who have achieved during the past two semesters.

Dorothy Lehman, a sophomore who was recently elected editor-in-chief of the 1944 CHILHOWEAN, won first prize in the T. T. Alexander Oratorical contest. Phyllis Anne Cain, a senior, won second prize. The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund, established by a generous friend of the College, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Faculty of Bible and Religious Education.

Jean Patterson, who has been active in campus affairs, was presented the Alexander English Prize. This award is given to the member of the senior class who makes the best four-year record in English.

Three seniors were presented Bible prizes. The Bible Prize, established by Rev. William H. Bates, D.D., of Greeley, Colorado, is awarded annually for proficiency attained in Bible study. Hal Lloyd was the first prize winner. Jean Patterson and Majorie Gugger tied for second prize.

Josephine Gillette is the winner of the George A. Knapp Mathematics Scholarship Fund prize. This fund of one thousand dollars was established in 1941 by Tracy F. Knapp, Mary Gertrude Knapp Barrett, and Josephine Knapp Keifer, as a memorial to their father, Dr. George A. Knapp. Dr. Knapp served as professor of mathematics and physics in Maryville College from 1914 to his retirement in 1938. The income from this fund is awarded each year at or about the commencement season as a prize to the senior or junior student who is adjudged by a committeee to be the most outstanding and most promising among those in mathematics.

Jean Lehman, a junior sociology major, was awarded the Bank of Maryville Economics Prize. This is given annually by the Bank of Maryville to the student doing the most excellent work in economics during the year.

Lauramae Weber was presented the Elizabeth Hillman Chemistry Prize. This provides "a prize or prizes to be awarded to women students for excellence attained in the field of chemistry."

Prizes were also given for distinction in debate. The debate work is under the direction of Dr. Verton M. Queener, professor of history. Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton were given the degree of special distinction in debate.

In the Woman's Smoky Mountain Tournament, Dorothy Lehman and Georgia Lu Meadows won first place in debate. Dorothy Lehman won first place in impromptu.

In the South Atlantic Tournament, first place in debate was awarded to Margaret Clippinger, Natalie Yelton, Dorothy Lehman, and Georgia Lu Meadows. Ed Rowley won first place in after-dinner speaking. Georgia Lu Meadows won first place in situation oratory. William Evans won first place in extempore. Margaret Clippinger won first place in impromptu.

Twenty-seven schools participated in the Grand Eastern Tournament. Several winners were from Maryville. Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton won certificates for superior debating. Mar-

Annual Alumni Reunion Scheduled

Program Is Planned For 8:00 In Library

Saturday evening at 8:00 the Alumni reunion will be held in the reading room of the library. Instead of the customary banquet, only light refreshments will be served. John C. Crawford Jr., president of the Alumni association, will preside over the program, which will be followed by a business session. The program will be brief in order to make possible attendance at the band concert at 9:15.

Tickets for the reunion for alumni and other guests are 25 cents. They may be obtained at the alumni office or at the door of the library. Seniors are to be the guests of the Alumni Association.

Ruby V. Lane, class of 1937, is chairman of the refreshment committee. Mrs. Wagner Newberry, class of 1928, is chairman of the decoration committee. Dr. Fred A. Griffitts, associate professor of chemistry, is chairman of the welcoming committee.

Colonel J. B. Pate Is Commencement Vespers Speaker

Colonel Joseph Benjamin Pate, General Staff Corps, United States Army, will give an address at the Commencement Vesper service on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. He will speak on the subject, "Latin America, Our Natural Ally"; he has chosen this subject because of his personal experiences in the Latin American countries in the past years. Choir numbers of the evening will be: "Bread of Life" by Christiansen and "A Legend" by Tschaikowski.

Colonel Pate graduated from Maryville college in 1904 and in 1906 he entered the army. He started service in the Philippines and later served in South and Central America in connection with the settlement of the conflict over the Ecuador and Peru border. He was awarded the United States distinguished service medal for his services, and has received many other honors from the United Sates and foreign countries.

7 New Members Chosen for M Club

Outdoor Initiation Is Held at Montvale

Twenty-one members of the M club spent last week-end, May 8 and 9, at Montvale. Hiking and swimming and initiation of new members were a part of their activities. Seven new members were taken into the club after undergoing an initiation styled after the army. The following girls have earned the required four hundred points entitling them to a letter and membership in the M club: Thelma Richardson, Marian Stout, Kitty Loesch, Rose Pinneo, Betsey Watkins, Sue Clarke, and Lois King.

Officers for the coming year were elected. Johnnye Gudel, is the new president. Her officers are Margaret Boretsky, vice-president; Frances Lane, secretary; and Agnes Peterson treasurer. Thelma Richardson and Betsey Watkins were chosen to be the program secretaries for the new year.

Fourteen Juniors To Participate In Daisy Chain

In keeping with an old tradition at Maryville college, the Processional at Commencement will be preceded by fourteen young ladies of the junior class who will carry two long chains of daisies on their shoulders. In dresses of various pastels they make a colorful portion of the Commencement exercises.

On Saturday afternoon they will go out on Niles Ferry Pike in the College station wagon to pick daisies for the chain. Then on Sunday afternoon back of Thaw hall the chain will be constructed. Pat Howarth vice-president of the junior class and in charge of all the arrangements, announces that everyone who wants to help make the chain may come out Sunday afternoon. This means anyone not just those in the Daisy Chain ceremony.

Hundred Million Years in Sing Sing Is A Second Compared to Some Things

By BRALY and BOYD

Since everybody in the paper this week is chirping a duck song, why can't we too? Only neither of us can carry a tune.

Are stockings so dear and socks so expensive that the male element on the campus must be subjected to a revolting display of painted toenails, dirty feet, and corns peeping out from between the straps of they ain't shoes and they ain't slippers, so what are they? (This is Lester's contribution.) Men like to think they have been subjected to a lot of abuse at the hands (or should we say feet) of women, an dunless we do something about it, we will be subjected to a lot more. (will you sign my annual?) We have been forced to look at green, red, blue, and black in their various shades of brightness smeared on the fingernails, where there should have been natural. (This is B. R.'s contribution.) Y'all have been drenched with perfume (see footnote by Huber).

(CENSORED) (Lester's contribution.)

However, by far the greatest sin in the eyes of those who have to look at the feet has been sandles and no socks, Feet are not the most beautiful members of the body at best and we see them at their worst.

(More) (if you can take it).

Page two of this mess was lost in trying to rescue the whole story from the wastewasket. So here we go from another angle—the angler. Definitions, if you have a spare forty-five minutes, probably may be found in a light blue book that belongs to the dust Collectors' Club, with meeting places in ye olde 'ECHO office. Meetings are held anytime there is a quota of dust present. Officers are Chalk Dust, president; and Gold Dust twins, first and second vice-presidents, disrespectively.

The next item on the menu is the choice of zzzz or yyyy. Zzz is a slight mixture of small bits of paper, unrationed sugar, old worn-out pepsi's, superfine gravel, and mayonnaise (Ralph Parvin is a connoisseur on the latter) to taste, if you can get it close enough to your mouth. Yyyy is not a mixture at all. It is just a group of items blended together with a con-

President Lloyd To Deliver Sermon For Graduation Sunday

Topic Chosen For Baccalaureate Message "This Is The Victory"

The Baccalaureate service for the one hundred and twenty-fourth graduation exercises of Maryville college will be held in Voorhees chapel on Sunday, May 16 at 10:30 a. m.

President Ralph W. Lloyd will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, taking as his text the fifth chapter and the fourth verse on First John, his topic being "This Is The Victory".

The service will begin with the processional of the choir, the graduating seniors, and the members of the faculty. The choir and faculty will assume their positions on the platform and the members of the senior class will take the front seats in the chapel.

The program will begin with reading of a passage from the Holy Bible by Dr.. John A. McAfee, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian church of Maryville and a frequent speaker at college chapel and vesper services..

The college acapella choir consisting of fifty voices, under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Vine assistant professor of music, will sing the anthems "Clap Your Hands" by Christianson, and "Sanctus" from St. Cecelia Mass by Gounod.

The members of the senior class are to meet at 10:00 in the library in preparation for the processional to the chapel.

This one hundred and twenty-fourth baccalaureate service will begin the commencement program for Sunday and will be followed by the senior music hour at 3:00 p. m., radio vespers service with President Lloyd and the choir at 4:30 in the Fine Arts studio, and the commencement vespers service at 7:00.

COACH HONAKER MAKES AWARDS

Last Saturday marked the of the intramural athletics program for 1942-43. In spite of unusual conditions, intramural sports have been maintained at full strength this school year. Since last September there have been intramural tournaments in 20 different team and individual sports; according to present records, 218 men and 12 women participated in these tournaments, a total participation of 230.

Coach Lombe S. Honaker made the annual awards at a special chapel program. Tuesday, May 11.

The individual trophy was this year awarded to Sam Pemberton, who scored the highest number of points in the history of intramurals in Maryville, 735 points.

The next ten highest scorers received intramural letters as follows:

Bill Adams	665 points
Enrico Scapellati	524 points
Bill Evans	520 points
Art Bushing	479 points
Ed Rowley	472.5 points
Ken Cooper	472.5 points
Bill Segraves	446 points
Wallace Easter	438 points
Olson Pemberton	434 points
Ralph Parvin	418 points

The last group of awards to be presented were those earned by the intramural staff. Two senior manager letters and sweaters were given: one to Oliver Van Cise, who was graduated last December and was senior manager last semester; and one to Hal Lloyd, second semester senior manager. Keys were given to the junior and sophomore staff managers as follows: Guy Lambert, Stan Crews, Abner Richards, Ray Swartzback, Dan Long, Jim Hogue, Harold Huffman, Joe Brown, Bill Segraves, Lloyd Anderson..

Professor Queener Requests Leave of Absence This Year

President R. W. Lloyd announced today that Professor Verton M. Queener has asked for a leave of absence to accept appointment as an administrative officer of the Food Distribution Division of the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington. He is to enter on his new duties May 29. This means that he will not be at Maryville during the coming year. His duties with the Government will be in the administration of the program of obtaining food and distributing it to our armed forces and to our allies.

REV. LESTER E. BOND

Procession To Consist Of Choir, Directors, Graduates, Faculty

The one hundred and twenty-fourth Commencement exercises will be held on Monday morning, May 17th in the Elizabeth R. Voorhees chapel. The procession which will begin at ten o'clock will be comprised of the Maryville College Choir, followed by the Board of Directors of the College, the Graduating Class of 1943 and the members of the faculty.

The Rev. Lester Everett Bond, pastor of the First Community Church of Chula Vista, California, will make the Commencement address, and his subject will be "Our Interim Loyalty." Mr. Bond was graduated from Maryville college in 1915, and obtained his M.A. from the University of Tennessee; his wife was originally a Maryvillian, her mother, Mrs. T. A. Hill now living on High Street. In the early twenties Mr. Bond was a teacher and athletic coach at the College.

The graduating class will be made up of about eighty-five candidates for the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science in Home Economics degrees who finish this May. Counted a part of this 1943 Class are also thirty-five students who graduated last December and the as yet uncertain number finishing in August. Therefore, this year's class will be one of the larger ones to be graduated from the College.

The graduates in the Procession will be preceded by the Daisy Chain which is made and carried by girls chosen from the junior class by the vice-president. This year the Commencement Exercises will be followed by a Military Review on the Athletic field. The review will be given by the College Training Detachment of the Army Air Forces which is located on the college campus.

Senior Chapel Opens Program Of Graduation Week

Last Wednesday, May 12, the program for the one hundred and twenty-fourth annual commencement was begun with the holding of the Senior Chapel service..

The service was begun with the entrance of the members of the senior class dressed in their cans and gowns. The seniors marched to their regular seats, and Arthur Bushing, as president of the graduating class, assumed his position on the platform as the leader of the service.

Dick Boyd read a passage from the Bible and Rose Pinneo, president of Pearsons hall, led in prayer.

Becky Jones next sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by Jane Hays. Following this, Betty Clevenger read a group of poems centered around college life. One of these entitled: "A footnote to Shakespeare" was dedicated to the dramatic art department. Catherine Crews assisted by Gordon Stone at the piano played a violin solo.

Art Bushing next spoke briefly on the future of liberal arts education as compared with technical training, and expressed hope that this type of education would be continued so as to enlighten the minds of men.

The president of the graduating class next called upon Paul Smith, recently elected president of the rising Senior class, to take charge of the changing of seats. In assuming this responsibility Paul pointed out that those who have the privilege of remaining in college must put forth added effort and must assume a greater share of responsibility as the leaders of the nation. He then called upon the juniors to rise and assume the seats vacated by the graduating seniors.

Clyde Brown, president of the YMCA, led in prayer for the alma mater which was followed by the singing of the Alma Mater. The program was concluded with the recessional of the senior class.

Society Elections Held This Week

Theta and Athenian Choose New Officers

Theta Epsilon and Athenian societies have recently held their elections for the next year.

Officers elected for Theta are as follows:

President: Johnnye Gudel, vice-president: Jane Hays, secretary: Kay Bonner, treasurer: Betty Hoagland, sergeant-at-arms: Margaret Witt, program secretaries: VerneFeebach and Marilee Deyarmon, pianist: Jean Ellis.

Committees to plan rush week in the fall have already been organized and will work during the summer.

The results of Athenian election were:

President: Wally Easter, Vice-President: Don Barker, secretary: Bob Barker, treasurer. John Kirstein.

Alpha Signa's election has not yet taken place. The outcome of Bainonian's polls was announced last week.

According To The Thelma Theory It's A Great World—Come May, 2003

I, Thelma Richardson, being sound of body, but not mind, do leave my last Bill (we know each other that well) and testament on this fourteenth day of May 2003.

I bequeath to Maryville college all of my millions to be used in the following ways:

First I would like to erect a tower to Irwin the third with stained glass windows. There an easy chair, set of magazines, phonograph set, and a refrigerator are to be installed.

For the students of Maryville college, both resident and town, a huge activities house is to be erected. It is to have a Little Theatre with a modern equipped stage and everything else Mrs. West's heart desires, a huge lounge with oodles of couches, a couple of juke boxes, and a few game rooms.

Any student that wants it, may have pie a la mode for dessert every night of the week, and as many as they can eat. (Pies not weeks.) Breakfast shall be served in bed to those students who feel they cannot make it to the dining hall. Ours is a healthy world of the future.

Anderson and Thaw are to be provided with escalators, but not Pearsons, for a girl needs some exercise. Speaking of exercise bicycles are to be a special gift to all freshmen entering the school.

There is to be a new order in the laundry. All one has to do is to put his or her clothes in one end of a huge slot and they come out cleaned, ironed and ready to wear at the other end. There will be a jiffy installed the evening before a formal.

More wooden fire escapes are to be erected, because they are fun to run up, and besides they will burn pretty. The aquarium outside of Science is to be cleaned and all the bodies of soldiers taken out, and fish put in. Chemistry teachers are to be supplied with bow ties as part of their uniform, and a comic section is to be put out with the Echo to be read on Sunday morning. (While you are eating breakfast in bed, that is). Ice cold cokes and a few acts of vaudeville are to be provided for freshmen while they stand on lines.

SATURDAY, MAY 15, 1943

AND AH, FAREWELL!

And at this point tragedy enters the life of our gentle hero and stalwart heroine. Along with Christmas and Easter comes up this part of the year, sort of inevitably—impressive clearings-of-the throats, "My friends", processionals, three-hours-laters, bus tickets, and quietnesses. And with the rest of the credit to whom credit, while the ECHO debuts in a last rattle off the Saturday three o'clock press, we'd like to wrangle in a small corner of crediting praise to the holders of the inspiration for the what's what in its pages each week.

The gentle beratements which accompany the mistaken appearance of an issue without the proper write-up of the last club meeting, or the disgusting appearance of a Saturday without an ECHO, shows you have appreciated the stories the staff members have written about and for you. And we should like to thank publicly all members of the staff, each one for his continuous cooperation and friendly assistance.

To begin properly with page three of the book, we should like to commend Ted Pratt for the best organized page of the paper. Consistently as sports editor Ted has been on hand with careful planning, original ideas, and unfailing interest. To the fine work of the other three parts of the sports staff goes credit for a first-rate survey of "ECHO Sports."

The job of managing editor is always a difficult one. To Ben Lynt who has handled this work each week in addition to a column of the scope and understanding of "From This Corner", we owe special appreciation. In our opinion the level of composition, the balance of humor and serious thought of his column was admirably high.

To Jordy too whose "Butterscotch" has proved for many students a first focus of attention, our thanks. Her column was produced with a cooperation and an infallability that was gratifying.

To Chuck Dunning and his successful successor Byron Sprague we should like to send a black and white pat on the back; "Talk of the Week" has continued to be a popular cause for more talk—and admiration each week. And to Mr. Huber for heads and column inches uncountable, more thanks. To all the members new this year to the staff, our congratulations on their rapid grasp of the writing situation and cooperation in "learning the trade".

To Ken Cooper and Marian Schanck who have done what was labelled the impossible and made the paper business managed successfully, our hearty congratulations.

By JORDY MEADOWS

Right now we feel just exactly like Shakespeare was sure to have felt when he wrote the Tempest. And if you want to be real mean and ask why, we can answer that question too.

Seems as if Spring is going to stay around the proverbial corner, but the co-eds and the trees and the birds are perfectly content to ignor that fact. But oh, if only a few daisies would be sweet and bloom.

And isn't it nice to have all sorts of people you can't seem to do without drop in for little visits? Margie dropped in in the usual Field way complete with bangs and breeze! Then there was Henry Wick very ultra—what every gal wishes she could dream about—complete with uniforms and gold braid. June Brown is here now to make Pearsons seem like the fun Baldwin was last year. And there are just reams of people coming today. And how about Corny Jones and her tan!! That's what Florida will do for you if you're nice to it.

It just d esn't seem possible, does it——exams over——trunks packed —— bare rooms —— people leaving (wish you wouldn't) ——caps and gowns——that choked up feeling——too little time to do all those things that you have to do before you can leave——maybe it would be better if we ignore the fact that Monday's graduation.

Maybe you don't think it will be fun, but we plan to get a ring-side seat out on the baseball field on graduation morning to watch the solemn capped and gowned senior men take the final lap of the obstacle course and then sprint over to the chapel in time to fall on the platform in time to get that diploma. And it might be fun to watch most of us typing madly up to the middle of July just finishing up a few papers so we can get a grade or three. And then it might be fun to feel a little sorry for the cadets who are going to be much alone until the summer session starts.

And we wonder if you caught the whisper about the celebrities who stopped at Mrs. Walker's just for a few minutes the other evening?

Now let's take a swan-song on the moron stories. There's the one about the moron who caught squirrels by getting out on a limb and acting like a nut!!! It must have been that last exam——we're really not responsible.

And maybe its about time to congratulate and wish more happiness than anything else to all the lucky lads and lasses who are marrying soon after graduation. Have fun, Kids!

And to think that this late in the year we found a place where you can eat all sorts of breakfast and play the juke-box for a quarter; It's things like that which lead to the nasty brink of frustration. For a small sum we'll let you in on the info so you can start next year out right.

Didja notice how sophisticated all the juniors looked right after chapel on Wednesday morning? Those senior chapel seats must have some magic. It just doesn't seem possible—or have we said that before? Anyhow what difference does it make? It's the truth what counts

And now maybe it's time to mistily say a hasty s'long——good-luck—— and be seein' you!

In finally relinquishing the publication to the hands of the young younger generation, to Billye Ruth Braly, editor elect, we should like to express our confidence in her success next year. Aside from features, deservedly popular, she has shown a comprehension of the method of ECHO journalism which augurs well for her success in the bigger and better angle on achievement in the ECHO publication next year.

And more finally and more especially, to Dr. F. A. Griffitts, faculty adviser of the paper, who to our struggling efforts has given his patient advice, wise counsel, and suggestions innumerable of inestimable value, our deep appreciation. His sincere interest in the ECHO has given to the paper whatever of fine permanent spirit it exhibits from year to year.

THE PASSING REVIEW

Although many neighboring colleges have cut their athletic programs to practically nothing, Maryville College has been able to maintain intercollegiate program and an intensified physical education and intramural system throughout this college year. Three sports have been carried on with no little degree of success. however, manpower shortage, lending of athletic facilities to our local army detachment, and lack of sufficient time have all been limiting factors on the Maryville sports parade. Let's take a look at the figures:

FOOTBALL

The Scottie eleven was forty-strong at the beginning of the season and had a remarkable turn-out for the fall sport, but the majority of the players were inexperienced and young. Only two victories appear on the record but a look at athe competition which the Scotties met gives evidence of a fighting team that never let down.

WRESTLING

Running true to old Maryville tradition, the Scottie mat team came through the season in fine style. Losing only one match which they avenged in a return match, the Scots took on all on-comers and conquered the best competition in this section of the South. Under the direction of Coach Woody Everett and Captain Joe Suitor the Scottie grunters worked hard and were amply rewarded for their drill by a highly-sucessful season.

TENNIS

Representing Maryville in its only spring sport, the Scottie tennis team had an undefeated season and for the firs time in the history of the school, presented the college with the State Championship Tennis Title. Seven matches the netters breezed through and followed them up with a trip to the State Meet at Sewanee where they took the team title and the doubles title. Led by four-stripe Ted Kidder, the Highlander racket-swingers turned back all competition with decisive scores.

Intramurals and Physical Training

Due to the constant work and effort of Coach L. S. Honaker the Intramural and Physical Training program of the college has been emphasized this year as never before. With every student taking three hours of calisthenics per week and an additional two hours of competitive athletics, the condition of the general student body has improved measurably, it says here. The newly-constructed obstacle course has proven popular and effective and the newly-designed game "Bloody Murder" has become a classical favorite among the male population on the Hill. Intramurals has increased its scope to include a number of games including water polo and speedball and it has been highly successful in acquiring participants in all sports. Credit should go to Senior Manager Hal Lloyd an dhis staff for their tireless work with the mechanics of the system. Also tho Bill Segraves, whose weekly column has faithfully carried news and details of intramural activities. While the flowers are being passed out, we should like to give our personal thanks to the staff Les Boyd, Ray Saunders and Frank Bradford for their help on the sports page. Personally, the Thursday night deadline has surprisingly been one of the most enjoyable features of the college activities and we wish the best of luck to those who are to carry on.

Sports Carry On But Front Page Steals Show With Yanks In Action

By RAY SAUNDERS

It is an amazing thing when we come to think of it that in spite of all the confusion in this old world of ours we still have our sports. In spite of bigger things in other parts of the world we can still hear that familiar "play ball" cry on the sports world that we will have to miss this year, but the fact that the Major Leagues opened their seasons this week with good attendances is a toast to the sporting spirit of the American fans even in these times. A good number of our league leaders will be among the missing this year and we will miss the records that they would undoubtedly have set this year. But when we remember that they are playing a far more important game on another field, wer are willing to be content with the less experienced players that will come up to take the veterans places, and with the older and perhaps slower players that will come back to the game just to keep the ball flying. A large number of the regulars are not interested in throwing curves now; they want every ball to be a straight one. Every pitch has to be a strike or they will be out of the game for good.

We will miss the regular players. We will miss their records. We will miss their speedy action at the hot corners and their close ones at the home plate. We will miss them, and they will miss us. The cheers and razzes that went unappreciated would be like music to their ears now. But the boys are away now, and the cheers will be here when they get back.

We are interested in the box scores of the country, we will always be interested in the sport, but we are far more interested in the score that appears not on the sports page but on the front page. When that score shows a victory that is not just for Brooklyn, or just for Boston, or just for Chicago, then we will turn to the sports page and look for the names of the regulars again.

Kidder Loses To Sewanee's Elebash In Singles Finals

TWO DAY MEET AT SEWANEE

Under the leadership of acting coach and captain Ted Kidder, the Scottie net team captured the State Tennis Championship last week-end at the University of the South. Ted Kidder, four year man and number one on this year's undefeated squad. lost to Sewanee's Hunley Elebash in the finals singles. Then teamed with his partner Ted Pratt, he took the State Doubles Championship by defeating his own teammates Ken Cooper and Wally Easter in the finals of the doubles event.

Hunley Elebash, 19 year old sophomore from Pensacola, Florida, and star track man for the Sewanee school, eliminated three of the four Scots that were entered in the competition. He defeated Ken Cooper 6-1, 6-1 in the quarter finals. In the afternoon he captured the 100 yard dash in the State Track Meet in the amazing time of .09.9 and won the 220 yard dash and the one mile relay. Quite a boy!

Wally Easter number four man who made the trip to the meet, succumbed in the first round to TPI's Agee 7-5, 6-3, 6-4. Ken Cooper defeated TPI's Marsh in the first round but lost to Champ Elebash in the second. Ted Pratt was seeded third behind Elebash and Kidder and defeated Sewanee's Eckles to reach the semi-finals where again Elebash took over. Kidder defeated TPI's Weddington and Sewanee's Caton to reach the finals where he lost to Mr. Elebash.

In the doubles where Maryville has always excelled through the expert advice of Coach George Fischbach, the first doubles team defeated Agee-Jordan of TPI to gain the finals after a bye. Cooper and Easter came through in a thriller over the number one Sewanee team to clinch the team title for the Scots and to assure them of two doubles teams in the finals. Ken's and Wally's scores over their semi-finals opponents were 7-9, 6-4, 10-8. They proved no match for their mates, however, for the Kidder-Pratt combo took them in two straight sets in the finals 6-1, 6-1. It was a glorious day for the Scots —the first time in the history of Maryville College that its tennis team had won the State Title, the first time that they had ever had two doubles teams in the finals, the first time that they could present the coveted cup to the school (if it comes, we have it for the duration!), the first time that four members that were sent received individual medals for achieving the finals. It was the climax to an undefeated and successful season and the culmination of many hopes and ambitions.

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

By SAM SCHAFER

Even with the departure of the first two quintiles from Squadron "A", Army life at Maryville continues as uneventfully as ever. It's still a fifteen-hour day composed of rigorous mental and physical training, with a few assorted hours of leisure thrown in. Here's what we do in our leisure——.

Delaplane is in love again, but this time he's serious (he says.) That cute little blonde from Memorial Hall still captivates the boys at mealtime. The new Mrs. Gharst is quite bewitching, too. Butler discovered that it's easier to attend drill that to undergo a major operation. "Dying Joe" Conley, the Zombie of the third flight, illustrates the maximum that a "corpus delecti" can walk. This Langas boy can really dish out the exercises—some of us think he lies awake nights, thinkink of new ways to torture us.

The sewer pipe leak behind Bartlett last Saturday provided some excellent forms of punishment for those of us who were required to do fatigue work for some MINOR infractions. The wrestling match in the gym Monday night gave us a new insight on the ways to control men — how's your back, Curley?? Our local barber recuperated from his recent illness just in time to prevent us from becoming the "Hairy 42nd."

The judges of Monkey Court are really tough—ask about half the boys in the squadron—they know! "Proboscis" Rothchild's faux pas provide many hours of amusement for the other bright stars of quintile two. First sergeant Schultz gave a talk last week on "Implements of Modern Warfare, As Employed at Maryville College." He mentioned such obstacles as first-sergeant traps, bed-roll attacks, coke-bottle barrages, and others, but he failed to discuss the "dirty-pillow-bomb from the balcony." Perhaps he hasn't met with it—yet!

The woman who happened to be outside Bartlett last Wednesday night when the fire alarm forced us into the street must certainly have been embarrassed by the sight of dozens and dozens of negligibly-clad figures dashing and shouting about the old campus. She retreated into the comparative protection of some neighboring shadows faster than we could have said "Scat". Perhaps Findley surprised her with his helmet and military bearing. (That's almost all, too.)

Just preceding the fire drill, there was a terrific attack in the upstairs dormitory in Bartlett. All newcomers were greeted by a balloon attack, and NO ONE ESCAPED THE BARRAGE. General Haas contributed his bit to morale, too.

Speaking of morale reminds us that there's going to be a gigantic, studendous, colossal extravaganza presented for the cadets in the 42nd very soon. The acts will all be composed of talented aviation students. A sneak preview last week indicated that the show will be a success. It's now up to the fellows to provide the audience—the cast has already been assembled.

Well, this is the last of our columns in the "Echo," but we'll be back shortly in mimeographed form. But don't forget—the big Army show. You've been clamoring for a musical show, so here it is—and believe me—it's a humdinger!!! See ya, see ya!

Student Vols To Hear J. Thompson

At the Student Vols meeting to be held tomorrow, Sunday, May 17, John Thompson will speak. He is an ex-president of the student volunteer organization having graduated in 1940. The meeting will be the last of the year and will be held in the YW rooms following the vespers service.

They even have morons in the army—

One day a company was drilling in a northern army camp. Suddenly the commanding officer said, "Company, halt." But the moron kept on marching. The officer said again, "Company, halt." The moron still kept on going. Finally the officer said, "Hey, Bud, didn't you hear what I said?" The moron answered, "Yes, Sir, but I'm not company any more, I've been here six months."

Jean L. Barnes Becomes Society Editor On Staff of Illinois Daily Newspaper

Feature Editor And General News Reporter Learns How to Cook

Immediately after graduation Jean L. Barnes, June '43, left her post as editor of last year's Echo to become the Society and Woman's Page Editor of the Belvidere Daily Republican of Belvidere, Ill. Already she has had two promotions so that now she is also Feature Editor and general local news reporter. Jean is the only Maryville student who has gone directly from college into newspaper work in recent years.

There were several positions open to Jean after commencement. She went to Belvidere for an interview and was accepted at once. The publishers are evidently very much pleased with her work for the business manager pronounced her "just what the doctor ordered" for the paper. There are eight or nine members of the staff.

The Daily Republican is an afternoon daily which is published six days a week. During the day Jean has regular office hours in which she writes her stories. At night she attends proms, skating parties, and the other social activities of Belvidere—located 50 miles from Chicago—which she must cover as Society Editor.

In addition to her newspaper work, Jean has gotten into Girl Scout work and has become a member of the American Association of University Women. Moreover, she has an apartment of her own and does her own cooking and housekeeping.

Only last May Jean graduated magna cum laude at the head of her class. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma, was on the Echo staff four years, was a member of the Writers' Workshop, and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Her major was psychology, and her home is in Wilkes-Barre, Penna.

Fewer Student Jobs Without NYA

Large Group Assigned To Student Help

For the first time in eight years, the Student Help Fund will have no N.Y.A. appreciation. This means that there will be fewer jobs available, but there will be no cut in salaries.

Ever since the N.Y.A. went into effect in 1938, about 90% of the colleges in the country were alloted funds to provide extra money for students. Last year Congress killed the N.Y.A.; so the Student Help program will have to operate, as in former years, with funds from an endowment and on rotating loans.

Already 185 people have signed up for Student Help work. Jobs include waitressing, library work, lab assistants, and bookstore work. Usually about 60% of the students are doing Student Help work before the year is over. This summer about 60 of the 97 summer students were doing part-time work.

There are enough boys on the campus so that as yet girls have not had to undertake electrical repair work and lawn mowing, according to Miss Clemmie J. Henry, student help director.

V

Student Council

Betty Jane Miller, president of the Student Council and of the Student Body, said that no definite plans have been made by the Student Council. There will probably be a meeting early next week at which time plans will get underway to establish plans for town night.

V

Several have suggested that a column be written about former Maryville students who are now in the armed service. This can be done only through cooperation of the student body. If you have news of interest about a Maryville man, write it on a slip of paper and give it to some member of the ECHO staff by Monday, September 13.

Maryville Mourns Untimely Passing of Prof. Colbert

Following is a copy of the account of the death of Mr. R. R. Colbert, formerly an associate professor of music at Maryville College, which was carried during the summer in an issue of the SUN:

"Mr. Ralph R. Colbert passed away quietly at his home on Tuesday evening, August 3, 1943. To his many friends, and especially to those Maryville College students and graduates who knew him as just plain "Prof," this came as a profound shock. He was recuperating from a heart attack suffered May 28, and apparently was improving nicely. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at one o'clock in the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Maryville and the burial followed at Morristown, Tennessee.

Mr. Colbert was born in Missouri in 1904. He received his B.S. degree from the Northeast Missouri State Teachers College and his M.A. degree from New York University.

He was supervisor of music in the public schools of Morristown, Tennessee, for nine years prior to coming to Maryville in September, 1936. At Maryville he began as an instructor in music, and he became an assistant-professor and an associate-professor of music before leaving the faculty in 1942. He then accepted a position in the personnel department of the Aluminum Company of America, a position which he held until the time of his death. From boyhood he was active in church work, belonging first to the Methodist and then to the Protestant Episcopal Church.

In the music department at Maryville, he taught voice and directed the choir, the glee clubs, and the orchestra. In each of his six years he directed the production of Handel's Messiah, during which time the production grew, especially by the addition of the orchestra accompaniment. It was in his last year at Maryville that the music department was accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music.

Probably his favorite program was the Annual Easter Sunrise Service in the college amphitheatre, a program which he, himself, inaugurated and directed."

Tests Required of Frosh, Transfers Determines Place

Singing And Socials Provide The First "Get Acquainted"

All freshmen entering Maryville College were required to take an English Placement Test, Tuesday afternoon, August 31, to determine their place in freshmen English and beginning sections of foreign language. The freshmen were required to take a reading test Wednesday, September 1 to discover any deficiencies in reading ability that these might be helped by remedial classes. All new students, freshmen and transfers, took the Scholastic Aptitude Test in the chapel, Thursday, September 2.

As a part of Freshman Week, all students of the college were invited to attend the sing which was held in front of the steps to Thaw Hall. Owen McGarity, a sophomore ministerial student, was master of ceremonies assisted by Charles Burgreen, a senior ministerial, at the piano. The presidents of Bainonian and Theta Epsilon, the two women's organizations on the "Hill" were introduced and extended a welcome to all new girls. They spoke of plans for their coming "rush weeks".

Thursday night, September 2, the student mixer was held in the chapel. Those attending were entertained by some new freshman talent. Bill Buford, acting president of Y.M.C.A. was in charge aided by Charles Burgreen.

Friday night, September 3 there was a military review by the air forces detachment.

Chilhowean Post To Be Filled Soon

Francis Lane, of Knoxville, who was elected business manager of the 1944 Chilhowean, is not returning to school this year. In the near future there will be a junior class election to fill the vacancy.

Announcement concerning the rest of the staff will be made at a later date. With the full cooperation of the junior class, Dorothy Lehman, editor of the Chilhowean, hopes to make this one-hundred and twenty-fifth edition, one of the best ever published.

The junior class will hold a meeting after chapel next Wednesday.

Kitchen, Dining Hall Improved At College's Expense

PORCH ENLARGED

Miss Ware's Office Enlarged and Private Entrance Opened

Early this summer, plans were formulated and work was begun on extensions of the college dining room and kitchen facilities under the direction of the architects Barbour and McMurray of Knoxville. Some years ago when the new addition to the dining hall was added blueprints were drawn for enlarging the kitchen space. But not until last summer, and this summer in particular, with the increased demands for cooking facilities during the summer session made by the combined group of students and army detachments was it imperative that present facilities be increased. The directors decided this summer to go ahead with planned extensions. New plans were drawn, modifying the original blueprints.

The porch area has been extended to 4 or 5 times its former size. A solid concrete floor and a permanent roof have been put in. In addition, there are three permanent rooms in this area. The first is a diswashing room which contains the new dishwasher just purchased. It is two times as large as the old one. The second room is called the salad and desert room with refrigerators and other facilities. The third room will be the meat refrigeration room.

Under the porch in the basement the vegetable refrigerator room has been located. The refrigerator rooms are built of brick, cinder blocks, and special insulation of cork installed by a firm from Atlanta. Heavy doors especially constructed for refrigeration units have been purchased.

The refrigeration machinery has been installed in the basement and will be finished and ready for use. Complete installation is held up because of the difficulty in securing copper wire.

The former large General Electric refrigerators have been moved to the new section of the porch and will still be used.

n the kitchen proper an additional doorway has been cut to eliminate some of the congestion of traffic between the dining room and kitchen. A supplementary private office for Miss Ware is being built at the east corner of the kitchen

New Shelves Built In College Library

Library Asks Student Body to Cooperate

A series of shelves has been added to Lamar Memorial Library during the summer. These were constructed under the direction of Mr. Walter Morton, assisted by Mr. Burns, in the college carpenter shop by the power plant. The wood used was from trees hewn in the college woods and is hard oak. It has been decided to call these new divisions the "browsing alcove" and the "periodical alcove." The former will contain fiction selections which were formerly to the north of the circulating desk. The latter will have current issues of the most periodicals in order to facilitate accession.

The librarian, Miss Ruth Grierson and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, have organized a new reserve system. A table has been placed to the south of the circulating desk which will be used by students wishing to use books placed on reserve by members of the faculty. A notice designating the rules governing this system will be given to each student so that he may familiarize himself with the procedure. It is hoped that the student body will understand and appreciate these new arrangements and cooperate with the following student librarians: Marion Stout, Jane Mac Farland, Paul Smith, Duane Collins, Donald Barker, Luther Cross, Eloise Edmundson, Nell Louise Minear, Marion Garvin, Ada Yadon, Marie Baxter, Lois Roberts, and Helen Marie Wilson.

War Causes Further Upsets In College; Maryville Faculty Undergoes Changes

Elections for New Class Officers To Take Place Shortly

Last spring class elections were held to elect officers for the present term, but as several of the officers-elect are not returning to school, there are vacancies to be filled. The senior class elections were as follows: president, Paul Smith; vice president, Marion Schanck; secretary, Frances Harris Grosh; treasurer, Hubert Rust. All of these people have returned. Among the student council representatives for the seniors were Bill Buford, Leroy Dillener, Helen Anderson, and Betty Jane Miller. Of this group it is not yet known whether Leroy Dillener will be back, but the others have appeared.

The juniors selected as president, Don Barker; vice president, Agnes Peterson; secretary, Betty Hoagland; treasurer, Abner Richards. Student council representatives are Joe Brown, Harold Huffman, Virginia Cain, and Rachel Galbreath. All of these have returned.

Jack Houdeshell was elected president of the sophomore class, with Thelma Richardson as vice president, Polly Edmunds secretary, and Bob Barker, treasurer. Of the student council representatives including Bill Buzby, Byron Sprague, Catherine Sisk, and Mardee Fletcher, Bill Buzby has left for the army.

Of the Chilhowean staff, Frances Lane who was chosen as business manager, is not returning, having accepted a defense job.

According to the publication schedule, there will be no ECHO next week. The next issue will be September 18.

Summer Grads Number Fourteen

Brief Exercises At Last Chapel Service

Four students were graduated at the end of the first semester of the summer session, July 10. Monserrate Pagan, an education major, returned by plane to her home in Puerto Rico in order to take the position as supervising English instructor with the school system there. Eleanor Elizabeth Williams, a former biology major will be teaching physical sciences in the high school at Trion, Georgia. Lois Roberts is teaching in one of the Blount County schools.

Ten students were graduated August 20. Among these was Lauramae Weber, who is now working as industrial chemist in the Goodrich Corporation in Akron, Ohio. Carolyn Eberhardt an English major, is teaching in a high school in her home town, Rutherford, New Jersey. Ruth McClanahan is teaching in one of the Blount County schools. Meredith Purvis plans to enter the armed service. Douglas Roseborough will be a midshipman in the navy in the near future. Joe Suitor is entering the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky. Layton Bergquist is in medical school. Wilbur Chapman is entering the navy. Hal Lloyd will leave Monday, September 6, in order to enter McCormick Theological seminary in Chicago, Illinois.

Hal has been elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Mr. Vine Unable to Return to College

Mr. Richard W. Vine has been employed in the personnel department of Stone and Webster, contracters, who have a large government contract in the building project near Clinton, Tennessee. He has been reclassified by his Selective Service Board and made subject to call to military service. Stone and Webster, whose Clinton contract is related wholly to the war effort, have requested deferment for him to continue his service with them and he has thus been made unavailable to the College for the coming year.

Music Department Replaces Mr. Vine With Mr. Jones

FIVE JOIN STAFF

Coach Davis Returns But Mr. Dollenmayer Gets Navy Chaplaincy

Phillip Owen Jones, Mus.B., of Chicago, has been appointed instructor in voice and director of the choir and other music organizations to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Richard W. Vine, who is now engaged in war service. Mr. Jones has studied at the American Conservatory of Music for eight years and at the School of Music of DePaul University for three years. He has taken private training under Dimitri Onofrei and others.

He has been a well-known singer and music director in Chicago for a number of years and has maintained a studio for the instruction of students in voice and piano. His own music participation includes the singing of many parts in opra, service as soloist in leading Chicago churches, and membership in bands and orchestras. He is especially noted as a director of Welch singing groups and has been guest conductor of Welch festivals in many States, such as the Eisteddfod at Warren, Ohio. One of his recent participations was in the great music festival in Chicago two weeks ago attended by 90,000 people.

Mr. Jones and his wife will arrive in Maryville the end of this week.

Mary A. Orr, B.A. of Maryville, has been serving as an assistant in the Personnel Office since July, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Irma H. Criswell. Miss Orr is a graduate of Maryville College in the class of 1941 and is a daughter of Professor Horace E. Orr of the college faculty. She has been employed during the past two years at the Alcoa plants of the Aluminum Co. of America.

Helen Trotter, B.S., M.S of Maryville, has been appointed assistant dietition in the college dining hall. Miss Trotter graduated at Maryville College in 1943 and received her Master's degree at the University of Tennessee this summer. She will serve as assistant to Miss Margaret S. Ware dietitian and manager of the college dining hall.

Edith Pierce March, B.A., M.A.., of Maryville, has been appointed part-time instructor in history. Mrs. March graduated from Maryville College in 1938, received her Master's degree at the University of Tennessee in 1939, and has had experience both in teaching and in business supervision.

Buford Replaces DeForrest In YM Election

Bill Buford is the newly elected president of the YMCA. He replaces Jack DeForrest, who did not return to school this fall. Other officers are: Lloyd Anderson, vice-president; Joe Brown, Chatterbov manager; Don Barker, secretary; Wallace Easter, treasurer.

The regular YMCA worship service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in the Fine Arts Studio in the basement of Voorhees Chapel. Neither the speaker nor the topic have been announced.

Jointly the YM and YW have had a welcome program to give assistance to the freshmen students. Beginning last Monday, members of the committee have met all trains and buses in Knoxville and Maryville to welcome new and old students.

The YM has organized a little brother system which will officially begin Saturday evening at the Pow-Wow or watermelon feast in the college woods.

Freshmen Will Be Freshmen In Spite of International Crises

By HANNAH DUKE

Well after positively hounding all our new freshmen for about the last three hours, I have finally gotten together a few comments on what they think of Maryville. You remember how you felt when you first hit the "Hill", so put yourself in their shoes for a few minutes again. But be thankful you don't have to stay there!

As usual, the poor things have been terribly tortured, so they say, with a "thousand and one" tests. What's the use of placement tests anyway? We're practically all equally dumb. I all but had to pop my interviews between questions or else follow them madly about at the other end of a trunk.

To get to the point now—they definitely have their ideas of school already, especially the MEN who naturally are given first place for anything here regardless of custom. It's surprising, but they're not quite as much a freshman novelty as was expected, but still they're few and precious. Incidentally, they have an eye for our pretty coeds. No, they don't claim to be wolves either (yet). One freshman girl suggests they could pay a little more attention to their own classmates. Of course, she wasn't selfish. Boys, don't be bashful when you're surrounded by so many women. It's only for the "duration"—we hope.

Obviously, the girls haven't overlooked our soldiers. Well, one couldn't entirely. They say the prospects seem very good but it is an insult to their dignity (freshmen have a lot of that) to have to get off the walks to let them go by. What would they have said if they had been here this summer when we had to use the BACK door to the dining hall? And the noise those soldiers do make—whistling, bugles, guards, singing, and more whistling. They're in favor of writing to the General to see if the early morning bugler can't get up about an hour later each morning. 5:45 A.M. is an unearthly hour!

If first impressions last, our new students are going to really like it here and get along wonderfully. Everybody thinks the campus is beautiful as well as the mountains and surrounding hills. Oh yes, the benches add tremendously to the campus scenery. They would think about that. They're pleased with the dorms and think

Summer School Memories Prove Nostalgic, Exciting, and Fun

By BETTY LOU McCOY

They say that reminiscing is a sign of old age, but if that's the case you'll have to show due respect and listen while I ramble. Maybe Grandpa can look back to the Civil War, but I have Summer School.

Ninety and nine ambitious pursuers of higher education among which were several new freshmen, appeared at Maryville with serious intentions. The one lasting impression that they all obtained was that of the allrightness of the dining hall, with its scads of food served for the most part, by charming MALE waitresses.

But then things didn't start getting hot till fire broke out in Pearsons. Not to be outdone, Carnegie decided to have a fire also, but it wasn't nearly as important as Pearsons' (which was really more smoke than flame anyhow.)

As the wolves on the campus didn't furnish enough of the animal element, an uninvited bear donated his presence to the college woods—honest. Appearance of said bear was no doubt precipitated by the sudden epidemic of bare-foot gals. It all started when two young ladies (?) went wading in the woods one Sunday afternoon and discovered how delightful bear feet (I mean bare feet) felt. What objection could anyone possibly have to their appearing in class the following morning minus shoes? It seems that ideas travel fast and others were of the same persuasion, for next morning at daybreak (well, anyhow, eight o'clock) the campus was o'errun with barefooted lassies happily digging their toes into the sidewalks on the way to class. But they reckoned without pressure from high places, and as Philosopher Buford observed, "Wouldn't it be funny if they had to put a notice in next year's catalogue saying "Students must wear shoes to classes at all times?" Anyhow, by third period in the morning sufficient pressure had reduced all to their former shoe-clad state.

And then there was that pitiful-looking specimen, blind as a bat and covered with mange, that walked into Fayerweather tryjng to pass for a cat without succeeding very well. Would chloroform help the situation? Ah, yes. One cat plus twenty-five cc. chloroform.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1943

FEWER ECHOES

This year there are approximately four hundred students enrolled here at Maryville—about half the normal enrollment. Naturally, there is less news about individuals or the group.

Only a small amount of each student's activity fee is used for support of the ECHO. Therefore, we must seek other sources for financial security. Our advertisers in past years have shown their interest in the college by generously supporting the ECHO. But now they have less goods to advertise. And there are fewer who benefit from the ads.

A third item which hinders the supposedly smooth running of this newspaper is the acute absence of any intercollegiate sports. Heretofore all of page three has been devoted to ECHO sports. A designated editor managed that news, with his own sports staff. Now the regular staff must combine their efforts toward filling a page which has never before been their responsibility—with less news and fewer people to write about.

In lieu of a rather dim future, it seems best to cut down the number of actual publications rather that the size of the paper itself. To publish a five column paper would seem to tend to lower the traditions of Maryville just because of present-day conditions. But quality is not to be cast aside now to be picked up after the war.

When the ECHO is not at your door every Saturday, please do not think the staff is being negligent. We prefer to try to maintain the ECHO's quality and to remain out of debt.

"UNCENSORED"

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Things started off with a bang and a swish this year around the old ECHO office. The floor was scrubbed with Miss Ware's mop, chairs were dusted, last year's copy was thrown away, the typewriter was kicked back into shape, and issue number one September 1943 started to wriggle its printed heads.

Poor Byron Sprague. Of course it serves him right. He should know better than to go selling seats to freshmen, standing by a Y. information table too. The main trouble as I see it, is that he has a conscience. Well anyway the story goes like this: By (as only his friends and intimates call him) still has fifteen cents which one of the freshmen who didn't want to pay fifty cents for an orchestra seat, and who didn't want to be paid fifty cents for sitting up in with the choir, gave him. So frantic, so desperate, so tearing out his hair is he that he asked that a list of the freshmen names be printed in hopes that the one who did not get his money back will find sophomore Sprague.

Chapel notes: Duchtie Parke holding up the alto section of the choir; one row with six boys (I counted them) seated in it; upperclassmen sheepishly going into chapel.

Dorothy Dick (to be confused with Dorothy Dix) played Cupid this summer. It happened in Washington when her brother Don (Army Air Corps) met Barabar Shearer. Maybe we ought to start a bureau here. I'm sure a lot of girls have brothers.

Have you met Jasper? He's a beautiful horse that June Townsend owns. He's so big that June couldn't fit him into her trunk, or anything, so she had to carry him all the way on the train. What with crowded conditions as they are, too.

Communique No. 1 There is nobody in room 100 Baldwin this year.

Wonder what happened to the dates that were whirled together at the Sing. I admire the freshmen girls' spirit, especially the way they mowed down the upperclass girls who tried to claim the upperclass boys.

There are no skies like Maryville skies, honestly. In any kind of weather, any time of day, any time of night, they're just out of this world.

The first thing that struck me this semester was the freedom of the soldiers as compared to the martialed marching they went through last Spring. Things ain't what they used to be.

Bob Whitford-quote-No dates for me this year. I'm going to work hard—unquote. There should be a moral or something that goes with this, but I can't think of any. All I can do is gasp.

Bugs. There ought to be a law against them. Especially the kind that play tag around your head when you're trying to type nothing. Personally I like the dull, sleepy type.

HERE AND ABOUT

By Robert F. Huber

EDUCATION—GERMAN VS. AMERICAN STYLE
Education for Death

Realizing the values to be gained from an educated population, Germany started to train her youth for the present war long before anyone here realized our danger. Because of the methods, subjects studied, and the philosophy behind all of this, the German training had been termed "Education for Death", and surely the facts bear this out.

At the age of six, before the child has been able to learn anything of freedom, religion, or morals he is taken from his home and placed in a military training camp. Militerism, blind obedience, cruelty, are all they are taught. Between the ages of twelve and sixteen the youth undergo further and more extensive military training where he learns only what the leaders want him to. Yes, he is taught facts but he never learns how to think for himself. His body has become a slave of the state and his mind has been dulled beyoud the point of usefulness.

The German women and girls are educated in much the same manner. They must give their bodies to the glory and perpituity of the state, and must slave for a life time for their "Beloved Fuerher". These are the members of the German super-race who have engaged us in combat.

The German leaders in devising their nightmare of Nazism have played education for all it is worth. They have educated their people for death.

EDUCATION FOR FREEDOM

But here in America education has been put to more useful and democratic purpposes. We educated our people for the betterment of their individual lives and so they will be better citizens in a free land.

From the very beginning of our nation's history individual families have labored to give to their children the opportunities of education. In the 17th century education was restricted to the wealthy, for the seat of education was to be found in Europe. Little "book larnin'" could be had in the American wilderness except, perhaps, from the libraries of the cultured and prosperous individuals such as William Byrd of Virginia who had the largest library in America at that time.

It wasn't until the 18th Century that public school education first received birth in Massachussetts under the impetus given it by Noah Webster. Throughout our history self educated men like Lincoln, who studied night after night by dim firelight, have risen to lead the nation in its time of need.

Local communities and later state governments established "little red school houses" of one room where the schoolmaster was paid in produce rather than in cash. With the passage of the Morrel Act following the Civil War the federal government showed its interest in national education by appropriating land and money for the establishment of agricultural schools.

And so Americans have come to value education and to realize its importance. We now know that the processes of education must be kept free from the influence of politics and the dictates of government, for only in this way can they maintain the independence which is essential to its survival.

The present world conflict has brought education into the spotlight. In training our workers in war trades we have won the battle of production, and in educating our fighting men we have been able to get the Axis on the run. And even now the government as well as private institutions is training men for the period of peace which is to follow.

OUR DUTY

When we compare the education of Germany with the type we receive here in America we should thank God that we live in a free land where we can educate ourselves along the lines we wish.

All this should indicate to us that we are faced with a duty as well as a privilege in the matter of education. We must make the most of our opportunities right here at Maryville and must work harder, for that is the secret of success. Mental laziness would lead to our nation's downfall just as it was one of the causes of the decline of the Roman Empire.

Education is the backbone of democracy. Let us keep this country free and proud through the proper uses of education.

Communique No. 2 I saw Joe Brown get the keys to the Chatterbox. When is it going to open? I like ice cream and chocolates and soda pop and if anybody says there is a war going on I'll scream.

When Eleanor Stout arrived early last week way in the deep of the night she dashed into the first room she came to in Third floor Baldwin in hopes of greeting some sister dwellers. She's an impulsive child and when nobody answered her excited hellos, she asked "Who was so snooty that they won't answer?" Miss Evans, at this stage of the game, awakened from a profound sleep to ask what the matter was. I wonder who was more surprised?

The girls on the hill are worried about getting their rooms straightened up, the boys (strange as it seems) are worried about getting rooms.

Roommates Mariam Wickham and Miriam Bowditch are to be known as Wicky and Micky, respectively.

Can't think of anything nasty to say about Bob Bruce, so I'll leave it at that, except that I have a friend who has a friend who knows Frank Sinatra.

with a window onto the porch, and a door to the kitchen. This will be her private office. The stairway into her old office has been changed around and now opens into a small vestibule which can be entered either from the kitchen or the porch.

At the outer edge of the porch a long concrete ramp is located. It opens into the basement and into a passage way to the elevator for use in making trunks to all four floors if Pearsons.

Chutes were constructed for trucks to back up to the window beside the ramp where they unload groceries into the basement.

The architects have also drawn plans for a concrete platform a little distance away from the porch. The roof and surrounding lattice work will be put up, and the platform will be used for storing and handling the garbage cans that are now on the loading platform of the porch.

Another improvement is that the lounging and dressing room with shower baths for the cooks. It will probably be in the section of the basement under the new dining room. All the college cooks have health cards and follow definite programs of sanitation to insure the sanitary preparation of the food.

In the dining room itself, a new arrangement has been worked out. Lattice partitions have been set up. Some are stationary and are already in position. Other movable ones will be placed in the other section of the hall very soon. Army cadets wil continue to use the rear entrance and the college students will use the Pearsons lobby entrance.

"These improvements, when completed," says President Ralph W. Lloyd, "will greatly improve the Maryville College dining room and kitchen, which have been already among the most modern in this area, and will place them among the best to be found anywhere. It is probably the largest dining room, with the exception of cafeterias, in this part of the South."

Dr. Lloyd goes on to say furthermore, that "most of the expense of this building which will amount to nearly $10,000 is being borne by the college—and not by the government. The reason the building can be done is that the college's need in serving the army gives it the priorities necessary for purchasing materials, some of which it is difficult to get at present. The funds used have been received through the New Forward Fund given by friends of the college in recent years."

Faculty Changes . . .

No word has come of a substitute for Dr. Verton Queener, professor of history and chairman of the division of social sciences, who requested a year's leave of absence last spring in order to fill a government position in Washington, D. C.

Summer School . . .

covered for five minutes with Dr. Griffitts' waste-basket equals no cat. And so the body remained on the floor of the balance-room until Prof. Howell hinted that such was not the place for a dead body, at which suggestion Puss found his last resting-place in the trash-can on the front porch where, several days later, the aroma pervading the surrounding atmosphere prompted Brownie to empty the trash.

And then there was the to-do caused by the going off of the fire-extinguisher in the library.

And conferences—Synod, young people's and intermediate.

There were the changes made in the dining-hall, library, and science building.

There are those fond memories of after-supper soft-ball games, of moonlight hikes and falls in the creek, and square dancing till you were fit for the hearse, and the picnic at Montvale, and the popularity of the swimming pool and tennis courts.

And that little white house with green shutters called the Chatterbox which, if it had nothing else, had students, soldiers, mice, and Wally.

Last but not slightest, comes mention of the omnipresent child-labor in Pearsons. Boys in the halls, boys in the showers, boys in the rooms. (Excuse me a minute, someone's at the door. Oops—child labor still in the dorm?) So with that, gentle reader, I take up my bed and move to the comparative privacy of the campus.

Freshmen . . .

the food's grand, Miss Ware.

Most important are their opinions of our students and faculty members. They really do give compliments. Dr. Shine and Dr. Lloyd are really "tops" in many estimations as well as all the other faculty members and dormitory leaders.

No, the freshmen haven't disappointed us in the least. Chapel seats are rapidly being sold out but the college "seal" seems to be in hibernation. Anyway, something new has been added. Elevator privileges are being sold this semester. How fortunate you freshmen are! We always had to do our own ladder climbing.

Seriously though, the old students are welcoming freshmen in a big way and are glad to have so many to add to a wonderful year at Maryville in spite of all other circumstances. And as things progress, it seems we won't have to pamper them to make them happy here. They're making a good start for themselves. Continued fun to you at Maryville, freshmen, but do throw in a little studying this year if extra-curricular activities don't keep you too busy.

ECHO SPORTS

SCOTSPORTS

By ROBERT F. HUBER

Since the war has taken most of the young men out of college and put them in uniforms, it might be interesting to take a look at the sports situation here at Maryville.

LAST YEAR'S SPORTS

Although there were many men at college last year several of our varsity sports had to be dropped partly because of the lack of material and partly because of transportation difficulties. Our regular schedules of baseball, baskektball, and swimming had to be curtailed for the duration, but Maryville teams fared very well in the three remaining varsity sports in which we competed. Our tennis team went through an undefeated season, winning seven matches and topping all this with the state championship tennis title. Maryville grapplers were highly rewarded for their efforts by winning five of their six matches, defeating such teams as Georgia Tech, Georgia Pre-Flight, and the University of Tennessee. The boys from UT upsetted Maryville in an early season match but we more than made up for it in the return engagement. An undermanned foorball team struggled through a none too successful season, with Coach Honsker devoting much of his time to the "building of character".

COACH SAYS, "NO"

But all that is over now and another sports season has rolled around. "What will be the sports program this year," we asked Coach Davis in attempting to find out just what is what. "Frankly," he said, "we do not plan to have any varsity sports this year." Perhaps next semester we might be able to fit something in if we have enough men willing to cooperate, but right now the future of inter-collegiate sports at Maryville is very doubtful to say the least. Coaches Honaker and Davis are so busy training the army students they will be able to find very little time for the regular college sports program.

INTRA-MURALS

All that leads up to the problem of intra-mural activities. Its future too seems to be somewhat cloudy, but we may yet be able to salvage a part of it. Naturally it would be impossible to have the same set up as we had last semester, where everyone was required to participate in an intra-mural activity twice each week. But it might be possible for us to return to the old system where the individual participated in a sport just for the fun of it. With a little effort and planning we will be able to have some intra-mural activities even if it is only horseshoe tournaments and the like.

In the face of all this dismal news concerning the sports program at Maryville for this year we thought it best to save the best news for last, and even that is probably no longer news to most students. Coach Davis has returned from the army to resume his duties as assistant professor of physical education. Those of us who know him and have had the pleasure of working with him are certainly glad that he is back with us and we all wish him the best of luck.

And that seems to be the top of the news in the world of sports at Maryville College.

Boretsky Manages Girls' Point System

Season Begins With Soccer Tournament

Point System will begin the last Tuesday in September with Stevie Boretsky as manager. It will meet regularly after that on Tuesdays and Thursdays in two groups, one meeting at three-twenty, the other at four-twenty.

The season will begin with a practice period in soccer which will prepare two teams for a tournament. In addition to soccer, basketball, volley ball track and stunts are participated in.

Girls who go out for point system are expected to live up to certain rules which make for cleaner, healthier living. They are encouraged to gain skill in individual sports such as swimming, and tennis. Hikes around the sevn mile sues of periodicals in order to facliiate accession.

Points are given out for getting on teams, attendance, and living up to rules. If a girl receives 300 points she is entitled to a Maryville monogram. Four hundred points grants her a letter and membership to the M club, and 500 points, a letter and a sweater.

Prayer Meeting

Each year the committee in charge of joint prayer meetings is composed of a representative from Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. Student Vols, and the Ministerial Association. All the representatives have not yet been appointed so the committee members will be announced at a later date. The first meeting of the year will be Wednesday evening at 6:45 in the Fine Arts studio.

The prayer meetings held in women's dormitories are directed by a representative from Y.W.C.A. This representative appoints individual dormitory leaders. Meetings will be every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights. Plans will soon be made for definite organization.

YW Meets at 1:30

Y.W.C.A. will meet Sunday afternoon in the Y. W. rooms at 1:30. The purpose of the Y. W. for 1943-44 is: "I thou would'st Enter Into Life". Muriel Geisler, president, will be the speaker. Cabinet members and officers have other parts of the program.

NEWS OF M.C. STUDENTS

Maryville College is well represented throughout the country in defense work and the various armed forces. Carson-Newman, a former sports rival, has the largest number of students stationed on its campus. Charles Brand, Neil Proffitt, Stan Crews, Fred DePue, Red Meineke, Paul Montgomery, and Charles Spurlock, all of last year's junior class; Jim Hodges, David Gulick, Wayne Stevens, Trevor Williams, and Willis Sanderson, of the sophomore class; Bill Aston and George Pope representing the freshmen class comprise the group serving there.

At Camp Roberts, California, there is a smaller delegation of Maryvillians. Ted Kidder, and Art Bushing, both June graduates, are stationed there, together with Gordon Stone, a sophomore, Alan Rock, a freshman, and Jimmy Walker, a senior.

In Florida there are Dave McDaniels and Bob Thompson who are taking a course in naval aviation at Pensacola.

Bob Herzberger is attending Tennessee Polytechnic Institute.

Another group of students taking pre-med work at Temple University in Philadelphia is made up of Bill Short, Bob Puncheon, Joe Swift, Ed Wizalis, and Bob Francis. Bill Henderson is a pre-med student at Jefferson Medical School. Bob Mair, now stationed at Johnson Seymour Field in North Carolina is awaiting transfer to med school at Jefferson.

Joe D'antonio who is now married is attending med school at the University of Maryland.

Three former students, Glenn Paul, Fred Smith, Jr., and Elbert Smith, Jr., are taking training as midshipmen at Notre Dame, Indiana. George O. Beall, class of 1944 is a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve. In May of 1943 he was married to Ethel Hanners who was a member of his class at Maryville.

George Devereaux graduated from the Naval Air Training Center at Corpus Christi May 29 as an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve. Bud Pierce, a graduate of last December, is serving in the Navy.

Dave Wylie, is continuing his studies at Penn State school of Veterinary Medicine. Quentin Myers is at the Med School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Olsen Pemberton has entered Princeton Seminary in New Jersey.

Janet Lindsay of the class of 1942 taught in Florida last year. At present she is director of Christian Education at Green Ridge Presbyterian Church, Scranton, Pennsylvania.

Mary D. Cowan, now teaching home making, is located at a Presbyterian Mission school in Jamestown, Tennessee.

Lucile Cathey, a member of the Echo staff last year, will continue her studies in journalism at Chapel Hill in North Carolina.

No Change In Club Schedule to Date

No special club announcements have been reported to Dr. Hunter but further plans will soon be made. The first meeting dates will be announced either in the ECHO or in chapel. According to custom, the tentative program is for pre-vocational clubs to meet on Thursday nights and other clubs to meet Monday nights. There are some variations in this plan because of other conflicts. The old schedule of club meetings is posted on the bulletin board to the left of Dr. Hunter's office in Anderson Hall. Further announcements as to club schedules will appear on it.

In the past regular meetings have been held by the Disc and Pre-Med clubs and the Ministerial Society and various language clubs. Other organizations represent students from specified sections of the country.

—V—

Student Vols

Student Vols will hold their first devotional service this Sunday evening immediately after vespers. The new president, Paul Smith, will be the speaker. The place of meeting will be the YW rooms. This organization is especially for those students who expect to enter into missionary work but all who are vitally interested in mission work are invited to attend.

Upperclassman Gives Advice For Freshmen to Complete ARRIVAL

By JORDY MEADOWS

Into the life of every college student—frosh to the sophisticated few—comes this moment. Everyone arrives at some time or other. It almost seems as if there were some huge plot against the populus of the college campus. Maybe it's just sabotage—but it has been going on for years and years. The whole thing can be divided into phasis, but usually it just develops into one large, dark blur. When that moment arrives you can truthfully say, "I am a college student at last. I think!"

You may rest assured that you have not arrived until you came dragging up to the campus in a state of exhaustion commonly known to the scientists as "outonthefeetitis". This physical condition is reached only after miles of travel either by pony express, bus, hiking with full equipment including the trunk, or train. But this travel is really only a minor part of the final muddy blot of the process of arrival.

For Arrival, the first thing that must happen when you reach the campus is this: you must discover that by some mischievous quirk of fate you do not have your luggage. In fact, you must discover that you haven't anything that faintly resembles your luggage. This situation can be reached in two different ways. You have either picked up some nondecript suitcase in the mad scramble that occured after all the passengers have been pried from a conveyance by stevedores hired for the occasion, or else your bags decided they wanted to be alone, they didn't like the itinerary, or they were just plain ornery. In this latter case, illustrated by the three possibilities they would end up miles from where you were and where you wanted them at the moment.

After all this , things need to brighten up just a little. It would never do to call the black-cloud-silver-lining maxim a bald-faced prevaricater. To take care of the gladdening process there are the gentle, relaxing hours of standing in line for registration. This gives you a bouyant feeling because of the fact that it requires practically no mental labor. All you have to do is try to keep your body in an erect position and stand on our own two feet.

After registration you find a brief breather which you can use advantage to locate your luggage, buy books, fix your room, and attend classes. Any other little sundry things which you would like to attend to such as writing home to inform the folks that you think you are where you are supposed to be will have to be taken care of in those peculiar things called leisure hours.

The interesting thing about this Arrival is that everything happens at once, so be patient and wait for it to happen. The time that your trunk comes and you get it open just enough for everything to spill out is the psychological moment for your long lost clothes to happen on the scene. In your joy and ecstacy you will be liable to forget the trunk in order to take a glimpse at the long-lost articles of clothing. Do not forget that your roommate will be doing the same things at nearly the same time! Thus, when you find yourself seated on top of a bookcase with nowhere to lay your weary head, may be certain that you have Arrived.

Remain calm! You will be settled by May.

Faculty Entertains Nu Gamma Groups Sunday Afternoon

Founder of Nu Gamma, Former YW President, Now Lives in Maryville

Sunday, September 12, members of the faculty entertained the various Nu Gamma groups at tea. This program was instituted last year by faculty wives to fill the need in the lives of new girls who miss the normal home-life atmosphere. This year the invitation to tea was again extended, and the eleven groups were entertained in homes scattered about Maryville, including the home of the president of the college.

Agnes Peterson and Marguarite Grissett's groups were entertained by Mrs. R. W. Lloyd. Those in Agnes' group are Marie Cassucio, Fay Cameron, Martha Plemons, Carolyn Wallace, Mary Barnwell, Virginia Caswell, Mary Chapman, Carole Paxton, Martha Scanlon, Helen Cassille, Carolyn Winfrey, Jean Martin, Mary Jane Tedford, and Maybelle Rule. In Marguarite's group are Carol Titus, Katherine Bishop, Gladys Curtis, Shirley Scott, Augusta Woodward, Grace Bowers, Peggy Ann Case, Jeanne McClain, Frances Farrior, Florence Gwyn, Rosemary Davis, and Agell Kinkaid.

Mrs. H. E. Orr and Mrs. George W. Howell were co-hostesses for Lulu Calloway's group, consisting of Jean McCall. Mary Ruth Barber, Boby Jo Reed, Dorothy Crowson, Mildred Cundiff, Celeste Martino, Jeanne Blanchard, June Burns, Katherine Gore, Margaret Bussell, and Lind Prater. Catherine Crother's group was invited to Mrs. David H. Brigg's home. In the group are Annette Bills, Donna Smalley, Edith Earle, Jeanne Heaps, Virginia Miller, Mary Dillinger, Elizabeth Showalter, Virginia Clabough, Lucile Sitler, Mary Case, Mary Tom Clark, and Velma Durbin. Becky Davis' group, consisting of Dorothy Byrnes, Jane Moss Shouse, Doris Fisher, Phyllis Waring, Audre Monteith, Aldyn Graham, Lottie Lavender, Ann Haygood, Barbara

DR. ELLIOTT TO BE HEARD OVER NBC

Dr. William M. Elliott, Jr., pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Georgia, and speaker at the last year's February meetings, will speak each Tuesday morning in September at 12 o'clock E.W.T. over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company. These broadcasts are under the sponsorship of the Federal Council of Churches. The theme of the broadcasts is "Spiritual Morale." Everyone is invited to listen.

Experimental Play To Be Presented Once Each Month

Experimental theatre, this year, is being reorganized to give students who are interested in larger, more active part in the organization. Saturday night programs as a regular monthly feature are being planned. The opening date has not as yet been set.

Students who would like to act in plays or help in their production will be given an opportunity to fill out a card at the first Theta and Bainonian meetings of the year. They will also be asked to sign a pledge stating that they will learn their lines immediately after receiving their parts in the play. Cards may also be obtained from Jordy Meadows, Nancy Russell, and Thelma Richardson.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, dramatic coach and instructor, and several dramatic art students will choose and cast the one act plays, excerpts from larger plays, and skits. The coaching, however, will be done by the students. The purpose is not only to entertain, but to give people who want an active small theatre on the campus the chance to take part in its varied performances and to act in different type roles.

NOTICE

Anyone interested in trying out for the business staff of the ECHO, please see Marion Schanck before next Saturday.

Carol McCutcheon Made Chilhowean Business Manager

Wartime Precipitates Demand for Change In Photograph Method

Carol McCutcheon, a junior mathematics major, was elected business manager of the 1944 Chilhowean at a meeting of the junior class after chapel Wednesday, September 8. She was elected to replace Frances Lane, who did not return this year.

When interviewed concerning the possibilities for this year's annual, Carol said "With full cooperation of all the student body this Chilhowean would be as good an annual as those published before the war. Owing to circumstances existing because of the war, a different method will be used in taking photographs for the beek. Last year the book went into financial difficulty because all pictures handed in were not of the same size. Any pictures in the Chilhowean this year will be taken by student photographers as it is impossible for professional men to obtain photographic plates for such a large order."

All metal is rationed by district boards, but it is thought that a source of metal to make engravings has been found. Offers for engraving and printing are at the same rate per unit as Chilhowean contracts have been for several years. It should be taken into consideration that due to the war, the annual cannot be exactly as it has been other years.

Bainonian Rush Week Begins With Tea Next Tuesday

A tea for all new college women will be the first event of the annual Bainonian rush week. The tea will be given in the YW rooms next Tuesday afternoon, September 21, from 4 to 5. It has been the custom that during its rush week Bainonian arranges a tea, a watermelon feast and a formal opening.

The watermelon feast or spread is scheduled for the picnic grounds in the college woods Thursday at 4 p. m. Cynthia Johnson and Thelma Richardson, members of the rush week committee, promise a large supply of watermelons.

Climax of rush week will be the formal opening Friday at 8:00 p. m. New freshman girls, transfers, and all old Bainonian members are invited to attend the program given in the Alumni Gym. The Bainonian rush week theme is "This Changing World," and the entertainment at the formal opening will follow that theme. Further rush week details will be posted around the campus.

The officers of Bainonian for this semester are as follows: Marion Stout, president; Helen Anderson, vice-president. Marian Garvin, secretary; and Dorothy Toomey, treasurer. There will be no regular club meeting until after rush week.

French Club

The French Club met for the first time this year Thursday evening, September 9. A business meeting was held instead of the usual program. Plans for future meetings were discussed. Phyllis Irshay, junior home economics major, is vice-president. Other officers are to be elected soon. All old members are requested to be present at the next meeting Thursday, September 23.

Selection of New Choir Members At Recent Tryouts

Tryouts were held during the past week in order to fill vacancies existing in the membership of the choir. The following students were selected after musical interviews with Mr. Philip O. Jones, assistant professor of voice. New members among the soprano section are Carole Paxton, Mary Margaret Robarts, Mary Ann Wilkes and Helen Wilhoit. Altos are Patricia Ames, Gladys David, Shirley Feeney, Zenobia Bernardini, Louise Henry, Carol Reynolds, and Mary Jo White. Harold Kidder and Edward Gates are the two additions to the bass section. Six new tenors are Robert Barker, William Cover, Douglas Mac Martin, John Ross, Carroll Stegall, and James Witherspoon.

Due to the shortage of male voices, Mr. Jones plans to use four-part harmony which involves the use of accompaniment for some of the choir's repertoire. He believes there is much of that sort of music which has not been used by the choir. Consequently, he said that music accompaniment will be sung as well as the usual a capella selections.

Freshman Girls Entertained At Pi Gamma Tea

The Pi Gamma tea for freshman girls was held Thursday, September 9, at three o'clock in the YW rooms. This is an annual affair given by the town students affiliated with Y.W.C.A., to introduce themselves to and become acquainted with new students on the hill.

Mrs. Lincoln Barker, chairman of Pi Gamma advisory board; Jeanna Eddlemen, Pi Gamma chairman; and Muriel Geisler, Ruth Meineke, Mary Evelyn Walsman, Johnnye Gudel, Y.W.C.A. officers welcomed the girls. This is the first of a number of meetings being planned by Pi Gamma to bring town and dormitory students into closer, more friendly relations.

As part of the program John williams played the piano, Ruth Cathcart and Marcia Kiern sang. Louise Henry and Florence Gobillot, members of the social committee, prepared the refreshments.

Senior Class Elects Lynt and Thompson; Anderson Chosen By Juniors; Smith and Callaway, Sophomore Representatives

Elections for student council representatives were held by the senior, junior, and sophomore classes to fill the vacancies created by students not returning to Maryville College this year. These elections were held Wednesday morning after chapel in accordance with a provision in the student body constitution adopted two years ago.

Two seniors, Ben Lynt and Malcolm Thompson, were chosen to replace Chuck Dunning who is now in the Marines, and Lloyd Anderson who was just elected to represent the junior class in the council. The sophomores elected Tom Smith and Lulu Callaway to take the place of Bill Buzby and Mardee Fletcher, neither of whom have returned.

Ben Lynt is a senior English major from Washington, D. C., and has been a member of the ECHO for four years, last year serving as managing editor. In his freshman year Ben was a cheerleader, amember of the statewide championship frosh debate team of two, and was selected for one of the lead roles in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Last year he played the male lead in "Kind Lady" and pinch-hitted in a minor role for the second command performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace." He is vice-president of the Tennessee Delta chapter of the national honorary dramatic society, Theta Alpha Phi, and Pi Kappa Delta, the national honorary forensic society. Ben has also participated in Experimental Theatre productions and Writers' Workshop. He is vice-president of the Student Volunteer organization and has served on the cabinet of that group for three years. He is also a member of this year's Y.M. cabinet.

Malcolm Thompson, from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, has attended Maryville College for the last three years, transferring from School of Foreign Service, Georgetown, D. C. He is president of International Relations Club and a member of the Y.M.C.A. cabinet. Malcolm is also a member of the Athenian Society, of Student Volunteers, and the Law Club. He was one of the instigators of the fencing club of last year and has been active in other campus activities.

Lloyd Anderson, the newly elected junior member on the Student Council hails from Richmond, Virginia. Lloyd was president of his class in his freshman year, and has been on the Y.M.C.A cabinet for two years. This year he is vice-president of Y.M. Lloyd, who has been on the wrestling team for two years, is captain of the squad this year. An Athenian and premed student, he was a May Day attendant last year. He is filling the vacancy created when Abner Richards chose to accept a class office instead of the council representative of his class.

Lulu Callaway, a town student living on the hill, was the sopho-

Junior and Senior Classes Must Meet Chilhowean Bond

In past years it has been the custom of the junior class to put up a bond of $100 for security of the annual Chilhowean business. For the present, however, this requirement has been modified because of the fact that the anticipated business of the book this year is not much over half that of former years. This modification calls for a deposit of fifty dollars from the junior class and another fifty dollars from the senior class.

The following report from Miss Henry's office shows that the present senior class has in its treasury sufficient funds to meet their part of the deposit:

Deposit returned to class in 1943	$75.00
Interest on deposit	.75
Bill paid to 1943 Chilhowean	20.00
Balance on hand, certificate of deposit, May 25, 1943	55.75

The junior class has thus far collected over $40.00, $18.00 of which was carried over from last year. An urgent appeal is made to those juniors who have not yet contributed, in order that the goal which is in sight may be reached.

There are several vacancies on the ECHO for members of the junoir class. Anyone interested in trying out, be sure to attend the next staff meeting, September 28.

Writers' Workshop will meet Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Ministerials Plan New Program For Coming Semester

Arrangements Made For Initial Meeting To Be Held Sept. 23

At the meeting of the executive council last Thursday plans were formulated for the Ministerial Association's program for the coming semester. Arrangements were also made for the initial meeting, which will be held on Thursday, September 23, in Athenian hall.

The final meeting last spring was an Installation Service conducted in the college woods. At this service Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible, spoke concerning the qualifications of a successful minister, and after his message the following officers were installed:

President, Hubert Rust.

1st vice-president, Lawrence Sthreshley.

2nd vice-president, John C. Taylor.

Secretary-treasurer, Paul Moehlman.

The ministerial association is composed of fellows who have made definite decisions to do full-time Christian work or who are interested in doing Christian work and are in sympathy with its ideals. The purpose of the association is to promote the Kingdom of God, cultivate virtue, advance a knowledge of the Scriptures, and encourage those preparing for Christian service.

Former Editor of Echo Writes Feature On Chute Silk For Gowns

By JEAN BARNES

Necessity being the "mother of invention" of some rather strange descendants, fashion forecasters of the strictly originalty type are doing their forecasting now in great style. Following last week's episode of the bride gowned in discarded parachute silk, wedding wear takes off from there in several charming directions.

Like rays of little sunshine on the ration picture come the versatile suggestions as to the "very latest thing" in unreasonable facsimile of Paris creations.

Newest and perhaps most breath taking in its shiny beauty is the new gunny sack material. The goods may be purchased from any brown market, where reliable fashion experts have selected the finest pieces from army discard piles. The goods, washed once in a careful manner to preserve its fine texture, is delicately scented with laundry soap.

The shimmery material lends itself easily to pleating and tucking, and gathered gunny sack skirts are the latest fashion frill. The August bride will look radiant in a sacking dress with suntan, low-heeled feet and blonde hair.

Cool, summer, violent two-piece dresses can be cunningly fashioned from the red-orange bags commonly used to ship onions. These are charming gowns worn with patchwork colored underslip.

Masquerade dresses are becoming increasingly popular. Beautiful remnants of Hallowe'en costumes are being utilized by patriotic brides-to-be for colorful pageantry weddings. Fairy costumes or trailing colonial or princess gowns make for picturesque ceremonies. And require no shoes. Witches' costumes are also very attractive for evening weddings.

If you want to be original as well as admired, you might try an individual variation of the "Illinois Illusion." Designed by Parcelle for one of the season's debutantes. it is easily replicated. The material is ransacked mosquito netting taken from the windows of the bride's now unused yacht club. Bleached and tinted coral, the gown resembles rich lace. Styles and cuts may be varied to give you the gown of your choice. If your attic yields no old

FACULTY RECEIVES A FRESHMAN

By VERONICA APPLEPOLISH

Dim lights, glamorous formals, the strains of a Strauss waltz—all this plus the faculty of course set the scene for their reception. With that atmosphere and build-up, what more could be expected than "a good time was had by all."

After standing in line in the liquid moonlight of that eventful Monday P M, I wondered of being received by the faculty was all it was cracked up to be. Gleeps, there's a table and cards (no, they're writing on them.) If this thing isn't for free, well—. But there aren't any frogfurs or silver pennies around, so they evidently aren't charging.

"Huh, what's so unusual about spelling my name? P as in ptomaine and P as in pneumonia. Home address, Backwater. ArKANsas.

An inside voice: "Be sure and return the straight pin." SAVE PINS TO STICK HITLER.

Once inside the room and into the "grinning" line—never a dull (er) moment. (No, I really wasn't named after her. I always wear my hair short.) How-do-you-do's were much in evidence, along with toothpaste ad smiles and bored looks. The general direction of most eyes seemed to be toward what they must have hoped was the end.

(Yes, she's my first cousin. Poor dear, she's been in an asylum for all these weeks now. Thank you, I'd love to.")

Shaking hands, clasping hands, or just hello-ing with all flavors or instructing humanity — from feathers in the hair Indian style to Blue Beard's cousin five times removed. It was quite ("I just dropped my teeth." "You did. I'm so glad to hear that. It's such nice weather for sports.") interesting to play shoe-and-seek, a slight diversion of I-spy. The problem is to see how many faculty members are wearing shoes and how many advocate the comfort-first theory of bedroom slippers. For exact figures read the bulletin to be published next week.

They say freshmen are the most adept at standing in line—or maybe they are the only ones brave enough to venture out to a faculty reception. There were several seniors present (Yes, this is my first year here. Only four, I hope.") to help eat the punch and drink the cookies.

And so on, far into the night—oh, here comes a wolf.

YMCA Meeting

Sunday afternoon at 1:30 the Y.M.C.A. will hold its weekly worship service in the Fine Arts Studio in the basement of Voorhees Chapel. Dr. John Gates, who will be the speaker, has chosen for his subject "The Possessive Present." Special music will be furnished by soloist Ruth Cathcart.

Rev. William Pugh Makes Air Tour

Director of College Is Head of Chaplains

Newspapers throughout the United States and probably throughout the world are carrying pictures of Rev. Dr. William Barrow Pugh, of Philadelphia, Chairman of the General Commission on Chaplains, as he arrives in foreign countries.

With a staff assigned by the War Department he is on an airplane tour of the American Armed Forces and the chaplains around the world. He took the place and is continuing the tour of Bishop Leonard of Washington who was killed several months ago in the airplane crash in Iceland in which General Andrews and Colonel Frank L. Miller (Maryville College '14) also was killed.

Dr. Pugh's tour is of special interest to Maryville College people because he is one of the Directors of the College.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT YOUR CHILHOWEAN?

When a junior class elects an editor and business manager of the CHILHOWEAN, it is prone to withdraw any other responsibility from the duties of publishing a year book. It is the work of those two people and their staff to see that the annual is up to par. And rightly so. But, as now, when there as a possibility of a smaller book or perhaps no book at all, each of us must realize it is not the fault of those in charge.

This year there is a noticeable lack of copper and zinc—the two metals necessary for the plating and engraving of pictures. The proper chemicals are not easily secured. Local photographers are unable to get a sufficient amount of supplies even to make photographs of our student body. Films for campus snapshots are attainable only in the smallest quantities and on rare occasions.

The technicalities of publishing the book are only a part of this year's hindrances. Heretofore a large portion of the CHILHOWEAN has been devoted to the mojor sports. The 1943-44 school year holds no place in its program for any but intramurals.

Such are the shortcomings over which we have no control. However, in the event that there is the usual publication, complete cooperation of the student body is essential. If it becomes necessary for all class photographs to be made here on the campus by one photographer, you must have YOUR picture made then—or else have no likeness in the annual.

In order to sign the contract to have the metals held for us, a portion of the full payment is required. In order to do this, at least some of the money must be paid by subscribers, since there has not been time to procure advertisements as yet.

Perhaps the whole idea resembles a vicious circle, but you can do your part to make things square. The managers are doing their best to publish an annual which is up to pre-war standards, with present-day obstacles, which are growing all the time.

"UNCENSORED"

By ALGAE

Time was when we whistled in awe and amazement last year when HE was fingered out to us—HE being the only junior boy alive known to have actually kept three dates in one evening, with nary a disappointment and not a-one the wiser—but now we just stand pulse-still as Bob "Bambi" Whitford breezes by in his customary unasuming impeccability, for he has topped all previous records in one stand, hands down. "No dates this year," he'd been telling all who'd listen, and then comes the first Sat. town night, and he appears with a lovely eye-popping "four-in-hand." With no warning either . . . wonder if he'll let the other more experienced lads in on trying it on for size? or at least revealing the formula . . . our combination seems to have gotten lost in the pre-semester shuffle.

With a raise of the eyebrow and a tch! tch! tch! we launch into a recital of things-I-wouldn't-believe (but-would-pass-on) if-I hadn't-seen-itmyself, such as Jean "nine-point" Lehman's untraditional six-point low in ethical preference . . . and she didn't seem the type—maybe it goes with the new hair-do; and big-hearted freshman Stegall's letter of complaint to unsuspecting froshwoman Kincaid, causing a feminine freshman furore in the otherwise peaceful Baldwin sanctuary; and, just for a change, Lyle Knaupp bringing his own . . . unpatriotic maybe, but nice work if you can get it; upper-class women standing around in little groups and doing a good imitation of the old-time "drug-store cowboy" at the passing favored few . . . sort of like looking through the large end of a telescope . . . it cannot was. (Ed. Note: the words "favored few" in the foregoing mangling of the human language modifies the term — (one year) — "twenty-two freshman boys", count 'em). But wouldn't our friend Kipling be gratified at being right about them which is the more deadly of the species. Whatta war!

Cited for an award for excellence in timing is Jean Messer, for the past week's performance . . . or don't you know what we mean? Uniform variety (to coin a paradox) with gestures by the light of the bookstore tower. May we suggest, by way of suitable award, something snappy in a fuschia fur-lined eye-cup, complete with zipper and chimes?

School spirit in person, is his name. Lawrence "Man of Feeling" (apologies to McKenzie) Sthreshley has been working over-time, and at practically no salary at all, to defeat the law of "diminishing returns" and keep up froshwomen morale . . . very touching, and did you know it was "Mother" Sthreshley now? too! yet.

And while we're speaking of "sugar 'n' spice" and stuff like that there, Muriel Geisler left the back row of Y.M. with their mouths agape last Sunday in the (now I get the meaning) Fine Arts Studio. "Principle" speaker she was, no less, and the all-girl-except-for-the-introduction program was esthetically satisfying, including Frances Harris (gulp) Grosh's super singing, a fair exchange, and a nice habit.

What dainty hand, we used to wonder (like should we or shouldn't we gamble that two-cent stamp on a new set of biceps) mixed that lovely brew served annually along with cookies and candles at the faculty deception in the disguised end of the Library—and then we looked behind the scenes last time and saw a delicate creature with eight hands dipping polite portions of the potion (or vice-versa) from an over-grown Monday-morning blue wash tub. Nice though, that B. J.'s faith held out and the punch with it, at least for twice around the faculty ring, with a short stop between second and third. But, yes, of course we always go—'tis, forsooth, the one time of the year when faculty and students can greet each other in perfect harmony, or a reasonably accuarte facimile thereof, with exams and such (impedimenta) but hazy unrealities.

And that mob of milling maids at Sat. night's lawn party was not gathered 'round Frankie-boy Sinatra of even Superman (not Douglas, silly, THE Superman) but that verve-conscious bow-tie and smile—Dr. F.A. B.A. M.S. Ph.D. Griffitts, who was just rounding off a "fifthly" on the subject of extra-curricular orientation, or something equally engrossing. We took a rain-check and dropped in on the mermen and maids in the college . . . pool . . . some drop, some drip, others like us just plain droop.

With a tally-ho and a jingle jangle of spurs, up to the Y-room door rode the "beard" of Maryville for last Monday's meeting of I.R.C. . . Frankly we're fond of the hirsute facial, astride OR on foot. "The bird in that bush is worth a dozen . . ."

Gotta go, gotta go . . . here comes old icy-fingers . . . and me with Coco-cala hands.

HERE AND ABOUT

By Robert F. Huber

WHAT ARE WE FIGHTING FOR?

With the capitulation of Italy and with the increasing rate of Allied victories all over the globe, total victory does not appear to be in the too far distant future. Within a relatively short span of time America and the peoples of the other Allied nations will be confronted with the problems of a peace for this bleeding world. But before anyone can possibly plan a peace program he must have some foundation upon which to base his ideas, in other words he must know why he fought the war. And today that question has reared itself before the American people and demands an answer. Just what are we fighting for? What do we stand for; what are our principles?

OUR WAY OF LIFE

Most people would answer that question with the reply that we are fighting for our way of life and to preserve those things that are decent in the world. Well, just what is meant by our way of life? Does it mean that we are to permit recurrances of race riots such as happened recently in Harlem, Detroit, and Los Angeles? Does it mean that no one will be permitted to get a job without first paying tribute to a labor union and does it mean that our lives are to be planned by the government? Such is the philosophy of many of our present day leaders who advocate increased federal control over the individual as well as industry. Or do the American people have another conception of our way of life, one where a person has the right to work where he pleases, where his person is safe from the attacks of others, and where he will be economically secure. Is it not this latter way of life for which our boys are giving their lives?

THE FOUR FREEDOMS

Others would answer the query with the reply that we are fighting for the four freedoms, that they are the bases of our democratic philosophy, and that any peace we make must be based on them as the pro cocorum. But first we must ask ourselves if these are really basic and all inclusive.

Recently Fulton Lewis, Jr. devoted one of his daily radio broadcasts to a discussion of the four freedoms, pointing out that prisoners in Sing-Sing enjoy these same freedoms and that a politically subjugated people could also exercise them. The New Deal has purposely crammed them down the throats of the American people so they would forget other and more fundamental freedoms. Mr. Lewis described freedom of individual enterprise as the fifth freedom, the one which the New Deal has for twelve years tried to obliterate.

Should we have a world order based on Mr. Roosevelt's scanty four freedoms or have it primarily based on the American Bill of Rights which guarantees seventeen basic freedoms? No one set of assured freedoms will suffice, but individual nations and persons must rely on their own ingenuity and resourcefulness to protect themselves.

FEED THE WORLD

Henry A. Wallace, "farmers' friend", would probably answer that question with a reply such as this: We must feed the world; we must put a quart of milk on the door-step of every hottentot each day. Such are the post war plans of "horrible Henry" and his crowd.

It may be a sound and humane policy to help the world get back on its feet economically but to create a world-wide WPA is sheer tommy-rot and bunk. The old seventeenth century theory of paternalism which Henry and his side-kick Harry have tried to resurrect is too outmoded for the complex society of the twentieth century. It completely disregards the abilities of individuals to take care of themselves, and is that not itself one of the bases of democracy? Surely this is not what we are fighting for!

Mrs. Orr Gives New Books To Library

Best Sellers Also Added to Collection

Among the books recently added to the collection in the college library are two given by Mrs. E. E. Orr, sister-in-law to Dr. Horace E. Orr, member of the college faculty. The books are "Ahe Meaning of Repentance" by William Douglas Chamberlain and "Prayer" by Dr. George A. Buttrick. Mrs. Orr gave these two books in momory of Dr. Robert I. Gammon, a former pastor in Knoxville.

Several other books have been purchased by the library which will prove to be of special interest to the college students. Among the books are several fiction selections including "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas, William Saroyen's "Human Comedy", Davenport's "Valley of Decision", "Hungry Hill" by DuMarier, and Sinclair's "Dragon's Teeth".

Books which have been added to the reading room collection include "Between the Thunder and the Sun" by Vincent Sheean, Eve Curie's "Journey Among Warriors", "Into the Valley" by Hershey, "Gaudalcanal Diary" by Richard Tregaskis, and T. J. Hamilton's "Appeasement's Child". The library has also purchased Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln". This work appears in four volumes.

M Club Plans Big Year of Sports For College Girls

Girls' sports for the fall term have not yet gotten completely under way, but plans are being assembled and a big year is anticipated. The intramural activities of the fairer sex will occupy a more important place than ever in the sports limelight since the male element will be slightly deficient this year.

M Club is starting things off with a tennis tournament and then will swing into hikes around the loop, soccer, basketball, swimming, track, and the many other sports which it has customarily pursued. To those girls who are new here at Maryville, it might be explained that they are all invited to sign up for point system. In this system, sponsored by M Club, a certain number of points is given to each girl for the dIfferent intramural activities in which she participates. At the end of the year those who have obtained 500 points or over are entitled to a sweater and the letter "M", while those receiving 400 points or more will be awarded a letter.

Girl Transfers To Maryville College From India

Carol Elizabeth Titus, of Lucknow, India, has registered at Maryville College and will enter as a sophomore. She is transferring from Isabella Thoburn College at Lucknow, where she was a student last year. Her father and mother have been missionaries in India for many years and in recent years her father, Rev. Dr. M. T. Titus, has been president of Lucknow Christian College, India, an institution enrolling 1400 men operating under the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions.

Their recent trip from India to the United States required three months and took them around the southern end of Africa and around the tip and up the coast of South America. They had interesting experiences on the way.

Mrs. Edmund W. Davis and Mrs. E. R. Hunter were co-hostesses for Miriam Gutzke's group, consisting of Kathryn Dean, Lois Annette Vaughn. Gladys David, Lela Winn, Beth Huftalen, Ruth Kave, Gwen Jahnke, Anne York, Patricia Ames, Jean Ange, and Geneva Berrong. Cynthia Johnson's group was invited to Mrs. Dave Proffitt's. Jean Messer, Jane Will, Dorothy Stults, Sarah Enloe, Eleanor Kelley, Pauline Lickteig, Jane Craig, Virginia Lee Thomas, Jeanne Carmichael, Ernestine Harrison, Mary Kendall, and Suzanne Leighton are in Cynthia's group. Those in Thelma Richardson's group are Ruth Lloyd, Betty Ruth Parker, Shirley Feeney, Frances Hamilton, Virginia Bunn, Dorothy McKee, Sue Whitaker, Judy Turk, Olinde Ahrens, Carolyn Leonard, Wanda Norman, and Ruth King Wood. Mrs. Lincoln Barker entertained them. Mrs. Raymond Dollenmayer was the hostess for Eleanor Stout's group, made up of Betty Montgomery, Betty Lou Boyatt, Eva Mae Campbell, Mildred McCamy, Mary Cecil, Jean Magill, Ann Ephigian, Carol Peake, Mary Robinette, Katherine Franklin, and Margaret Gibson. Mrs. Augustus Sisk invited those in Helen Marie Wilson's group to her home. They are Charlotte Proffitt, Doris White, Williamina Broadhead, Jacky Odom, Catherine Stout, Dorothy Scott, Barabara Well, Gwen Rogers, Helen Wilhoit, Vera Ross, and Lois Wilkes.

The official name for Nu Gamma is Nu Gamma Sigma. It was organized about 1924 to fill the need for a definite program for welcoming new girls and helping them become acquainted with college people and college ways. The Nu Gamma groups meet each Sunday afternoon for the first six weeks of school. The meetings culminate in an early morning breakfast in the college woods. Some of the groups have had picnics or cooked in the YW rooms. Two of the groups met the founder of Nu Gamma, a Mrs. Franklyn who was president of the YW in 1923-24. Her home is now in Maryville.

Sunday will be the annual Nu Gamma meeting for YW. The Nu Gamma leaders will have complete charge of the program. Agnes Peterson, leader of this year's Nu Gamma work, will bring a message entitled "Youth Time."

Miss Caldwell, Former Dean, Celebrates Birth

Served on Maryville Faculty for 37 Years; One of Oldest Members

Miss Mary E. (Molly) Caldwell was 80 years old last Saturday, September 11. She observed her birthday at her home on Miller street, a half block off the Maryville College campus.

"Miss Molly" was born in Texas September 11, 1863, during the Civil War and in due time entered the Maryville College Preparatory Department and continued on through the college to receive her degree. After graduation she served two years as principal of the Maryville city schools of that day, followed by one year as instructor and four years as matron of the only girls' dormitory at the college. Then came seven years as principal of Huntsville Academy at Huntsville, Tennessee. But she returned to the College where she again was matron of the girls' dormitory for nine years. When other dormitories were built, she was in charge of one of them and Dean of Women for another 23 years. In 1936, at the age of 73, she retired from active service and is now Dean of Women Emeritus.

Her 37 years of active service on the Maryville College faculty is the longest on the institution's history except the services of Dr. Isaac Anderson, the founder and first president (38 years); Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, first a professor and then the fifth president (46 years); Dr. Jasper C. Barnes, first a professor and later also Dean (38 years); and Mrs. Nita Eckles West of the present faculty, now beginning her 40th year of service.

"Miss Molly" Caldwell and her sister, Mrs. Emma L. Worley, for many years also a member of the College staff, make their home together near the campus where so many of their years have been invested.

Mr Gill Wilson Address Air Corps, Maryville Students

World of Tomorrow And Opportunities Is Theme of His Talk

Wednesday morning, September 15, the guest chapel speaker was Mr. Gill Robb Wilson, the state aviation director of New Jersey, president of National Aviation Association, and originator of the Civil Aeronautics Patrol. Mr. Wilson, who has been a pilot for 27 years, was a World War pilot in France. He is a member of the army reserve air corps and has been for 19 years. At present he is technical adviser for many manufacturing and commercial concerns. To add to his list of accomplishments, he is also a Presbyterian minister, having graduated from Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. Mr. Wilson has a daughter, who is matriculating at Wilson College in Pennsylvania, and two sons in the Navy.

The topic of Mr. Wilson's talk centered on the world of tomorrow and its attendant opportunities and responsibilities. "In the last 24 months more lives have been lost than at any other time in the history of the world", said Gill. "Yet the world is of greater hope, more possibilities; we are nearer the goals of human achievement. We have the tools for the first time to create a human brotherhood."

Five years ago, Mr. Wilson flew the Atlantic in 44 hours; in the last few months he has convoyed thousands of airplanes to England and Russia, the time required being less than eight hours. In some instances the crossing took only 5 hours. He cited another instance to prove the growing proximity of the world—a pilot who had called Gill at his home had 48 hours before been 13,000 miles away on the other side of the earth—as far away as he could be. Since the world is growing closer together Gill told his audience, "The opportunities to tomorrow's world will be more than anyone ever dreamed. We are going to have a chance to tell these truths of Christendom to all the world. False philosophies which have caused trouble in the past will have some competition. They will fade away because of the competition of the truth."

Concerning the tasks in tomorrow's world Gill said, "There will be a redistribution of the population of the world. Within 25 years after the war human distribution will be completely changed. A readjusting of the map of Europe cannot solve the problem of opposition of small minorities. The redistribution of the population is the only way to do so." In continuing in this line of thought, Mr. Wilson further stated that "140,000,000 people would be picked up and set down on the other part of the world only 24 hours from their ancestral homes. They will be in touch with medical needs, and the radio will be bringing news of the world constantly." In order to prepare for the gigantic tasks of tomorrow, machinery and equipment are being constructed. The latest freight airplane will have a cubic capacity larger than the capacity of the Chapel auditorium. It will seat448, and have the horse-power of 3 locomotives. Then, the materials that go with it to bring about world distribution of population and articles of trade will include prefabricated houses. Machinery is being constructed according to weight specifications. Kitchens and outside facilities such as windmills are in production now. All

Sunday Vespers

Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology, will be the speaker at the regular Sunday evening vesper service held in the chapel, September 19. He has chosen as title for his address "A Strong Man Bound."

Special music will be presented by the vesper choir under the direction of assistant professor Philip O. Jones, instructor in voice.

Bowditch and Wise Cabinet Appointees

Nu Gamma Group Has YW Program Sunday

Nu Gamma will be in charge of the regular worship service held at Y. W. Sunday afternoon, September 19. Agnes Peterson, junior biology major and Nu Gamma chairman, will be the speaker. She has chosen as her topic "Youth Time". The Nu Gamma leaders will participate in the service.

Two girls have been appointed to positions on the Y. W. cabinet to fill vacancies. Lenore Wise, senior home economics major, is the new chairman of devotions, replacing Ethel Hanners Beall and Ruth Anderson, who did not return to school this fall. Miriam Bowditch, junior religious education major, is now chairman of the mission, filling the position vacated by Mary Metcalf Fershee. Margaret Messer, junior biology major, and Bette Lou McCoy, sophomore religious education major, represent the Y.W.C.A. as assistants in the Chatterbox, the Y store.

The Y.W. rooms are available for individual and group use. There are, however, certain rules governing the use of the rooms which, if observed, will enable everyone to enjoy the same privileges. The rooms are open during the day, but the kitchen is kept locked.

The following are the rules, which must be observed:

1. Please notify house committee when removing chairs.
2. Sign the card on the bulletin board for reservation of the rooms or kitchen stating time desired.
3. Fifteen cents is charged for the use of the kitchen or rental of any utensils.
4. Leave the rooms clean and as you found them.
5. Do NOT move piano or lean upon it. (This is very important as one leg is weak and another broken. Please observe this rule.)
6. Be sure stove is turned off before leaving.
7. Empty all garbage in cans under outside stairway.
8. Scour sink after using and sweep kitchen before leaving.
9. Hang up tea towels and use only for drying dishes. The tablecloths are meant for tablecloths only.
10. Return keys as soon as possible after using.

Information and keys may be obtained from either Jeanne Bellerjeav 59 Pearsons, or Marion Garvin, 39 Pearsons. Suggestions for improving the YW rooms will be gratefully accepted.

News Reviewed At First Meeting Of IRC Monday Night

The International Relations Club held its first regular meeting of the year 1943-44 in the Y.W. rooms Monday evening, September 13. Miriam Wickham, a sophomore psychology major, reviewed currentnew topics of interest.

Malcolm Thompson, a senior history major, presided during the business meeting. An amendment to the constitution concerning an opening of membership limits was discussed. This amendment will be formally considered at the next meeting of the organization. Previous to this time the membership has been limited to twenty-five students interested in world affairs.

Carol Titus, a sophomore transfer student from Isabelle Thorburn College in India, will present her views of the situation existing in India today at the next meeting of the club Monday evening, September 27.

Malcolm Thompson is president of the organization with Marguerite Grissett as vice-president, Miriam Wickham as secretary, and Bette Lou McCoy as treasurer. Dr. Hill Shine, professor of English, is the new faculty adviser succeeding Dr. Verton M. Queener who has been granted a year's leave of absence in order to accept a government position in Washington, D. C.

BG Society Elects Hoole President

Miss Ware Replaces Mrs. Pieper As Sponsor

Vickie Hoole, a senior sociology major from New York City, has been elected president of the "BG" society. Cordelia Dellinger and Mary Jean Partridge were elected treasurer and program secretary respectfully. Cordelia is a senior biology major from Pensacola, Florida. Miss Margaret Ware, dietitian and manager of the dining hall, has been chosen sponsor, replacing Mrs. A. F. Pieper.

The three newly chosen members to the society are Ellen Pascoe, Leslie Ford, and Louise Moughton. Ellen is a junior majoring in sociology. She is from Perkasie, Pennsylvania. Nature Club

Martha Jeane Shaw has announced that the first meeting of the Nature club will be held next Monday evening, September 20, at 6:45 in Miss Green's lecture room, 308 Fayerweather Science Hall. Martha Jeane, who is president, is planning the program of the club to include several definite projects, so that the activities of the club will be of greater interest to those attending the meetings.

(Cynthia Johnson is the artist who made the above cut for this column. We wish to thank her for the work she has done for the ECHO.)

Ken Cooper, business manager of the ECHO last year, is now in the chemical division of the Army Specialized Training Program at Camp Roberts, California. Also in the same division are two former Maryville students, Bob Solomon and Jim Walker.

Jim Faulkner is stationed at Ft. McClellan in Anniston, Alabama. He has won a marksman's metal and is now a candidate for the ASTP, in which he will receive college training. Last year Jim was business manager of the CHILHOWEAN.

Pfc. Sidney Duke is in the medical division of the Army V-12 special training program at Northwestern University in Chicago. Sid will be remembered as editor of the CHILHOWEAN and a member of Who's Who in 1942-43.

Sworn into the WAVES Saturday, September 10 was Phyllis Anne Cain, '43, former staff editor of the ECHO. She will enter training at officer candidate school at Smith college in Massachusetts. Already and ensign in the same division is Ruth Duggan, '42, former choir member at Maryville.

Ray Swartzback, last year's sophomore class president, is in the infantry at North Camp Hood, Texas. He is at an Army Specialized Training Base.

Corporal Oliver Van Cise, '43, is in the service unit at San Bruno and Camp Stoneman, California, Van says he metPfc. Art Rowan of the medical corps the night before the latter left for the Orient.

Not so far from Maryville is Apprentice Seaman Lloyd Taylor, 42. He is studying at the medical school at Duke University. As a first year medical student he ranked high scholastically in his class. Also at med school is Charles McCammon, who is studying at Vanderbilt. Frank George is finishing his third quarter at the Universtiy of Tennessee medical school in Memphis. He is also in the ASTP.

A son, John D. Clinkman, junior, was born to Lieutenant and Mrs. John D. Clinkman, September 1. Mrs. Clinkman was before her marriage Miss Arlene Phelps, artist for the ECHO during her college days here. Both she and her husband graduated in 1940. At present Lieutenant Clinkman is stationed somewhere in England.

Bill Felkner, former editor of the ECHO, and Pfc. Bob Pascal are both stationed in the headquarters office of the army air base at Mountain Home, Idaho. Small world.

Mr. Raymond J. Dollenmayer, former associate professor of Bible at Maryville, is receiving his indoctrination training at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. He willbecome a chaplain in the U.S. Navy, with the rank of lieutenant (s.g.) which corresponds to a captain in the Army.

Betty Moore became a member of the Coast Guard Saturday, July 17. Lieutenant (j.g.) John Ballinger is stationed at New Orleans.

Mack Wilson is in the college training program of the marines at Millsaps College, Jackson, Mississippi. He has been stationed there since the first of July. The last of October Mack will be sent to Paris Island, and then on to Quantico, with Chuck Dunning. After completion of the training at Quantico, Mack will be commissioned a lieutenant. He expects to visit on the campus in November. September 16, Mack wrestled in an exhibition match at camp in Mississippi.

Corporal Don Black is stationed in Buffalo, New York, attending the Curtiss-Wright factory school, and specializing in Curtiss Commandos, a cargo plane being used in China at present. Don will be in New York until the end of September. BobBryant is a paratrooper in Sicily. He participated in the Sicilian campaign.

Livingston Hislop was at a port of embarkation in July, so he is probably in the service abroad.

of these articles can be sent with the persons, redistributed to insure maximum comfort and contact with the rest of the world. At present, squadrons are being sent out with kits which can be used wherever they land. Formerly, the kits were designed for specific places and parts of the world. The "sum and substance of all new transportation and communication is to make the world available for humanity." For, there is "10 times the wealth of the world than has ever been utilized, in parts of the earth never explored and used."

Before we can hope for success, Mr. Wilson pointed out that intelligence was of prime necessity. "Tomorrow, Maryville will be in competition with Heidelberg, Offord, and Cambridge. In the next 10 years when we pick up the Knoxville paper, we will see advertisements from London, Madrid, Berlin. There will be international advertisement of fruit and vegetables which today we don't know the name of." The standards of life in tomorrow's world will be in excess of anything yet dreamed.

To press home the fact that a greater knowledge will be a necessity in the struggle for survival, Gill Wilson claimed that "in tomorrow's world, any American school teacher who doesn't know that the North Pole is the crossroads of the world, that the atmosphere is just 4 miles deep and pilots can find perpetually fair weather by flying above it, will have nothing to teach." Furthermore, "anyone who has an assent as bad as most foreign language teachers will not be able to get a job. Even in business we shall have to be bi-lingual." But, Gill cautioned us, "in attaining a high cultural development, it is very necessary that the fundamentals be mastered; then, we can build the superstructure."

In closing, Gill addressed his words to the air corps detachment. He felt that these American lads were doing a great job. Said he, "We have tried to design programs which would make us the best in the world. It is the toughest training program ever devised. The German boy started in kindergarten. Our boys don't need to be rough and tough, goosestepping fellows. Working out one's own tactics, using one's own initiative proves better on the front. And our boys have shown their individual initiative and capacity. The average pilot of America can't be licked by any average pilot of any country. England is not quite up to us for they have not had the mechanical equipment." To the rest of us he said, "When they get 'em licked, I hope the people who aren't physically able to fight or those who have held jobs on the home front, will have done as fine a job as our boys."

In recalling his own world war days, Gill mentioned that "I had wanted to get home and tuck a wife under my arm, set up my home, raise some kids. I didn't care whether I ever saw another airplane. But when these boys come back, their knowledge and skill in radiology, flying and so forth is going to permeate American business and living."

His final closing thought was a challenge to us, that "it is a brand new world, a new oyster, yours to open. You have the finest potential materials and tools to work with of any generation in humanity, and it is yours to make of it what you will."

netting, a community salvage drive may prove helpful.

Should transportation, material and such stuff continue to progress toward the minor quantity, this modern wedding may be quite typical:

"A picturesque wedding was held Friday for Miss Forgeter, in Milwaukee, and Captain J. Smith, in San Francisco. The ceremony was read in the sidewalk phone booth adjacent to the bride's home by the Rev. J. Gospiel.

"The bride was lovely in a gown of new gunny sack; the dress was of regulation length, with drawstring neckline and full dark skirt. She wore at her neck one large pin, the gift of the groom.

"Her attendants were dressed with gowns of similar style made of burlap, with matching hair and accessories.

"The bride wore a corsage of pressed flowers. She was also wearing a floral head tiara which was set in her hair with solitary bobby-pin.

"The wedding ceremony was shouted at about 8:50 Friday evening at a special night wedding rate, offered by the telephone company.

"Following the wedding a reception was held for the couple, the bride being feted at the C-For-Duration hotel in Milwaukee and the groom left immediately for, and will return sometime.

"Traditional rice and old shoes were featured at the going away party. The rice pudding was made for the wedding by the bride's maternal grandmother. The old shoes were wrapped in tissue paper and shoestrings and were a polished collection of size 6.

"The bride wore for her traveling suit a hiking suit of dyed, heavenly-blue awning material. She will be at home on the graveyard shift of the Platoonia Aircraft company, Platoonia."

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will have its opening meeting September 23. All members and visitors are invited to come, and a special invitation is extended to all freshmen.

Plans will be discussed for a picnic which will be in the near future.

It has been decided that a certain part of the time for each meeting will be used for a discussion of a Spanish province. The first discussion will be on Castille by Bob Bruce.

An announcement will be made in chapel concerning the meeting place.

Pianist, Soprano And String Symphony To Appear On Artists Series Program

2nd Performance Given By Farbman String Symphony

Richard Karbel And Eileen Farrell Also To Perform In Chapel

Professor George D. Howell has announced, as chairman of the Artists' series committee, that there will be a full program this year although no definite dates have been scheduled for the performances. Numbered among the programs will be Eileen Farrell, America's great new soprano, Richard Korbel, eight-year old piano prodigy, and last year's favorites, the Farbman String Symphony.

From her first singing appearance in New York in December, 1940, Miss Eileen Farrell has been recognized by audiences and music critics alike as one of the most promising young artists to have come along in many a day. With one aria, sung for Charles L. Wagner, she proved conclusively that hers was one of the richest and most beautiful voices America has so far produced, and that she was endowed with temperament and the intelligence requisite to a brilliant career.

At her first New York appearance, she was recognized immediately as the possesser of a voice comparable to the gifted Rosa Ponselle's, and this attractive Rhode Islander soon found herself a distinct part of New York's musical life. Given the best of coaching, dramatic instruction, training in several languages, and the opportunity to build a large repertoire, it was only a question of time before the attractive young soprano was given her "break" on the radio.

One radio program on the Columbia Network was enough to convince Columbia officials that they had made a sensational discovery in Eileen Farrell. Signed to a three-year contract and given her own programs in a select Saturday evening series, she began at once to build an enormous radio following — one that has grown steadily and increases weekly.

The eight-year old pianist, Richard Korbel, has had a most successful reception in New York City by the concert lovers of the masters. Unlike most child prodigies, young Master Korbel does not come from California. He was born in New York City on December 27th, 1934. When he was two

Twenty-Two Now In MC Orchestra

Rehearsals Started For Handel's "Messiah"

Maryville College orchestra "tryouts" were held the second week of school in the Fine Arts Studio. Within a week, new members had been chosen and now [illegible] rehearsals which are held at 3:30 P.M. every Tuesday and Thursday.

The orchestra is composed of the following twenty-two people, including new members as well as those of last year: Violins, Jessie Lou Brunson, Fay Cameron, Eva May Campbell, Louise Corbett, Harold Eaken, Estelle Farrow, Rosalind Garges, Mabel Longmire, Ruth Lloyd, Lenore Wise; Flutes, Marylie Deyarmon, Lucille Sitter, Helen Underwood, Carol Gillette; Trumphets, Harry Ferguson, John Poland; Cello, Lois Graf; Bassoon, Bill Cover; Trombone, Harold Kidder; Horn, Mary Barnwell; Tympani, Jeanne Carmichael, and Viola, Peggy Fisher.

Although they hope to accomplish other things, the main work of the orchestra this semester will be accompanying "The Messiah" on which rehearsals have already started.

Two school instruments, a cello and a bass violin, are yet unused. Anyone interested in trying out for these instruments, please see Mrs. Horne in the Fine Arts Studio soon.

Gates and Hobart Make High Scores On Soph Tests

Each spring Maryville conducts examinations to determine the standing of the sophomore class. All students who have been classified as sophomores at any time during the year are required to take them. These tests are given in colleges and universities all over the country, their purpose being to compare the sophomore classes of the different schools.

In the tests held April 15, 1943, Maryville's class ranked well above the national norm. In English mechanics the sophomore class ranked in the sixtieth percentile. This is ten points above the national average on a percentile basis— that is, where national average is fixed at fifty. In general science the sophomore class ranked in the fifty-fourth percentile, or four points above the national average. Last year's sophomore class ranked in the 60th percentile in English mechanics and in the 58th percentile in general science.

The six students making top-ranking scores on the English mechanics were as follows.

Edward Gates, Freda Buller, Eleanor Anthony, Anita Cabbage, Virginia Cain, William Robarts.

The five students making the top score on the general science test were:

Richard Hobart, Willis Sanderson, Anita Cabbage, Agnes Lodwick, Martha Shaw.

Honors Work Begun By Two Seniors In Biology and Math

Only two seniors are doing honors work this year according to Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter, Dean of Curriculum and Chairman of the Division of Language and Literature. Ruth Meineke, senior mathematics major is pursuing advanced work in her field of interest. Ruth is from Cincinnati and is vice-president of Y.W. this year. She has worked in the treasurer's office of the college for three years.

Cordelia Dellinger, senior biology major, is from Crossnore, North Carolina. She is making a study of the brain sells of a cat, also preparing slides to be used by future students. Cordelia has been a biology assistant for three years and is a member of "B.G."

A student must be a senior in order to be eligible for honors work. The work involves as much study as a three or four hour course taken for the last two semesters. Six hours credit is given for work finished. A written report is to be handed in following completion of a study. A copy of these reports is to be kept in the college ligrary for future reference. This work enables a student to be graduated with honors in his special field.

Under normal circumstances about fifteen students undertake honors work. Dr. Hunter believes that following the war more seniors will take up honors study.

MESSIAH PRACTICE

Handel's Messiah will be sung early in December, an annual event to which Maryville music lovers look forward. Mr. Philip O. Jones, director, is extending this invitation through the Echo to all interested members of the faculty and student body to join in singing the Messiah. Army Air Corps Cadets who will be able to attend rehearsals and the final performance in December are given a special invitation to participate. Rehearsal will begin on Sunday, October 10, at 3:00 p. m. in the Chapel.

Pearsons Elects Miller President

Betty Jane Miller is the newly elected president of Pearsons hall. Other new officers include: Cordelia Dellinger, vice-president; Margaret Messer, secretary-treasurer. Floor chairmen were also chosen. They are: second floor, Minnie Davis; third floor, Betty Meyer; fourth floor, Lois Yahe.

War Stamp Drive

Last week Maryville College began the sale of war stamps and bonds in cooperation with our country's Third War Loan Drive. The first day of sales netted $187.-20, aided by the purchase of three bonds by faculty members.

Charts which indicate progress being made in the sales have been placed in Pearson's and Thaw Hall. Planes are directed toward Berlin and Toyko and move one inch closer for each $10.00 worth of stamps sold.

The total of last year's sales was $1500. The full cooperation of every student is needed if that amount is to be surpassed.

Dr. Barbour To Speak Wednesday

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, will be the speaker at the chapel service next Wednesday morning, October 6.

According to the ECHO's publication schedule, the next issue will be October 16.

Chilhowean Will Be Published This Year, Says Editor

Photos of Students To Be Made Here For Small Cost

Dorothy Lehman, Chilhowean editor for the year, has recently selected her editorial staff. Those to serve on it are Marian Garvin, Agnes Peterson, and Cynthia Johnson. Their specific positions will be designated at a later date.

Carol McCutcheon has appointed three people to help on the business staff. They are: Ellen Pascoe, Jane Short, and Marian Schneeweiss.

According to the editor, we have definite assurance that the Chilhowean will be published this year. Indefinite arrangements due to the shortage of photographic plate make it necessary that all students will have to have their pictures made on the campus according to specifications given by the printer. This will assure uniformity in the book and be more economical for the students. Last year much difficulty and expense had to be faced because of the various sizes of photographs. The photographer will be on the campus sometime for making these pictures. The fee will be $1.00 or less.

Mr. John Benson, a representative of the printing company, is to be here soon to begin making informal shots for the yearbook. He has been responsible for the good informal pictures carried in recent editions.

The enthusiasm of the students shown in backing up the Chilhowean has helped the staff to have been able to draw up these final agreements with the engraver and printer.

Mr. Fred L. Proffitt Succumbs To Heart Attack Thursday

Connected With Maryville College Forty-Two Years

FUNERAL SUNDAY

Was Prominent In Educational And Business Centers

Maryville College suffered a heavy loss on Thursday in the death of Treasurer Fred Lowry Proffitt. He had several heart attacks in recent weeks and days but had not been considered in serious danger until Wednesday night when he suffered an acute attack On Thursday morning he was taken to Ft. Sanders hospital, Knoxville, for treatment but died during the afternoon.

The funeral service is to be in the college chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by President Lloyd and Rev. Dr. W. H. Crothers, former pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. The pall bearers will be from the men of the faculty. Honorary pall bearers will include the directors of the college, the men of the faculty, and the session of the New Providence Church. There will be a student guard of honor arranged by the student council. The body will be in state at the chapel for one hour before the service.

Mr. Proffitt has long been one of the most prominent and responsible officers of Maryville College. For 29 years he has been the Treasurer and as such has not only had charge of the money but has directed the extensive investment program of the institution. He has given council and help in all departments of the College.

Before becoming Treasurer he was for three years Principal of the large Preparatory Department, which has now been closed for many years, and Professor of Education. For three earlier years he was instructor in mathematics and physics and proctor of Carnegie Hall. Not only had he taken his college course and received the B.A. degree at Maryville College but he had received also three years of his preparatory training here. Thus he has been connected with the college 42 years, seven as a student and 35 as a teacher or an officer.

Mrs. Proffitt, who survives him, is also a Maryville graduate and a former teacher in the college. Their three daughters and two of their three sons-in-law are Maryville graduates.

Mr. Proffitt was an elder in the New Providence Church, chairman of the Maryville Planning Commission, first vice-president of the Southern Association of Colleges and University Business Officers, and has held many other places of honor and responsibility.

At the College he has always had a sincere liking for students, as well as interest in the important business administration in his charge He was an enthusiastic supporter of athletics and has been treasurer of the Athletic Association for more than a quarter of a century. He believed earnestly in the Christian purposes and program of the college and sought to strengthen and advance them.

Mrs. Elena Zimmerman Joins College Faculty

The Maryville College faculty announces the addition of a new member to its body. Mrs. Elena Irish Zimmermann, of Knoxville, Tennessee, has been appointed as instructor in piano. Mrs. Zimmermann holds a Bachelor of Music and a Master of Music degree, both degrees having been received from Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina. She is also a former student of Mrs. H. W. Shugart of Knoxville. Last year she held a teaching fellowship at Converse.

She is a member of Pi Kappa Lamdba, national honorary music fraternity of the Rho Chapter, in South Carolina. Before she was eighteen she played in five state contests, three of which she won. In addition she has played recitals at Converse and in various Knoxville music clubs.

Besides conducting college work, she will also teach some classes in pre-school music for children. In these classes there will be taught notation, rhythm, and hand-building for piano playing.

MR. PROFFITT

U. of T. Sponsors Six Winter Concerts

Pon, Kreisler, Levant To Appear

The University of Tennessee is sponsoring six well-known artists in its winter series of programs. The first will be a presentation of Goethe's "Faust" with Frances Greer and other members of the Metropolitan Opera Company on November 1. The opera will be under the direction of Charles L. Wagner.

Fritz Kreisler, the world's foremost violinist will present a concert December four. He is best known to the musical world for his composition "The Old Refrain."

On January 19, there will be a concert by the well-known pianist and participant on the radio program, "Information Please", Oscar Lenant.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will provide the program for February 14. Maestro Dimitri Metropoulos is th conductor of this famous orchestra.

The Ballet Theatre will present a program of dancing March 27. This group is noted for their skill, grace and entertainment.

Lily Pons, only coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera will sing on April 18.

Those students wishing to attend these concerts must find a means of transportation. Due to the war, it is impssible to charter busses as was formerly done. Anyone interested in purchasing tickets should contact Miss Katherine Davies, professor of music, or assistant professor Philip O. Jones.

Theta Epsilon

Saturday, October 2 at 6:45 Theta Epsilon society will have a program in Theta hall for the purpose of receiving new members into the group.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS

Medical Aptitude Test To Be Given November 5th

Due to the abnormal national situation, it is extremely important that all pre-medical students take the medical aptitude test at this time. In order to meet this unusual condition, the college has devised a test that does not depend on pre-medical training. This would include even freshmen who plan to enter medical college two or three years hence.

The test requires approximately two hours and will begin at three o'clock on the afternoon of November 5. Any student expecting to enter medical school, who has not already taken the test, should do so at this time.

The test is now one of the normal requirements for admission to a medical school. Furthermore, it is extremely doubtful that any special tests will be given this year. A fee of one dollar from each applicant is required for this test.

Athenian To Meet With Bainonian

Athenian will hold a joint meeting with Bainonian tonight at 6:15 in Bainonian hall. The program will be announced later.

Plans are under way for several outstanding programs for Athenian. The annual "Girl I left Behind Me" contest will be held next week All the fellows bring pictures of their girls back home and then vote on the prettiest girl. Athenian wil also participate in a series of one-act plays, as well as the annual play given with Bainonian. A Christmas party will be held early in December.

Athenian is making an all-out effort for the intra-mural championship, having won their second game last Tuesday from the YM team. Plans are already being made for a basketball team.

LESTER, PROFFITT CHOSEN TO FILL PROMINENT POSTS

The election of the freshman class officers and student council representatives was held by the Student Council Wednesday, September 29. The nominees for the various offices were chosen at a class meeting held in Chapel the preceding Wednesday morning. Rush Lester, from Birmingham, Alabama, was elected to the presidency of the class. Charlotae Proffitt of Maryville, Tennessee, was chosen to serve as vice-president. Mary Nan Reed, another Tennessean, from Lewisburg, received the office of secretary. The newly elected treasurer, John Shell, comes from Pine Bluff, Arkansas, When interviewed, Rush said, "Speaking as the president of the freshman class. I sincerely hope that under the present conditions. that our class will be able to keep the high standards of Maryville College on the upgrade."

Four student council representatives were chosen, two of whom were boys and two, girls. Fay Cameron, hailing from Los Angeles, California and Jean Blanchard of Manhattan, Kansas, were the girls chosen. Representing the boys are Thomas Parkinson of Memphis, Tennessee, and John Poland from Beverly Shores, Indiana.

The officers and student council members chosen constitute a rather representative group. Four are from the south, Tennessee and Alabama; one from the west, California; and three from the midwest, Indiana, Kansas, and Arkansas.

Pre-Med Club

The first meeting of the Pre-Med Club will be on the second Thursday night in October. All persons interested in nursing, the medical profession, or a good program are welcome to come.

The officers for the Pre-Med club are: president, Bill Buford; vice-president, Polly Edmonds; secretary and treasurer, Shirley Montgomery; and program chairman, Agnes Peterson.

Handwriting Indicates Personality; Ten Never-Failing Rules

By LOIS WILKES

Does everyone have his or her "little black book" handy (I say "his" as a matter of form, not fact.) You Don't? Well, I'll wait for you. La-de-da-da-da-de-de-de-de——let's see, how does that go? I think it's la-de-da-de-da instead of——. Oh, You're waiting for me? Well, let's get down to business. Have you ever wondered just what the true personality of your girl or boy friend really is? All you have to do is look at his or her handwriting.

Here are ten never-failing rules:

1. Big, sprawly, uneven letters show lack of consentration and the love of company. Now this can be either a good or bad trait. You wouldn't want your sweetheart concentrating on someone else when you are around, yet you'd like for him to concentrate on you once in awhile. And if he's going to want a lot of company all the time—well! There's a limit to everything, you know ('Specially men.)

2. Small, cramped, illegible writing denotes a quick, technical, versatile mind, without much to say but lots to think. Now that would really make an interesting date. You could go to some nice, quiet place—and listen to a lecture. Then, afterwards, you could just sit and watch each other think. However, if you're a little jitterbug at heart, I'd advise you to flirt a little farther before you land on this intellectual lightbulb.

3. Small, compact writing shows precision and carefulness. 'Nough said.

4. Fairly large writing straight up and down, well-spaced rounded letters reveal nonchalance. That, too, can be good or indifferent. It keeps 'em guessing, but some people don't go in for quizzes.

5. Writing which slants forward shows warmth and friendliness, while a slant to the left denotes shyness. The former is a very desired type of character to have. In fact, I would advise you to ball-and-chain this one. The shy person is probably slow on the up-take so don't take him up. Now that was mean, because shyness usually indicates sweetness. I always say, bring 'em up to suit yourself, or live and let live.

6. If the letters are rounded and the strokes sort of light to medium, he or she is definitely a good guy.

7. Tall upper loops show ambition and present intense joy. Of

IN MEMORIAM
TO MR. F. L. PROFFITT

Members of the college community were shocked and saddened by the sudden announcement of the passing of the beloved college treasurer, Mr. Fred L. Proffitt. Few in the college history have been more vitally connected with its program and development than has Mr. Proffitt.

As student, teacher, and treasurer his intimate association with the college has covered the phenomenal span of forty-two years. His particular work as treasurer was responsible for his heavy college program. It is in a large part because of his excellent work in the field of finance and investment that the college has been able to maintain such high standards of scholarship and equipment at such comparatively low cost to students.

As a person tremendously interested in the welfare of people, and in Maryville students in particular, his friendship and influence have been of great significance to Maryville students now scattered throughout the world. They will all feel a personal loss because of his passing.

His wise counseling, his generous Christian spirit and willingness to help all people will cause Mr. Proffitt's passing from this college to be one of very deep regret. We wish therefore to extend through this column our sincere and abiding sympathy to Mrs. Proffitt, his three daughters, and other members of his family.

"EVERY INCH A DIPLOMAT"

During the past week the alleged resignation of Sumner Welles, the under secretary of state, was officially confirmed by President Roosevelt and Edward Stettinus was appointed in his stead. Ever-since Welles wrote to some South American friends that he would quit the state department, reporters have been writing about his resignation and discussing its political and diplomatic signifigence.

ABOUT WELLES

To fully understand what a loss Welles' resignation is to America we must know something of the man's background and his experience and work in the field of diplomacy.

After attending Groton and Harvard, Sumner Welles was appointed secretary of the embassy in Toyko where he remained until 1917. At that time he was only twenty-five years of age. From there he went to Buenos Aires and was soon made chief of the division of Latin American affairs. He served as representative to the Dominican Republic, was mediator in the Honduras Revolution, and in 1933 was appointed ambassador to Cuba, the most difficult post at that time. During his service in foreign countries Welles laid the groundwork for the Good Neighbor policy, having worked under Coolidge and Hoover as well as Roosevelt.

In May 1937 he was made under secretary of state, a position second in importance only to that of Hull's. In 1940 the Pan American Union awarded him a gold medal for his especially outstanding achievements in holding inter-American relations in peaceful and constructive paths.

Sumner Welles has been the chief administrative officer in forming our foreign policy and has written many of Roosevelt's speeches. He has had the technical last word on nearly all of FDR's speeches dealing with foreign policy and our relations with other nations.

TIME has called him the "diplomat's diplomat", and he certainly has the respect of the members of all diplomatic circles both here and abroad.

POLITICAL INTRIGUE

Stories of the Hull-Welles feud are as old as the New Deal, but they have never differed violently on policy until recently when their differences were brought to a head by several factors. They disagreed on our policy toward Vichy and in the deGaullist-Gerard issue. The later was perhaps the breaking point in their relationship, for Welles felt that a sound policy would have won French gratitude and maintained a united front. As it is, Russia has assumed the diplomatic leadership for that country as well as for South America.

The NATION sums up Welles' opinion on the matter in the following terms: "If the President (and Hull) cannot do a better job of diplomacy than this on so little a question as the French Commission, what hope is there on the major issues of a coming peace?"

But disagreement over policy was not the final reason for the under secretary's resignation. For some time the personalities of the two state department leaders were at odds, and finally Hull spoke openly that either he or Welles must go. There was no room for them both.

Why then did Roosevelt prefer the resignation of Welles to that of Hull if he and the under secretary were such close personal friends and were in such direct agreement on foreign policy? The answer seems to be certain although no one can be positive since the President has not expressed himself. Roosevelt had to drop Welles and not Hull, for he did not want to alienate the South which is a strong supporter of Hull, a native of Tennessee. It seems that the President preferred to sacrifice a good man and sound policy for his 1944 political aspirations. The NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE sums up the mess in the state department in striking words. "What the state department needs is a real overhauling, not a stratagem to win next year's election."

THE NATION'S LOSS

From the way things stack up there appears to be no sound reason for Welles' "forced resignation" except the personal vituperativness of the secretary of state and the political longings of the President. Much censure can be directed at Drew Pearson of "Merry-go-round" fame for adding oil to the fire, but even that should not make sane men assume childish prejudices.

Edward Stettinus is to fill the vacant position but he can never fill that gap left by Welles. He was irreplacable. In the perilous times ahead the loss of Welles will be severely felt and the future destiny of America may be changed. Let us chalk up another blunder to New Deal political blundering.

Reporter Hears Marion Anderson; Charm Breaks Racial Barriers

By JOHN C. TAYLOR

Last summer it was my good fortune to hear one of the greatest singers of all time, Marian Anderson. The story of her life and achievements reads like a fairy tale but are indicative of the courageous spirit which has lifted her to the top of the music world.

Miss Anderson was born February 27, 1908, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and at the age of six joined the junior choir of the Union Baptist Church. When she was twelve years old her father died and she helped to support the family by singing at church concerts. In her first public appearances she sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and this proved to be the beginning of a career which now has reached the heights of world wide acclamation.

When nineteen years old Miss Anderson's high school principal helped her to meet Giusepe Boghetti, the renowned voice teacher, who entered her in a contest, the winner of which was to song at Lewisohn Stadium. Racial prejudice entered into the selection of the winner and she was not considered. The attitude of the judges seemed to be: "A wonderful voice. Too bad she's a Negro."

A short time later she went to Europe, discouraged by the treatment she had received but determined to prove her ability as a concert singer. Her first concert in Germany cost her $500 but thereafter she was acclaimed wherever she went.

On December 30, 1935, Miss Anderson gave her first New York recital in Town Hall and in the audience were some of the people who had refused to recognize her ability ten years previous. This time it was different. All racial barriers were broken down by the sweetness of her voice and the charm of her personality. As she closed her eyes and sang "Ave Marie," "Der Tod and das Madchen," "O Don Fatale," and Payne's "Crucifixion," one could sense the fact that a new star was shining in the musical heavens.

Today Marian Anderson is the most popular concert singer in America, and possibly in the world. She is booked two years in advance and sings continually before sell-out crowds. Her repertoire is varied and includes two hundred songs in nine languages. Included in this group are numerous Negro spirituals as she maintains that no program is complete without them.

Miss Anderson has many varied achievements and they clearly indicate the universality of her fame. She has sung before King Gustav in Stockholm and King Christian in Copenhagen. She received one of the rare invitations from Jean Sibelius, the great Finnish composer, who later dedicated his song "Solitude" to her.

In 1936 Miss Anderson was asked to sing a solo at the White House and when President Roosevelt greeted her with the words: "Oh, hello, Miss Anderson, you look just like your pictures, don't you?" she received her first case of stage fright.

When she sang at the Paris' Opera House the place was sold out weeks in advance. Only Rachmaninoff and Kreisler had ever achieved that feat for a solo performance.

One of the highest honors paid to her was on July 2, 1939, when Mrs. Roosevelt presented her with the Spingarn Medal, given annually to the American negro who has made the highest achievement in an honorable field of endeavor.

Miss Anderson is deeply religious and believes that music and religion offer solace to a troubled world. She has expressed this thought many times in her rendition of "Sometimes I Feel Like A Motherless Child." Compositions which are religious in nature are her favorites and she loves the negro spirituals because they express the heartaches of her people as well as their simple thrust in a kind Heavenly Father.

Twentieth Century-Fox paid her $6000 for singing two songs at the opening of "Young Mr. Lincoln" at Springfield, Illinois, and she averages $2,500 for each concert and $3000 for each radio appearance. Yet money is insignificant to her, as she regards singing as a mission. Miss Anderson likes to watch the faces of the people in her audience and believes that if she can bring courage and happiness to those who listen she has achieved her purpose.

College Maid Shop Makes Uniforms; Workers Needed

Mrs. MacMurray of the College Maid Shop has issued an announcement to freshman girls, informing them that there are some vacancies waiting to be filled. The Maid Shop is in urgent need of workers, she said, and girls may earn as much money as they need. No former experience is necessary —sewers are paid by the piece and as skill increases, the earnings increase.

The Maid Shop, which in former years, produced an abundance of gym suits and choir robes, is now concentrating on uniforms for nurses in various parts of government service, except for a few uniforms for mill operators.

Mrs. MacMurray said that four of the nurses who have been ordering Maid Shop uniforms and who had been captured by the Japanese some time ago, had recently been returned. The nurses remarked that while they had been prisoners, they kept the Japanese so busy supplying them with lipstick, rouge, and powder that they were glad to get rid of them. The girls had nothing to say about their general treatment at the hands of the Japanese, except that their new uniforms have been ordered at a smaller size.

Any girls who are interested in Maid Shop employment will please see Mrs. MacMurray, College Maid Shop, basement of Thaw Hall.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By PARKINSON and POLAND

"Y" Frosh and Athenian are tied for first place in the intramural football tournament which is now being held. "Y" Frosh has earned this by their defeat of "Y" Cabinet last Thursday and Athenian by the forfeiture of Alpha Sigma on the same day. Previously "Y" Frosh and Athenian each had had 2 wins against 1 defeat. The records of the games of the past two weeks are as follows:

Thursday, September

In the first game Alpha Sigma forfeited to "Y" Cabinet because of lack of players at game time. Score, 1-0.

"Y" Frosh defeated Athenian 8-0 in the second game. Jack Riley scored the touchdown for the freshmen while Henry Crowson was credited with a safety. Outstanding on the freshman squad for this game were Rush Lester and Jack Riley. Wally Easter and Paul Moelhman starred for Athenian.

Tuesday, September 28

Athenian rode rampant over "Y" Cabinet in the first game of last Tuesday's card by defeating them 18-6. Wally Easter starred for Athenian by scoring two touchdowns. Paul Moelhman scored the other touchdown for the Athenian "6". John Taylor scored the touchdown for "Y" Cabinet. "Y" Cabinet showed the lack of Bill Buford in their lineup. Bill was out wit ha bad knee.

In the second game "Y" Frosh defeated Alpha Sigma in actually a five-man game because Alpha Sigma had only five men and the freshman team condescended to play with only five men. The score "Y" Frosh 13; Alpha Sigma 7. Touchdowns for the freshmen were made by Tommy Parkinson and Jack Riley; the extra points were made by John Poland. Bill scored the touchdown for Alpha Sigma while Lyle Knapp scored the extra point.

Thursday, September 30

The first game of Thursday's schedule was again a forfeit on the part of Alpha Sigma. They forfeited to Athenian 1-0 because of a lack of players at game time.

In the second game "Y" Frosh defeated "Y" Cabinet 7-0. Jack Riley scored for the freshmen while John Poland scored the extra point. Bill Buford and John Taylor were outstanding for "Y" Cabinet.

Following are the teams and players:

Athenian: Wally Easter, Paul Moelhman, Hubert Rust, David Seel, Harry Ferguson, Jack Ross, John Kirstein, Bob Barker, and Harold Kidder.

"Y" Frosh: Rush Lester, Tommy Parkinson, Jack Riley, John Poland, Abbott Kemp, Theron Birchfield, Henry Crowson, Leonard Schieber, Marvin Turner, and Harold Henry.

"Y" Cabinet: Bill Buford, John Taylor, Lloyd Anderson, Paul Smith, Abner Richards, Joe Brown, Bob Seel, and Jack Scott.

College Enrolment Totals 421 Students

Four hundred twenty-one students, sixty-six men and three hundred fifty women is the total student enrolment for the semester starting September, 1943. The senior, junior, and sophomore classes have each fourteen male students, while the freshman class has claim to twenty-four. The ratio isn't as even for there are one hundred twenty-four freshmen co-eds, one hundred three sophomores, seventy juniors, and fifty-three seniors.

Last year out of a total of six hundred fifty-three pupils, two hundred sixty were men, and three hundred ninty were women. In any normal pre-war year, the average enrolment was eight hundred students with the distribution between boys and girls fairly equal.

A large number of states and foreign countries however are still represented. In all there are thirty-two states with Tennessee's one hundred forty-one, Pennsylvania's forty-six, Florida's thirty-five, New Jersey's twenty-six, and New York's twenty-four heading the list.

Representing three foreign countries are Carroll Stegall of Belgian Congo, Africa; Carol Titus from India; and Edelmira Pino from Cuba.

Council President Appoints New Com. Members

Student Council committees for the 1943-44 school year have been recently appointed by B. J. Miller, president of Student Council, from the members chosen by the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

They are as follows: Student Senate, Betty Jane Miller, Jeana Eddleman, Marian Stout, Lloyd Adderson, Virginia Cain, Louise Henry, Catherine Sisk; Elections Committee, Malcolm Thompson, chairman, Benjamin Lynt, Helen Anderson, Joseph Brown, Rachel Galbreath, Lula Callaway, Tom Smith, Fay Cameron, John Poland. Finance Committee, Virginia Cain, chairman, Byron Sprague, Jeanne Blanchard; Student Publications, Jeana Eddleman, chairman, Harold Huffman, Leroy Dillener.

Social Committee: Bill Buford, Lloyd Anderson representing the Student Council, and Merriam McGaha, Charles Burgreen, Betty Burton, Wally Easter, Kay Bonner, representing the Student Body.

A regular meeting of the Student Council will be held Monday evening.

"Y" Frosh Club

Last Tuesday the last of three meetings of the Y Frosh Club was held. The purpose of the club this year, as in previous years, was to acquaint the new students with the activities and organizations of the college.

The meting, conducted by co-chairmen Malcolm Thompson and Paul Moelhman, opened with a short but spirited songfest. Mr. Marvin Minear, assistant in the treasurer's office, and former president of the YMCA, then delivered a brief address on the work of the Y.M.C.A.

One Hundred Attend Reception Following Wedding

Lt. Honaker Must Report To San Diego Base Soon

The wedding of Martha Walker and Lt. Lombe Scott Honaker, Jr. was solemnized by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd in Voorhees chapel Tuesday evening, September 28.

Mrs. Scott Honaker, Jr. had for her attendants Miss Lois Wall of Danbury, North Carolina, a member of the present senior class, Mrs. Jack Madison of Chattanooga, Tennessee, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Charles Work of Wichita, Kansas. Mrs. Work was the matron of honor and Miss Wall and Mrs. Madison were the bridesmaids. Lt. Honaker's best man was Lt. J. Vernon Lloyd, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd. Mrs. George Birchfield was the organist and Donald McArthur of Meridian, Mississippi, was the soloist in the ceremony. The five ushers for the occasion included Donald Walker, brother of the bride, who was head usher, A. R. McCammon, Arthur Fisher, Jr., David McArthur, and H. F. Lehman, Jr. A reception for over one hundred guests was held immediately after the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lombe Scott Honaker.

Mrs. Honaker, Jr. is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Walker of Maryville and was a member of the class of 1944 at Maryville. While in college she was sponsor of her freshman class, and was a member of the daisy chain and a May Day attendant last year.

Lt. Honaker was a member of the class of 1941 and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He was a member of the football squad for four years and was co-captain during his senior year. He played basketball and was also a member of Hi-Trail. His major was mathematics.

Lt. Honaker left for the service in July 1942 and is to report for duty at his new station in San Diego, California soon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lombe Scott Honaker of Maryville. Coach Honaker is professor of physical education and director of athletics at the college.

"From Africa To America" Is Topic Of IRC Meeting

The regular weekly meeting of the International Relations Club will be held Monday evening, October 4 at 7 p.m. in the YW rooms in Thaw Hall. Muriel Geisler will give a news review, after which Jean Lehman will tell of her Japanese studies in philosophy. Jean is a senior sociology major from Haddonfield, New Jersey.

Last Monday evening, September 27, the speaker of the evening was Carol Stegall, a freshman who has recently come back to the United States from Africa where his father is a missionary. His topic was "From Africa to America, or from Peace to War". The news review was given by Peggy Ann Case. Malcolm Thompson, president of the club, talked briefly on "Sumner Welles". After the business meeting, an executive council meeting was held at which 24 new members were elected. Those chosen were: Helen Anderson, Lloyd Anderson, Olinde Aherns, Mary Jane Barows, Jean Bellerjeau, Miriam Bowditch, Bill Buford, Peggy Ann Case, Pam Curtis, Harry Ferguson, Mrs. Florence Gwyn, Elizabeth McConnell, Margaret Messer, Betty Jane Miller, John Poland, Marinell Ross, Hubert Rust, Edelmiro Pino, Paul Smith, Carroll Stegall, John Taylor, Carol Titus, Lillian Urger, and Helen Marie Wilson.

The officers of the club for this semester are president, Malcolm Thompson; vice-president, Margaret Grissett; treasurer, Bette Lou McCoy; and secretary, Miriam Wickham. Dr. Hill Shine, professor of English, is the faculty sponsor.

Janice Graybeal, Lynn Crawford Married in Chapel

Miss Janice Graybeal and Edward Lynn Crawford were married by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd last September 22nd at eight o'clock in Voorhees Chapel. Mrs. Crawford was a member of the class of '42, and after her graduation she worked in the advertising department of the Knoxville News-Sentinel, transferring from there to the OPA office in Knoxville.

Mr. Crawford graduated from Maryville in 1937. After graduating from the Harvard School of Business Administration he was employed by the British Purchasing Mission. Since our entry into the war he has been employed with the Cost Accounting Department of the Aluminum Company of America at Alcoa, Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford spent their honeymoon at Gatlinburg, Tennessee and they are now at home with Mr. Crawford's parnets.

Faculty Club Sets Nov. 8 As Date For First Meeting

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, wil discuss "The Language of Poetry" at the first meeting of the Faculty club November 8. The meeting will be held in Fayerweather Hall.

For a number of years it has been customary for a full-course dinner to precede the address of the evening. Due to the restrictions on food, the meetings will be modified this year. The menu will consist of a salad course and dessert. As usual the food will be served by students of the home economics department.

The Faculty club generally meets the first Monday night of every month. Although the meetings will not start until November this year, they will be held each month after that.

The club was started twelve years ago and is open to members of the faculty and staff and their husbands an dwives. Its purpose is to hear constructive papers presented by the members of the group. One outside speaker is usually invited to give an address.

The same committee is in charge of the meetings this year that planned last years's programs, with one exception: Dr. R. T. Case has given up his position on the Faculty club committee since his appointment as chairman of the student-Faculty Senate. Dr. H. E. Orr is the chairman of the committee, and Dr. Ruth E. Cowdrick serves as the secretary. Associate professors Meiselwitz, Barker and Williams are the other members of the committee.

Fisher to Speak On Rachmaninoff Concerto in C Minor

Thursday evening, September 30, the Disc Club held its first meeting in Voorhees Chapel. The music was of the popular variety from the classics and semi-classics. Included were: Marion Anderson singing "Were You There", Fritz Kreisler, "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen"; some Strauss waltzes; and "Pop Goes The Weasel"; Jasha Heofiz, "Gypsy Tales". The master of ceremonies was Ben Lynt.

Thursday, October 14, at 6:45 in the Chapel, Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2 in C Minor will be presented. Peggy Fisher is to be commentator.

The Disc Club committee meeting was held September 27 at the home of Miss Katherine C. Davies to plan the programs for the semester. Those present were Ben Lynt, Peggy Fisher, Ruth Freeman, Byron Sprague, and Harold Kidder. Two of the programs will be an opera program and a quiz program to put the teachers on the spot. Other programs will be announced later.

The club meets every second and fourth Thursday of the month. All students are cordially invited to attend these programs and to use the record room which is open from 4:15 to 5:30 week days and from 1:00 to 3:00 on Saturdays. There are phonographs in two separate rooms also available at the same hour for everyone's use.

Crothers Speaks In Chapel Service Wednesday Morn

Challenges Us Now With Continuance Of Christianity

Rev. Wililam H. Crothers, of Maryville, was the speaker in the Wednesday morning chapel service, September 28. Rev. Crothers was a pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church for 10 years, until he resigned seven years ago. Since that time, he was a teacher for three years in India and the Phillippines. For a number of years before coming to Maryville, Rev. Crothers was Secretary of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church. At present he serves in various pulpits in this area.

Rev. Crothers used as his text the 18 th chapter of Genesis, beginning with the 23rd verse. Using this passage as an illustration, Rev. Crothers pointed out to us that the potentialities of a few good men must not be underestimated. Abraham, one of the few good men living near Sodom, was a man of action. He was persistent, reverent, and possessed a love that thought no evil. He thought that there were 10 times as many good people in Sodom as there were. Although he placed the number at 50, there were in reality only 4. Abraham lead the four out of the city and then it was burned. Rev. Crothers told many stories to illustrate the fact that a truly good and devoted man could accomplish a great deal in spreading Christianity. To point out persons in the present day world, he told of a missionary who went to an island in New Hebrides, Aniwa. When he first started his work there all the inhabitants were "red-handed cannibals. When he left, family prayers were being said."

To bring the story closer home, Rev. Crothers cited the story of young Emery Luccock who, while attending college, went to a meeting and was greatly stirred. After the meeting, he went to all the rooms in the fraternity house and said that he was going to hold a prayer meeting that evening, even if no one else came. All the fellows attended the meeting and were quite surprised at the statements which Emery made. He said "Fellows, I am a quitter, I have a fine home; but I have let myself down to the level of some of you. I must live up to the best I know. I am going to work for God." there was a pause. Then he knelt down and prayer. the next time the pause was shorter. Before that meeting ended each fellow had voiced a prayer. After that first meeting, a regular weekly prayer meeting was held. These fellows were fraternity brothers, but until then they had never known what fraternity actuall meant.

Another story Rev. Crothers told brought home to us the fact that God has ways of helping those who set forth on missions of Christianity. In order to perform his duties a young man had to have some means of traveling, so he bought a horse from a settler namer Andy. One day he went out to try his latest acquistion, only to find a large group of his people waiting expectantly for him. He looked at the creature and saw that his best plan was to get on quickly, and he did. The horse immediately bucked and tossed and turned, but this young man was too persistant. At length, when the horse was completely tamed, he turned to the former ownr and said "Do you have any more to break?" The settlers marveled at this man. A number of preachers had come on similar missions before and they tried this nag that even the owner couldn't ride. All of them failed and were as a consequence laughed out of town. But, because of his fearlssness this young minister was able to overcome this obstacle and build a Christian community. When he left in the fall the miners gave him $600 in gold dust as a token of their appreciation for his ministry.

Leaders of today also feel the need of some power greater than themselves. Rev. Crothers told of Chang Kai Chek who was overheard while memorizing a chapter in the Bible. When he was asked why he was memorizing it when he could have a Bible right there to read from he answered that "he wanted these great words of God inside him. Then he might think of them when there was no Bible near."

In closing, Rev. Crothers challenged us with the question "Is it time to quit Christianity?" Said he, "Europe is in turmoil. But Churchill didn't give up when the battle for Britian seemed lost. Who are we to give up now when the power of Christianity is greatly needed in our world. The people who will change the world are those who are on the firing line. Indifferent Christians and inactive Christians will not save or change the world. It is the people who by their devotion and work show their Christianity that will bring about a better world to tomorrow."

BOY! We can give you a really trim looking hair cut.

Robert D. Thompson won his Navy "Wings of Gold and was commissioned an Ensign in the Naval Reserve following completion of the prescribed flight training course at the Naval Air Training Center, Pensacola, Florida, the "Annapolis of the Air." Having been designated a Naval Aviator, Ensign Thompson will go on active duty at one of the Navy's air opeartional training centers before being assigned to a combat zone. Before entering the service, Bob was a member of this year's senior class.

1st Lieutenant Clifton K. Pool, pictured at left, has been awarded the air medal for exceptionally meritious achievements. Cliff is a navigator in foreign service and had he not en listed in the air corps the day America entered the war he would have graduated this coming spring.

Six former Maryville youths have reported to the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight School for Pilots at Maxwell Field, Alabama, to begin the third phase of their training as pilots in the U. S. Army Air Forces' expanding program. Aviation Cadets William H. Bradford, William L. Ford, Freeman A. Greene, Jr., Stuart R. Honaker, John A. Runion, and John Va Tyler are receiving nine weeks of intensive physical, military and academic instruction at Maxwell Field. They are in preparation to beginning their actual flight training at one of the many primary flying schools located in the Army Air Forecs Eastern Flying Training Command.

Gordon Stone is in the Army Specialized Training Program at Camp Roberts, California. He is in the division which specializes in French. Peter Van Blarcom is also at Camp Roberts.

Two former brother BMOC's at Maryville are the Wicks. Lieutenant Hilton Wick is a bombardier on a B-17 in the Gaudalcanal. Ensign Henry Moore Wick is on convoy duty with the United States Coast Guard somewhere in the American theater of the war.

Three former Maryville graduates have completed their midshipman Training Course at Notre Dame University. They are Ensigns Fred Smith, E. B. Smith, and Gleen Paul. Fred is going to Norfolk for additional training, Glenn to Amphibian school, and E. B. is embarking on destroyer duty.

Bob Calvesbert is now Lieutenant Calvesbert in the Army Air Corps, Meteorologist department. For the past three weeks he has been stationed at Morrison Field, West Palm Beach, Florida.

Pfc. Al Flowers is studying to be a Radio Operator Mechanic at Scott Field, Illinois. When he graduates in eight or ten weeks he will be a radioman on a bomber. Al visited the campus last week.

Ralph Sawmiller after finishing boot training at Great Lakes, Illnois visited Maryville on a nine day furlough. He is going to Fire Controllmen Service School.

Its corporal John A. Spears now. Artie, who is stationed in Virginia, recently received his refrigerator mechanic certificate but admits that all he really knows about a refrigerator is how to raid one late at night. As a member of the Camp Lee All-Sars he played against the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Professional League.

Arthur (Doodie) Miller and Wayne Davis, who will soon finish their training at Ft. McClellan expect to be here on furlough before being transferred.

Marvin Mitchell, out in Texas, is now a senior, he says, in his medical work. Mitch is to finish his senior classes the 21 of September and then do practical work in a hospital for several weeks. He is fullback and captain of the hospital football team.

Ronald Easter is attending a physical instructors' school in Maryland. He finds this Navy course very intensive, but he likes it.

Corporal Fred McDaniel is serving in the Army Engineers in England. Dave recently received his wings at Pensacola. Ensign McDaniel is at Jacksonville receiving further training.

Roy Cloninger, aviation machinist mate 2-c, has an APO address in Seattle, Washington.

Hoyle Smith has recently been transferred to New Orleans. Formerly he was at Camp Crowder, Missouri.

Corporal Brasher Bailey, in a signal training regiment, is stationed at New Jersey, near enough to visit New York City occasionally.

By BETTY LOU McCOY

Have you ever approached a Captain in the army with the sinister intention of distracting him from his business for the sake of plying him with such questions as "Which side of the bed do you get out of in the morning? and do you like vinegar on your spinach?" or "Did you use to wear Scotch plaid neckties before the army got you " . . . At any rate, aren't those the kind of questions one usually fires at innocent interviewees?

But a Captain in the army—and us only a college sophomore. Maybe he'd just shut the door in our face with a "Sorry, but I'm too busy." or maybe he'd invite us in with a very superior attitude and proceed to enumerate his accomplishments, ending with a lecture on the follies of wasting and army officer's time.

It was in this frame of mind that we hesitatingly entered Bartlett Hall in search of Captain Donald B. Ladd. Heavens, here he comes! shall we hide behind this door . . . Too late now.

"Captain Ladd, may I bother you a few minutes? The Echo staff has sent me to hound you about your new promotion," was what we said as we timidly approached all six fee plus of him.

He grinned that boyish grin and offered us a seat.

"There's not much to say about a promotion," he began modestly.

"Well," we were grouping hopefully, "how does it feel?"

"Oh, it feels FINE." Pause. "It always feels fine to be promoted."

"Let's see, what else would the Echo like to know, we wondered, and all the time we were wishing that either Captain Ladd or we weren't so bashful—it's difficult at best to have a perfect stranger barge in and ask all sorts of silly questions of you, and it's difficult to have to do the barging in, too.

We tried again: "Is it much different from being lieutenant?"

He smiled. "No, the duties are essentially the same. The same jobs always have to be done."

"How long have you been in the army?"

"Over three years."

"Do you think you'll be here at Maryville for the duration?"

"Well, it's hard to tell. We never know where we're going to be. I might be moved out of here tomorrow or next week; it all depends on where I'm needed."

Did he like the army, we mused. Evidently he did, because we discovered that he is planning to remain in after the war. Before the war, Captain Ladd told us, he attended Michigan State Universtiy, from which he graduated.

His home is in Niagara Falls, New York.

Hobbies? He shook his head, but then on second thought he added, "Well, I like golfing. I like swimming too, and horseback riding; I like just about any sport." A real man's man, we thought.

And so we left him to continue getting used to his promotion because, after all, he's only been a captain for a week.

years old his interest in music was discovered, and he was placed at the age of three and a half, under the direction of Miss Hedy Spielter. This will be Master Korgel's first Tennessee appearance.

Noel Strauss, commenting on a Korbel performance, mentioned such items as his "extraordinary facility at the keyboard," his remarkable control of tone, command of wide range of dynamics and technical skill.

Master Korbel's natural abilities have apparently been conditioned expertly so that he is able to bring surprising power as well as the utmost delicacy to his pianism. The sounds he summons from the keys are always velvetly and singing, deftly colored, and in general capable of the finest nuances. He plays with apparent effortlessness.

There is little to be said for the Farbman String Symphony which has not been seen here many times before. They are a unique group, expertly presented and managed by a man of obvious musicianship, Mr. Harry Farbman.

This group of fine musicians has been highly praised throughout the entire United States, and they were eagerly received when they appeared on the stage of the Elizabeth Voorhees Memorial Chapel here last March 27. They have appeared several times at Town Hall in New York City.

McGaha Elected New Chairman of Social Committee

Merriam McGaha is the newly elected chairman of the social committee. She was chosen by other members of the committee, who are appointed by the student council. They include the following members: student council representative, Lloyd Anderson; seniors, Bill Buford, Charles Burgreen, Merriam McGaha; juniors, Betty Burton, and Wally Easter; sophomore, Kay Bonner.

The faculty members of the committee are Miss Louise Carson, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Miss Harriet Miller, Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Dr. Ralph Case, and Mr. Marvin Minear. These faculty members are appointed by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

The social committee is an organization composed of students and faculty members, whose duty it is to plan the entertainments for the student body as a whole. Plans for this evening include a hike around the loop, with refreshments afterwards in the college amphitheater. Other plans will be announced at a later date.

Other officers of the committee include: Bill Buford, vice-chairman; Kay Bonner, secretary; and Wally Easter, treasurer.

8. Giant capitals show a yen for praise and attention. Sometimes it takes "capital" to get them, but don't be discouraged. There are exceptions to every rule, and since I'm an exception to almost all of them there's surely a chance for you.

9. Full lower loops mean that the writer is sports loving, a jitterbug, and full of rhythm. In other words, he's slick-Dick or she's a pert little skirt. They're shifted out of second and are steering in the right direction.

10. Open "a's" and "o's" indicate a tendency to be generous and talkative. That's just the trouble with so many people I know—they're too generous with their talk.

I'd better shush before I say too much, myself. Any similarity between the persons described here and those living or dead is purely intentional but absolutely accidental.

Pastor to Speak At Society Meeting

Ministerials to Hear Dr. Colvin L. Hammock

The last meeting of the ministerial association was an informal "get-acquainted" meeting at which time the new ministerial students were introduced to the group.

Malcolm Thompson, senior history major from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, was received into the membership of the association. Lyle Knaupp, senior English major from Portland, Oregon, and a transfer student from Bob Jones College, was apppointed chairman of the Jail Committee and plans were made to conduct services at the Blount County Jail each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Arrangements are being made to have Dr. Colvin L. Hammock, pastor of the First Baptist Church, speak at the next meeting, which will be held Thursday, October 7, in the Fine Arts studio. Jeanne Carmichael, second semester freshman from Newport, Tennessee, and a transfer student from Virginia Intermont College, will play several selections on the marimba. Another important feature of this meeting is that all new students who have signed membership cards will take the oath of membership and be admitted into the association.

Alpha Sigma

Alpha Sigma will meet Saturday night at 6:00.

Carol Stegall, a freshman, will entertain the group with a piano medley. Jean Carmichael, also a freshman, will play her xylophone.

Plans have been discussed about holding joint meetings with Tthenian, but as yet nothing definite has been decided on.

Kay's Ice Cream and Sherberts

Student Recitals

Student recitals will be given bi-weekly this year as has been customary in the past in the music Department. These recitals are given by music students studying in private lessons. The purpose is to give students practice in making public appearances. The tentative schedule is to give the first program the third Tuesday in October, the 19th, at 4:30 P.M. in the chapel. All people who are interested in this type of entertainment are invited to attend. The program will last approximately an hour.

Braly, and Georgia Meadows.

The Workshop held its second business meeting September 29 to elect new members to fill vacancies which were left after graduation last year. The new members include Jean Bellerjeau, William Buford, Louise Henry, Shirley Montgomery, Jane Short, and Malcolm Thompson.

Throughout the year meetings will be held regularly each week on Wednesday at four o'clock in Dr. Hunter's classroom. At the next meeting Dr. Hunter will read the constitution of Writers' Workchop, and Edward Gates will read the first original manuscript of the year.

Writers' Workshop is an organization on the campus which sponsors creative writing among the students and faculty. Each member of the group reads one original manuscript eaoh semester while some other member criticises the work.

This year the previous quota of twenty-five members will not be maintained because of the decrease in college enrollment.

Chilhowean Plans Announced, Subscription Drive Begins

300 Students Sign Subscription Blank On Thursday

Thursday morning, the Chilhowean began its annual subscription drive. Dorothy Lehman, editor, and Carol McCutcheon, business manager, spoke to the student body after chapel, presenting obstacles confronted by the Chilhowean this year.

Due to the difficulties foreseen in procuring photographic engaving plates, the system of photography this year will be very different from former years. The Chilhowean is having a photographer come to the campus probably the end of October, he will take student portraits. Students who would like their pictures in the annual must have them taken by this photographer. Other pictures are not anticipated to cost over $1.00, and two poses will be allowed.

The fine quality of cover and photography of the Chilhowean is Shine Addresses Philological Club Sponsored by U-T

Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, presented a paper on the subject "The Early Issues of the Quarterly Review" at the meeting of the University of Tennessee Philological Club last Tuesday evening. He was assisted in the presentation by his wife who spoke on the methods of identifying the articles in the Quarterly Review.

The Club is sponsored by the University of Tennessee and has representatives from Milligan, Carson-Newman, and Lincoln Memorial, as well as from Maryville College. Dr. John H. Stellwagen, assistant professor of Spanish, is a member of the executive board.

Four members of the college faculty, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dr. John H. Stellwagen, Dr. Ralph S. Collins, and Miss Nathalia Wright have recently read papers before the club.

Army Qualification Tests To Be Given At College Nov. 9

Information has recently been released about the new Army Qualification tests to be given at the college on November 9. These examinations are qualifying tests for men applying for entrance into A.S.T.P. and A.C.P. The tests are also used for the Navy V-12 College Training Program.

Men who will be considered eligible will be those from 17 to 21 inclusive as of March 1, 1944. Men of these ages will not be eligible unless they have completed or will have completed their high school education by that date.

The tests will probably last the whole day running from 9 to 12 a.m. and from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Men from the college, from Maryville High School, and from Everett High School will be taking the examinations, and there will probably be men from several other county schools. Any other person who meets these requirements is welcome to take the test at this time, according to Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary.

Capt. McClelland And Lieut. Pieper Visit On Campus

Other Professors Are Also On Leave of Absence

Lieutenant Archibald Pieper, assistant professor of political science now on military leave, visited the campus last Wednesday afternoon enroute from New River, North Carolina, to his home in Texas. He has been in the Marines since last January, and received his commission in May. Lieutenant Pieper has been stationed at Quantico and Parris Island, and, at the end of his leave expects to be assigned to duty the nature of which he is not at liberty to disclose at present. After receiving his commission he took a special training course in anti-aircraft defense. Mrs. Pieper worked for a time at Norris, Tennessee for T.V.A., but later resigned to join her husband.

Captain Frank D. McClelland, Dean of Students, visited the campus two weeks ago, and spoke to the student body at the Wednesday Chapel service, October 6. As head of the Educational Program of the Communications Division of the Marines, Captain McClelland was returning from a supervising tour of the Pacific Coast when he stopped over in Maryville. His headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

Rev. Raymond J. Dolenmayer, associate professor of Bible and religious education, is at present receiving training as a Navy chaplain at William and Mary College in Virginia. He expects to complete his training at the end of October and to be assigned to some definite work.

Dr. Verton M. Queener, professor of history and chairman of the division of social sciences, is on leave of absence for government service in Washington, D. C. He is employed by the Department of Agriculture in the Food Distribution Division of the war program. While living in Washington Dr. Queener is doing research work at the library of Congress.

Mr. Paul F. Wendt, assistant professor of economics, who left in the spring of 1942 to work for the War Production Board, is now a Lieutenant j.g. in the Air Combat Intelligence branch of the Navy.

Dr. John A. McAfee, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, is now in training at Harvard University preparatory to becoming an army chaplain. Although not a faculty member, Dr. McAfee is well-known to Maryville students as pastor of the Presbyterian church of Maryville and a good friend of the college.

Burgreen Elected Cotton Club Head

At the meeting of the Cotton Club, Monday, October 11, in Athenian hall, the following officers were elected for the year: president, Charles Burgreen; vice-president, Marle Deerman; secretary, Mary Dawn Noblitt; and treasurer, Rush Lester.

The program was the typical "darkie" type with Rush Lester as master of ceremonies. Jean Messer gave a reading. A quartet, consisting of Shorty Waisman, Abbott Kemp, Dave Seel, and Dot Ehlert, sang "The Camp Town Races." The meeting was closed with the singing of the national anthem of the South, "Dixie."

The next meeting will be held October 25 and every second Monday of the month thereafter.

The next issue of the ECHO will not be published until Saturday, October 30.

1943 Catalog Is War Year Edition Contains All Facts

The annual catalog issue for 1943 has this statement on the cover. This is a war year edition. For further details see catalog of 1942, available on request.

The 1943 catalog contains all the facts that a new student needs to know, without a full description of courses. Courses are listed as to number, whether they were given in 1942-1943, and whether or not they are biven in 1943-44.

All other lists are complete, including the roster of faculty and students. The faculty list made mention of the fact that leave of absences were granted to Dean Frank D. McClelland and Archibald F. Pieper, assistant Professor of Political Science. Dr. F. A. Griffitts was appointed professor of chemistry Dr. V. M. Queener was granted leave of absence for government service; Miss Cora Carson and Mrs. Evelyn Queener were appointed assistant professors; Mr. Horace L. Ellis was appointed librarian emeritus, Miss Martha Grierson was appointed librarian, and Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian. Miss Viola Lightfoot was appointed assistant to the Dean of Students.

Of interest now are these items on the college calendar: October 30 is Founders' and Homecoming Day; November 25, Thanksgiving day; December 11-16, semester examinations; and December 16, Thursday noon, fall semester ends and Christmas holidays begin.

The only picture retained is the view of central campus showing the buildings, the President's residence, the football field, the steps, the farm house the college cemetery and the woods.

Student Council

The Student Council will hold its next meeting, Monday evening, October 18. At the last meeting reports of various committee chairmen were given.

Tuesday evenings have been designated as Town Night for the present. This measure was approved by the council and the executive committee of the faculty.

During the past week the council's committee on elections was in charge of the voting for class sponsors. Malcolm Thompson, senior history major, is chairman of the committee.

Cain and Edmunds Are Runners Up; Will Be Attendants To Royalty At Celebration Held Here October 30

Having completed tabulation of the results in the school-wide balloting yesterday for Home-coming Queen, Malcolm Thompson, chairman of the student council committee on elections, released a special to the ECHO late last night to the effect that a sophomore, Katherine Payne, had been found the winner.

Also included in the release were the names of two runners-up who will serve with Katy as her attendants when she reigns over the annual homecoming festivities on Wilson field. They were found to be Virginia Cain and Polly Edmunds.

All nominations of candidates were made from the floor immediately after chapel yesterday at a meeting conducted by the Student council committeee on elections with Malcolm Thompson presiding. At that time eight girls were nominated whose names follow: Virginia Cain, Polly Edmunds, Marcia Kiern, Georgia Meadows, Audre Montieth, Jean Muir, Mary Dawn Noblit, and Katy Payne. The voting was done by secret ballot, following nominations, while the student body was yet in the chapel.

New to Maryville, having come this year as a sophomore transfer from a well-known college of this state, Katy has already convincingly established herself as a real member of this institution and has a large circle of friends. She is interested in the fine arts, thinks our disc club a grand enterprise, enjoys living in Baldwin, endorses most of the recognized organizations on the hill, and has an especial interest in the Ministerial association.

Virginia Cain is a second-semester junior from Morristown, who is well-known in YW circles as a hard worker. She is a representative of the junior class on the student council, a member of the YW cabinet, and secretary of the student council.

Polly Edmunds is a sophomore from Charleston, W. Va. She has participated actively in the Girls Intra-mural sports program, enjoys good music, likes humorous radio programs, and feels highly honored at being selected to serve as a part of the royal procession for home-coming.

The annual Alumni Homecoming at Maryville College will be held October 30, it was announced by Mr. Floyd R. Watt, president of the Maryville College Alumni Association. The annual gathering and picnic supper will be held on the athletic field around two big camp fires, beginning at 5:30 p.m. In case of rain, the program will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Founders' Day will be observed in the chapel Saturday morning at 8:00 o'clock. The public as well as the alumni are welcome to attend. No definite announce-

Officers Chosen For Alpha Sigma In Recent Election

The recent election of Alpha Sigma officers resulted in choosing these men to serve this semester. Duane H. Collins, president; Leroy Dilliner, vice-president; Lyle Knaupp, secretary; Ben Lynt, treasurer; and Charles Burgreen, sergeant-at-arms.

This week the meeting will be at 6:15 Saturday night in Alpha Sigma hall. Some important business to be transacted concerning the customary dramatic production to be presented before Christmas. Arrangements are to be made for a joint meeting with Theta Epsilon next Saturday, October 23. The organization will consider plans for the use of its page in the Chilhowean. It is necessary that the group select another meeting place for future use since Alpha Sigma hall will be taken over for Army use.

Theta Alpha Phi Chooses Meadows, Noblit, Russell

New Members To Be On Probation Period For Two Whole Weeks

Elligibility of three students for candidacy for membership into the Tennessee Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, has been announced. The three who have been invited to become neophytes, preliminary to becoming formally inducted members, are Georgia Lu Meadows, Mary Dawn Noblit, and Nancy Russell.

Jordy is an English major from Beaver, Pennsylvania, is a member of Writers' Workshop has been on the ECHO staff for three years, was elected into Pi Kappa Delta last year.

Mary Dawn has been active in campus affairs, has participated in the experimental theatre productions from time to time, is a member of Cotton Club and the Spanish club, is a loyal Theta member, and played the part of Mary Herries in last year's production of "Kind Lady."

Nancy is a dramatic art major, has appeared on the stage of Voorhees chapel in productions since her freshman year, last year playing a minor supporting role in "Lost Horizon." She also has had an active part in the experimental theatre, is a member of the "M" club, has been a member of the

Five Freshmen and Two Upperclassmen Chosen To Be On Echo Editorial Staff

Two upperclassmen and five freshmen were selected for membership on the Highland Echo staff at a meeting of the Publications committee. The freshmen have been trying out for the last two weeks by writing news articles and feature stories. The number participating in the try-outs was much less than in previous years. The five freshmen finally chosen are Olinde Aherne, from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, who expects to major in religious education; Virginia Clabough of Chattanooga, Tennessee, who is an English major; Lois Wilkes, an art major from Glendale, California; John Poland from Beverly Shores, Indiana; and Thomas Parkinson, Memphis, Tennessee, who is an English major.

These freshmen will write news stories and features, learn to proof-read copy, write headlines, and in general become acquainted with the make-up of the ECHO. In early spring there will be another opportunity for freshmen interested to try out.

Hanah Duke, a junior biology major from Arlington, Texas, and John C. Taylor, a second semester junior English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, were the two upperclassmen selected to fill vacancies on the staff. Hannah was vice-president of the freshman class last year, and is a member of Theta Epsilon. John is vice-president of the Ministerial society, treasurer of Student Volunteers, on the Y.M.C.A. cabinet, and a member of Athenian. Upperclassmen members were chosen by the staff editors, Billye Ruth Braly, chairman, Ben Lynt, and Jordy Meadows; the Student Council Echo Committee composed of Jeanna Eddleman, Leroy Dillener, Harold Huffman, and Jean Blanchard; and the Faculty Committee on Publications consisting of Dr. F. A. Griffitts, Miss Elmira Bassett, Dr. Ralph T. Case, and Dr. Hill Shine.

Betty Jane Miller, a senior, was chosen by the publications committee, the student council committee, and Associate Professor E. R. Walker, who represented the committee on Student Business Management, to serve as assistant to the business manager of the Echo. Betty Jane, a French major from Roselle, New Jersey, is president of the student council and student body, president of Pearsons hall, a member of I.R.C., Y.W.C.A., and the French club.

"Dark Victory" Is Dramatic Art Play

Alice Matthews And Ben Lynt Have Leading Roles In Theta Alpha Phi Play Production

"Dark Victory" by George Brewer, Jr., and Bertram Black is the play to be produced in a few weeks by Theta Alpha Phi. The director is Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

The two leads in the play are Judith Traherne to be played by Alice Mathews and Dr. Frederick Steele, played by Ben Lynt.

Alice is a senior from Sharon, Conneticut and is majoring in English. Three years ago she transferred from Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio. While she has been at Maryville she has participated in various dramatic productions, her most prominent role being Isabel Linton in "Wuthering Heights." Last year she was selected band sponsor. Alice will graduate at the end of the first semester this year. In the recent elections she has been a nominee for both Barnwarming Queen and a class sponsor.

Ben Lynt is also a senior English major. His home is in Washington, D. C. For the past four years he has served on the ECHO, last year as managing editor. Ben was a cheerleader for two years, a member of the statewide championship frosh debate team of two, and played in "Abe Lincoln In Illinois". Last year he took a lead in "Kind Lady". He pinch-hitted in the second performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace" as a minor character. Ben is president of the Tennessee Delta chapter of the national honorary dramatic society, Theta Alpha Phi, and secretary of Pi Kappa Delta, the national honorary forensic society. He has also participated in Experimental Theatre productions and Writers' Workshop. Ben is vice-president of the Student Volunteers organization, a member of Y cabinet, and serves on the advisory committee of Disc Club. He was recently elected as a senior representative to the Student Council.

Other characters in the play are: John Scott as Dr. Parsons, Mary Grace Hall as Miss Wainwright, Thelma Richardson as Alden Blaine, Jim Foreman as Bill, Helen Anderson as Connie, Bill Buford as Leslie Clark, Duane Collins as Michael, Ruby Sellers as Josie, and Dorothy Lehman as Miss Jenny.

"Dark Victory" is a three act play. The first two acts take place

Students Assist In Mission Work In MC Parish Project

The Maryville College Parish Project is composed of fifty-two students who conduct Sunday School and Young People's services in a number of Sunday Schools and Missions situated throughout Blount County.

Services are conducted entirely by the students at four of these points: New Castle, Keeble Chapel, Hickory Valley, and Marble Hill. At five other points, Lamar Chapel, Home Avenue Mission, Sunnybrook Mission, West Maryville Presbyterian Church. and Cumberland Presbyterian Church students assist in the programs. In addition, Young People's Sunday evening Groups are held at Lamar Chapel and Home Avenue; and each Wednesday a group go to three public schools: Chilhowee View, Six Mile, and Christy Hill.

The Parish Project was organized in 1936 by Rev. Floyd R. Watt, a Presbyterian Sunday School Missionary working under the Board of National Missions, who still supervises the field work. It is sponsored by the Board of National Missions, the Board of Christian Education, the New Providence Presbyterian Church, and Maryville College. Each organization has one or more representatives on the Board of the Parish Project, of which Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, is the chairman.

Students who work in the project enroll for Bible 251 during the first year and receive 1½ semester hours credit. This course is taught by Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and religious education. After the first year class attendance is not required but individual conferences are held with Dr. Gates.

This semester twenty-nine students are working in the Sunday Schools, sixteen students are working in the week-day schools, and seven students are providing leadership for a Boy Scout troop at Sunnybrook Mission and a Cub troop at the New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Davies To Speak

The Rev. Dr. George E. Davies will be the speaker at Sunday Vespers, October 24. He has chosen for his subject Think on These Things.

Misses Johnson and Wright To Read At Writers' Workshop

The regular meeting of Writers' Workshop took place Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 P.M. Those reading at the meeting were Virginia Cain and Evelyn Whitehead, both reading for their first time before the group. The two members read short stories, the first on life around a lumber office and the latter based in an Indian legend in the Smoky Mountains.

New members of Workshop are Jean Bellerjeau, Bill Buford, Jane Short, Louise Henry, Malcolm Thompson, and Shirley Montgomery.

Those reading at the next meeting will be Misses Nathalia Wright and Jessie Johnson.

Dr. Titus Will Speak At Chapel Next Wednesday

The speaker at the chapel service Wednesday, October 20, will be Dr. Murray Titus, who is the president of Lucknow Christian College in India and has been a foreign missionary under the Methodist church for thirty-three years.

At the present time Dr. Titus is doing deputation work among the churches in the South but plans to go back to India after the war.

Dr. Titus is the father of Carol Titus, a member of the student body who transferred here at the beginning of the semester.

DON'T READ THIS IF YOU'RE INNOCENT

Occasionally some of us actually have intentions of studying—it's done by the best of people. The only hindrance is that we are not all so inspired at once, which, in this case, is the cause of several difficulties.

You want to study and I have to listen to "Lights Out;" or you want your friends in for gossip, and I have an exam tomorrow. In order to accomplish any except the more erudite practices, noise is absolutely necessary. Perhaps it is thoughtless and unintentional—but other people can hear it just as loud.

It is not just the old and settled in-a-rut seniors who complain about vociferations. Any average human being knows he cannot concentrate with loud shrieks coming from all directions at short intervals.

We do not ask for quiet at all times—only during the evening study hours. As for silence, we should be back on th gold standard. And it can be done, with your cooperation ALL THE TIME.

SWEATER GIRLS AND BOYS

Although Emily Post doesn't mention it, and the Standards of Rules and Regulations of Maryville College do not ban it, the wearing of high school letter sweaters just isn't done at college. Maybe you were a BMOC in high school, but prove it rather than try to advertise by the athletic achievements of past years.

In normal times Maryville offers letter sweaters for participation in several activities. Why not wait and win one from here—the orange and garnet mean more on this campus than any other color combination. A verse in the HOLY Bible mentions that "when i became a man I put away childish things." We too expect college students to wear that mark rather than attempting to cling to " . . . in high school we did it this way . . ."

"UNCENSORED"

By FLORA and FAUNA

The air on the hill is just tingling these days. Not only with Maryville dew and tang but with our own Maryville tensions as well. There are more secrets being kept at once, it's a wonder we don't burst our respective seams with curosity. Now ther is barnwarning king and queen. Will it be beautiful Buford, kutie Knaupp, luscious Lynt, ravishing Rust, ticklish Thompson or cherubic Collins? Might it be adorable Anderson, glamour Gaultney, happy Howarth, marvelous Mathews, moonshine Meadows, or mellow Miller?

This moves us to write a pome.

Title: Class Sponsors Should Be Classy?
Hoole or Mathews
who will it be?
Hunt or Duke
We're up a tree.
Smith or Crothers
They're both so sweet.
Lavendar or Brunson
We can't tell who'll beat.

Some smart Gallupian creature ought to take a poll on who the voters think the winners will be.

Freshmen bending over backwards (literally) by Baldwin. That reminds us of two freshmen, Lois Wilkes and Ginger Claybough, and the sign they pinned on their door the other night. It proves among other things that the younger generation is not deteriorating and you can't tell what goes on behind closed doors.

It goes like this:

We're working hard at what we're at
Please don't come in and chew the fat.
Another night you'd welcome be Tonight we're busy as can be.

We so much liked the invitations the Social Committee put on the tables in the dining hall. One of the soldiers wanted to know who thought of it. Who did?

Say, Dot and Carol, the 1944 Chilhowean sounds like a wow. We're just dying to know the theme. Did everybody hear how superly the freshmen subscribed the first few days of school?

You can't tell us there isn't a catch in it. Our friends and us, after much hard work, saved twelve Dixie lids. When the time came to mail them we couldn't find an address any place. Won't somebody plase enlighten us? We want a beautiful enlarger picture to cover the hole in the wall.

Psychology is a broad subject, and just to show you how broad, imagine Dr. Briggs listening to the Lone Ranger for psychological purposes, mind you. Then imagine Jane Hays reading Dr. George Crane's case history of a psychologist in the News-Sentinel, every day. I know why Dr. Briggs is interested, but what's Janie preparing for. Ummm, she's a home economics major, too,

Now Shirley Feeney has what you might call a nice table. The fellows bring her fall flowers and dahlias as centerpieces.

Fall flowers makes us think of Wednesday. It was a perfect day. We had doughnuts for supper, a long talk with Dr. Griffitts, the weather was tops, "Begin the Beguine" was played in the dining hall, and we only had the hiccups once.

It's things like this that make Maryville.

Scene: Gymnasium
Characters: Shirley Montgomery, Mrs. Queener
Ma: Who chopped off your hair?
Shirley: I got caught in a pencil sharpener.

Thoughts for the week by Toe-knee Wan: Does anybody knot what they're building at Pearsons? Have you noticed how Luke Cross signs his posters? Who the co-ed residing in Carnegie is? Her name starts with B.

We finally convinced Bob Bruce that Portuguese isn't the most widely used language in the world.

The volly-ball innovation in the girls' gym classes is not without the excitement-creating capacity. We love to watch Lois Wall invariably catch the ball and clutch it to her instead of shooting it back, or land on the floor with it in her lap. And Di is sometimes a bit confoosed as to whether she's playing volly-ball or ballet-dancing. Peggy Case, we think, is really a case—for the hospital, we mean. Tuesday she got knocked out with a volley-ball and Thursday, not having had enough, allowed same game to put her in the hospital with a bum leg.

Congratulations and many happy returns of the day are in order for Brownie, who has recently turned grandfather.

Carolyn Mehaffey isn't the least bit perturbed by the thought of inviting herself to a snack with a perfect stranger in the Grill—just ask Stevie.

And who wouldn't be thrilled at being awakened some bright dawn by Superman's serenades?

HERE AND ABOUT

By Robert F. Huber

PORTUGUESE BASES

Four dayys ago Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced in Parlament that Portugal was giving Britian air and naval bases in the Azores. Although the news was somewhat startling, the move had been anticipated ever since the capitulation of Italy.

The Possession of these bases, which were lend-leased to Britian, will enable the allied powers to patrol the entire North Atlantic with land based air craft thus releasing our air craft carriers for duty in other and more strategic waters. The few remaining Axis submarines in this area will be more easily exterminated and the flow of American war materials to the vital areas of action will be further facilitated.

Perhaps an even more important military aspect of the situation is the fact that from these bases we will be able to bomb axis held territory, something for which American air experts have been clamoring for quite some time.

POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE

The policical signifigence of the whole matter is of even greater magnitude than any military advantages it may give to the allied powers.

First it is a clear indication that the winds of victory are blowing in the direction of Washington and London and that it won't be very long until they turn their wrath upon friend Shicklegruber.

Its diplomatic results will be world reaching. The effect upon facist Spain may be of great importance in bringing victory to the Allies in a shorter time. Spain, ever since the revolution some eight years ago, has been under the military heel of Franco, a Hitler-Mussolini stooge. Now however, Franco may see the light and swing his forces to the side of victory. He will do it not because of any love he holds for England or America but simply because it will be more advantageous to him and his people.

Whether Portugal's move may bring Spain to permit Allied bases to be used in that country or not will have to wait for the future.

Argentina too may feel the effects of this move. For some months now Argentina has been ruled by a dictatorial clique which has attempted to avoid any foreign entanglements even though its people have time and time again demonstrated their desire to fight for victory on the side of the Allied nations.

Certainly what America would like more than anything would be to have Argentina as an active fighting ally. Her troops, ships, and especially her flow of war materials and raw products would greatly decrease the time it is going to take to achieve the final victory.

And a third country may also be vitally concerned with the move Portugal has made. Sweden, not far from the borders of Nazi Germany itself, may soon declare herself to be an active ally. It wasn't many weeks ago that Sweden made known to the world that she was terminating her agreement with Germany which permitted that country to ship troops and supplies across her borders. Now that Sweden has made that move she may be ready to follow the example of Portugal and allow the allies bases and may even be so bold as to take an active and leading part in the war.

VICTORY NEARER

The move of Portugal, then, seems to be a clear indication that victory is nearer for the Allied cause and that the death of the Nazis will not be long in coming. The ring around Hitler is being drawn closer and closer, and Portugal's move just draws that tighter around his neck. What will follow will be interesting to watch.

ROCKY GROUND, NO SLEEP, TRUMPETS–THEY CALL IT HIKE

By JOHN POLAND

Did YOU ever try sleeping on the ground, especially this type of rock ground found here in East Tennessee? You haven't . . . Boy, are you lucky. The fellows who went on the "Y" Hike last weekend really got a good taste of it, especially me,

The fellows slept, rather tried to sleep, on everything from sawdust piles to the top of a hill. That is, all of the fellows except Bill Buford and Lloyd Anderson; they decided that they wanted to go to the top of the mountain. They went.

After a while when one thought he was comfortable somebody started playing taps on Harry Ferguson's trumpet. But best of all he stopped. Quiet, peace, coolne . . . er . . . coldness prevailed. Then it came again . . . Taps, I mean. As I found out later it was Abbott Kemp, Rush Lester, and Tommy Parinson on Johnny Poland's trumpet. Tommy was the one that couldn't be heard in the valley, was I pleased.

However, they stopped, must have run out of wind, and once again I turned over and tried to go to sleep. Just as I closed my eyes I thought I saw something gliding along the ground towards me; I immediately thought of the copperhead we had killed that afternoon and started wondering how many more snakes were up and around that night. All was still. I slowly started to get up; there, it moved again; I dropped back down again and again it moved, Then as I put my hand under myself in preparation for making a quick get-away out of the other side of my "bed" I felt a stick underneath my blanket and realized that in my movements I had caused the other end of the stick to move and thus my "Snake."

Soon I fell into a fitful sleep and dreamed of everything from snakes to bears. As the sun came up and the call for breakfast went out I, weary and sore in every joint, dragged myself to my feet and solemnly vowed never again to sleep on this rocky ground.

to be preserved this year in spite of the war, although the number of pages may be cut down because there are fewer students.

For obvious reasons, the sections devoted to football and wrestling will be omitted, but these will be partially substituted by pictures of the Army Aircrew students.

Over three hundred students signed the subscription blanks which were passed out in chapel, but there are still some who would like to subscribe who did not have the opportunity. Next Tuesday, October 19, there will be a table in Pearson's lobby after meals when those who did not sign cards may have a chance to do so. Also deposits of $1.00 or more on the whole price of $4.00 will be taken.

Lenore Wise, senior home economics major from Thompsontown, Pennsylvania, will review a magezine, "International Review of Missions," at the meeting of the Student Volunteers on Sunday. This meeting will be held immediately after Vespers in the YW rooms.

A bulletin board has been placed in the YW rooms which will contain pictures of the various phases of misisonary work. The first set of pictures emphasize work among the Negroes.

ments for the program have been made yet.

The program will be somewhat altered this year, since Maryville will have no football game. However, there will be a game between Everett High School and the Tennessee School for the Deaf. Alumni who buy their tickets to the game at the picnic supper will get them at half price.

At the Executive Committee meeting it was pointed out that there are enough Maryville alumni in this immediate area to have a good program. Because of its long establishment some alumni will come expecting it, so the customary plans will not be revised.

Alumni Homecoming Committees are as follows: food, James W. King, '25, chairman, D. H. Briggs, '19, Mary Jo Husk, '39; entertainment, Andrew L. Alexander, '34, chairman, Edith Pierce March, '38, Donnell W. McArthur, '37; decorations, Hugh R. Crawford, Jr. chairman, Elizabeth Griffes Newberry, '28, Mary Orr, '41.

The Student Council has charge of student cooperative planning and preparation. Betty Jane Miller, student council president, has appointed Helen Anderson and Joe Brown to be in charge of student participation.

Disc Club To Meet

Disc Club will meet next Thursday at 6:45 P.M. in the Fine Arts Studio. Club meetings are each first and third Thursdays of the month.

The program will consist entirely of Wagnerian compositions. Ruth Cathcart will be the commentator.

The Disc Club is a music appreciation group composed of any students interested in such entertainment. The Advisory Committee consists of Peggy Fisher, chairman; Ben Lynt, Byron Sprague, Ruth Freeman, Harold Kidder, and Miss Katherine Davies who serves as sponsor.

Annual YM Hike Last Week To Look Rock Mountain

YMCA had its annual hike to Mont Vale on the week-end of October 9 and 10. Thirty-three fellows went this year. This includes Mr. Marvin Minear, who represented the college staff. Joeeph Brown and Hubert Rust were in charge of the event.

The men rode to Mont Vale, which is at the foot of Look Rock Mountain, on a bus Saturday afternoon. They made camp at this place, which is about nine miles from the Maryville campus, and immediately undertook the task of hiking up the mountain. On the way back down the mountain, Owen McGarity sprained his ankle and had to be carried about two-thirds of the way from the top of the mountain to the camp. Everyone enjoyed singing songs and telling stories around the campfire Saturday night. Members of each of the classes also put on a group of interesting stunts at this time.

That night was spent out in the open with everybody sleeping on the ground. Sunday morning after breakfast they again hiked up to the top of the mountain where an impressive Sunday School service featured a talk by Mr. Minear. John Poland and Harry Ferguson gave some special music with their cornets at that service which was held on Look Rock.

Lloyd Anderson, Bill Buford, and Abner Richards cooked the three excellent meals of the outing.

The following is a list of these who went on the hike.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

"Y" Cabinet's powerful and speedy team put to rout the Alpha Sigma team, Tuesday, October 5, by a score of 33-0. Bill Buford and Lloyd Anderson led the cabinet members to their greatest win of the season. Buford scored three touchdowns and an extra point and Anderson scored one touchdown and two extra points. The longest run of the game was Seel's 94 yeard touchdown run. Intercepting an Alpha Sigma pass on his own 6-yard line, Seel raced down the field and scored far in advance of his nearest pursurers. Starring for Alpha Sigma were Leroy Dillener and Bill Cover.

"Y" Frosh defeated Athenian 1-0 in the hardest fought game so far in this season. Neither team having scored in either the regular four quarters or in three minute overtime, Athenian, according to the rules, was to be given the ball on their own twenty yard line to carry it as far as they could in four downs after which the freshmen would take over and see if they could take it back over Athenian's twenty.

Athenian in their period of four downs moved the ball down the field only four and one-half yards. On the first down for the freshmen John Poland completed a pass from Jack Riley in the end zone to win the game 1-0. Rush Lester and Jack Riley starred for the victors, while Wally Easter and and Paul Moehlman carried the Athenian attack.

"Y" Cabinet forfeited to Athenian, and Alpha Sigma forfeitd to "Y" Frosh Thursday the 7th. Both teams forfeited because of a lack of players at game time.

Following are the teams and players:

Athenian: Wally Easter, Paul Moelhman, Hubert Rust, David Seel, Harry Ferguson, Jack Ross, John Kirstein, Bob Barker, and Harold Kidder.

"Y" Frosh: Rush Lester, Tommy Parkinson, Jack Riley, John Poland, Abbott Kemp, Theron Birchfield, Henry Crowson, Leonard Schieber, Marvin Turner, and Harold Henry.

"Y" Cabinet: Bill Buford, John Taylor, Lloyd Anderson, Paul Smith, Abner Richards, Joe Brown, Bob Seel, and Jack Scott.

TENNIS SEMI-FINALS

Luther Cross and Abbott Kemp have reached the semi-final round of the intramural tennis tournament to lead the field and to become the favorites to win the championship, These two will play to determine one of the finalists in this year's tourney. Harold Huffman will play the winner of the Lloyd Anderson vs. Carroll Steagall match to find the other player reaching the final match.

To reach the semi-final round Cross defeated Harry Fergucson (7-5), (7-5). The latter match was perhaps the best of the tournament so far. Kemp outscored Leroy Dillener (6-2), (6-0) and Bill Buford (6-2), (7-5) to get his place in the semifinals.

Anderson beat Tommy Parkinson (6-4), (13-11) to earn the right to play Steagall, who conquered Bill Cover (6-4), (6-4). Their match will be in the quarterfinal round. Huffman took John Poland (7-5), (6-4) to earn his position to play the winner of Anderson-Steagall match in the semifinals.

Square Dance To Be Held In Alumni Gym Tonight At 7:30

Radio Vespers

It has been the custom in past years for the Maryville College Choir to present radio broadcasts each Sunday afternoon over the Knoxville station hook-up. Plans being formed recently for the continuance of this practice were brought, temporarily, at least, to a halt. The difficulty now is the finding of a time to go on the air. The MC Choir had planed to use the time occupied by the Knoxville Philharmonic Orchestra upon that orchestra's decision to leave th air; but the philharmonic program has been bought by a commercial concern and will continue to be broadcast at the same hour.

At present there are no more hours available on Sunday until very much later in the evening, which time would create inconvenience for members of the choir.

The outcome ofthe matter is pending.

J. Gudel Wins Point System Tennis Tourney

Thirteen Girls Granted Instruction Certificate In Life Saving

The tennis tournament came to a much fought over finish with Johnnye Gudel emerging victor over Nancy Russell with three out of five sets. It was a hot game from the standpoint of temperature and temperament. All of which made it a neat one. For the past three years Johnnye and Nancy have been competitors in the finals, and among the point system crowd they are known for their endurance and skill in all types of games, both personal and team. As a whole it was a fast and interesting tournament after it had gotten out of the rugged preliminaries. Some pretty nice games of tennis were played in the semi-finals, running thus: Betsy Burleigh, Johnnye Gudel, 6-2, 7-5; Nancy Russell two out of three sets over Babs Burnett. Betsy managed the tournament; Margaret Hunt and Margaret Witt refereed the finals.

With the close of the racqueteering season, the soccer tournament between the WAVES and the WAC's took the limelight. The first game played Thursday afternoon ended in a 3-3 deadlock. At the close of four quarters of hard and furious playing, the referee called another quarter, to get, perhaps, a decisive score. The quarter stretched over into a ten minute period with the playing getting harder and wilder, and the score getting no place. The WAVES had a wicked play just right of the goal which Johnnye, fastest dribbler I've ever seen, had almost down to perfection until the WAC guards caught on, and that was the end of that. It was a man to man game all the way through which accounted for much of the roughness. The tension that goes with a first game added to the general tenor of excitement, also. It wasn't disclosed whether the game would be played over again, or played just until a score was reached, or let stand. That may depend on the remaining five games. The game schedule is as follows: October 1, Monday; October 20, Wednesday; October 25, Monday; October 27, Wednesday; October 28, Thursday.

Captain of the WAVES, Babs Burnett; manager, Margaret Hunt.
Forwards: Gudel, Burnett, Winn.
Wings: King, Enloe.
Halfbacks: Hunt, Robinette, Moughton.
Full backs: Justus Lavender.
Goalie: Sommers.

Captain of the WACS, Pete Peterson; manager, Marion Stout.
Forwards: Russell, Stout, Richardson.
Wings: Thomas, Messer.
Halfbacks: K. Stout, Peterson, Bellerjeau.
Fullbacks: Burleigh, Bernadini.
Goalie: Garvin.

A thirty hour course in life saving was completed two weeks ago giving 13 girls instructor's certificates in life saving. It was the culmination of a grueling two weeks, period during which they swam three hours a night practicing life saving techniques, and the instruction of functional swimming. The girls who are qualified to teach are Soapie Bernardini, Peggy Claypooe, Lois Collette, Katherine Gore, Johnnye Gudel, Lottie Lavender, Jackie Odom, Carol McCutcheon, Audre Monteith, Pete Peterson, Alma Proctor, Nancy Russell, and June Townsend.

Mr. H. B. Barber, Red Cross field representative from Washington was the instructor.

This week end "M" Club is having its regular Fall Hike. This year the girls are roughing it at Mount Nebo. The officers for 1943-'44 are: Johnnye Gudel, president; Stevie Boretsky, vice-president; Betsy Burleigh, secretary; Pete Peterson, treasurer; Winnie Sommers and Thelma Richardson, program chairmen.

Air Crew Band of Seven Members To Provide Music

A square dance is to be held in the alumni gymnasium this evening beginning at seven-thirty. The entertainment has been planned by the social committee in cooperation with the faculty and the aircrew students. Merriam McGaha, a senior biology major from Newport, Tennessee, is chairman of the committee.

Music for the square dancing will be provided by members of the aircrew band. The various dances will be called by Mr. Ben Russell, assisted by James J. Smithers, an aircrew student.

The gym will be dcorated to give the atmosphere for a barn dance by the use of corn stalks, straw, hay, and jack-o-lanterns at the doors. Betty Burton and Margaret Gessert headed the committee for decoration. Each person attending the dance will be given a name card at the door. These will be in the shape of a leaf and were made under the direction of Marion Schanck, Victoria Hoole, and Lois Wall. Also under their direction were the invitations found on each table in the dining hall Tuesday evening.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening in accordance with the theme of the square dance. Kay Bonner and Louise Moughton are in charge.

An intermission of about forty-five minutes will begin at nine o'clock. At that time a program will be presented by the aircrew and college students. Bill Buford is to be master of ceremonies. Working with him on program arrangements were Betty Jane Miller, Cordelia Dellinger, and the aircrew students. Aircrew participation was under the direction of Harry Anderson.

Mary Bachelor will play her bones and Catherine Sisk will sing several numbers as part of the program. Mary Evelyn Waisman and Bob Beals, an aircrew student will present a skit, An air cadet trio composed of Marvin Silbusher, Bob Zachritz and Gerald Beiter will sing. Frank Klemens and Marvin Silbusher will play a boogie- woogie duet on the piano. Members of the band are: John Loving, base; J. Petroski, electric guitar; Henry Beraldi, violin; Glen Tussler, violin; Coropral Reider, violin; Frank Klemens, guitar; and Marvin Silbusher, piano. John Loving will also tap dance.

Mary Curtis and Cpl. Donald Black To Marry Oct. 22

Wells, Noblit and Buford Selected For Attendants

Mary Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curtis of Chattanooga, a member of this year's junior class, has recently announced the date of her wedding to Cpl. Donald F. Black of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania. The wedding will be an event of October 22, and the ceremony will be performed in the Grace Episcopal Church in Chattanooga. The mother and father of the groom plan to attend the wedding, and the service will be read by the groom's father, Dr. Robert J. Black.

Pam's attendants will be Rose Wells and Mary Dawn Noblit, both members of the junior class. Bill Buford will be the best man, and the groomsman will be Capt. Paul Curtis, a brother of the bride. The ushers for the event will be John Curtis, another brother of the bride, and Richard Camp.

After the wedding there will be a reception for the bride and groom at her home. Several of Pam's friends from Maryville who plan to attend the wedding will be aides at this reception. They will include Lois Yohe, Jean Keyes, Teddie Cofer, Lois Graf, Freda Buller, Lois Collett, and Lizette Gessert.

Lois Yohe, Mary Dawn Noblit, and Rose Wells are entertaining for the bride at a tea and shower on October 20 in the Y rooms. Pam will leave for her home the next day, and she plans to return to school the following Wednesday, October 27.

For her wedding dress Pam has chosen white satin and point venice lace. She will wear a lace cap with a full lenght veil, and she plans to carry white orchids on a prayer book. Her attendants will wear the Air Corps colors in Royal blue and gold taffeta, and they will carry gold srysanthemums.

Cpl. Black was a member of the sophomore class last year before he left to enter the Army Air Corps, and at present he is stationed at Rosecrans Field, Missouri.

SERVICE STARS

Cpl. William Felknor, former ECHO co-editor, visited the campus this week. He is stationed at Rapid City, South Dakota, with the Army Air Corps.

1st Lieut. Fred Shelfer received his promotion October 10, at Corpus Christi, Texas. He is an instructor in formation and fighter planes in the Marine Air Corps. After a furlough, Lieut. Shelfer will return to Corpus Christi for two months and then go to an advanced squadron field.

Marion Black, daughter of Mr. Louis Black, has beeen accepted in the Marine Corps. She is awaiting further orders.

2nd Lieutenant Roy Laughmiller was another campus visitor recently. He is an instructor in advanced flying in the Army Air Corps. Lt. Laughmiller is stationed at Craig Field, Selma, Alabama.

Stan Parrish, seaman second class, has been recommended by his commanding officer for Radar Training. He has seen action in the Pacific and has been on the U.S.S. Pennsylvania since last December.

Lieutenant (j.g) Frank Barr is stationed somewhere near San Francisco. The exact location is a military secret.

Private Mack Wilson is stationed at Millsaps College in Jacksonville, Mississippi. He is under the V-12 college training program. While at Maryville, Mack was a letterman in football, baseball and wrestling.

Pvt. Winfred A. Ezell is at Georgia Tech in the U. S. Marine Corps. He is taking regular college courses, with emphasis in science, which will help him in military life. After from one to four semesters there as a student, he will be assigned to Parris Island, S. C., to begin officer candidate class with the seven-week "boot camp" which all Marines take.

2nd Lt. Ray Dewees is stationed at Cherry Point, N. C. in the Marine Air Corps.

A-C Bob Rayless is stationed at St. Louis.

"HOME OF BETTER VALUES"

Marine Captain Frank D. McClelland, Former Dean, Returns for Campus Visit

By THELMA RICHARDSON

"We're just loafing, Frank has never had much chance to take things easy you know." That was Mrs. McClelland speaking through soft eyes and smile as she ushered me into Dr. (pardon me,) Captain Frank D. McClelland's sitting room.

Waiting for him to come down (I had barged in quite early) I had a chance to pet a mound of white softness with an active tail and a wet snout named "Fluff", and to be taken in by the homeyness of a home.

As a freshman, I knew Captain McClelland as Dean of Students. They say to know a man you must see him in his home. Our Dean carried a great deal of the quiet friendliness of his home to a formidable chapel platform and to the still more serious task of giving out mid-semester grades to freshmen. Perhaps for a well rounded knowledge I should have had some experience with the disciplinery committee.

The Marine uniform and perhaps a deeper wisdom speaking through the eyes, that comes from participating in two world wars, were all the differences I noted. An officer in the Marine Corps during World War I, Captain McClelland was decorated for gallantry on the Western Front. Between the wars, this native Pennsylvanian, former Maryville student, and graduate of Grove City College, has taught at Lakeville Junior College in Kentucky and served here as Dean since 1937. He also has two sons, and a home on Goddard Street. Since March 15, 1943 he has been on leave of absence from Maryville in order to serve in the Marine Corps Communications Department, in the Division of Plans and Politics. To untangle a few words it is his job to go from Marine school to Marine school as an educational expert on war communications. His stop at Maryville was almost the completion of a two months trip which will end in headquarters at Washington, and which took him to the West Coast. "Interesting but tiring, was the captains summary as he relaxed in an easy chair, repressing, what I imagine, were all thoughts of a crowed train.

I didn't manage to wrestle any military secret from him, but he ventured these opinions, "Despite what is said, the war won't be over in 1944," and, "The Marines make up the finest outfit in the world, but I'm prejudiced."

Busy yet cheerful, steady yet inspired, that's Captain McClelland in a nutshell. You never can tell, maybe the freshman class, who hasn't as yet seen him as Dean of Students will have that privilege before they graduate.

Ministerials Hear Dr. Hammock, Accept Students

Dr. Colvin L. Hammock, pastor of the First Baptist church, spoke at the last meeting of the Ministerial Association on the subject "What To Preach." He gave suggestions concerning sermon preparation and delivery and also told a number of incidents from his experiences as a minister which were of interest to those present.

The special music for the service was provided by Jeanne Carmichael, second semester freshman from Newport, Tennessee, who played two selections on the marimba, "At Dawning," and "The Scarf Dance."

Five new members were accepted into the association at this meeting, two transfer students and three freshmen. The transfer students are Lyle Knaupp, senior English major from Portland, Oregon, and James Witherspoon, sophomore English major from Rio, Illinois. The freshmen are Jack Ross, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; William Cover, Hubbard, Ohio; and Robert Dockendorf, Hyattsville, Maryland.

The ministerial association sponsors devotional services each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Blount County Jail in Maryville. These services are conducted by members of the association and others interested in this type of work and are under the direction of Lyle Knaupp.

The next meeting of the ministerial association will be held October 28 and every second and fourth Thursday of the month thereafter.

LAST RITES FOR MR. F. L. PROFFITT

The funeral of Fred Lowry Proffitt was held Sunday, October 3 in Voorhees chapel. President Ralph W. Lloyd and Rev. W. H. Crothers, former pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, conducted the service. Dr. Lloyd used as his text Nehemiah 7:2, " . . . for he was a faithful man, and feared God above many."

Mr. Proffitt had been treasurer of Maryville College for twenty-nine years, and his personal relationship with the institution extended over a period of forty-two years He was an elder in the New Providence Church. He was also a member of the Maryville Planning Commission, and was first vice-president of the Southern Association of College and University Business Officers.

Pall bearers at the funeral service were men of the faculty. Honorary pall bearers were the college directors, men of the faculty, and the session of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. A student guard of honor watched while the body laid in state for one hour before the service. Those students participating were Marion Garvin, Hubert Rust, Abner Richard, Betty Jane Miller, Bill Buford, Dorothy Lehman, Jack Houdeshel, Agnes Peterson, Marion Stout, Ed Sapp, Marion Schanck, Joe Brown, Don Barker, Ruth Meineke, Paul Smith and Billye Ruth Braly.

VOLUME 29 MARYVILLE, TENN. OCTOBER 30, 1943 NUMBER 5

Eileen Farrell To Appear On First Artist Series Program

Columbia Network Soloist to Present Varied Program

SINGS NOVEMBER 6

Helmutt Bearwald Will Render Three Piano Solo Numbers

Eileen Farrell, "America's great new soprano," will appear at the first concert of the Maryville College Artist Series next Saturday, November 6, at 8:15 p. m., in Voorhes Chapel.

Miss Farrell was discovered by Charles L. Wagner and a select group of music critics in December, 1940, when she first sang in New York. With one aria she proved conclusively that hers was one of the richest and most beautiful voices that America has so far produced. Both in the radio and the concert field she has lived up to all predictions of her success.

At her first New York appearance, she was recognized immediately as the possessor of a voice comparable to the gifted Rosa Ponselle's, and this attractive Rhode Islander soon found herself a distinct part of New York's musical life. Given the best of coaching, dramatic instruction, training in several languages, and the opportunity to build a large repertoire, it was only a question of time before she was given her "break" on the radio.

Miss Farrell's merits were discovered by the Columbia Broadcasting Company, and as a result she appeared as soloist on the Prudential Hour last summer. Then, on August 29 she appeared as soloist on Coca-Cola's "The Pause That Refreshes on the Air."

Thus, although a comparative newcomer to radio, this twenty-three-year-old soprano continues to gain in prestige through her recitals. In a relatively short time, Miss Farrell has established herself as a radio favorite and is admired throughout the nation for the power and clarity of her soprano voice. So universal was the listeners' admiration, in fact, that the young singer was asked to reappear time and again and it wasn't long before CBS invited her to share an important spot with Howard Barlow and the Columbia Concert Orchestra.

One of the first things dark-haired, comely Eileen Farrell remembers were the music lessons given by her mother. This was back home in Willimantic, Connecticut, where she was born. Singing, she says, was no novelty in her family; both her Irish-American mother and her Scotch-American father were professional singers, and her mother was also a church organist.

Later, when the family moved to Woonsocket Rhode Island, Miss Farrell continued her piano and voice studies, and sang solos in church to her mother's accompaniments. Shortly thereafter, she came to New York to study with the former Metropolitan Opera contralto, Merle Alcock. She made her formal radio debut by impersonating Rosa Ponselle on a news drama broadcast.

MISS EILEEN FARRELL

Former Students in Armed Forces Visit Campus This Week

During the past ten days the Maryville campus has looked a bit more like itself, with so many of the old boys dropping back to pay their respects.

The first of the familiar faces to appear was Jack Kramer, who has been in the service since February 25, and who has now finished his training at the Intelligence School at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Jack paid a four or five day visit to Maryville on his way to Salina, Kansas, where he will go into some new work. With him was his wife, formerly Margaret Clippinger.

Another one of our visitors was Mac Wilson, who has spent four months in the Marine training program at Millsaps College, Mississippi, where he made the honor roll. Mac will soon be transferred to Parris Island, where he will receive seven weeks of boot training before being shipped to Quantico Marine Base for officers' training.

Chuck Dunning appeared from Muhlenburg College, Allentown, Pennsylvania, to which he will return for four more months, and then on to Parris Island and Quantico.

Paul Montgomery, Jimmie Hodges, Trevor Williams, and Willis Sanderson, from the Carson-Newman Naval Training Detachment, have returned from whence they came.

Others from the Carson-Newman group, Red Meineke, Neil Profitt, and Charlie Brand, are being transferred to the Norfolk Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Virginia.

Other visitors now on the college campus are Henry and Malcolm Heeps both of whom were her last year. They did not return to school this semester since they are engaged in farm work.

Photos Taken For 1944 Chilhowean During Past Week

The photographer for the Chilhowean appeared on the campus Mondayl and was stationed through Friday morning in the Theta Epsilon parlor. The class pictures are being taken by Sherman Dove, a representative of S. H. George & Son of Knoxville.

Up to the present, over three hundred pictures have been taken. When the proofs have been made, they will be sent back to the college, and Mr. Dove will return to take orders for prints.

It is anticipated that group pictures of the college organizations will be taken on the first sunny day after Monday of next week.

It is requested that those who have not made orders for their copy of the Chilhowean, but who plan to buy one, make arrangements with the business manager or the staff by Monday. An estimation of the number of copies needed must be sent in for the covers, and those who have not placed their orders by Monday will not be able to do so after that day.

The Chilhowean staff wishes to remind each student not to fail to order the yearbook if he wishes to keep memories of the campus life. Because of the difficulty involved in obtaining engraving materials, which may be even more pronounced next year, there is a possibility that there may not be another year book next year.

Pres. Lloyd Speaks At ETEA Meet In Knoxville Friday

Dr. Hunter Reads Paper on Teaching Modern English

At the present time Miss Farrell has a sixty-week contract with the sponsors of the Melody Hour, which is broadcast over the Columbia network each Tuesday night, 6:30 to 7:00 p. m.

Press criticisms of her vocal ability and personal charm have been superlative and judging from the excellent singing talent she has displayed thus far in her radio and concert appearances, Miss Farrell promises to have an auspicious future.

Just last week Walter Winchell described her voice as of Metropolitan quality, while Robert Bagar, of the New York World-Telegram, recently said: ". . . the Kirsten Flagstad, Helen Traubel type of voice, substantial and utterly musical."

Announcement will be made later concerning the time reserved seats will be sold.

The thirty-ninth annual session of the East Tennessee Education Association was held Friday, October 29, at Knoxville. The general theme of the meetings was "The War, the School, and Post-War Planning."

General sessions were held in the morning at the Tennessee Theatre and in the evening at the Alumni Memorial Auditorium, University of Tennessee. The departmental sessions met at Knoxville High School and the Central Methodist Church.

The Student Council will hold its regular weekly meeting next Monday night, November 1, in Dr. Orr's classroom in Thaw Hall.

Eleven Members Elected to Spanish Club in October

The Spanish Club met Thursday, October 26, at 6:30 p. m. in the Spanish room in Anderson hall to initiate new members.

New members who were elected at the meeting held October 14, are: Mary Batchelor, Gladys David, Mary Johnston, Abbott Kemp, Rush Lester, Pauline Lickteig, Mary Dawn Noblit, Tommy Parkinson, Edelmira Pino, John Poland, and Carol Titus.

Lois Collett gave a short talk on Catalunia, northeasternmost province of Spain, a district singular in its own customs and language.

The club plans to devote part of each meeting to the discussion of on of the Spanish provinces. Those of Castille and Andalucia have already been discussed.

Officers of the Spanish club are: president, Madeline Cooke; vice-president, Lois Collett, who also acts as program chairman, assisted by Carol Reynolds; secretary, Louise Corbett; treasurer, Betty Jane Meyer.

Class of '43 To Present Service Flag Containing Four Hundred Stars

The student body of Maryville College is having its meal on Saturday, October 30, picnic style on the athletic field in conjunction with the homecoming alumni. In case of rain the picnic will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium. Serving the food to the lines will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Alumni Association President, Floyd R. Watt, '21, will preside over the program to follow the picnic. He will present Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd and Betty Jane Miller who will extend the welcome for the College and the student body respectively.

Betty Jane, as president of the Student Council will present the newly elected Queen of Homecoming, Catherine Payne, and her attendants, Virginia Cain and Polly Edmunds, the first Homecoming Queen, Peggy Caldwell, who will pass her crown on to the new royalty. Catherine was chosen two weeks ago at a special meeting of the student body. Her two attendants were runners up in ahe same election.

The alumni, through their president, will present the new queen and her attendants with flowers.

Mr. Watt will then introduce Miss Edith Monroe, vice-president of the class of 1943, who will present the Association with an 8 x 12 service flag carrying 398 blue stars and two gold stars. The flag was bought by the class of 1943 which also had stars attached for its own members who have entered the armed forces. The Alumni Association has undertaken to add stars for all those other than the class of 1943 who have entered the armed forces and to provide additional flags as needed.

At the time the flag was bought there were 400, including two killed in action. Now there are 694, including one additional killed in action.

Mr. Watt will present the flag to the College and Dr. Lloyd will receive the flag and make the response on behalf of the institution.

Efforts are being made now to have a former college male quartette to furnish the music.

The meeting will be closed with the singing of the Alma Mater..

Lt. Dollenmayer Visits Campus

Lieutenant Raymond J. Dollenmayer, Chaplain in the Navy has returned for a short visit here in Maryville since completing eight weeks of training at Williamsburg, Virginia. After spending some time in Cincinnatti visiting his parents, Chaplain Dollenmayer and his wife and daughter flew home, making the trip in ninety minutes. They expect to close their home in Maryville for the time being, and Mrs. Dollenmayer will join her husband in New York where he will be stationed as a chaplain of the WAVES at Hunter College.

Lieutenant Dollenmayer will lead the regular Tuesday morning chapel service here at the college.

In speaking of his work, he said, "Chaplains have a wonderful opportunity, for the Navy stresses religion. The boys realize the seriousness of this war more than in the last, and they attend the services very well. Then too the chaplain does so much—he works with the ship's library, plans parties and entertainment. In fact he really is a morale officer; he has entree with the commanding officer that few people have."

Soldiers' Guests Lounge Opened In Old Debate Room

YM-YW Combine For Musical Program In Chapel Tomorrow

The YM and YW will have a joint meeting this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. in Voorhees Chapel. The program is to be a musical one and is under the direction of the program chairmen of both organizations.

Peggy Fisher, senior organ major from Warsaw, New York, will play two organ numbers. Frances Smith, junior music major from Maryville, will sing. Another organ solo will be played by Madeline Cooke, sophomore Latin major from Cleveland, Ohio. John Goines, sophomore Bible major from Chattanooga, Tennessee, will present a piano solo.

Several members of the YW cabinet were on the student-faculty committee in charge of arrangements for the Soldiers' Guests' Lounge, which was formally opened Thursday afternoon, October 28. This room, formerly used by the Pi Kappa Delta society and located in the south entrance to Thaw Hall, was prepared for the use of friends and relatives of aircrew students. The committee in charge was headed by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, dean of curriculum. Other faculty members were Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Mr. Ernest C. Brown, engineer, and Miss Katherine Davies, professor of music. Students were Muriel Geisler, president of YW, Virginia Cain, junior mathematics major from Morristown, Tennessee, and Marian Garvin, junior from Bethesda, Maryland.

Mr. Richard Vine Gets Deferment

Mr. Richard W. Vine, former assistant professor of music and director of the choir at Maryville College has been deferred from the army after traveling to Rochester, Minnesota, where he expected to be inducted.

Since the close of the spring term last year Mr. Vine has been employed by the Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation which is working on the Clinton project. Mr. Vine was engaged in personnel work there.

Mr. Vine and his wife and small child will return to Maryville sometime early this week.

FOUNDERS' DAY OBSERVED TODAY

Coach Davis Weds Miss Margaret M. Moroney Saturday

Assistant Coach John A. Davis was married to Miss Margaret M. Moroney of Maryville last Saturday, October 23, at four-thirty p. m. in the home of Dr. F. B. Shelton, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Mrs. Margaret Abbott was the matron-ofhonor.

Mrs. Davis is a graduate of Maryville high school and is associated with the purchasing department of the Aluminum plant in Alcoa. Coach Davis is a graduate of Maryville College. He received his master's degree from Columbia University. He has been a member of the collge faculty since 1940.

Drs. Lloyd, Green Queener Speak at Chapel Service

Theme of Observance "Maryville College During Other Wars"

Founders' Day at Maryville College was observed this morning, October 30, at the regular chapel service. It was the eleventh annual observance since the program was instituted in 1933. The theme of the program was "Maryville College During Other Wars."

The College choir sang as the processional hymn "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past". The audience was led in the invocation by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, professor of English, and chairman of the division of language and literature of Maryville College. Dr. Hunter graduated in the class of 1914.

After the choral response, the college choir sang the anthem "Largo from Xerxes" by Handel.

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of the college for the past 13 years, spoke on "The Earlier Wars" through which Maryville struggled, namely, the Mexican and Civil wars. Dr. Lloyd graduated from Maryville in 1915 and from McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, in 1924. He has received honorary degrees from Maryville College and Centre College.

Following the address by Dr. Lloyd, the choir sang an anthem by Sebelius "Onward Ye Peoples."

Dr. Verton M. Queener of the class of 1924, professor of history and chairman of the division of social sciences, was the second speaker of the morning, using as his subject "Ten Minutes of the War With Spain." Dr. Queener, who is on leave of absence for one year, is employed by the government in the Food Distribution Administration of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C. As a part of his duties, Dr. Queen-

Miss Heron to Read at Workshop

Miss Jessie Heron will be the reader at the next meeting of Writers' Workshop, to be held November 3.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter was the reader last Wednesday. The subject of his informal essay was "Teaching the Army Geography." Frances Grosh was the critic.

At the last meeting resignations were accepted from Bill Buford and Malcolm Thompson. The group also voted to buy a page in the 1944 Chilhowean.

Frantic Frosh Finally Finds Facts—We'll Have Weather, Whether or No

By OLINDE AHERNS

Don't look now, folks, but we are having weather again! It says so on the front page of the newspaper.

And it's none too soon, either, to avert a national calamity. Just think—a new generation is growing up who might never have known what weather is at all. And could you tell them? Of course, with a little research you might be able to quote them some statistics on the correlation of frequencies of seismic disturbances with the hour angle of the moon, from page 2531 of—or am I boring you?

Now that the nice censor is letting us have weather again, what kind will you order? Rain is nice, but a little damp around the edges or do you prefer that "hot" variety, labeled summer? It's wonderful too—for siestas. Or should we all shin in and order snow for those Florida freshmen who have never seen any?

While you are making up your mind, I'll try to figure these out: where will newspapers put the war news that the weather forecast will crowd off the front page; how would you open a conversation if you couldn't talk about the weather?

It isn't only farmers who are dependent on weather, either. Just take the garden variety college gal, for example. How would she solve that all-important problem of "what to wear today" if it weren't "just too hot" for that red wool skirt, once in a while? And what excuse would she have then for buying that new spring hat she dosen't really need? Or whatever could she do to start a conversation with that good looking cadet she just met without "It's a nice day, isn't it?" or "What do you think of this weather we're having?"

And while we're on the subject, did you know I was a weather prophet? My forecast is higher temperatures during mid-semester exams. Rain on the day you plan that picnic, two blanket weather this winter, and—yes, especially for you—another full moon on November 11

According to the publication schedule of the ECHO, the next issue will be November 13.

Homecomers Find College Seal Is Still Where They Left It

By Dorothy Dick

Last year 'twas a different story! It wasn't Homecoming that called us forth from hibernation—the rain drove us in. (And we even had a football team then.) So the queen was crowned half-heartedly on a Saturday afternoon (which took away some of the glamour—and crowd.) Tickets were recalled, money returned! And we poor freshmen never did get a glimpse of the traditional bonfire—we just helped eat the food! Nor did we hear those alumni of 1914 recalling this and that familiar face, remembering that bench, or that streetlight that always pretended to be a brighter satellite of the moon, or wondering if Pearson's food was still Pearson's food!

Homecoming IS Homecoming this year! Even if it rains or pours, a game is scheduled—although it is a highschool affair—an uncrowned queen is ready to be crowned, and a bonfire is waiting to be set aglow! then, too, you've seen the Marines back on their happy hunting ground, and the gobs and gobs of gobs (anyhow it seems like a lot when they all drift in at once!) Faculty members keep showing up—some in the Marines, and some in the band that keeps Washington crowded and crazy.

For all and sundry, this information free—

Yes, 10 demerits are still 10 demerits on this merry campus; you might try getting 12 for extra credit, but 10's still the lucky number. And not only are the young ladies whispering to the young men after 7 o'clock in that book-lined week-nite dating ground, first floor Thaw Hall, but soldiers are beginning to feel the need of study in that bookish atmosphere!

The latest innovation is the soldier's lounge-to-be; location, former debate room in the west wing of Thaw Hall; use, for U. S. nephews and would-be nieces on those oh-so-cold and wintry days.

There's an assistant dietitian too in Pearsons—and a former grad at that. The college seal is there yet in Anderson pool, waiting patiently to greet all second semester seniors the first night of full moon at 12 midnight. If any of you favored few should chance to pass at that early hour, do make the most of it.

There's town night each Tuesday night (some call it open season) for dates—you lucky girls—or double couples of coeds.

Freshmen still learn the rules; the sophs keep forgetting them. The juniors abhore them; the seniors just ignore them.

But, withal, we're still that happy family, ready to share in the memories of those before us who surge back to their alma mater to remember the days when they wore pigtails, sloppy clothes, and a collegiate air.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1943

WELCOME, ALUMNI

To you, alumni and former Maryville students, we wish to extend a very cordial welcome today. Due to inadequate transportation facilities, there are fewer present in body than in spirit. Others of our alumni are represented only by a star in the new service flag.

Founders' Day—with all its programs and tradition—has not changed since you left. Nor have very many of the other tried-and-true customs of Maryville. As today's feature writer has said, even the college seal remains for all who wish to see it.

There is no college football team, but we're enthusiastic about high school games for the duration. And a Homecoming Queen is a pleasant new precedent started since most of our alumni left. Whether we know your names or not, all of us want to be friends with you today. This is going to be our alma mater, and we too will be anxious to return to see if things are running all right since we left.

RUMORS

Buzz, buzz! Here comes the Good Rumor man; or is it? Oh, well, take a nibble and pass it on, what difference does it make? One just hasn't time to stop long enough to take the whole thing, and digest it, or even look too closely at what it is in the first place. This war, you know . . . And so it goes, talk, talk, talk. But, rumors have a way of influencing group opinions and have been recently demonstated on this campus, to be detrimental to the welfare of the interests of the whole. It is simple to repeat a rumor—it doesn't take any thought, just a lot of small talk. But small talk, multiplied by a few hundred students, can, and often does become big talk with far-reaching, and, in some cases, damaging effects. Let's stop and reconsider; think it over; see whether or not it rings true with other verifiable information. Then, if necessary, pass it on.

"UNCENSORED"

By FLORA and FAUNA

Happy Homecoming! You're all triply blessed to have co-lovelies Queen Catherine, and attendants Polly and Virginia to greet you. It's been a long time since the campus has been so resplendent with jumpers (I've been told that is correct), leatherernecks, and khaki. (I must admit we do see an occasional soldier). Anyway, hello. It's pretty nice to have Maryville in common, isn't it?

To compensate for all the sailors we have had visiting us, the Navy is taking away Bob Bruce, Noahal Arnold, and Dave Seel. We hate being melodramatic, fellows, but you can count on a flock of students on 320 acres of Maryville soil rooting for you.

Have you asked Bill Buford, Muriel Geisler, Peggy Caldwell, and Lloyd Anderson?

Here's a story to end all tales about people losing things. Peggy Claypoole lost her pajamas on campus one night and found them weeks later in Pearsons. She lives in Baldwin. In case anybody is reading this who shouldn't be, there is an explanation. All inquirers please send a stamped self addrsesed envlope to the Echo office and you will receive the answer free accompanied by two Dixie cup lids. (We knew our collection would grow but it's no fun sleeping on the cat walk).

Did you hear what Jean Smith called Helen Marie Wilson?

See DARK VICTORY! That play sure is making progress. You can tell by the signs tacked on the library door. Little suggestions like: lines memorized, please; lines must be learned; no books on stage; positively no books on stage; listen, you hams—no books, see.

Yoo-hoo Houdeshel. Behind scenes in the book store, eh. We've seen your terpsichorean artistry. You know there is a time for dancing and a time to refrain from dancing. We also know that you actually kick mail under the door, and quote things like, "It makes me happy as can be, instead of a stamp, I just write free."

Margaret Witt got the snuggliest baby panda rug from Bill Long. You should see her and Betty Lou King's family of animals.

Play: Lights, action, camera.

Characters: Everybody with a dollar who wanted their countenances recorded for posterity in this year's CHILHOWEAN (plug), plus Mr. Sherman Dove of S. H. Georges and Sons, photographers' studio. (Just tell them Flora and Fauna sent you.)

Scene: Mostly behind the curtain in Theta Hall.

Dove: 49. Think of home now. That's just a little sour. O. K. Raise your chin, lift your shoulder, straighten your head, pull it back. Now, look at me. If you can take it for a second.

49: (giggle) I'm supposed to look sophisticated.

Dove: (rising to the occasion) Hah, hah, we charge extra for that. There.

That's fifty cents worth. That's really stuff. I'm not spoofing.

49: (completely taken in) Thank you.

Dove: 50. We'll have to change the position. You boys have deeper set eyes.

50: (a gay fellow) They ought to be popping out, there are more boys here than girls . . .And so on through the days.

Advertisement: If you find a red crew cap, which answers to a whistle please send it to 315 Baldwin, or hang it on a tree, or something. We're lonely.

Shades of ARSENIC AND OLD LACE, but didn't we enjoy the funeral service in 39 Pearsons last Tuesday. And a "real, Christian burial," at that presided over by the Rev. Jeanie Bellerjeau. Muriel and the two Marians are taking it pretty hard, though. Poor Oscar.

"There's no place like home," and so, Leonore, not being able to go there, did the next best thing and brought the family here.

It's MRS. BLACK now, so there. And she really looks radiant.

Another radiant-looking person is Florence Gwyn whos has just been home to see HER hubby.

Oh, would that we had the versatility of Burgreen. First we see him charmingly arrayed as a sweater girl, and next "what to our wondering eyes doth appear," but Charlie in powdered wig and top-hat.

Speaking of Burgreen, that reminds us of bushes and bushes remind us of moon-shining, and moon-shining reminds us of Gutzke and Collins.

If you didn't go on the Y. W. hike to Montvale last week, you really missed something . . . the pull up the mountain . . . the ice cold water from the stream . . . the view from Look Rock . . . the pictures we had taken of us which we hope come out in spite of the fact that they were taken on panchromatic film in glaring sunlight . . . and, best of all, the campfire and FOOD! beans, potatoes, meatballs, apples, buns, pickles, coffee, cookies . . . and sore feet, and home!

"Will you come into my boudoir?" says Malcolm to the mouse, and then he proceeds to cut another notch in the wall. The other night he clubbed a poor innocent victim to death with a pop-bottle, which makes the tenth similar fatality so far this year. Grace Betts doesn't do that—she FEEDS her mouse with an air of hospitality, and now she thinks it's ungrateful because it's gone next door to Lizzie McConnel's room.

Even Dr. Queener can tell by looking at Jordy.

Robert "Special Correspondent" Huber is flush these days and is catching up on his social obligations. First he furnishes crackers in the library, and then ice cream in the Echo office (melted, too, so you can drink it). Anyhow, we're for more.

HERE AND ABOUT

By Robert F. Huber

WHAT OF THE PEACE?

Throughout the United States and throughout the world one can hear talk of the coming peace and what it will mean to the peoples of the world in bringing about a just and lasting peace that will endure. Over national radio networks we can listen to discussions and lectures concerning its prospects and elucidations of the various forms that would be possible. We cannot over emphasize the importance of discussion at this time, for no other problem is as vital to the people of America and to the welfare of the entire world as is this problem of the peace. Unless we find a workable solution we will have recurrences of wars every generation, and our children will live in the same world of fear and hate that now exists. For the sake of future generations as well as for our own security and comfort we must find the best answer to the age old question. The best, and perhaps the only way, is through intelligent discussions held prior to the end of the war.

And it is important that these discussions be held before the conclusion of any armistice, for after that, any peace would be based upon the wishes of the victor over the vanquished and would necessarily be influenced by petty political issues in the various nations. The political and territorial aspirations of certain countries would spoil the chances of a just peace, and it must be remembered that only a just peace can be a lasting one. So it becomes our duty to find some solution to the problem before the minds of men become even narrower than they are.

THREE SOLUTIONS

Just what could be the basis of this just peace we wish to establish? Three solutions seem to stand out. First, we could resort to a policy of political isolation; second, we could suppress politically and economically the agressor nations who started this world conflict; or third, we could form some sort of world organization which would demand the cooperation of all nations in preserving peace and justice in the world. But it must be remembered that these three solutions are simply the three extremes and that there are variations and modifications of all of them.

POLITICAL ISOLATION

The first of these, political isolation, seems to be quite outmoded, for with the development of the modern airplane the world has been drawn closer and closer together so that now there is no spot on the globe that cannot be reached within a short space of ninety flying hours. The significance of this fact is that no country, whether it wishes to or not, can declare itself separated from the rest of the world. The affairs of one nation became the affairs of every other nation, and the living conditions and social status of the people of one land become the concern of all peoples of the world. If freedom is abridged in one part of the world, then our own freedom becomes less secure. Modern means of transportation and communication have tied the world together so that it cannot be separated into small geographic entities. No, political isolation for one small part of the earth's surface is a thing of the past, and cannot intelligently be considered as the basis of a modern peace.

SUBJUGATION

But what of the second answer to the question, political and economic subjugation of the conquered peoples? Would that solve our problem and prevent wars in the future? The answer to that can be found in the origins of the present world war. One of the reasons lies in the injustices found in the Versailles Treaty concluded after the last war. That was in many respects a victor's peace enforced upon the vanquished. History has shown that that kind of a peace is unworkable, for it brought about conditions in the internal affairs of Germany whereby it was almost necessary for the people to find some leader who would solve their ills. Hitler came to power by promising the people that he would rectify the injustices of the treaty by demanding or seizing additional land and sources of raw materials. Such a policy of political and economic strangulation of a people is inhuman, unchristian, undemocratic, and illogical to the point of the ridiculous.

WORLD COOPERATION

Then is the third visible solution, that of international cooperation, the only feasible one? Certainly not, but at the present time when no other plan seems to be in the offing, some sort of world organization does appear to be the only sensible one.

We have tried the other two methods and they have failed to bring satisfactory results. We made an attempt at world organization after the last war, but that met with little success. Its failure, however, was mainly due to the untried nature of the plan and to the fact that the United States and several other nations did not become members and that cooperation for enforcing the peace was not made compulsory.

Just what kind of world organization will be the best is hard to say, but it does seem that we must have one kind or another if we are to maintain peace for any length of time.

PONDER THE MATTER

I have not set out to solve the world's problems but simply to stimulate the mental processes and to get a few thinking people to ponder the matter for a while. Too many people are content to let the matter slide and trust to providence or someone else to work out the solution. It is up to all of us, and if we will just sit down and exercise the grey matter in our craniums we will be able to solve the problem that has been baffling the world for generations: how can an everlasting peace be maintained throughout the world?

TALK OF THE WEEK

By RUTH CARTER

Junior, Sophomore, Freshman Classes Conduct Parties

Last evening, October 29, the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes had their annual parties celebrating Halloween. Each of the classes held their parties separately, and as is the custom, the seniors, who have no party of their own, were invited to the entertainments of any of the other three classes.

Peggy Caldwell was the general chairman for the junior class party. She had on her committee Ellen Pascoe, program chairman, Luke Cross, publicity chairman, Betty Burton, decorations, Phyllis Irshay, refreshments, and Esther Farrow, who was in charge of the cleanup committee. The party was from 7 to 10, and it was in the form of a theater party. After the movie the group went to the basemnt of the Presbyterian church, where a program was given and refreshments were served.

Chairman for the sophomore class party was Thelma Richardson. Serving with her on her committee were Cythia Johnson, Owen McGarity, and Dorothy Dick. The sophomore class party was held in the Y rooms, and it was in the form of a tacky party.

Micky Deerman was in charge of the freshman party, which was held in the Alumni Gym. On her committee wre Jean Messer, Jean Heaps, Sue Whitaker, Squire Kemp, Harold Kidder, and Aldyn Graham. A program given by some of the members of the class was the main entertainment of the evening.

"Messiah" To Be Held Each Sunday

The Messiah will be presented this year on Sunday, December 12, in Voorhees Chapel for the eleventh consecutive time. All persons who like to sing are invited to attend rehearsals on Sunday afternoons from three to four o'clock at the chapel. Rehearsals are under the dirction of Mr. Phillip O. Jones, instructor in voice and director of the choir, who will conduct the production.

The Messiah has been a tradition at Maryville for a number of years and has been produced and received with the greatest enthusiasm. This same enthusiasm has been prevalent at all the rehearsals so far. There are several hundred women composing soprano and alto sections, but only nine tenors. Unless the men of the campus take more interest and pride in its production, the "Messiah" cannot come up to standards achieved in past years.

Copies of the "Messiah" are available at the book store.

Students of Music Department Give Bi-Weekly Recitals

Student recitals are to be given bi-weekly in Voorhees Chapel by students in the Music Department. The recitals begin promptly at 4:30 p.m. and last forty-five minutes. All students taking individual lessons are required to attend.

The first recital will be given on Tuesday, November 2. The following students will perform:

Ruth Orr, "Happy Playmates," "The Guitar Serenade."

Gerry Belcher, "Ave Aaria," Bach-Gounod.

Louise Lloyd, "Prelude in G Major."

Peggy Cummings, "Polish Dance," Schawenka.

Frances Smith, "Connais-tu le pays?" Mignon-Thomas.

Jean Keen, "Fugue in D Major" —Bach, "White Donkey"—Sibert.

Rosalind Garges, "Concerto in D Minor," Wieniaski.

Mary Jamison, "Jraeludium," MacDowell.

Sarah Cameron, "Gneral Lavin—eccentric", Debussy.

Ruth Cathcart, "Ah! Io so", Magic Flute—Mozart.

Estelle Farrow, "Cavatina", Roff.

Athenian and Bainonian Meet

Athenian and Bainonian had a joint meeting Saturday night, October 16 in the chapel. Highlights of this meeting were: a duet sung by Malcolm Thompson, who was then assisted in a skit by John Houdeshel. A humorous lecture on pre-historic animals was given by Cythia Johnson, and a group of rousing cheers wre led by Bob Barker.

October 23 Athenian met in Athenian hall, and after the other business had been disposed of, the members undertook the task of duly initiating the group of new members. The following is a list of those who were initiated:

John Poland, Robert Dockendrof, Carroll Stegall, Harold Kidder, John Ross, Tommy Parkinson, Henry Crowson, and James Witherspoon. Other new members are Bill Buford, John Houdeshell, Rush Lester, and John Shell. None of this latter group was present at the initiation ceremonies.

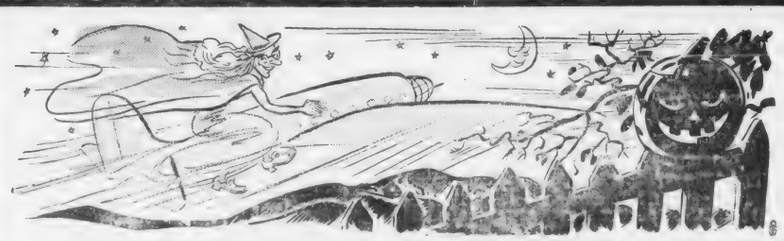
There will be no Athenian meeting tonight because of the football game.

Ministerials Hold Musical Program Thursday Evening

Lawrence Sthreshley, a senior from Hopewell, Virginia, led a program consisting of stories concerning well-known hymns of the church at the meeting of the ministerial association Thursday, October 28, in Athenian Hall.

The music was provided by Harold Eaken, who played several selections on the violin, and Harry Ferguson and John Poland, who played a trumpet duet.

Devotional services at the Blount County jail are being conducted each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. by the ministerial association. These services are under the direction of Lyle Knaupp, senior English major from Portland, Oregon.



The officers of the association for the present semester are: president, Hubert Rust, from Jacksonville, Florida; first vice-president, Lawrence Sthreshley, Hopewell, Virginia; second vice-president, John C. Taylor, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; and secretary-treasurer, Paul Moehlman, Indianapolis, Indiana.

SPORTS

INTRAMURALS

By Parkinson and Poland

"Y" Frosh has emerged the official winner of the 1943 intramural football season. The freshmen in their last two games secured a firmer hold on first place by defeating both "Y" Cabinet and Athenian. Athenians placed second and "Y" Cabinet placed third.

On October 19 the freshmen defeated "Y" Cabinet 6-0. In a hard fought game "Y" Cabinet vainly tried to score. The Cabinet issued the freshmen their one and only defeat in the very first game of the season. Outstanding for the freshmen were Jack Riley and Tommy Parkinson, who scored the freshman touchdown.

On the same day Alpha Sigma forfeited to Athenian 1-0.

On October 21 Athenian went down before the freshmen in their biggest defeat of the season. Athenian, who had been beaten twice before by the versatile freshmen, lost 12-0. Riley and Johnny Poland scored the touchdowns for "Y" Frosh. Outstanding for the freshmen were Lester and Riley and for Athenian, Easter and Moehlman.

On the twenty-first "Y" Cabinet, too, accepted a forfeit from Alpha Sigma.

Outstanding Players

Freshmen: Riley, Lester, Parkinson, Poland.

Athenian: Easter, Moehlman, Rust.

"Y" Cabinet: Buford, Anderson, Taylor.

Alpha Sigma: Dilliner, Cover.

Following are the teams and players:

Athenian: Wally Easter, Paul Moelhman, Hubert Rust, David Seel, Harry Ferguson, Jack Ross, John Kirstein, Bob Barker, and Harold Kidder.

"Y" Frosh: Rush Lester, Tommy Parkinson, Jack Riley, John Poland, Abbott Kemp, Tehon Birchfield, Henry Crowson, Leonard Schieber, Marvin Turner, and Harold Henry.

"Y" Cabinet: Bill Buford, John Taylor, Lloyd Anderson, Paul Smith, Abner Richards, Joe Brown, Bob Seel, and Jack Scott.

Alpha Sigma: Roy Dilliner, Bill Cover, Ben Lynt, Jim Foreman, Lawrence Shreshley, Charlie Burgreen and Dick Brophy.

Final Box Score

	W	L	Pts.	Pts.	Per.
"Y" Frosh	7	1	48	12	.875
Athenian	5	3	41	27	.625
"Y" Cabinet	4	4	47	32	.500
Alpha Sigma	0	8	6	50	.000

Tennis Tournament

Due to the bad weather conditions during the past couple of weeks there have been only two matches played off in the men's intra-mural tennis tournament. Lloyd Anderson beat Carroll Stegall (6-1) (6-1) to gain the place in the semifinal match with Harold Huffman. Stegall has previously beaten Bill Cover (6-4) (7-5) in the only other match completed since the last issue of the ECHO came out.

Luther Cross and Abbott Kemp attempted to play off their semi-final match to see which of them would play in the finals, but dark came on before they could finish their match. Kemp won the first set (6-2). Cross took the second (6-3), and the third and deciding set had reached the score of five gams for Cross and two for Kemp when they had suspended activities.

Everett and TSD Meet On Wilson Field This Evening

Tonight at 8:30 the Everett High School eleven will meet the Tennessee School for the Deaf on the Maryville College field in a football game which promises to be the best game yet to be played here this season. Everett is using Wilson Field as its home field this year, and has played two games here previously this season. They won from both Townsend and Vonore by safe margins; Everett has also played Maryville, Young, and Knoxville High, losing to all three. Everett participated in a tie game with Alcoa. T.S.D. will be out to get their first victory of this season. They have only played three games so far. This high school game is to take the place of traditional Maryville College game in the annual Homecoming celebration.

Former MC Girl Jo Gillette Works In Aircraft Plant

"Some day the warplanes I'm helping to equip with Curtiss Electric Propellers may be of great benefit to my brother, George, who has enlisted in the Navy," says attractive Josephine D. Gillette, who recently accepted a position as engineering assistant with the Curtiss Propeller Division, Caldwell, New Jersey.

Josephine, who lives in Vineland, New Jersey, states that she derives her mathematical leanings from her father who is a civil engineer in the State Highway Department.

Immediately after graduating from Vineland High School she enrolled in Maryville College, Maryville, Tennessee, where she majored in mathematics.

The 23-year-old mathematician, received her A. B. degree last May, and that same month went to work in the Jersey Proplier plant. While in college she was a member of the Glee Club and was active in the Bainonian Society.

Transferred from one department to another, in order that she would be placed in the department where her particular talents would be put to the best use, she was finally assigned to engineering research where daily she checks difficult calculations on newly designed propellers.

Besides her 18-year-old brother George, who will shortly be assigned to one of the Navy's V-12 training schools, she has two other younger sisters, one of whom is in college.

"We depend on our boys to keep 'em flying, and our boys depend on us to keep 'em supplied," is how Josephine feels about the important role she is playing on the home front.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

The WAVES beat the WACS in the last csoccer game, 3-2 in a two minute overtime period, in a finish which neatly charterized the entire tournament. In all, the WAVES garnered 13 points; the WACS, 12; they tied two and each won two games.

The players are for the WAVES: forwards, Burnett, Gudel, Winn; halfbacks, Moughton, Robinette; fullbacks, Lavender, Justice; goalie, Summers; wings, Enloe, King. Barbara Burnett was captain and Margaret Hunt, manager.

For the WACS: forwards, Russell, Stout, Richardson; halfbacks, Stout, Peterson, Bellerjeau; fullbacks, Burleigh, Bernadini; wings, Thomas, Messer; goalie, Garvin. Pete Peterson was captain, Marion Stout, manager.

During the play positions were interchanged and substitutes put in some fine playing. Winnie Summers, goalie for the WAVES was unable to play after the third game because of a sprained ankle (gotten off the field.) Skip Farrow guarded the goal in fine form the last three games. Her technique was different from Winnie's in that she played fairly down in the goal line. Neat goalie work was done by Marian Garvin for the WACS, too. Thus a position which is usually hard to play was filled in admirably by players on both sides. Shaw for the WAVES, and Odom and Wood for the WACS did some nice substituting.

Too many points on both sides were gotten by wing toss-ins from the foul line. Of course it's absolutely legitimate and natural to a teams advantage to get points this way, but it detracts from the skill and sharpness on the game.

The entire tournament was a vigorous battle from the start. The teams were very well matched, spirits soared high on both sides, and luck played no special favorites.

Vigorous Battle

After the first game or so, players were warned to accept the referees word as law. This is as it should be. A bit of argument makes a game more challenging, and in the heat and progress of the game referee Stevie Boretsky's word was momentarily disputed, but everyone knew if the game was to be fair at all her first decision must stand.

The games were fast and fun; and taught all players on the field and on the bench a little more about soccer, sportsmanship, and people.

Let's hope the coming basketball season is as exciting, and maybe a little more paced.

Army regulations change the regular time for meeting. Heretofore the WAVES will meet on Monday at 4:30, the WACS on Wednesday at 4:30, and both groups on Thursday at 4:30.

SERVICE STARS

The following former Maryville students reported to Maxwell Field, Alabama, October 26: Jefferson I. Breazeale, Jr., a former member of the present junior class; Robert Herzberger, a senior; Charles Hoglan, Jr., a junior; Frank Still, a sophomore; and Gordon Webb, a senior. These aviation cadets are receiving nine weeks of intensive physical, military and academic instruction at Maxwell Field, preparatory to beginning their actual flight training at one of the many primary flying schools located in the Army Air Forces Eastern Flying Training Command.

A-c Bill "Red" McCord is stationd at Fletcher Fleld, Clarksdale, Mississippi for pilot training. Red is a former letterman of the wrestling team and a band member of the class of 1944.

I. B. Rodgers, who attended Maryville College in 1941, is stationed at Duke University in the Marines training program.

Mrs. Brown Speaks At Nature Club

Monday night, October 18, the Nature Club met in Miss Green's lecture room. Mrs. Brown spoke on "Leaves." The club discussed plans for starting a "Red Bud Lane." The plan is to transplant the red bud three from behind the College Maid Shop to the gates leading to Little Town. One tree is to be added to the lane each year.

At the next meeting to be held November 1, Margaret Messer and Micky Deerman are to be the speakers.

Faculty Club

Monday, November 8, the Faculty Club will hold its first meeting of the year in the dining hall of the home economics department. Dr. E. R. Hunter will read a paper on the "Language of Poetry." Members of the club are composed of the Maryville college staff and their wives and husbands. Due to the rationing of food, the club has been forced to discontinue the monthly dinners held in previous years. Instead, it will meet at 8 o'clock on the first Monday of every month, and refreshments will be served. Chairman of the club is Dr. H. E. Orr.

All Grads Receive October Issue of Alumni Magazine

The October issue of the Alumni Magazine is now at the printer's. It will be out next week and is to be mailed to all alumni and to those alumni and former students in the armed forces whose addresses are known. Any college student who knows of a former college student in the service whose address would not be known is asked to contact the Public Relations Office. A copy of the magazine will be placed in the college library for students' use.

This issue will contain pictures of the College Training Detachment on our campus. Activities of various graduates will be found in the space designating their year. Births, marriages and deaths will also be recorded. Notices of faculty changes and the deaths of Mr. F. L. Proffitt and Professor Ralph R. Colbert will be in the issue.

Edmunds Elected Pre-Med Head

Polly Edmunds, a sophomore chemistry major from Charleston, West Virginia, is the newly elected president of the Pre-Med club. She was chosen to fill the vacancy made when the former president, Bill Buford, resigned. Polly had been vice-president.

Other officers who were elected at the same meeting are: Peggy Case, vice-president; Agnes Peterson and Millie Cundiff, program chairmen.

Shirley Montgomery is secretary of the club, and Carol Gillette is the treasurer. The Pre-Med club meets every second and fourth Thursday nights.

Navy V-12 & Army Tests Given Nov. 9

Candidates wishing to be considered for the Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Program V-12 will take the qualification tests on November 9, beginning at 8:30 a. m. According to Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary, about fifteen college and high school students will take this test at Maryville College. The same test was given April 20, 1943, and there is a prospect that it will be given again next spring for people qualifying after this present test is given.

Taking this test does not constitute enlistment in either branch of the armed services, and a student taking the test is not obligated to enter the program if he is accepted.

The purpose of the ASTP is to provide technicians and specialists for the Army and of the NCP to provide officers for the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Those selected for these programs will study, at the government's expense, at colleges and universities in fields determined largely by their own qualifications. Students in the program will be on active duty, in uniform, and under military discipline, receiving regular Army or Navy pay.

Anyone desiring further information about this program may contact Mr. James R. Smith, at the Public Relations Office.

ALPHA SIGMA

Duane Collins, the newly elected president of the Alpha Sigma society, presided over the meeting held Saturday, October 23, in the Alpha Sigma hall. After a business meeting, in which the members were told that their hall was going to be taken over by the school for class work of various types, the members adjourned to th "Y" rooms where they had a recreational period.

Prayer Meeting

Hubert Rust, senior sociology major from Jacksonville, Florida, and president of the ministerial association, led the devotional service at the weekly prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 6:45 p. m. in the Y rooms.

During the song service Carroll Stegall led the singing and Jeanne Heaps played the piano.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The social committee is making plans for an entertainment Saturday, November 13, but nothing definite can be announced at the present time.

This week-end the social program will consist of a picnic supper to be held on the athletic field at 5:30 p.m. and a football game between Everett High School and the Tnnessee School for the Deaf. The following week the first Artist Series of the present school year will be held, featuring Miss Eileen Farrell, soprano soloist.

Soldier Lounge

Faculty women have donated all the furniture from their lounge on the second floor of Thaw to be used for the new room, while other furniture was donated by YM and YW. The committee was granted the sum of $20.00 by the college. The partition was made into an archway and further electrical wiring was arranged.

Hostesses from women's organizations of various churches in town will be present four afternoons a week, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. The churches participating are the New Providence Presbyterian, the First Baptist, and the First Methodist. If the need arises, the lounge may be kept open from noon until 5:30. Captain Ladd has notified the aircrew students in regard to this room, and all students of the college are requested to cooperate by informing strangers on the campus of the availability of this lounge.

Two weeks ago, Captain Ladd notified the Chatterbox committee, consisting of Muriel Geisler, president of the YWCA, Bill Buford, president of the YMCA, and Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, that the army supply store, the post exchange, would in the future be operated by the Chatterbox. The "PX" is to operate in Carnegie Hall as previous, with the exception of ice cream sales which will be handled by the Chatterbox. Wally Easter, junior sociology major from Washington, D. C., has been appointed manager of the "PX" in Carnegie. He has chosen as his assistant Rush Lester of Birmingham, Alabama. Students working in the "PX" will be considered Chatterbox employees and will be paid accordingly.

The YW also maintains regular mission work at Hale Public School for Negro children. This work is done on Thursday afternoons under the direction of Miriam Bowditch, junior religious education major, with a committee from the YW. This committee is being assisted by a representative from the YM, Abbott Kemp, who directs recreation among the older boys. In addition to this work, the YW has two freshman girls, Donna Smalley and Waneda Norman, coaching girls' basketball games four days a week. John Poland of the YM is coaching the boys in basketball twice a week.

Tuesday afternoon, October 26, arrangements were made with the Girl Scout commission to furnish assistant leaders for Girl Scout troops in this vicinity. Ten girls have been chosen and others are being contacted.

Bainonian Has "Spook" Program

Tonight at 6:15 in Bainonian Hall, the Bainonian Society will hold its Halloween program.. It is to be a "spooky" affair and no member can afford to miss it. The meeting will be dismissed in time for the football game.

November 6, the Freshmen are to have charge of the program.

IRC Will Present Musical Program

International Relations Club will have an all musical program at its meeting Monday, November 1. The program, in charge of Mary Barnwell, will include a collection of folk songs and national anthems from about twenty-five different countries. The weekly news review will be given by John Poland.

I.R.C. is contemplating a series of lectures on diplomacy, which will deal with procedures of negotiation and patterns for carrying on international relations. Bette Lou McCoy will give a talk in the near future on United States foreign policy.

Six new membrs were voted into I.R.C. at the meeting October 25. They are Bill Cover, Dorothy Dick, Cynthia Johnson, Lyle Knaupp, Thelma Richardson, and Mary Batchelor.

I.R.C. reports that its war stamp drive is making good progress under the direction of Margaret Gessert.

Dr. Herrick Young Is Chapel Speaker Next Wednesday

Wednesday of next week the chapel speaker will be Dr. Herrick Young, secretary of the missionary personnel of the Board of Foreign Missions, New York. Dr. Young will arrive Tuesday night and, in addition to speaking at chapel, will possibly meet with the cabinet of the Student Volunteers. Plans for this meeting are yet indefinite. He is especially interested in students who are already in correspondence with the Board or those interested in work under the Board of Foreign Missions.

The speaker at Chapel last Wednesday, October 27, was Mr. Henry T. Ware, secretary for the student Y.M.C.A.'s in ten southern states. He is under appointment of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'S and visits many colleges each year. He has been a dean of men in a college and has had a variety of experiences with young people. Although Mr. Ware has visited at Maryville previously he has never appeared before the student body until his recent visit. After leading in the devotional service, he spoke on "Living Your Best in a World at Its Worst."

ticipated in the program. Dr. Lloyd spoke on the subject "The Army Training Program and Higher Education" while Dr. Hunter read a paper entitled "Teaching English as a Modern Language." Mrs. Snyder and Mr. McCurry served as chairmen of discussion groups.

The speakers at the general sessions and their subjects were: Elbert D. Thomas, senator from Utah, "The New Pacific"; Walter D. Head, headmaster of Montclair Academy, Montclair, New Jersey, "Practical Aspects of Post-War Planning"; and Honorable Josh Lee, former United States senator from Oklahoma, "Aviaton's Part in World Reorganization."

Three YW Talkers To Be On Vesper Program Sunday

The Vesper srvice tomorrow evening will be in charge of the YWCA. The theme, "Triumphant Living," will be divided into three parts, each of which will be the topic of a brief talk.

Marian Stout, a senior sociology major from New York City, will speak on "Spiritual Discovery." The second speaker will be Helen Anderson, a senior English major from Rockford. Her subject will be "Personal Stability." Virginia Cain, a second semester junior mathematics major from Morristown, will speak on "Service."

Johnnye Gudel, a senior biology major from Chattanooga, will offer the invocation and the benediction.

er oversees the compilation and publication of monthly reports on agricultural commodities sent out on lend-lease orders. This branch also prepares an inventory report on what ecommodities are on hand and where they are located. Dr. Queener expects to return to Maryville College at the beginning of the next fall term.

Dr. Susan Green then addressed the audience on "Ten Minutes of the First World War." A graduate of Smith College, Dr. Green is professor of biology and chairman of the division of science at Maryville.

Dr. Lloyd led the audience in the responsive reading, after which the choir sang as the recessional hymn, "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken." The service was closed with the benediction.

Last year on October 31, the speakers for the morning chapel service commemorating Founders' Day were the Rev. Dr. John A. McAfee, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, Mr. Joseph O. Houston, an elder and member of one of the old familiies in the Eusebia Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Thomas A. Pope, grandson of Mr. Fielding Pope. The founder honored last year was Fielding Pope, who became a professor in the College fourteen years after it was founded and was a member of the faculty until 1850. He was one of a trio and sometimes a quartet which made up the entire faculty in those days.

Feeback Elected German Club Head

Newly elected officers of the German club are: Verne Feeback, president; Becky Davis, vice-president; Nancy Bryant, secretary-treasurer; and Lula Callaway, program chairman. They were elected at a meeting held October 18 in the phiposophy class room. Verne Feeback presided over the meeting until a new president had been elected.

The main part of the business discussion was taken up with the acceptance of a contract for space in the Chilhowean and the suggestion that all dues be paid promptly in order that the club picture might be soon made and paid for.

Bruce, Arnold and Seel Leave School To Enter US Navy

Three men from the present student body have recently been called into the armed forces. Robert Bruce and Noahal Arnold have already left, and David Seel will leave tomorrow afternoon. Robert Bruce, president of the freshman class during the spring term, is with the Naval Air Corps at the University of South Carolina. He was a Spanish major from New York City.

Noahal Arnold, a freshman from Baker, Florida, will report to Emory University November 1 for Navy V-12 Midshipman training. He left college early in order to make a short visit to his home before entering the service.

David Seel, a sophomore chemistry major from Bradenton, Florida, will leave Sunday to report for Navy V-12 technical training at Tulane University, New Orleans.

French Club Elects Irshay President

Phyllis Irshay was elected president of the French club at the last meeting, held October 28 in the YWCA rooms. Other officers elected at this meeting were Betty Ballard, vice president; Sara Cameron, scretary; and Rosalind Gargas, treasurer.

The program consisted of a story, which Mary Grace Hall read. It was a war story entitled "La Silence de la Mare." It was written in French and recently appeared in LIFE magazine.

"Dark Victory" To Be Presented in Voorhees Chapel

NOVEMBER 20

Mathews and Lynt Have Leading Roles In Play Production

"Dark Victory," a play in three acts, will be presented in Voorhees Chapel on the night of November 20. It is being directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of Dramatic Art, and it bids fair to be another in her long chain of successful presentations.

George Brewer Jr. and Bertram Bloch are the authors of this play, which was a success on Broadway and on the motion picture screen. It is a well written tragedy about the sparkling love affair of doctor and patient.

Alice Mathews, a December senior and recent choice for Who's Who Among American Universities and Colleges, is to play the very difficult role of Judith Traherne, patient and chief heart interest. She will be supported by a cast of characters designed chiefly to serve as foils to her variegated personality. Included in the cast are Helen Anderson, Bill Buford, Duane Collins, Jim Foreman, Mary Grace Hall, Dorothy Lehman, Ben Lynt, Thelma Richardson, Ruby Sellers, and Jack Scott.

Charles Burgreen, senior from Homestead, Florida, is serving as stage manager for the production. Priorities have made the securing of materials for stage crew work a real problem, but work is progressing in this department.

Joint business managers for the play are Joe Brown, manager of the Chatterbox, and Nancy Russel, a candidate for Theta Alpha Phi. It has been agreed upon by this commitee that tickets will sell for 35 cents, and will be put on sale at an early date.

Problems confronting the properties committee chiefly concern the securing of a telephone and a

Sixteen Debaters Attend First Class Held by Dr. Briggs

Wednesday evening, November 10, at 7 o'clock, all upperclassmen interested in debate assembled in Dr. David Briggs' classroom to begin work on the Pi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis. Dr. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, will coach debate this year in the absence of Kendrick M. Queener, professor of [illegible] and chairman of the division of social sciences, who is on leave of absence for one year.

It was decided that the group should meet every Friday night from 7 to 8 o'clock. As yet, the place of meeting is undecided. Announcement will be made later. Anyone interested is urged to come to the next meeting to be held November 19. at 7 o'clock.

Tryouts for varsity team will be held shortly after the beginning of next semester. It is hoped that the Maryville College squad will be able to participate in the Intermont Tournament, Carson-Newman Tournament and the Hickory, North Carolina, Tournament.

Sophomores Speak At YWCA Service Sunday Afternoon

Following a well liked pattern of Sunday afternoon vesper worship service, the Y.W.C.A. will feature this week an all sophomore program of speakers who will take for their subjects the principle women of the Bible.

The Bible women to be covered in these short talks are those whose lives serve as examples of near-ideal living. They are Ruth, Esther, and Mary, the mother of Jesus.

Dorothy Dick, a sophomore ECHO reporter and home economics major from Hanover, Pennsylvania will speak about Ruth. Marjorie Stokesberry, an education major from Rockford, Illinois, is a member of the choir and has been serving faithfully on the soldier's lounge committee; she will speak about Esther. Helen Marie Wilson, an English major and member of the ECHO staff, has been a Nu Gamma leader and member of last year's Frosh debate squad; she will talk on Mary, the mother of Jesus.

Y. W. meets each Sunday after dinner in the Y.W. rooms at the rear of the Home Practise House, Thaw Hall.

STAMP DRIVE

Reports from Marguerite Grissett, head of the war stamp committee, show that for the month of October sales amounted to $85.81. This indicates a decrease in sales since September, when stamps sold amounted to over $200. Students are reminded that stamps are on sale in the book-store at all times.

Christmas Vacation To Begin Dec. 16

The Christmas holidays are scheduled to begin December 16 and will continue through January 11. Students must be back for chapel on the morning of January 12.

The usual holiday penalty will be applied to those students who do not return on time. The penalty is 1-2 hour and 1 1-2 grade points deducted from the credit of each course that is cut. Confusion has been caused in previous years with respect to change of schedules. All students are expected to attend those classes for which they have registered until they are officially changed in the Personnel Office. Students are held responsible to attend classes according to the new semester's schedule or holiday penalties will be applied.

Alumni Gym Is Scene Of Mazdadaze Nov. 25

The Barnwarming committee announces the theme of this Thanksgiving festival as "When The Lights Go On Again All Over The World," to be presented Thursday evening, November 25, at 7:30 p.m. Barnwarming highlights are held each fall semester at Maryville. This year it is named "Mazdadaze." Possibly further explanation of the title will be given before the event.

The Y. W. C. A. sponsors this program. This year its cabinet members on Barnwarming are Peggy Caldwell and Virginia Cain. They are responsible for the overseeing of all plans and appointments of committee chairmen and committees.

As customary, the program will be in the Alumni Gym. At this time the king and queen of Barnwarming and the class sponsors will be presented. No more program plans will be revealed until the performance.

Zenobia Bernardini heads the program committee which consists of Stevie Boretsky, Lloyd Anderson, Bob Barker, and Fay Cameron. Other committee chairmen are Phyllis Irshay, booth committee; Cynthia Johnson, decorations; Jeana Eddleman, advertising and publicity; Margaret Messer, refreshments. Committee members will be appointed by these chairmen.

An added attraction to this year's Barnwarming festival will be the cadet orchestra to furnish the music. Three cadets, Hank Anderson, Bill Pointin, and Bob Beals are heading the cadets in planning for the occasion. All of the soldiers at the college will be permitted to attend the affair.

Different organizations and groups are planning booths, one of which will be for refreshments.

Admission tickets will be twenty-five cents each plus a small amusement tax. Funds received from the entertainment will go to the War Emergency Fund to be used for relief of foreign students, for prisoners of war, or in camps. This organization was formerly called the World Student Service Fund until they were merged into one organization.

Pino To Speak At IRC On Cubans

Monday evening, November 7, at 7 o'clock, the regular meeting of the International Relations Club was held in the YWCA rooms. Edelmiro Pino, from Cuba and a transfer student here, talked on "What the Cubans Think of the United States." The news review was given by John C. Taylor, a junior English major. Malcolm Thompson, the president of the club and a senior history major, presided.

Next Monday evening, November 15, at 7 o'clock, the club will meet to hear Hubert Rust discuss "Problems of the Post War Settlements." "Rusty" is a senior majoring in sociology. Mary Batchelor, a sophomore, will review the news.

November 22, the topic to be discussed is "American Foreign Policy." Bette Lou McCoy, who is a sophomore and a religious education major, is to be the speaker.

Ministerials Hear Dr. Ralph T. Case Thursday Evening

Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology, and faculty adviser of the Ministerial association, spoke to the group on the subject, "The Minister's Place in the Community," Thursday evening, November 11.

John Kirstein, sophomore psychology major, Asheville, N. C., was in charge of the devotions and Owen McGarity, sophomore political science major from Croyden, Pennsylvania, led the singing at the short service which preceded the message by Dr. Case.

John C. Taylor, second semester junior from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, spoke at the devotional service at the Blount County jail last Sunday. These services are sponsored by the ministerial association and are conducted each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Student Council Proposes New Election Rules

The Student Council will meet Monday night, November 15, in Dr. Orr's classroom, Thaw Hall, at 8:15.

The following new procedure and policy, drawn up by the elections commitee of the Student Council, was approved and passed by the Student Council at their last meeting November 1. This procedure will be in effect at the next election in charge of the elections committee, and is therefore a general interest to Maryville students.

Procedure and Policy for the Student Council Elections
Committee

Organizations to have the elections committee take charge of an election should give notice to the chairman of the elections committee at least one week before the scheduled time for the election.

Whenever practicable, voting on candidates shall be according to numerals assigned to them after nominations are made. This procedure will greatly facilitate the counting of the votes by the committee. Lists of the numerals and names of the candidates shall be kept by several persons, including some person or persons on the elections committee.

The elections committee shall have the authority to declare an election invalid or hold it open for a longer term than originally scheduled if at least 80 percent of the eligible voters do not vote. Furthermore, in the event that a vote of 80 percent does not give a majority of the possible votes to the leading candidate, a vote of 90 percent of the possible number shall be required for a valid election.

The elections committee shall have the authority to invalidate by a two-thirds vote of the committee, or of the number of members of the committee present at a counting of ballots, any ballot that appears spurious or irregular.

The elections committee strongly recommends to every group having an election that all candidates, successful or not, be notified as soon as conveniently possible of their status after the counting of the ballots. This shall be the responsibility of the group to which the elections apply.

Music Department Plans Series of Record Programs

Monday 15. will be the beginning of weekly programs to be held in the Record Room 116 on first floor of Voorhees Chapel. Programs will begin every afternoon at 4:30 p.m. Everyone is invited.

The program for this week is as follows:

Monday, "6th Tchaikovsky Symphony."

Tuesday, "Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto."

Wednesday, "Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2."

Thursday. Excerpts from Verdi's opera, La Traviata.

Friday, Russian liturgical music (by the Don Cossack chorus).

On Saturday, there will be no planned program. Students may bring their own records or choose from those already in the record room.

Three record rooms are available. One is to be used for the special weekly programs. The other two are for private use by the students.

Outside the main record room is posted a list of new albums and records received this semester.

Character, Scholarship, Leadership Are Requisites For Membership

Dr LeCount Speaks At Chapel Tuesday

Rev. Dr. R. Dale LeCount, pastor of the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Alabama, will be the speaker at chapel next Tuesday morning, November 16. His topic will be announced later. The first period class on Tuesday will be shortened so that the long chapel service will not interfere with classes.

Dr. LeCount is a newly elected member of the Board of Directors of Maryville College. He was elected last June. The annual meeting of the Board of Directors will be this Tuesday. The long chapel service has been moved up from Wednesday to Tuesday because Dr. LeCount will be here that day only for the meeting.

Religious Drama To Be Presented At Vesper Service

Departing from the customary practice of having speakers at the weekly Sunday night vesper services, the program tomorrow night will be in the nature of a dramatic presentation of Biblical interest. A play by Zoe Atkins entitled "The Little Miracle" will be offered by the members of the Religious Drama 309 class, under the supervision of Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

The time of the play is shortly after the incident of the boy Jesus' being lost from his parents at the age of twelve while in Jerusalem, and the setting, of course, is in the Holy Land.

Participating in the play will be Nancy Russel as Anna, Thelma Richardson as Lydia, Miriam Boddith as Joanna, Dorothy Toomey who will be Mary, Muriel Geisler who will portray Elizabeth, cousin of Mary, Jean Batchelor as Marienine, and Ruth Lloyd and Lottie Lavendor as her children, Martha and James.

Because the stage will be set for this production, the choir will be placed in the balcony and will offer several numbers during the course of the evening's program.

The next ECHO will be published November 20.

REFERENCE VOLUME WILL BE ESTABLISHED ON BIOGRAPHIES

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1943-44 includes the following nine Maryville College students: Helen Louise Anderson, Donald Lincoln Barker, Billye Ruth Braly, William Alton Buford, Virginia Lee Cain, Muriel Elizabeth Geisler, Alice Louise Mathews, Betty Jane Miller, and Malcolm Thompson.

More than ten years ago the idea of creating a national basis of recognition for students, devoid of politics, initiation fees, and dues, was conceived. After two years of research, correspondence, travel, and interviews with college officials, the first publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges appeared in 1934-35.

The publication has a two-fold purpose: first, to serve as an outstanding honor in which a deserving student, after displaying merit in college and accomplishing his goals, would be given recognition without having to pay some fee; second, to establish a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of America's leading college students.

Character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society are the requisites for membership. Any senior, junior, or student in advanced work is eligible for consideration. Membership in Who's Who is the appropriate climax of a student's career, summing up all the social or scholastic honors that he has attained.

Colleges vary in their methods of selection for this honor. In most schools the nominations are made by a committee under some college executive—president,, dean, or registrar; in other schools, the nominations are made by a committee composed of both faculty members and students. No matter what the procedure, each student is conscientiously and impartially after his qualifications have been carefully considered. At Maryville the selections are made by an unbiased committee of faculty members and the student council.

There are seven seniors and two juniors from Maryville listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges this year.

Helen L. Anderson, an English major from Rockford, Tennessee, is on the YW cabinet, is vice-president of the Student Council, vice-president of Bainonian, and a member of the governing board of Writers' Workshop. She was vice-president of her class in her freshman year and a May Day attendant in her sophomore year. Last year she was in the daisy chain. Helen was also a Nu Gamma leader, a member of the band and glee club and on the honor roll.

DISC CLUB

Disc Club will meet this coming Thursday, at 6:40 p.m. There will be a quiz program on themes and selections from well-known symphonies which have been played before in Disc Club.

Ben Lynt will be in charge of the program. All members are reminded to bring pencils with them. Paper will be furnished by the club.

Miss Yolanda Barnett Speaks Here On Intercollegiate Councils

By Helen Marie Wilson

Miss Yolanda Barnett, inter-racial field secretary for the YWCA, was a guest of the Maryville College YWCA November 6 and 7. While on campus, Miss Barnett spoke to the YW cabinet, the YW worship service, and the Student Volunteers. She is a graduate of Ohio State University, having received her master's degree from there in 1937. She was formerly a teacher of mathematics and social science in a junior high school in Louisville, Kentucky, her hometown.

In her work among students in colleges and universities, Miss Barnett must travel extensively. During the year she has been engaged in this work, she has been in the southwestern and middle-western states. Just prior to her visit here, she had met with college students in Atlanta, Birmingham, Jackson, Mississippi, and Nashville. When interviewed Miss Barnett said "I like traveling. Of course it's not much fun if you have to sit up all night. But I only had to do that once." From here Miss Barnett went to North Carolina and Virginia. She expects to be at home for Thanksgiving and then to leave for her New York office December 1.

The main purpose of Miss Barnett's work is to organize intercollegiate councils which are to meet at regular intervals. Although some form of these councils has been set up in several colleges, the organizations have not always functioned as they should. "I am trying to see what can be done to encourage life and growth in those. We're going to get them started all over the United States. The North has not perhaps so great a problem to get students interested. However, it is certainly promising to see a growing toward understanding and appreciation here in the South. We are anticipating the time when no one will see any logic in racial prejudice. Then we'll come to the day when we, as a race, will be judged with others on a basis of merit rather than a basis of color."

Aircrew Students Present Musical Program Tonight

"Kacki-Wacki" is the name given to the entertainment to be presented tonight in the alumni gym at 7:45 by members of the air forces detachment on the campus. The program will be in the form of a musical quiz with student participation. Those to take part in the quiz will be selected at random as they enter the gym.

Marvin Silbersher, Frank Klemens, John Loving, and Rupert Rudis will provide the musical element. The first named will give twin piano numbers. Those who attended the barn dance on Saturday night, October 23, will remember these two as also the 42nd CTD's "Sinatra" in the person of Frank Klemens. He accompanied his own songs and will sing as part of the program. John Loving will tapdance, accompanied by Marvin Silbersher. Master of ceremonies will be Cadet Tucker Pinner.

"COMING OF AGE?"

Recent developments on the home front in political and governmental circles have indicated that the United States has at last "come of age" and done so with real determination. We have scrapped, for all time it is hoped, an antedated policy of isolationism and adopted a more mature one of International cooperation. Such a move is indeed commendable.

In the past two years, movements have been afoot on Maryville College campus which mirror this same trend toward a "coming of age." A student body constitution was adopted which provided for a student president and secretary of the entire student body; a "Town Night" program was suggested and adopted and put into effect which has worked satisfactorily on the principle of placing maximum responsibility on individual students.

This week there appears a public statement of policies adopted by the student council committee on elections, and approved by the council as a whole, which are meritorious and commendable and tangible evidence of the ability of students to conduct their affairs with intelligence and insight.

Individual faculty members have expressed their willingness to condone a suitable system of real student government here on the campus. A committee from the council has been appointed to survey the field and make such recommendations to the council and faculty as seem feasible in this area of operation. There only remains the emergence of a campus-wide feeling of cooperation and mutual willingness to go the whole way in "coming of age" by accepting the responsibility for personal disciplining. For that is what student government in its irreducible form really means—the placing of total responsibility on each individual, where it most logically belongs.

Let us hope that that day of character development will soon be at hand. It rests squarely with you.

WHO'S WHO

Each year students are selected from universities and colleges all over the country to represent their schools in an organization known as Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges.

It certainly is an honor to be elected to such an organization, so congratulations are in order to those nine Maryville students who represent this college in Who's Who this year.

It does seem regrettable, however, that more could not have been selected, for surely there are others who deserve such recognition. Unfortunately, several campus leaders were not placed on the list.

But all that is over the dam now, and we should all be proud of the nine students who represent Maryville College in Who's Who In American Universities and Colleges.

"UNCENSORED"

By BETTE LOU McCOY

Once again the Echo goes to press and once again we rush around with a harassed expression, peering through transoms, putting our ear to the keyhole or our foot in the door, but sometimes scandal just WON'T happen and a would-be Winchellette gets such answers to her snooping as "Golly, I don't know a thing," or "This place is deader than a doornail—nothing's happened," or "Oh, the FUNNIEST thing happened yesterday but I don't remember what it was now."

But anyhow, in spite of such obstacles, we did find out that Memorial Hall now has a quick-lunch service, various domestic-minded persons in the building being able to conjure up hamburgers, chocolate fudge, etc. Carol Paxton was served breakfast in bed on her birthday, with real bacon and eggs.

Afore-mentioned freshman dorm also was thrown into nothing short of an uproar when Jeanne Blanchard's soldier friend arrived unexpectedly at 6:30 a.m.

Who were the five especially charming creatures who attended the freshman girls' tea the other night? If we remember correctly, their initials were Mademoiselles Burgreen, Brophy, Collins, Dillener, and Seel.

Last Tuesday saw even people who never indulge in orderly locks hastily running combs through their matted tresses—reason: that cameraman was here. The only way he could get his subjects to smile for the camera was to have them look at Doc Griffitts.

We hear that Leroy Dillener broke the camera for the German Club picture with his pose a la Hitler.

Dutchy Parks has placed an order for her ring—a big one, too.

Sthreshley has already lined up two prospective brides: Ann Horton and Flora Torbet.

While doing our snooping this week we reached the conclusion that we could take more people unawares if fewer doors had detachable door knobs such as for instance the one at 312 Memorial. Why don't friends take up a collection for Velma and Virginia?

Who is the blue uniform Ruth Carter has been wearing on her arm this week?

Louise Henry was demonstrating her acrobatic ability in the library the other night—or else it was a throw-back to ancestral tendencies.

For weeks Margaret Messer has been walking with her head in the clouds, and it will probably last for a few more weeks after she gets back from Columbus, too.

What came off in the improvised dressing-room of Thelma Richardson and Dot Justis on the campus the other afternoon?

A pleasantly familiar sight—Jack and Ellen together again.

We have an inside tip from Jack Scott that Dark Victory is going to be tops, and why not?—he's in it. Incidentally, the thespiantics of Alice Mathews and Ben Lynt will be worth seeing; don't forget your ticket.

ARE YOU LONESOME?

There's a Carnegie Hall phone number. And ask for Solomon Abdow.

Things we'd like to see again: the expression on Johnny Kirstein's face in the dining-hall when he realized the "happy-birthday-ing" was for him, after he'd been joining in the chorus.

They say Kay Bonner had to stand on a chair in her room to be out of the reach of high water.

Oh, well, what if Duane Collins does think our hair is fuzzy—we can't help it if our room-mate has taken up knitting.

HERE AND ABOUT

By Robert F. Huber

ARMISTICE DAY

Last Thursday the nation celebrated Armistice day. This year it holds more meaning than it ever has in the past, for now that we are engaged in another world conflict the end of bloodshed and the advent of peace are even more dear to us all. We want our men back home and we want to live in a world of peace, happiness and security.

Speaking of peace and the end of the war naturally leads us to a discussion of Mr. Churchill's recent speech in which he promised that the end of the European war was in sight. Speaking at the Lord Mayor's luncheon Prime Minister Churchill stated that "it is a reasonable assumption that unless we make some grave mistake in strategy the year 1944 will see the climax of the European war." But he added a word of caution to that statement by commenting that we should not be overconfident since Hitler still has some 400 divisions ready for action.

All this leads us to wonder whether we should have a spirit of optimism or assume the robes of pessimism. Many of our readers both here and abroad have cautioned against optimism, believing that the people would slacken their efforts toward winning the war. To my way of thinking that is simply a silly and unfair attitude. We know that we are going to win the war and we realize, too, that we will have to suffer greater losses in men and materials than we have to date, but the very spirit of the American people is that of optimism.

Why should we be pessimistic as to when the war will end? Won't hardships come easier and won't we all be more willing to work harder if we see the end in sight? Naturally we can understand that a word of caution Churchill gave is in order, but a definite statement such as some of our own leaders have given suggesting a pessimistic attitude is unwarranted.

An optimistic outlook tempered with reason is what the American people have and apparently will maintain no matter what some of our misguided leaders may "suggest."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

During the past few weeks a committee of the student council has been working on a plan for student government at Maryville College. They have directed their efforts toward developing the best plan for our needs by examining the organizations of other institutions and been generally making a thorough study of the matter.

Student government is something for which many students and faculty members have expressed a desire, but only through the active interest of the student body can any plan become effective. Students must be willing to accept their share of the responsibility!

Due credit should be given to Ben Lynt and Malcolm Thompson for the time and effort they have devoted in formulating a student government plan. A further statement concerning the plan should be ready by next week.

Reference Work In Library Should Be At North End

Under the direction and planning of Miss Ruth Grierson, head librarian, the library in Thaw Hall has been rearranged to give more room. A reading alcove has been made at the south end, and all the research books have been arranged on shelves located along the walls of that end of the library. All the reference material—books, periodicals, the card catalog, and readers' guides—are now located in the north end of the library. Students are asked to do only outside reading requiring reserve books at the south end of the library. Those who are writing papers and will need to move about to consult references are asked to sit on the north side of the library so that the reserve book side will be quiet for those who wish to read. Many new shelves have been built so that the bound periodicals from numbers 0 to 300 are out in the reference room.

Last Saturday afternoon the floor between the two sides of the library was varnished to cover the marks made by moving the card catalog and reference tables. Mr. E. C. Brown, maintenance engineer, supervised the work.

A display designed to help those book lovers with slender purses start their own libraries has been on the library bulletin board for the past few weeks. Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, has worked up and posted a list of 100 books every home library should have and another list giving the names of 50 publishing and second-hand houses from whom inexpensive volumes may be purchased. On display beneath the bulletin board are some samples of cheaper editions. People really interested in buying books can write to several houses and ask to be put on their mailing lists. They will then receive their catalogs.

The titles of some of the new books which the library has received this year are listed below. Several of them are out on the "new books" display table just inside the library door.They are: The Russians by Williams, The World of General Houshofer by Dorpolen, Wright's Religion and Empire, The One Wadsworth written by Burton, I Was Made a Minister, an autobiography by Bishop Hughes, How To Prepare for Military Fitness by Lt. Col. Francois D'Eliscu, Rand's The Building of Ancient Rome, and The Contributions of Greek to English by Brown.

Friday, Nov. 12th.

Russian armored divisions advanced to within 65 miles of the pre-war Polish border and are reported to be advancing at the rate of twenty miles a day.—British and American bombers continued to hammer Nazi defenses, raiding railroad centers in North Italy and again bombing Berlin, Hanover, and the Ruhr.—Americans and Japs are still fighting in the Bouganville area while Allied troops found their attack bogged down in Italy due to rain and mud.—Maryville High school defeated Stair Tech of Knoxville 31-0.

Saturday, Nov. 13th.

U. S. Navy planes sank three Jap warships and damaged twelve others on a raid at Rabaul. Sixty four Jap planes were shot down in their attempt to sink the American carrier.—Allied forces continued their advances in Italy and Russia while in the United States William Green of the A. F. of L. expressed his objection to the proposal that the government place restrictions on labor unions.

Our Hearts Were Old And Gray

(Special to the ECHO by Throckmorton Curbestone, VII)

There was a time when people like Upton Sinclair and Flem Proddy from New York and Whistletop, Iowa, respectively, could and did get away with a cool million in royalties, not counting tops off your neighborhood grocer and autographed fifty dollar bills sent in, on serious stuff set up in book fashion giving advice to young men in all walks of life on how to get ahead if they needed one. But, it was easier in those days. Then came the war, the first war loan drive and the draft. No public.

But, because this writer feels that there is yet an open field (reading public, with glasses) unreached by these men, or intentionally overlooked, it gives with the following on how to stay single when every loose woman yet able to stay on her feet is hot in pursuit . . . with repleats and a stuffed cuff. Or it might better be entitled and addressed to the lone males, (freshmen, yet able to outrun the coeds at Maryville college, Tennessee,) "How to Combat Potential Popularity."

The following treatise was composed from hastily, but passionately scrawled notes, found stuffed in a pillow which had been left in a fourth floor closet over the summer. They were on the back of SLICK magazine rejection slips.

"The first principle to keep uppermost in your mind, when seeking to cut yourself off from the mob, is that of achieving a scholastic average of A or higher, will work like a charm. To do this you must study hard at all times. Don't let anything educational interfere with your assiduous pursuit of book learning. Make a practice of "holing-up" every evening immediately after supper—6:32 or sooner—and especially on town nights.

Following such a course naturally means that all thoughts of dating are out, shortage or no notwithstanding, mealtimes will provide you with sufficient fellowship and the safe stimuli requisite to abundant living. If you still have friends after adopting and making yours the foregoing practises, there are other little things in daily life which may help make you more definitely in a class by yourself. One is, never to cut a chapel service. That way you will get to know the various members of the faculty and especially well will you know your chapel monitor. Remember, he HAS to come every morning, and your regular attendance will establish a feeling of comaradie which will stand you in good stead in later years.

There are certain personal matters which will aid in adding to your unpopularity. Shaving is an unpleasant task, and a policy of doing so only when the interests of sanitation require it will give you that Bohemian rugged look, so sought after these days, as well as assist in your over-all single minded purpose. Remember too, to bathe at least once a week for that well-groomed appearance so despised by the large, unthinking majority. And don't ask for things, just borrow. Roommate's ties, shirts and shaving lotion are handier than going all the way into town to replenish your dwindled supply, necessitating the loss of much valuable study time.

Speak only when spoken to outside of classes, and then as curtly as possible and in monosylabic cliches. In class, of course, always insistently volunteer additional, even though useless information and correct the professor as often as seems necessary in the best interests of the class as a whole. While on this subject, remember also that to never hesitate to inflict upon others, at the slightest provocation, your philosophy, theology, and views on current trends in the American way of life will render you almost at once completely companionless Always be prepared to fight at the drop of an innuendo.

If you have done all these things, and find yourself yet with friends other than the faculty, there is only one course open to you. Join a secret organization, with no political inclinations. This is a surefire way of achieving singular and universal unpopularity.

INTRAMURALS

By Parkinson and Poland

ALL-STARS

Thursday a committee composed of the managers of the four intramural touch football teams and the manager of the intramural program elected the official All-Star team for the past season. There were three players selected from the champion "Y" Frosh team, and one player each from Athenian, "Y" Cabinet, and Alpha Sigma.

Following are the names of the fellows who were selected to the All-Star team:

Bill Buford
Jack Riley
Wally Easter
Leroy Dillener
Rush Lester
John Poland

These were elected upon the basis of the general excellence of their play during the season.

Bill Buford, who played for "Y" Cabinet, held down a backfield position and was outstanding in the most of the "Y" Cabinet games with his passing and running ability.

Another back who was chosen on his team was Jack Riley. He shared the passing duties of the freshman team with Lester, and shown as a shifty runner.

Athenian's outstanding player was Wally Easter, who was the main element in getting Athenian up into second place.

Shining for Alpha Sigma's backfield was Leroy Dillener. In their games he carried the attack as a passer, runner, and punter for Alpha Sigma.

Rush Lester, the captain and back of the freshman team, gained due recognition through his punting and passing for "Y" Frosh.

The only line man to be elected to the All-Star team was John Poland, who played right end for the team. The combination Riley to Poland was a determinate factor in all "Y" Frosh games.

NO BASKETBALL

Due to several unavoidable circumstances, the chief of which is the conflicting program with the girls' point system and the army physical training program, there will be no intramural basketball at this college this year. Despite the scarcity of able-bodied men on the campus this year, plans were being made for a program of this sort, and the different organizations have already begun to organize their respective teams, but the Intramural Staff has discovered that it would be impossible to obtain the gymnasium for the games except at night, and that plan was decided to be impracticable.

LET'S PLAY FOOTBALL

At present the plans for the Intramural program include football for the remainder of this semester. There will not be any more games between the teams that played during the regular season, but each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon any fellows desiring to get intramural credit can go out to either the football or the baseball field and take part in the game between the players who do turn out. The tentative plans for sports after the Christmas holidays include schedules of volley ball and speed ball among the intramural teams.

Y.W.C.A. Holds Its Consecration Service in Woods

The Y.W.C.A. held its annual candlelight consecration service in the College woods amphitheater Wednesday night, November 10. Nu Gamma leaders lead their freshman groups to the woods. As Paul Moehlman played "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" and "Take My Life," the girls lighted their candles from the candles of the YW officers and formed a triangle, the insignia of YW., on the bank of the amphitheater. After the group sang "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," Ruth Meineke read selected verses from the Sermon on the Mount. Evelyn Waisman led in prayer, and the group sang "O Jesus I Have Promised" as their hymn of dedication. Muriel Geisler, YW president, presented two challenges to the girls—to prove we are worth the great sacrifices the fighting men are making for us, and to live the Christian life. She urged that we, as leaders of tomorrow, draw closer to God and take Him with us not only in our personal problems, but in the problems of the nation as well.

The girls then set a huge triangle of leaves in flames, singing "Follow the Gleam." On the way home the group stopped to sing for Mrs. Walker. Before leaving, they sang her favorite hymn. "The Twenty-third Psalm," arranged by C. M. Evan. About 85 girls attended this impressive candlelight consecration service.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

M Club is out raking leaves and for a three-fold purpose at that. To help beautify our campus, to pull in that much needed one hour a day exercise, and to rake in the old mezuma, the filthy lucre, a few dollars, if you will—to pay for a full page picture in the CHILHOWEAN. With the scarcity of workers on the hill this year, it is their project to help by offering their services. Raking leaves is merely a start.

Johnnye Gudel, Babs Burnett, and Thelma Richardson have formed a committee to write in some amendments to the M Club constitution. Some of them are: Regular meetings will be on the second Monday of each month; the office of vice-president is being written in (no more illegal v.p.'s); and members shall be taken in not only if they garner 400 points from Point System activities, but their attitude and spirit of sportsmanship will enter in as well.

Last night a full moon hike was taken around the loop by M Clubbers. By the way, it would be interesting to note how many people on the hill have not yet taken the seven-mile jaunt, or who has gone around the greatest number of times this semester.

Frankly, I find it hard to stick to the loop when I start wandering off into the country. There are so many interesting little roads leading out and off and beyond.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE

It's "shoot from the foul line," and "hit the back board," and "aim for the white line," "watch those wasted movements" as basketball practice for the WAVES and WACS is being carried on in the gym Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 4:30 to 5:30. A few more weeks practice and the tournament will be under way. First of all, much aiming and shooting and throwing has to go on for practice makes for perfection and the better a team is the snappier the tournament.

SERVICE STARS

Layton Bergquist, who graduated in the class of August, 1943, visited the campus recently. He was here on a seven-day leave, after being inducted into the Navy. Layton expects to be given a special assignment, either at Newport, Rhode Island, or at Camp Perry, Virginia.

Pvt. Paul Jamarik, a former member of the present senior class, is stationed at Camp Lee, Virginia. While at Maryville Paul distinguished himself as a member of the varsity debate team and of Pi Kappa Delta.

Lieut. Les Rock, of the class of 1943, recently received his Marine commission at Quantico, Virginia. While at Maryville, Les was a letterman in both baseball and football, serving as captain of the latter team. His brother, Alan Rock, is stationed with the Army at Ford Ord, California. He is at a port of embarkation.

Neil Proffitt, former member of this year's senior class, has been sent to the Naval training base at Portsmouth, Virginia.

Undaunted, Oriented Freshmen Receive Their Mid-Semester Marks

By Tommy Parkinson

The news came and the news went and we are still living and breathing, although we will never be the same. In order to prevent my statements from confusing further, perhaps I had better do a little explaining. The "we" to which I so glibly refer is the group of this year's frosh and the news, which came and went, is the batch of mid-semester grades which were disclosed not so many days ago.

All the good members of the freshman class know just all too well about the terrifying experience we are discussing, but for the information of the freshmen of former years, shall we supply the information that said ordeal is gruesome, in the unprobable event thta he has forgotten? No upperclassman should have much trouble in recalling the time he received his first college grades though. Was your experience similar to mine?

When you get to college you are completely used to the fact of your being an intelligent high school senior who has to do absolutely no studying to make "excellent" grades. And after all didn't your parents inform you, on your departure from home, that you were a bright little darling and wouldn't have a bit of trouble with college work?

Then the assignments start rolling in . . . and you are so busy trying to get them all done that you do not have time to remember how bright you were in high school; therefore the first few quizzes and tests are nightmares not to be easily forgotten. And to make things seem "just wonderful," the nice orientation teacher furnishes the information that your first grades go "Rollin' Home!" He tells you that they are sent to both your parents and to your high school where you were so studious. Well, that fact sends you into spasms of frantic energy in a vain effort to help pull up the averages despite the results of those first few tests which persistently seemed to average around 30 to 40.

Around the last of October you find out that you are not permitted to wait until the end of the semester to find out the bad news, but that each of the first year students have to make the fateful trip to the personnel office soon. There is plenty of time to do your worrying before that day, though. Miss Lightfoot calls you into the private room and your heart goes into your mouth. And then with the smiling comment that the following information could possibly be worse, but that in the future it had better be better, she proceeds to read off the results of your labors (or lack of labor, perhaps) and the suspense, at least, is over. Once outside that office, the ever-present and ever-inquisitive upperclassman wants to know what, exactly, did you find out. But if you are smart and have learned your orientation lessons well, you know that you do not have to tell him, so you just reply, "You'll never know."

Social Conducted By Spanish Club

Thursday night, November 11, at 6:45, the Spanish club met in the classroom for a Scavenger Hunt. The club was divided into groups and given directions and names of articles to find written in Spanish. They were sent out to bring back everything from a hair from a red-headed person to the number of benches on the Maryville Campus. After about 20 minutes of searching, the groups again gathered in the classroom with a treat for the winning team.

The next meeting, November 25, will be a musical with a talk on the Providence Aragon by Betty Jane Meyer.

French Club Meets Observes Armistice

Remembering the several thousand American soldiers of the last World war who lie buried in France in the four major battlefields of that war, le Circle Francais held a special Armistice Day program at its bi-weekly meeting Thursday evening in the Y.W. rooms.

Four members of this club spoke briefly as a part of the observation on appropriate subjects. Nell Ousley chose for her speech "France's Part in the First World War." Imogene Everett's talk was on "General Pershing," Joan Halloway spoke to the group on "General Joffre," and Ann Horton finished the round of speeches with one on "Marshal Foch."

As a special feature of the evening, the words to the Army Air Corps song were learned in French, and then sung by the entire group. Plans were discussed for the next meeting and a decision to begin learning and singing traditional Christmas carols in French was reached.

Fred Hope Fund

Last week when opportunity was given for students to contribute to the Fred Hope Fund, 204 pledge cards were turned in to Miss Clemmie J. Henry, secretary of the fund. $552.90 is pledged to be paid. Up to date, $125.00 has already been collected.

Students have been very generous in contributions to this cause and are urged to continue payment on their pledges according to the scheduled dates as far as possible. The money will be kept by the secretary until the end of the school year. At that time it is sent directly to Dr. Hope in Africa for use in his field.

McMillan-Weldon Wedding To Be Held Here Soon

Margaret McMillan, a senior home economics major from Maryville, has announced December 18 as the date of her wedding to Cadet Robert B. Welden of Greenport, New York. Bob was a member of last year's senior class.

The wedding will take place at the First Baptist Church of Maryville at 4:00 in the afternoon, with Dr. Colvin L. Hammock reading the ceremony. Nettie Rose Spraker, a senior home economics major from Maryville, will be maid of honor, and Mary Kate Jenkins, from Knoxville, will be the bridesmaid. At the beginning of the ceremony Francis Grosh will sing, and Barbara June Gregory will light the candles. The organist for the wedding will be Mrs. Wendell Carter.

Following the wedding there will be a reception at the home of the bride, and following that the bride and groom will fly to Atlanta, where Cadet Welden is stationed with the Navy. Margaret will return to school next semester to complete her course.

Music Recital Next Tuesday

Tuesday, November 16, the second of the student recitals will be held at 4:30 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. All students taking private lessons are required to attend, but everyone is invited. The program for this Tuesday is as follows:

Wally Cornett, "Plantation Serenade."

Peggy Cummings, "Invitation, F Major," Bach.

Ann Gates, "Mosquito Dance," Mendelssohn.

Virginia Hand, "May Night," Palmgren.

Jessie Lou Brunson, "Lullaby," Brahms.

Carole Paxton, "Holy City," Adams.

Mary Evelyn Jamison, "Sonata in F Major," Mozart.

Jean Keen, "Norwegian Bridal Procession," Craig.

Frances Grosh, "O, Rest in the Lord," Mendelssohn.

Ruth Cathcart, "Prelude in B Flat Minor," Bach.

Peggy Fisher, "Largo," Dvorak.

Vast Opportunities Provided For Career Girls To Be Waitresses

By Hannah Duke

—Dedicated to those "angels of mercy" who donate their "free" time to waiting Army tables.

Gee, but it's hard to know where to begin to describe the glamorous life of any Army waitress because it's one more conglomeration—in more ways than one! You have no idea how many, many things can happen in one measly little day so I guess I'd better begin with the bugler (5:45 A.M. and on—mostly on).

Promptness is a good policy to develop in the dining hall—that is, if you intend to make a career out of it during your college days, and it does have a variety of experiences to offer. First order of the day is to report to breakfast at 6:30 A. M. (supposedly!) The thrill of a life time is to be among the first to arrive not only because it makes such a grand impression on the supervisors but also creates a wonderful opportunity to grab some extra bottles of milk, the largest dish of "goo," and be third in the coffee line instead of thirtieth for a change, and then you have some spare time to eat besides.

The soldiers and waitresses all have one thing in common—a mighty speedy hair-combing before breakfast. The only difference is that "G. I." haircuts can take it but that doesn't go so well with the "Veronica Lake" type. Breakfast is entirely too early in the day for much excitement other than the usual hair-pulling and fingernail-clawing episode over retrieving the clean silver in the dish room. The only possible advantage of this is as a good waking-up exercise. If everything goes well—no coffee spilled or broken glasses, there are fifteen minutes left to get ready for chapel. But, then that does create the problem of good use of leisure time. So occasional accidents can come in handy.

Some of the more lucky gals have the fourth period free and can go to the dining hall early to set up about a dozen extra tables for the girls who are in classes. By the time the cadets get to lunch things are moving plenty lively. There are always the boys who for the first time wake up and discover the new and lovely coeds waiting tables. Here's your chance to play cupid—an introduction by the exchange of notes, arrangement of the first date, and then you can be sure you'll have one fellow who will always stack your dishes.—(if his new romance progresses well). In case your match-making isn't so wonderful, and you don't have much luck yourself, my advice is to spend a good bit of time in the kitchen during meals. Your associations will be much more pleasant that way.

Everybody is definitely "on the beam" at supper time—awfully hungry fellows; especially the mischievous type who do little things like throwing salt shakers, the late flyers to provide entertainment while we wash dishes, a visiting captain, and "Gigs" himself if he can possibly manage to get in.

Practically any meal is a splendid opportunity for an analysis of you and all your problems, by request or not as your soldiers see fit. You can find out anything from the impression of your new hair-do, how to pass all your exams, advice on your love affairs, to the news that you've acquired a "Ph. D."

Such as this could go on almost eternally. It just seems to be practically impossible to rate all the valuable experiences of waiting tables not forgetting the fun involved. You've missed something if you haven't tried it for yourself!

Nit: "I haven't slept for days."
Wit: "Insomnia?"
Nit: "No, I sleep at night."

She was associate editor of the "Y" Handbook, a May Day attendant, a Homecoming attendant, and a member of the band and glee club. During the summer Virginia served as social committee chairman and YW chairman.

The president of YW, Muriel E. Geisler, is a Bible and religious education major from Kissimmee, Florida. She is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, IRC executive board, Parish Project, Disc club, Pre-Med club, Nature club, and was on both the freshman and varsity debating teams. Muriel was also a Nu Gamma leader, a member of the War Stamp and Social Committees, on the honor roll for three years, and president of the college class at the Presbyterian church.

Alice L. Mathews, an English major from Sharon, Connecticut, is a member of Theta Epsilon, Writers' Workshop, and the Parish Project. Alice was Band Sponsor last year, has appeared in a number of dramatic productions, including "Wuthering Heights," and has the leading role in "Dark Victory."

Betty Jane Miller, a French major from Roselle, New Jersey, is the president of the Student Body and of the Student Council. She was secretary of the Student-Faculty Senate for two years, secretary of the Student Council in her junior year, and was in the daisy chain. Betty Jane is also the president of Pearson's hall, a member of the French club and IRC, assistant to the business manager of the ECHO, program chairman of Theta Epsilon, and has been on the honor roll.

Malcolm Thompson, history major from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, transferred to Maryville from the School of Foreign Service, Washington, D. C. He was a member of the executive council of the International Relations club for three years and this year is serving as its president. Malcolm made the honor roll three years, is on the YM cabinet and the Student Vol cabinet, is a member of Athenian, Ministerial association, and Law club, and was the defense attorney in the 1942 Mock Trial. He is chairman of the elections committee of the Student Council, is on the faculty as an instructor in history, and was a delegate to the district contest of the National Extempore-Discussion Contest sponsored by the office of Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Miss Green Speaks At Nature Club

Transplanting Trees Is Club's New Project

Nature Club will meet Monday evening, November 15, in the biology lecture room on the third floor of Fayerweather Hall. Miss Susan A. Green, professor of biology and chairman of the division of science, will speak.

Martha Jeane Shaw, president of the organization announced tentative plans for a dedication ceremony soon to be held in connection with the planting of a red bud tree on the road leading to the north gates of the campus. Mr. E. C. Brown, engineer, planted the tree last Thursday, November 4. The club plans to have a tree planted each year until the road is lined with the trees thus forming a "red bud lane."

Martha Jeane, from Norristown, Pennsylvania, is a junior biology major and assistant in the department. The vice-president is Muriel Weber, a junior biology major from Marengo, Ohio. Virginia Brown of Hazard, Kentucky, holds the office of secretary-treasurer. Program-planners are both majoring in biology: Margaret Messer, a junior from White Pine, Tennessee and Betsey Burleigh from Seattle, Washington. Marie Deerman, a freshman from Palestine, Texas, has charge of publicity for the club which meets every first and third Monday evening of the month.

Dr. Davis To Speak At Faculty Club

Dr. Hunter Speaker At Last Meeting

Monday evening, November 7, the Faculty Club met at 8 o'clock in the Home Economics department in Fayerweather Hall. This was the first of the regular monthly meetings to be held by the club this year. In former years it was the custom of the Home Economics department, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics and head of the department, to serve a full course banquet dinner before the program. Since there is no provision for getting rationed foods, a salad and dessert were served instead of the dinner.

Before the address of the evening, President Ralph W. Lloyd made an address of appreciation to Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum and professor of English, and Miss Clemmie J. Henry, director of student-help, on completion of 25 years of service here at the college. Both Dr. Dunter and Miss Henry were presented a bouquet of 25 red and yellow roses as a token of appreciation.

Dr. E. R. Hunter then spoke to the club on "The Language of Poetry." A mimeographed collection of poems to illustrate his topic was given to each person present.

December 6, Dr. Edmund Davis, professor of Greek and Latin, will give an illustrated lecture on Pompeii and its environs in Italy. The subject is considered particularly appropriate because of the recent war developments in Italy and adjacent lands.

Dr. Horace Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, is chairman of the Faculty club committee composed of : secretary, Miss Elizabeth Cowdrick, asst. professor of French, Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics. Dr. Lyle L. Williams, associate professor of biology, and Dr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology and education.

PRE-MED CLUB

Those attending the meeting of Pre-Med club on Thursday evening, November 11, heard a few short talks on various phases of modern medicine as given by several members of the club. The meeting was held in the chemistry lecture room on the second floor of Fayerweather Hall.

The topics chosen were: the place of doctors in the Russian war; sulfa drugs and their importance, and experiments among men in U. S. service concerning climate changes. The speakers are Ann Haygood, a freshman pre-med from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Ethel Brocker, a sophomore chemistry major from Springfield Gardens, N. Y. and Shirley Montgomery, a biology major from Birmingham, Alabama.

Movies are planned for the next meeting of the organization.

Prayer Meeting

"What Defileth a Man?" was the theme of the weekly prayer meeting last Wednesday, November 10, at 6:45 p. m. in the YW rooms. Carroll Stegall, freshman from the Belgian Congo, led the devotions.

Henry Crowson, a freshman from Laughman, Fla., led the song service.

Saccharin Sal, The Good Will Gal, Bemoans Manpower Shortage

By Lois Wilkes

Good afternoon, readers of Saccharin Sal, your Good Will Gal. How are you today? Not having any problems, I hope, ha! ha! ha! If so, you can always depend on Sacky (it's a lie!) I mean Saccharin Sal to add her bit to it. She just loves, absolutely thrives, on helping you kind people out.

Ah! here's a letter left over from last week. It's by a sweet little girl, I just know she's sweet, bless her, by the name of Chinger (Cuddles) Gabo. Miss Gabo writes:

"Dear Saccharin Sal:

I need your help. I am desperate! The other night I visited the famous fortune teller, Madame Tella Futcha. She said, quote 'Do you have spots in front of your eyes? Do you have trouble sleeping in the day time? Do you have that "run down" feeling when hit by a car? If so, try.....' Oh! Excuse me. Wrong night! As I was saying, Madam Tella Futcha told me, in the strictest confidence, that there is a war going on! Now I hate war. It has presented many problems to me, mainly the srortage of men. Not so long ago two cute juniors followed me everywhere, but now there isn't even a freshman with whom I can share a lollypop. Tell me, S. S., what shall I do?

In Desperation,
Chinger (Cuddles) Gabo."

Dear Chinger,

Yours is indeed a sad plight. Are you sure you're using the right tactics? Do your "ivories" flash; have you got any cash? A "C" card wouldn't do you any harm, either. But, my dear, don't be discouraged if you have to paddle your own canoe; there are thousands of us in the same boat.

Sincerely,
Saccharin Sal.

VOLUME 29 MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 20, 1943 NUMBER 7

Dark Victory Given In Voorhees Tonight

Faculty Members Fill Pulpits

Maryville Professors Hold Local Services

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of the College, has had various preaching engagements in churches of this vicinity since September 1. He has spoken in the centennial celebration of the Second Methodist Church of Knoxville, the Greeneville Presbyterian Church and the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Knoxville. November 14 and 21 Dr. Lloyd has preached in the Second Presbyterian Church in the absence of Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, minister of the church. Dr Barbour was one of the ministers appointed to be a chaplain to an army camp in Florida for the month of November. Students will remember that he has led February meetings at the college.

Mr. James R. Smith, public relations secretary and executive secretary for the alumni association is the stated supply for the Greystone Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. He has been preaching there each Sunday since September 19.

Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy and chairman of the division of Bible, philosophy, and education, has preached in the New Providence Presbyterian Church of Maryville.

Dr. Ralph T. Case, associate professor of sociology has been preaching in Mount Tabor and Centennian Presbyterian Churches, both of which are in Blount County.

Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and religious education, is in charge of Lamar Chapel. He preaches at each weekly Sunday evening service. He has also been preaching in Eusebia Presgyterian Church which is located in Blount County.

Miss Jackson, Jordy Meadows Read At Workshop

Billye Ruth Braly and Helen Anderson were the readers at Writers' Workshop last Wednesday afternoon in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Billye Ruth Braly, an English major from Chattanooga and present editor of the Highland Echo, read a story called "World War II." It was written in the stream-of-consciousness style and brought out the hysteria and dissatisfaction that the war has forced upon two young men. The other paper was a character sketch called "Doctor's Office." The scene was laid in the waiting room of a doctor's office which was filled with people from the back woods. Helen Anderson is an English major from Rockford, Tenn.

Evelyn Whitehead, a junior Spanish major, and Miss Jessie S. Heron, assistant professor of English, were the critics.

The group will meet again next Wednesday, November 24. At that time Miss Elibeth H. Jackson and Jordy Meadows will read. Shirley Montgomery and Miss Nathalia Wright will be the critics.

October Issue Of Alumni Magazine To Be Out Soon

October issue of the Alumni Magazine is soon to be off the presses, according to Mr. Jimmy Smith, public relations secretary of the college. This magazine, which is put out twice a year, once in April and once in October, was supposed to be ready for mailing to members of the Maryville alumni and to former students before Homecoming, but due to a long delay by the printers, it has not been completed as yet, although it is expected to be finished this week-end. When copies of this issue are received, it will be available to students in the library.

This issue is to be one of the biggest ever to be published. The usual length is 16 pages, but this time it is to have 20. Features of the magazine in this issue are to include a list of former students and alumni who are now in the armed services. This list was complete, so far as the records of the college show, at the time it was sent to the printer. There will be numerous pictures in the magazine. These will show Mr. Fred L. Proffitt, the late treasurer of the college; the late Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, who preceeded Mr. Richard Vine as head of the Maryville College choir; members of the faculty who have recently been added to the group who have completed 25 years of service with Maryville College; an army picture showing the army trainees at retreat in front of Anderson Hall; and others.

Another story which will be of interest to undergraduates is the story about this year's February Meetings. That will also include a picture of the person who is to lead this year.

Mathews And Lynt Portray Leading Character Roles

TONIGHT AT 8:00

Mrs. Nita Eckles West Directs First Theta Alpha Phi Production

ALICE MATHEWS

"Dark Victory", the first major dramatic production of the year, will be presented in Voorhees chapel tonight at 8:00. Portraying the leading roles will be Alice Mathews, as Judith Traherne, a wealthy young socialite, and Ben Lynt, as Dr. Fredrick Steele, a prominent New England brain surgeon.

This Theta Alpha Phi production is a three-act tragedy written by George Brewer, Jr. and Bertram Bloch, of which there is a popular screen version. Mrs. Nita Eckles West, associate professor of dramatic art is the director, assisted by Thelma Richardson, a sophomore dramatic art major from Staten Island, New York.

Also included in the cast are Helen Anderson, Bill Buford, Duane Collins, Jim Foreman, Mary Grace Hall, Dorothy Lehman, Thelma Richardson, Ruby Sellers, and Jack Scott.

Both the stars have filled leading roles in other Maryville College stage productions. Alice played a part in "Wuthering Heights." she was elected band sponsor last year, has been recently elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Ben had a part in "Abe Lincoln In Illinois," "Arsenic and Old Lace", and he had the lead in last year's play, "Kind Lady." He is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, Pi

Student Council Presents Plans

In the announcement of the new proposals for the elections held by the student body submitted by the student council printed last week in the Echo, there were two propositions that were left out. The first concerned the election of class officers and student council representatives. This proposal states that class officers and student council representatives will not be elected to fill offices until the beginning of next semester. This action was proposed in order to have a more representative class vote. Because of the accelerated program many students will change their classifications at the end of the cemester.

The second proposition is in connection with elections for student council representatives. In accordance with this plan only two representatives will be elected at a time, so two elections will be held about two weeks apart.

These two proposals along with all the others went before the Student Faculty Committee yesterday afternoon to be passed on.

Reports Show Progress On '44 Chilhowean

Both the editorial and business staffs report progress this week on the CHILHOWEAN. Business Manager Carol McCutcheon urges students to pay their first dollar deposits as soon as possible. This applies to all who signed contract cards. Due to the shortage of material for covers, only 370 copies will be ordered. If you are to have one of the limited number of copies, your down payment must be turned in to the staff soon.

Mr. John Benson, a representative of the printing company that holds the contract, is expected to be on the campus in a few days to take informal pictures. Subscriptions for advertisements are now being made by both Maryville and Knoxville business concerns.

At recent class meetings, the junior and senior classes voted to take two CHILHOWEAN pages each for their class sponsors' and officers' pictures. The freshman and sophomore classes have not

Rev. Van Deusen Speaks at Chapel Service Wednesday

Next Wednesday, November 24, the chapel speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Courtland Van Deusen, formerly of China, who is now making his home in Maryville, with Mrs. Van Deusen. Dr. Van Deusen has spoken before at chapel services and Student Volunteer meetings on the hill. His topic for the coming week has not yet been announced.

At chapel, last Wednesday, November 17, the speaker was the Rev. Dr. R. Dale LeCount, pastor of the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Alabama. The subject of his speech was "A Faith for the Future." Dr. LeCount affirmed that it is the upright mind that shall inherit the future. The qualities of an upright mind are these, he said: that it is impressionable, teachable, and adventurous.

Methodist Pastor To Speak At YMCA

On Sunday, November 21, Rev. C. P. Hardin, Pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, will be the speaker at Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Lou Hilbert, one of the present staff of the College Personnell Office, will speak at Y.M.C.A. on November 28. She attended the 1939 Amsterdam Conference, held on the eve of the war, and will tell the group about this World Conference of Christian Youth, to which churches and religious groups around the world sent delagates.

Fall Meeting of College Directors Held Here Tuesday

Judge S. O. Houston Is Elected New Chairman of Board

At the fall meeeting of the Directors of Maryville College, held at the College on Tuesday, reports were received from the Committee on Administration, the Committee on Finance, the President, the Treasurer, the officers of the Board, and special committees.

These reports showed the College facilities to have been filled throughout the past year by civilian students and army trainees. The budget was balanced for the last year and the College continues to be free from indebtedness.

A minute on the death of Mr. F. L. Proffitt, for 29 years Treasurer and a Director of the College, was read by Mr. Joe C. Gamble, chairman of a special committee appointed for that purpose.

The following officers and committees were elected for the ensuing year: Chairman of the Board, Judge S. O. Houston, Knoxville, Vice Chairman, Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Broady, formerly of Birmingham, now of Findlay, Ohio, Acting Treasurer and Recorder, pending permanent elections by the Committee on Administration or the Board, Judge John C. Crawford, Maryville. The Committee on Administration consists of President Ralph W. Lloyd of the College, chairman, Judge S. O. Houston, Judge A. E. Mitchell, Knoxville, Rev. Dr. C. E. Barbour, Rev. Dr. J. S. Eakin, Knoxville, Joe C. Gamble, Maryville, Robert J. Maclellan, president of Provident Life and Accident Insurance Co., Chattanooga.

The Committee on Finance is Judge A. E. Mitchell, Judge John C. Crawford, Thomas McCroskey, Knoxville, Clyde T. Murray, Maryville, Ernest Koella, president of the Rockford Manufacturing Company, Rockford, and President Ralph W. Lloyd.

The Committee on Administration meets usually bi-monthly and the Committee on Finance monthly. The next meeting of the Board will be on Commencement Day, May 15, 1944.

Miss Henry, Dr. Hunter Serve 25 Years Here

Miss Clemmie J. Henry, Director of Student Help, and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Professor of English and Dean of Curriculum, this year have completed 25 years of service here at Maryville College. At the faculty club meeting, November 7, each was presented with a gift of 25 red and yellow roses as a token of appreciation.

Miss Henry, who is also administrative Secretary, attended Maryville Polytechnic School and Maryville College. Before returning to serve at the College in June 1918, Miss Henry taught at the Polytechnic School, was employed by an insurance firm, and later was office manager and secretary for a manufacturing company. She brought the values of these experiences to her work at Maryville College in 1918. As director of the student help program, counsellor to individual students, and representative of the College in the field, she has done much both to organize and to develop a program which has become widely known. She often speaks to woman's organizations and church groups in the East and elsewhere, presents Maryville's needs to individuals, and carries on an extensive correspondence. Alumni will be interested to know that she has been instrumental in securing approximately a half million dollars in gifts for the College during the past twenty-five years. Yet her chief interest is in the individual students with whom she counsels and whose plans she helps to make. In looking back over her twenty-five years of service Miss Henry said, "This period of 25 years has been one of the happiest periods I have ever experienced. The combination of what the College stands for itself, the people with whom I have worked and the resourcefulness, and cooperation have helped to make my work interesting and enjoyable. Although sometimes baffling, it has always been lots of fun."

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, in addition to filling the positions of professor of English, and Dean of Curriculum, is also chairman of the division of language and literature. He graduated from Maryville College in 1914, and taught one year at Evansville Junior College, Wisconsin, and one year at East St. Louis High School. He served for one year as lay minister of a church, and received his M. A. degree at the University of Chicago during the four years between graduation and his return to the Maryville faculty. He was a Fellow in the General Literature at the University of Chicago in the year 1924-25, receiving the Ph. D. degree in 1925. In addition to his service as Professor for twenty-five years, Dr. Hunter was Director of Debate from 1918 to 1927, Secretary of the Faculty from 1921 to 1931, and has been Dean since 1931. During the three months between Dr. Wilson's leaving and Dr. Lloyd's coming he served as Chairman of the Faculty. Not only has his service on the campus been constant and effective, but he is

STAGE CREW, 1943

By THELMA RICHARDSON

Just what goes on behind the scenes in the chapel. It almost seems like a miracle that for a play, our chapel platform is transformed over night into a living room in Brooklyn, or a scene in Tibet, or a home in Vermont. Well it isn't a miracle (ask Burgreen); it's the culmination of days, nights, and more nights of "Slap on that paint—come on long masterful strokes, careful with that flat, that's going to be somebody's door Saturday night, make with the rope the curtain is going up."

This year it's harder than ever, and much as I hate to admit it, it's because there are women on the crew. The chief, high llama, stage manager, C. B., or Charlie as his two friends and Becky call him, wishes plaintively for the good old days when only men inhabited the upper regions of the chapel. (Honest, I'm not kidding.)

Anyway let's get behind the scenes. Let's tiptoe through the chapel (why is it when it's dark you think you have to tread softly) past your chapel seat; past dimly reflected windows; ("psssst watch the window, there goes your head"); past the juniors' seats; past Malcolm Thompson's seat (how did he get in here); we will now pause while some sweet unsuspecting, charming co-ed (now can you guess who it is?) dusts the sand out of her hair, gets distangled from the string, and calmly plans vengeance with a capital brick.

Enough of this fooling around, let's get to work. So some freshmen and one sophomore who doesn't know better have brushes thrust in their hands and are told to heave to.

If you don't stop and look around, the atmosphere is just atmosphere. But what atmosphere it is. Flats stacked on flats against the walls, on the floor; cool night air coming through chinks or whatever it is in the walls that they do come through; fireplaces, steps reminding one of plays gone by; bright orange painted letters on the beams and flats spelling out names of past stage crew members like Dunning and Moore; the hole in the ceiling that you can peek through and see right over the chapel stage (Hmm!); planks leading out to the front of the chapel and off into nowhere; and Dillener.

The rudeness of a rude voice has the rudeness to interrupt us rudely with, "Hey I've got three-sixty invested in that paint," seconded by "Why do you think I haven't been to the show for the last six weeks?"

So we work.

More work.

To break the stillness—"Say do you know that little short guy who is sort of smart aleck?"

"Oh, you mean Brophy?"

"Hey, I'm not short."

And so on into the night (typographical error).

But it is all for the cause—the cause being "Dark Victory," and the all being Maryville students and faculty.

All Maryville To Observe Thanksgiving Holiday

Thanksgiving Day is a holiday for faculty, students, and soldiers alike, for there will be no chapel service, and no meeting of classes. However, anyone cutting classes Wednesday, November 24, and Friday, November 26, will be penalized. For each cut, one-half semester hour and 1½ grade points will be deducted from the total hours and grade points, and not just from the credits of the classs cut.

Wednesday evening, November 24, will be town night in addition to Tuesday night. Anyone may use the privilege both nights. The same rules will apply to Wednesday night as well as to Tuesday. Everyone must be back in the dormitory by 10:15 p.m.

Thursday, any student may accept dinner invitations in Maryville. Breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m., and dinner at 1:00 p.m. The dinner menu is the same for the army and the college except that the army will have turkey, and the college, baked chicken with dressing, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, celery, olives, cranberry sauce, mincemeat pie, hot rolls, butter, coffee, oranges, apples, and cookies. No evening meal will be served to the college students. Consequently, permision will be granted to students to go to town for supper provided they are back for the barnwarming program at 7:30 p.m.

The YMCA and YWCA will hold a joint service Thanksgiving morning at 9 o'clock a.m. in the YW rooms. Dr. George E. Davies will deliver the message.

The community Thanksgiving service has been changed from the customary Thanksgiving morning service to Wednesday evening, November 24, at 7:15 p.m. in the Broadway Methodist Church. Rev. F. B. Shelton, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will conduct the service.

The soldiers as well as the students will be free all day Thursday until time for the Barnwarming program at 7:30 p.m. All soldiers and students are invited to attend.

If any privileges other than those listed are desired, special permission should be obtained from the heads of the respective dormitories.

The post office hours will be from 10 to 10:30 and 5 to 5:30 for packages.

Barker To Lead Athenian Meeting

After skipping three weeks due to various other programs such as the Artist Series and Homecoming, Athenian Society will have a meeting tonight. It will be in Athenian hall at 6:30, and it promises to be one of the best programs of the year. The plans include a musical program with part of that in the form of a musical quiz. Bob Barker will also lead the group in a series of cheers.

Don Barker was in charge of making arrangements for this meeting; he was assisted by Owen McGarity and Jack Scott.

No News in the ECHO

"There's no news in the paper this week," or "My name never does get in the ECHO." These are oft-repeated statements, which sometime come to our ears with not too kindly an attitude.

But you are the ones who give us the news stories we print. You tell us that your club will meet next week sometime and there will be someone to talk about Horsefeathers. But the name of the speaker and his topic just can't be recalled at the moment. Anyway, the bell for classes is ringing. With that much information—and this is not an exaggeration—a good-sized news article is expected.

If a program is to be kept secret until the actual moment of presentation, then no one should expect to read a hypothetical story of an anticipated entertainment. And "padded" stories cease to be readable when everyone recognizes the methods involved to secure column inches.

The ECHO should be filled with Maryville students' names and activities. It should be a means by which a common medium of interest is reached among a large group of busy people. Such are the intentions of those who write these articles for you. But they cannot successfully perform the task alone.

If you are to meet an ECHO reporter at a specified time to give him a story for a certain issue of the paper, it would be very helpful and thoughtful to carry out those intentions. The deadline for his stories is 8:00 p.m. Thursday. Otherwise, please do not expect a long story if you provide no names or facts. It is names—not just words—that make the news!

"UNCENSORED"

By McCOY and RICHARDSON

For various and sundry and no doubt, good, reasons, only nine members of the student body met with the approval of the electors for the 1944 "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." However, in order not to slight our duty by failing to point out the incompleteness of this list, we hereby, without regard to protestations of the powers that be and appeals to reasonableness, submit our own biased UNCENSORED WHO'S WHO.

For first place on the list, we demand to be represented as Poet Laureate of Maryville, one Pat Howarth. Every so often, metrically-minded Howarth breaks forth into such philosophical passions as:

"Just why is it not possible,
Why can't the thing be done,
So we can get through school
On nothing else but fun?"
or,
"Men are such a bother,
They're always in the way,
So since there are none here,
We live happy day by day."

Next, we nominate ready, willing, and able Abbott Kemp and Tommy Parkinson, who, for the sake of satiating an unsatiatable appetite for ice-cream, cheerfully cleaned up the dirty dishes from a banquet at the Grill. What a blessing these boys must be to their mothers, and what prospects they show of future usefulness!

Also deserving of notice is the unpredictableness of Jean Messer—ask Mrs. West and mama.

Not to be left out is Bob Huber, who should have been mentioned in the same breath as Kemp and Parkinson. We've seen him consume five super ice-cream cones at one sitting and still retain a normal temperature. And as long as we're in the realm of those "whose god is their belly", we may as well vote for Aimee Wriggins and her prunella cake—mm-mm-mm.

If Martha Scanlon deserves three orchids and innumerable roses from the boy friend, she deserves recognition here.

"Better-late-than-never" Margie Roth should meet the faculty's approval, because here is one girl who believes in never cutting classes even if one can only be there for the last five minutes.

Suggested for this list as conclusive evidence as to why it is impossible to establish a world federal union because of insolidarity within this country, are Wally Easter, Hubert Rust, Joe Brown, and Jack Scott. If you had been in the Chatterbox you'd think so too.

Up for Apple-Polisher No. 1,is Dotty Ehlert.

For our "one and only boy", we nominate John Shell.

For his keen powers of observation, Jack Houdeshel must be lauded. It is sire Jack who picks such quotable bits out of hymns like "that youth may love."

For diplomacy and tact, there can be nobody but Burgreen and Dilliner. Their little performance for the directors who came into the dining hall, Tuesday will place them forever in the annals of Maryville fame.

Chief cut up is Soapie Bernadini who did a neat job on her hand in the chemistry laboratory.

For having a "pop" who is a Republican Kentucky state senator (Huber, are you listening?), and for having a "mom" who is in the Army Air Corps as a photographer, Virginia Brown and Cynthia Johnson claim attention. Say we are really cooking with gas around here.

At last, but by no means least, our vote for best All Round Man goes to Three-in-one McGarity.

You can't have a whoze who without a whatz what, and what's water than the frost in the morning on the leaves, as we crunch through them to chapel. Then there's the smell of Cordy's snake cooking in Science; proofs for our Chilhowean pictures; meeting somebody going to the library (two dopes that pass in the night); bobby pins; white roof of the bookstore in the winter sunlight; the song; "They're either too young or too old; doughnuts and applesauce; people poking their heads out Thaw windows between classes; my favorite game "hi-you-beautiful". "hi-gorgeous"; going home in a little less than four weeks; the stuffed animals all the girls are making; long distance telephones; "Goodie, Goodie" as rendered by a few Memorial girls after lights out; Parish projects and station wagons; Dark Victory tonight.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Within the past few weeks an event unnoticed by most people has transpired which threatens the sancty and freedom of the press. Responding to desires of the Administration, the Senate passed a bill which would authorize the government to buy advertising space in certain newspapers of its choice, the primary purpose of this action being to promote the third war loan drive. That is the alleged reason, but there is something more fundamental in the whole matter.

Through this virtual subsidizing of the American press, the independence of many newspapers will be threatened. The truthfulness of its news reports may be colored and its editorial comment may be forced into silence or their meaning twisted.

This action on the part of the Senate, although intended as an honorable measure, is a drift in the wrong direction—toward dictatorship in America. Senator Connally's bill for subsidizing the American press must yet pass the House or Representatives and be signed by the President before it can become the law of the land. Let us hope that our national representatives will see the harm that can be done by the enactment of such a measure as this before it is too late.

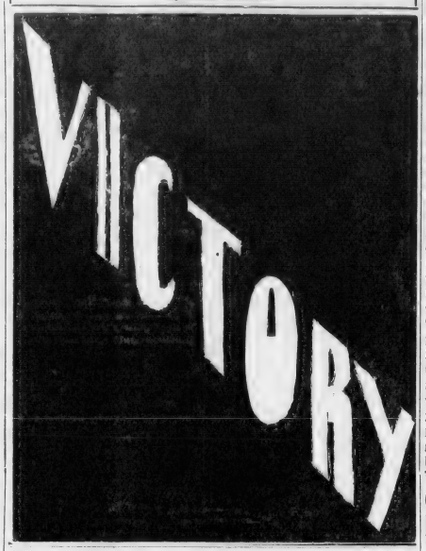
ON THE CAMPUS

Right here on the Maryville College campus we have come face to face with the same tendency. Editorial statements which may be obnoxious to some people or which may arouse some resentment have been changed or toned down, or even expunged. Is that freedom of expression or freedom of the press? What are we fighting for now if it is not the preservation of these very liberties?

If we are to maintain our rights and liberties, we must exercise them, and when our statements are changed or when we are "asked" not to express a thought we must remain firm and express ourselves. Freedom of expression and freedom of the press for the American people, and that means for the students of Maryville College, must be protected.

HERE AND ABOUT

——People with small minds direct their actions toward destructive channels. It seems a regrettable fact that some students here must be classed in that catagory, but their actions have clearly indicated that is where they should properly be placed. Only last week several piles of leaves on the campus were ignited, something which could have caused serious damage. That is just one indication of adolescence and thoughtlessness. Can't we ever grow up?



——The recently adopted by-laws of the elections committee of the Student Council which require an eighty per cent vote for a valid election seem to me to be quite impossible to measure up to. It is an idealistic and desirable measure but will undoubtedly prove unworkable. To my way of thinking it will be almost impossible to get eighty percent of a class to cast a ballot and even more difficult to get that percent of the entire student body to vote. When we consider that only about eighty percent of the students are in chapel each day, some of the difficulties become apparent.

Some time ago the student body voted for the King and Queen of Barnwarming, and at that time only sixty-five percent of the student body voted, despite the fact that the election was held after the chapel service and a ballot was placed in everyone's hands. Only a miracle can make such a measure work. It seems foolish to keep this regulation operative.

——Recent disturbances in the dormitories are just another indication of the lack of respect that some small-minded people have for the rights and property of their fellow students. When some playful students make a habit of coming into the dorm after midnight and making unnesseccary noise by climbing over the roof and through windows, it is time to take some action to prevent recurrances in the future and to punish the offenders. Maybe those in charge will do something.

"Paper Dolly" And "Pistol Packin' Mama" Shake Carnegie, Pearsons

By JOHN TAYLOR

A pistol and a paper doll furnish the subjects for the two songs which are currently at the top of the list of the nation's favorite popular songs.

I have always been interested in delving into the "why and wherefore" of various songs. In fact, I am more interested in that phase of song writing than in the tune itself. Thus with the aid of a few magazine articles I was able to find a few matters of interest concerning each of the aforementioned tunes. Their titles are, incidentally, (in case you haven't already guessed) "Pistol Packin' Mama" and "Paper Doll."

"Pistol Packin' Mama" was written by a tall, shy, 41-year-old Texan named Albert Poindexter, alias Al Dexter. He recorded it with his six-piece hillbilly band and immediately it became a hit. According to latest statistics more than 1,000,000 recording have been sold, in addition to 200,000 copies of sheet music.

As far as the song itself is concerned the words are simple and the lyrics rowdy and "hillbillish." In fact, one would not be exaggeraing in saying that it is almost completely devoid of meaning. These conclusions were reached after a careful study of the Carnegie Hall version, as well as the original version. Incidentally, the statements apply to both.

In case you haven't heard, the song has been on the Hit Parade since the beginning of October. The publishers were disappointed though, because it took so long before it was recognized as Hit Parade calibre, and brought suit against the sponsors of the program. They suspected that either the sponsors did not like it or Frank Sinatra could not sing it.

A number of other songs of similar appeal have become national rages in the past. They "clicked" suddenly, were on everybody's lips for several months, and then as soon as the novelty wore off, wore off. A few of these are "Yes, We Have No Bananas" (1923), "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" (1923), and "The Music Goes Round and Round" (1935).

The song "Paper Doll' is an entirely different type, but its record is just as laudable. Its sheet music sales are about 500,000 and its phonograph-record sales are close to a million. It was written 28 years ago, after an unhappy love affair, by a dance-hall violinist named Johnny Black, but he shelved it and went to work on another song "Dardanella," which became the rage of 1919. Three years later Black decided to take "Paper Doll" off the shelf, but it met with little success when placed on the market and he laid it aside once more.

However, about a year ago the Mills Brothers made a recording of it and soon it became the favorite tune on the radio and jukeboxes throughout the nation. Unfortunately, Johnny Black never lived to see his song popularized as he died in 1936.

Miss Henry, Dr. Hunter

well known also in general educational circles as a teacher, writer, lecturer, and administrator.. Sa'd Dr. Hunter, on being questioned, "I don't feel any different. In fact, I didn't know twenty-five years had passed until someone called attention to it. So far as my work is concerned, I enjoy most of all the teaching of my English courses."

yet decided on this matter.

Editor Dorothy Lehman announces that Mr. Dove, the photographer from George's who has been taking pictures on the campus, will return Monday as students will have received their proofs and will be ready to place their orders. This will be the only opportunity to do so and if proofs are not returned on Monday the staff will select the pictures to be used in the year-book. Orders will be taken in Theta Hall after 8:30 a.m. throughout the day.

German Club Gives Picnic

November 15, the German Club met at 5:00 p.m. in front of Pearsons Hall. From there the members proceeded to the picnic grounds for a weiner roast. Later, a short business meeting was held, at which plans were made for a theater party to be held on December 5.

Nineteen members of the German Club were present at the weiner roast.

Leroy Dillener, Nancy Bryant, Melinda Memminger, and Lorraine Drolsbaugh were on the food committee.

Club officers, Verne Feeback, Becky Davis, Nancy Bryant, and Lula Callaway are in charge of the theater party.

How To Put Up Preserves, Or Have You Ever Been In A Jam

By GINGER CLABOUGH

Flash!——We've just received the latest on "How to Put Up Preserves" by a girl who has been in a jam.

First, take any old pot (insinuations unintended) and into it sqush ten sour grapes—you won't have any trouble finding these. The rust from the container will make the grapes turn a sicky yellow, but they will regain their original rosy glow when the five cans of red pepper are added. Next, turn on the radio. No, that's not static; it's those Sinatra fans. Now, set the mixture directly beneath the loud speaker. Frankie's singing will add the needed sweetening. Turn it off! you don't want your pan to melt too. Put the mixture in the sink, and let the water in until the pan is floating. This will make the preserves light. While waiting, run next door and borrow your neighbor's last quarter of a pound of butter. After you have gone, she wil give you the raspberries, and you can run back and borrow them too. Now, grease each berry well with the butter. This makes the berries waterproof, which is a good thing for by this time the sink is overflowing and the kitchen is knee-deep in water. Next, wade over to the radio and find station M.C. Do you locate a chemistry lecture? Good! Now, find a dry place on the kitchen table and stand there listening for ten minutes. At the end of this brief interval, you as well as the kitchen floor will be dry again. Run out into the orchard, now, and pick some prunes, or apples will do if you like apple butter (I mean better). Examine them closely——ugly old things, aren't they?

As a finishing touch, add two quarts of glue to the mixture. This will add the needed thickening to your preserves.

This is not a tried and proven recipe for preserves; but it is my original, and I guarantee that all your friends and relatives will be stuck on it.

Girls' Glee Club Replaces Choir At Vespers Tomorrow

The Girls' Glee Club will take the place of the Choir at the Sunday night vesper services on November 21. They will sing two anthems, "Green Cathedral" by Carl Hahn and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

On December 5, the Glee Club and Choir will combine to give an all musical program at vespers. This will be an informal affair with the audience participating in the singing of Christmas carols, conducted by Mr. Phillip O. Jones. There will also be solos by various music majors.

The Glee Club is making plans for an operetta to be given next semester. Selections for this will be made at the beginning of the year.

Officers for the Glee Club are: president, Lenore Wise; vice-president, Carol Titus; secretary-treasurer, Louise Warwick; and librarians: Ann Ghigian, Phyllis Irshay, Florence Gobillot is assisting with the robes.

Barrows To Speak At YW Tomorrow

Mary Jane Barrows, member of the International Relations Club, will be the speaker at Y. W. C. A. this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the "Y" rooms. The topic of her speech will be "Religious Implications In a World Peace." The International Relations Club is a part of the "Y" and it is because of this that the organization will furnish the speaker this week. All women of the college are invited to attend.

All MC Students Invited To Tea

All college students are invited to attend a Thanksgiving tea at the Episcopal rectory on Gamble Street. This affair is to be sponsored by the College Class of the Episcopal Sunday School on Thanksgiving afternoon, November 25. The hours will be from 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Those who will pour are: Polly Edmunds, Lisette Gessert, Hope Pleyl and Mary Dawn Noblit.

INTRAMURALS

KEMP DEFEATS CROSS

The only intramural competition that has been played during the past week was the completion of one tennis match in the tournament which has more or less been forgotten for the last couple of weeks. Abbott Kemp pulled out of a hole as he came from behind to defeat Luther Cross, his roommate, by a score of 9-7 in the final and deciding set. Previously two sets had been played, each winning one. Kemp took the first set by the score of 6-2, and Cross took the second 6-3. Then they started a third set and the score was 6-2 in favor of Cross when play was terminated because of darkness. It was at this score that they resumed play on this past Wednesday.

If the weather stays good and the rest of this tournament is played off, Kemp will meet the winner of the Anderson-Huffman match for the championship.

WE WANT INTRAMURAL SPORTS

An Editorial

During the past few weeks there have been no intramural sports activities on the hill. This is a thoroughly deplorable situation, for all of us wish to participate in some sort of an intramural program. Those in charge will probably place the blame on the fact that we are handicapped due to war conditions. Our athletic equipment and fields are being used by the army most of the day, but surely there is some time when college students can exercise their bodies.

All work and no play make John a dull boy, is an old, but very apt, expression. If we don't get our regular exercise through the intramural program there is little chance that we will get any at all.

Some kind of program can be initiated if only those in charge would get to work and put a little thought and effort into the matter. Ping-pong, volley ball, shuffleboard, soccer or any other sport could be used by the intramural department as the basis of an organized program. Won't you please cooperate.—R. F. H.

Miss Green Speaks To Nature Club

Monday, November 15, at 6:40 p.m. the Nature club met in Miss Green's lecture room. Miss Green spoke on "Deep Sea Fishes." A great deal of her talk was centered around some intriguing things she had heard Dr. Beebe tell. Afterwards, she showed many interesting and colorful pictures.

It is well worth mentioning that although a member for only a short time, Noahal Arnold, before going into the Navy, gave the money for the club to belong to the affiliation of Science Clubs of America.

The dedication of the first red bud tree to be planted in the "Red Bud Lane" was held this afternoon at one thirty o'clock at the North Gate.

SPORTS REVIEW

NOTRA DAME VS IOWA PRE-FLIGHT

SPORTS

The 1943 intercollegiate football season is drawing to a close but there are still a number of important games to be played before the final gun is sounded. One of these is the game between Notre Dame and the Iowa Pre-Flighters, which will be played today at South Bend, Indiana.

Although Notre Dame is considered the best team in the country, the Seahawks also possess an enviable record. They have played eight games against strong opposition and have yet to taste defeat. Many critics consider them even better than the 1942 eleven because the backfield is faster and the line younger, and the team enthusiasm is greater than that of last year.

Notre Dame, on the other hand, is without doubt the greatest team in the country. Some experts even consider them one of the most formidable football outfits of all time. Their star quarterback and ace passer, Angelo Bertelli, was recently transferred to another base in the Marine trainging program, but his understudy, 18-year-old Johnny Lujack has been filling in for him admirably. The secret of Notre Dame's tremendous power is a nucleus of nine letermen, six of them in the line, who returned to the college this year by lucky breaks of armed forces orders. Other elements are a smart, hard-driving backfield, and a smart, hard-driving coach, Frank Leahy.

Following Notre Dame and Iowa Pre-Flight on the list of the nation's ten best teams are: Purdue, Michigan, Navy, Duke, Army, March Field, Northwestern, and Texas.

SID LUCKMAN

In professional football circles these days the "man of the hour" is Sid Luckman, quarterback of the Chicago Bears. Last week at the Polo Grounds in New York, in a game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears, he threw 30 passes, completed 23 for a total gain of 453 yards, and 7 of these passes resulted in touchdowns. In doing th he established tow all-time ational Proffessional Football League records.

Black-haired, brown-eyed Sid Luckman played college football at Columbia, and after graduating, he signed up with the Bears four years ago. But this week, at 26, he announced that his career was close to its end; he has signed up as an ensign in the U. S. Maritime Service, and expects his call any day.

KNOXVILLE HIGH VS CENTRAL HIGH

The main feature on the sports calendar for this vicinity this week is the annual Thanksgiving Day Football classic between Knoxville High and Central High. The game will be played Thursday at Shields Watkins field in Knoxville, starting at 2:30 p. m. and should draw a large crowd, as Knoxville has not had the opportunity to witness many important games this season since U. T. suspended football because of lack of material.

Knoxville High will be the favorite in this clash as they have only lost one game this season, that to Elizabethton earlier in the season. Since then they have shown steady improvement and have won all their games by high scores. Central High, on the other hand, has recently been defeated twice and will enter the encounter as the underdog. However, anything can happen when these two rivals clash and a close, hard-fought game is expected.

BASEBALL STARS CALLED INTO SERVICE

Baseball has recently come into the headlines again with the announcement that 33 more major league ball players have received their calls into military service since the season ended last October. Previosly 250 performers had beeen called by Uncle Sam.

Among the players inducted or reclassified into 1-A are: Harry Walker and Al Brazle, St. Louis Cardinals; Dick Wakefield, Detroit Tigers; Sid Gordon and Billy Jurges, New York Giants; Jimmy Wasdell and Ron Northey, Philadelphia Phillies; and Kirby Higbe, Brooklyn Dodgers.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

What with volley balls being hit by us, verbally and physically it seems to me we ought to act big time about the affair and have an all star volley ball team. We'll have nine men (pardon me) women for the first team and nine women as substitutes. The more the merrier. I always say. Cast your ballots at the ECHO office anytime between now and next Saturday, or give them to me. All you are to do is to put down the names of the nine best volley ball players you know of at school.

Will it be strong arm Gutzke, Cameron, or Montgomery, "I don't mean to play for the other team" Pascoe: powerhouses Eddlemen, McClure, Mathews; or Betts?

Skating has taken the fancy of the outdoor sportsmen. When the weather inclines toward the Autumnal atmosphere the ball bearings starts to whirr. People like Bill Braly borrow Bonner's skates and then things begin to fly. So you haven't anything else to do, or even if you have, hitch up your skirt, let down your hair and join some of he regulars like Melba Holder, Margaret Witt, Jean Ellis Betty Lou King and the aforementioned Kay Bonner. Talking about skates, I hear that Kay Stout is quite a bit of all right on them. I'd like to see her perform.

The coming week is the last week of practice before the basketball tournament between the WACS and WAVES begin. Not much practice during the regular periods will be done either, for each group will only meet once next week. Thanksgiving is Thursday. At the meeting on Monday for the WAVES, and Wednesday for the WACS, a test on basketball rules will be given, the captain and managers will be chosen, and then finally the selection of the teams.

It's an exciting time, this culmination of several weeks practicing shooting, and throwing. It is also the commencement of two weeks in which two groups of girls each equally laden with studies, and other extra curricular activities get together to show off what skill, sportsmanship, and endurance they have and can give.

Games will be played November 29, December 1 and 2, 6, 8, and 9.

Interest In Girls' Sports Increased By Volley Ball

You don't have to be athlectically inclined at all—just see that the Personnel Office signs you up for P.E. (preparation for efficiency to the uneducated). With no more effort involved, you are automatically a member of a star volley ball team—that is, if you're a girl and there are some star players on your team.

The make-up of a team, exclusive of lipstick, varies slightly. Those who think they know all about the game gather in one little bunch to reassure each other; those who think they don't know so much about the whole set-up gather on the other side of the net in case some team needs an opposing force; then those who know they don't know beans about the game are separated from the sheep. With this fine distribution of talent—well. anything could happen.

The main object of this hitherto almost obscure form of exercise is to get the ball above and possibly over the net. Unfortunately, there are a few who persist in sending it under, on the grounds that the net is too high. (P. S. We all think it's a little lofty.) And when someone shouts "Ready?" answered by "Serve," it does not mean "Soup's on."

Any number or lack of numbers can attempt volley ball. And the game can last any length of time—or until Ma Queener blows the li'l whistle. It's really quite the katz—helps reduce the waist-line and increases the appetite all at once. For those who think that tennis is out for the duration because they can't get in a racket—we recommend its third cousin, once removed, VOLLEY BALL. The same principle is involved—two hours of credit in physical torture.

Messer, Gutzke, Davis To Speak At Student Volunteers

The annual student volunteer project will be chosen at the regular meeting of the organization Sunday evening, November 21, following vespers. Three speakers will present projects for consideration by members of the group. Margaret Messer, a junior biology major from White Pine, Tennessee, will speak on The American Indian in the Southwest. Miriam Gutzke, a sopohomore psychology major from Decatur, Georgia, has chosen to describe the work in the Southern Negro Missions. Rebecca Davis from Sturgis, Kentucky, a sophomore majoring in sociology, will tell of mission work in Africa.

Following these talks, one of the missions represented will be voted upon, thus deciding the project to which money will be sent. Finding speakers and topics was under the leadership of Betsey Burleigh, chairman of spiritual life on the cabinet.

—v—

The devotional leader for prayer meeting on Wednesday, November 17, was Paul Smith, senior psychology major from Orlando, Florida. Paul Moehlman led the singing, and Mary Evelyn Jamison was pianist.

Indian Co-Eds Are Up To Date With Make-Up, Nose-Rings, Men

By MADELINE COOKE

Have you heard? We've got a mountaineer in school. A real honest-to-goodness one who was born in the highest mountains in the world—the Himalayas (and they're not pronounced Himalay-a, either, she says). She doesn't have a Chilhowee drawl, but rather a delightful touch of an English accent. That's because she's spent all of her life in India where most of her white friends are English. Last year she was a freshman in a girls' college in India. In March, her father left to fill a position in this country; so our heroine and her mother came along, too. After three months of traveling over the ocean and about as many over the United States, they finanly came to Maryville. Just in case you haven't recalled her name by this time, she is Carol Titus.

Probably many of you have heard Carol speak at one time or another this year and seen her dressed in native costume. But your reporter is one of those curious people who always have several insignificant things to ask; so one day this week she got Carol in a corner and started asking. Here are some of the things we talked about.

In the first place, although all Indians have black hair, either black or dark brown eyes, and slightly brownish skin, they have Arayan features just like ours. They are of slighter build, especially the women.

Indian women use make-up, too. In fact, we've probably picked up some of our wicked ways from them. They use an eye shadow made of a black ointment and applied with a stick or swab. (Carol says it looks hideous.) They also include a small red dot in-between their eyebrows as part of their make-up. This used to be the sign of a married Hindu woman, but now a good many of the educated women wear it merely as a sort of beauty mark. A rather peculiar type of make-up (at least to us Occidentals) is the rust-colored dye which they rub on the palms of their hands and soles of their feet. The village women sometimes rub this on their nails as a sort of nail polish. College girls are crazy about nail polish, says Carol. And guess what kind they use—the same kind we do: Cutex or Lady Lillian!

Suddenly remembering our sixty-odd males, your reporter asked Carol something about boys in India. Educated men nearly all wear western dress. The others dress according to their religion. The Mohammedan men wear trousers which are very tight up to the knees. Then they become quite full. Over this they wear a long coat buttoned up high to teh neck. Carol has a picture of a Mohammedan man wearing a skirt. Which would be worse: to be a Mohammedan and wear a skirt or be a Hindu and dress like Gandi. However, Hindu men usually add a long-sleeved loose shirt to Gandi's rather skimpy garb.

The future an Indian boy can look to is mapped out according to his caste. The lowest of the outcastes must be sweepers whose job is to clean the streets and act as the village sewege system. A slightly higher level of outcastes are leather workers who act as the village cobblers. Low cast boys grow up to be farmers. They own their own farms and do their own work. Nearly all of them keep water buffaloes, and some of them keep goats and cows. Those born into the third highest class can look to a future as the merchants or money-lenders of their village. A Brahmin boy will become a land owner and his will be the only nice house in the village. The educated college boy is practically the only one who can choose his life work. Some of his possibilities are law, medicine, the ministry, teaching, and politics.

Indian village women are wild for jewelry, especially that of silver. They wear toe rings on each toe, bracelets, finger rings, necklaces, ear rings, and nose rings fastened in the side of their noses. These brass nose rings are sometimes so large that a string has to be tied through them and looped back over the ear to keep them out of the way. Men wear only finger rings.

Carol says that Indians in the villages serve only two meals a day. The Hindus are vegetarians. Their main dishes are rice, flat cakes of unleavened bread, and a very spicey stew. The Mohammedans eat much the same foods with the addition of meat. Usually they drink water, but they like tea, too. Coffee is grown in South India, and people in the southern cities are beginning to drink coffee. Before eating, Indians always remove their shoes. They sit on the floor or on stools. They eat the meal with their fingers from individual plates. After any special meal they serve sweets made from thick syrups, lard, and flavoring. Rosewater is one of the favorite flavors. All Indian food is very rich and greasy.

First Experimental Theatre Plays To Be Given Dec. 4

Members of the experimental theater will make their first appearance of the year Saturday night, December 4, at 8:00 p.m. when they will present two one-act plays in the chapel. "The Sequel" and "Finders Keepers" are the names of the plays.

All the acting, directing, and staging of these plays will be done by students. This year two students, Thelma Richardson and Nancy Russell, are in charge of the experimental theater itself. Participation in the plays is open to any member of the student body who is interested. Anyone who would like to join the experimental theater should contact either of the girls mentioned above.

Bette Lou McCoy To Speak At IRC Monday Evening

The International Relations Club will meet Monday evening in the Y. W. rooms at 7:00 p.m. Bette Lou McCoy will speak on the "United States Foreign Policy". Olinde Aherns will give the weekly news review.

Aside from plans for the next meeting, the club has carried on various other business. They will furnish the speaker for the Y. W. C. A. this Sunday. The president of the organization, Malcolm Thompson, announces that they have received a free selection of seven books from Carnegie Endowment For International Peace. They have made arrangements to receive the Foreign Policy Association Reports every two weeks.

All students interested in international relations and foreign affairs are invited to attend the club meetings.

Heygood Wins Contest at Disc Club Quiz Night

Thursday, November 18, at 6:45 p.m. the Disc Club held a quiz program in Voorhees Chapel. Introduction to the program was "Gypsy Air", by Sarabate, Harold Kidder acted as commentator in place of Ben Lynt, who could not be present.

Excerps from well-known symphonic pieces which have been played during the year at Disc Club meetings were played. Points were given for composer, the piece, and the movement. Ann Heygood won the contest with an 81% average.

The selections which were played are as follows: the last movement of Tschaikovsky's "6th Symphony," the first movement of Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor", "Were You There", Rachmaninoff's "2nd Concerto in C", Wagner's "Overture to Tannhauser", Strauss' "Blue Danube", Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue", Mendelssohn's "Italian Symphony", Dvorak's "World Symphony", Verdi's "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio", Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", Ravel's "Bolero", and Wegner's "Prelude to 3rd Act of Lohengrin.

The program was concluded with "Liebestraum", by Liszt.

On December 9, at 6:45 p. m. the Disc Club wil hold its annual Christmas program in Voorhees Chapel. Time-honored symphonic Christmas music from Tschaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will be played at this time. Harold Kidder will commentate. Some Fred Waring arrangements of Christmas carols will also be played.

The Disc Club posters on display during the past semester have been the work of Byron Sprague, a sophomore art major from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Debating Team To Enter Tournaments

Debate for upperclass students is getting under way, directed by Dr. David H. Briggs. In the last three years Maryville has participated in the Women's Smoky Mountain Tournament, Men's Smoky Mountain Tournament, South Atlantic Tournament, Grand Eastern Tournament (in which 27 schools competed), State Tournament, Southern Tournament, and Provincial Tournament, winning first in debate eight times, in Impromptu five times, in After Dinner Speaking five times, in Oratory once, in Extempore six times, and also winning second place awards a number of times.

There will be freshman debate again this year, and announcement concerning it will soon be made.

Stegall Speaks At Law Club Meeting

Thursday evening, November 11, the Law Club held its first meeting of the year. Many new plans were discussed for the forthcoming meetings. Mrs. Edith Pierce March was chosen as the faculty advisor to replace Miss Marriet Miller who is now in Florida. Five new members were accepted into the club. They were Carol Stegall, Mary Mell Fleming, Virginia Brown, Mary Lucia Allison, Marinell Ross.

On Thursday, November 25, Carroll Stegal will give a contrast between American and British Foreign Policies.

Ministerials To Hear Mrs. Shelton Friday Evening

The executive council of the Ministerial association met last Thursday evening and made program plans for the remainder of the semester.

According to schedule, the next meeting should be Thursday, November 18. However, since this is Thanksgiving night the meeting will be held the following evening, Friday, November 19. Mrs. F. B. Shelton, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist Church of Maryville, will be the speaker at this meeting, which will be held at 6:45 p.m. in the "Y" rooms. All girls of the college who are interested are invited to attend.

Arrangements are being made for the Ministerial association to sponsor a "Community Hymn Sing" on Friday, December 3 in the "Y" rooms.

The final meeting of the association for the present semester will be held on Thursday, December 9, at which time an election will be held for next semester's officers.

DARK VICTORY

Kappa Delta, was a varsity debater for two years, and is a senior staff editor on the Highland Echo.

The production staff is in charge of Mrs. West, with Charles Burgreen serving at stage manager. Joe Brown and Nancy Russell are the joint business managers. Byron Sprague, Luther Cross, and Alleene Mathews are the advertising managers. Helen Anderson and Jean Batchelor are property managers, and Dorothy Dick is the costume chairman.

The story evolves around a tragic situation concerning Judith Traherne and the way in which Dr. Steele helps her to overcome it. There is a deep love interest betwee these two strong but different personalities, which never allows the drama to lag. The first two acts take place at Judith's home on Long Island, New York, and the last act is at Dr. Steele's home in Vermont.

Tickets are thirty-nine cents. They are on sale at the Bookstore, the Chatterbox, and will be on sale at the door before the performance begins.

VOLUME 29 MARYVILLE, TENN. DECEMBER 4, 1943 NUMBER 8

Rev. H. R. Anderson Is Meetings Leader

ANDERSON AND CAIN ELECTED YW HEADS

To Be President And Secretary For Second Semester

Second Vote Is Taken Following Ballot Box Theft

Helen Anderson

Helen Anderson, senior English major from Rockford, Tennessee, was elected as president of YW for the second semester. Helen was a Nu Gamma leader her sophomore year and has been on the cabinet of YW. She had a role in the presentation of DARK VICTORY and is a member of Writers' Workshop. Prior to her election, she was one of the program chairmen for YW.

Virginia Cain, second semester junior from Morristown, Tennessee, is the newly-elected secretary. Virginia is majoring in mathematics. She has just recently been one of the two girls in charge of Barnwarming. These girls were elected to take the places of Muriel Geisler and Mary E. Waisman who are graduating.

Miss Clemmie Jane Henry, director of the student-help program, is to speak at the regular worship service of the YW in the Y rooms, Sunday, December 5. She has chosen as her topic "What difference do one's religious convictions make in choosing a vocation?" Miss Henry has recently been honored by the college as having served at Maryville for twenty-five years. She is also a graduate of the college.

Those attending last week's meeting saw motion pictures of Russia. The YM held their service in the Y rooms so that the fine arts studio might be used by the YW for the movies. Mr. James R. Smith, public relations secretary, operated the projector.

Junior Class To Elect Officers

The president of the junior class, Don Barker, announced at a recent meeting that three positions will have to be filled because of mid-year promotions. However, contrary to the usual custom, the election will not be held until the beginning of next semester.

The positions and the present holders are: president, Donald L. Barker; and Student Council members, Virginia L. Cain and Lloyd A. Anderson.

Chilhowean Staff Announce Future Picture Plans

Mr. John T. Benson, a representative from the Benson Printing Company of Nashville, which prints the CHILHOWEAN, will be on the campus within the next two weeks to take the informal pictures for the annual.

Business manager Carol McCutcheon announces that a payment of at least one dollar must be made by Wednesday, December 8, by all those who wish a 1944 Chilhowean. After that date, the order of those who have made no payment will be cancelled. Payment can be made to any member of the business staff: Carol McCutcheon, Ellen Pascoe, Marion Schneeweiss, and Jane Short. The business staff also requests that all seniors graduating in December and ayn other leaving at the end of the term make full payment on their CHILHOWEAN before the end of the semester and leave directions for delivery.

Those few students who declined to order a picture for the annual because they were dissatisfied with their first proofs, can still get their pictures in the year book if they will go over to George's for a resitting. "Perhaps this can be done while one is in Knoxville on his way home for the vacation," suggested Dorothy Lehman, editor

Plan of Student Government Made By Councilors

The Student Council met Monday night, November 29 to consider mainly the possibilities of student government in Maryville. The members concluded that a discussion of such a plan should be published in the ECHO this week to put the matter before the student body. The entire discussion of student government can be found in this issue of the ECHO. This is to familiarize students with the meaning of such a government.

The group voted to have the regulations of "Town Night" posted on the various dormitory bulletin boards and elsewhere so that all the rules governing this special privilege may be clear to all students. This is to avoid any possible difficulty that might arise due to ignorance of these regulations. The Student Council points out that the provision making such a free night possible is the first step toward student government and has resulted in the desire for other school activities controlled by the students themselves.

Roof of Voorhees Chapel Blazes Friday Afternoon

Extent of Damage Could Not Be Determined Now

Fire broke out in the Elizabeth R. Voorhees Chapel yesterday afternoon about 4:30 and destroyed much of the upper story and the back part of the roof. It started in the costume room of the dramatic are department in the attic of the chapel. The cause has not been determined as yet, but it probably was started by faulty electrical wiring.

The fire was discovered simultaneously by several persons practicing in the chapel, members of the college choir who were practicing in the auditorium, and several soldiers in Carnegie Hall. The Maryville Fire Department came immediately after an alarm was phoned in from the office and had the blaze under control within an hour.

The extent of the damage has not been determined, but the costumes and properties in the dramatic are department were burned

Maryville Enters '44 Inter-American Discussion Contest

Many M.C. Students Expected to Enter Contest This Year

The National Discussion Contest on Inter-American Affairs for Colleges and Universities is sponsored by the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs and conducted under the auspices of the American Council on Education. The purposes of the contest are to "promote inter-American friendship and cooperation, to stimulate a nation-wide study of inter-American affairs to ensure more accurate knowledge and intelligent understanding of the other Americas by the people of the United States, and to encourage understanding of the bases for permanent cooperation among the American Republics." The subject for discussion is "The Bases for Permanent Cooperation Among the American Republics." All colleges, universities, junior colleges, teachers' colleges, and normal schools are invited to enter the contest. Competition is open only to undergraduate full-time college students. All college and university contests must be held on or before February 15, 1944.

Two Representatives

The representatives of each institution—not more than two—shall then prepare a written manuscript on the subject containing not more than one thousand words, which will be sent to George Washington College, Washington, D. C. The speech manuscripts will be appraised by three judges who will be chosen by the Executive Committee. The judges will select the best speech manuscripts from each of the regions and the students who prepared them will be invited to participate in the regional discussion contests, with all necessary travel expenses paid.

Dr. David Briggs and Malcolm Thompson are in charge of the contest at Maryville College. Robert Huber and Carrol Stegall, representatives from the International Relations Club, will enter, and others from various groups are expected to participate.

Faculty Club To See Pictures of Pompeii Monday

Dr. Edwin W. Davis, professor of Greek and Latin, will show pictures of Pompeii at the meeting of the Faculty club Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the home economics rooms of Fayerweather science hall. This will be the second of the five programs scheduled for this year.

Most of the pictures will be projected from post cards and snapshots gathered during Dr. Davis's visit to Europe and Pompeii in 1930. The purpose of the meeting will be to reveal ancient life and housing as discovered at Pompeii. Excavations have been so successful that nearly all the lower part of the city has been uncovered, including streets, walls, and foundations. From the foundations we have secured a very accurate plan of Roman houses. It has been estimated that Pompeii was a city of about 25,000 when it was destroyed by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 A.D.

A salad and dessert course will proceed the Faculty Club meeting.

Rev. H. R. Anderson

Dr. Gutzke Is Chapel Speaker

Dr. Manford George Gutzke, professor of English Bible and Religious Education at Columbia Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia, will be the speaker at the chapel service Wednesday December 8.

Dr. Gutzke has a master's degree from Southern Methodist University in Texas and also an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree. He is a Canadian by birth and has had a varied experience as a teacher and minister.

A matter of interest is that he was the champion boxer of his weight in the Canadian army during World War I. His daughter, Miriam, is a sophomore psychology major in Maryville College this year.

Ministerials Hold Final Meeting of Semester Dec. 9

The final meeting of the Ministerial association for the present semester will be held December 9, at 6:45 p.m., in Athenian Hall.

At this time all unfinished business will be cleared up and an election will be held for next semester's officers. The officers who have served since September are: president, Hubert Rust; first vice-president, Lawrence Sthresh-ley; second vice-president, John Taylor; and secretary-treasurer, Paul Moehlman.

Last night a "Hymn Sing" was held in the "Y" rooms under the sponsorship of the Ministerial association.

Vesper Service Features Special Christmas Music

Sunday, December 5, the last vesper service of the year will be a Christmas program devoted particularly to music. Dr. John A. Gates is to be the leader. There will be antiphonal work between the choir and the glee club. "Green Cathedral," a number which was sung two weeks ago at Vespers by the glee club, has been so much in request that it will be repeated at this time.*

*Since Voorhees Chapel cannot be used at present, tomorrow's vesper services will be held in the New Providence Presbyterian Church. The hour of the service remains the same, 7:00 p.m.

The program for this special musical is as follows:

Processional —"Angels from the Realms of Glory" 124
Invocation ..... Choir

Conducts Annual February Meetings For Second Time

WAS CHAPLAIN

Rev. S. E. Stringham Is Song Leader For Twenty-second Year

President Lloyd has released to the HIGHLAND ECHO the following important announcement:

The leader of the February Meetings this year is the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson, D.D., Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Chicago. This is the second time he has rendered this important service, the other being five years ago. Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, D.D., Pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church, St. Louis, will be the song leader for his twenty-second year.

Dr. Anderson's church is one of the most noted and influential in the United States. With its almost three thousand members it is one of the ten largest Presbyterian churches in America and is generally counted the strongest between New York and the Pacific Coast. It has a magnificent stone building, which is really several buildings, on North Michigan Avenue, near the lake shore and the Loop in downtown Chicago. It has a large staff of ministers and assistants.

Ray Anderson, as his friends everywhere call him, became pastor of this strategic church when he was but thirty-five, after a pastorate of seven years in another great church of 2,000 members, the First Presbyterian of Wichita, Kansas, where he went when only twenty-eight years old.

Chaplain in World War I

He graduated as an engineer at Kansas State College and was practicing that profession when he was called into the ministry and entered theological seminary. He graduated just as America entered World War I, went to France as an army chaplain, was wounded, and returned to the pastorate in his home State.

But more important than the facts of his prominence and leadership is the fact that he is a man of deep spiritual life, of a thoughtful and sincere religious faith, and of a humble spirit.

Maryville College is exceedingly fortunate to secure Dr. Anderson any year and especially at this time when his duties are so heavy.

"MESSIAH" IS NEXT SUNDAY

Sunday, December 12, the eleventh annual college presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given in Voorhees chapel. The opening note of the concert will begin promptly at 3:00 p.m. An hour and a half's performance will be presented for a chapel audience of students and music lovers of the community. The soloists have been selected by director, Phillip O. Jones, assistant professor of music. They will be announced in next week's ECHO.

This year, at the eleventh performance, Mr. Phillip O. Jones is directing for his first time at Maryville. Miss Garnet Manges will play the piano accompaniment, and Miss Katherine C. Davis the organ accompaniment. In the former presentations, approximately forty people have had solo parts and have been under the direction of three people: Miss Frances Henry, Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, and Mr. Richard Vine.

Mathews, Buford Are Barnwarming Royalty

Thursday evening, Thanksgiving Day, November 26, the annual barnwarming program was held in the Alumni Gymnasium. Before the program was presented, the sponsors of the four classes were presented in order beginning with the freshman class. Lottie Lavender, a home economics major from Washington College, Tennessee, was the freshman class choice. Representing the sophomore class was Jean Smith, a Bible major. Jean is from Kenmore, New York. Hannah Duke, from Arlington, Texas, was presented as the junior class sponsor. The surprise of the evening was the presentation of the senior class sponsor and queen as one and the same co-ed, Alice Mathews. Alice, an English major from Sharon, Connecticut, has been quite prominent on the campus. She portrayed the leading role in the first dramatic presentation of this semester, "Dark Victory," which was presented November 20. Alice was band sponsor last year, and one of nine chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities this year. The King elected by the student body was Bill Buford, a senior biology major from Florence, Alabama. Bill is president of the Y. M. C. A., this year. He was also recently chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Bill, too, played a part in the recent production of "Dark Victory."

Lights All Over the World

After the presentation of the sponsors and king and queen, a program was given, centered around the theme "When the Lights Go On Again, All Over The World." The story running through the program was about the experiences of a soldier when serving all over the world in the army. The faculty presented the first number, a skit entitled, "The Sun Never Sets on the British Empire." Each colony or dominion of the empire was represented by faculty members dressed in typical costumes of Wales, Scotland, Ireland, Africa, India, Egypt, and Australia.

Marcia Keirns sang an Irish song to represent what the soldier might have heard when visiting in Ireland under Uncle Sam's orders. For Paris and France, a ballet number was presented by six college girls, Sapie Bernardini, Betty Lou King, Betsy Burleigh, Catherine Stout, Margy Witt, and Melba Holder. As typical of Italy, a cadet, Rupert Rudio from Chicago, Illinois, played some Italian numbers on his accordian. The Y. W. C. A. then put on a skit portraying an open air shop or bazaar, a fishmonger calling his wares, two Chinese girls—one in American clothes, the other in Chinese—shopping, two school children mumbling their lessons aloud, and a typical wedding procession to illustrate some of the oriental customs.

Roller Skating

Perhaps the highlight of the evening was the roller skating act presented by Catherine Stout, a freshman, who was champion roller-skater of New York City, and Phil Rawding from Lynn, Massachusetts, who is an Army Aircrew student stationed in the 42nd College Training Detachment. They represented the country of Sweden.

Ruth Broadhead and Owen McGarity put on a skit assumed to be typical of Alaska. For a Scotland accent to the program, a trio composed of Kay Bonner, Soapie Bernadini, and Catherine Sisk, sang the Scottish song, "Comin' Through the Rye."

The Y. M. C. A., to portray the South Seas in the program, selected Owen McGarity, Rush Lester, and Robert Dockendorf to dance a hula-hula dance as symbolic of the native activities there. As a climax to the program, and to represent the United States, the trio, Bonner, Bernadini, and Sisk, sang "My Dream of Tomorrow."

Prior to the presentation of the program, the audience visited the various booths which are a regular feature of the annual affair. The proceeds of the ticket sales

STRAW VOTE TUESDAY

Several spaces in this week's ECHO have been devoted to explanation and, we hope, sanction of student government. A dummy ballot has also been drawn, as a suggestion for a campus-wide straw vote, which will be held Monday in Pearsons lobby.

But "I just didn't have time to vote that day," quoted one member of the student body. Others may say they are not interested in one organization or another or that they do not care who is elected. And the same thing may take place in the coming voting on Student Government at Maryville. Unless everyone is interested enough to state his opinion, there is no need to bother with such an organization. If you do not agree with certain or any of the principles, this is your opportunity to say why. Suggestions as to changes in the ideas or the plan will be received and considered in the light of the greatest good. But it is the duty of everyone who considers himself a member of the student body TO VOTE.

The ballots next Tuesday will not constitute any deciding factors. They are merely to discover the opinions in the minds of the students. The ballot box will not be guarded; if conscientious people are in favor of trying a better system, they will see to it that the ballot box remains unpolluted and stationary.

Say What You Think

This is everyone's opportunity to say what he thinks before the actual and official casting of votes takes place under the direction of the elections committee of the Student Council.

An election where two-thirds of the members vote does not often allow a majority for any one candidate. Neither can the sanction by a few interested upperclassmen constitute enough affirmative votes to begin a student government system at Maryville. If the plan is unworthy, the thing to do is to vote against the prosposed project. But, in any case, be sure to vote!

"UNCENSORED"

By McCOY and RICHARDSON

Things have really taken a mighty fast turn around the hill these days. What with people whipping up term papers in no time flat (or do I mean prostrate), reading hundreds of pages of outside readings in psychology, and putting together such super performances as DARK VICTORY and Barnwarming's MAZDADAZE, nobody knows which end is up. The one magnificent cry rising above the din has something to do with less than two weeks; long stretches of road blending night and day in a peculiar fog of faces, mountains, valleys, and chatter; and a lump in everybody's throat.

Did somebody say Barnwarming? We loved it from QUEEN VICTORIA GREEN down to "UGH," a la McGARITY and BROADHEAD. The whole thing had verve, and was a lovely offering to the sponsors (who are by way of being pretty snazzy themselves), queen ALICE and king BILL.

There is a special on at the bookstore—Maryville prices strictly. Seventeen stamps sell for one cent and a half, or, if your correspondence isn't that large you can get thirteen stamps for one cent and a quarter. Tell them we sent you.

When JO JENNINGS visited LARRY STHRESHLEY she got a ring, GINNY GARRETT was visited by CHET PHILLIPS and lo, third finger left hand is given sparkle. Now four people are happy and they make everybody else glad and the moral to this tale is Maryville students do not study all the time.

What's your hurry, where's the fire?

Music in the dining hall occasionally is good for what ails you. It gives one a lift, it takes the lead out of your feet. One romantic soldier staring past his ham, applesause, and doughnuts, through the lattice work, was quoted as saying, "Gee!" Whereupon five coeds looked down shyly and giggled. Maybe that is why teachers in Thaw are forever closing doors to their classrooms?

Seeing DAVE McDANIEL, JOE SUITOR, and RALPH PARVIN certainly brought on a feeling of nostalgia. 'Nuff said?

The Spanish club took it into their heads to send some Y room baked cookies to their departed president, BOB BRUCE. All was progressing beautifully until some super intelligent creature discovered MADELEINE COOKE (better known as Cookie) had broiled them. We're just warning you, Robert!

If you go in for having circles woven around you, charming ones, listen to CAROL TITUS talk about India sometime. It's like magic only nicer.

Incidentally, ask her to sing you a lullaby, too.

We have discovered that Maryville had another poet, and one who cannot only set his poetry to music, but who can also sing it. BILL COVER is the gifted gentleman of whom we speak. The words to his latest attempt are, to-wit:

"Doctor Shine has a beard,
Owen McGarity is very fat,
Maryville girls are fast."

The music we do not attempt to reproduce. Maybe things like that are why DOCTOR SHINE is losing his gray hair.

This should have been mentioned several paragraphs farther back, but anyhow, we're still trying to convince MARINELL ROSS that there are more than six two-cent stamps in a dozen.

MR. KIGER'S remedy for cold feet, guaranteed to bring results: stand on the radiator.

FRANCES GROSH has recently returned from a Philadelphia ship-christening. Strangely enough, Bill happened to be there too.

DOCTOR GATES thinks there is no such thing as religious instinct, but what else was it that brought U.D. to chapel the other day?

You can't even bribe MISS JACKSON with a birthday cake—she still gives tests.

Why did the folks in the library look so alarmed at the choral effects emanating from the ECHO office the other night? Why is anyone ever alarmed at anything that comes from the ECHO office?—Even this.

Gotta go. Registration.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

This week I have asked Ben Lynt to write a column on the student government plan proposed for Maryville College. Ben has been the most active member of the student body in advocating and working for student government, and it is largely through his efforts that a plan has been worked out and proposed for adoption here.

ON STUDENT GOVERNMENT

BY BEN LYNT

There has been much talk recently on the campus, in the student council, and in various other circles, both official and otherwise, concerning the idea of Student Government in general, and about a plan for Maryville College in particular. For the benefit of those less fortunate invididuals who have not been privileged to sit in on any of these discussions it was thought at least appropriate, if nothing else, to air some views on the subject in a column in the ECHO.

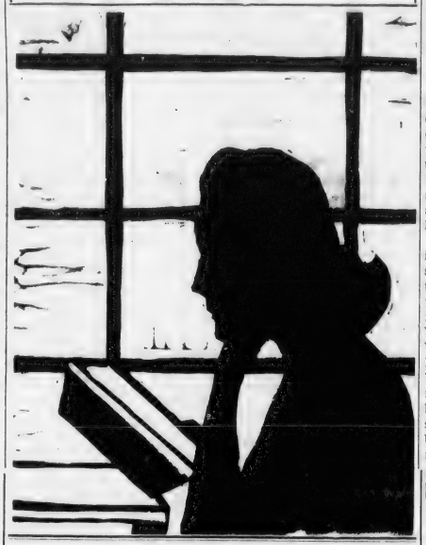
Bob Huber very graciously offered space in his column, at the suggestion of the student council committee on publications—who conferred with the ECHO editors and received endorsement—for a discussion of current ideas concerning Student Government.

It has been felt for some time now, by many here at Maryville that the time is now right for an experiment in Student Government. The student body is smaller, other activities in the realm of student management of affairs have indicated a growing willingness and ability on the part of the student body to cooperate in taking the responsibility for organizing and conducting programs in which the whole student body participated, and the trend in general has been toward the instigation of some form or other of Student Government.

Nature of Such Plans

The student council has a committee investigating the matter and it is highly probable that this committee will soon come up with a plan suitable for adoption here. Such a plan would no doubt call for Dormitory organization, with a president and other officers as they seemed necessary. The function of this organized group would be to assume rsponsibility for the maintenance of order in their respective dormitories. The presidents of each dorm would very probably become members, by virtue of their offices, of a new branch of the student council, the judicial body whose duty it would be to investigate any and all reported infractions of campus and dormitory regulations. They would make recommendations to the faculty on cases reviewed.

A student government plan for Maryville might also include provisions to insure both representative and responsible students as members of the two houses of the council. It might very well call for a popular election of both the president and secretary of the council, since under our present constitution they are duly constituted as officers of the entire student body.



It is also conceivable that recommendations for modifying some of the existing rules and regulations to fit the needs of the proposed plan might be included. Other items of interest to both the student body adn the faculty might also be included if they seemed to be warranted and feasible.

NET RESULT

In brief, the results of adopting such a plan would mean that the faculty and dormitory heads would be relieved of a great deal of responsibility, and the students would have to assume a great deal more responsibility than has been customary in the past. It may be that students as a whole will not be willing or prepared to assume the responsibility which adopting any such plan would entail. Provisions have been made elsewhere in this same paper for every student to express himself on this question. It is hoped that all will do so, in order that the student council may know whether it is advisable to proceed with work on the idea.

Theta Alphia Phi Initiates Three New Members

Last Wednesday evening, November 24, the present members of the Tennessee Delta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, journeyed to Knoxville, where they were entertained at a formal dinner given by a former Maryville graduate and member last year of the faculty, Mrs. Hamilton.

The occasion was the formal initiation into membership of the three recently elected candidates, Georgia Lu Meadows, Mary Dawn Noblit and Nancy Russell.

After the initiation and dinner, a business meeting was held and plans made for the coming semester. It was decided by the group that they would engage in a program designed to put the chapter back on the map of the National organization. Regular meetings will be held by this group and discussions concerning current trends in the thecater and the world of drama will be conducted.

During the course of the evening, a round-robbin letter was written to a former member, Frank Brink, who was outstanding in dramatic art while attending school here. Frank starred three years ago in a mid-winter production of "Abe Lincoln of Illinois." He is now serving with the Navy somewhere in an undisclosed area of combat.

Others present at the meeting were Alice Jones, class of '43, and Betty Jean Kennedy, class of '44.

Student Vols See Movie On Negro

Carol Titus Will Be Delegate at Wooster

A movie, "The Rise of the Race," will be shown at the Student Volunteer meeting on Sunday, December 5. This movie on the Negro was selected, because the Student Volunteers chose the Negroes of the Southland as their special project this year. They will send $25 to the Decatur Colored Mission, in Decatur, Georgia.

The YWCA and YMCA are joining with the Student Volunteers to send Carol Titus as a delegate to the Wooster Conference, at Wooster College, Ohio, which meets from December 28 to January 3. Young people from four groups—YWCA, YMCA, Student Christian Movement of Canada, and Student Volunteers—will attend this conference. This group will consider Foreign Mission work and reconstruction abroad, work in the United States—problems of minorities.

ALL-STARS VANQUISH PLANETS 13-0

BILL BUFORD led the powerful All-Star team to a 13-0 victory over the Planets in the intramural football classics of the year Thanksgiving morning. The game, which started after the Y services lasted until about 11:30, was a long, hard-fought-battle. During almost the entire time in the first three quarters of the game the All-stars forced the Planets back deep into their own territory. However, in the last quarter the Planets led by PARKINSON and ANDERSON, forced the ball down into a scoring position; but the end of the game stopped this threat.

RUSH LESTER, who had called the plays for the successful freshman team this past season, called them for the All-stars. EASTER did most of the passing, and BUFORD the running for the victors. DILLENER, R. E., POLAND, C., and RILEY, L. E. played the line for the All-Stars.

TOMMY PARKINSON carried the attack for the Planets during almost the entire game and with the addition of ANDERSON after the second half to the Planet team the two started a running attack which the AllStars found hard to stop. JOE SUITOR, who graduated this past summer, played at left end for the Planets. Other players for the Planets were RUST, back, CROWSON, back, KEMP, R. E., and COVER, C. MARVIN TURNER called the game.

SPEEDBALL

Speedball is now "the thing" in the intramural program. On Tuesday, November 30, the first game of that sport for this season was played. In that game the "Y" Cabinet out-played the "Y" Frosh bunch to a tune of 5 goals to 1. Each goal counts 3 points in this game, in which the chief method of advancing the ball and scoring is kicking the ball. Inasmuch as this was the first contact with speedball for every one of the frosh the contest was not too bad a route, but the Cabinet completely outclassed them in every department. The winners were led by BOB SEEL and LLOYD ANDERSON, who have both played a good bit of soccer (speedball's first cousin). BILL BUFORD of the Cabint also shone; he, like SEEL scored two goals. ANDERSON accounted for one. ABBOTT KEMP was about the best the freshmen could produce. And LEONARD SCHEIBER also did pretty well for the losers, scoring their lone goal.

Due to the fact that only 10 players showed up there were only five players to a side in this game instead of the usual six:

"Y" Cabinet 15	"Y" Frosh 3
Lloyd Anderson	Abbott Kemp
Bob Seel	Leonard Scieber
Bill Buford	Tommy Parkinson
Paul Smith	Marvin Turner
Abner Richard	Bob Dockendorf

Dr. J. W. Malone Speaks on Loyalty

Dr. J. Walter Malone was the speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service held in Voorhees Chapel December 1.

At the present time Dr. Malone is vice-president of McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, and previous to the acceptance of this position served for more than fifteen years as the university pastor at the University of Illinois.

In addition to speaking at the chapel service, he met with ministerial students who are making plans to enter seminary, and with other students at various times during the day.

The subject of Dr. Malone's sermon was "Loyalty to the Church." In his introductory remarks he stated that "Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it" and that democracy and the principles under which we as Americans live need the church.

Dr. Malone urged us to "pledge our loyalty to the church because it makes life worth living . . . it is the one great institution that preserves all the great Christian traditions . . . and it gives to the world the meaning of Jesus Christ for the needs of all men. Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it! Can we as Christians do less?"

Theta, Bainonian Meet Together

Theta Epsilon will have a joint meeting with Bainonian tonight at 6:15. A popcorn party is planned, to be held in the Y rooms. A stunt will be given by Margaret Witt, Betty Lou King, Barbara Burnett, and Dorothy Justus. A trio of town girls—Peggy Howell, Rella Anderson, and Janice Stevens—will sing. Nancy Ida Rennaker will accompany them.

At the Theta meeting of December 11, officers will be nominated for the next semester.

Christmas Party In Alumni Gym for College and Army

Tonight from 8:00 until 10:00 in the Alumni Gym there will be a joint party for the college students and the Army Air crew students. The party will be sponsored by the Social Committee of the school.

The gym will be decorated in the traditional Christmas color scheme of red and white, and there will be snow drifts all around the floor. The band stand will be situated in a large snow bank. There will be a Christmas tree covered with gifts for all those in attendance, and Santa Claus is expected to make an appearance during the course of the evening.

"Johnson Rag" will be the first number on the program and then, Rex Cowen, master of ceremonies, will introduce the girl's trio composed of Peggy Howell, Rella Anderson, and Janice Stevens. The trio will sing "Night and Day" and "I'll Be Home For Christmas." Following this there will be a skit given by the Army Aircrew students. A jitterbug number will be presented by Ellen Pascoe and Ed Burkhart. The next number on the program will be a boogie woogie piano duet by two of the Air Crew students. Becker will tap dance, and then Carol Paxton will sing "By the Bend of the River" and "For You." Nancy Renaker will be the accompaniest.

Stout and Rawding Skate

Kay Stout and Phil Rawding will skate together following this number. "The Night Before Christmas" will be read by Jordy Meadows. The girls' trio will close the program with "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," and following their song everyone in the group will join in singing Christmas carols. During this singing Santa Claus will distribute the presents, and refreshments will be served.

Serving on the committees for the party were the following people: Program, Jane Short and Cordelia Dellinger; refreshments, Pat Howarth and Katie Tomlinson; advertisement, Ruth Carter; invitations, Peggy Fisher, Ruth Case, and Estelle Farrow; decorations, Betty Burton, and Wally Easter.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

There are a lot of new things in the Maryville coeds sport world today. Besides a terrific basketball tournament now in progress, there is the volley ball tournament being held in all the gym classes. Volley ball lends itself to this type of tournament, in which so many teams are entered, and the competition adds life and interest to the gym classes.

The game is played according to regulation with nine women on a team, the server given only one chance to score and one point for each score made while serving. As far as the number of times each side can hit the ball, rules and precautions are thrown to the wind.

To make it easier I will list the teams and their managers, and then the teams that have been undefeated thus far. B period: Paper Dollies, Alice Mathews; Pistol Packin' Mammas, Soapie Bernadini; Short Stops, Florence Gobillot; Glamour Gals, Agnes Peterson; Black Magic, Estelle Farrow; Gremlins, B. J. Miller; Toppers, Jeanie Bellerjeau; Flashes, Miriam Gutzke. Class C: P-40's, Becky Davis; Ten Pins, Shorty Waisman; Hell Kats, Stevie Boretsky; Super Gals, Mary Elizabeth Wells; Green Hornets, Jean Messer; Amazons, Florence Gywn; Rockettes, Eleanor McCully; Aggets, Agnes Robinette. D period: Destroyers, Catherine Sisk; Old Maids, Louise Henry; C. Q.'s, Winnie Sommers; Mickey Finns, Mickey Deerman; Riveters, Peggy Claypool; Scotties, Louise Corbett; Beowoulf, Catherine Crothers; Sneezers, Marion Scheeweiss; Period E: D.A.R.'s, Ruth Broadhead; Moonshiners, Johnnye Gudel; Question Marks, Pauline Lickteig; Draftees, Judy Turk; P-38's, Par Howarth; Nuggets, Mary Elizabeth Case. Period F: Freaks, Betty Hoagland; Vitamin B-I's, Jeanna Eddleman.

The winning teams at this stage of the game are the Glamour Gals, Flashes, Ten Pins, Rockettes, C.Q.'s, Sneezers, Nuggets, and the Vitamin B-I's.

Best Volley Ballers

At last! Here is your selection for the nine best volley ball playing coeds on 320 acres of campus. These votes are prejudiced, biased, and otherwise on the up an dup. After much tabulating these players came out on top: Louise Corbett, Stevie Boretsky, Winnie Sommers, Babe Burnett, Betsy Burleigh, Agnes Peterson, Johnnye Gudel, Carol Titus, and Jane McCully.

What's up for next semester, Mrs. Queener?

When the WAC's and the WAVES get together it spells fast playing, tension, and balls flying fast and basketward.

WAC'S AHEAD

Three games have been played out of the six scheduled, the WACS have won two and the WAVES, one. The scores were all close and the decisive playing was carried on in the last few minutes of the games.

Johnnye Gudel, captain of the navies, and Waveda Norman, the khaki's captain serve as the central, moving sparks of their teams. To date Norman has made 26 baskets; Gudel, 21; Hunt, 11; and Peterson, 10.

The first game the WACS beat the WAVES, twenty-four to seventeen. The second round of the tournament was a little different story. The WAC'S were one point ahead at the end of the game, but because of a ruling which says you can't win by one point, two minutes of play were added to allow one team the opportunity of achieving a decisive victory. The WAVES in quick succession got three points putting the game in the bag for them. The same thing happened in the third game, the WACS one point ahead. This time, however, on a personal foul the WAC's were given a chance to shoot, and Waveda Norman made good.

M.C. Debate Team Will Travel To State Tournaments

The varsity debate team is anticipating several trips this season to engage in intercollegiate debates. Women members of the team will journey to Bristol, Virginia where the Smoky Mountain Tournament will be held at Virginia Intermont Junior College, a girls' school.

Both men and women will attend the Southeastern Tournament to be held at Hickory, North Carolina, and the Southern Tournament at Birmingham, Alabama.

The Varsity team has not been chosen as yet. Those still interested in becoming members, but who have not attended any of the meetings, are urged to do so at the beginning of the second semester.

Plans are now being made for freshman debate. Freshman interested may anticipate a meeting early in the second semester.

Dr. David H. Briggs, chairman of the division of education and psychology, is the faculty adviser for the debaters. He is replacing Dr. Verton M. Queener, who was granted a year's leave of absence in order that he might accept a position with the government in Washington.

SERVICE STARS

(If you have any information about former Maryville students who are in the armed services, please see Dorothy Dick.)

Bill Long and Richard Scruggs, Jr., reported to Maxwell Field November 26, to begin the third phase of their training as pilots in the U. S. Army Air Forces expanding program. Bill, from Steubenville, Ohio, and a member of the present junior class, was treasurer of his class during his freshman year. Dick, a student here in 1941-42 is from Sweetwater, Tennessee. These aviation cadets receive nine weeks in intensive physical, military, and academic instruction, preparatory to beginning their actual flight training at one of the many primary flying schools located in the Army Air Forces Eastern Flying Training Command.

Ensign Dave McDaniel

Ensign Dave McDaniel, visiting here on the campus on leave until December 10, will return to begin work as an instructor in the Naval Air Corps at Cecil Field, Jacksonville, Florida. Dave, a graduate in 1942, just completed special training in Chicago, Illinois. While here on the campus, Dave was captain of the wrestling team, and a member of the national honorary dramatic society, Theta Alpha Phi.

A-S Dave Seel, is stationed at Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisana, in the V-12 program of the U. S. Naval Reserve Medical corps. After a year of training he expects to go to medical school. Dave, a member of the present sophomore class, and a May Day attendant last year, left Maryville November 1, to report for training.

Corporal Chester Phillips, a member of the freshman class during the fall semester of 1942, was a visitor on the campus last week. Chet, although stationed at present in the Medical Corps of the Pipe Line Laying Division of the Army at Camp Clayborne, Louisana, expects to be sent across very shortly. He completed his basic training at Camp Barclay, Texas. While here on the campus, Chet gave Virginia Garrett, a sophomore, a diamond to make their engagement official.

Musical Program Led By Batchelor At Spanish Club

Mary Batchelor, a sophomore religious education major from Richmond, Virginia, led the Spanish club in a program of Spanish music at the last meeting on Friday, November 26, at 6:30 p.m. in Athenian hall. Betty Jane Meyer, a Spanish major and club treasurer, gave a report on Spanish music and art. A business meeting followed the program at which Helen Cassile, a religious education transfer from Tenet Bible College in Philadelphia, was elected a member to fill the place left when Bob Bruce, last year's president, joined the Navy.

Martha Dean played the piano for the singing. Mary Batchelor was assisted in the songs by Rush Lester, Betty Jane Meyer, and Madeline Cooke. The singing schedule included a round in Spanish and a Spanish version of "Silent Night." Charlie Burgreen accompanied Mary White while she played some Spanish rhythms on her "bones." She also showed the group a pair of castanets made in Cuba and demonstrated how they are played.

During the course of the meeting several of the members wrote notes to Bob Bruce. These have been sent to him along with cookies and popcorn made in the Y rooms last Wednesday by several of the girls in the club.

The last meeting of the semester will be a Christmas program Thursday, December 9. Plans will be announced later.

McGarity Conducts Program on Truth Or Consequences

Monday evening, November 22, International Relations Club held its weekly discussion meeting in the Y. Rooms. Bette Lou McCoy presented a review of Walter Lippmann's latest book, U. S. Foreign Policy. It was pointed out that Mr. Lippmann, in his book, spends most of his time tearing down American foreign policy, or lack of foreign policy, in the past, but taht his proposed plans for future foreign relations are not noticeable improvement over the past mistakes. The news was reviewed by Olinda Ahrens.

The last meeting of the club to be held this semester, took place last Monday, November 29. After a newscast by Bob Huber, the meeting was turned over to Owen McGarity, who, as master of ceremonies, conducted a "Truth or Consequence" program.

After refreshments were served, the meeting was adjourned.

Peggy Case was responsible for the program plans, assisted by Mary Jane Barrows and Florence Gynn.

Huber, Moehlman Read at Workshop

Wednesday at 4:00 Writer's Workshop will meet for the last time this year. Robert Huber, a junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, and Paul Moehlman, a Senior English major from Indianapolis, Indiana, will read. Jean Bollenbeau will be the critic for Bob, and Jane Short will criticize Paul's work.

At the last meeting Francis Grosh read a sketch entitled "Chow Line." Evelyn Gregory read two connecting sketches. Helen Anderson and Miss Johnson, assistant professor of English, were the critics.

Huber Elected to Law Club Office

The Law club held its organization meeting Thursday evening, December 4. The following officers weree elected for the year: Robert F. Huber, a junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, is the new president. Bob is managing editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO this year. Marinell Ross, a sophomore majoring in political science, is secretary. Miriam Wickham, a sophomore psychology major, was elected sergeant-at-arms.

New members are Carroll Stegall, Owen McGarity, and Jeanne Keyes.A drive for new members is being undertaken by the club. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in law, government, politics, history, international relations, sociology and other related subjects. Anyone interested in these subjects is urged to attend the meetings. The next meeting will be held in January with Marinell Ross and Miriam Wickham speaking on the pros and cons of an international police force. A question period will follow the speakers.

February Meetings

He is now President of the Chicago Federation, composed of all denominations, and is Vice Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly. That he will leave his work at the heart of America's second largest city at one of the church's busiest seasons to spend almost two weeks on the Maryville College campus in one of the most strenuous schedules of speaking and interviews a minister can undertake anywhere is proof of the high estimate he places on the February Meetings.

Registration For Next Semester Is Nov. 30-Dec. 15

Registration for next semester is now taking place in the Personnel Office. The seniors registered from November 30 through December 2, juniors are registering from December 3 through December 8, sophomores from December 8 through December 11, and freshmen from December 13 through December 15. Registration includes approval of the tentative schedule card, and the filling out and approval of the complete registration card.

Registration of all students now in attendance is required before the close of the first semester. Those who do not register within the designated period for each class will be charged the late registration fee of $2.50. Students changing classification at midyear should register within the period designated for the classes in which they are to be next semester.

Bills may be paid at the Treasurer's office during regular student hours before the holidays or at the regular time for payment after the vacation. This will be from 9:00 to 11:30 each morning and from 3:30 to 4:30 each afternoon, January 12-14 for those who registered before the holiday vacation, and from 3:30 to 4:30, January 13, 14 for those who did not register before the holiday vacation.

Those paying bills after January 14 will be charged the late payment fee of $5.00.

Holiday penalties will be applied for class absences the first day of the second semester and as usual for absences on the first two days after a recess.

Necessary changes in schedules may be made on Monday, January 17.

were to go to the War Emergency Fund for the relief of foreign students. Peggy Caldwell, a sociology major from Tallahassee, Florida, and Virginia Cain, a junior math major from Morristown, were chosen by the YW to oversee the plans and activities of the various committees.

ALPHA SIGMA

Saturday, November 27, Alpha Sigma held a combination business meeting and social in Alpha Sigma hall. At this meeting, letters from former Alpha Sig members were read, the forthcoming play discussed, money for the play books was collected, and freshman initiation was continued. Also, plans were made for a banquet and Christmas party to be held on December 11. Names were drawn for the distribution of gifts.

The play which Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon are collaborating to present is "Letters to Lucerne." Try-outs are to be this next week. The date for the presentation of the play has not yet been definitely decided, but will be some time in February.

Chapel Fire

beyond use. Fire insurance will cover the damage to the building itself, but just how much of the damage done to the equipment it will cover has not been ascertained.

The water necessary to put out the fire flooded certain portions of the chapel and caused the ceiling of the main chapel auditorium to fall in spots. Pianos, organs, and other equipment on the first two stories were removed and saved by the combined efforts of the soldiers of the 42nd College Training Detachment, students, and members of the faculty. As far as can be determined the pipe organ was not damaged by the fire or water.

Repairs will begin immediately, and the roof and upper story of the building will have to be rebuilt. In the meantime chapel services are to be held in the Alumni Gym. The New Providence Presbyterian church has offered the use of its building for any use the college may wish to put it.

The Elizabeth R. Voorhees chapel was constructed in 1905-06 by William Voorhees of New Jersey and was named in memory of his wife.

We'd like to take you on a tour through our Arrow department. We think you'll enjoy seeing our Arrows as much as your menfolks would enjoy getting them. (Or almost!)

Here, for instance, you see the famous Arrow Shirt. Attached to it, the renowned Arrow Collar, popular with men for more than 80 years! Notice the shirt fabric . . . sturdy and durable. See the Sanforized label. It's your guarantee of less than 1% shrinkage. $2.24 up.

And over here, the Arrow Tie. Men like them because the patterns are so fresh and good-looking. The special lining helps make perfect knots. $1 & $1.50.

Step this way to view the most comfortable shorts ever made! Arrows! Designed without a center seam, Arrow Shorts just can't bind or chafe! Sanforized, too. 75c up.

Don't pass by the handsome Arrow Handkerchief. See how large it is . . . how perfectly it goes with Arrow Shirts and Ties. In white or colors, 35c up.

And over this way, the whole business . . . an Arrow ensemble of shirts, ties, shorts and handkerchiefs. An ideal Christmas gift!

Ten Seniors Are Recognized

Alpha Gamma Sigma Elects Chappell, Lehman

Bill Chappell and Jean Lehman have recently been honored by being elected to membership.

Alpha Gamma Sigma is the only scholastic honor society officially recognized by the college. It is not national in scope or connection, but it maintains standards equivalent and comparable to those of the national honorary scholastic society, Phi Beta Kappa. This society was organized in the spring of 1934, for the purpose of motivating high scholarship among students. Ten per cent of the graduating class may be admitted provided the members have a grade point ratio of 6.5, or somewhat more than a B average. Members must also be of good moral character and have shown capacities for leadership and service.

Bill Chappell has made an unusually outstanding record while here at Maryville, holding down a full-time job at the air-port and being the head of a family as well. He has shown himself to be a bouyant spirit and an influential personality both in and out of class.

Jean Lehman has also achieved a commendably good scholarship record and at the same time participated in other campus activities. She has served faithfully and well as an assistant in the psychology department and has assisted in the college hospital. Jean was a charter member of the International Relations club, and she has served on the parish project. Last year she was the recipient of the Economics prize, which is given annually to the economics student maintaining the highest average.

Parish Project Holds Christmas Programs Sunday

Students And New Providence Church Aid in Presentations

Christmas programs will be presented at the various parish project points tomorrow, including New Castle, Keeble Chapel, Marble Hill, Hickory Valley, Home Avenue, and Lamar Chapel.

The services will be conducted by the students who have been serving in each locality during the semester, except in the case of Home Avenue where the New Providence church will be in charge. They will be simple, but festive in nature and will be marked by participation by people from the churches themselves.

The program being prepared for presentation at New Castle is a typical example of the type to be held at the other points. A Christmas worship service will begin the program. There will be carol singing, a reading of the Christmas story, special music, and a dramatization entitled "Song From Heaven."

Rev. Floyd R. Watt, director of the parish project and president of the Maryville Alumni association, will assist in the program by telling the story "The Other Wise Man." At the conclusion of the exercises gifts will be distributed.

Nature Club Has Dedication Service For Redbud Lane

Dr. Lloyd Speaks and Martha Jeane Shaw Reads Original Poem

A dedication service consisting of poetry marked the planting of the first tree of an avenue of redbuds by the Nature Club. The service was held Saturday afternoon, November 20. President Ralph W. Lloyd accepted the tree. Miss Susan A. Green, sponsor of the club, was also present.

Members of the Nature Club and others took part. About fifteen people stood in a semicircle around the tree while Helen Marie Wilson read the poem "The Trees," by Lucy Larcom. Eleanor Kelly read Henry Cuyler Bunner's poem, "The Heart of a Tree." Dr. Lloyd accepted the tree after the reading of an original poem by Martha Jeane Shaw.

Maryville In Future

Before the service was begun Dr. Lloyd held the interest of the group by speaking of his dreams and ideals for the future of Maryville College. From the North Gates, near which the redbud trees are located, Dr. Lloyd pointed out the prospective location of a new girl's dormitory to be built after the war. The sites of a Gothic chapel, seating about fifteen hundred, and a small chapel in which all the college weddings will be held, were also discussed. Many other plans, some nearer to realization than others, were talked of. Some of these were the building of a College Inn, a Faculty Lodge, faculty homes or apartments, and the tower with chimes. With this view of the future before them, the students formed a semicircle around the tree, and stood facing the North Gates and the location of the future redbud avenue, while several appropriate poems were read.

The Nature Club is indebted to Mr. E. C. Brown, engineer, and his helpers for the transplanting of the two redbud trees, one of medium size and the other small. The club has had these trees planted with the idea of planting one each year until an avenue of redbud trees is established along the road leading from the North Gates. It is thought that some dogwood trees may be planted among them, since the combination of blossoms would make a striking and beautiful display each spring.

This is the dedicatory poem:

"Our Tree"

Long has our hill been crowned, cedars
Reaching toward the sky;

January 11 Ends Holiday Season

Christmas holidays for this year will begin Thursday, December 16, and will continue through January 11. Students must be back for chapel on the morning of January 12.

The usual holiday penalty will be applied to those students who do not return on time. The penalty is 1-2 hour and 1 1-2 grade points deducted from the credit of each course that is cut. Confusion has been caused in previous years with respect to the change of schedules. All students are expected to attend those classes for which they have registered until they are officially changed in the Personnel Office. Students are expected to attend classes according to the new semester's schedule, or holiday penalties will be applied.

Miss Orr Leaves Personnel Office

Mrs. Tubbs Begins Student Help Work

Two changes have recently been made in the office personnel. Miss Mary Orr, of the class of '41, and daughter of Dr. Horace E. Orr, left her position in the Personnel Office November 30. Last Wednesday she departed for Seattle, Washington, where she will be married to Dave Kidder, '42, who is an ensign in the Navy.

The new worker in the Student Help office is Mrs. Carrie Pearson Tubbs. She assumed her duties on December 1. She is the wife of Frank Rennie Tubbs, '33, who is now a private in the Marines.

The next issue will not be published until January 22, 1944.

SPECIAL SERVICE WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY MORNING

Huber, Moehlman Read at Workshop

Writers' Workshop held its last meeting of the year Wednesday in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Robert F. Huber, a junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, read a paper entitled "Missing in Action" and Paul Moehlman, a junior English major from Indianapolis, Indiana, presented one on the subject, "His Boys." Jean Bellerjeau was the critic for Bob and Jane Short criticised Paul's work.

The next meeting will be the latter part of January. Readers for next semester were posted in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Wednesday morning, December 15, at the regular morning chapel period a recognition service for the ten seniors graduating at the end of this semester will be held.

President Ralph W. Lloyd, several other officials of the college, the choir, and the candidates for graduation will take part in the exercises.

No attempt will be made to make the service like the usual commencement occasion, but there will be a brief address by President Loiyd, a roll call of the candidates, and special musical selections by the choir.

The exercises will be informal and no academic costumes will be worn. The diplomas will not be given at this time either as they will not be ready for distribution until a later date.

Following are listed the ten seniors who are candidates for degrees: Kate Lorene Best, William Bradford Chappell, Lena Cordelia Dellinger, Muriel Elizabeth Geisler, Ruth Jean Lehman, Alice Louise Mathews, Samuel Edwin Sapp, Nettie Rose Spraker, Mary Evelyn Waisman, and Ruth Allene Wilson.

Kate Best, a sociology major from Maryville, was a member of Theta Epsilon and has chosen the teaching field as her profession. She plans to do substitute work until next September and then teach in a high school.

William Chappell also lives in the town and while attending college was employed at the Weather Bureau Office of the Airport. He majored in physics and during the past few months has been an instructor in this subject for the army classes. Bill transferred here from the University of Tampa and after he graduates plans to continue his duties at the airport and as an instructor.

Cordelia Dellinger, a biology major from Crossnore, North Carolina, was on the honor roll two years and a member of the Chilhowean staff, Bainonian, and "BG." "Cordy" was also a biology assistant and did honors work in histology and neurology. After graduation she plans to work as a junior chemist at the DuPont Cellophane Company, Buffalo, New York.

The president of YW, Muriel Geisler, is a Bible and religious education major from Kissimmee, Florida. She is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, IRC executive board, Parish Project, Disc club, Pre-Med club, Nature club, and was on both the freshman and varsity debating teams. Muriel was also a Nu Gamma leader, a member of the War Stamp and Social Committees, on teh honor roll for three years, and president of the college class at the Presbyterian church. She was recently appointed Director of Religious Education at the First Presbyterian church, Manitowac, Wisconsin, and will assume her duties there immediately after graduation.

Jean Lehman, a sociology major from Haddonfield, N. J. has been on the honor roll for four years, was psychology assistant for two years, and was the winner of the Economics prize. She is a member of the Y.W.C.A. and IRC and plans to enter the Graduate School of Nursing, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Alice Mathews, an English major from Sharon, Connecticut, is a member of Theta Epsilon, Writers' Workshop, and the Parish Project. Alice was Band Sponsor last year and has appeared in a number of dramatic productions, including "Wuthering Heights," and "Dark Victory." She isn't positive about her future plans but expects to work at the Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Delaware.

Student Council Meets Monday

Called for a special meeting, the Student Council met Monday night at 8:15 in their customary meeting place on the second floor of Thaw Hall, to discuss pertinent and pressing matters of interest to the student body.

The main business of the meeting was to discuss the question raised by President Lloyd concerning the advisability of going through with the proposed student government "straw vote" originally scheduled for this past Tuesday. The matter was discussed at length, and a vote taken which resulted in a decision to act upon President Lloyd's suggestion that such a vote be postponed indefinitely.

In connection with this discussion, the question was raised as to just what the council could do in the way of an effort to determine what the sentiments of the student body were on questions which the council was considering, if such a vote might not be taken.

Other business introduced included the suggestion made by a member of the faculty that the council take some action to provide for the cleaning-up of the campus, and an announcement by the president of changes in committees. Principal changes were in the makeup of the finance, elections and student publications commitees. Ben Lynt was removed from the elections committee and replaced by Marion Stout. Jeanne Blanchard was removed from the finance committee and replaced by Tommy Parkinson. Jeanna Eddleman was removed from the student publications committee and was replaced by Ben Lynt.

LAW CLUB

The Law Club has elected Dr. John H. Stellwagon as its faculty adviser, and he has accepted. The next meeting of the club will be held the last week in January. The speakers will be Marion Wickham and Mary Nell Ross. They will talk on the "Pro's and Con's of an international Police Force."

Keirn, Grosh, Scott Cathcart and Stiles To Sing Solo Parts

Sunday, December 12 the eleventh annual college presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given in Voorhees chapel. The opening note of the concert will begin promptly at 3:00 p.m. An hour and a half performance will be presented for a chapel audience of students and music lovers of the community. The soloists have been selected by Director Phillip O. Jones, assistant professor of music.

Marcia Keirn will sing some of the soprano solos again this year. She has been a member of the choir three years and is a music major. She is from Alcoa and has studied music here at Maryville for five years, starting when in her junior year of high school.

Ruth Cathcart, a music major from Maryville, will also sing several soprano solos. Ruth has been a member of the choir for four years. She sang several of the soprano solos at the "Messiah" presentations of the two previous years.

Frances Grosh, contralto soloist, is an English major from Maryville. She has been a member of the choir for four years and is a member of Writers' Workshop. Frances sang several solos in the "Messiah" last year.

John Scott will be the tenor soloist this year. John is a psychology major from Eddington, Pennsylvania. He is a member of the college choir and has taken part in various dramatic art productions. He is an active member in Athenian, Student Vols, and serves on the Y.M.C.A. cabinet.

Dean Stiles, a graduate of Maryville, will sing the bass solos this year, as he has the last two years. When in college he was a band member and sang in the college choir and glee club.

This year, at the eleventh performance, Mr. Phillip O. Jones is directing for his first time at Maryville. Miss Garnet Manges will play the piano accompaniment. In the ten former presentations, approximately forty people

Student Council, I.R.C. Complete War Stamp Sale

The sale of War Stamps sponsored by the Student Council and International Relations Club is now completed for 1943, though War Stamps and Bonds are still on sale at the Book Store for students who wish to buy them for Christmas gifts. The committee reports $67.66 worth of Stamps sold during October, $31.40 during November, and $24.55 during the first week of October. The planes on the map displayed in Pearson's lobby moved toward Tokyo and Berlin at the rate of one inch for each $10 worth of Stamps sold and arrived to drop bombs on Tokyo and Berlin during November.

Millie Cundiff was in charge of advertising, and posters were prepared by Lois Wilkes, Phyllis Irshay, Catherine Sisk, Allene Mathews, Jeanne Keyes, Cynthia Johnson, and Luther Cross.

A new campaign for Stamp sales will be held next semester.

Annual Christmas Event Tomorrow

Dr. Hunter To Read "Ben Hur" Selections

The annual candle-light Christmas reading will be held at 8:00 Sunday evening. It has been customary for the reading to be held in front of the dining hall fireplace, but this year the scene will be shifted to the Y Rooms.

Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, will present selections from BEN HUR by Lew Wallace, dealing with the nativity. He will condense three chapters of the book into two parts.

Besides the reading, the program will include several musical numbers. A piano prelude will be played by Jean Keen, and Harold Kidder will furnish other piano numbers. Fay Cameron will play "O Holy Night" on her violin, and Frances Grosh will sing "Away in a Manger."

Mr. J. R. Smith Leaves College

Public Relations, Alumni Secretary To Leave March 1

JAMES R. SMITH

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Union held at Maryville College December 6, a call from the Graystone Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, was placed in the hands of Rev. James R. Smith and was accepted by him. He will not enter upon full time service as pastor there until about March 1, continuing meanwhile his work as Public Relations and Alumni Secretary at Maryville College. However, Rev. Mr. Smith will preach each Sunday at the Church as he has been doing all Fall.

Mr. Smith is a native of Mississippi where he was in business for a number of years before he decided to go to college and into the ministry. He graduated from Maryville College in 1935 and from Columbia Theological Seminary, Atlanta, in 1938, and served two years as pastor of Kirkwood Presbyterian Church, Atlanta. He came back to Maryville College in his present capacity three years ago. Associates say that he has done outstanding work but feels it is his duty now to return to the work of the pastorate for which he prepared.

The Graystone Presbyterian Church is well known to Maryville not only because of its imposing building at the south end of Henley Street Bridge, over which Maryville so often travel, but for other reasons also. One prominent reason is that the founder of

French Club Elects Ballard

French Club met December 9 in Alpha Sigma hall to hold its last meeting of the year. The business meeting was for the purpose of electing officers to preside next semester. The following people were chosen.

Betty Ballard, a second semester junior French major from Maryville is the new president. Elaine Woods, a junior from Flintville, Tennessee, was elected vice-president. Another Maryville girl, Louise Storey, was chosen secretary. At a previous meeting Rosalind Garges from New York, N. Y., was elected treasurer. The new program chairmen are Nell Ousley and Imogene Everett, both from Maryville.

Sthreshley Chosen New President of Ministerial Club

The last meeting of the Ministerial Association for the semester was held Thursday night, December 9. Officers for the new semester were elected. They are: Lawrence Sthreshley, president; John Taylor, first vice-president; Benjamin Lynt, second vice-president; Owen McGarity, secretary-treasurer; and Hubert Rust, custodian. Retiring officers are: Hubert Rust, president; Lawrence Sthreshley, first vice-president; John Taylor, second vice-president, and Paul Moehlman, secretary-treasurer.

In addition to holding the election at the meeting, Christmas carols were sung and Jimmie Walker gave a short talk on "The Place of Religion in Army Life."

The president of the organization announces that the caroling last Friday night sponsored by Ministerials was a success and had quite a large attendance.

WE NEARLY FORGOT—

In the rush of preparing for exams, honoring the special ten, and getting ready to go home, we have not taken time in this week's ECHO to say how we really feel about the approaching Christmas season. To those on the battlefields it will not be one to cherish with fond remembrances. To the many who are left behind it will indeed be a lonesome occasion.

Often we read and hear accounts of foreign countries and even people in our own land who deny the one reason for Christmas. They are the ones who would enjoy seeing our faith go tottering down with the dead fir tree and broken ornaments. However, our reason for celebrating the Yule season is secure.

But a spirit of Christmas remains, no matter where one may be when the calendar says December 25. And Maryville students are very fortunate in being able to secure transportation to their homes for this celebrated occasion.

Wherever you are and whoever you are—it is our sincerest wish that you have a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPIER NEW YEAR.

"UNCENSORED"

By McCOY and RICHARDSON

I wonder if the Navy knows what it has got in JIM FOREMAN. We got him to prove that he could lie down with his head on one bench and his feet on another, with nothing between him and the floor but gulps, crossed fingers, and his own strength (nat'chally) and JEANNE KEYES sat on him and he didn't fall. What a man!

People on first floor Baldwin have taken to casting names like "rats" at ANN HAYGOOD and BETH HUFTALEN. All in the best humour, of course. It has to do with after seven o'clock. JESSIE BRUNSON'S and ELEANOR KELLY'S room, a knock on the door and a closet. We forget to mention it, but only people who can't add please read the above.

Lucky Thetas who can try out for LETTERS TO LUCERNE. It's a neat play!

Somewhere, someone told me that Christmas comes but once a year. So in honor of the occasion we have written a jingle, not to be confused with bells (the Bronx cheer variety).

'Tis two weeks before Christmas
And all over the hill
All the students are planning
To leave Maryville.
It's bus tickets from Winniei
To points east and west
Or do you think, Pixie,
The train will be best?
Whichever way takes you
It's homeward we go;
The Robarts to sunshine,
Nancy Russell to snow (?).
The visions of sugar plums
Dancing over our heads
Are pictures of picnics
And midnight spreads.
Freshman in September
Excited and green,
Sprague, chapel seats, and money
Complete the scene.
Memorial parlor with
Funnies all strewn;
Jane Witt and Lottie Proffitt
In and out of each room,
Square dance with cadets
In the big gym,
Kay Sisk singing
'Bout looking for him.
Flames flashing atop Voorhees
As all dash about
Grabbing pianos, Wally's pants
And Paul's shirt to drag out;
Nought left in the garrett
Save ashes and beams.
But incentive is given
To make real, bigger dreams.
Teddie Cofer fleeting in
And out of a spell
Some people just don't get
Hpynotized so well.
Roast chicken in Pearsons,
Three cheers for Miss Ware,
Dockendorf and company
Cleaning up food in there.
For when finals are over
We have nothing to dread,
So to Mom, home, and Christmas
We can all look ahead.
To hear Santa exclaim
As he drives out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all
And to all a good-night."

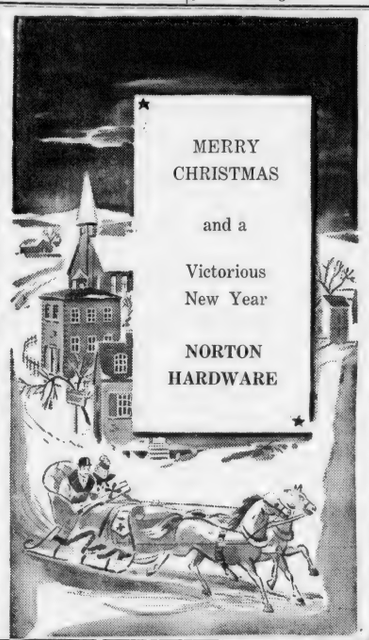
PRE-MED CLUB



Thursday, December 2, the Pre-Med club held its last meeting of the year in Bartlett auditorium. After a business meeting, a movie entitled "Choose to Live" was shown. This dealt with cancer. Mr. George D. Howell, professor of chemistry, and Dr. Susan A. Green, professor of biology and chairman of the division of science, sponsors of the club, were both present at the meeting.

Dr. M. G. Gutzke Addresses Chapel

Dr. Manford George Gutzke, professor of English Bible, and Religious Education at Columbia Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia, spoke to the faculty and students of Maryville College at the chapel service held Wednesday morning, December 8. His text was taken from the fortieth chapter of Israel were challenged to look up Israel were challengtd to look up and think upon thme things of God. Dr. Gutke stated that the testimony of the Christian Church has long been challenged and that the gospel and historical value of the teaching of Christianity have for ages been repudiated. It is up to the young people of today to decide whether to agree with the widespread repudiation of Christianity, or to believe in it in spite of it. In closing, Dr. Gutzke said that anyone who has put his trust and life in God has had a personality that is an eminent example to his fellowmen.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma will hold their annual Christmas party tonight at 6:15. There will be an exchange of gifts and refreshments for all, President Duane Collins announced. After the program the Alpha Sigma members plan to hold their election for the officers for next semester. All Alpha Sig members are urged to be there for this important meeting.

SPORTS

INTRAMURAL DOPE

By Parkinson and Poland

The intramural program has been this semester just about what could have been expected. Everyone realized this year that with the extreme scarcity of civilian fellows that the program would not be very extensive—certainly not as full a program as that of previous years. And the facts have borne out this expectation.

Football was the outstanding sport carried on by the intramural department this fall. A total of sixteen games, with each team participating in eight games, were played. "Y" Frosh, "Y" Cabinet, and Athenian each got up a very respectable team for that sport, but Alpha Sigma didn't have much on the ball. They didn't win a game all season. Perhaps the reason for that lies in an incident that occurred before the season started. Alpha Sigma had an agreement with several of the "Y" Frosh that they would play on the Alpha Sig team, and then when it was decided that the "Y" Frosh were to have a team of their own, the Alpha Sigma bunch were left without many players.

Frosh Champs

It is practically ancient history now how the season went. After losing their first game, the freshmen didn't lost a single game the rest of the season, and became the champions, althought they had an uphill battle all the way. They worked well as a team, while some of the other groups lacked the teamwork and uniform spirit shared by the freshmen. On the whole the football tournament was one of fair play and fine spirit. Athenian and "Y" Cabinet both had strong teams and had a hard fight for second place—with Athenian coming out ahead. "Y" Cabinet had the honor of being the only team to defeat the freshman squad.

Without a doubt the best and hardest fought game was the freshman victory over Athenian in the contest that ended 1 to 0. That game, which found both teams paired off about equally, went as long as any game could possibly have gone. After they had played a full game of four quarters with neither team scoring, the extra period time of three minutes was allotted, and when at the end of that period neither team had scored the game went into its last phase. According to the rules, Athenian was given the ball on their twenty yard line to take it as far as was possible for them to do in four downs. After which time the freshmen were to be given the ball to see if in the same length of playing time they could take the ball back farther than the Athenians had brought it. In their four downs the Athenian team under the leadership of WALLY EASTER and PAUL MOEHLMAN, tried three passes and a run around their own left end. Their last pass was complete but it netted only six yards. On the first freshman play, Poland completed a pass from Riley in the end zone, thus ending the hardest fought game on the intramural slate this past season.

Speedball

Other activities that have been carried on during this fall semester are the tennis tournament and the start of the speedball tournament. The tennis reasons, but ABBOTT KEMP was the farthest reasons, but ABBOTT KEMP was the fartherest advanced in that when interst died; he had beaten his room-mate LUTHER CROSS and was favored to win the tournament. The first (and only, so far) game of the newly inaugurated speedball tournament for this year was a 5 to 1 drubbing by the "Y" Cabinet handed to the "Y" Frosh team. This sport will be taken up again after the Christmas holidays.

Although all this does not represent much in the way of an intramural program, it is as much as has been possible, and the fellows who have taken part in it realize this fact and appreciate all the time and effort the intramural staff, headed by LLOYD ANDERSON, has spent in making and carrying out the program.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

Two tournaments came to a close this week, giving most of the girls something to be excited about. The volley ball joust effected most of us as it was held in the gym classes. The b period victors were the Glamour Gals headed by Pete Peterson. Behind Pete giving all they had were Mary Jean Partridge, Mable Marshall, Wanda Neal, Billie Wright, Ruth Meineke, Teddie Cofer, Hannah Duke, Jean McCall, Ruth Carter, Mary Jo White.

Jane McCully's Rockettes soared to the top in the c period class. On her team were Dona Smalley, Carol Paxton, Maybelle Rule, Frances Farrior, Bernice Russell, Rose Wells, Esther Farrow, Helen Stephey.

The C.Q.'s captained by Winnie Sommers took charge fo things the fourth period and it was Margaret Hunt, Betty Lou King, Margaret Witt, Barbara Burnett, Becky Boggess, Virginia Lee Thomas, Gwen Johnke, Dorothy Justus, Gladys Curtis, Audre Monteith.

E period saw the D.A.R.'s with Ruth Broadhead to guide things, keeping the score high. Enrolled on that team are Jessie Lou Brunson, Virginia Bunn, Eleanor Kelly, Kitty Bishop, Mary Ruth Barber, Virginia Gates, Betty Lou Boyatt, Louise Cleveland.

Vitamin B-I's won a conclusive victory in the f period class, having only one other team to play in the class. Jeanna Eddleman provided her energy girls with leadership. Bubbling along with her were Ruth McClure, Lula Galloway, Elizabeth McConnell, Dot Scott, Jean Lehman, Betty Dunk, Nancy McClaskey, Cynthia Johnson, and two points for a basket Richardson.

WACS Are Champs

It's the WACS for basketball champs. They won four games out of a six game tournament. The playing was prettier, cleaner, and sharper than any seen in the soccer battle. The scores are thus: 24 to 17, 27 to 30, 25 to 23, 28 to 21, 24 to 17, 18 to 33.

The WAVES fought all the way, with JOHNNYE GUDEL as their captain. Johnnye was also high scorer, having made forty-seven baskets during the entire course of play.

WAUEDA NORMAN, captain of the WACS, made forty-seven baskets and played the most rhythmical and satisfying game of all.

The WAC forces consisted of Waueda Norman, Agnes Peterson, Jane McCully, Nancy Russell, Betsy Burleigh; and the second team: Ruth Woeod, Jackie Odom, Marion Stout, Dona Smalley, Tuckey Thomas, and Audre Monteith.

The WAVES were Johnnye Gudel, Margaret Witt, Margaret Hunt, Winnie Sommere, Agnes Robinnette, and Leyla Winn; and their squad, Betty Lou King, Dot Justus, Estelle Farrow, Barbara Burnett, Lottie Lavendar, and Ann York.

Afterthought: An off the record game played between the Paper Dollies and the Glamour Gals. Winner of the b period tournament was won by the Paper Dollies. The captain of the Dollies, Alice Matthews, sick abed, is said to have given her team the moral support that led them to victory over the champs. Dollies are Betsy Burleigh, Verne Feebach, Billye Ruth Braly, Mary Mell Fleming, Jean Kincaid, Margaret Spayd, Kay Bonner, Ginger Claybough, Nancy Bryant.

Thompson Elected Athenian President

Athenian Society held its final meeting of this semester last Saturday night, December 4. At this meeting the election of officers for the society for next semester was held. Malcolm Thompson was elected to succeed Wally Easter as president. Other officers selected were: Owen McGarity, vice-president; Abner Richard, secretary; and Rush Lester, treasurer. There will be no meeting of Athenian tonight, but these officers will take over their duties immediately after the Christmas holidays.

The program for the meeting last week was the Christmas program, and features of the program were a Christmas reading by Thelma Richardson, and two songs by Jack Scott, who was accompanied at the piano by Mary Barnwell. The group also enjoyed singing a few carols. President Easter presided at the meeting.

Bob has left for Maxwell Field, Alabama, where he will be a base weather officer.

Pvt. Bill Evans, class of '43, at present is stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, in the Field Artillery. Bill, who comes from Missouri, was a member of the varsity debate team and Pi Kappa Delta, the national honorary debate society. He was also treasurer of his class last year.

NATURE CLUB

(Contiued from page 1)

Now with hearts decayed, they're falling,—
Slowly they must die.

But our hearts are not despondent—
Life must change and change it will;
Years have brought new faces hither—
Laughter new sounds on the Hill.

Soldiers now invade the campus,
Not to hinder, but to learn,
So that when the fight is finished,
The world to justice then may turn.

Thus it is we search for new truth,
That the old be better used,
For of all the world may offer,
The best is what we choose.

As we meet around this redbud,
Praise the beauty of a tree,
Though it may be named a Judas,
It shall ne'er a Judas be.

Waking March or vibrant April
Shall her blossoms bring,
As around her shoulders gaily
A scarf of heliotrope God flings.

May this avenue of redbuds,
Stretching into years unborn
Make our campus still more lovely—
Sloping lawns may it adorn.

We, of Nature Club the members,
In the fall of forty-three,
Now present, with our best wishes
For prolonged prosperity,
This tree, a redbud, to the college.

Dr. Davis Shows Pompeii Pictures To Faculty Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Faculty club was held Monday evening, December 5, in the dining room of the Home Economics department in Fayerweather Science Hall. The feature of the evening was a very interesting illustrated lecture on Pompeii given by Professor Edmund Wayne Davis, professor of Greek and Latin. Dr. Davis, who is secretary of the faculty, received his B.A. degree from Missouri Valley College, and his M.A. degree from Harvard University. From Maryville College he was given the honorary degree, Doctor of Literature. Most of the pictures which Dr. Davis showed were taken during his visit to Europe and Pompeii in 1930.

Chicken salad and wafers, and a mock plum pudding were prepared and served by the Home Economics students under the direction of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics and head of the department.

It has become a regular custom of the members of the faculty to place sums of money in a little box kept in the personnel office instead of sending Christmas cards to the other members of the faculty. Then, at the last meeting before Christmas vacation, a project is chosen to which the money is given. This year the faculty gave their contributions to the building fund of the Negro church in Maryville which burned this year.

The next meeting of the club will be held the first Monday of February, since the regular January meeting would ordinarily fall during the between semesters vacation. Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, will speak on "Sidney Lanier in East Tennessee." Miss Wright graduated from Maryville College, and received her Masters degree from Yale University in 1938.

Bainonian To Hold Election

Bainonian will hold its last meeting of the year Saturday evening. The nominating committee will submit its report, and further nominations will be made from the floor. The nominating committee consists of Martha Dean, a junior from Mosheim, Tennessee; Helen Marie Wilson, a sophomore from Fairview, Pennsylvania; and Marian Stout, a senior from Brooklyn, New York. The elections will be held Monday.

Besides the business meeting there will be a Christmas program, and war-time refreshments will be served. The group will also sing Christmas carols for those in the college hospital.

RECORD ROOM

Record Room programs, tried out this semester, will be continued next semester due to request on the part of the students. At least one record room will be used for these special programs every day.

Students are urged to drop any requests for programs in a box which will be placed in the main record room for this purpose.

A list of new records and books is to be posted on the bulletin board outside the Record Room.

Two albums of records, Schumann's "Quintet in E flat Major" and Schubert's "Quintet in C Major," were destroyed during the fire. Other records broken or otherwise damaged are: Verdi's "Caro Nome" from RIGOLETTO, Bach's "Motet for Double Choir," and one of Sibelius's First Spmphony.

Senior Party In YW Room For December Grads

December 9, at 7:30 in the "Y" rooms, the Senior class held a party in honor of all graduating members. The Christmas theme was carried out in the decorations. Hubert Rust acted as Master of Ceremonies for the program which consisted of: a piano solo by Sara Cameron; a reading by Dot Harned; and Charlie Burgreen played several numbers on the piano while everyone stood around the piano and sang. A special feature was the telling of fortunes by Peggy Case. Refreshments were punch, sandwiches, and doughnuts.

Members of the committee in charge of the party were: Marian Schanck, Ruth Case, Elizabeth McConnell, Freida Buller, Marguerite Grissett, and Evelyn French. Dr. and Mrs. John A. Gates were the chaperones for the party.

President Lloyd Attends Meeting

President Ralph W. Lloyd was away from the campus all day yesterday attending the meeting of the Standards and Accrediting committee for Presbyterian colleges. The meeting was held at the University club, in Chicago.

GERMAN CLUB

German club members attended a theater party at the show "What's Buzzin', Cousin?" as their last meeting of the semester on Wednesday, December 1. Dr. Ralph S. Collins, club proctor, chaperoned the group.

Verne Feeback, this year's president, has been accepted into the Cadet Nurse's Corps and will enter Vanderbilt University in Nashville in March. Since Verne will not return next semester, a new president will be elected to succeed her.

DECEMBER GRADS

ious education major, from Macon, Georgia, was a member of Athenian, Ministerial association, and the Parish Project. At the present time he is preparing for the ministry at Columbia Seminary, Decatur, Georgia.

Nettie Rose Spraker, a home economics major from Maryville, and a candidate for a Bachelor of Science degree, was class secretary during her freshman year, on the Y cabinet in her junior year, and a member of the band for three years. She also served as a home economics assistant for three years. On January 1 Nettie Rose will begin her duties as Director of Religious Education at the Main Street Methodist Church, Reidsville, North Carolina.

"Shorty" Waisman, a psychology major from Knoxville, Tennessee, was vice-president of Bainonian, secretary of the Y.W.C.A., and a member of the student council and the athletic board of control. She plans to work for the War Department at Arlington, Virginia.

Allene Wilson is from Doraville(Georgia, and transferred here in her junior year from Young Harris Junior College. She was a member of Bainonian, on the honor roll, and majored in mathematics, which she plans to teach in high school.

Spanish Club Has Christmas Party

Drawing ten-cent gifts from a grab bag and singing Christmas carols—some of them in Spanish—were part of the Christmas party program at Spanish club Thursday, which was held December 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the Spanish classroom. Helen Cassile, newly-elected member, was initiated into the club. This was the last meeting of the semester.

Under the direction of Lois Collett and Carol Reynolds, the members of the program committee, the club members during first semester have enjoyed several special entertainments—a picnic, a scavenger hunt, and a musical program. The plans for meetings first semester have included a short report on a Spanish province or some phase of Spanish life. During the first term, the constitution of the club was amended to increase the membership to 25.

COTTON CLUB

The Cotton Club held its last meeting for 1943 last Monday night. After a short business meeting the group sang Christmas carols and had a party. Becky Davis was in charge of the program and caroling. Charlie Burgreen played the piano. Jean Messer was chairman of the refreshment committee. Cokes and cookies were served.

VOLUME 29 — MARYVILLE, TENN. JANUARY 22, 1944 — NUMBER 10

Mrs. Charles Muir Is New Addition To College Staff

Mrs. Charles Muir, a graduate from Maryville College in 1932, has recently been chosen to fill the position of instructor in the home economics department of the college. After graduating, Mrs. Muir studied at the University of Tennessee and received her Masters degree in 1933. She married Rev. Charles Muir, also a Maryville graduate, in 1933. Her husband is now a chaplain stationed with the Army Air Force in India. Before enlisting in the Army Air Corps, Rev. Muir and his wife served a pastorate in Findley, Ohio. They have one son, Phillip, who is seven years old. At present, Mrs. Muir, is living in Maryville with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Crowder; she is a sister of Dr. William Crowder. In addition to teaching the freshman food classes, Mrs. Muir teaches the course in Family Relationships.

While at Maryville College, Mrs. Muir was quite active in extracurricular activities. She played in the orchestra all four years. She served as president of Theta Epsilon during her senior year. Mrs. Muir was editor of the handbook in 1931, a member of the YWCA and a Nu Gamma leader in 1931 and 1932. In the field of athletics, she was a member of "M" club her last two years, and on the Athletic Board of Control her junior year. She also received athletic awards her second and third years here.

BRYANT JOINS ECHO STAFF

Marilyn Bryant, from Flintville, this week was appointed junior assistant on the Business Staff of the HIGHLAND ECHO. Her appointment was unanimously approved by the Faculty and Student Council committees on publications.

The Business Staff now has four members—Marion Schanck, business manager, Mable Marshall, Betty Jane Miller, and Marilyn Bryant. Securing ads, delivering the ECHO in the dorms, collecting bills, and handling all the financial matters of the publications are the work of the business staff.

Dr. Ralph T. Case Is CTD Chaplain

President Lloyd has announced the appointment of Dr. Ralph T. Case as the college's chaplain for the 42nd College Training Detachment. He will be available for such counsel and other services as may be required or requested.

No regular special services for the men are planned inasmuch as they can attend the college Vespers and the church services in town on Sunday except when they are in quarantine. Since there are always a considerable number of Catholics among the men of the Detachment, arrangements were made last spring for a Catholic service to be held in the Fine Arts Studio each Sunday morning. The Catholic priest from Knoxville conducts that service, which is well attended.

Navy Nurse Corps Member Visits Campus For Talks

Miss Pauline Savage Believes Nursing Is Work With Future

Miss Pauline Savage, member of the Navy Nurse Corps, spoke at Maryville College today. Miss Savage represents the National Nursing Council for War Service and the United States Cadet Nurse Corps—the new government plan which, under the U. S. Public Health Service, offers a free professional education to qualified students. Her visit was part of a nation-wide endeavor to recruit 65,000 student nurses this year for wartime replacements caused by acute needs of the army, navy and civilian health agencies, and also to interest college women in preparation for post-war careers.

The latest information on the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps was presented by Miss Savage, who has recently conferred with Miss Lucile Petry, its director, and other national authorities. Recruits in the Corps receive free tuition, free maintenance, distinctive gray and scarlet street uniforms, and a monthly stipend during their entire period of training in accredited schools of nursing. In return, they promise to remain active in essential military or civilian nursing for the duration of the war.

As a post-war profession, nursing offers opportunities which have been greatly expanded by the war. Nurses will be called upon to

Dr. Anderson, Dr. Stringham Open Meetings February 2,

TWO SERVICES DAILY TO BE HELD FOR TEN DAYS

DR. S. E. STRINGHAM

This is the 68th year of the February Meetings. The first service of this 68th series will be a service at 9:30 and each evening a service at 7:00. Because of the parallel army and college class schedules it is not practicable to shorten periods this year. Therefore, during the second hour there will be no college classes, classes of various hours being shifted on different days to avoid omitting the same class each time. The morning services will last approximately an hour and the evening services approximately an hour and a quarter.

Dr. H. Ray Anderson and Dr. Sidney E. Stringham, leaders of the Meetings, are expected to arrive in Maryville February 1. Dr. Anderson, who will be the preacher, is pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church on Michigan Avenue in Chicago. Dr. Stringham, who will lead the music for the 22nd year, is pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis.

Was Army Chaplain

Dr. Anderson was born in Kansas, received the Bachelor of Science degree from Kansas State College at Manhattan became an engineer but later decided to study for the ministry. Graduating from McCormick Theological Seminary just as the first world war broke out, he became a chaplain in the Army and was on the front in France with the 103d Regiment of the 26th Division.

After the war he became a pastor in Kansas, first at Ellsworth for four years and then at the great First Presbyterian Church of Wichita for seven years. About fifteen years ago he went to Chicago to be pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, one of the largest and strongest in America. He leaves his busy winter program at the heart of one of America's largest cities to spend almost two weeks on the Maryville campus, and for this all Maryville people should be greateful.

Widely Prominent

Dr. Anderson has attained wide prominence in many ways and last May was appointed Vice Moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly.

He is a comparatively young man with deep sympathy and interest and a genuine unselfishness and humility which all who meet him recognize. He has two sons and one daughter. It is expected that Mrs. Anderson will accompany him to Maryville and remain two or three days before proceeding on a visit farther South.

Dr. Anderson was the leader of the February Meetings in 1939 and will be remembered by faculty, townsfolk, and students of that day not only for the strong and spiritual nature of his messages but also for a prominent part which he voluntarily took in securing the funds necessary to install the present pipe organ in the chapel.

Miss Wright Is Club Speaker

Monday evening, January 31, the faculty club will hold its first meeting of the new year in the home economics department in Fayerweather Science hall. Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, will speak on "Sidney Lanier in East Tennessee." Miss Wright graduated from Maryville College, and received her masters degree from Yale University in 1938.

A banquet will be served by the home economcis department under the direction of Miss Gertrude E. Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics.

Mr. Lautenschlager Speaks On China Tomorrow Night

Sunday evening, January 23, the Rev. Stanton Lautenschlager will speak at the regular weekly Vesper Service. Mr. Lautenschlager has been officially stationed at Tsinen in Shantung Province, but when Cheeloo University of whose faculty he is a member, moved to the interior city of Chengtu, he went with it. He was professor of modern history and sociology until the war started, when he began to divide his time between teaching and evangelistic preaching in the high schools and universities of Free China.

Mr. Lautenschlager is a Canadian ,born in Waterloo County, Ontario. He graduated from Kitchener and Waterloo Collegiate Institute, received his A.B. degree from Huntingdon College, Indiana, and the M. A. degree from the University of Michigan. He was a pastor in Canada and a teacher at Huntingdon College for several years before going to the foreign mission field under the Presbyterian Board in 1920. Rev. Lautenschlager is the author of several magazine articles on the war in China as well as on China's Northwest and student evangelism.

Mrs. Williamson Begins Work Here

Mrs. Margaret Worley Williamson began work as an assistant in the Treasurer's office December 27. Before she was married Mrs. Williamson attended Maryville College in 1934-1935. She then attended Draughton's Business College in Knoxville and was employed in the offices of the Aluminum Company of America for six years. She was married in 1942 to Mr. Dan C. Williamson, who is now in the Army Quartermaster Corps attached to the Air Forces in England.

Stegall to Speak At Student Vols

Student Volunteers will feature Carroll Stegall at their weekly service tomorrow night after chapel in the YW rooms. Carroll came to Maryville last semester from Richmond, Virginia, although his home for many years was a missionary out-post in the Belgian Congo. He will take for his topic "Up from Heathenism."

An election, designed to fill the vacancy created when the president of the organization recently resigned because of other obligations, will also be held Sunday night. The nominees, as announced by the nominating committee, are Jean Bellerjeau and Joe Brown.

Rev. Walter Howell, connected with the board of Christian Education was speaker at last Sunday's meeting. He spoke on the problems of America's future.

Pres. Lloyd and Dr. Hunter Attend Cincinnati Meets

Last week Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter arrived back at Maryville College after attending a series of meetings in Cincinnati. Dr. Lloyd had been there since Monday and returned home Friday by airplane. Dr. Hunter had been there since Thursday and arrived Saturday morning by train.

Monday and Tuesday morning Dr. Lloyd att..ded a meeting of the Presbyterian Council on Theological Education appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church last May. This Council has the general oversight and training of ministers and other church workers. Also on Tuesday there was a meeting of the Presbyterian College Union made up of presidents and others from fifty Presbyterian Colleges. Dr. Lloyd presided at this meeting, as he is president of the Union. Dr. Lloyd is also chairman of a committee dealing with lay education, unordained ministers, and their schools.

Wednesday Dr. Lloyd attended a meeting of the Council of Church Boards of Education, and the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges, and a meeting of the National Committee of fifteen of Church-Related Colleges. That night he went to a joint banquet of college groups. There were speeches by Lord Halifax, Ambassador of Great Britain, and Dr. Hambro, President of the League of Nations Ascoiation and President of Norwegian Parliament.

Thursday and Friday Dr. Lloyd and Dr. Hunter both attended the Annual Meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

Brown Elected New YM Officer

Buford to Speak On "Abiding In Christ"

Joseph M. Brown, a history major from Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania, has recently been elected vice-president of the Y.M.C.A. He replaces Lloyd Anderson, who has left Maryville College to join the Navy. Other Y.M. officers are: Bill Buford, president; Don Barker, secretary; and Wally Easter, treasurer.

Members of the new cabinet for the second semester are:

ARTIST SERIES: Paul Moehlman.

ATHLETICS: Harold Huffman, chairman; Wallace Easter, Bob Seel.

COMMUNITY: Owen McGarity, chairman; Bill Buford, Don Barker.

DEVOTIONS: John Taylor, chairman; Hubert Rust.

DISCUSSION FELLOWSHIP: Malcolm Thompson, chairman; John Houdeshel.

FELLOWSHIP: Joe Brown, chairman; Abner Richard, Ben Lynt.

MAINTENANCE: Bob Barker, chairman; Bob Seel.

MUSIC: John Scott, chairman; Harold Eaken.

PUBLICITY: Byron Sprague.

WORSHIP-PROGRAM: Paul Smith, chairman; Ben Lynt.

Plans are being made in reference to the coming February meetings. It is hoped that regular prayer meetings can be held in Bartlett and Carnegie Halls during the two weeks of the meetings.

The speaker at the Y.M.C.A. meeting Sunday afternoon, January 23, will be the president, Bill Buford. He has chosen for his topic, "Abiding in Christ."

Dr. Griffitts Takes Bookstore When Mr. Smith Leaves

Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of chemistry, has been appointed Acting Manager of the bookstore and post office according to announcements by President Lloyd. He succeeds Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations and Alumni Secretary, who is to become pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church in Knoxville about March 1.

Mr. Smith assumed this responsibility when Mr. Dollenmayer left in August to become a chaplain in the Navy. Mr. Dollenmayer had for two years been Assistant Manager of the bookstore. Dr. F. D. McClelland, who is on leave of absence as an officer in the Marine Corps, has been the Manager since he came to Maryville in 1937.

Dr. Griffitts began his duties during the Christmas holidays, although Mr. Smith has continued to give part of his time to the bookstore until now. The faculty member in charge has general oversight of all of the work of the bookstore and of the post office, which is a branch of the Maryville city post office.

The student assistants in the postoffice and bookstore at present are Johnnye Gudel, Harold Eaken, Agnes Peterson, Rebecca Davis, Jack Houdeshel, and Hope Pleyl.

Mrs. Barker Is YWCA Speaker

Tea Honoring Advisers Tomorrow Afternoon

The speaker at Y.W.C.A. on Sunday, January 23, will be Mrs. Lincoln Barker, chairman of the Advisory Board for the YW. Her subject will be "See What You Got Into!" The following Sunday, Helen Anderson, the new Y.W. president, will address the group on "Our Tomorrow."

There are several changes in the Y.W. cabinet this semester since several senior officers graduated. The new officers are Helen Anderson, president, and Virginia Cain, secretary. They are taking the places of Muriel Geisler and Mary Evelyn Waisman, respectively. Mary Fershee has been appointed to the cabinet as one of the program chairman, taking Helen Anderson's former place.

The Y.W. will have a tea, immediately following the meeting this Sunday, in honor of the Y.W. advisers: Mrs. Lincoln Barker, Miss Katharine C. Davies, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. L. L. Williams, and Miss Almira Bassett, honorary adviser. Helen Anderson and Ruth Meineke will pour

Dr. Collins Has Russian Course

For the first time at Maryville this sem. in Russian, Dr. Ralph P. Collins, associate professor of German and French, teaches a class of approximately a dozen students two evenings a week for an hour and a half each period. The course is offered to give an opportunity to those interested in the Russian language to study, but no credit is being given. Among the class enrollment are several faculty members in addition to those students especially interested in the subject.

Richard Korbel Appears On Artist Series Jan. 29

Nine Year Old Pianist Promises Future Successes

Tickets To Be Sold In Pearsons Lobby Jan. 25 and Jan. 27

Saturday, January 29, Richard Korbel, nine year old pianist, will present the second of the annual Artist Series Programs here at the college. Richard Korbel has had a most successful reception in New York City by the concert lovers of the masters. His second Town Hall recital November 13, was equally well received and impressed his listeners with his exceptional talent. Unlike most child prodigies, young Master Korbel was born, not in California, but in New York City on December 27, 1934. When he was two years old, his interest in music was discovered; at three and one half years, he was placed under the direction of Miss Hedy Spielter. This will be Master Korbel's first Tennessee appearance.

Natural Abilities

Richard Korbel's natural abilities have apparently been conditioned expertly, so that he is able to bring surprising power as well as the utmost delicacy to his piano concerts. The sounds he summons from the keys are always velvety and singing, deftly colored, and in general capable of the finest nuances. He plays with apparent effortlessness.

Numerous New York papers have commented quite favorably on his public appearances in New York. All seem to feel that Richard Korbel plays extraordinarily well, rendering pieces which would seem very difficult even for more mature artists, with skill in phrasing, technique, beautiful tonal quality, agility and accuracy.

He will present the following program:

Two Preludes and Fugues: C sharp Major—E flat minor—Bach, from the "Well tempered Clavichord". Vol. 1.

Sonata in A Major, Op. 120—Schubert: Allegro moderato. Andante. Allegro.

IRC Elects Case War Stamp Head

Robert F. Huber, junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, led a news discussion last Monday at the initial meeting of the International Relations club. A similar program will be presented at the next meeting.

The new chairman of the War Stamp committee is Peggy Case. The International Relations club sponsors the sale of war stamps on the campus, and the change in chairmanship was necessitated by the fact that Marguerite Grissett, former chairman, did not return to college.

The annual contest on Inter-American affairs, sponsored jointly by IRC and Pi Kappa Delta, will be held February 15 in the philosophy classroom. The question for discussion is: The bases for permanent cooperation with the American Republics.

Surprise Program For Athenians

Athenian society will hold their weekly meeting tonight in Athenian Hall. The program is a surprise and all of the members of the society are urged to attend. Owen McGarity, Harold Kidder, and John Poland, the program committee, claim that they have a "crackerjack" of a program worked up. Refreshments will be served at this meeting.

At their last meeting a mock auction of Christmas gifts was held with everybody participating in the evening entertainment. Don Barker purchased the only gift for which real currency was paid. This was to defray the expenses for tonight's meeting. He got a tangerine.

The next issue of THE HIGHLAND ECHO will appear on February 5

DON'T EXPECT MIRACLES

Just because the informal shots for the CHILHOWEAN have been taken, and just because you have paid for your glossy print, do not assume that the 1944 year book will be distrbiuted any minute now. All these necessary tasks were begun late, thus throwing all plans off the schedule of former years. In normal times most of the informal pictures were made in September; this year we were fortunate in getting them made in January.

Now the editorial staff must assemble the entire annual in less than one month—a job which formerly was done over a whole semester. This means more work for them at present, since they have been forced by circumstances to wait.

Not only is Maryville at a disadvantage with its element of time, but the printers and engravers likewise are faced with unusual obstructions. Fewer men are working in privately operated businesses. For example, whereas the Benson company have had five men to take campus pictures and five men at the home office, they now have FIVE people to do all the work. As is to be expected, untrained workers will be slower until they gain experience.

Some Uncooperative

Even with the overwhelming obstructions of photographer and materials conquered, some of our students did not cooperate in "posing." So many were too busy. When questioned, the editor said, "If you aren't in informal shots, it was your own fault; only a few people could be found on the campus." Sometimes we wonder if the students actually want an annual!

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

ONE LAST FLING

In the fading weeks of last semester considerable interest was stirred up concerning a proposal for student government at Maryville College. But because of the advice of President Lloyd, who felt that the average student had not had time to fully contemplate and study the matter, no action was taken at that time.

More than a week and a half of this second semester have slipped by and still no one has made mention of the matter. Is it that the students are not really interested or is it that some few are trying to block its adoption?

From the way the chips stack up the latter is definitely not the case for many faculty members have pledged their interest and support and President Lloyd has given much of his time and energy in helping the student council with the plan. No, the responsibility rests wholly with the student body!

Unless we actively demonstrate that we do want student government, unless we devote some effort in working for it, and unless we are willing to assume the responsibilities which its adoption entails, then we will never have student government at Maryville college.

NOW OR NEVER

One primary purpose of student government is to give us the necessary training in assuming the duties of citizenship and to make us appreciate democracy the more. If college students, the leaders and intellegencia of the coming years, are not interested in such a matter as this, then the future of democracy looks pretty black.

It is now or never! We must either adopt a plan for student government while we have the opportunity before us, or we must forever surrender the hope of seeing it established at Maryville College.

THE PLAN IN BRIEF

A summary or short sketch of the plan now being worked on by the student council should be read by every student. The plan would call for some sort of dormitory organization which would assume the responsibility for discipline and the maintainance of order, and would include a representative assembly composed of the officers in the dormitories and representatives of each class elected on a revised system of nomination and election.

The whole plan would not give much more power to the students directly, but it would gradually be developed in that direction. It must be a slow process of experimentation during which time each student must show his interest by his cooperation.

But in regard to the whole matter we must remember this one fact. It is we the students who will be responsible, and unless we are willing to work and assume responsibilities there is little use in establishing such a system. If you want student government at Maryville College THIS SEMESTER then talk about it to student and faculty members alike, and see that something is done in the student council through your representatives.

PREFACE AND POST SCRIPT

In preparing my remarks concerning the idea of student government I have met with some opposition among the students. They want no mention of student government in the HIGHLAND ECHO, claiming that the student council should meet first to formulate a policy.

But they forget that it is not the student council, or any one member of it, which is primarily concerned with student government. It is the student body as a whole. I see no reasons why individuals should not express their opinions prior to any official meeting.

To avoid any difficulties or misunderstanding let me emphasize the fact that any opinion expressed in this column is purely my own and does not necessarily mirror the policy of the Highland Echo. I will gladly offer the space of this column to anyone who would like to argue the matter.

Tower Talk

By BEN LYNT

This would be by way of an invitation to all you students, new and not-so-knew, regardless of class or previous condition of servitude, who weary occasionally of class-room lingo and the exigencies of campus decorum, to pause awhile and seek the heights of Anderson belfry, where the air is ever fresh and stirring, where the voices drop their harshness to blend and mingle and float upward in a perfect rhapsodic lullaby. From here one can look down on all and boost the old ego in so doing, or, look up at the changing face of sky and cloud and star in one swift perspective-shift and gloat and glow with headiness.

Just sign the articles herein contained, tear off the top of your neighborhood grocer, mail it to us and you are qualified for a semester's free membership.

Policy——? Well, we'll print no MORON stories unless they come to us through the proper channels—which being interpreted means Dorothy Dick to Dr. Hunter to us; only items of harmless small-talk will be considered for publication, and the management reserves the right at all times to distort whenever possible—and that's about all the restrictions, which should leave lots of latitude. Or don't you? Now for the breeze:

And what, you've probably been wondering, IS a gentleman? Ensign E. W. King, formerly of U.T., now a U.S.N. Radar repairman offered that an aforementioned was a "wolf with patience."

But if they don't come locally to your discrimination why what's the harm, girls, in locating a dreamman by mail? . . . as in the case of Shirley Montgomery. Raines is the name, Claude; P.O. Hollywood. Well, now! Or, if you don't mind a crowd, you can join the ranks of the "ooooh" girls with Pixie and a thousand others and swoon weekly to the voice of the master, Frank S.

"Ma" Butcher, Pearsons, has formally and publicly published the "bans" on "Bootsie" and her quadruped pals so far as freedom on the premises of the upper-class-girls' domain is concerned. Let the attention of all concerned—namely fourth floor Carnegie, Memorial wing—be duly called to this persistent matter. And, while we're here, let us pause for a moment in memory of the wee little mousie who caused as much commotion in the lobby one day as we imagine would have a barrage of uniforms; trousered and walking, of course.

Hats off, or three cheers, or something equally appropriate would seem to be in favor for Mr. Sherwood Eddy. A most stimulating experience it was indeed having him here, and enlightening too, and more talk we've heard at meals since about things other than "Eaaga," "Wee-gee boards," and Miss Jewel's "too many beans" story of history 202e. And was Eddy ready! . . . but yes; now we know, too, about the original pistol totin' mater.

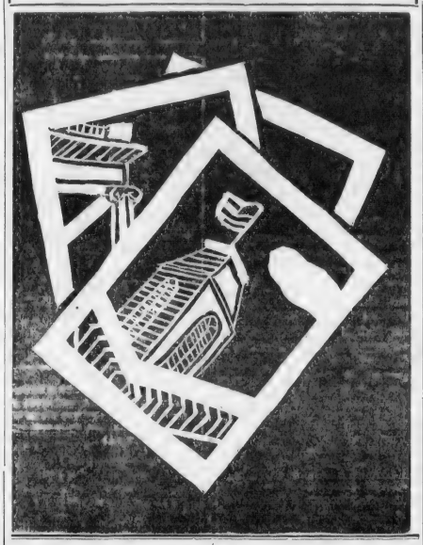
VISITING FIREMAN DEPT.

On the campus this week we noticed some old acquaintances like can't stay-away Long, Bill; Jimmy C. Carson, and two ex's who blew in before the ink in this column was yet set: Margaret Lawson and Eleanor Hall. Stick around, there are a few of us left. Not exactly a visitor, but back on her campus feet for the first time this semester, this week, we were glad to see Mrs. Franklin. We've missed you—and here's hoping no more ice comes your way under foot for a long time.

Well, how WOULD you get to St. Joseph's Hospital and quicker?

For further directions, see "Slim" McGarity who can tell you how to get to strange and impossible places, like for instance the top floor of Pearsons if you happen not to be registered for there. Simple, says he; just take up electricity. Well, maybe, for a man of his talent.

Next we have the names of Doris White, Jimmy Walker and Hoober. A triangle, I wonder? Seems she favors P.M.C.'s from J.W., but what is B.H.'s interest? Sociologically speaking: "I wonder?" Anyhoo, it brings all three to meals regularly, something new for two. Only time and this space will permit developments. When questioned, her only reply was something about having been born at a very early age, and etc.



"Hooray for Roosevelt!"—and the good patron of all M. C. English majors has a plan, with general Patton in a key position, for after the war; but then we were only bystanders and possibly Mrs. John March can furnish particulars. I wonder?

And just what didn't you want for Christmas, but how cute on Jack Houdesheli. Maybe pinkribbons don't go with a blue-jaw personality or something.

PREDICTIONS DEPT.: "Letters to Lucerne" is going to be a wow!

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

Pi Gamma Plans Luncheon To Be January 28

Jeana Eddleman, senior biology major from Maryville and chairman of Pi Gamma, announces a luncheon to be held Friday noon, January 28, in the YW rooms for town and dormitory women. Each member of Pi Gamma, a town girl, may invite a guest from "the Hill."

The social committee headed by Louise Henry, a junior English major, and Florence Gobillot, a junior majoring in biology, is in charge of the menu. Town girls are to bring sandwiches and the girls from dormitory will donate cookies.

Frances Grosh, a senior English major from Maryville, and Frances Smith, a junior music major also from Maryville, head the program committee. There will be music throughout luncheon.

Pi Gamma was organized to meet the need of a group especially for college girls living in Maryville. It is affiliated with YW and the chairman is a member of the Y cabinet. This organization has brought about a better understanding between town and dorm girls.

Wednesday Chapel

Mr. Alex R. Batchelor, director of the Department of Sunday School Administration for the Presbyterian Church in the United States will speak to us next Wednesday morning in chapel.

Several times before Maryville students have had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Batchelor at either vespers or Wednesday chapel. He is familiar also to the Maryville campus, as the father of Mary Batchelor.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club will meet Thursday, January 27, in the "Y" Rooms at 6:40 p.m.

Nell Ousley and Imogene Everett, program chairman, will conduct a French spelling bee. Following this will be a brief business meeting presided over by Betty Ballard, the president.

Swimming, Games, Pingpong, Tonight

An open swim and "do-what-you-like-in-the-gym" is planned for tonight, January 22, by the social committee according to Betty Burton, new chairman. The pool will be open for all those wishing to spend an aquatic evening. For those more interested in badminton or pingpong, the alumni gym will be ready for their use. Records may also be played.

Betty Burton, a junior biology major from Rome, Georgia, replaces Merriam McGaha, a senior biology major from Newport, Tennessee, who served as chairman last semester. Other members of this semester's committee are: Margaret Gessert who acts as secretary-treasurer, Wallace Easter, manager of the army detachment's "px", Leroy Dillener, a senior sociology major, Charles Burgreen, a senior majoring in Bible, Rachel Galbreath, a junior home economics major, and Betty Lou King, a sophomore majoring in Spanish.

Future plans include a variety show to be held February 5. Anyone with certain talents or one knowing of such talents is asked to contact a member of the committee.

This week might well be called "Appeal Week" in the music department. The Choir is asking desperately for more tenors and basses. There are two girl prospects for the Choir who will be taken into the Choir as soon as there are enough boys to balance. Anyone who plays a musical instrument is invited and urged to join the orchestra, and a comittee headed by Harry Ferguson with Bill Cover and John Poland is trying to get up a concert band. Girls and boys interested in the organization of and participation in such a band are rekuested to sign up on bulletin boards in their respective dormitories.

Debaters and IRC Sponsor Contest

No Tournament This Year Because of War.

Thursday evening, January 20, the debate class met in Thaw Hall from 8 to 10 p.m. to discuss debate plans for the semester. Dr. David Briggs, professor of psychology, is coaching debate in the absence of Dr. Verton Queener, who is on leave of absence. After some discussion, it was decided to put aside the Pi Kappa Delta question for the time being, and concentrate on the subject of the national contest sponsored by the college chapter of International Relations Club. The contest is open to the whole student body. The topic of the contest is "The bases for permanent cooperation among the American republics." February 15, at 7:30 p.m., in the YW rooms, each contestant will speak for six minutes on the topic. After all speeches are given, the audience may ask questions of the individual speakers on their material and ideas. Malcolm Thompson is in charge of the contest here in conjunction with Dr. Briggs.

Next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be a group discussion on inter-American affairs, by the debate class. Professor John Kiger, assistant professor of history, Mrs. March, instructor in political science, and Malcolm Thompson will lead in the discussion. Any persons interested in participating in the contest are invited to attend the discussion.

No Tournaments

Because of the war, the debate teams will not attempt to participate in any tournaments. There may be some intercollegiate debating, but no definite plans have been made.

There are only two varsity debaters on the hill this year, Dorothy Lehman and Ben Lynt. Those at present in the class are: Dorothy Dick, Bob Huber, Dorothy Lehman, Ben Lynt, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Byron Sprague, Lawrence Sthreshley, Miriam Wickham.

Writers' Workshop

Writers' Workshop will hold its initial meeting of the semester Wednesday, January 26, at 4:00 p.m. in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

The readers will be Billye Ruth Braley, senior English major from Chattanooga, Tennessee, and Jeanne Bellerjeau, junior Bible and religious education major from Haddon Heights, New Jersey.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, assistant professor of English, and Shirley Montgomery, senior biology major from Ensley, Alabama, will serve as critics.

Classes to Elect Council Members

The student council will not hold its first meeting of the year until necessary elections are held for new members to replace those who have been dropped because of absence or change in class status.

The sophomore class will elect three persons to be class representatives on the council. Lula Callaway, a biology major from Maryville, is now a junior. Thomas Smith, also of Maryville, has transferred to Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio, where he will continue his studies in preparation for the minsitry. Byron Sprague, a sociology major from Cincinnati, Ohio, is also a junior now.

Virginia Cain, from Morristown, Tennessee, and Lloyd Anderson, of Richmond, Virginia, both majoring in mathematics, have left vacancies on the council representing the junior class. Virginia is now a senior, and Lloyd has left to enter the navy.

Betty Jane Miller, senior French major and president of the council, said that there would be a meeting following these elections, which are to be held Tuesday, January 25. Malcolm Thompson, senior history major from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, is the council member in charge of elections. Other class officers are also to be elected at that time.

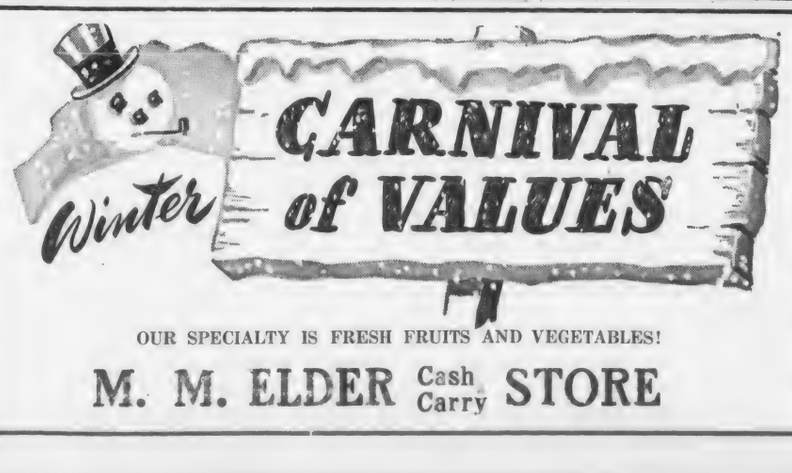
Sophs To Elect

Wednesday, January 19, members of the sophomore class met in Miss Johnson's classroom to nominate candidates to fill the vacancies of treasurer, and student council representatives. For treasurer Margaret Cross and Owen McGarity were nominated. Abbot Kemp, Jack Ross, Harry Ferguson, and John Goins are running for the two student council vacancies; Marinell Ross and Dorothy Dick are the women candidates for student council representatives of the class.

LAW CLUB

The first meeting of the Law club for the spring semester will be held Thursday, January 27, at 6.30 p.m. in Dr. Stellwagen's room, second floor, Anderson.

The speakers will be Marinell Ross and Miriam Wickham, who will discuss the pros and cons of an international police force. A group discussion will follow.



PRAYER MEETI

Marion Stout was the leader of the regular prayer meeting service held in the "Y" rooms Wednesday night, January 17. Jack Scott led the singing and Paul Smith offered the closing prayer.

Mr. Sherwood Eddy Interviewed By Student

By THELMA RICHARDSON

To look at Mr. Sherwood Eddy, you might note the resemblance between him and the father of the girl next door, or maybe the owner of a small town newspaper. On the platform he seemed at home which put us all at ease. When he spoke his rising inflections and emphatic gestures commanded attention, but it was the fact that he had lived a life colored with the vastness of Russia, the unrest of Europe, the cruel mistakes of a country founded for the good of a people; the way he could tell what he knows; and his Christian determination that we shall not forget. He was like the timpani in a symphonic orchestra in that his words stood out clearly, his pitch rang true enough for us to tune ourselves to, and days later the sound of his ideas has come echoing in our minds.

Even though a man takes love and justice as his theme, he is often regarded as being aloof, set apart. No such paradox is Mr. Eddy. The little things he does, makes you sure: his smile, the way he takes for granted that you are his friend, his hello.

He is a composite of many activities, author of many books, world-wide lecturer, Yale graduate, father, and Christian.

To have heard Mr. Eddy is to know him. He has told us what he believes. Justice for all, brotherhood for all, and vital dynamic whole religion for a better world after we have won the war and won the peace. All of his 73 years and all that he has seen, done and heard in that time add up to that.

He was born in Kansas and at present is living in New York, and you could tell he likes both places. There are other things he loves, America and young people. In them both lies the possibility of a better world. Mr. Eddy is talking to the young people these days, tossing the challenge at them.

Talking to him gives you the impression that he belongs to time. He is realistically linked with doings of the past, yet he is so far ahead of most of us in his thinking of the future that there is no time. Just a vast current working to eternity.

He wants us to know that this is the only freedom, not being afraid of a halt, or death as we call it; this is the only happiness to make the love of God and man a personal, social, and universal force.

When I had left Mr. Eddy I realized I hadn't found out what his favorite pie was, or did he like moron jokes. But what I did get was the kind of feeling you have when you see the year's first violet. Who'll remember what kind of a pie anybody likes anyway?

MR. EDDY

Bainonians Have Soph Program

Rosalind Gargas, Mary Ann Wilkes, and Catherine Sisk will take the leads in the Bainonian program for tonight at 6:15. Rosalind will play two violin solos. Mary Ann and Catherine will sing. Mary Evelyn Jamison will accompany Catherine, while Jean Keen will play for Mary Ann. There will also be a musical quiz for the members with a prize for the winner. The meeting will be in Bainonian Hall.

This will be an all-sophomore meeting planned by Mary Mell Fleming and Billye Ruth Wright It is the first of a series of meetings planned by each class. There is to be mild competition between classes to see which can put on the best program.

Bainonian's first meeting of the semester was held last Saturday, January 15, in the Alumni gym. After the business meeeting, Nancy McClaskey led some group singing. Then Agnes Peterson "called" the steps for square dancing.

Officers for this semester are: Estelle Farrow, president; Jean Bellerjeau, vice-president; Rachel Galbreth, secretary; and Dorothy Toomey, treasurer. Miriam Gutzke is sergeant-at-arms. The program committee consists of Eleanor Stout and Marky Cross. Phyllis Waring and Kay Dean compose the house committee.

SPANISH CLUB

Spanish Club will meet next Thursday, January 27. John Poland will give a news review of Argentina and Bolivia. Group singing is also planned. An amendment to the Spanish Club constitution will be considered at this meeting.

Jordy Meadows, Philip Woodward Wed Tomorrow

Dr. C. E. Barbour To Perform Nuptial Rites of Maryville Couple.

Sunday afternoon, January 23, at 4:00 o'clock, Miss Georgia Lu Meadows will be married to Mr. Philip Francis Woodward at the home of Mrs. B. L. Glascock of Maryville. The Rev. Dr. C. E. Barbour, pastor of the second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will perform the marriage rites. The bride will wear a street-length dress of aqua blue with black accessories. She will carry a bouquet of gardenias and white roses.

Miss Jane Woodward of Jackson, Mississippi, sister of the groom, will be the maid of honor and will carry a bouquet of pink carnations. The best man is to be Mr. James Butler of Maryville. Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Meadows of Beaver, Pennsylvania, and twenty five guests will be present at the ceremony. Mrs. Frances Grosh and Mr. Don McCarther, both of Maryville, will sing. A reception will be held at the home of Mrs. Glascock. Immediately afterwards, the newlyweds will leave on a short wedding trip.

Jordy is a member of the present senior class of Maryville College. Although she has enough credits to graduate, she will take her comprehensives in April in order to graduate with her class in May. She was a staff editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO, and a member of Theta Alpha Phi, Pi Kappa Delta, and the Writer's Workshop.

Campus Improved During Holidays

The absence of students during the Christmas recess afforded excellent opportunity for various projects to be undertaken and completed in the way of campus improvements.

Plastic rock was placed on the two stairways in Carnegie hall to correct the worn treads and provide a durable surface. Immediately following the return of the students, the back stairs of Bartlett hall were resurfaced with the same plastic rock.

The lobby of Pearsons hall was redecorated. This included the varnishing of the floors and painting of the walls. Sections of the floor of Lamar Memorial Library were also varnished. This was made necessary by various changes in arrangement of tables and shelves.

Preceding Barnwarming, held in the alumni gym Thanksgiving night, workmen were busy cementing the sides of the gym beneath the bleachers. This has made a more sanitary and smooth surface.

SPORTS

Huffman To Head Intramural Staff

Harold Huffman, philosophy major from Ohio, has been appointed by the YMCA to succeed Lloyd Anderson as head of the Intramural Staff. For his assistants are Wally Easter and Bob Seel. Harold has already outlined what sports are to be taken up for this year, and is going to put forth every effort to have a successful program. At present he is trying to make it possible to have a basketball season. The staff has decided that the best plan is to divide all the fellows who sign up to play basketball into teams rather than to let the different organizations get up teams. In that way closer competition will result. It is hoped that this activity can be started Tuesday. The games will begin at 3:35 and 4:30 p.m.

After the basketball season the Intramural Staff plans to have a table tennis tournament, a handball tournament, softball, and doubles tennis. All it takes to get this program underway is the cooperation of each fellow.

Echo Staff To Visit Knoxville News-Sentinel

The annual trek to the Knoxville News-Sentinel will be made next Friday night by members of the ECHO staff who have the time, money, and the inclination. It has become rather tradition for Dr. Griffitts, who among other things is faculty adviser to the Highland Echo, to escort the staff to Knoxville.

Besides winding through labyrinthine corridors, filing in and out of long rooms smelling of fresh print, newspapers, and smoke (L.S.M.F.T.) the journalists see how a large newspaper operates, soak in the atmosphere of rolling presses, ink, professional reporters, and get some of the thrill that working for a daily newspaper provide.

Knowledge isn't the only thing consumed. The visit to one of Knoxville's leading restaurants is another highlight of the trip. There, in the confines of a banquet room, in addition to eating, members of the staff torture each other with speeches. It started out by pretending a five minute discourse, but the senior members of the staff somehow got started. Perhaps they thought they were setting an example. Or maybe it is just one of those things.

Be that as it may and whatever lies ahead, this Friday night they are boarding the five o'clock bus to Knoxville.

NATURE CLUB

January 31, at 6:40 P.M., the Nature Club will meet in Miss Green's lecture room. Carroll Stegall is to talk on "African Snakes."

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

Girls' sports started out with a strong wave (or should I say wack) of interest as the volley ball tournament began a new semester for Point System. The scene is the same, the gymnasium on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons at 4:30; the WACs and the WAVES are still at it. They are more or less starting from scratch, for each team has won one tournament; the khaki (if you can call those brownish shorts that) basketball, and the blue, soccer. This makes things a little more interesting for team, bench warmers, scorer, Mrs. Queener, and all those sport enthusiasts who rally to the games.

Captaining the WACs is BETSY BURLEIGH, with DONNA SMALLEY as manager. On the team are the captain, Betsy, Donna, Soapie Bernadini, Pete Peterson, Rhea Parker (a new comer to Maryville), Nancy Russell, Marion Stout, Ruth Wood, and Audre Monteith.

WINNIE SOMMERS is captain of the WAVES and MARGIE WITT is the manager. The seven other players are Johnnye Gudel, Babs Burnnet, Margaret Hunt, Dot Justus, Betty Lou King, Agnes Robinette, and Lottie Lavender.

Games are to be played next Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Spring Program

The Spring program for Point System is a varied one. Aerial darts follow the volley ball tournament. For those who are not in the know, aerial darts is similar to badminton; shuttlecocks are used, but the racquets are wooden. On the heels of aerial darts come stunts, wherein everything from standing on one's head to walking like a duck, are attempted. Softball and track come with warmer days. In between times, loping around the loop, swimming practice for the swimming test to be held at the end of the semester, and an hour of daily exercise are part of the point system girl's routine.

Right now, with no season of basketball and wrestling to look forward to, girls sports are taking a more forward position. In addition to being a way to better health, and sportsmanship, they form an outlet and a recreation.

PRE-MED CLUB

Polly Edmunds is the new president of the Pre-Med Club, taking office after the resignation of Bill Buford. The other officers for this semester are Peggy Case- vice-president; Shirley Montgomery, secretary; and Millie Cundiff and Agnes Peterson, program chairmen. The sponsors are Professor George Howell and Miss Susan Green.

The first meeting of the Pre-Med Club will be held next Thursday evening at 6:45 in the Chemisitry lecture room.

COTTON CLUB

Cotton Club will hold its first meeting of this year in Athenian hall on Monday, January 24, at 6:40. A variety program is planned. Officers will be the same this semester as last. All students, particularly newcomers, from the Southern states are invited to attend.

HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS

By BETTE LOU McCOY

Now that the holidays are over and everyone has caught up on his eating and sleeping for another semester, perhaps we'd better give you an inside tip on a few of the things that go on at Maryville between terms.

First, picture yourself as being a waitress for five army tables, with the rousing task of getting up at 5:45 each morning (except for a few times when someone comes to drag you out of a sound over-sleep at 6:35.

Picture yourself as puddle-jumping and dodging rain-drops each time you step outside, and, instead of dreaming of a White Christmas, wondering if your rubber boots are going to hold out.

Ponder on the delightful suspenses of seeing first one and then another of your fellow workers come down with flu and then with measles. Picture measles lurking in the corners, hanging on the walls,—spots before your eyes, ready to afix themselves to you.

Picture yourself at Maryville with no classes and practically nothing to do between meals except roller-skate a la Sonja Henie (that is, in between the times you aren't sitting on the sidewalk) or ride Dr. Shine's horse, which happy though calls forth the poet in us to dedicate this:

"ODE TO DOC SHINE"

You can take your shiny autos,
With their silly horns that toot,
You can take your motorcycles,
And your trolley cars, to boot;

You can take your deisel engines
And your buses, trucks, and worse,
'Cause the only place speed gets you
Is lounge room in a hearse.

Oh, I'll sing the praise forever
Of a rein and boots and saddle.
Of sound of hoofs and freedom from
The traffic's screech and rattle.

I'd rather have a horse, and leave
Vehicles for the mass—
Them truly are my sentiments,
(They've rationed all the gas.)

Last, but not least, picture Maryville without rules. Maybe that's what did it—it was too much—maybe that's what led us to the condition that brought forth our roommate's decision to psycho-analyze us tomorrow afternoon, after a week's observation. So, till then, we'll go cut some more paper dolls.

SERVICE STARS

Pfc. Scott McClure, class of 1945, is studying veterinary medicine at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, under the A. S. T. Program. Scott was a chemistry assistant, and treasurer of his class the first semester of his sophomore year. Scott, who comes from Ohio, also sang in the college choir.

Dick Moore, class of '44, has been stationed at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut, in the Technical Training Program for about a month. Dick was a member of the stage crew while here as a student.

Charles Pepper, a member of the present senior class, expects to be transferred from Camp Fanning to the Army Specialized Training Program for a refresher course in calculus and drawing, and later probably to electrical engineering.

Dave Gulick is again stationed at Carson-Newman after having been sent to Bainbridge, Maryland, for a few weeks. He is in the Navy V-12 program.

A-C Jim Hogue, after completing his basic training at the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, started pre-flight training November 26, at the War Training School in St. Petersburg, Florida. Jim, who was a member of the present junior class, is from Covington, Kentucky. He is in the U. S. Naval Reserve program.

Pvt. Arty Spears, class of '46, is now serving in the Quartermaster's Corps at Bloomington, Illinois, where he is receiving officers' training. While stationed at Camp Lee, Virginia, Arty played baseball against the New York Yankees.

Oliver Spears, class of 1944, was married Saturday, November 27, in Texas, where he is stationed, to Barbara Smith, of Knoxville, who attended Maryville one semester in 1941. Both Arty and Oliver are from Maryville Tennessee.

Second Lieutenant Charles (Chuck) Foreman, attended Officers' Candidate School at Camp Davis, North Carolina, before receiving his commission. He is now serving at Camp Hulen, Texas, in the Anti-aircraft Division of the coast Artillery. Church graduated in December 1942 as a political science major. He was quite active in campus affairs, being a May Day attendant and ECHO reporter hsi freshman year, sports editor for the paper his sophomore year and a Varsity debater his sophomore, junior and senior years. Elected to the honorary debate society, Pi Kappa Delta, Chuck was vice-president of the society his senior year.

Pfc. Winton Enloe is in the Marine Corps, stationed at Memphis, Tennessee. He was a member of the class of 1946. His home is in Tennessee.

NIFTY NICKNAMES

By DOROTHY DICK

Nicknames are funny things . . . They have no history—at least there are no books about them. They just naturally are a big part of college life, particularly in America. Some have perfectly logical reasons back of them; others are just as logical as the question "Is the Moon Made of Green Cheese?" or "Why do we dread final exams?"

Seated one day in the classroom, I was weary and ill at ease, and my mind wandered idly over the many co-eds and few fellows dashing here and there on the campus under pseudonyms or, as commonly called, nicknames. There's quite a conglomeration, but they generally fit into one of the five big classes. Perhaps the most logical are those derived from first names. Try figuring out why Happybottom is an alias for Gladys! Then there's Ginger for Virginia. Some bright soul named her roommate Snap! (Good combination—they sell for 20 cents a pound!) Of course everyone knows it's much easier to cut off the RE and the A and call her Becky! Bill is short for William, and perversely enough, William is used to nickname Billye Ruth. That's typical American procedure! Who doesn't know B. J.? Her name's really Betty Jane, but it takes less time to say B. J. Weezie's called Weezie, not because she wheezes but because Louise is MUCH too formal for dorm life.

Last Names

Under the second group fall those whose source is a last name. Take Monty for instance; or Easy—who was called Easy not because he was so easy going, really. We mustn't forget Cooky who naturally, doesn't look like a cookie, it's just so much easier to say than "Cooke." Andy dropped the last part of her name, just as Pete who works in the bookstore did. Here's a new one for you though. The nickname for John is Jack; therefore the nickname for Johnson is Jack too because if you drop the son you have John, and Jack is John. (At least that's the way her roommate reasons.)

Everyone knows pretty well the gals whose nicknames are gotten from a personal characteristic or from a home state. This is the third group. Everyone seeing Shorty towering over everybody else realizes immediately the appropriateness of her cognomen! Babe is called Babe 'cuze she's the youngest in the family and Baby Sister is now too juvenile for college life. Dutchy is not necessarily descended from the Dutch. She had a sister here several years ago whom they called Duchess because of her regal air. When Ethel came down to visit, they called her little Duchess. Now that she is here in school, it has contracted even more to just "Dutchy." Who doesn't know Pixie? She was labeled thusly since her Pixie glasses gave her such a pixieish look(or is that a satan in her eye?) Tex has always been "Tex" to me—she's from Texas! I've known her for a year and a half, but it was only two weeks ago that I learned her first name was Eloise. That's the power of a nickname for you.

Funny Happenings

The fourth group has fewer members. It's the mob that includes those nicknames one picks up from some funny happening. Most outstanding is Lois Jean Howarth's—"Pat." It seems when she was in seventh grade she played the piano for the orchestra. In fun, they called her Paderewski—and it stuck. Unfortunately, that was far too big a mouthful for high school kids so they changed it to "Pat." Unlucky "Pat" thought she'd lose her embarrassing appendage when coming to college, but did she? (Moral: your past will always find you out.) Did you know that "Gig" is not only soldier slang for demerits, but also a nickname for Grace. A certain sophomore had a girl friend whose name was Grace too. And this girl friend had a little brother who couldn't say Grace—only "Gig, Gig." They started calling Grace that too.

The last group is that most illogical one. These are nicknames applied for no reason at all. Such as "Stinky, " "Bag," "Pot," "Stinko," and the like-descriptive titles, about which it is the better part of valour to inquire less deeply. Nicknames ARE funny things, and lots of fun to collect. Try it sometime.

Voorhees Chapel Soon To Receive Further Repairs

Certain repairs have been made to Voorhees Chapel since the fire on the afternoon of December 3, when part of the roof was destroyed and much of the property belonging to the dramatic art department was lost. The repair work cannot be completed until the slate for the roof arrives and another holiday facilitates the further work necessary.

So far, the scaffolding and framework have been replaced, and a temporary roof has been laid. The entire chapel has been rewired, providing each outlet with a separate circuit. A new switchboard has been installed. Repairs to the attic include new wiring and new floors.

The rooms which are used by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, head of the dramatic art department, have been redecorated. The rooms were replastered in order to counteract the damage caused by the great amount of water used in fighting the fire.

"The plan is to paint the chapel interior, but we will have to wait for another vacation," stated Mr. Louis A. Black, director of maintenance. The gables on the roof will also be painted. Further plastering must be done before the chapel may be painted. The work already accomplished was done during the Christmas vacation under the direction of Mr. Black and Mr. Ernest C. Brown, engineer, by numerous workmen employed for the purpose.

IT'LL ALL COME OUT

"Joe has a glass eye."

"Did he tell you that?"

"No, it just came out in the conversation!"

Dr. Stanley Jones Speaks Here On "Christian Way"

At 7:30 Wednesday evening, January 12, Dr. E. Stanley Jones was the guest speaker at the New Providence Presbyterian Church. Dr. Jones has distinguished himselm in past years as a speaker, writer, and Christian missionary. He received his B.A. at Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky in 1906, his M.A. in 1912, and was honored with a D.D. in 1928 at Duke University. In the same year he received an S.T.D. at Syracuse University and was elected bishop of the M. E. Church, but resigned to continue his missionary work in which he had been engaged since 1907, being evangelist to the high castes on India. He was the founder of two Christian Ashrams at Sat Taland Lucknow, India.

Mr. Jones had for his subject the question,"Is the Christian Way The Way?" He introduced his theme by affirming that we need to believe that the Christian way is the Way, and that such belief gives us a sense of confidence. Chemistry, he said, finds that certain formulas are needed for certain results; one cannot manipulate these formulas and make the universe obey. Just so is life; The Way is written into the nature of Reality.

They Mocked God

Mr. Jones said that the great civilization of the past no longer exists because theydid not conform to a moral universe, they mocked God. The Treaty of Versailles failed because we followed Clemenceau the Tiger instead of Christ. "The greatest discovery of modern civilization," Professor Kirkpatrick has said "is that he that saveth his life shall lose it.""

Psychiarists agree that all ills are traced back to our not understanding that "it is more blessed to give than to receive", and that "all aberrations of human personality are traced to egocentricity." Unchristian states of mind upset glandular functions. Dr. Jones explained that "even our stomachs are Christian." As the eye is made for light, he said, the heart for love, and the esthetic sense for beauty, I am made for Him.

Nine Steps

For those who are anxious to get hold of the power of Christ, Dr. Jones gives these nine steps:

1. Review your life honestly to see where you have been at variance with the Way, don't defend it or explain it away.
2. Reverse — where you are wrong, say so.
3. Return to Christ, you need His power to make yourself over.
4. Renounce self; turn yourself over to Him.
5. Restore; make restitution for the wrongs you have done.
6. Receive Him; take His living presence into your person. He brings release and victory.
7. Relate Him to your whole life—stop confessing other's sins and confess your own. Put God in your home, business, church, class, race, international relationships.
8. Replenish: begin the day with God, and the day will end with God.
9. Release yourself from inconsequential living. Believe that "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

Later, Mr. Jones disclosed that it has been over three years since he returned to this country, and thta he is going to India "as soon as I can get back." His daughter, Eunice, is working in India with her husband, Kenneth Mathews, who is an army officer at Karachi. Mr. Jones has recently added a new book to the list of his writings, The Christ of the American Road, which was released from the press last week.

Ministerials Meet Thursday Night

The initial meeting of the Ministerial association for the spring semester will be held Thursday, January 27, at 6:45 p.m. in Athenian Hall.

The executive council of the association met during the past week and formulated plans for a number of events which will be sponsored by the organization during the semester. The regular meeting night will be the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, at which time devotional services will be conducted.

Plans were also started for the annual banquet which will be held sometime during the latter part of April and the noon-day devotional services will be conducted during Passion Week.

Robert Dochendorf, freshman from Branchville, Maryland, has been appointed chairman of the jail committee. Services will be conducted each Sunday afternoon at the Blount County jail in Maryville.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma is to have its first big meeting of the semester tonight. There will be a general reorganizatin of the soceity at this meeting with the new committees appointed. The officers for this semester are: Leroy Dillener, president; Lyle Knaupp, vice president; Leonard Schieber, secretary;and Lawrence Sthreshley, sregeant-at-arms. These officers were elected at the final meeting of last semester.

As the army has taken over Alpha Sigma hall, a new meeting place will be announced for the society at a later date.

There is now, and there is every evidence that there will continue to be after the war, a great need for nurses—not only in hospitals and other institutions, but also in public health nursing, as teachers in schools of nursing, in government work with the U. S. Public Health Service, the U. S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, the U. S. Veterans Administration, and in a number of specialized fields.

Miss Savage discussed the opportunities for college women in nursing, and held conferences for students interested.

VOLUME 29 MARYVILLE, TENN. FEBRUARY 5, 1944 NUMBER 11

SIXTY-EIGHTH SERIES OF FEBRUARY MEETINGS BEGIN WITH DR. ANDERSON PREACHING ON FAITH AND THE WAR

Wednesday morning, February 2, 1944, the first service of the 68th series of annual February meetings was held at 9:30 in the chapel with Dr. H. Ray Anderson as the guest speaker, and Dr. Sidney Stringham as director of the music. Dr. Anderson, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago, received his Bachelor of Science degree from Kansas State College and became an engineer before he decided to enter the ministry. After graduating from McCormick Theological Seminary he served in the first World War as a chaplain. About fifteen years ago he went to Chicago to be the pastor of his present church.

Dr. Stringham, pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis, Missouri, has returned to lead the music for the 22nd year.

Attitude Toward War

The scripture lesson for the morning was the fourth chapter of Esther. In accordance with the great world upheaval of the times, Dr. Anderson used as his text: "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for just such a time as this." Since the war is an ever-present part of our daily lives, Dr. Anderson sought to point out the sort of attitude we ought to take towards this great conflict. Said he, "This (war) is man's doing, not God's. War is no longer a story book tale. Life must become real, it must become earnest. Learn from history to live in the present, then dream of tomorrow. Many become bitter, even at self as well as at brethren for having allowed it to come along."

Two admonitions the speaker expressed were first "TO LEARN in a time when we need to learn or we will perish," and second, "to find a faith equal to and stronger than these times." To illustrate these two rules of conduct, examples from the Old Testament were retold. There is a half way house in the Bible, Psalms. And next door is the book of a man, Job.

Next to Job is a palace. Esther became queen, and was very happy. Then tragedy entered her life. Hers was the decision, and she decided to boldly play her part: "If I perish, I perish." Both learned in a time when they needed to learn; above all, both found a faith equal to and stronger than the time facing them.

Wednesday night, February 2 the second of the services was held in the Chapel at 7 o'clock. Dr. Anderson again brought the message, "Where is Pearl Harbor?"

Where is Pearl Harbor?

The text of the evening message was the 16th chapter of Corinthians, verse 13: "Watch! Stand fast in the faith." "Where IS Pearl Harbor?" said Dr. Anderson. "It is first of all, the place where a warning goes unheeded. Generals and admirals wait for the appointed hour—when it comes they are playing bridge." History time and time again illustrates the fact that the mighty are brushed by in time of crisis and the meek come forth. The Secretary of State sent out warnings, the Orient knew what was going to happen, the message was 'Be on the Alert!' But, the warning was unheeded. Said the speaker, "We know enough of the word of God to know we must obey his commands. So often disregard, neglect, and carelessness bring disaster when the hour strikes. There was a net in the harbor to keep out submarines. But a vessel went out of the harbor, and a command went unheeded to put it back in place. The result—disaster!

"Secondly, Pearl Harbor is the place where men sleep and play in crisis. The men had become Hollywood playboys, not men of Annapolis and West Point. The unpreparedness was not deliberate, there was no traitor—just softness and ease. In religion, likewise a lack of obedience and discipline cause men to "sleep and play in crisis."

Last of all, Pearl Harbor is "the place where men refuse to cooperate." The Army and Navy were

YMCA Sponsors Prayer Meetings

YMCA will not hold its weekly devotional service tomorrow because of the full schedule of meetings being held in connection with the February Meetings.

However, the YM is sponsoring prayer meetings in Carnegie and Bartlett halls each night from 10:00 to 10:15 during the February Meetings. The purpose of these short devotional services is to prepare the hearts and minds of the students for the messages brought by Dr. Anderson and Dr. Stringham.

The speakers at the worship programs for the three remaining Sundays in February will be:

February 13—Carol Titus, who will lead a discussion on "Race Relations";

February 20—Helen Anderson, president of YW;

February 27—Dr. McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Georgia.

Dr. H. R. Anderson Conducts Forum At Ministerials

The Ministerial association held a special meeting last Friday, at which time Dr. H. Ray Anderson, the leader of the February Meetings, conducted a discussion on the life and work of a minister and other types of full-time Christoin Service. During the meeting questions were asked by the students and ably answered by Dr. Anderson.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, will be the speaker at the next regular meeting of the association Thursday, February 24.

Devotional services are conducted by the association at the Blount County Jail each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Robert Dockendorf is chairman of the committee in charge and each week a mixed group of students leave from Baldwin hall to assist in the service.

ONE HUNDRED MAKE FIRST SEMESTER HONOR ROLL

One hundred students made the honor roll, a B average, for the first semester, 1943-44. The honor roll includes the names of twenty-five seniors, twenty-seven juniors, twenty-nine sophomores, and nineteen freshmen.

Jean Lehman, of Haddonfield, N. J., headed the list, with an average of 8.6. She was a senior and graduated at the end of the semester.

Girls' Glee Club To Give Operetta "Tulip Time" Early This Spring

Sophs and Juniors Elect Officers, Council Members

Seel Chosen Junior Class President To Replace Barker

Nominations were made at the beginning of this semester to be voted upon to fill the vacancies of several offices occuring in the junior and sophomore classes. The elections were held last week and results have already been announced.

The new president of the junior class is Bob Seel, a chemistry major from Bradenton, Florida. Bob is an active member of the Y. M. C. A., a member of its cabinet and he sings in the college choir. He replaces Don Barker, who has recently become a senior. Two student council vacancies were filled. The new members are Jeanne Bellerjeau and Edward Gates. Jeanne is a Bible major coming to Maryville from Haddon Heights, New Jersey. Edward,the other new member, is an English major and lives in Maryville. He is active in Writers' Workshop and is a choir member.

Sophomores Elect

The sophomore class had several officers to elect to fill vacancies due to reclassification of several members at the change of the semester and members going into the Service. Margaret Cross was elected the new treasurer. She is a sociology major and Bainonian's program chairman from Brent, Alabama. Three student council members were elected. They are: Dorothy Dick, Abbott Kemp, and John Goins. Dorothy, a home economics major from Hanover, Pennsylvania, is a reporter for the HIGHLAND ECHO, serves as a home economics assistant, and is a member of various other clubs. Abbott comes from Acworth, Georgia and as yet is undecided upon his major subject. The other new member, John Goins, is a ministerial from Chattanooga, majoring in Religious education.

NOTICE

According to the constitution of the ECHO, there will be an opportunity for freshmen to try out for position on next year's editorial staff. Any freshman interested should attend the next staff meeting, February 15, at 6:40 p.m. in the ECHO office.

Miss Wright Is Reader At Dinner For Faculty Club

The faculty club held the first of its regular meetings this semester on Monday night, January 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the home economics department. Seventy-five persons attended the meeting at which Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, presented a paper on Sidney Lanier in East Tennessee. Miss Wright graduated from Maryville College and received her Master's Degree from Yale University in 1938. She has been at Maryville College since 1940.

Miss Wright spoke mainly of TIGER-LILIES, the one and only novel of Sidney Lanier. It is a novel of particular interest to persons living in this locality, for the setting of the novel is laid in the surrounding vicinities of Montvale and Knoxville. For a bit of local color Miss Wright had on display a picture of the Montvale Springs Hotel which Sidney Lanier mentions quite frequently in his book. Each person also received a small glass of the mineral water of the Montvale springs.

Members of the home economics department, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics and head of that department, served the group potato salad with paprika wafers, a tangerine dessert and coffee.

The next meeting of the faculty club will be held March 20. The Rev. Dr. E. Fay Campbell, Secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, will be the guest speaker.

Directed by Mr. Philip O. Jones, Production Has Dutch Setting

Saturday night, April 15, the Girls' Glee Club, with the help of five male voices from the Maryville College Choir, is to present the operetta "Tulip Time" in the auditorium of Voorhees Chapel. Mr. Phillip O. Jones, formerly of Chicago, Ilinois, and at present the director of the college choir, glee club, and orchestra, will act as musical director. Mr. Jones has previously directed "Tulip Time" for the Young People's Choir at the St. John's Methodist Church in Chicago. At that time six performances were given.

The cast contains a large number of principal leads. The part of Hans, a Dutch apprentice, is to be played by Douglas Mac Martin, a senior sociology major from Sisseton, South Dakota. Aunt Anna, Christina's Guardian, will be portrayed by Shirley Feeny, a freshman home economics major from Atlantic City, New Jersey; Katinka, a village maiden, by Lois Wilkes, a freshman music major of Glendale, California; Hendrick Van Ooster, Burgomaster of Osendorf, by Owen McGarity, a sophomore political science major from Croydon, Pennsylvania; Christina, a charming Dutch girl, by Louise Warwick, a freshman religious education major from Knoxville, Tennessee; Theophilus McSpindle, an authority on botany, by Bob Seel, a chemistry major from Bradenton, Florida; Ned Baxter, an American college student, by Jack Scott, a senior psychology major of Eddington, Pennsylvania; Dick Warren, a fellow student of Ned, by Carroll Stegall, a freshman foreign language major from Richmond, Virginia.

Jean Smith, a sophomore psychology major of Buffalo, New York, will do a solo dance. Estelle Farrow, a senior music major of Montclair, New Jersey, is to take charge of a small orchestral accompaniment, and Annette Bills, a freshman music major of Lewisburg, Tennessee, and the accompanist of the Glee Club, will play the piano. Mrs. V. M. Queener, assistant professor of physical education, has consented to be the assistant director and will have charge of the routine dance numbers.

Setting in Holland

The story of "Tulip Time" takes place in the village of Osendorf in Holland. The villagers, enjoying a holiday, are startled by the arrival of American tourists, college students under the leadership of Professor McSpindle, a tutor in botany, to study tulip culture.

Two of the young students, Ned Baxter and Dick Warren, become attracted to the young Dutch girls, Christina and Katinka, and the remainder of the story concerns their friendship, mystery of the stolen prize tulip bulbs, a case of mistaken identity, and the discovery of valuable stock.

"Tulip Time" promises to be one of the biggest hits of the year. It is the first operetta to be given by a Maryville College group in a great many years and should be looked forward to with much anticipation.

The operetta was written by Geoffrey F. Morgan and Frederick G. Johnson, and was arranged by Don Wilson. It was published by The H. T. Fitzsimons Company of Chicago. The publishers report that "Tulip Time" is one of the two best-sellers of the year.

Student Council

Town night, campus clean-up, and knitting in chapel were discussed at the Student Council meeting which was held Monday, January 31, in Thaw Hall at 8:15 p.m. Jeana Eddleman was elected secretary of the Council to succeed Virginia Cain, who is no longer a member.

Town night will be Friday instead of Tuesday night next week. Because of February Meetings, this change was suggested by the faculty. The Student Council approved it.

Jean Bellerjeau has been appointed to head a committee to look into the ways and means of keeping the campus clean. Those assisting Jean on the committee are Abbott Kemp and John Poland.

Students have complained that it is distracting to see people knitting in chapel. Notices have been posted in the girls' dormitories asking students not to knit during chapel when they are in "urgent need of the garment."

Inter-American Discussion Contest To Be Held Tuesday Evening

A discussion contest on Inter-American affairs, sponsored jointly by the International Relations club and the debate class will be held next Tuesday, February 15, at 7:30 in the philosophy classroom on the second floor of Thaw hall. The purpose of the contest is to promote better relations between this nation and the other countries in the Western Hemisphere by arousing more interest in this country. The topic to be discussed will be: "The Bases For Permanent Co-operation Among the American Republics."

The contest is open to any interested student, and the following have announced their participation; Miriam Wickham, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Dorothy Dick, Ben Lynt, Carroll Stegall, Robert Huber, Lawrence Shreshley, and John Poland.

The plan is to have each contestant deliver a prepared speech five minutes in length and to follow this with a round table discussion in which the audience will participate. Three men of the community are to serve as judges for the contest.

IRC's president, Malcolm Thompson has announced that the International Relations Club will not hold its regular meeting on Monday, but will meet the next evening for the purpose of hearing the contest.

The Southeastern Regional District of the International Relations clubs will hold a convention on March 10 and 11, and several Maryville delegates will attend.

Six new books have recently been received from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace—Javsica

Shortage of Victory

The central theme of this book is that modern warfare necessitates long industrial preparation and that, since no country can carry on such preparation in secret it can be restrained.

Peace Plans and American Choices—Millspaugh

This book presents the relation of the United States to world affairs and relates, as its sub-title indicates, "The Pros and Cons of World Order" with an illuminating introductory chapter which should be a help to everyone who is trying honestly to "think things through."

U.S. Foreign Policy—Lippman

This book has been so widely reviewed and commented upon that it hardly needs further mention here other than to recommend that it receive the serious consideration it deserves as an important contribution to the discussion of American foreign policy.

New Zealand—Nash

The author gives us a graphic account of New Zealand, his native land, and also leads on from his picture of this country at war to the problems of the Pacific and and world organization.

Free China's New Deal—Freyn

This book is an authoritative, factual account of how China is laying the foundations for a prosperous and modern nation in the days to come, reporting upon present conditions and linking them with the background from which they have sprung.

America and Asia—Lattimore

The name of Owen Lattimore has been identified for many years with the affairs of the Far East and particularly with China. For two recent years ending December 1942, he was the American Political Adviser to Generalissimo Chiank Kai-shek. He offers a fresh approach to the continual and continuous discussions of America's part in the war in the Pacific and in the future peace "beyond" the Pacific.

Student Recitals Held Last Tuesday

Tuesday, February 1, was the date for the first student recital of this semester. Recitals are held every two weeks at 4:00 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. All students taking music for credit are at some time during the year participants on these programs. Students taking individual lessons are required to attend recitals

No YW Sunday

Y.W. will not hold its regular worship service this Sunday, February 6. Its next meeting will be on the following Sunday, February 6. Its next meeting will be on the following Sunday, February 13, with Miss Almira Bassett as guest speaker. Miss Bassett, assistant professor of Latin ha chosen as her topic, "Out of the Heart Are the Issues of Life."

Helen Anderson, president of YW was the speaker at the last meeting on January 30. She spoke on the "Abiding Christ." Helen is a senior English major from Rockford and was elected near the close of last semester to replace Muriel Geisler who was graduated in December. Muriel is now director of religious education in a Presbyterian church in Wisconsin.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1944

AFTER SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS . . .

The campus talk is more than a mere "Talk of the Week." This year's February meetings have elevated us spiritually and mentally from our leaning tower of getting in ruts. Groups, small or large, discuss the usual topic, "How do you like the meetings?" The inevitable answer is that " . . . they get better every day." And that is our feeling toward Dr. H. Ray Anderson. We like him more each time we listen to his sermons. And why? Because we know him better; he tells us his proven plan for the ultimate Christian life. His is not a Sunday Christ: they are old friends.

February meetings were first begun in 1877, and they have been continuous, except for one year. Those first meetings, led by Dr. Bachman, were important even to us, because they determined the character of future meetings. Dr. Bachman inspired the young people to a life of usefullness of service under the guidance of the Great Leader. He showed them more noble character which could be gained through the transforming power of religion.

And after sixty-eight years, the same message stirs us and enriches our spiritual life. We look forward to the ten-day service each year, because we realize the leaders can help us attain a higher level of living. In times of crises, such as present day conditions, we need a new faith in ourselves and in others. And Dr. Anderson is indeed fulfilling his aim in directing our thoughts of Faith and the War.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

OUR SONG LEADER

Despite his picture and despite his age, Dr. Sidney E. Stringham has been asked to lead the singing for the February Meetings for the twenty-second time. Much has been said about him, but I would like to repeat some things for the benefit of the new students and also to add some new light on the subject.

Dr. Stringham was first asked to lead the singing back in 1922 when he was pastor of the Methodist Church in Alcoa, a church which he had organized two years before. He is now pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis, one of the few churches which draws large crowds to two services.

STILL SPRY

Last year during the Meetings, Dr. Stringham was seen roller skating in front of Anderson Hall. He's still pretty spry. "I enjoy roller skating," he said, "and would like to do some more if someone will lend me a pair of skates. My shoe is size eight."

Asked if he knew any interesting stories about some of the faculty members he replied, "I know lots, but I won't tell any." But he did imply that the following story might be pertinent: During the course of a wedding the minister called out, "who will give her away?" Then someone in the audience jumped up and shouted, "I could, but then she might give me away."

Dr. Stringham has been living in the guest room in Baldwin hall, and while there he has had some mighty interesting experiences. "The other night some girls above me had a barrage of fruit most of which was beyond the edible stage. They made quite a noise, so the next morning they came down to my room and gave me some good oranges. They were trying to bribe me so I wouldn't tell."

LET THE FACULTY SING

Each year Dr. Stringham has made it a practice to call certain members of the faculty to the platform to sing a chorus or two. In confidence Dr. Stringham told me this: "Even though the faculty members complain bitterly about the whole procedure in public, most of them have come to me privately and begged me to let them show off their talents." No names were mentioned, but some initials might have some significance.

THE FAMOUS COW STORY

Two years ago Dr. Stringham told a story which has remained one of the classics of all time. Ever since he has been ashamed to mention it, and he has a dintinct dislike for milk. He told it this way:

"The following was written to the Minister of Health by a little boy from the London east side after his first trip to the country following his evacuation from the city during the air raids:

"The cow is a mammal. It has six sides, right side, left side, upper and lower, inside and outside. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this he sends flies away so they won't fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with and the mouth to moo with. Under the cow hangs milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, milk comes and there never is an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized, but it makes more and more.

"The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. That is the reason for fresh air in the country. A man cow is called an ox. The cow does not eat much, but what it eats it eats twice so it can get enough. When it is hungry it moos, and when it says nothing at all it is because its insides are full up with grass."

One of the chief reasons for Dr. Stringham's popularity here and elsewhere is because of the many choruses he knows and uses. Perhaps the most popular of the ones he used in previous years was: "Wide, Wide As The Ocean."

Wide, wide as the ocean,
High as the heavens above,
Deep, deep as the deepest sea
Is my Savior's love.

I, though so unworthy
Still am a child of His care,
For His word teaches me
That his love reaches me
EVERYWHERE.

The chorus, When I'm With Him, introduced the other evening has already become a favorite:
When I'm with Him, When I'm with Him,
The fairest pleasures of the world grow dim.
And in my heart I feel a thrill of glory
When I'm with Him, When I'm with Him.

Dr. Stringham has promised to introduce another chorus which he says will be very appropriate on the HILL. "SHINE, shine just where you are."

Anyway, we like him.

Tower Talk

By BEN LYNT

Please don't rush me, its so very cozy up here with just the bats and the breeze; even if people do look strange, the campus always appears fresh and clean with just a dash of enchantment from this rarefied vantage point . . . but the boombydyboom clang, clang and the accompanying shudder of the superstructure, punctuated by squeaks and creaks of bell-rope, brings one leadenly back to the present—and the one-hundred fifty downward steps to the President's office impress themselves upon us with each stroke as the tower bell brings another interval to its logical conclusion.

Before we leave our musing, though, we'd like to muse on just what strange hand has made off with three of the four spikes designed to surmount the lightening-rods placed at each corner of this unpretentious super-flattop . . . mystery in our midst?

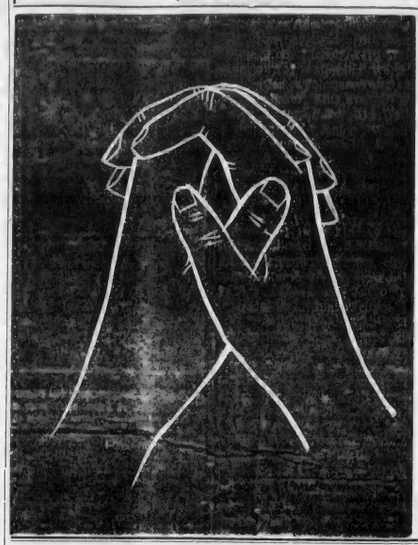
So, here we sit, typewriter in hand, a dead-line staring us in the face, ready to begin hacking out the old fool's cap, and the first item of business turns up a complaint. One H. (permanent smile) Rust objects to our misspelling the name of his new order, the "Eagga" society, but hastens to report that applications are pouring in from all sides . . . some are dripping in . . . even from the weaker, pardon us, the more numerous sex.

Lest cultural pursuits be dealt a low blow, we resolve to turn our attention next to the more serious, pack our field equipment carefully, take a firm grip on our magnifying glass, and, with a hey and a ho, plunge into the pristine beauty of the college woods to study first hand the flora and fauna at play. But, even before the first glow of determination has spent itself, our nostrils detect the delicate aroma of Alphabetical Soup, and we are hopelessly sidetracked. "P.O.P." somehow stands for Virginia Cain, and "H.T.T." gets you Helen Anderson, but what will "Y.M.B.A" and "O.B.S.L.O.C." bring, we wonder?

And while down to earth, we pause to doff our Dobbs to Brownie's "pee-wees" the little men on the hill who assist in odd-jobbing these days. "Uninhibited" is their name, the little dears; one of them accosted two faculty members last week on the steps of Thaw Hall and queeried thusly: "Have either of you fellas seen Mrs. Butcher?" Whereupon the Drs. Hunter and Orr replied that they hadn't. Another is reported to have assured acting dean of students, Miss Lightfoot, in rather clear and stentorian tones that he "wasn't taking no orders from no one but Brownie." Cute kids!

For those who have been wondering, let it be here stated that we have adopted the policy of brushing our molars carefully before each meeting of our ex class; World Politics and dental care don't mix.

Another for the books concerning Griffittsianna comes from our faithful spirit assigned to haunt the shadows of the Bookstore. Dr. F. A., new management-mentor, called for a schedule from each student assistant to facilitate location at any hour; some over-zealous person took the liberty of making out a specimen form for "Griff" himself. To wit: first try office in Science hall, next try ECHO office, then CHILHOWEAN office, failing all these, look for the first group of giggling girls, and in the middle you'll find him. Incisive, wot?



Just as we get ourselves acclimated to the title of psilanthropist, and learn to use it along with sesquipedalian, along comes our friend Stellwagon with something that sounds like "sollopsist." To top this experience, our one tube and arial sings us to sleep with "mairzy dotes, an' dozy notes, and liddle lamzy divey." Silently we gnash our teeth to a fine powder and concentrate on lacquering our hornrims.

No wonder we take to the tower, but even here we are disturbed no little by the lingering memory of such snathches as . . . "a modern saint Finnan . . . ," and "only twenty-four, with a black beard."

Stardust has its day, and our hearts are warmed as we view through the rear windows of Voorhees, with the "Letters to Lucerne" cast, the touching pictures of John and Aldyn wending their way across the corduroy in the not-yet-dusk enough of a February day.

TALK OF THE WEEK

Eight Members Added to Choir This Semester

Eight new members have been added to the choir since the start of the new semester, although two of the older members dropped at the end of last semester. Lloyd Anderson, who did not return to school and is now a member of the Navy, and Owen McGarity, who dropped because of a heavy schedule.

Two of the new members of the choir had previously sung in it. These two are Sibyl Tallent, a junior from Etowah who is majoring in biology and has come back into the soprano section and James Walker, a senior political science major from Asheboro, North Carolina, who has returned to the bass section after a stay in the Army.

Of the remaining new singers two are girls and four are boys. The two girls, Ann Anderson and Florence Gobillot, have taken chairs in the alto section. Ann is a freshman from Woodbridge, New Jersey, who plans to major in religious education. Florence is a junior biology major from Sharon, Connecticut.

Byron Sprague, who is the only really new addition to the bass section is from Cincinnati, Ohio. Byron, who is a junior, is majoring in sociology.

The other three boys have all been added to the tenor section, which has been the smallest in number up until this time. John Houdeshell, a sophomore from Branchville, Maryland, is one of the new tenors. John is majoring in English. The other two boys are freshman. John Poland is from Beverly Shores, Indiana, and John Turner, a music major, is from Knoxville.

IT COULDN'D HAPPEN HERE!

Maid Shop Makes Uniforms for War

One-fourth of the Maryville College Maid Shop uniforms now go to foreign ports, with quite a few customers at Pearl Harbor. Three of the nurses who were captured at Guam and returned on the Gripsholm were Maid Shop customers. Originally the Maid Shop supplied uniforms for the army, navy, marines, veterans, and some Indian women. Now it is only able to supply the navy, marines, and veterans. One thousand army buyers had to be dropped because the number of girls now working in the Maid Shop is only one-third of what it was formerly.

It has also been necessary to discontinue making choir gowns and factory uniforms, except for the Apex Hosiery Mill in Philadelphia, which has given the Maid Shop 100 per cent of its business for the past twenty years.

The only local customer has been the Doctor's Hospital on Court Street.

One reason for the popularity of the Maid Shop is that all of the uniforms are cut to measurement and are not just standard sizes.

The Maid Shop is able to give many girls work as desire it.

not then on speaking terms. To save the world, there must be a wholeness in man's self, within the church, and among nations. Cooperation is a necessary part of the future. There was a tragedy at Pearl Harbor once, but now, given a second chance, Pearl Harbor can and will be the place where other men are alert, where they do keep watch, where old wrecks are reconverted and sent out. It is up to us not to carry the first Pearl Harbor wherever we go. "This is our second chance—will we lose again? The message closed with this thought by Aurelia Augusta, "we must lay aside deeds of darkness, not indulging in drinking, lust or debauchery, quarreling or vice, but clothe yourself in Christ."

"Faith As Trust"

Thursday morning, at 9:30, the third service was conducted by Dr. Anderson who chose to speak on "Faith as a Trust." The text for the morning worship was "Trust me, said Jesus, I am the Way." "Faith," began Dr. Anderson, "means forsaking all—personal surrender. Can we say, 'I trust Him'? The only way to know Him is to follow Him." Jesus calls to young people to follow him, and the call appeals because of the adventure it promises. We cannot learn about Jesus in a balcony—life goes by below us. "The end of the way means the ultimate solution of our problems. Christ is not the problem, but the solution. We are the problem. And Jesus is God's proffer in our dire need."

Faith is also a way of living in a crisis. We need something higher an dstronger to lead us, something divine to follow. And faith is the path to take. "Take to the road—begin the adventure—follow Jesus." That was the challenge of the speaker as he said, "Hell is being left alone at the end of the way with a disintegrated personality. Heaven is coming to the end of the way in company with high fellowship."

Two Great Men

Thursday evening the services continued, with Dr. Stringham leading the singing and singing a solo "I'm a Child of the King." The evening sermon was a continuation of the morning thought, 'I am the Way.' Dr. Anderson brought to his audience the story of two great men "who took to the road, and began the adventure."

The first was a man of the sixth century, St. Columba of the island, Iona. He planted a gospel in Scotland long before John Knox, who merely reaped the seeds Columba had sown. St. Columba was born in 521 and christened Column. From the first he loved Christ. He was both strong and had a desire to roam. At an early age he had the good fortune to be sent away to the school of which Finnan was the head. He was cultured, much traveled, a disciplinarian, and head of a school in Ireland. St. Columba benefited greatly from the teachings of his great teacher. He was ordained at 25, and taught for 18 years for Christ. "Kingly in courtesy, a giant in stature, eager, a lover of beauty, a broad clear face, he was a Celt of the Celts." His teacher brought back from France a great book by Jerome. At night Columba used to read and copy this book which was Jerome's Latin translation of the Bible, the Vulgate. Caught and disciplined, Columba was ordered out of school, and he left his order in Ireland.

With 12 others Columba sailed to the East to a little island. Here learning and faith had their tranquil home. As Dr. Anderson said, "To tell the story of Iona and Columba is to go back to God. They copied the scriptures, and built homes. Every vocation on the island of Iona was a Christian vocation. They founded over 300 churches or Christian communities in this early pagan century. The Celtic church was catholic but evangelical for a quarter of a century. Scotland's contribution to the world was the church, Catholic yet universal and above all free. One day as Columba was translating the scriptures he felt that his time was drawing to a close. He got to Psalms 34:10 which Dr. Anderson read as the

"Letters To Lucerne" Directed By Mrs. Nita E. West; To Be Given In Chapel February 26

First MC Play To Deal With The Present War

The Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma mid-winter play LETTERS TO LUCERNE will be presented Saturday, February 26, in Voorhees chapel. It is the first play which has dealt with any phase of the present world conflict. The scene is in a girls' school near Lucerne, Switzerland, at the time of Germany's invasion of Poland.

The play has no real leading character. The girls represent different sections of the world, varied cultures and contrasting outlooks on life. Olga Kirinski is played by Ellen Pascoe. Ellen, who is portraying the Polish girl, hails from Pergasie, Pennsylvania, and is majoring in sociology. She has taken part in previous dramatic art productions.

The German girl over whom the conflict centers is Erna Schmidt. Dorothy Harned, from Maryville and a dramatic art major, plays Erna. Dorothy has participated in several Maryville College plays, and she is especially remembered for her part in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Lisette Gessert plays Gretchen Linder, one of the teachers in the school. A home economics major, Lisette is from Roswell, New Mexico.

Ethel Park, a sophomore sociology major from New York, is enacting the role of Margarethe, the cook.

Miss Hunter, the headmistress, is portrayed by Olinde Ahrens, a freshman English major from Pennsylvania.

One of the representatives of the United States is played by Ruth Lloyd. She portrays Bingo Hill, a spritely Northener. Ruth is a freshman and lives in Maryville.

Felice Renoir, the French maiden, is being created by Margaret Gessert. Margaret is a senior home economics major from Roswell, New Mexico.

Mary Dawn Noblit is the southern belle, Sallie Jackson. From Florida, Mary Dawn is a Spanish major. She is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic art club.

The English girl, Marion Curwood, is acted by Jane Hays. A home economics major, Jane is from Pennsylvania.

The male element is brought in by Duane Collins and Carroll Stegall. Duane plays Hans Schmidt, a German aviator. Duane is a senior sociology major from Pennsylvania. He had a part in the recent production of "Dark Victory."

Carroll, who plays Gustave, is a freshman language major from South Africa.

Jeanne Carmichael is assistant to the director. She is a sophomore music major from Newport, Tennessee.

Stage manager is Leroy Dillener, and assisting him is Charles Burgreen. Robert Seel is the chief electrician. Phyllis Irshay is in charge of costumes. On the stage crew are Rebecca Davis, Cynthia Johnson, Jayne Shouse, Jane Craig, Bette Lou McCoy, and Thelma Richardson.

The fire in the chapel has caused the production staff several difficulties, but apparently there were no setbacks, for everything is coming off according to schedule.

MRS. WEST

BETTE LOU McCO

Dramatic Coach Appears Bashful When Interviewed

By THELMA RICHARDSON

She's white haired and round, she has sparkling brown eyes that reflect a personality that is alive and awakening. She's Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

When Maryville students think of her, they see and hear her reading Dicken's Christmas Carol, and they little wonder at its immortality. They see her shyly receiving her curtain call. They think of some of the excellent plays Mrs. West has turned out. They sense, but do not actually know of the spirit she lends to her actors. Hers is the job and ability to bring out the best in her students both on the stage in Voorhees and that other stage Shakespeare refers to as the world.

That is the way it is in her classrooms. Not only speech, drama of the theatre, but drama of life is being taught there. She has the art of turning little, seemingly ordinary things about her into adventures, interesting situations. It is not many who are so gifted.

The Wests live on a farm about two miles out, and she refers to themselves as just plain folks.

We know her as a teacher, director and interpreter but she is several lifetimes of other things. On Sundays she teaches a Sunday School class of women at the First Methodist Church. They're women who have been doing things for Maryville and toward the war effort.

She has two married daughters and a son, and is a grandmother, too. Her big weakness is Charles West, her grandson. He is studying to be a navigator in the Army Air Corps. At first she said warmly, he is handsome, but then she laughed and said "Don't believe me, that's only the grandmother speaking."

Just get her to talk about her girlhood days some time. She lived in Mississippi on a plantation, and she had a colored mammy. Her father was a Methodist minister, and when she went into a negro church with him, the colored people would sing about little missy in her pretty white dress. She can sing it too. There's just never a dull moment with her.

When she first came to Maryville at the very end of the last century, plays or anything "devilish" like that weren't given, but she taught expression. It wasn't till quite a few years later that the senior class wrote a play, and thus theatre was introduced to Maryville. She once said that if she could produce Hamlet and Cyrano de Bergerac she could do anything. She did produce Hamlet and Cyrano.

She's extremely modest and begged that I didn't write anything about her. "You can't say I'm young and slim, so what is there to tell?"

Well it's this, Mrs. West, you have something that all of us would love to have. You stand for the best that is in Maryville. You're modern, abreast of the times, and to put it simply you are what is meant by the young in heart.

Hunting, Fishing, Preaching Are Dr. Anderson's Favorite Sports

By Bette Lou McCoy

The only chance we had to catch Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson was for a few minutes after a service one night—he's that busy, but what else could we expect from a man who has to preach two sermons a day, besides study, besides interview several dozen people and try to untangle their life problems. Yes, that's more or less Dr. Anderson's schedule since he has been at Maryville. But it hasn't been so terribly soft at any time since he entered the ministry twenty-five years ago—a minister's schedule seldom is easy.

Dr. Anderson prepared for a vocation as sanitary engineer when he studied at the state college in his native home of Kansas. Later, while practicing that profession, he received a call to the ministry and entered McCormick Seminary in Chicago. Dr. Anderson has since shown himself to be a man of great strength and character, one of his first real trials coming when he had to defend his decision to become a minister against the ridicule of his friends.

In the first World War, he was a chaplain in France, belonging to the Hundred and Third U.S. Infantry, the 26th Division. For a year Dr. Anderson served in this capacity, but was sent home after being wounded. At present he is pastor of one of the ten largest Presbyterian Churches in America, the Chicago Fourth Presbyterian Church, near the shore of Lake Michigan. Dr. Anderson has preached there since he was thirty five years of age, but we didn't ask him how old he is now, so we don't know how long he's been there—anyway, it doesn't look as though he's been there so VERY long.

sented him with sufficient reason for being a grandfather; he also has two sons, both volunteers in the Navy at the ages of seventeen and eighteen respectively. In speaking of his sons, Dr. Anderson stated that "they inherited that fighting disposition from their mother," and then added that "if she heard me say that, she'd blow up and thereby prove my point."

Dr. Anderson led the February meetings here five years ago, so he knew what he was getting into this time. Anyhow, if he still is able to take it after this year, we'd like to see him back again.

Looking at Dr. Anderson's size and brawn we judged that his pasttimes must include something other than tiddledy-winks and dominoes—and they do. His favorite sports, "next to preaching," he says, are hunting and fishing.

Besides being a preacher, teacher, business-man, Vice-Moderator of the General Assembly, and husband, Dr. Anderson is a father. He has one daughter, formerly of Worcester College, who is married and has now pre-

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

The WAVES beat the WACS in the volley ball tournament winning two out of the three games played. The last two games were rather easy victories for WINNIE SOMMERS' team. The games weren't too enthusiastically played. The WACS serving was poor, and their team work wasn't as polished as the WAVES. Captain Winnie played an outstanding game all the way through. The first game in which the score was close and which the WACS won was more interesting. The ball was really kept going, the serving was not so wild, and the players themselves acted as though they were having a good time. It was a rhythmical game, and therefore a pretty one. At the beginning the WAVES were in the lead with JOHNNYE GUDEL'S second row technique of lightly raising the ball up in the air and letting the first row aim a good shot working fine. When AGNES PETERSON served, she pulled the WACS into the lead and they stayed there.

The WAVES have won two tournaments; they are soccer champs also. The WACS won the basketball tourney.

Time Changed

Aerial darts practice is going on now. By the way, because of interference, the groups will meet at 3:30 on Wednesday, Thursday, and Monday, instead of at 4:30. To get back to aerial darts, practice will be held this week and next week games will be played to determine the champion WAVE and the champion WAC, and they will fight it off from there a week from Friday.

M Club

Last Monday M club held its first meeting this semester in Theta hall. Jack Houdeshel entertained Ma Queener and the girls with some sentimental ballads of home, like "Beat Me Daddy." Amendments to the constitution were proposed by Johnnye, president of M Club. They were voted on and accepted unanimously.

INTRAMURAL

By PARKINSON AND POLAND

Well, it looks as if there is going to be an intramural program for the civilian fellows this semester after all. Delay was caused by the changing around of the army classes and it took time to fix up the new schedule with both the army physical training and the girls' point system. Although the two former have priority in the use of the gym, there is going to be a basketball schedule played off in the intramural program. Head of the Intramural Staff, HAROLD HUFFMAN, has found that the gym will be available for games at 4:30 on Tuesdays and at 3:30 on Thursdays. Since only 21 men signed up for the program and they will be divided up into three teams of equal strength, there will be only one game each day. Arrangements will be made for players who have classes and orcehstra practice on Thursdays to be on the teams which play on the other day.

First Game Tuesday

The Intramural Staff is going to post a list of the teams on the Carnegie bulletin board Monday. The first game will be played Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. Referees will be chosen from the team which is not playing.

A tentative schedule of ten games for each team has been drawn up, and with the co-operation of each of the fellows who signified that he wanted to take part in such a program, this basketball season will be a success. Although Huffman and his assistants, BOB SEEL and WALLY EASTER are working hard.

First there had been no provision for the office of vice president in the old constitution, so Stevie Boretsky's position was made legal; second, to be a member of the club one must have the majority vote of the old members in addition to 400 points gained from a year of point system; last regular meetings will be held every second Monday of the month.

SERVICE STARS

BY DOROTHY DICK

Lieutenant Hilton Wick, a graduate of the class of 1942, visited here on the campus last week while on leave from active duty. Hilton has just returned from the South Pacific where he was stationed with the Army Air Corps for 10 months as a bombardier.

Lieutenant Wick

During his stay here on the campus, Hilton spoke to the student body in chapel Thursday morning, to the 42nd training detachment of the Air Corps stationed here, and to various classes throughout the day. After a leave of 20 days and five days traveling time from San Francisco east, Hilton must report at Atlantic City February 5, for his orders. He expects to be stationed somewhere in the United States. While here on the campus, Hilton was active in campus affairs, being elected to Who's in American Colleges and Universities, president of the Y.M.C.A. his senior year, and business manager of the CHILHOWEAN in his junior year. He was a member of the debate squad three years and of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary debate society, his last three years. A political science major, Hilton was on the honor roll for three years, and, with his brother, Henry, won the Economics prize during his sophomore year.

Pvt. Carl Alette, class of '43, is stationed at Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey, in the Army Specialized Training Program. He is studying architectural engineering. Carl did honors work here at Maryville in music.

Lieutenant Ellis Burcaw, 1943 graduate, is stationed at the Radar School of Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Ellis, who majored in physics, transferred to Maryville fro mMadison College at the beginning of his junior year.

Ensign Doug Roseborough, also a 1943 graduate, visited on the campus last week after receiving his commission in the Navy at Notre Dame, Indiana. After leaving Maryville he received his orders to report for active duty somewhere on the west coast.

Corporal E. Brasher Bailey is now stationed at Drew Field, Tampa, Florida. Brasher, who graduated in 1943, was president of the Student Council and of the student body during his senior year. His home is Maryville, Tennessee.

Bob Bayless, Aviation Cadet, is stationed in the U.S. Navy Air Corps at Pensacola, Florida. He was a member of the present junior class. Upon completion of his training, Bob will be a pilot in the Navy or the Marines.

German Club Elects Davis

The German Club held its first meeting of the spring semester, Monday, January 31. Officers were elected to serve this semester. Rebecca Davis, sophomore sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky, was chosen president. Lula Callaway, junior majoring in biology, from Maryville, is the new vice-president. Secretary-treasurer is Millie Cundiff, a freshman from Baltimore, Md. Program chairmen are Carol Reynolds, sophomore Spanish major from Dunwoody, Georgia, and Leroy Dillenere, senior ministerial from Barnegat, New Jersey.

The next meeting will be in the form of a party to be held on Valentine's Day, February 14. Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German is the faculty advisor for this language club.

ATHENIAN

Athenian society plans to hold a variety talent show at their weekly meeting tonight in Athenian Hall at 6:15.The program is under the chairmanship of Owen McGarity. Next week the Athenians are planning to combine with the Bainonian society for an evening of gala activities.

At the last meeting of Athenian, "Trial by Fury" with Judge Malcolm Thompson presiding was given by the program committee. The inebriated culprit, Tom Parkinson, was defended by John Poland. The prosecuting attorney's Harold Kidder, star witness was Owen McGarity, whose testimony in the vital case was upheld by spoils of the victom's wine cellar. Witness Robert Dockendorf. The (Pepsi-Colas) were served to the audience who served as the members of the jury.

BAINONIAN

Tonight at 6:15 two junior class representatives of Bainonian, Nancy Russell and Esther Farrow, will direct a one-act play. The play is a comedy, "Love in the Bonds", dealing with rush week at Bainonian. Those taking part in the play are Shirley Scott, Betty Lou McCoy, Dorothy Lehman, Rachel Galbreath, Miriam Bowditch, Nancy Russell, and Esther Farrow. The meeting will be in the Bainonian hall.

Bainonian Society met last Saturday with two sophomores. Billye Ruth Wright and Mary Mell Fleming, in charge of the program. There was a short musical quiz, which was won by Kay Stout and Ruth Broadhead. Other music on the program consisted of "For The First Time" and "My Heart Tells Me", sung by Mary Ann Wilkes, "Gypsy Love Song" and "Kiss Me Again" played on the violin by Rosalind Garges, and "Shining Hour" and "Stardust" rendered by Catherine Sisk.

Pre-Med Club

Thursday, January 23, three students gave talks at pre-med club. Agnes Peterson, a junior from Knoxville, spoke on "War Surgery," Ann Haygood, a freshman from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, spoke on "Artificial Limbs," and Marie Deerman, a freshman from Palestine, Texas, spoke on Penicillin." The next meeting will be Thursday, February 10.

Writers' Workshop Elects Members

Writers' Workshop, which from time to time elects to membership juniors and seniors who have shown special interest and ability in creative writing, recently elected to membership four new members.

The newly elected are Ruth Case, Isabel Muir, Thelma Richardson and John Taylor. John is a senior English major from Philadelphia, is a member of the ECHO staff, a member of the YM cabinet and has been active in campus affairs since coming to Maryville in September 1942. Thelma is majoring in dramatic art, comes from Staten Island, is a Bainonian and has been a member of the ECHO staff for three semesters. Isabel Muir is a junior mathematics major from Ellwood City, Pennsylvania. Ruth Case is a senior biology major from Maryville, is secretary of the class of '44, and is a member of the YW cabinet.

Election was by a majority vote of the members of the organization at their regular weekly meeting held last Wednesday, February 2nd. At this same meeting Evelyn Gregory read an original manuscript "First Hours Are the Hardest," and Shirley Montgomery read a piece entitled "Dissection." Helen Anderson, senior English major, newly-elected president of the YW, was the critic for the former reading, and Bob Huber was critic for the latter.

Miss Heron will be the reader for the next meeting which will be February 16.

ALPHA SIGMA

Since the army has been using the old Alpha Sigma Hall for a class room tentative plans have been made for a new meeting place for that society. For the present they plan to use the Fine Arts Studio and the "Y" rooms when they are available. The plans at present are for the meeting tonight to be held in the Fine Arts Studio. Lawrence Streshley is in charge of the program. The meeting two weeks ago was held in the philosophy class room where Duane Collins made a report on the progress of the mid-winter play. Requests were made for works on the stage crew. And refreshments were served.

In the last issue of the ECHO the name of Charlie Burgreen, who is the present secretary of the group, was left off the list of the newly elected officers.

NATURE CLUB

Caroll Stegall presented a talk on "African Snakes" at Nature club last Monday, January 31. Caroll drew upon some of his personal experiences with snakes and displayed some sketches of snakes to add interest to his subject.

Club officer for this semester were also chosen. Those elected are: Martha Jean Shaw, president; Mickey Deerman, vice-president and publicity chairman; Jean Messer, secretary-treasurer; and Virginia Brown and Edna Watts, chairmen.

Nature club will have a hike sometime before the next meeting, which is scheduled for February 21. Definite plans concerning the hike will be announced later.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish club constitution was amended to increase the dues from thirty cents a year to thirty cents a semester at the first club meeting of the semester Thursday, January 27. In addition to the business meeting, John Poland, a freshman from Beverly Shores, Indiana, presented the political background of Argentina and Bolivia.

Because of the February Meetings, the club will not meet again until February 24. Group singing has been planned by the program committee for that date. On the committee for this semester are: Carol Reynolds,' chairman, Lois Collett, Gladys David, and Abbott Kemp. The committee expects to include folk dancing at some of the future programs.

Plans are underway, too, for a joint meeting with I.R.C. which will be an open discussion of political conditions in South America today. The tentative date set for this meeting is Monday, February 21.

LAW CLUB

Miriam Wickham spoke on child welfare at the first meeting of law club this year on January 27. She delt particularly with work of the Juvenile Court.

Law club officers for this semester are: Robert Huber, president; Marinell Ross, secretary; Miriam Wickham, sargeant-at-arms and program chairman; and Owen McGarrity, chairman of the Social committee.

The next meeting will be held February 17. Sometime in the near future, Mr. Marvin Minear, assistant in the Treasurer's office, will discuss the "Economics of the Post-war Period."

Law club was reorganized last semester to provide a club for students interested in law or politics. The meetings are open to everyone.

evening scripture. Then, he got up and went to the little church and died as he raised his hand in a blessing. He made that island holy. He gave Scotland an eternal heritage.

Poverty, Purity, Obedience

Six hundred years later another famous Christian was born, St. Francis of Assisi, Italy. Named John by his mother while his father was away, his name was changed to Francis by his father upon his return. With lots of money, and well-liked, young Francis went into the war at 19. Then his life was changed for he learned to know suffering. He was captured and killed. At 24 he was far from a saint. He felt called to go forth and repair the church, as Christ had commanded. "And," said the speaker, "he did just that. He began fixing the church right there, first with his own money, and then with his father's." His father promptly had him arrested for misappropriation. Francis asked for his trial before the bishop, and, right there, he took the money and his beautiful garments and threw them at the feet of his father. "Poverty became his wife, the Church his mother, God his new father, and all men his brothers." All his life he had dreamed of coming back to Assisi a prince, wealthy and powerful. Instead, the story continues, he came "as a poor man with his arm around a leper. He took to the Road. And all he asked of his followers was Poverty, Purity, and Obedience." This great Christian died at 44, while someone read the 142nd Psalm to him. As Chesterton said: "He had learned to love God and his love for God had enabled him to love men." Dr. Anderson closed with the thought, "here was another man who heard Jesus say, 'Trust me, I am the Way'."

"Follow Me"

Friday morning, February 4, the regular morning service was held in the chapel, with Dr. Anderson bringing his message on "Faith as a Belief". The scripture was taken from the eighth chapter of John's Gospel. The text for the morning was "Believe me, I am the Way and the Truth." Human nature is not a sham; Jesus gave us a real model. "In Jesus Christ we see ourselves as God would have us to be." It is heresy to say that Jesus is not human, for he was born of a woman, committed to the cradle, lived as a boy, and worked as a carpenter. Secondly, Jesus showed that God is not only mighty, but also a father. For Jesus, through his life and deeds laid God bare to us for our better understanding, and to help us to believe in God as the Father. Last of all, Jesus showed us ourselves in Himself, and showed us the Father in Himself. "He brought the human and divine together in one new self." Jesus said "Come" and they came.

Four Johns

Friday evening, at 7 o'clock, Dr. Anderson again brought us to worship with the subject, "The Four Johns". In the first chapter of John, the text was taken, "There was a man sent out from God whose name was John." The four Johns whom Dr. Anderson spoke about were not disciples or famed New Testament characters, but four outstanding men from the history of the growth of Christianity. The first, John Chrysostom, lived in the fourth century. A brilliant lawyer, John Chrysostom turned to Christ at 21 to teach in the church. The two centers he electrified with his teachings, Antioch and Constantinople, drove him out once for his ideas. He started an evening service, and instituted honest finances among other improvements. After being recalled he was again dismissed from his church and martyred. He gave his life for what he believed; his faith was strong enough. One thousand years later another John, John Calvin, was born and lived in Geneva, Switzerland. "Of late forgotten, he is coming into his own again," said Dr. Anderson. "Born in a century of giant men, John Calvin was outstanding for the doctrines which he formulated. He was pastor of a church, St. Pierres, in Geneva, where he worked for a very small salary. The third was John Knox, a man of the middle class. Born near Edinburgh, Scotland, he was early influenced by Luther. At 43, because of his extensive teachings, he was caught, arrested, bound to a French galley slave ship from which he never recovered. He returned to Scotland at 53 to begin his life work. "Forceful, zealous, effective, fiery, courageous, this man was greatly respected. After he died it was said of him 'Here lieth a man who feared the face of no man'." The fourth was a man of the 18th century, Jonathan Edwards, who was born in a manse in America. At six he read Latin, and when he entered Yale at 13 he was conversant with Latin, Greek, Hebrew. When 25 years of age this brilliant young man was pastor of one of the most influential churches in New England. Tragically enough, at 47 Jonathan was dismissed from his church and, without getting bitter, accepted the call to a small Indian Mission. Then, called to the presidency of Princeton College, this great man died, just two months later from small pox. "Four great men, these Johns, who still light up the minds of lesser peoples, because they all reflect the glory of Jesus—they weren't afraid to live in their beliefs.

VOLUME 29 MARYVILLE, TENN. FEBRUARY 19, 1944 NUMBER 12

McCoy Wins First Place In Inter-American Contest

Bases For Cooperation Among American Republics Is Topic

Bette Lou McCoy and Ben Lynt were awarded first and second places respectively in the discussion contest on Inter-American affairs Tuesday, February 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the philosophy classroom in Thaw Hall. Miriam Wickham and Dorothy Dick placed third and fourth. Three men of the community served as judges: Mr. Clyde B. Emert, editor of the MARYVILLE TIMES, Judge Pat Quinn, and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter.

Both first and second place winners are now required to submit a manuscript on the subject to Washington, D. C. by March 4. The manuscripts will decide whether they will go on to the regional speaking contest at Nashville.

The Bases for Permanent Cooperation Among the American Republics was the topic for discussion. The contest is sponsored nationally by the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs and the American Council on Education, and it was promoted locally by Pi Kappa Delta, the national honorary debate fraternity, and International Relations Club. The purpose of the contest is to promote better relations between this nation and the other nations in the Western Hemisphere by arousing more interest on the part of this country.

Nine students representing the debate class and I. R. C. participated. Each was required to deliver a five-minute formal speech.

Bette Lou, first place winner, is a junior Bible and religious education major from Dayton, Ohio. She was a member of the freshman debate team, is a junior associate editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO, and secretary of International Relations Club. She is also a member of Bainonian, of the YW cabinet—being a representative in the Y store—, and has been elected to membership in Writers' Workshop.

Ben Lynt, who placed second, is a senior English major from Washington, D. C. Ben has been a member of the debate team all through his college career, being now secretary of Pi Kappa Delta. He has participated in Experimental Theater productions, played in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and had the leads in "Kind Lady" and "Dark Victory". He is president of the Tennessee Alpha chapter of the national honorary dramatic society, Theta Alpha Phi. During his first two years of college he was a cheer leader. He has been a member of the ECHO staff for four years, serving now as staff and copy editor. Also, he is a member of the YM Cabinet and a senior representative on the Student Council.

Miriam Wickham, third winner, is a sophomore psychology major from Spokane, Washington. She is treasurer of International Relations Club, an officer of Law club, and a Bainonian.

Dorothy Dick, who was awarded fourth place, was a member of the freshman debate team, has been on the ECHO staff for two years, and is a member of Bainonian. She has recently been elected as a sophomore representative to the Student Council. Her major is home economics.

Others speaking in the contest were: Robert F. Huber, a history major from Passaic, New Jersey; Marinall Ross, a political science major from Maryville; Byron Sprague, a sociology major from Cincinnati; Carroll Stegall, a French major from Labondai, Africa; and Lawrence Sthreshley, a history major from Hopewell, Virginia.

Professor J. H. Kiger first presented a short background outline showing the rise of situations which have led to the present conditions between North and South America. After the contest there was a round table discussion in which the audience participated.

YM Sends Three To Conference

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet met Thursday evening, February 17, ot choose three members of the association to attend the Student Christian Conference in Nashville. Those chosen were: Owen McGarity, a sophomore political science major from Croydon, Pennsylvania; Don Barker, a senior philosophy major of Maryville, and Joe Brown, a junior history major of Blairs Mills, Pennsylvanit. They are to leave February 25, and will be there until February 27. The conference is a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and Student Volunteer groups from all over the state. It is to be held at the Vanderbilt University of Nashville, Tennessee.

The speaker for the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, February 20, will be Helen Anderson. Her topic has not as yet been disclosed.

President Emeritus Celebrates 86TH Birthday on Feb. 17

Thursday was the 86th birthday of Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, President Emeritus of Maryville College.

Dr. Wilson was born on February 17, 1858, in Homs, Syria, where his parents were missionaries. The family returned to the United States when he was but a boy and in 1873 he entered Maryville College as a student. Graduating in 1878, he went to a theological seminary and in 1882 to the mission field in Mexico. A breakdown in health in 1884 sent him back to the United States. After regaining his health he became Professor of English Literature and the Spanish Language in Maryville College.

His active service at the college extended over 46 years, 17 as a professor and 29 years as the president. He became president emerspent in Syria, the land of his itus in 1930 and after one year birth, with his daughter Lois, who is a missionary there, he returned to Maryville and has made his home on Indiana Avenue with his daughter, Mrs. Clyde T. Murray, and her family.

Dr. Brigg Receives Invitations From Debating Teams

Lincoln Memorial Carson-Newman Request Debates

The debate class met Thursday night, February 17, at 8 p.m. in Thaw hall to resume work on the Pi Kappa Delta question, "Resolved: That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon defeat of the Axis." The question was put aside for several weeks in order that members of the class wishing to enter the I. R. C. contest would be able to do so. Dr. David Briggs, professor of psychology and education, coach of debate this year, has received invitations from Lincoln Memorial University at Harragut, Tennessee, and Carson-Newman College at Johnson City, Tennessee, asking us to debate their teams both here and there. A letter has been sent challenging Lincoln Memorial and if accepted the rounds will be held there March 30-31 and here during the first week in April.

Despite the limitations imposed by war conditions, debate has not been dropped entirely, and those signed up for and interested in debate meet each week with Dr. Briggs to discuss various phases of the question. For the past several weeks a number of the faculty had joined in the discussions on Inter-American affairs. Teams have not yet been chosen, but those participating are Dorothy Dick, Robert Huber, Dorothy Lehman, Benjamin Lynt, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Byron Sprague, Lawrence Sthreshley, and Miriam Wickham.

Dr. Lavender Is Vespers Speaker

On Sunday evening, Rev. Dr. B. B. Lavender, president of the Washington schools, Washington College, Tennessee, will be the speaker at Vespers. Dr. Lavender war formerly pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church of Knoxville. His daughter Lottie is a member of the class of 1947.

YWCA to Hear Dorothy Barber

Miss Dorothy Barber, Maryville, will discuss "How the Rising Tide of Hatred Can Be Checked" at YW tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in the Y rooms. Her talk marks the beginning of World Brotherhood Week, which will be observed from February 20-27.

While Dorothy was a student here, she served as chairman of the YWCA program committee one semester. Mary Ruth Barber, a member of the present freshman

Rev. James R. Smith To Be Installed Graystone Pastor

Rev. James R. Smith, Public Relations and Alumni Secretary at Maryville College for the past three years, will be officially installed pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church at Knoxville on Sunday evening, February 27.

The Presbytery of Union will conduct the installation. Rev. Dr. Ralph T. Case, Moderator of the Presbytery, and Dr. W. G. Crothers, Chairman of the Committee on Ministerial Relations, will preside and perform the constitutional questions. President Ralph W. Lloyd of Maryville College will preach the sermon. President J. McDowell Richards of Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, will give the charge to the pastor. President B. B. Lavender of the Washington Schools, Washington College, Tennessee, who preceded Mr. Smith as pastor at Graystone, will give the charge to the congregation. Mr. Smith graduated from Maryville College and Columbia Seminary, whose presidents are participating in the service.

Mr. Smith has been filling the Graystone pulpit each Sunday since September and moved his family to the manse in Knoxville in January. But he is continuing his work at the college until the end of February. After that he will give full time to the church. but will continue to supervise the alumni and perform some other duties at the college although he will be able ot be here only occasionally.

Each Student Urged To Buy Stamps Weekly

The war stamp drive under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club has been emphasizing th esale of defense stamps and bonds these past few weeks. Peggy Case, a junior biology major and transfer this year from Montreal Junior College in North Carolina, is head of the drive.

This weekly drive has resulted in class competition with the seniors coming out on top the week of February 4 and the sophomores claiming first place last week, February 11.

To place these percentages before the student body, thermometer postres have been placed in Thaw lobby. Results are also announced in chapel.

The advertising has been in charge of June Gowanlock, sophomore art major from Manatee, Florida, who has directed the making of the various posters placed around the campus. She made the thermometers, too.

Miriam Wickham, sophomore major in psychology, handles the financial part of the drive, acting as treasurer of the funds. Freda Fuller, Hannah Duke, Mary Evelyn Jamison, and Ruth Broadhead are sales chairmen for their respective classes.

Ben Lynt, senior English major from Washington, D. C., is in charge of a defense rally in the form of a Saturday evening entertainment sometime in the near future. Details will be announced later.

Each student is urged to buy at least one stamp every week. The amounts shown on the thermometers are percentage of class participation. Thus the aim is to get total cooperation with every member of the student body purchasing stamps. No one need feel obligated to buy a great amount of stamps; one ten-cent stamp bought each week by every person will work toward fulfilling that aim.

Results for the sales of Friday, February 18, were as follows: The Sophomore class headed the list with a total of $19.60, the freshmen came next with $14.35, juniors with $13.40, and the seniors last with $4.95. Sales total was $52.30 which is less than last week's total of $122.63. So far this semester the sales have totaled $281.15.

First Play About Present War To Be Given in Chapel

Saturday, February 26, at 8:00 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel, Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies will present "Letters To Lucerne", a three-act play written by Fritz Rotter and Allan Vincent. Although everything owned by the dramatic art department was burned several months ago the production staff is enthusiastic and is assured that the audience will not be disappointed by the stage settings.

The scene of the play is a girl's school at Lucerne, Switzerland, and the time is at the beginning of the present World War when the girls, at least some of them, have returned to school. It is late summer and the war has broken out. This finishing school is composed of girls of many countries. Complications arise naturally as would be expected when six girl friends from warring nations come together at this school. The love element is not overlooked. In fact the situation is especially exciting because the lovers represent two enemy countries, Germany and Poland.

The cast consists of several members who have appeared on the stage before and others who have never been presented on the stage here.

Ellen Pascoe, a junior sociology major from Perkasie, Pennsylvania, plays the role of Olga Kirinski, a Polish girl. Ellen has been on the business and production staff of previous performances and played on the stage her freshman year. She is a member of the choir, the Chilhowean business staff, and is quite interested in dramatics.

Dorothy Harned, of Maryville, plays Erna Schmidt, a German girl, in the play. She is a senior dramatic arts major, having appeared in several other college productions. She played a major role in last year's performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace". Dorothy is a member of Theta Alpha Phi.

The leading man is played by Duane Collins. He plays the part of Hans Schmidt, Erna's brother. Duane is a senior ministerial student from Waymart, Pennsylvania.

The supporting cast consists of: Lisette Gessert as Gretchen Linder, assistant to the head of the school; Carroll Stegall as Gustave, the French butler; Ethel Parks, a German cook; Olinde Ahrens, the matron of the school; Ruth Lloyd as Bingo Hill, an American girl; Margaret Gessert, a French girl called Felice Renoir; Marion Schanck substituting for Jane Hays as an English girl, Marian Kerrwood; Bill Cover who plays two parts, Francois the postman and Coppler of the police force; and Mary Dawn Noblet as Sally Jackson, a girl from the southern United States.

Mrs. Nita Eckles West is director of the play and is assisted by Jeanne Carmichael. Other members of the production staff are: Phylis Irshay, costumes; Billye Ruth Braly assisting Jean Carmichael with properties: Bob Seel and Owen McGarity, electricians; Ben Lynt, business manager; Leonard Schieber and Joe Henry, advertising managers; Leroy Dellinger, stage manager assisted by Charlie Burgreen, Rebecca Davis, Peggy Fisher, Thelma Richardson, Bette Lou McCoy and Cynthia Johnson.

Plans Made For T. T. Alexander Oratorical Contest

The annual T. T. Alexander contest has been announced. The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund, which has been established by a friend of the college, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty. Last year the contest was open to women students of Maryville, and this year, according to the plan of alternation, is open for men.

The orations are to be presented in manuscript form, three typewritten copies of each, to the judges, by March 8. The preliminary contest will be held March 21. The two contestants who rank highest will appear at a Wednesday morning chapel for the final decision. It is believed that this final contest will be held sometime in April, although no date has been set as yet.

The subjects chosen for the contest are the following: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith.

Student Council

Monday night, February 14, the Student Council held its regular meeting in the philosophy classroom. Betty Jane Miller, president, was in charge of the meeting. One of the items of business brought before the group was knitting in chapel. The council agreed that this practice is undesirable and decided to take necessary steps to do away with it. The other main topic of discussion was about disturbances and unfavorable conditions in general, in the dormitories.

Pino to Speak At Student Vols

Edelmira Pino will talk about Cuba, her native land, at Student Vols tomorrow evening in the YW rooms. Sara Cameron will play special music on the piano.

Last Sunday Mrs. G. W. Davies described the work of the Presbyterian church among the Spanish-speaking people of northern New Mexico. As special music Aldyn Graham was asked to pick her favorite hymn for the group to sing. She picked "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me."

The next ECHO will be published March 4.

OFF TO THE PRESS WITH THE ECHO STAFF

BY THELMA RICHARDSON

They call me the sprite. I emerged in an old newspaper office in lower Manhattan, but my philosophy took me to the open road. One night last September I floated in on a rain drop and landed in the brown sea behind Baldwin, and I've been living here ever since. I don't know, there is something about the place that gets you, who can tell, may be it's the food. Anyway I sated. Being of a literary frame of mind, as I intimated before, I've made my abode in the newspaper office. Drop in any time—mine is the bottom cabinet drawer.

Well, to get on with my story, about last Saturday I was beginning to get a little bored. The paper only coming out once a week naturally quiets things down a bit, and things were going along pretty smoothly. February meetings were over, and to tell you the truth I kinda wanted to get out and see a good sized city again. I remembered that some of the staff were going to that big town about 15 miles from here. So I said to myself, "Prof. That's my own affectinate term for myself. Why don't you go along and help the folks to have a god time, and besides the change will do you good."

I'll cease all this verbal chatter and take you to the lobby of a prominent cafeteria in this town where we had a banquet room reserved. There on a sign as big as me, maybe a little bigger, were the words "Highland Echo Club—room 6". Gee, you know it kinda made me feel proud. Everybody else was worryin though, because the editor hadn't shown up. You can't do anything until the editor gets here. One of our reporters had just gotten back from dashing down Gay Street after two sailors, and I was sitting in John Taylor's pocket. I had found it real comfortable because there was a box for me to prop my back up against. It was a nice little box, the kind you put engagement rings in, bpt John never said anything and who am I to ask questions.

Our editor arrived and so we got on line for the first main theme—food. In true journalistic tradition everybody kept clever repartee going like: "Boy, I'm hungry."

B. R. "Me, too."

R. C. "Boy, if those kids in the dining hall could see me now."

H. W. "Yes, (giggle if those kids in the dining hall could see us now."

After everybody had consumed quantities of fruit salad, roast beef, vegetables, chicken, strawberry short-cake, tea, teapots, and pumpkin pie, Managing Editor Huber arose, harumhed, and announced after a short biography, each person would have to make a speech.

PERSONAL!

With Mr. Eddy's remarks on winning the war, winning the peace and building a better world yet ringing in our ears, we found ourselves entering the period of February Meetings where particular emphasis was given to the fundamentals of Christian theology and practise.

To many, these Meetings afforded opportunity reaffirmation and reconsecration and restabilization; to others, the Meetings meant little more than a period of less homework and fewer classes. A great many of the cards passed out at the very impressive closing service found their way to the trash basket—more's the pity, for to win a war, win a peace and build a better world requires the careful attention of hard-working citizens of real convictions, not shirkers.

Apparently the real significance of the opportunity of attending a liberal arts college which has as one of its major policies a positive Christian emphasis has escaped the recognition of a few students here. If it has not occurred to you that you will be better equipped for life by having been exposed to a program including religious experience and growth, it is time to reconsider.

The reformation of a world sadly in need of it, calls first for a personal reformation on the part of those who would participate in such a program; being a good neighbor means being one right now wherever you are.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

DEAR GEORGE:

This is just a short note to let you know that we still remember you on your two hundred and twelfth birthday anniversary. We still remember you as the father of this country, as one of the leaders who formed this constitutional form of government, and as one of the greatest supporters of democracy.

But when we consider these facts we hide our faces in shame for the things we have done, and we try to reconcile our consciences by saying that times are different now and there must be different ideas. Yes, times have changed but the basic ideas behind democracy and our constitutional form of government have not changed no matter how much we try to kid ourselves about the fact.

If you could but see the condition of this nation today you would probably turn over in your grave, but then you are no doubt very battered and bruised after these last twelve long years.

THE FORGOTTEN FREEDOM

No doubt you saw the cartoon on "The Forgotten Freedom" in last Wednesday's Knoxville Journal. It pictured how one of the very bases of democracy was being killed by a form of twentieth century philosophy.

The cartoon pictured a drowning man holding aloft the flag of the forgotten freedom, private enterprise, while being attacked by the sharks of socialized medicine, finance, socialized industry, socialized food production, and socialized everything. In the meantime the boat of the four freedoms was passing by with FDR at the helm. The death cries of the drowning freedom went unheard as the helmsman purposely steered in the opposite direction. The forgotten freedom was surely forgotten; was surely doomed to a watery grave.

THE RIGHT DIRECTION

George, our nation needs you in this hour of crisis. We need your counsel, your courage, your soundness of mind, and your undying faith. We need you to help up combat these socialistic sharks who are trying to drown democracy. We need a man of your character, of your foresight to steer the boat in the right direction.

But you had faith in democracy and the constitution, and we too must have faith. If we have the faith we will have the courage, and if we have these, then democracy will not be overpowered by the sharks of socialism.

As we remember and honor you, George Washington, we will resolve ourselves to a course of action that will protect, preserve and perpetuate constitutional democracy. We will resolve that the dead of this war shall not have died in vain but that their buddies will return to a nation of a replenished and expanding democracy.

Yes George, your faith will be our faith; your courage will be our courage; your democracy will be our democracy.

HERE AND ABOUT

At a recent meeting of the student council the matter of noise in the dormitories was discussed at length. It was pointed out there that the soldiers must retire one hour earlier than the college students, and that any unnecessary noise would disturb them. It seems disgraceful to say that any college student would willfully disturb them by creating roudy disturbances far after the legal limit of their own retirement, but such is the case.

I have known several students who have not gone to bed before midnight one time this year. This creates not only a problem for the men of the army but also for the students of the college who find that they do need their eight hours of sleep.

We are supposed to have faith in the ability of the individual to take care of himself, and to have faith in his desire to respect the rights of others. Consideration is one of the fundamentals of Christianity, yet how many of us observe that?

A solution to the problem must come from within the individuals themselves—it cannot be imposed by outside authority. Look at yourself and ask yourself these questions: Am I disturbing the rest of someone else; am I being considerate of others; am I doing right; are my actions those of a Christian?

WEAK ENDS

By BILLYE RUTH BRALY

Having Merry-Go-Rounded ourselves to a delicately obnoxious odor, we were then ready for the ensuing (but unexpected) fall immediately following said pride. It (the fall) was down the fifty-eleven steps outside Thaw—into the mud—but literally. And weather taking such a prominent part in the after-dinner activities Thursday P.M., we gladly helped fish JEAN SMITH from the lily pond. The moral is, Jean, don't take COOKIE'S advice next time she suggests a wading spree.

And to prove this isn't a chicken school, JEAN BLANCHARD and MARTHA PLEMMONS took their two baby poultry back to the grocer. Seems they weren't very appropriate in Memorial.

Even if HAROLD KIDDER is the TYPE to keep everyone awake at night, we'd rather drink chocolate milk . . . or read the painless Pindaric poetry partly plagarized and penned particularly playfully by popular SLIM (If-it's-food-I-like-it) McGARITY. Reasons being what they are, we hasten to produce said poetry—with critic JOE BROWN'S permission. The great occasion happened to be the Chatterbox's li'l Valentine contest. If there's anyone else who hasn't heard, here goes:

Octagon soap
Boy, I'm a dope
You'll be my Valentine
Won't you I hope.

(Punctuation marks are rationed.) The close second winner, BARD STEGALL, could not be reached for quotations, and all known copies of the original have been destroyed. Maybe it's better that way.

My ECHO, my shadow, and me—all of us finding it more profitable not to hold grudges, and this being the only occasion, let us now take life's little opportunity not to make any cracks about MALCOLM THOMPSON. It isn't a change of heart or mind—just couldn't think of any to compete with his Athenian ones.

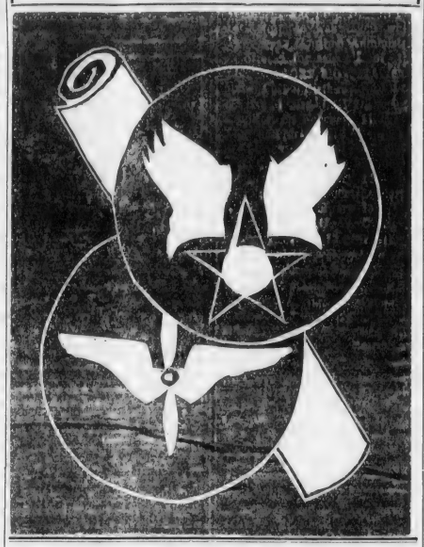
Nearly stumbled over MARY JEAN'S purple sweater again when PROF. (I-still-teach-chemistry) GRIFFITTS emerged all week in the kind of neckware what isn't a bow-tie. What's up, Doc?

Some celebrated Cupid's birthday this way—most of us didn't: all the Army waitresses wore red sweaters—now who's morale are we building up; ALDYN, SHIRLEY and TEDDIE—and now BABS—are engaged in displaying new shiners!!!

Subtract from the timid soul list and award them the lavender heart for bravery beyond the call of duty. Seems EVELYN BRITTAIN, accompanied by adjacent EDNA MAE WATTS and nearby MADELINE COOKE were less scared of the dark than of being frozen when the Baldwin basement door was left open. They closed it. The laundry must go through . . . 'er something.

If YOU think we forgot to mention beards this week—hold tight! Step right up, ladeez and gen-t'l'm'n—a huge group of bearded ladies (several anyway). MIKE FARROW wearing a black beard, MARION SCHANCK in a blondish chin gear, MER'M McGAHA orange complexioned besides the beard, and the other two looked like LOIS WALL and MARGARET GESSERT. After dis-mystering the whole situation with glue remover, it adds up that the play-production class is still holding forth. Simpler than the object of my affection changing my complexion, no?

Former ECHOER, debater and IRCommentator PHYLLIS ANNE CAIN turbaned over the campus this week with a new GI coiffure. She came over and watched us struggle past the deadline.



Nice work if you can get it envelope: HAROLD HUFFMAN having his left shoe shined by a blonde; watching JEAN ELLIS uncurl her toes; uncollapsing Old Faithful (the umbrella to you) on sight of Baldwin water babies DOLLY REED, GIGS EGIGHIAN, ANN ANDERSON or KAY FRANKLIN.

For lessons in leading little dogs out of chapel, don't call on MARCIA KIERN. The pup came back.

This week's scoop: Did you hear about the suggestion to take down all the fire escapes? Well, it's leap year, ain't it?

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

SHOE, SHOE BABIES

BY HANNAH DUKE

No No. 18 stamp left? You're practically barefooted? Well, that's just a bad predicament because when you take a good look around this campus there are shoes to be found of every description. In fact, the large variety is so astounding you'd almost wonder if there was a war on. In case you're not up on the latest in shoes, here's your chance to take out five minutes to be "footucated".

We'll begin with coed fashions since they seem practically innumerable. No introduction is necessary for the classic saddle oxfords. Their only essential to be stylish is a heavy coat of use to make them a good dingy gray. Loafers are almost as common. You know just moccasins with heels. And that brings up moccasins. Those are those creepy Indian shoes that run over on both sides and make you slink around like a prancing horse that's lost its shoes. The girls that are short on stamps have tried everything from old-fashioned lacing gillies to "ropeez" that shed their soles about the first time they are worn. But as if rope wasn't ridiculous enough the next style was wooden "Dutchies". There wasn't but one thing wrong with them that caused a little inconvenience—they wouldn't bend when you walked so you had to glide along slew-footed. Thank goodness spring is almost here because those economical barefoot sandals (no socks needed) will be back. For a little extra attention Mexican hauraches will get it—guaranteed squeaks in every step.

Sophistication Preferred

Sunday really is the day for women here and quite a change from no heel to a three inch spike heel. It's practically like learning to walk again. The latest are "Vamps"—the little numbers with crossed straps around the heel and buckled or tied at the ankle. Spectators, two-tone pumps, are out for the duration unless stampless plastics take their place. Wedgies, you remember—all heels and no shoes like Chinese bound feet, weren't so popular in spikes. They proved to be too much excess weight to carry around. Sophistication personified is the most popular in dress shoes for the ladies. And the best example is heelless, toeless and one huge pompom on each.

Well, so much for women's shoes. They're too conspicuous to overlook anyway. Not being a very close observer it's a little difficult to describe young men's shoes. Strangely enough, the practically unanimous style for this season continues to be "G.I.'s". You doubtless recognize them without a description—those little boxcars that lace half way to the knees, carry around all excess tonnage and go remarkably well with olive drab. And what's more the coeds go for them. And how!

So until a new "model" comes out you're up to date in your knowledge of popular footgear.

OFF TO THE PRESS

About three of the biographies in my brain, and I'll pass them on to you. I won't tell you who they are because when some of those reporters get mad they don't act very cordial—like, see. You can lok in the mast head and any high type moron can guess.

1. Wolf in wolf's clothing.
2. Whale of a reporter—Moby
3. Ex-believer in the theory that men prefer blondes.
4. Backbone of the ECHO who has more cents than onyone.
5. First one to blurt out the answer to Dr. Anderson.
6. Stinker for wearing a hat. I'll have to give you a hint. Her first name is William.

I almost got home sock when we got to the KNOXVILLE NEWS-SENTINEL plant. Big presses rolling off 39,000 papers an hour, the smell of ink, coke bottles all over the place. Ah, it was heaven!

I almost stayed, but as I said before, I've grown attached to this place. . . .

Recognition Given To CTD Students

Thursday morning at 8:00 in the chapel a recognition service was held for Group 10 of the 42nd College Training Detachment. The detachment band played while the cadets entered. Then the band played the National Anthem, after which the invocation was given by Rev. Dr. Ralph Case, associate professor of sociology and college chaplain for the 42nd Detachment.

Captain Donald B. Ladd, commanding officer, spoke a few explanatory words concerning the certificates to be given the graduating group. He stated that the certificates would show that the men had gone through the 42nd training detachment at Maryville College in case they would decide to return to Maryville College or any other college or university after the war.

The retiring Student Group Commander spoke a word of thanks and appreciation to the college faculty, student body, and to the other members of the detachment. He was followed by the new Student Group Commander who wished the men success and good luck.

The college choir sang the anthem "Land of Hope and Glory." Then Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd spoke to the group. He stated that out of the fifty-nine men leaving not one was a native of Tennessee. They represented twenty-four different states, ten southern states and forty-nine from above the Mason-Dixon Line. Illinois had the greatest number with New York and Pennsylvania following.

Dr. Lloyd and Dean Edwin R. Hunter presented the certificates to the men as they crossed the stage.

This was followed by the reading of the scripture and the prayer by the chaplain. The entire audience then sang "America the Beautiful," followed by the exit of the 42nd Detachment.

Mr. Robt. L. Smith Visits Campus Last Week-end

Mr. Robert L. Smith, former associate professor of Spanish, visited the campus last week-end. He was returning from Chattanooga, where he has taken the first steps toward enlistment in the Navy.

For the past two years Mr. Smith has been a censor for the Army in Panama. "Where I was living in Panama," said Mr. Smith, "the sun rose in the Pacific and set in the Atlantic." This phenomenon is caused by the angle of the isthmus. Each morning Mr. Smith commuted from his home on the Pacific to his office on the Atlantic in about 45 minutes.

Unfortunately his health broke down in the tropics, and so he has come back to the states. He expected to teach flying to Army cadets in Danville, Kentucky. Just the week he landed, the Army released all its civilian instructors. Therefore Mr. Smith has decided to enter the Navy.

Mr. Smith made quite a scholastic and athletic record for himself at Centre College in Danville, his home town. He was an "A" student all through college. Although he is not a large man, he went out for athletics and was on the substitute squad of the Centre football team which defeated Harvard back in 1923. After graduating from college he lived in Europe for a year or two, studying Spanish and French. He did some graduate work in Spanish at the University of Wisconsin in 1932.

Before coming here in 1929 he had taught at a military prep school in Virginia. He taught at Maryville for 12 years, doing instruction in French as well as Spanish. He remained here until 1941 at the time of the outbreak of the war.

Because he wanted to be an Army pilot, Mr. Smith took up flying at that time. After learning to fly, he discovered that his eyesight prevented him from meeting the Army requirements. Denied the opportunity to serve as pilot, he went to Panama as a civilian censor for the army.

INTRAMURALS

By Tommy Parkinson

Team No. 1 outscored team No. 3 to the tune of 34 to 14 in the first of the intramural basketball games on Tuesday night, February 8. In the other two games that have been played in the intramural schedule team No. 1 beat team No. 2 32-11 Thursday afternoon, February 10; and team No. 3 defeated team No. 2 also on Tuesday afternoon, February 15 by a score of 35 to 17. From these three games the standings show team 1, with Abbott Kemp as captain, to be number one in the standings. Team 3, Tommy Parkinson, captain, second; and team 2, captained by Bill Buford, standing third. The competition of the games so far has not been as close as was expected to result from hand-picking the players who were to play on the different teams, but as the different combines get organized better, it is hoped that some of the contests yet to be played will develop into real thrillers.

The following is a list of the line-ups for the first three games:

Basketball Team Formed By Ten College Students

Although many of the present student body do not know it, Maryville College now has a basketball team, but of course it isn't quite official. This team has been in existence but a short time and as yet has no regular practice schedule of any kind. However these fellows have gotten together and have played three games so far and have one planned for tonight.

With this much of an introduction we'll look at their games so far this season. The team, which consists of Bill Buford, Bill Cover, Roy Dillener, Wally Easter, Abbott Kemp, Rush Lester, Paul Moehlman, Tommy Parkinson, Johnny Poland, and John Turner, has played three games so far. Two of them with Quintile-10 and one with the Maryville Sharks.

In their first game the Maryville boys played the 10th Quintile of the army detachment stationed here. The Army boys won 34-32. Diller was high point man for the Army with five field goals and a free throw. Tommy Parkinson was high point man for the college, putting in six shots from the floor and one from the free throw line.

The Maryville Sharks, an independent team, next came up to visit the unofficial Scotties. They defeated the Scotties in a clean, hard-fought game 53-43. This time Parkinson shared the scoring honors with Buford, both men making six goals apiece and no free shots. Huskey, the tall Shark center, scored thirty points over the heads of his dwarfed opponents. Coach Honaker took over the "ref" job for the game.

Quintile 10 in a repeat game with the Maryville team again defeated them with the startling score of 92-39. Twenty-eight points were scored by Cadet Hughes and twenty four by Gleason. Buford scored eight field goals to gain the scoring laurels for the college team.

Basketball Game Tonight in Gym

A basketball game will again be played between members of the Maryville college team and those of the new group of aviation students of the college at seven-thirty in the alumni gym. This was announced by Betty Burton, chairman of the social committee.

Saturday, February 26, is the production of the Theta Epsilon Alpha Sigma play, LETTERS TO LUCERNE. Plans for future Saturday evening entertainments are as yet indefinite.

Student Recitals

The second of the bi-weekly student recitals was held at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 15, in Voorhees Chapel. The program was as follows:

"Hunting Song" ..... Wagners
Wallace Cornet

"Minuet" ..... Paderewski
Virginia Hand

"Invention in E Minor" ..... Bach
Peggy Cummings

"Poeme" ..... Fibich
Virginia Brown

"The Spirit Flower" ..... Tipton
Marcia Keirn

"Grillen" ..... Schumann
Jean White Thomas

"Mary Had a Little Lamb" (in the style of Beethoven, Mozart, and Schubert) ..... Ballentine
Ruth Cathcart

"Valse op. 69 No., 1" ..... Chopin
Sara Cameron

All students studying music in individual lessons whether or not for credit, are required to attend student recitals. One cut a semester is allowed.

Dr. Showalter Is Chapel Speaker

This Wednesday Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Showalter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Chicago Heights, Illinois, will be the speaker.

Dr. Showalter is spending the month of February in middle Tennessee under appointment of the Presbyterian Wartime Service Commission. He is chaplain at large for troops on maneuvers in middle Tennessee.

One purpose of his coming to Maryville is to see his daughter Betty Anne who is a member of the class of 1947.

THETA

Theta Epsilon will meet tonight in Theta hall, with Shirley Feeney, a freshman home-economics major from New Jersey, in charge of the program. A one-act play, "Elvira and Hortense", starring Sue Whitaker, as Elvira, and Jean Messer, as Hortense will be presented. The play is to be a "throw-off" on Southern mountaineers, and is written in Tennessee Mountain dialect.

There is to be a business meeting before the play to elect a new president, since Pat Howorth, recently elected president, has resigned. On the nominating committee are Lois Yohe, chairman, and Shirley Feeney and Leslie Ford.

All Theta girls are urged to be present at the meeting tonight.

Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson

BY OLINDE AHRENS

What is Maryville College? The answer should really be a character sketch, for it is people—their spirit and vision—that have made Maryville what it is—a college which we are proud to call ours.

We might partially discover the answer in Dr. William Patton Stevenson, who came to Maryville in 1917 as college pastor and who still lives in the House in the Woods. Why did he come and what did he contribute to the college? His is just one of many stories of life investment in Maryville College.

To commemorate the centennial of Maryville College, in 1919, Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, president, had written a book entitled A CENTURY OF MARYVILLE COLLEGE, with the thought of using it in the campaign endowment and building funds—the Centennial Forward Fund. Among others, Dr. Wilson called upon Dr. W. P. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Yonkers, New York. Dr. Stevenson, knowing nothing of Maryville College, accepted a copy of Dr. Wilson's book with thanks and laid it on his study table at the manse, where it stayed for a good while. One blustery day, when he was unable to be out, he picked up the book and began to read. As he read, he became tremendously interested in the story of the pioneer days of Tennessee and especially in the evidence of devotion and sacrifice which the story of the college seemed to represent, and finally in the institution which had grown to such proportions of service. He talked to Dr. Wilson soon afterward about the needs of the college and asked if they had a college pastor. Dr. Wilson said that though the need was felt they had never been able to afford such a service to the students. Dr. Stevenson asked whether they would be interested in his coming as college pastor without salary. After an earnest discussion of the possibilities, it was arranged. Dr. Stevenson resigned from the strong church he had been serving for 15 years in Yonkers, and in June, 1917, he and Mrs. Stevenson came to Maryville. Not only did he serve without salary but built the House in the Woods and gave it to the college as the home of the college pastor. He also set up a salary endowment of $20,000. This was done partly through his own means and partly through the means of friends of his.

Started Vespers

For more than twenty years he preached regularly in the chapel twice a week—at Wednesday chapel and Sunday vespers, influencing the lives of the students and faculty privileged to hear him. It was he who started the vesper services on the hill. He and Mrs. Stevenson made the House in the Woods a center of friendliness and culture, open to the students, and they added a great deal to the atmosphere of refinement of the college. His pastoral contact with students and faculty was helpful and inspiring.

He remained as a preacher at the college almost ten years after he had announced that he would like to retire, because the President and directors urged him to do so since his health and capacities were as vigorous as ever. He retained his youthfulness in body as well as spirit, and, when almost eighty years old, drove alone on a 10,000 mile auto trip to the Northwest and Canada.

What did he do for the college? The answer cannot be written in black and white, but we find evidences of it in the spirit of Maryville College as we know it and love it today, and in the lives of thousands of men and women who were students between 1917 and 1940, the years of Dr. Stevenson's active ministry.

CORNELIA JONES

Cornelia Jones, who graduated in December 1942, has been assigned to the U. S. Naval Hospital at Charleston, South Carolina, as a new American Red Cross staff aid. On completion of Red Cross orientation at American University, Washington, Cornelia will assume her duties at Charleston. She majored in sociology here at Maryville, was on the honor roll during her sophomore and junior years, on the Y. W. cabinet her last two years, and assisted in the sociology department.

Lieutenant Arnold Kramer, Maryville, Tennessee, who attended and graduated from Maryville College in 1940, is stationed in Hawaii near Honolulu. A group of Maryville graduates including Steve Boretsky '34, Leland Waggoner '38, George Webster '41, and Trevor Reese-Jones, who happened to be in port at the same time, met and dined with Arnold there on that Pacific Island.

F. Layton Berquist, who was a member of the present senior class, is a seaman second class, in the United States Navy. He is stationed at Camp Peary, Virginia.

Pvt. Kenneth L. Cooper, who graduated last June, is now with the Medical Detachment Department at Fort Eustis, Virginia. Ken, who is working in the psychotherapy section of the base hospital, says that his experiences would fill a volume already. Ken, a member of the tennis team, vice-president of Athenian his junior year, and on the Y.M.C.A. cabinet his last two years, was the Business Manager of the Highland Echo during 1942 and 1943. He also belonged to Hi Trail his junior and senior years.

CLUB NEWS

COTTON CLUB

At the last meeting of the Cotton Club held Monday night, January 31, plans were discussed for a project to be carried out by the members. Three suggestions were made: that the club help the negro children; that the children of the mountaineers be cared for in a proper manner; and that they help the children of the orphanage. The latter plan was decided best, due to the close association with the orphanage.

Mickey Deerman, Mary Elizabeth McKnight, and Doris Fisher compose the committee to work out the project for the entertainment and welfare of the girls of the orphanage. Charles Burgreen and Rush Lester were appointed to decide ways to help the boys. Suggestions made were to furnish books for the library, make scrapbooks for the younger orphans, and to provide some sort of entertainment on certain afternoons instead of the regular night meetings.

Monday evening, February 21, at 6:40 in Athenian hall, the club plans to go into further discussions concerning the project.

LAW CLUB

Robert Huber, president of the Law club will lead a discussion of the "Bases for Permanent Peace Between the Americas" at the club's next meeting, which will be held next Thursday evening at Huber will give a talk on Constitutional law in respect to the recent decisions handed down by the Supreme Court. On March 25 Mr. Marvin Minear will speak to the group on post war economics. All students are welcome to these meetings which are held in order for students to become better acquainted with current affairs. The club meets every other Thursday evening.

ATHENIAN

President Malcolm Thompson announces that the Athenian program for tonight is going to be a brain buster program under the leadership of the president. He promises that the program will be up to the usual high Athenian standard.

"Crowning of the King and Queen of Hearts" was the program at the joint Bainonian-Athenian meeting held in Voohees chapel last Saturday night. It was a mock ceremony with Athenian furnishing the queen in the person of Luther Cross and Bainonian supplying the king, Margaret Moore. Rush Lester and John Houdeshel were the performing court jesters; they gave forth with a "sweet potato" duet and song. Mary Evelyn Jamison furnished the processional music on the piano. And a quartet, Jack Scott, Owen McGarity, Wally Easter, and Paul Moehlman, rendered a couple of numbers for the royal assembly. The girls' society produced a choir of comb players which performed under the leadership of Ruth Broadhead, and it was later confirmed that the group of scantily-clad male attendants who led the procession onto the stage were Athenians.

GERMAN CLUB

Monday night at 6:40 the German Club met in Athenian hall. In celebration of the day a Valentine party was held. All present were required to draw a name and make a valentine with a poem in it for the person. Each person then read the valentine he received.

The next meeting will be February 28.

PRE-MED CLUB

In place of their cancelled meeting last week, members of the Pre-med club visited the new Doctors' Hospital in Maryville on the evenings of February 16, 17, 18. They went in groups of five with Dr. Susan A. Green, head of the division of science, and Professor George Howell, professor of chemistry. This visit was made possible through the kindness of Mr. George Smith, business manager of the new hospital.

There will be the regular meeting of the organization next week. Further details will be announced in chapel. Polly Edmunds, sophomore chemistry major, is president of the club this semester.

IRC

The International Relations club will hold its weekly meeting Monday night at 7:00 in the "Y" rooms.

The program will consist of a news review and discussion led by John Taylor, senior English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

DISC CLUB

Disc Club met Thursday evening, February 17, at 6:45 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. Estelle Farrow, a senior music major from New Jersey, was the commentator. The program consisted of selections from Brahm's "Violin Concerto in D Major."

A committee meeting is going to be held next week to select programs for the semester. Members of the committee are Ben Lynt, Peggy Fisher, Byron Sprague, Harold Kidder, and Ruth Freeman. Any suggestions or preferences are welcome.

The next meeting of the Disc Club will be on March 7.

Spanish Club

Spanish club members will have an evening of group singing at their next meeting, February 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the "Y" rooms. This will be the first of a series of programs designed for group participation

At the last meeting two new members were elected: Betty Wells, sophomore from Cranbury, New Jersey, and Ginger Clabough, freshman from Chattanooga.

Members are urged to get their dues in to club treasurer, B. J. Meyer, so that Spanish records can be bought.

Alpha Sigma

At their meeting last Saturday evening in the "Y" Rooms the Alpha Sigma society discussed their forthcoming play, "Letters to Lucerne", and other important items of business. After the business meeting all members had egg sandwiches for refreshment. Bill Cover acted as chief cook. Alpha Sigma plans to hold their meeting tonight in the Fine Arts Studio at 6:15.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian will meet this Saturday night in the Y rooms at 6:15. The senoir class members of the society will present a variety program for A-S Nancy McClasky, one of the seniors in charge of the program said, the entertainment, pleasure, and stupefaction of Athenian's sister society. The other senior in charge of the program, Mary Fershee, listed the three headliners of the program: Estelle Farrow, violin virtuoso; Jean Messer, black-face comedienne; and Peggy Case, mysterious mystic.

This is a last in a series of meetings conducted by each of four classes. The class giving the best program is to receive a reward.

Time out was called last Saturday night for a joint Athenian-Bainonian Valentine party. Luke Cross was crowned queen of hearts, and Margaret Moore, king of hearts, and from all that went on their court paid them a rousing tribute.

NATURE CLUB

Monday evening at 6:40 the Nature club will meet in the biology lecture room. Eloise Edmundson, a sophomore mathematics major, from Waxahachie, Texas, will speak on "The Strange Plants of the Great Southwest." Her illustrated talk will deal with the growth, usefulness, and variety of cacti.

This afternoon at 3:00 the Nature Club took a walk to study plant and animal life. Mrs. Bonnie H. Brown, assistant professor of biology, was the leader.

FRENCH CLUB

Thursday evening, February 10, the French Club elected eleven new members to its organization. Those elected were Marcia Keirn, Ruth Lloyd, Jane Craig, Ruth Freeman, Catherine Sisk, Dorothy Toomey, Joe Henry, Harold Henry, Leonard Schieber, Carroll Stegall, and Robert Whitford. The entire meeting was conducted in French. The group played JEU DE FAMILLE, and closed the program by singing Marseille.

Message on "The Program of Jesus" Close Meetings

The last of the series of February meetings was concluded Thursday, February 10, with Dr. Ray Anderson delivering the message. The first week of addresses were based on "Faith and the War". The second week, Dr. Anderson chose as the theme "The Platform and Program of Jesus". Throughout the entire series of services, everyone was impressed again and again with the sincerity of the speaker, his graciousness, his kindliness, and above all his humbleness. He talked to his audience as though he had had many uplifting experiences that he had to share with his hearers. He impressed them with the fact that there was a God even in a time of such stress as this.

Dr. Anderson left Thursday, February 10, to join his wife in Augusta, Georgia, where they spent a brief vacation before returning to Chicago to resume his work as pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of that city. In a letter which Dr. Lloyd received Thursday morning, Dr. Anderson wrote that "I spent Saturday afternoon hunting quail with five fine dogs and had a grand time." He preached in the Reid Memorial Church in August, and left for Chicago Monday morning.

Dr. Sidney Stringham also left Maryville Thursday, February 10, and went directly to his home in St. Louis, Missouri. The February meetings in the minds of many would not have been complete without Dr. Stringham to lead the music, as he has done for the past 22 years.

NOTICE

All parties, picnics, banquets, joint meetings of societies and other organizations, should be scheduled in Mrs. Snyder's office five days before the event. Groups of students invited to homes in Maryville should file a list of those invited and other pertinent information in Mrs. Snyder's office also.

However, all-school events such as basketball games, plays, artist's series, or recitals are scheduled at Dr. E. R. Hunter's office.

Ministerials Will Hear Dean Hunter

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Ministerial association Thursday, February 24, at 6:40 p.m. in Athenian hall.

Plans have been started for the annual Holy Week services which will be held in the "Y" rooms each day at 1:00 p.m. Student speakers will be selected to lead these short devotional services.

A committee is now working on the plans for the annual Ministerial association banquet which will be held this year in the latter part of April.

Writers' Workshop

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, professor of English, and Paul Moehlman, senior English major from Indianapolis, Indiana, will read papers at the meeting of Writers' Workshop Wednesday, February 23, at 4:00. The critics will be Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, and Billye Ruth Braly.

Last week the reader was Miss Jessie Heron, assistant professor of English, who presented a paper entitled "Uncle Sam's Nephews", consisting of letters which she has received from service men.

Seven Maryville Students Represent YM, YW, Student Vols In Tennessee State Student Christian Conference

Nashville Meeting Probes Question Of Race Relations

Seven Maryville students attended the eleventh annual convention of the Tennessee State Student Christian Conference, held at Scarritt College in Nashville, February 25-27. This year, in addition to the annual convention, the meeting was a follow-up of the Wooster Conference of young people representing the YWCA, YMCA, and Student Volunteer organizations. From Maryville College Louise Henry and Agnes Peterson represented the YWCA, Donald Barker, Joe Brown, and Owen McGarity the YMCA, Margaret Messer the Student Volunteers, and Carol Titus, the delegates to the Wooster Conference, also attended. Marvin Minear went with the delegates, who made the trip in the school athletic truck.

Inter-racial Meeting

Twenty-six colleges and seven churches were represented at the conference of 175 delegates. The conference was inter-racial. Those in attendance included Negroes from Fiske and other outstanding Negro colleges and universities, two Chinese students, one from Mexico, and a German refugee.

The theme of the conference was "The World Mission of the Church." In addition to the platform addresses, members of the Maryville group attended discussion seminars on the future of missions, problems in obtaining peace and justice, problems of right and wrong, Student Christian Association's function on the campus, denominations functioning together, reconstruction at home and abroad, and Chrisitanization of vocations.

Delegates to the conference were entertained in private homes of Nashville. On Saturday night a banquet was held at Fiske University.

The Maryville delegates will give reports on the conference to the organizations they represented. They received an extensive bibliography on present day problems—economic, political, and racial issues, and peace plans—and a number of the books listed are to be purchased and put on reserve in the library.

Carol Titus Elected

Carol Titus was elected Eastern Tennessee representative to the conference for next year. Owen McGarity was chosen as reporter for the quarterly published by the Tennessee State Student Christian Conference.

The spirit of the conference was such that the delegates came back with some of these ideas, culled from their reports:

Vesper Speaker Is Rev. Gordon Mahy

Rev. G. Gordon Mahy Jr., a former missionary to China, will speak at the college vesper service, Sunday evening, March 5, in Voorhees Chapel. Mr. Mahy is to preach in the New Providence Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, and will also address the Student Volunteers following Vespers.

Mr. Mahy was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and Princeton Theological Seminary. He taught in the United States for a short period before being sent to China as a missionary under the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

Because of war conditions in China, Mr. Mahy and his family are staying in this country for the duration. While here, he is pastor and teacher of Bible in the Warren Wilson College in Swannanoa, North Carolina. This college is under the supervision of the National Board of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

Manuscripts Due Wed. for Bible Oration Contest

Next Wednesday morning, March 8, the manuscripts of all contestants for the T. T. Alexander prize are to be submitted for the preliminary evaluation of the orations by the committee of the Bible and Religious Education department composed of Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Instructor in Bible and Religious Education, Dr. John A. Gates, Associate Professor of Bible and Religious Education, and Dr. Horace E. Orr, Professor of Religion and Philosophy, and Chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy and Education.

Orations are to be submitted under a pen name for this first reading and evaluation. Only men students of the college are eligible this year. The papers are graded by the committee, and then, on March 21, each contestant presents his oration before these judges for grading according to presentation of material. This grade is added to the grade given on the first reading of the oration, and the two persons receiving the highest total are chosen to speak in Chapel for the final judging. Although the date has not as yet been set for the Chapel contest, it will probably be scheduled for one Wednesday in April. Judges at this part of the contest will be from persons outside of the college. Each of the two contestants taking part in the Chapel program will receive some of the prize from the fund set up by the anonymous donor, probably 60 percent going to the first place, and 40 percent to the second place.

The prize was named after a missionary who was an alumnus of Maryville College. Contestants may write on one of the following subjects: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection and Salvation Through Faith.

Student Recitals

Student recitals were held at 4:30 P.M. in Voorhees Chapel on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 29. The following program was given:

Mr. Marvin Minear To Speak At YM

Mr. Marvin Minear, who was the president of the YMCA for the year 1937-38 on this campus and who is now a member of the college staff, is to be the speaker at the regular YM worship service this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the Fine Arts studio. He has chosen for his topic "What Shall We Take With Us?"

Dr. J. McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, spoke at the YM service last Sunday. In discussing the subject, "The Task of the Church in Our Day"

Huber and Stegall To Represent Maryville At Southeastern Conference of IRC March 10, 11

A Southeastern Regional Conference of the International Relations club will be held at the Women's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, North Carolina, on March 10 and 11. The delegates from the Maryville organization will be Carroll Stegall and Robert Huber. Carroll will enter Group I and discuss the topic "Global War and Its Consequences." The specific topic which he will present concerns the effect of the starvation of peoples and devestation of areas, of disruption of normal customs and educational life, and contacts between mutually little known places and peoples. Bob will participate in the discussion in Group III on the subject "Problems of Global Peace" and his sub-topic will be "World Government."

Thompson Speaks

Malcolm Thompson, senior history major from Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, and president of the International Relations club will lead a review and discussion of the news at the weekly meeting of the organization Monday evening at 7:00 p.m. in the YW rooms.

Programs of a similar nature have been conducted during the past two weeks by Aimee Wriggins, senior home economics major from Shortsville, New York, and John C. Taylor, senior English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After a brief review of the news events of the past week, given by the leader, a group discussion was held on the principle topics.

Two members of the faculty, Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of Psy-

Concert Violinist Plays for Vespers

Last Sunday, February 27, Maryville College heard Mr. John Maltese, concert violinist, from New York. Mr. Maltese was the visitor of Miss Eva Mae Campbell, who is a freshman home-economics major from Plainfield, New Jersey.

Born in Sicily, Italy, Mr. Maltese came to America when he was a year old. He resided in New York and attended school there although his parents never learned to speak English. At an early age, John bought a twenty-five cent violin in a dime store and began to play. His parents immediately objected to this and tried to discourage him, but little John knew what he wanted and not many months later his mother realizing that he had talent succeeded in persuading his father to let him take lessons. John was only six years old when he began his music studies: eight years later, he made his first concert appearance in Kentucky. After this, John became a nunil at the Juliard School of Music in New York.

Mr. Maltese has played with Jose Iturbi, and has also conducted a symphony orchestra at the Camp of the Woods in the Adirondacks.

On last Sunday Mr. Maltese played for the meeting of the Y.M.C.A., Vespers, and The Student Volunteer program. His selections in their respective order were: "Ivory Palaces" (His own arrangement), "Meditation" from the opera THAIS, and "Londonderry Air".

Letters To Lucerne Presented Before Enthralled House

BEN LYNT SUBS

Despite Fire Losses Dilliner Achieves Stage Success

Before an estimated crowd of slightly over four hundred, the play "Letters to Lucerne" by Fritz Rotter and Allan Vincent, was presented last Saturday evening in Voorhees chapel by members of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

Principals in the play were portrayed respectively by Dorothy Harned and Ellen Pascoe as Erna Schmidt, a German girl, and Olga Kirinski, a Polish girl.

Inasmuch as the story of the play centered about activities at an American school for young ladies in Switzerland, the bulk of the cast were girls from Theta. Lisette Gessert was cast as Gretchen Linder, assistant to the head of the school; Ethel Parks acted the role of the German cook, Olga; Olinde Ahrens interpreted the part of matron of the school; and the various girl students were portrayed by Ruth Lloyd, Margaret Gessert, Marion Schanck and Mary Dawn Noblit representing young ladies from America, France and England.

Men in the cast were Duane Collins, who played Hans Schmidt, one half of the principal love interest, and Bill Cover, who played the two parts of Francois, the postman, and Koppler, the German policeman. Carroll Stegall was to have participated in the production as Gustave, the French Butler, but was unable to do so because of an unanticipated attack of appendicitis which struck him a few hours before play time. Stegall was operated on as the curtain parted for the opening scene, and he is now recuperating at the college hospital.

Just a moment before curtain time, Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director of the production, made a short appearance and talk on stage in which she sketched briefly for the audience the unfortunate events connected with production and resultant handicaps under which the play was being presented. She told of the fire of last semester in which all costumes and scenery were destroyed, of Jane Hays' having had to drop from the cast several weeks ago because of an appendectomy and of her having been replaced in the cast by Marion Schank. Next, Mrs. West made public the fact that Carroll Stegall had been taken to the hospital for an emergency operation less than an hour before, and that Ben Lynt, with a little over an hour to prepare, would endeavor to play the role of Gustave.

Dorothy Harned, a Maryville resident, is a senior dramatic arts major, and has appeared many times on the Voorhees stage in dramatic productions. She played one of the major roles in last year's production of "Arsenic and Old Lace," and appeared in a character role in the play "Kind Lady" of the year before. She is one of the graduating members of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic society having a chapter at Maryville College.

From Perkasie, Pennsylvania, came Ellen Pascoe two years ago, who is now a junior sociology major. Ellen has long been interested in dramatics at Maryville and has participated in the past as a member of the business and production staffs of various plays. She also was cast in a play during her freshman year here. She is a member of the choir and of the Chilhowean business staff.

The production staff for "Letters to Lucerne" included the following: stage manager, Leroy Dillener, assisted by Charles Burgreen; business manager, Benjamin Lynt; advertising managers, Joe Henry and Leonard Schieber; properties, Billye Ruth Braly and Jeanne Carmichael; costumes, Phyllis Irshay; electricians, Rob-

Student Body Meets Tuesday To Discuss "Town Night"

Law Club Holds Discussion on Pan Americanism

Huber To Talk On New Deal At Next Meeting

Robert F. Huber, junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, led a discussion on the subject "Permanent Cooperation with South America" at the meeting of the Law club last Thursday evening. Miriam Wickham and Marinell Ross also participated in this "round-table" discussion.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Thursday, March 16, at which time President Huber will speak on the subject: "Recent New Deal Constitutional Decisions." Supreme Court decisions which have laid the foundations for the present New Deal administration, including such matters as N.R.A., A.A.A., the Tennessee Valley Authority, devaluation of the dollar, the gold standard, the child labor law, etc., will be discussed.

At a subsequent meeting Mr. Marvin Minear, assistant in the Treasurer's Office and instructor in Economics, will speak on "Economics of Post-War World Settlement."

The social committee, with Owen McGarity as chairman, is planning a social program for the near future.

The purpose of the Law club is to create an interest in present day world conditions in the fields of politics, history, law, sociology, and related social sciences.

Anyone interested in these subjects is invited to attend the meetings of the Law club, which are held on the first and third Thursdays of each month in Anderson Hall.

Huber Edits Echo

Each year junior associate editors take turns editing the ECHO for one week. This week's editor is Robert F. Huber. Hannah Duke will be editor next week, and Bette Lou McCoy, on March 25.

Knitting in Chapel Opposed By Majority of Women Students

Monday evening, February 28, the Student Council met in Thaw Hall with the president in charge of the meeting. In accordance with a Student Council decision, house meetings were held in the three girls' dormitories to discuss and vote on the matter of knitting in chapel. The various meetings were conducted by the Student Council representatives, Jean Blanchard, freshman; Dorothy Dick, sophomore; and Jean Bellerjeau, junior. After a discussion, a vote was taken showing that a majority of the girls feel that knitting is discourteous and should not be encouraged in the chapel services. The girls were reminded that these daily services are worship services, and should be attended as such. The decision against knitting will be taken back to the student council where the problem will again be discussed by the representatives.

The council would also like to remind students that since there is a shortage of labor here on the campus, we should all do our part to keep the campus clean and attractive in every way possible.

Student Meeting

Tuesday morning, there will be a meeting of the whole student body to hear again the Town Night Proposal put into effect through the efforts of the Student Council last year. Below, is the proposal as it stands, with its regulations and provisions for punishment for any infraction of the rules:

STUDENT COUNCIL
"TOWN NIGHT PROPOSAL"

Preamble

The proposal hereby submitted grows out of a need for a better rounded social program, the primary purpose of which is to promote a more normal campus life through the extension of social privileges. The plan provides for students to visit town and to attend worthwhile movies—an opportunity which lately has been reduced by the accelerated academic and physical training program.

Plan

In a "Town Night" proposal the Student Council has suggested that special privileges be given to all members of the student body to visit specified areas in the city of Maryville on one night each week.

Responsibility

The Student Council is to assume the responsibility of carrying out the plan and enforcing the terms. These special privileges are to be effective only as long as the student body is willing to cooperate fully with the Student Council and Executive Council of the Faculty. The student body is to signify its willingness to recognize the authority of the Student Council by a vote of approval of the plan.

Provisions

The suggested provisions of the proposal are as follows:

1. The special privileges are effective on Tuesday night on which no all-campus function has been scheduled. It shall be the duty of the Faculty Committee on Scheduling Activities to designate which Tuesday night activities are to be considered all-campus.

2. Couples and groups of girls (four or more) are eligible for the privilege.

3. All girls must sign out in their dormitories for definite destinations and sign in when they return.

4. The privilege goes into effect immediately after supper on the specified nights. Ten o'clock is the proposed time limit with penalty being applied after ten-fifteen.

5. Definite boundaries and limits are to be observed.

(a) Court and College Streets are the only streets to be used going to and from town.

(b) In town, the north and south limits are the bowling alleys

Students Donate Money Voluntarily To China Relief

President Ralph W. Lloyd received a letter on February 25, in acknowledgement of the check for $203.43 which the students of Maryville College voluntarily collected for China Student Relief. The spontaneous collection was made after hearing the stirring message of Rev. Stanton Lautenschlager in the Vesper service, Jan. 23. Mr. Lautenschlager had been officially stationed at Tsinan in Shantung Province, China, but when Cheeloo University of whose faculty he is a member, moved to the interior city of Chengtu, he went with it. He was professor of modern history and sociology until the war started, when he began to divide his time between teaching and evangelistic preaching in the high schools and universities of Free China.

After the service that Sunday evening, students in Baldwin Hall started the collection, and the other dormitories soon followed suit. The check for the sum collected was sent to the Board of Foreign Missions, who turned it over to the treasurer in New York. It will be used solely for Students' Relief in China.

Mr. Carey Barber Is Chapel Speaker

The speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel service on March 1 was Dr. Raymond C. Rankin, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Johnson City, Tennessee. He was formerly associated with the church at Wichita, Kansas, and at Detroit, Michigan. Dr. Rankin is chairman of the Committee on National Missions in the Synod of the Mid-south. His topic was "The Challenge of the Christian Enterprise" which he stated required universal dedication, training, and cooperation.

Next week our Wednesday chapel speaker will be Mr. Carey Barker who is to be in Maryville next week as speaker at the Baptist church meetings. He is a layman and was formerly president of the First National Bank at Lynchburg, Virginia. He is interested in religious matters and is now doing this sort of work.

LEAP YEAR PARTY TONIGHT

A "Leap Year Party" will be held in the Alumni gymnasium tonight at 7:30 under the sponsorship of the Junior class. Although this event has been planned by the Juniors, it is an all-campus affair and all students and cadets are invited to attend.

The party will mark an introduction to the Maryville College social program for the new group of cadets, as they will be enjoying their first day of freedom. Since their arrival to the campus they have been under quarantine and have not been able to associate with the other groups. However, the ban was lifted today and it is expected that many will attend the party tonight, together with other cadets and students.

In keeping with the leap year tradition the usual "dating" procedure will be reversed and the girls will bring the boys. Prearranged dates are not compulsory though and everyone is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

The master of ceremonies during the evening will be Lawrence Shreshley, Jr., senior history major from Hopewell, Virginia, and president of the Ministerial association. The program will consist of group games, skits, a mock wedding, and individual student and cadet talent. Catherine Stout, freshman from Brooklyn, New York, will present a solo performance on roller skates, and a number of other students and cadets will appear, including Mary Batchelor, Betty Trevfvander, A S Fran Drexler, and A S Tray.

One of the features of the entertainment will be the appearance of A S Darrell Stall, who prior to his induction was a clarinetist in Artie Shaw's Orchestra.

The plans and arrangements for the party were in charge of Peggy Caldwell, junior sociology major from Tallahassee, Florida, and chairman of the Junior class social committee. The following committees assisted her: Program mittee: Betty Hoagland, chairman; Lois Collett, Ann Kerr, Hope Pleyl, and Winnie Sommers; Decorations Committee: Martha Jeanne Shaw, chairman; Refreshments Committee: Jeanne Bellerjeau, chairman; and Publicity Committee: Carol McCutcheon, chairman.

The next ECHO will be published March 11

MAY I

During the past several weeks students have been heard to complain about the social conditions here on the campus, or rather the lack of them. It is an evident fact that Saturday night programs have been few and far between and that those usually consist of an open swim or an occasional basketball game.

It is a difficult thing to find the source of the evil, but it does remain a fact that social conditions are bad. During the week couples find little to do except walk around after supper and hold hands. This prevents social mixing and "forces" couples to go steady. At least that is the way it is working out.

WEEK ENDS

And then what about week ends. They are set aside as the time to relax and to provide a time for us to get away from our daily grind of studies. But what does the student find—nothing to do in regard to social activities. This is particularly true of the afternoon when there is no planned program and no social center where people can meet.

WHAT CAN BE DONE?

To better existing conditions there must be a more active social committee which will plan better and more Saturday night entertainments. There must be a social center where couples can meet to "talk" and where recreational facilities and games will be provided. Some plans must be made for Sunday afternoon recreation even if it is just "social walking".

But in all of this it must be remembered that we all must be willing to cooperate and be willing to devote a little time to the planning and preparation of social activities. —R. F. H.

HERE AND ABOUT

By BEN LYNT

ON KNITTING IN CHAPEL

The most recent, and, I dare say, the most campus-interested discussion of the student council has been on the question of what to do about those who knit in chapel. Briefly, the history of the question goes back to the February Meetings when some non-knitters became annoyed and distracted by some persistent and ardent lovers of the sport to the degree that they registered a complaint with members of the student council and asked them if it would be possible to post notices asking students to refrain from knitting during the meetings. The matter was next mentioned to officials of the college who assented to the posting of such notices and requests. Most former knitters saw the wisdom in such a suggestion and gave up the practice, but some few persisted.

The matter was reintroduced at an early meeting of the council, following the conclusion of the February Meetings, and it has since been reviewed by the student faculty senate and rereferred to the council. It was pointed out at the last meeting of the council that knitting in chapel was in the nature of a personal matter, and that very probably the only measures that could be taken by the council would be to recommend to students that they abandon the practice. It was then suggested that since the question concerned mainly the girls of the college, a vote be taken at house meetings in order to determine exactly what the sentiments of the women of the college be on the matter. Such action has been taken; Memorial residents have declared in favor of doing away with knitting in chapel, the Baldwin girls have declared themselves to be about two-thirds in favor of abolishing knitting, but the Pearson's women declared by a very small majority their wish to see the knitting cease.

And so it is for the benefit of the "Baldwin and Pearson's Block" that we here attempt to outline the reasons why such a trival matter is receiving so much attention by the faculty, the council and the respective women's residences. In the first place, I believe that it will have to be admitted that it is discourteous, both to visiting speakers and to one's neighbors to be engaged in focusing one's attention elsewhere than on the principal business at hand. For all present, at a chapel service, or vesper service, or any other public gathering to be engaged in knitting would create such a disturbance as to defeat the purpose of such a service; If, then, all cannot indulge, it hardly seems fair that a few should be so inconsiderate of outsiders and classmates as to continue the practice.

In the second place, judgments by visitors as to the nature of the character and personaity and mores of the campus group are often influenced by the activities of a few; the discourteousness of the few remaining knitters, then, casts an unfavorable reflection on the entire group. Since such is the case, the matter is no longer a purely "personal" matter, but it becomes the responsibility of the group to take such action as it deems necessary to insure the endorsement and practice by all of whatever the group sanctions. In short, if the majority of the students involved decide that knitting in chapel is not good campus decorum, then steps should be taken to see that all practice good campus decorum.

In the third place, it seems to me that very little constructive knitting can be accomplished in the time usually devoted to morning chapel services, with the possible exception of the Wednesday morning service, if one participates in the singing of the hymns and the rest of the ritual involved. If such is truly the case, one might be justified in assuming that those who knit in chapel do so merely because of some unhealthy motive definitely anti-social in nature.

Fourthly, and lastly, there is an even more significant question underlying this whole problem; this question has to do with the jurisdiction, effectiveness and functioning of the student council, whose purpose it is to mold campus opinion, and provide responsible representatives who will interpret to the faculty students' sentiments, and to the students, faculty sentiments. The council has taken upon itself the responsibility for settling the question of whether or not knitting in chapel should be permitted. It has proceeded as far as it can, unless it resorts to some form of physical violence; it seems a real pity that such a seemingly insignificant and personal matter requiring only a bit of thought on the part of a few students in order to correct, may have to be incorporated in some form of legislation which will evidence the failure of the student body in this matter.

Or whether to take them in order of importance or as they happened . . . or just take it and let you leave it . . . but what makes PAT HOWARTH yawn?

Small green onions to the rats in wolves' clothing who locked the delegation in Anderson tower. We think BILL COVER and DUANE are the trapdoorkeepers—but we hate to mention names when no one is that sure. Loud and not-too-pitiful "helps" brought rescueres in a huge short time. Not even a chance to pine away.

That clarinet player at Bartlett really STALLed them all. The girls swooned in a little group to drool in the blues. And with music comes the sweet sound of MAC McCLASKY shooting guns in the chapel. The hunting season, no less. Or STEGALL chasing the bird with the same weapon. Don't they know salt isn't rationed anymore.

Since this space has been disignated by various cognomens heretofore, we hereby suggest other lines of thought. Deepest sympathy to PAT AMES, because no one would sympathize with her in behalf of a sore hand. . . or lost and found: one twenty-five cent piece on my yellow bedspread. Owner could have claimed said article by identifying the coinage date, but we found we owed it to PIXIE . . . and ain't well. . .

More little brown notebooks containing classifications, preferences, and other vital information. Simply because of his Boy Scout duty and the love of it, JOE HENRY will interview any girl and put her on his list. No, he isn't selfish either . . . gets dates for all the boys. You too can be the laugh of the party—just make an oppointment for an interview.

TSSCC conferencers report a new find for fun in Mr. MARVIN (don't-quote-me) MINEAR. And PETE PETERSON proved her alpine instincts by climbing over the back seat, the suitcases, and all other degrees of said obstacle course to reach the "kitchen." The scene was the athletic station wagon, and for further details ask someone who knows, like DON BARKER.

Not that anyone cares paragraph . . . but we received our Valentine mail in the fourth floor storeroom of Pearsons . . . and only two weeks late too. More hot flashes: latest reports are that Carnegie hall hasn't voted on the knitting question—yet . . . MONTY MONTIETH doesn't like V-mail . . .—practically the whole school went to town Thursday afternoon (some store must have been selling chocolate bars). RING one up for FRAN FARRIER . . . —"as you were" . . . —and don't join the snuff-sniffers incorporation; it's tasteless.

"BAMBI" WHITFORD urges us to find some publicity about him. He hasn't done anything. But we can use him for fillers . . . or were you there when wolfesses "Let Me Call You Sweetheart"-ed Carnegie hall last February 29th. BILLY ROBARTS gaily wore a corsage, but everyone forgot to ask him who the date was.

JIMMY CARSON wants to crash society—remember the Stock Market. Or watch JEANNE HEAPS tactfully blush. . . . better worse take gymnastics with sporty KATY TOMLINSON. Last Sunday's interest being RAY SWARTZBACK, or was it the gals on 3rd and 4th leaning over the bannisters watching him watch for JANE?

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

Great American Desert . . . Where?

By BETTE LOU McCOY

Perhaps it is not quite so apparent in a college atmosphere, but does it ever occur to you that Americans are mentally lazy? Do you ever stop to think that the majority of us use only from fifteen to twenty percent of our mental capacity? J. S. Knox knew what he was talking about when he said that "The great American desert is not located in Idaho, New Mexico, or Arizona. It is located under the hat of the average man. The great American desert is a mental rather than a physical desert."

The avoidance of ponderous or thought-provoking problems is becoming the favorite past-time of the American people. This fact is increasingly evidenced in the growing abundance of escape mechanisms of our civilization. We are becoming more and more a light-headed, sensual-minded, reality-dodging people who would do almost anything rather than risk a furrow on the brow. Movies that deal with great problems or experiences or ideals of human lives are "too deep", and have a comparatively small box-office attraction. Childish serial stories and absurd tales of crime and heroism present the greatest appeal to radio-listeners. As for literature, dime novels are less fatiguing to the cranium than the classics; and who wants to read Tolstoi when he can read THE CASE OF THE HAND IN THE KITCHEN SINK, or Shakespeare, when he can read MY SECRET LOVE AFFAIRS?

Face to Face

Church attendance is less pronounced than it might be because the things aught there bring us face to face with reality, and really is too weighty a matter.

Corruption in politics exists because we prefer to shove the heavy thinking onto others; instead of seeking for a thorough knowledge of all sides of some economic or social problem and from that knowledge choosing capable leaders, we are willing to let the matter rest in the hands of anyone who can speak volubly and paint rosy pictures.

The Constitution of the United States guarantees the liberty to search for the highest and finest in life, but how many really are taking the fullest advantage of such a guaranty? Instead of using, for the uplifting of ourselves and others, the wonderful freedom that is ours, and for which many have given and are giving their lives, Americans are content to grovel aimlessly among cheap and second-rate things. Democracy cannot exist among a people who are deadened spiritually and who have no acute moral sensitivity. In spite of armies, navies, and airforces, such abuse of constitutional freedom, such indifference to the real possibilities of America, can lead only to decay and stagnation within.

Up to Us

It is up to the college students of today—those who are learning to reason and to think clearly—to maintain the standards that have been inculcated upon us. The fact that we graduate from college does not give us the right to relax our mentalities and rest upon our diplomas. Those of us who have begun the quest for truth should not end it with commencement exercises, but in after-life, by our uncompromising attitude and loyalty to the best, stimulate our observers to emulation.

If Americans fail to utilize their mentalities, there will be others willing to step in and think for them. A people which refuses to think for itself paves a smooth road for dictatorships.

Christian Council Meets Here March 12

The East Tenessee Intercollegiate Christian Council will meet at Maryville College on Sunday, March 12, at 3:00 p.m. This is a joint meeting of the YMCA and YWCA, and all students are invited to attend. A delegation of students from Knoxville College will attend and will furnish special music.

The program will be in the form of a panel discussion of mutual problems of the Christian organizations on the two campuses.

Officers of the East Tennessee Intercollegiate Christian Council are elected from the student bodies of both schools. This year Ruth Case is president, and John Kirstein vice-president.

Tea will be served in the Y rooms after the meeting.

COMPREHENSIVES

Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, April 12 and 13, Senior comprehensive examinations and the National Cooperative Test for sophomores will be held. On those days seniors will be excused from attendance at chapel and all classes. There will be no classes on those afternoons but morning classes will meet on regular schedule.

The senior comprehensive examinations deal with subject matter of the student's major field and the prescribed related subjects. The sophomore tests will be general science and English contemporary drills. The results of these tests are compared with those of other colleges, therefore the grades reflect on the college. The results are also recorded on the student's permanent record card.

The second semester final examination schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, May 9

and the theaters. The east and west boundaries are Broadway and Harper Street (Bus Station).

(c) Sanctioned restaurants and drug stores can be visited.

(d) The usual restrictions of residential districts and campus areas are to be observed. Students must walk directly from their dormitories to town and back without loitering.

Penalties

It shall be the duty of the Student Council to recommend penalties in the following cases:

(a) Overstaying the privilege,

(b) Being out of bounds,

(c) Conducting oneself in an unbecoming manner or displaying an uncooperative attitude.

The punishment to be recommended by the Student Council and imposed by the Executive Council is to include:

(a) Removal of the privilege for the remainder of the semester, and

(b) Two demerits.

The Executive may inflict more severe penalties at its discretion.

After discussion of the proposal before the student body, a vote will be taken to decide whether the students wish to continue with the plan as it stands above.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO MARCH 4, 1944

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Since the last issue of the ECHO there has been a total of five games played in the intramural basketball program. Abbott Kemp's team, No. 1, is undefeated at this writing, and therefore rates the number one position in the standings. Bill Buford's team, No. 2, climbed into a tie for the second place in the standings by beating team No. 3, captained by Parkinson in one of the hot games last week. Teams two and three both have a record of one victory and three defeats; while team one has played five games, winning them all.

On Thursday, February 17, team 1 scored 44 points to double team two's total of 22. In that game Easter was high point man with 17 to his credit. Moehlman and Buford both scored 8 for the losers.

Team one also ran up a big score on team two Tuesday, February 22. Captain Parkinson was out of this game with a bad knee, and his team lost 47-18. Kemp and Dillener both got 20 markers in that contest.

Kemp scored 13 and Easter 12 in the 38-20 victory over team two on Thursday, February 24. Buford again led his team with another total of 8.

Buford's team, No. 2, came through with its first win of the season on Tuesday, February 29. Maybe it's being leap year day had something to do with it, but Buford got the usual 8 points and Moehlman came through with 7 to contribute to the 25 to 20 triumph over team 3. Parkinson got 7 points for the losers.

And on March 2, because of the scarcity of players, a contest was run off with only four players to a side instead of the usual five. Although Captain Buford wasn't in the lineup for his team, they put up a good fight to lose by the comparatively close score of 45-33. Dillener and Easter were out of action for team 1, but Kemp sank 20 points and Cover got 16 to make up for their absence.

The following is a list of the lineups for the games:

1 (44		2 (22)
Kemp 8	F	Buford
Robarts 2	F	Schieber 2
Dillener 13	C	Moehlman 8

Fellows Figure Femme Football Fatal and Funny

By TOMMY PARKINSON

At long last—after having wondered and pondered over the matter many long torturous hours—this reporter has discovered just why there are no intercollegiate sports on this campus this year. Of course one minor detail is that transportation facilities are extremely hard to arrange for. But everyone knows that Maryville is still full of beautiful girls ('er at least girls) and the thing that has been bothering this reporter is why haven't the girls taken over intercollegiate sports in the same manner that they have taken over all the rest of men's activities now that so many men are in the stupendous undertaking of winning a war. Any co-ed who can buck rivets in a war plant for eight or ten hours a day during the summer certainly should be able to make a successful line buck on the gridiron in the fall when she comes to college. And by the same sign any Maryville beauty who is swift enough to catch a man in these days of the great shortage, (In recent days more than a few have proven themselves that fleet of foot—as witnessed by so many engagements) but as we were saying—any girl who can do that could outrun any competitor that Carson-Newman or Milligan could enter in a track meet with comparative ease. But without further examples you get our point; (we hope!) girls are potentially as great or greater athletes than men.

And it was only with the aid of the tremendous benefits of several conferences (all right—call them "bull-sessions") in Carnegie Hall that we have been able to solve this wonder-inspiring and thought-provoking problem. We hereby submit a list of the major sports and why girls can't or don't take part in them.

Football: When the feminine players get into a huddle the game inevitably ends there, for who would leave a wonderful "gossip-fest" like that just to play a silly game of football.

Basketball: This is generally conceded to be the fastest sport—demanding exceptional speed of any participant. Not that the girls can't qualify there—but the aforementioned fact about speed is too well known. What girl (at Maryville) wants to be known as being "fast"?

Wrestling: This has long been a major sport on the "Hill", and although it has never been done here, women have developed into wrestlers of no mean ability in other sections. (Did you ever hear of Elvira Snodgrass who used to grapple in Knoxville?) But the hitch comes with the publicity the wrestling matches get. The girls know it, and we know it, they just could not tolerate an honest statement of their respective (we didn't say respectable) weights being printed for everyone to read with each story about their wrestling activities. And all wrestling is based on weight divisions.

All right—we won't have sports for the duration. That's bad but it at least helps to know why we are without sports. (Or after reading this, maybe you don't think so.)

GIRLS' SPORTS

By Thelma Richardson

Johnye Gudel was the winner of the regular point system aerial darts tournament in a smash bang finish last Thursday, nosing finalist Ruth Wood out of two games 15-7, and 15-12. The players were well matched, the best that the WACS and the WAVES had to offer. Johnye for the WAVES played more of an offensive game. She had beautiful command of the court and showed her four years point system experience to its best advantage. Ruth, who by the way is a freshman, played an inspiring defensive game. The whole thing was nice to watch. It had an air of calmness about it that does not generally characterize point system tournaments. Somehow you felt that whatever the outcome would be, whoever won, you would go away feeling you had enjoyed the game.

Those who got as far as the semi-finals are Margaret Hunt (WAVE), and Pete Peterson (WAC). So you see competition was pretty keen all along the line.

Comic relief was added by the two-woman cheering section composed of Beanie Bellerjeau and Catherine Stout.

Swimming Test

Stevie Boretsky, student leader of point System activities announced March 8 and 22 as the dates for the point system swimming test. The limit of points that can be gained are fifty. Points may be gotten in these ways: Artificial respiration, 3; swim length of the pool (breast stroke), 3; swim twice length of pool(side stroke), 5; swim twice length of pool (crawl free style) 5; swim twice length of pool (back stroke), 5; tread water (two minutes), 3; float width of pool (on back), 3; plain dive, 8; surface dive (bring up two pound object), 5; back dive, 10; jack knife, 15.

Right now softball practice is being held. This is a busy time for point systemers and things seem to be whizzing by pretty fast, but all of their activities will cease before comprehensives, so that new "M" club members may be chosen and a date set for the overnight hike.

The excrutiating stunt period, which causes girls even with calisthenics twice a week to tread groaningly up and down steps (to cite an example) was done away with in two meetings. The first was given over to practicing feats like the head stand, sit up, knee dip, duck walk, crazy man's walk, camel's walk, dog walk, frog hop, double heel click in mid-air and the somersault.

Some of them sound fairly simple, but go on and try them. I'm not trying to antagonize anybody, just impress a few.

"M" Club

Though the limit of points you get are 25, the actual number earned by the members are: Anderson, 34; Bellerjeau, 33; Burnett, 33; Burleigh, 38; Balch, 38; Enloe, 25; Farrow, 34; Gudel, 34; Hunt, 38; Justus, 26; King, 27, Lavender, 34; Odom, 27; Parker, 38; Peterson, 34; Russell, 33; Smalley, 26; Sommers; 26; Stout, C., 34; Witt, 34; Wood, 38; Wright, 30.

Monday night "M" club will meet in front of Pearsons at 7 o'clock. The idea is to take a turn around the loop. That is if it doesn't snow, and maybe even if it does snow. I saw budzon treaz, didn't you?

War Stamp Committee Plans Victory Talent Show Next Saturday Night

The freshman class is way out in the lead in the War Stamp drive. They had collected at the time the paper went to press $145.22 worth of stamps. The sophomore class is next with $113.03 to their credit; juniors, $110.55; and seniors, $59.95. Of course the enrolment in the senior class is the smallest, too. The class committee members have tried many and diverse means of awakening interest in their class members. Owen McGarity is in possession of a gremlin ball which he displays for members of the sophomore class who are helping the war effort.

These goings on are but a prelude, according to Peggy Case who is in charge of the drive, to the Victory Talent show, which will be presented a week from tonight to encourage and allow Maryvillites further participation in stamp buying.

Ben Lynt is in charge of the program. Ruth Broadhead and Mary Mell Fleming are responsible for planning it, and Jeanna Eddleman and Freda Buller have in their care the selling of stamps.

From all reports, it is to be a variety show, and the cadets will participate.

The International Relations Club in sponsoring this drive is not trying to awaken us to the need of buying war stamps. As college students we all know how important it is. What it is trying to do, rather, is be a weekly reminder to us, and make it a matter as simple as walking out of the dining hall, taking one or two steps and putting a dime down on a card table marked either senior, junior, sophomore, or freshman.

DEBATE TEAM PREPARES FOR HARROGATE

Pi Kappa Delta Plans Future Debate Meets

A practice debate was held Thursday evening, March 2, in the Philosophy classroom. This debate is in preparation for the debate tournament at Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tenn. The question this year is: Resolved, that the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining a police force upon defeat of the Axis." Those debating Thursday were Betty Lou McCoy and Dorothy Dick, as first and second affirmative against Byron Sprague and Ben Lynt who supported the negative side of the question. Marinell Ross, a sophomore political science major, acted as critic.

Thursday, February 24, the first of these practice debates was held with Robert Huber and Lawrence Sthreshley upholding the affirmative and Miriam Wickham and Marinell Ross defending the negative. Ben Lynt acted as judge of the debate and gave the decision to the affirmative side.

Debate Tourney

Maryville debaters have been challenged by those of East Tenn. Teachers Colleges. As yet the acceptance has not been made. There is a possibility that the varsity team may participate in the annual tournament at Charlotte, North Carolina. Dorothy Lehman as president of Pi Kappa Delta and Ben Lynt, secretary-treasurer, are planning the debate program. Membership to this national forensic organization is honorary and is earned through participation in specified number of debates and orations.

SWARTZBACK

Pfc. Ray Swartzback, former member of the present junior class, visited here on the campus for a short time this past week. Ray, who was class president last year, has been in the Army for the past 8 months. He is serving in the famous Fighting 69th Division of Infantry. At Camp Hood, Texas, until six weeks ago, Ray is now on swamp maneuvers at Camp Shelby in Mississippi. Active in campus affairs, Ray will be remembered for the leading role he played in last year's play production, "Lost Horizon."

Martha Williamson, a graduate of June '42, is now a second lieutenant in the medical division stationed at Camp Landing, Florida. She is serving as a dietitian in the base hospital there. Martha, who transferred at the beginning of her junior year from Montreal College, majored in Home Economics here, and served as an intern dietitian at Michael Reeze Hospital, Chicago, Illinois.

Captain George Haynes is stationed in India in the Ordnance Division of the 52nd Aviation Service and Maintenance Group. Another Maryville College student, Carl Walton, is also stationed there as a weather man. Carl married a Maryville graduate of 1943, Mary Jane Person, a Home Economics major, who is now working in Dr. Redmond's laboratory at Emery University on the problem of malaria control.

A number of former Maryville students who were stationed at Carson-Newman in the Navy training program, graduated last Saturday, and received their orders to report elsewhere for duty. Willis Sanderson, a sophomore last year from Elmira, New York, was ordered to report to Asbury Park, New Jersey, after a short furlough. Charlie Spurlock, class of '45, will be stationed there also, in the midshipman's training school. Dave Gulick, also a sophomore last year, reports to Plattsburg, New York. Trevor Williams, and Jim Hodges, have not received their orders yet, since there was no opening for medical school assignment. Both Trevor and Jim were pre-medical students here at Maryville and belonged to the class of '45.

HALL

Second Class Seaman Ruth Mary Hall paid a visit to the campus last week-end while on leave from her duties at Glenview Naval Air Station, north of Chicago, Illinois. Ruth Mary, who lives in Yorkville, Illinois, enlisted July 28, and was called August 20 to serve in the WAVES. She served her boot training at Hunter College, and then spent six weeks at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Indiana, in the storekeeper training branch. A member of the present junior class, Ruth Mary is a member of the WAVE choir which broadcasts over the Sky-High program every Thursday noon from 11:30 to 12 o'clock.

Ken Cooper, graduate of 1943, whose picture appeared in the last issue of the service column, arrived on the campus for a few days this week while on furlough from his duties at Fort Eustis, Virginia.

Another visitor this week was Dave Seel, a former member of the present sophomore class, who left November 1, to enter the Navy medical training program. On sick leave after undergoing an appendix operation, Dave visited his brother and friends here on the campus. He is stationed at Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

GRIFFITH

News was received in February that Fleming Griffith, a former member of the class of 1943, was killed in action somewhere in the southwest Pacific earlier this year. A second lieutenant, Fleming enlisted in the Marines and graduated from Pensacola Naval Air School May, 1943. He was sent over seas in August 1943. A pilot, Fleming was aboard a bomber at the time of his death; his body was never recovered. While here at Maryville, he was a political science major, and a member of Alpha Sigma. He was well-liked by both faculty and students, and it is with a note of regret that news of his death is received.

CLUB NEWS

Quiz Program At Athenian Tonight

Tonight at 6:15 in Athenian Hall there will be a big quiz program for members of that society. In keeping with leap year, the girls are encouraged to ask the men for dates to this meeting.

Owen McGarity is in charge of the program which will be entirely unrehearsed. There are to be two guests, Thelma Richardson and Cynthia Johnson. Other "brains" who are scheduled to take part in the program are Bill Buford, Don Barker, and John Houdeshel All persons attending this meeting are asked to have in mind some questions to ask the contestants.

The program last week was canceled due to the heavy rains at meeting time and to the Theta-Epsilon-Alpha Sigma play.

COTTON CLUB

Cotton Club will meet next Monday, March 6. All members should be looking through magazines for pictures to bring to the meeting. These are to be made into scrapbooks for the orphanage.

The Club has been divided into two teams for a contest in payment of dues. Leaders of the two groups are Rebecca Davis and Doris White.

Pi Gamma Meets

Pi Gamma, having postponed its regular meeting during the February services, will meet on Thursday, March 9 in the YW rooms. This organization is especially for Maryville town girls who are students of the college.

Because of the difficulty in obtaining food for the usual luncheon programs, plans are being made to have future meetings in the form of afternoon teas. These plans will be announced at the next meeting.

WORKSHOP

Wednesday, March 8, Jane Short, a junior from Port Royal, Pennsylvania, and Virginia Cain, a junior from Morristown, Tennessee, will read at Writer's Workshop.

There was no meeting March 1, but the previous week Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, dean of curriculum and Paul Moehlman, a junior from Indianapolis, Indiana, read. Dr. Hunter read a piece entitled "Jeptha's Daughter" and Paul Moehlman read "Speedway Spectacle." Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, and Billye Ruth Braly, editor of the ECHO, were the critics.

PRE-MED CLUB

Pre-Med Club met last Thursday, February 24. Dr. Lea Callaway was the special speaker. He showed the club the apparatus for administering spinal anaesthesia and explained its uses. He also gave some pointers about medical schools.

At the next meeting of the Pre-Med Club they plan to have the Head Nurse of the Doctors' Hospital and also a County Nurse as guest speakers.

Class Meetings

The junior and freshman classes held meetings during the past week to make plans for future activities. President Robert Seel, of the junior class, called a meeting last Wednesday to discuss plans for the party which will be held tonight. This party is being sponsored by the juniors, under the leadership of social chairman, Peggy Caldwell, but all students are invited to attend.

The purpose of the freshman class meeting, which was held last Friday, was to stimulate interest in the sale of bonds, according to President Rush Lester.

The president of the senior class, Paul Smith, announced that no activities have been planned for the near future, but that the class has been encouraged to buy bonds and stamps. The seniors have had the highest percentage of participation in the war stamp drive.

The sophomore class did not hold a meeting last week but President Jack Houdeshel announced that a class party will be held some Saturday night soon, in charge of the social chairman, Thelma Richardson.

Alpha Sigma

Alpha Sigma will meet tonight at 6:15 in the Fine Arts Studio. Financial matters concerning the production of Letters to Lucerne will be cleared up. This play was under the sponsorship of the brother-sister organizations, Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon. Leroy Dillener, president of Alpha Sigma from Barnegat, New Jersey, will preside at the meeting.

YW Will Hear Religious Poetry

The Young Women's Christian Association will meet Sunday afternoon in the "Y" rooms at 1:30. Miss Jessie Katherine Johnson will read religious poetry of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries for the program. All women of the college are cordially invited to attend.

Messer, Enlow Lead Bainonian

The Bainonian program this Saturday evening will be in the form of a minstrel show. "Black face acts" will be given by Jeanne Messer and Sara Enlow. A group of third floor Memorial girls will sing some "Hill Billy" songs and then lead in group singing. All members are invited to come at 6:15 in Bainonian hall.

DISC CLUB

Disc club met on Thursday, March 2nd, at 6:40 P.M. in Voorhees Chapel. Mrs. Zimmerman, who is taking Miss Davies' place as sponsor of the club, was the commentator. Twenty-four Chopin preludes, opus 28, were played for the program.

After the program, a committee meeting was held to discuss programs for this semester. Members of the committee are Peggy Fisher, Ben Lynt, Harold Kidder, Byron Sprague, and Ruth Freeman.

Spanish Club

Martha Deane played the piano for informal group singing at Spanish club Thursday, February 24, at 6:30 p.m. in the Y rooms.

Slips of paper were passed around on which each member made suggestions for future programs. A cast was chosen for the skit which the club will give at the Tri-Language Saturday night program on March 19.

It is hoped that a film on Cuba can be secured for the next meeting, which will be March 9.

French Club

Victor Hugo was the theme of the French club meeting last Thursday, February 24, at 6:45 p.m. in Alpha Sig. hall. There was also a short business meeting.

Ruth Freeman, English major from Philadelphia, Pa., gave a biographical sketch of the great French writer whose 142nd birthday was celebrated February 26. "The Last Days of the Condemned Man," a novel by Hugo, was reviewed by Dot Toomey, an English major from Hanover, Pa. Carroll Stegall, a foreign languages major from Africa, reviewed one of Hugo's dramas, "Hernani."

Helen Marie Wilson gave a report on the plans her committee is making for the French club's part in the Tri-Language Saturday night program scheduled for March 19.

The meeting was adjourned after the singing of the "Marseilaise," French national anthem.

Ministerials To Hear Miss Wright

Miss Nathalia Wright will lead the devotional part of the next Ministerial meeting Mar. 9 at 6:45 p.m. in Athenian hall. There will be a short business meeting first. Then will follow a devotional program consisting of hymns, scripture, prayer and a talk by Miss Wright.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, discussed the place of the minister from the layman's point of view at the last meeting. He gave some practical advice on a minister's conduct and on the type of sermons which are most effective.

Hubert Rust has been appointed chairman of the Holy Week Committee. Wally Easter will assist him in planning the noon-time devotional services which will be held in the Y rooms each day during Holy Week. This year only Ministerial Association members will have a part in leading the services.

The committee has already been appointed to work on the annual Ministerial banquet. Lyle Knaupp is chairman. Ben Lynt, Owen McGarrity, and Abner Richard are also on the committee.

German Club

"The Erl King" and "The Linden Tree" were among the German records which Dr. Ralph S. Collins played and commented upon at German club Monday, February 28, at 6:45 p.m. in Athenian Hall.

Leroy Dillener and Carol Reynolds were made captains of the two "dues" teams formed. The losing team will have to plan the program for the next meeting.

At the business meeting the club decided also to use German folk dances for their part in the Tri-Language Saturday night program on March 19.

SEVEN STUDENTS . . .

World prejudices rest on our own prejudices. Brotherhood begins with the first step right outside your front door.

There can be a sense of commitment to Christianity in whatever vocation we follow—that of housewife, business man, doctor, teacher, etc.

Need For Education

Emphasis was laid on the need for educated and intelligent Christions. It takes intelligence to live as followers of Jesus, especially in this present day world of ours.

The convention itself was a good example of how well men can work together, disregarding superficial differences of color and background, to achieve a goal desirable for all men and worthy of brothers of Christ.

Order is not peace—peace is an attitude of respect for others as individuals, recognition of our social responsibility, a feeling of love and brotherhood.

The delegates came back with enthusiastic spirits and new plans for the student Christian organizations on Maryville College campus.

She'll enjoy refreshment at our soda fountain every afternoon!

Dr. Harry M. Gage To Speak At Chapel

New Members of Gamma Sigma To Be Honored

DR. HARRY M. GAGE

A recognition service for the newly elected members of Alpha Gamma Sigma will be held in Voorhees chapel on Wednesday, March 15, at 8:00 a.m.

The speaker at this occasion will be Dr. Harry Moorehouse Gage, president of Lindenwood College, at St. Charles, Missouri. He was formerly president of Coe College at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and a leader in educational circles as chairman of the North-Central Association of Colleges. Dr. Gage has also been outstanding as the president of the Association of Church-related Colleges. He appears in Who's Who in America, is a member of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the leading scholastic honorary society, and has been a speaker at many Phi Beta Kappa services, including several at the University of Iowa.

Alpha Gamma Sigma is the only scholastic honor society officially recognized by Maryville College. It is not national in scope or connection, but it maintains standards equivalent and comparable to those of Phi Beta Kappa. This society was organized in the spring of 1934, for the purpose of motivating high scholarship among students. Ten per cent of the graduating class may be admitted provided the members have a grade point ratio of 6.5, or somewhat more than a B average. Members must also be of good moral character and have shown capacities for leadership and service.

JOINT YW AND YM COUNCIL MEETING

YW will meet with YM Sunday, March 12, in a meeting of the East Tennessee Intercollegiate Christian Council. A delegation of students from Knoxville College will attend and provide special music for the service at three p.m.

The program will be in the form of a panel discussion of mutual problems of the Christian organizations of the two campuses. Tea will be served in the Y rooms following the meeting.

Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd will speak at the meeting of YW Sunday, March 19. Her topic will be "Factors Contributing To A Happy Marriage." All college women are urged to attend.

Annual Festival Held on Campus By Music Group

Today from 8:50 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. one of the state's five Music Festival Series was held in the Fine Arts and teachers' studios of Voorhees Chapel.

This Junior Competitive Festival of the Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs is held each year at this time in Memphis, Humboldt, Nashville, Maryville, and Johnson City. Similar festivals are held throughout the United States around this time of the year.

Competitors in the festival are selected from members of Juvenile and Junior Music Clubs. Approximately 400 music students from Tennessee entered the competition. The students range in age from five to eighteen years.

Fifty-three entrants in the festival were here at Maryville College, which has been the center of these meetings for the territory from Chattanooga to Morristown for the past four years. Classes for the series are piano solo from primary class through piano concerto, piano ensemble, rhythm band, and band instrument solos. There are also entrants in hymn playing, memory, and original composition.

Students are required to learn verses and music of hymns and patriotic songs so that they may be able to write down any questions concerning the music or history of the songs under observation of the judges.

Solo entries are to play one required piece and one of their own choice. The judges give the contestants a written criticism and a rating. There are no winners in the festivals. The object is only to encourage and help the students.

Local chairman is Miss Garnet Manges, a former graduate of Maryville College. Judges for the festival were Mr. Grady Cox, head of the music department at Lincoln-Memorial University; Miss Ersa Davis, head of the music department at Carson-Newman; Mr. Cassius Gould, band and choir director of Maryville High School; and Mrs. P. T. Bauman, state junior counselor and guest for the day.

Miss Katherine Davies, head of music department here at Maryville, was the piano judge of the entries at Humboldt, Tennessee, which led the state by having 90 contestants.

Miss Horne, also of the Music department here, is the state chairman for the festivals.

The Music Festival Series here at Maryville is jointly sponsored by the college and the Maryville-Alcoa Music Club.

Ministerials Hear Miss Wright

Miss Nathalia Wright, assistant librarian, spoke to the Ministerial Association at their meeting last Thursday evening. Her topic was "A Spanish Mystic: St. John of the Cross."

Lawrence Streshley, president of the organization, presided.

At the next meeting, which will be March 23, Miss Jessie Johnson, assistant professor of English, will speak to the group on some special phase of Jonathan Edwards.

The Ministerial Association was organized in 1900. It is composed of students who are candidates for the Christian ministry. Discussion of themes relating to the work of the ministry and the enlistment of its members in various forms of active Christian work are its main purposes.

Orchestra Will Present Concert

The Maryville College orchestra will present its annual Spring Concert on the Saturday night of April 29. Music played by this symphony orchestra will be a variety of overtures, symphony selections, a march from the opera TANNHAUSER, and a movement from a Beethoven symphony.

Further announcements concerning this concert will be made later in March.

NEW ADDITION

A daughter was born Tuesday, March 7, to Rev. and Mrs. James R. Smith, in Knoxville, Tennessee. Rev. Smith resigned from his position as public relations secretary here at the college to accept the pastorate of the Graystone Presbyterian Church at Knoxville. The baby has not as yet been named.

Comprehensives To Be Given Seniors in April

Sophomores Will Take Cooperative Examinations

April 12 and 13 are the dates that have been set for senior Comprehensive examinations. The examinations will be given on these two afternoons and as is the custom, other scheduled classes will not meet. These examinations deal with subject matter of the student's major field and the prescribed related subjects. The twofold purpose is to test the student's ability to integrate the subject matter of his field of major interest and to encourage and develop retentiveness throughout the student's entire college course. Results of the examinations are measured in grade points and are a part of the student's total record of college work. The total average in order to graduate is a standing of C or above and the required number of hours completed. Contrary to the usual procedure as a result of the accelerated program, Comprehensives are given during the summer and fall semesters also.

At the same time that seniors are taking exams in the spring, sophomores will be taking Cooperatives. These tests are sponsored by the American Council on Education among the colleges of the entire country, the results of which serve as useful indexes of the student's development and of his prospects throughout the remainder of his college course.

Students Vote Unanimously To Keep Town Night

Tuesday morning, March 7, after the morning chapel service, a meeting of the student body was held by the Student Council to discuss and vote again on the town night proposal. The president of the Council, Betty Jane Miller, a senior French major from Roselle, New Jersey, called the meeting to order and then asked Ben Lynt, also a senior member of the student council, and an English major from Washington, D. C., to make a few remarks about the proposal. Town night was last year put into effect as a test or trial of the student body, to see is the plan would work, and if the students would cooperate. The project was made possible only through the action of the student council and the faculty. The students were reminded that it was their responsibility to carry out the provisions of the proposal, and that an affirmative vote means that each person agreed to obey the rules and regulations.

After the president of the council read the sections on responsibility, privileges, and penalties, a vote was taken of the student body; the result—a unanimous decision to continue the weekly observance of town night.

Mr. Carey Barker Is Chapel Speaker

Mr. Carey Barker, a Christian evangelist here for the services conducted by the First Baptist Church of Maryville, spoke in chapel Wednesday, March 8. Mr. Barker developed a discussion from these three topics: "Know thyself" as exemplified by Socrates, "Control thyself" typified by Marcus Aurelius, and finally, "Deny thyself" as portrayed and taught by Christ.

Mr. Barker said that "the greatest liability in life was self and we must even give up the good when it robs us of getting the best."

Rev. Mr. Colvin Hammock, minister of the Baptist church led the devotions preceding Mr. Barker's address. He read the nineteenth Psalm and led in prayer, and introduced Mr. Barker as a former bank president in Lynchburg, Virginia.

The next ECHO will be published March 25.

Two Societies Select Play

"Ladies in Retirement", popular drama by Edward Percy, has been chosen by Athenian-Bainonian as their spring play. Rehearsals have already begun and the play is scheduled for mid-April.

Thelma Richardson, dramatic art major from New York City, has been chosen for the lead—the part of Ellen Creed. Ellen works for Leonora Fiske, a wealthy retired actress who lives in the outskirts of London. Ruby Sellers, sophomore dramatic art major from Cocoa, Florida, will play Miss Fiske. Ellen brings her two sisters Louisa and Emily to live with her at Miss Fiske's, much to the actress's displeasure since the sisters are mentally "queer." Mary Grace Hall, a sophomore dramatic are major from Maryville, will play Louisa, while the roll of Emily will be taken by Nancy Russell, junior dramatic art major from Quincy, Massachusetts. The only male role is that of Ellen's nephew, Albert Feather. Bill Buford, senior biology major from Florence, Alabama, takes this part. Albert comes to visit Ellen, and an affair develops between him and the maid, Lucy Gilham, who will be played by Shirley Scott, a junior religious education major from Altoona, Pennsylvania. Dot Toomey, sophomore English major from Hanover, Pa., will take the roll of Sister Theresa, who lives in a near-by convent and comes to visit Miss Fiske.

Mrs. West Directs

Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director, says that she hopes to have new stage equipment for this play. A new cyclorama, the curtain which hangs at the back of the stage, has been ordered to replace the one lost in the fire. The exact date of the production depends upon how soon this cyclorama arrives.

Production Staff Chosen

Some members of the production staff have already been chosen. Dorothy Lehman is the assistant to the director. Advertising manager is Betty Lou McCoy. Esther Farrow and Miriam Bowditch are in charge of properties. Charlie Burgreen and LeRoy Dillener are the stage managers.

"Ladies in Retirement" was rated as one of the best ten plays in 1942. All the members of the cast have had previous training; "Things are off on a big start," says Mrs. West; so everything promises an excellent production.

Victory Party To Be Held In Alumni Gymnasium Tonight

Talent Show, Stamp Sales, Exhibits To Feature Program

An all-campus Victory Party will be held in the gymnasium tonight at 7:30 to promote the sale of War Stamps and Bonds. This party is sponsored by the War Stamp Committee, of which Peggy Case is chairman.

The price of admission to the party is a War Stamp, either 10c or 25c denomination. There will be a table at the door selling War Stamps.

Three exhibits will be open to all—a stuffed animal exhibit, an art exhibit of your most beautiful girl friend's picture, and another picture gallery of your most handsome boy friends. A prize will be awarded for the cuddliest stuffed animal, most glamorous girl, and most handsome fellow. All students are urged to enter their pets and pictures of their boy and girl friends. Each student may make as many entries as he likes. A fee of 2c will be charged for each entry, the proceeds to buy War Stamps as a prize for the winner in each exhibit. Pictures and pets should be given to one of the following persons by Saturday afternoon: Mary Fershee, Pearsons; Millie Cundiff, Baldwin; Ruth Broadhead, Memorial; Caroll Stegall, Bartlett; and John Poland, Carnegie. Winners will be chosen by popular vote. Three tickets to vote are given with each purchase of a 10c War Stamp, and four vote tickets with each 25c Stamp. Vote as many times as you wish for your favorite girl, boy-friend, or Fido.

In addition to the exhibits there will be a War Stamp Walk, instead of a Cake Walk. There will be a program in the form of a radio talent show, with Ben Lynt as master of ceremonies.

The decorations will be patroitic—in red, white, and blue, and there will be usherettes in costume. The cadets and faculty are especially invited to come.

Committees at work for the party include the Advertising Committee, headed by Phyllis Irshay; Planning Committee, Ruth Broadhead and Mary Mell Fleming; Decorations, Mary Evelyn Jamison; Refreshments, Mary Fershee; Production, Ben Lynt and Carroll Stegall.

Because of this special War Stamp and Bond drive, the usual sale of stamps was not held on Friday, but stamps will be sold and orders taken for bonds at the gymnasium Saturday night. The War Stamp Committee urges everyone to come to the party and buy a bond for Victory.

The following program has been planned:

1. Marcia Keirn singing "The Star Spangled Banner."
2. Carroll Stegall: The story of squadron leader John Alan of the R.A.F.
3. John Houdeshel and Rush Lester giving "The Saga of Abdul the Bulbird Eimer."
4. Harold Kidder playing on the trombone "Mary's a Grand Old Name" and "Star Dust."

Mr. Pickens Is Vesper Leader From China

Reverend Claude L. Pickens, Jr., a missionary to China, will be speaker at the Vesper service in the chapel tomorrow night Mr. Pickens is a native of Alexandria, Virginia. After graduating from both the University of Michigan and the Theological Seminary in Virginia, he became an Episcopalian missionary, arriving in China in 1926. Prior to 1930, when he returned to the United States for a year, he served in both Hankod and Ichang churches.

Upon his return to China in 1931, Rev. Pickens became an assistant in the All Saints Church in Hankow, where he remained until he was forced to come home on the first trip of the S. S. Gripsholm in August of 1942. While in China he served as the Secretary of the Interdenominational Society of Friends of Moslems in China.

Mr. Pickens is touring the United States as a Student Volunteer speaker and will speak at the Student Vol meeting after the Vesper Service. He has planned to stay on the campus both Sunday and Monday.

Alexander Prize

Seven manuscripts have been submitted by the men of the college for the preliminary evaluation for the T. T. Alexander prize. All papers were submitted under a pen name. They will be graded by the committee of Bible and Religious Education depart. After the first grading, the contestants will gather at a private meeting to receive a grade for their presentation of the material. The two persons receiving the highest rank will speak in chapel for the final judging.

Hannah Duke, junior associate editor, is editing the ECHO this week.

Debaters To Meet Lincoln Memorial Mar. 24.

Thursday afternoon, March 9, another of a series of practice debates was held in the philosophy classroom, with Byron Sprague and Betty Lou McCoy upholding the affirmative, and Dorothy Dick and Miriam Wickham supporting the negative side of the Pi Kappa Delta question, Resolved: That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis. That same evening, another debate was held in the philosophy classroom. Those debating affirmatively were Lawrence Sthreshley and Dorothy Lehman. On the negative were Marinell Ross and Ben Lynt.

Definite dates have been set for the exchange debates with Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate. Two teams will travel to the university to debate March 24. Two other teams will oppose the Lincoln Memorial debaters here on April 14.

Dr. David Briggs, professor of psychology and head of the department, who is coaching debate this year, has written to Berea, Kentucky, and to Tusculum College in Tennessee requesting debate meets, but as yet no replies have been received.

Dr. Fay Campbell To Be Speaker at Faculty Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Faculty Club will be held March 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Home Economics department of the college. The speaker of the evening will be Dr. Fay Campbell, Secretary for Colleges of Presbyterian Boards of Christian Education. His headquarters are at Philadelphia, Pa. Student Vols Will Hear Rev. Pickens

Sunday night, March 12, in the Y rooms, the Rev. Claude Pickens, a traveling representative of the National Student Volunteers group of Maryville College, will speak at the Student Volunteers group of Maryville College. Mr. Henry Hart, who is the regional director of Mr. Pickens' travels, has arranged this meeting. Rev. Mr. Pickens will also be the speaker at the Vesper Services tomorrow night.

March 20th and 21st, Dr. E. Fay Campbell is to be Maryville's guest. Dr. Campbell is the ex-Chairman of the Christian Program of Yale University. In 1941, he was elected to the office of Secretary to the Division of Higher Education on the National Board of Christian Education. He is also Chairman of the National Student Volunteer movement. His visit is looked forward to with much anticipation.

JUNIORS CHOSEN TO FORM DAISY CHAIN

Peterson Names Participants in Spring Ceremony

Agnes Peterson, vice-president of the junior class, has recently selected fourteen girls from the junior class to participate in the annual Daisy Chain for the Spring commencement. The girls are: Betsy Burleigh, Peggy Caldwell, Lula Calloway, Carol McCutcheon, Lisette Gessert, Florence Gobillot, Jane Hays, Louise Henry, Betty Hoagland, Hope Pleyl, Margaret Hunt, Dorothy Lehman, Jeanne McCain, and Winnie Sommers. As is customary, the girls dressed in pastel colored dresses will lead the processional into the chapel and proceed the seniors in the recessional. The girls will file to the center of the campus and form a "MC" through which the seniors with their diplomas will march. The fourteen girls represent a cross-section of the class.

Betsy Burleigh is a biology major from Battle Point, Washington. She is secretary of the M Club and takes an active part in Point System. She belongs to Bainonian.

Peggy Caldwell is a sociology major from Tallahassee, Florida. She is chairman of the junior class social committee, a member of Theta Epsilon, and was Homecoming Queen her sophomore year.

Lula Calloway is a biology major from Maryville. She is vice-president of the German Club, a member of Bainonian, and was frashman attendant in the May Day program last year.

Carol McCutcheon is a mathematics major from Pittstown, New Jersey. She is business manager of the Chilhowean, and is a swimming instructor in the recently started swimming classes for the girls of the college.

Lisette Gessert is a home economics major from Roswell, New Mexico. She is a member of Theta Epsilon, and recently appeared as a teacher in LETTERS TO LUCERNE.

Florence Gobillot is a biology major from Sharon, Connecticut. She belongs to Bainonian and is an alto member of the choir.

Jane Hays is a home economics major from Beaver, Pennsylvania. She is a member of Theta Epsilon, sings in the choir, and was class sponsor her freshman year.

Louise Henry is an English major from Maryville. She is a Bainonian, a member of the choir, a student council representative, and on the Y cabinet.

Betty Hoagland is a Spanish major from Springfield Gardens, New York. She is a member of Theta Epsilon and was May Day attendant her freshman year.

Hope Pleyl is a psychology major from Providence, Rhode Island. She is a member of Bainonian and is on the Y cabinet. She works in the Book Store also.

Margaret Hunt is a Spanish major from New Jersey. She is a member of Theta Epsilon and takes an active part in Point System.

Dorothy Lehman is an English

DOING YOUR PART

Students as a whole take pride in the school campus and are proud of the fact that our campus has gained the reputation of being one of the most beautiful for its size in comparison with other colleges of the enrollment of Maryville. Not only are we aware of its natural beauty but for many years various additions have been made to the landscape. To maintain our rank for beauty, students are going to have to take a more active part in doing their share to keep the campus clean. The number of campus workers is small and without your help we cannot succeed in keeping our surroundings as neat as possible. It takes the cooperation of all students and workers to attain our goal.

And speaking of cooperation, all school activities must receive full cooperation to be successful. Recently measures have been taken to continue our plan of allowing "Town Night" privileges. The regulations governing this provide specifically that couples and groups of at least four girls may take advantage of this opportunity. The Student Council is responsible for carrying out all such restrictions and cannot afford to grow lax in this matter. So to continue our effort to broaden the extent of student government, let's all work together successfully in regard to this privilege so that we may soon merit greater responsibilities of government. H.D.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS

During the past week numerous students have expressed to me their agreement with the ideas contained in the editorial of last week's issue of the Highland Echo. You will remember it was in that editorial I pointed out the lack of social conditions here on the campus and suggested that something be done especially along the lines of Sunday afternoon dating and the development of a social center.

MORE DEFINITE PLANS

Most of those people who spoke to me indicated that they would be willing to support any such plan which would better social conditions and would be willing to give it their active support. Let me stress again the fact that nothing of this sort can be accomplished unless every student is willing to cooperate and support the idea by actions as well as words. Likewise, several faculty members have expressed their desire for a social center and for improved social conditions here.

So in initiating any plan for social improvement we will not be bucking against faculty opinion, but will rather be going along with it and will enjoy its support in this matter.

A SOCIAL CENTER

Maryville College definitely needs a social center where people can meet and relax, and enjoy themselves. The other day I was looking at a catalogue of Wilson College (Pa.) and noticed a picture of its social center. There couples could meet, could play ping-pong and other games, or listen to the radio. That is keeping abreast of the times.

Why can't we too have a social center similiar to that? Would it not be possible for us to convert the wasted space of the third floor of Thaw Hall into an attractive center, a game room for social recreation? Whatever the expense it would be well worth the money.

Perhaps it could be open all day so students could go there to relax between classes, and in the evening under proper chaperons. That would enable more of the students to "mix" and to make new friends, which, after all, is one of the main purposes of a college education.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON DATING

And then what about the question of dating on Sunday afternoons. That is a problem which must be faced, for students, if they have sufficient motivation, will date at that time despite rules to the contrary. To my way of thinking there would be nothing wrong with legalizing Sunday afternoon dating, and as a matter of fact it would produce a more desirable situation.

HOW CAN WE DO IT?

The only way to accomplish anything is through the actions of an aroused student body. Under proper conditions we can do anything! So if we talk to our friends and to faculty members, if the student council will take some action and present it before the faculty, and if we all show that we are responsible citizens of the College we will be able to realize these reforms. But any action of this sort, any renovation in the existing social conditions must come from a desire with the students themselves. It's up to us all.

Death's Little Dramas

Scene: A quiet spot in Pearson's lobby.
Time: 12:30 one recent Thursday.
PHYLLIS IRSHAY: "Did you say somebody?"
MARG HUNT: "I don't even know anybody."
LULU: "I'll pose for the corpse if you want me to."

Climax: It was too punny for the average listening public. So my fountain pen and I left. (You aren't dumb. There isn't any point to it.)

It was field day for both wild and tame animals, not to mention wolves and cats. One gay little lizard's second-cousin (chameleon to you) was living the best existence somewhere in the wilds of one of the great American desserts, Cincinnati. So SOAPY goes home for a visit, captures the big wild insect, and puts in her menagerie at Maryville. Now the other day the poor thing shed its skin and ate it—not SOAPY. Seems the beast was a gift for DONNELL BAILEY, but BETSY takes care of it. Nice work if you can avoid it.

Evidently it wasn't taught in the First Aid Class, but a new cure for chigger bites has been discovered. Simple enough too—equal amounts of alcohol and sand. The li'l bugs get drunk on the alcohol and stone each other to death with the sand.

"Boots" walked into the eighteenth century English class, gave the audience the once-over and left. Minutes later he returned for more culture. No dog's life for him. That's the same pup about which JOY always says, "RUSH, he won't answer you. There's no use asking him questions." Bright freshman, too!

Consumer educationers LOIS WALL and MARGARET McMILLAN WELDON consumed some vitamins, after taking notes on how people buy stuff. Different from a lecture anyhoo. New competition for Mammy Yokum: MARG WITT and PIXIE.

JOHN TURNER quotes COACH HONAKER in recommending the 14-day Palmolive Plan. At the date of publication, we still hadn't decided whether it was Coach or John who profited most from such a beauty cure.

Quips that pass out of sight: RUTH MEINEKE'S remark about LUTHER'S new coiffure, "... h'mm, had his ears lowered." Should have overlooked SHIRLEY FEENY'S peroxide horns . . . the next best thing in halos. No more tower talk . . . everybody's new middle hair-do . . . paper dollies . . . LOUISE (eleven-letter) HENRY . . . (this space saved for the glad news when JOHN washes the station wagon).

But formally surprised was MIRIAM BOWDITCH on HER birthday! And who wouldn't want that kind of a celebration. Mine's next November 31—don't forget.

Now who says point system doesn't have its points? The swimming class met in a dive and consumed large waves of the chlorinated liquid. RHEA PARKER is the new discovery for fast swimming and beautiful diving. Is she by any chance from Kentucky? Thought not. And for a six-pound weight the aquatic maidens didn't have one. LOIS YOHE kindly dug up a rock, the surface divers passed their test, and everybody lived happily ever after, 'er something.

This week's editor, "DUCK" DUKE teaches chemistry on the side. New past time for journalists . . . or being EAGGA, of which I'd like to devote this space to interpreting. According to my low-brow I.Q. EAGGA is an all-including combination of personality-minus, scatter-brains and mainly disillusions. It can't be acquired in books. RUSTY mumbled something about the light, or maybe it was the night.

Be seeing you in the picture contest. Or will you?

P.K. Encounters P.K. and Finds Prattle A College Pastime

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Two scenes from a drama of Maryville College:

I. Place: Memorial laundry.

Time: Early in the college year.

Characters: Two freshmen girls, F and G.

F: (Ironing elaborately embroidered pillowcases) Uh . . . and what did you say your father does?

G: (Pressing a black skirt trying to cover a neatly mended hole). Well, do you know what a p.k. is?

F: (quickly) Oh, are you one, too? I'm so glad. Now we can sympathize. Those lovely linen pillowcases were just the thing in Grandma's day. But for a college girl! What can you do if good old Aunt Sue, who never misses a Sunday, made them for her dear pastor's daughter?

G: Oh yes, and I've seen glances at this skirt. Oh I don't mind now. But I had planned for a new black skirt and then the choir-director's niece . . . you guess the rest. But really, it's not always been that bad. I don't want to forget the time I inherited a formal . . .

II. Place: A room in fourth floor Carnegie.

Time: Same as above.

Characters: Three would-be roommates, unpacking.

A. (trying to hide something) Fellows, how would it be to let me have the upper bunk?

C.: Hey, bud, what you got there? Look at that. (points).

B. Don't tell us: let me guess. You received that specimen of feminine handiwork from a dear old member of your dad's church. Now didn't you?

A. (laughing) You must know all about it—only the clerk of Session's wife gave me the tie for a farewell present.

C. You two must be in the same boat I'm in. Three cheers for us "P.K.'s"

Maryville College has numerous "P.K"."s or "preacher's kids" as they and others term themselves. This particular species of the human race is set apart from the rest by many peculiar and amusing characteristics.

Who among them will ever forget the first Sunday in a new church? The interested curiosity of the congregation is concentrated on the new "Reverend's" family.

"My, how thin that child is! George, remind me to send over some cream. "I wonder how old his wife is? She looks quite young to be the mother of those grown children." And then, of course, that fun being welcomed after the service.

"My dear, you're just the age of my little Gracie. I'm sure you two will be good friends." And then—

"Well, Parson, my wife and I would be pleased if you would bring your family over for dinner." That's compensation for previous remarks even if made in a harmless way.

Children's Day comes in with the days which a p.k. always remembers. How could you forget sitting up on the stage surrounded by beginners with all eyes directed at you telling a Bible story to them? Or perhaps you were down on the front row prompting litle Billy who always skipped two lines of his verse.

Added to the "never forgets" would be Christmas, where p.k.'s usually come out on top. Merchants have been known to donate a Christmas chicken or even a turkey. Certain members of the congregation sometimes see fit to fill a basket with choice edibles. Of course, sometimes, signals can be mixed as, for example, the time an Alabama family received six pounds of coffee. It was just incidental that father and mother drink only Sanka! Or perhaps "O.K". Ahrens would have been glad to share some of her twenty-seven dolls. She had all of them at the same time, too.

Most p.k.'s find themselves living in a manse, parsonage, or rectory. These houses are varied in type, but all have one thing in common. The minister holds "open house" all day, every day. Perhaps the one most easily remembered is the time the church basement leaked. This sudden tragic discovery brings forty-seven women at lunch in the living room and dining room of the manse. Oh yes, their wraps are spread over the beds in brother's, sister's and the master's bedroom.

As for the lawn and outdoor playground of the minister's home—usually swings and games are community property. One ex-Californian, Marky Cross, distinctly remembers her mother's admonition against playing with the little foreign children because they used "words". Olinde has familiar thoughts concerning her position among her playmates. When they came to play, she always had to be "it".

The lives of some p.k.'s are further complicated by the fact that they are m.k.'s, too; i.e., their fathers are minister-missionaries. Having lived in a foreign country and returned has given rise to several amusing and, at times, annoying situations. Can you imagine anyone wondering why Harold Kidder's brother wasn't Chinese merely because he was born in the country? This "Chinese" representative at M.C. seems to have had a bit of trouble with former classmates "casting aspersions" because he was a "p and m.k." All p.k.'s run into difficulty of that sort at times. "You mean she did that—and she's a minister's daughter," can be said in quite a horrified tone! Or—"'Rev.' won't do that. His father won't let him".

These observations seem to be in the way of complaints, but there are advantages to a p.k.'s life. Why, p.k.'s coming to Maryville College get a thirty-dollar scholarship their freshman year! And they certainly gain many opportunities to meet interesting and noted people (even if this does involve spending the night on a mattress on the sun-porch floor).

All in all, however, none of the p.k.'s would trade fathers or even their father's profession. They seem to enjoy the ever-changing life free from monotony and "humdrumness."

's Too Bad . . .

"Poor chap."

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

Team 1 has added two more victories to its credit this last week and by remaining undefeated is still in the top place in the standings. On Tuesday, Team 1 took Team 3 into camp with a 29 to 21 score, although the score doesn't show it, this was a close game; the loser led Team 1 for two quarters. But Dillener scored 10 and Kemp got 9 to help deal defeat to Team 3. Poland was high point man, sinking 11 points for the losers.

On Thursday afternoon Team 1 scored another win over Team 2, 47-30. Squire Kemp, captain, was hot, slipping in 24 points. Moehlman and John Turner made 10 each for the losers.

Team 1 has already won enough games to clinch the championship of the basketball league. But two more games are on the schedule. Team 2 meets Team 3 on Tuesday afternoon, March 14 to determine which team will end the season in second place. The loser will come in third and last. Then, on Thursday, March 16, Team 1 plays 2 in the final game of the season.

Lineups:

Team 1 (29)	Pos.	Team 3 (21)
Kemp 9	F	Parkinson 6
Robarts 3	F	Poland 11
Ferguson 2	C	Lester 2
Dillener 10	G	Crowson
Cover 5	G	M. Turner 2

Substitutes: Team 1—Wally Easter; Team 3—Brown, H. Henry.

Team 1 (47)	Pos.	Team 2 (30)

In an effort to throw some light on the Intramural program and the manner in which one gains points in the program, Harold Huffman, head of the Intramural Staff, recently made the following announcements:

Participation in all intramural sports gives you points toward the Intramural Athletic Awards in May.

Major Sports—are football, volley ball, and soft ball. You get 10 entry points and for each game won 5 points; each one lost, 3 points.

Minor Sports—are singles tennis, pingpong, and horseshoes. You receive 5 entry points and 2 points for each match won.

Enter and participate in our Intramurals — Its your program — work hard for those awards are swell.

Underground Tunnel System Investigated By Reporter

By MADELINE COOKE

Did you know that there were tunnels all over the campus that were used back in the Civil War days as part of an underground railway system? Don't get too excited. They weren't ever part of an underground system, but there are several tunnels on the campus.

Having been wakened up Wednesday morning by the sub-artic temperature in my room, I decided to put in a complaint; so after systematics I followed the sound of hammering down to the basement of Thaw where I found Brownie. After stating my case, I said that I was from Missouri and would have to be shown. Brownie thought about all the work he had to do, but finally agreed to SHOW me where the heat was coming into the building.

We went to the basement of Fayerweather. The walls of the basement were all dirt, and off to one side a passageway was cut out of the dirt which led back somewhere. Brownie lit a match and we walked back a ways. This was the first of the tunnels I had heard about. Along the bottom of it were two pipes about 6 inches in diameter. "Now these," said Brownie, "are your heat pipes. This tunnel goes from here to the old heat plant." At this point the match went out and I groped my way back, tripping over the pipes and getting soot all over my hands from goodness knows what.

"Now, continued Brownie, "we'll follow this pipe along and I'll show you where it comes out where the old power plant used to be." Just outside Fayerweather to one side of the steps he lifted up a metal cover and we looked down into the tunnel in which we had just been. The old power plant used to be where all the pretty forsythia and bridal wreath bushes are growing now on the walk which branches off to Memorial. It was an eye-sore which used to belch black smoke all over the campus. It was torn down in 1939, and now all our heat comes from the modern plant just below the railroad tracks. There was another metal lid here which Brownie pulled up and we looked into the tunnel again. The tunnels are about three feet high and lined with brick. They have caved in, but not when anyone was in them. A few years ago one caved in just after a boy had walked over it.

Do you remember last spring when all that steam came out of the manhole in front of Carnegie? There is a big brick-lined pit under the street there (6 feet deep, 6 feet wide, and 10 feet deep, if you're interested." Several heating pipes meet there and the heat causes some steam to form—or something like that. At any rate, Brownie says it's perfectly normal and harmless.

He took me down to the basement of Anderson and proudly showed me the valve not bigger than a quart bottle (how's that for poetic comparison?) which reduces the pressure from 150 lbs. to 35. A tunnel goes straight across from Anderson to Baldwin. Midway, a pipe goes to the chapel. The tunnel is big enough to walk through to the mid-way point. I'd liked to have gone that far, but Brownie didn't offer to let me, so I didn't.

The newer heating pipes were not laid in tunnels; so the only tunnels run from Baldwin to Anderson, Anderson to the old heating plant, and from the old heating plant to Fayerweather. If you want to get an idea just where they're located, take a look at the big campus blue print in the lobby outside the Chilhowean office.

For a few quick facts: there are two pipes—one carries steam going to the buildings and the one beside it carries water coming back to the plant. It makes a circuit, and the same water is used over and over again. "We wear it out," Brownie says. The water is very soft and the girls used to go over to the old plant and get water to wash their hair in. The water isn't so easy to draw off in the new plant, though, so the girls will just have to put up with the hard water. I never believed that metals expanded much until Brownie said that at about every 1,000 ft. they have to have an expansion joint in the pipes because they expand as much as nine inches in 1,000 ft.

If it's turned warm again by Saturday (date of writing is Thursday), you probably won't be interested in how we're kept warm; so let me add a little bit that Brownie told me about Thaw Hall.

The library was intended for a dining hall. Circular tables were to be built around the 36 columns. The kitchen was to have been located back in the stacks. They must have had quite an establishment in mind, for the blueprints called for a bakery and big porch where the Y rooms are now, and for a butcher shop where the Y piano alcove is. When the building was started in 1920, the plan was to use it for the prep school—their dining hall on the main floor and all their classrooms on second. Before the building was completed, however, the prep school was discontinued, and so the plans were altered to finish Thaw Hall as we know it today.

Just one request, please: don't any of you sell tickets to next fall's freshmen to see the Underground Railway. It's my idea first.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By THELMA RICHARDSON

The pool resounded with splashes and groans last Wednesday night as seventeen point system girls took the swimming test as prescribed by the point system rules and regulations and as supervised by Mrs. Queener. They had to do everything from the breast stroke to a gracefully performed jack knife. And that brings to mind Rhea Parker who exhibited as pretty a dive as you would want to see. She's the freshman from Detroit who teamed up so prettily with Catherine on roller skates at the Leap Year party last week.

Besides swallowing half the pool the potential "M" clubbers piled up these points: Ann Anderson, 31; Babs Burnett, 26; Sara Enloe, 40; Johnye Gudel, 51; Margaret Hunt, 50; Dot Justus, 13; Betty Lou King, 26; Lottie Lavender, 44; Jackie Odom, 41; Rhea Parker, 58; Pete Peterson, 56; Nancy Russell, 35; Donna Smalley, 15; Winnie Sommers, 49; Marion Stout, 37; Margee Witt, 12; Ruth Wood, 36.

The total number of points you can get for this one sport toward membership to "M" club is 50.

The softball tournament has been held up because of the rainy weather, or hadn't you noticed? It will probably get under way next week sometime.

March 22, is the date for the next swimming test.

Right on the same wave are the classes being organized and taught by the students who took the life saving and instructor's course last fall. Classes are for beginners and are held practically every afternoon and evening of the week.

MY DAY—

By ELEANOR F. D. R. JONES — Interviewed by John C. Taylor

Maryville, Tenn., Friday, Mar. 10.

I had a dream one night. Of course, I know that there is nothing astounding about that because we all have dreams, but you see this was a very unusual one. I dreamed that one day I was completely free from all responsibilites and appointments and was able to spend my time as I pleased. No, I didn't take a trip, or sleep or attend a ball game. I secured a pencil and pad and traveled about asking four questions to everyone I met.

One day last week that dream came true, although the fact that I was NOT free from all responsibilites and appointments caused it to be modified slightly.

The four questions which were asked during the "escapade" were:

1. What is your favorite popular song?
2. What is your favorite dance orchestra?
3. What motion picture of 1944 have you enjoyed the most?
4. What all-time motion picture have you enjoyed the most?

I met my first "interviewee" in the library industriously preparing a home-ec assignment. Miss Grierson isn't looking, so Lois Graf what are your answers to the questions? "You'll Never Know," Tommy Dorsey, "My Friend Flicka," and "Gone With The Wind" was the reply. Incidently, Lois is a junior home economics major from Chester, Pennsylvania, and is somewhat "You'll Never Knowish" about an ex-footballer here at Maryville who is now Quantico bound.

Next I encountered Peggy Claypoole, sophomore home economics major from Woodbury, New Jersey, and she took enough time from preparing a speech to offer the following answers: "Little Did I Know," Harry James, "Assignment in Brittany," and "Rebecca."

Owen McGarity, sophomore political science major from Croydon, Pennsylvania, was beckoned as he strolled across the campus in his electrician's regalia. He postponed his duties long enough to answer: "Sunday, Monday, or Always," Alvino Rey, "Thousands Cheer." and "Reap The Wild Wind."

Then I met two town students, Betty Ballard, and Neysa Ferguson, who claim they have three things in common: they are both French majors, they are both Baptists, and they both think Wisconsin is the best state in the country. In answer to the questions, Betty said: "My Shining Hour," Tommy Dorsey, "Thousands Cheer," and "The Great Waltz"; while Neysa replied: "The Army Air Corps Song," Fred Waring, and "Thousands Cheer" in answer to questions 3 and 4.

Jean Hawley, junior English major, is also a resident of Maryville and proposed "No Love, No Nothing," Kay Kyser "Hit Parade of 1943," and "Holiday Inn" as her favorites.

Well, I'm back in the library again and the "coast is clear" so Eloise "Tex" Edmundsen what are your selections?: "Stardust," Harry James, "Madame Curie," and "Naughty Marietta." As one can perceive from the nick-name, Eloise is from Texas,—Waxahachie, to be more specific.

The lull which follows a psychology class presented an opportunity to interview the next student, Mary Grace Hall, dramatic art major from Maryville. She selected "Stardust," Guy Lombardo, "Watch on the Rhine," and "Of Human Bondage."

No list of students would be complete without at least one freshman included, so Betty Montgomery suppose you give your preferences: "Miss You," Tommy Dorsey, "Thousands Cheer," and "Gone With The Wind."

As I sauntered across the campus in the late afternoon I decided that my day was finished as far as interviewing was concerned. Since early morning I had been asking questions, so that by now I could say each of them backwards. But, wait, there's Jane Short and Carol McCutcheon. Suppose I interview them before I write "finis" in the book. Jane junior English major from Port Royal, Pennsylvania, answered: "You'll Never Know" Kay Kyser, "Thousands Cheer," and "The Old Maid"; while Carol, junior mathematics major from Elizabeth, New Jersey, gave as her favorites, "When They Ask About You," Kay Kyser, "Madame Curie," and "Mrs. Miniver."

Lt. Mackey Is Transferred

Lt. Louis Mackey left the College Training Detachment Thursday of this week to assume a new assignment at Smyrna Field near Nashville, Tennessee. Lt. Mackey has been stationed with the permanent party at Maryville since the unit was first begun here a year ago March 1. His position here was a planning and training officer. This news was released from Army headquarters on the campus.

Bob Barker

Apprentice Seaman Bob Barker, class of '46, completed his work here at the College March first, and left for Westminister College, Fulton, Missouri, to begin his pre-chaplain training under the Navy V-12 program. Bob, whose major was philosophy, was treasurer of the sophomore class until he left last week. He enters Westminister College as a junior, and expects to complete his work there in four semesters. Upon completion of his pre-chaplain training, Bob will be sent to Princeton Theological Seminary. It is interesting to note that the dean of Westminister College where Bob was sent by the Navy is his grandfather, Mr. C. B. Sweazey.

Mack Wilson

Pvt. Mack Wilson, who would have graduated this coming May, has been stationed at New River, North Carolina for the past two months. He expects to go to Quantico, Virginia, in about three weeks, to finish his Marine Corps training. Mack, who was outstanding in both football and wrestling, expects to receive his commission as lieutenant sometime in June.

Captain Cecil Tipton, formerly of the class of 1942, has been serving in Ireland since the middle of January and for the past three years has been in the field artillery branch of the Army. A biology major while here, Cecil was active in football, and was elected captain of the team in the spring of 1941. His wife, Mrs. Katheryn Woodward Tipton, who stayed out of school one year, expects to graduate in May. She is an English major.

Pfc. Sam Crawford, class of '44, is enrolled in dental school at the University of Tennessee at Memphis, Tennessee. Sam is from the town of Maryville.

Pvt. Fred Ezell, a junior last year from Townsend, Tennessee, has been taking college work at Georgia Tech, in the Marines. He is through his training now, and expects to be assigned to a new base very shortly.

Pvt. Gib Weiss, who visited here on the campus a short time ago, finished his training in crytography at Chanute Field, Illinois, and was transferred to McClellan Field, Sacramento, California. Gib served as associate business manager of the Chilhowean published in 1943. He was a member of this year's senior class.

Pvt. Arthur (Doodle) Miller, class of '45, has arrived safely in New Caledonia in the South Pacific. Doodle is in the Army Infantry. His home is at Loudon, Tennessee.

Sidney Duke

Pfc. Sidney Duke, who would have graduated in May, 1943, left in March of that year to enter Northwestern University, Chicago, Illinois in the Army training program. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Northwestern this past December, and is now classified as a sophomore in medical school. He will complete his training in two more years. Sid was editor of last year's Chilhowean, and one of ten students chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, to mention a few of his accomplishments.

Second lieutenant Bob Calvesbert, a senior last year, returned a month ago from Puerto Rico where he received two months of special training as a meteorologist. He was then stationed temporarily at Sarasota, Florida, and is now at Seymour-Johnson Field, North Carolina. Bob was Associate editor of the Chilhowean, a Chemistry assistant, and a member of the Student Faculty Senate.

Virgil S. LeQuire, U. S. N. R., is a medical student at Vanderbilt University. Virgil, who graduated from Maryville in December of 1942, is from Maryville, Tennessee. A biology major, he was on the honor roll and a member of the Pre-Med Club. He is now a second class sophomore in med school.

Arty Spears, class of '46, is now stationed in a replacement camp in California. He expects to ship out very shortly. Arty is from Maryville, Tennessee, and was on the college football team his freshman year.

CLUB NEWS

Bainonian

Tonight at 6:15 Bainonian will hold a dress making contest. Members will divide into groups and design, cut, pin, and sew dresses made out of newspapers.

Starting soon students from various countries will talk to the group. They will also teach songs and dances.

Last week the freshmen entertained with singing and a minstrel show.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian meeting tonight will feature a tall story contest. Athenian members are working on two special projects at present—the all-school program which they will sponsor on Saturday night, March 25, and the play, LADIES IN RETIREMENT, on which they are working jointly with Bainonian.

Burgreen To Play For Alpha Sigma

Charles Burgreen, a senior sociology major from Homestead, Florida, will direct an all-musical program for Alpha-Sigma's meeting tonight at six-fifteen in Alpha Sigma Hall. He will play his concerto in F minor and others of his original compositions. This was announced by the society's president, Leroy Dillener, a senior from Barnegat, N. J.

Disc Club

The last meeting of the Disc Club was held on the evening of March 2, in Voorhees Chapel. Mrs. Zimmerman, new sponsor of the club, had charge of the program. After the program there was a business meeting of Peggy Fisher, Harold Kidder, Ruth Freeman, and Mrs. Zimmerman to plan programs for the remainder of the year.

The following programs were planned: March 16, a voice program with special emphasis on the new John Charles Thomas Album of Songs; March 30, a program of American composers with Mrs. Zimmerman as commentator; April 6, Shostakovitch Symphony No. 1 with John Kirstein as commentator; April 20, records of French, English, and Scandinavian countries with Miss Horne commentating.

Huber, McCoy Talk Monday at IRC

Bette Lou McCoy will give the news review and lead discussion of current events at IRC meeting on Monday, March 13. Of special interest to the members will be Bob Huber's report of the International Relations Club convention, which he attended as a delegate of the Maryville College IRC Club.

PRE MED CLUB

The Pre Med club met last Thursday night and had for its speaker Mrs. Hopwood, who is a nurse at the Doctors' Hospital in Maryville. Her topic was on the activities of a nurse in a hospital. Peggy Case presided.

For a future meeting a woman who has had experience as a county nurse will speak.

The chairmen of the program committee are Millie Cundiff and Agnes Peterson.

French Club

At the French Club meeting on Thursday, March 9, the group spent the evening singing French songs. Marcia Keirn sang a special number, George Gershwin's SUMMERTIME, from Porgy and Bess. Plans were discussed for all-campus entertainment Saturday night, March 18, which will be in charge of all the language clubs.

Spanish Club

Edelmira Pino discussed urban life in Cuba and a film on rural Cuban life was shown at Spanish club Thursday, March 10, at 6:45 p.m. in Bartlett hall. This was an open meeting to which all the members of the student body were invited.

The next meeting will be March 24.

German Club

German Club will hold its next meeting, Monday, March 13, at six-forty-five in Athenian Hall. Those who are to participate in the Tri-Language program Saturday, March 19, will practice folk dances under the direction of Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German and sponsor of the club. Rebecca A. Davis, a sophomore sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky, is president of the organization.

McCall To Speak At Nature Club

Jean McCall will speak on "Our Feathered Friends, The Birds" at the next meeting of the Nature Club which will be on Monday, March 20. At their last meeting the club members played games about flowers, birds, and animals. The Nature Club meets every other week on Monday in Miss Green's lecture room in Science Hall at 6:40.

Law Club

Robert R. Huber, junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, will speak on the subject: "Recent New Deal Constitutional Decisions" at the next meeting of the Law club on Thursday, March 16, at 6:45 p.m.

The Supreme Court decisions which have laid the foundations for the present New Deal administration, including such matters as N.R.A., A.A.A., the Tennesseee Valley Authority, devaluation of the dollar, the gold standard, the child labor law, etc., will be discussed.

At a subsequent meeting Mr. Marvin Minear, assistant in the Treasurer's Office and instructor in Economics, will speak on "Economics of Post-War World Settlement."

WORKSHOP

Katherine Woodward Tipton, senior English major from Newport, Tennessee, was elected to Writers' Workshop at their regular meeting last Wednesday afternoon in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

"Incentive for Progress" was read by Virginia Cain and criticized by Jean Bellerjeau. Jane Short read a sketch entitled "In Care of the Post Master." Evelyn Gregory criticized.

At the meeting Wednesday, March 15, Helen Anderson and Frances Grosh will read. The critics will be Miss Jessie S. Heron and Miss Jessie K. Johnson, members of the faculty.

Farbman String Symphony Will Appear on Concert

Monday, March 27, the Farbman String Symphony will again appear on a Maryville College Artists' Series. This is the second time this group has entertained a Maryville audience, the first time being last spring at a similar performance.

Harry Farbman is the conductor of the group. He deserves all the credit for organization and direction of the symphony orchestra. He has worked to attain the high place in the musical world of today. The orchestra has been highly praised throughout the United States. The group has presented several concerts at Town Hall in New York and elsewhere over the nation.

Further announcement will be made before the concert. Since the date is more than two weeks off, no announcement has been made as to when tickets will go on sale.

This will be the third concert in the group this year. The other two were Miss Eileen Farrell, soprano, and young Richard Korbel, nine-year-old pianist.

versity. Since Dr. Campbell is an out-of-town guest speaker, the affair will be a formal one. Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of Home Economics, and head of that department, is in charge of the preparation and serving of the refreshments, which consist of a salad and a dessert. The members of the freshman foods classes will serve.

Dr. Campbell is to speak to the student body in the morning chapel service Tuesday, March 21. This will be the regular long chapel service of the week since Dr. Campbell cannot remain here until Wednesday for the regular hour worship.

The April meeting of the club is planned for the first Monday of April. Dr. David Briggs, professor of Psychology and Education, and head of that department, will be the speaker, using as his subject, "Psychological Basis of World Peace".

HOW TO STUDY?

By LOIS WILKES

Time marches on . . . or does it? It would seem as if I've been studying for six weeks finals ever since I can remember; sometime 'way back there. Did yuh ever notice how things seem to pile up on you all at once? Themes due, three tests in one week, a French novel to translate, ECHO stories to write! In a never ending stream things come rolling in that have to be done without so much as a thoughtless invitation. (Any dummy who would invite an "Epic of America" to keep him company is far more than just thoughtless.) I've read so much "Spirit of Chemistry" I feel like giving up the ghost.

Well, what has to be done, has to be done . . . I keep trying to convince myself. Soooooooo—I settle down in my nice, comfy, straight-back and try to tackle a physics problem. My fellow sufferer next door doesn't seem to be suffering as much as I am tonight . . . she has her cell-mate's radio going full blast. Ah, there's Miller playing "Must Be Jelly"! Gee—wish I had time to listen. "Pipe down over there, Flattop", I yell out the window, and a second later I am told to "Go on back to bed."

I try to shut the sweet jive from my ears with a little cotton, and fail to hear our matron's knock on the door. However, she comes on in to find me with my feet on the desk, the window shades up. After she leaves me sitting in the dark, I try once more to concentrate. "If a trailer weighing 500 Kilograms is given an acceleration of 4 meters—what net force is . . ." Oh, oh, it's nine o'clock and I simply can't miss Bop Hope! That man really does things for me—besides causing me to fail a couple of courses. Ha, ha, ha! That was a good one! "This is Bob, Leap Year, Hope telling all you fellows that if you take Pepsodent's suggestion, the girls will pop the question."

Aw, Golly, I really ought to study, so I turn off the radio and once more turn to my book. Oh, that's not so hard once you get started—but WHEN do I get started? Some one from down the hall slips quietly through the door and trips over her shoe laces. She scrambles madly into an already over-crowded closet just in time to avoid being caught by our guardian angel. I am finally alone, really working, when my roommate bursts into the room. She simply must tell me about the "luscious lover" she sat with in the library, and he has the cutest friend! She may be wacky but she knows her khaki. (Ah, open post is a wunnerful thing!)

Gee, it's TOO late to study now. 'Sides, the Chatterbox is open and I could eat a horse. (Correction: another horse.) So you see, when the lights go out I tumble wearily into bed. Tomorrow is another day——I'll study then.

Maryville Team Wins Half Of Debates With L. M. U.

Lehman, McCoy, Lynt, Sthreshley Are Victors

Yesterday eight of our debaters traveled to Harrogate, Tennessee, where they challenged the forensicers of Lincoln Memorial University. The question was the one chosen by Pi Kappa Delta for this year: Resolved that the U.S. should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis.

Those attending the meet were Dorothy Dick, Robert Huber, Dorothy Lehman, Ben Lynt, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Byron Sprague, and Lawrence Streshley. Dr. David H. Briggs, acting coach, accompanied the group. They left Friday morning and will return sometime today.

In the first round of debates Dorothy Lehman and Lawrence Streshley upheld the affirmative side of the question against a negative L.M.U. team, while an affirmative from L.M.U. was attacked by Marinell Ross and Ben Lynt. In the second round of debating Dorothy Dick and Robert Huber faced the winning affirmative team.

In the first round Bette Lou McCoy debated with Ben Lynt on the negative side. Their team lost the first and won the second decision.

Dorothy Lehman and Lawrence Sthreshley upheld the affirmative side and won teh second of their debates also.

This is the first time this season that the 1944 Debating Team has traveled to another school for a match.

Miss Jessie K. Johnson, member of the faculty committee on forensics, assisted the group in their preparation last Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights. The team has also been assisted by letters from Dr. Verton M. Queener, now on leave of absence, in which he gave the group some ideas and detailed information for developing their material.

There are several more debates scheduled for our team. There will be a return match with L.M.U. to be held here in the second week in April our team will travel to Polytechnic Institute. Letters have also been written to Tusculum, Berea, and East Tennessee State Teachers' College asking for debates.

A short time ago Maryville High School asked that we prepare a freshman debate team which they might challenge. Last week a team was organized composed of Olinde Ahrens, John Poland, John Shell, and Carroll Stegall. Their question is: Resolved that the U.S. should join in reconstituting the League of Nations. They will meet with Maryville High next week.

Music Faculty Attend Meeting

Miss Katharine Davies and Miss Dorothy Horne left Thursday afternoon to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music, with which Maryville is affiliated. The Music Teachers' National Association is holding a convention at the same time. Both meetings are to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, on March 23.

Due to war conditions these meetings were omitted last year. Otherwise, they take place once a year.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss music education standards in college and public schools in wartime.

Dr. Howard Hanson, president of The Eastman School of Music is the president of the [illegible] Association of Schools.

The special program given for the music educators will include the Cincinnati Symphony and the Ballet Russe.

Ministerials Hear Miss Johnson

Future Programs Planned by Council

Miss Jessie K. Johnson, assistant professor of English, spoke at the meeting of the Ministerial association last Thursday evening on the subject, "The Life of Jonathan Edwards."

At a recent meeting of the executive council, consisting of Lawrence Sthreshley, John Taylor, Ben Lynt, and Owen McGarity, the following programs were planned for the remainder of the semester:

April 13—Election of officers for next semester, (Athenian Hall);

April 27—Address by Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, (Athenian Hall);

May 4—Installation Service, (College Woods), Speaker—Dr. John A. Gates.

The theme of the Holy Week services will be "The Sufficient Christ." These short devotional services will be held in the YW rooms at 1:00 each day from Monday, April 3, to Saturday, April 8, inclusive.

Record Room Open

An inventory was recently taken of the records owned by Maryville college. It was found that we now have one hundred seventy-eight albums and three hundred seventy-nine single records, totaling over one thousand records in all.

Students are invited to use the record players in the record room, in the theory room next door, and in room 116, which is next to Mrs. Zimmerman's studio.

Suggestions for new records are gratefully accepted.

T. T. Alexander Finalists To Be Chosen Wednesday

Finalists for the T. T. Alexander Oratorical Contest will be chosen Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the philosophy classroom. At that that time this year's six contestants will deliver their orations from memory. Mrs. M. M. Cummings, Dr. John A. Gates, and Dr. H. E. Orr, staff of the Bible and religious education departments, will be the judges.

Luther Cross, Lyle Knaupp, Paul Moehlman, Byron Sprague, Carroll Stegal, and John Taylor have submitted orations. These papers entered pseudonymously have already been read and rated by the judges. The best one is rated 1, the next 2, and so on down the list. This rating is solely on content and form. Wednesday each contestant will be rated on delivery alone, numbers being assigned according to the preceeding scheme. These two scores will be added together; and, after the contest Wednesday, the two people with the lowest totals will be selected to compete in the final contest. This is always held in the chapel before the whole student body. Judges from outside are invited at this time to make the final decisions. The date for the finals has not yet been announced.

YMCA To Hear Mr. J. R. Smith

Mr. James R. Smith, pastor of the Greystone Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will address men of the college at the regular meeting of the YM Sunday afternoon, March 26. Mr. Smith was formerly secretary of public relations at the college. He took up his pastorate on March 1. All college men are urged to attend.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Takes Seven Members At Service Led By Dr. Harry M. Gage

The seven newly elected members of Alpha Gamma Sigma were officially recognized at a service conducted in Voorhees chapel on Wednesday morning, March 15.

President Ralph W. Lloyd presided and was assisted by Dr. John H. Stellwagen, president of the society, who read the requirements for admission, and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, secretary of the society, who presented the names of the new members.

The college choir, under the direction of Mr. Phillip O. Jones, instructor in music, participated by rendering Kipling's "Recessional." Dr. Harry Moorehouse Gage, president of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri, delivered an address on the subject, "The Passion for Painless Education."

Seven Elected

The seven students who have been elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma for the present year are: Dorothy Donnell Bailey, Donald Lincoln Barker, Leila Ruth Case, William Bradford Chappell, Ruth Jean Lehman, Margaret Helena Spayd, and Malcolm Caldwell Thompson. All but Jean Lehman, who was recognized last December, were present at the service.

Donnell Bailey, a senior chemistry major from Woodleaf, North Carolina, has been on the honor roll consistently. In addition, she was a Nu Gamma leader, is a member of Bainonian, YWCA and Student Vols, and participates in the point system. Donnell plans to major in industrial chemistry.

[illegible] major from Memphis, Tennessee, Don Barker, has been on the honor roll each semester and was junior class president. He was also vice-president of Athenian during his junior year and at the present time is secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Don is a member of the ministerial association, library staff, parish project, and was on the debating team in his freshman and sophomore year. He plans to enter Princeton Seminary in September to continue his studies for the ministry.

Ruth Case, biology major from Maryville, Tennessee, is secretary of the senior class, a member of the YWCA cabinet and Bainonian, and has been on the honor roll for four years. In addition, Ruth has served as a biology assistant for three years.

Bill Chappell also is from Maryville and was one of the ten students who were recognized in December. He majored in physics and has been an instructor in this subject for the army classes during the past few months. Bill transferred here from the University of Tampa and while a student was employed at the Weather Bureau Office of the Airport, where he still works.

Jean Lehman, sociology major from Haddonfield, New Jersey, also finished in December. She was on the honor roll for four years, a psychology assistant for two years, and the winner of the Economics prize. Jean was a member of the Y.W.C.A. and I.R.C. and plans to enter the Graduate School of Nursing, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Margaret Spayd, Latin major from North Hills, Pennsylvania, was on the honor roll for four years, a German club officer during her junior year, and a member of Bainonian and German club. Margaret plans to teach in high school.

Farbman String Ensemble Presents Concert In Chapel

Special Services Planned For Easter Period

Choir to Sing Numbers At Several Meetings

Preceding Easter a number of special services will be held in the chapel. On Palm Sunday Rev. Mr. Colvin L. Hammock, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Maryville, will be the guest speaker. Catherine Sisk, a sophomore choir member, will sing a solo, "Ride on, Ride on," by Scott. The choir will sing the various responses and an anthem.

The regular morning chapel services between Palm Sunday and Easter will be conducted successively by Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd on Tuesday, Dr. Horace E. Orr on Wednesday, and Dr. John A. Gates on Thursday. Dr. Ralph T. Case will be the leader on Saturday of that week.

The same Good Friday service that was used last year will again be followed this year. Dr. Lloyd will preside. Mrs. Margaret M. Cummings, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, and Prof. E. R. Walker will give "Meditations on Words from the Cross." One of the choir anthems will be "O Sacred Head" by Christiansen.

Announcements concerning Easter day services will be made in the next issue of the ECHO.

The next ECHO will be published April 8.

Freshman Girls To Lead YWCA

Freshman girls will lead YW Sunday at 1:30 in the Y rooms. Their meeting will be centered around the verses of the hymn, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Judy Turk will speak first on "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say, Come Unto Me and Rest." Martha Scanlon will expand upon the verse "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say Behold I Freely Give." Fay Cameron will develop the phrase, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say I Am This Dark World's Light."

The Palm Sunday meeting will be a joint one with YM in the chapel on April 2. Miss Katherine C. Davies, professor of music, will play a whole program of organ music.

The program will be as follows:

Passion Chorale by Bach-Schreiner, "O Sacred Heart Now Wounded."

Suite for Organ by Harvey Gaul, "The Little Bells of Our Lady of Lourdes," "Vesper Processional."

Spring Song by Felix Mendelssohn.

Traume by Richard Wagner.

Toccata from Fifth Organ Symphony by Charles Marie Widor.

Athenian Campus Program Features "Oddest Things"

Frills, thrills, chills, and some real close shaves await Maryville students at the all-campus program tonight at 8:00 in the chapel. The program is in charge of Athenian men. The theme of the program is The Oddest Things.

Everyone is invited to come and see the new Athenian laugh machine. Professor Maltho will entertain with his Devil's Tube, famous handcuff trick, and the great savings trick (how to spend your money and get it back). Come to see things you will remember and never want to have happen again. There will be demonstrations of telepathy, mind-reading, and other mystic phenomena—such as how to make the campus supply of men go farther. (Hint—half a man is better than none.)

Managers of the program are John Houdeshel and Hubert Rust. Malcolm Thompson will be master of ceremonies. Performers will include Catherine Stout, Mary Barnwell, Thelma Richardson, Ruth Freeman, John Houdeshel, Hubert Rust, Owen McGarity, and James Witherspoon.

PUBLIC OPINION

By JOHN POLAND

As I sat loafing in the busy noisy (the chairs squeak) Echo office one day last week, Miss Braly commandered my attention and said, "Listen, you jerk, we need news! From now on you're a roving reporter. Go get some news." (Ed. note: It wasn't that violent.) Calmly and unperturbed I answered, "What do you want, the truth or otherwise?" (Censored), she exclaimed.

So about one-thousandth of a second later I found myself wandering about the library with the imprint of said conversation quietly sleeping with my brain.

Then, like a brick it hit me. (I'm not talking about a shoe, either) "find out what people read in the ECHO." So I said to myself, "I'm going to find out." The first person I caught up with (I must have halitosis) was Dorothy Crowson, a ripe, green freshman like myself. Nevertheless, with a smile, she answered my query, "What is the first thing you read when you pick up the ECHO?" "The headlines. I guess, and then the sports.—ohhh—I guess I read the jokes first. Then I glance over the rest of it. Yes, I generally read it all, even the editorials.

Then, scribbling as I meandered along, I found Pauline Lickteig, another freshman, pondering over a volume that I couldn't have even carried across the room. (Apprentices Note—That isn't saying much). In answer to my surprise question she answered, "Oh, I generally read the front page first, especially the articles with pictures near them. Then I read the jokes. Yes, I generally read most of the paper."

Proceeding across the floor, (on my feet, of course) I ran into Hubert Rust and Miriam Bowditch sedately seated at a table studying. Rusty admitted "I read the headlines, if there are any. Then I read the back page because it's the easiest one to turn to. I read the gossip like everyone else." Miriam then stated that "about all I read is the front page, gossip and the club news . . ."

At a table in the corner in the reserve section, I ran across two studious sophomores, Ruth Jones and Betty Proffitt. They both acknowledged that about all they read was the front page, the gossip, and jokes. (No quotes here—they didn't want to be quoted). Mary Ruth Barber said, "I read those articles, too, most of the time I read the main stories."

Well, now I must be done; so I started to trudge wearily back across the library. Just as I was about to enter the ECHO office I stumbled across (no, not literally) Harold Eaken. He was very cooperative, as all of the rest of the students had been, and answered "I read the front page first, then the gossip, and anything else that looks interesting. Generally I read most of the paper."

I hope this passes the censor; 'cause I wanna go home to bed. I'll see you in the next ECHO. (Ed. note—Mairzey Dotes.)

Second Recital Given By Group Here in Maryville

8:15 P.M.MONDAY

Young Guest Artist Miss Edith Schiller To Play Piano

Monday night, March 27, the Farbman String Symphony will present the third of the Artists' Series scheduled this year. The recital is to begin at 8:15 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. Harry Farbman is the conductor of this skilled ensemble, and Edith Schiller, the pianist, is the guest artist.

Playing with a great deal of animation and dexterity, the String Symphony made its New York debut on December 18, 1940. The Metropolitan press hailed the concert with unstinted praise the next day. Critics placed their stamp of approval on this ensemble as a new and valuable addition to America's musical life.

At its second Town Hall concert, on October 17, 1941, this orchestra securely established itself before a packed house, and again won the acclaim of the critics for the interesting material on their program, for their fine appearance, for the technical finish and perfection of their ensemble work, for their rich singing tone, and for the vitality of their performance.

Each a Virtuoso

Harry Farbman receives the credit for bringing together an extraordinarily talented group of instrumentalists, each of whom is a virtuoso in his own right. Constant drilling in the niceties of ensemble playing has welded them into a highly coordinated orchestra. Their repertoire is new and of unusual appeal. Here is an ensemble that boasts the technical perfection of a string quartet with the substantial tone body of a large group. It fills the gap between chamber music and expansive symphony orchestras.

The program to be presented is in four parts. The first division contains the "Sonata, Opus 5, No. 1", by Corelli-Betti. They will play the movements, "Introduzione e Fugato", "Adagio", and "Fugato". The second group is a "Suite for String Orchestra" by Frank Bridge, and includes a Prelude, an Intermezzo, a Nocturne, and a Finale.

Miss Schiller at Piano

After intermission, Miss Edith Schiller will play Edward Grieg's "Concerto for Piano". Then, for the fourth and concluding group, the orchestra will play "Interludium by Glazounow, and "Gagliarda" by Bossi.

On the first short tour of the southern states, the Farbman String Symphony was well received, creating an outstanding impression with the critics, connoisseurs, and all of their listeners. Maryville welcomes them back to the campus for their second appearance before the student body.

Tickets for adults are one dollar and sixty-five cents, and for children, one dollar. The tax is included.

Professor George D. Howell, head of the Artist Series committee has announced that there will be three Artist Series programs presented next year, but the guest artists will be announced later.

Dr. Hunter Is Vespers Speaker

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum and the head of the English department, will be the speaker at the vesper service Sunday evening. He will speak on "What Is Truth?" The choir will sing "Forever Worthy Is The Lamb" and "Were You There?"

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

SOMEBODY ELSE'S NECK

Last year members of the Student Council worked long and hard to establish a Town Night for everyone on the campus. After considerable thought on the part of all concerned, a proposal was drawn up and passed by all necessary—including the Student Body. In fact, I believe the vote was unanimous among the students—you and me.

This year the custom has been continued rather successfully. But such a program requires one hundred per cent cooperation in order to maintain the status quo. By that is meant that a few cannot feel free to violate any of the rules as stated. To some the idea of remaining on one of two streets in order to reach the center of town is repulsive and a matter to be taken lightly. And who hasn't heard a violater remark, "He won't report us, will he?"

For disobeying a ruling of the college an individual is punished accordingly. But for retained ignoring of even simple Town Night regulations, a few may be endangering the rights of others to enjoy the privilege so recently established. A minor offense here and there which to the performer seems light—several more do the same—and those who make the decisions will rightly come to the conclusion that we of college age are not old enough to toe the mark of our own free will. It isn't that those who break the rules will be punished—they deserve it—but they are helping to mangle any security those more trustworthy have founded. This is definitely an instance in which "sticking out one's own neck" is not merely his business alone.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

JUST ONCE MORE

Since the last issue of the Highland Echo two weeks ago there has been considerable comment both pro and con centering on the column I wrote then concerning social conditions here on the campus. And so this week I would like to clear up some of the points which I did not make clear and to which there was some objection. My purpose last week was to arouse the interest of the students in this matter, and in that I was successful. My purpose this week is to probe more deeply into the problem and to point out the pertinent arguments on BOTH sides of the question.

THE SOCIAL CENTER

Last week I advocated the building of a social center here, and to that there seems to be no objection. As a matter of fact, officials of the college have been trying to find some means for building one for the past nine years. But here's the rub. The cost of building one is almost prohibitive at the present time. An entirely new, well equipped building would cost in the neighborhood of $200,000. A renovation of the top floor of Thaw Hall would cost considerably less but then there would be difficulties of heating, light, and the fact that it would create a disturbance in a building intended for the use of class meetings and study.

But these problems are not insurmountable. Perhaps the students too could make some contribution here by raising some of the needed money themselves by actively campaigning in their home towns.

ABOUT SUNDAY DATING

Last week I was misunderstood when I advocated Sunday afternoon dating. Some people thought I favored breaking the rule when I pointed out that it was not being observed. I firmly believe that everyone should obey the law to the limit until it can be changed by proper action.

Naturally some people are opposed to Sunday afternoon dating and others are in favor of it and also in favor of changing the existing rule which prevents it, but we must all realize that there are good cogent reasons on both sides of this question.

To determine just what percent of the study body was in favor of the proposition I took an unofficial poll in the library last Thursday evening. The ratio was five to one in favor of Sunday afternoon dating. Printed below are some of the reasons people gave in support of their opinions:

"We should get out in the fresh air on Sunday. As it is, we have nothing to do but sleep." "It is one of the only times free for dating." It is one of "the only times to concentrate actively on dating without worry of other activities." "It is the most logical time."

IN OPPOSITION

"Sunday is a day for rest, and during the week we see enough other people and we need time to ourselves." "We need a time for real relaxation during the week." "Sunday is the Lord's day and should be celebrated in that manner." "Sunday afternoon dating creates a bad atmosphere on the campus that seems inconsistent with the highest aims and principles of a truly Christian college."

So you can see that there are really good reasons on both sides of this question.

THE REAL PROBLEM

The real problem as I see it is that the present social set-up here is not conducive to mixing. Most people "don't get around much" and couples are almost forced to go steady for lack of something better to do. Naturally this is an undesirable situation since one of the aims of a college education is to allow the students to mix and to make many new friends.

And so it has been in an attempt on my part to point out this situation and to suggest possible remedies that I raised the questions of a social center and Sunday afternoon dating.

Tower Talk

By BEN LYNT

"Disputed Passage" is our name since the executive order, which, while not exactly constituting an act of censorship, did put the lid down with a decisive bang, and close us out of our tower of refuge . . . and in these trying times . . . undaunted, though interrupted, we carry on from our little sanctum overhanging East-front Carnegie with a slightly altered perspective (soon to be altered) and consonant shift.

Imagine our amazement when upon investigation, the moaning issuing from the torture chamber next door resolved itself into something rhythmic, if not too poetic:

Half man half wolf Eake
Is definitely up the creek."

There was more, too, about "Shakespeare," and "no paddle" and "my girl-friend's name is Ophelia." . . . and they say Lear was mad!

So somewhere in the dim, deep, dark recesses of our little storehouse of memory we recall that Clara Bow was the original "it" girl; after the case of the Sociology Comprehensives conference we nominate DOUGLAS McMARTIN as the original "it" boy of Maryville College . . . by his own admission, too! Modest fellow. And, "oh mercy," it's 1-A in the army for this superman.

If we had to we'd object to being good neighbors if they were all of the E. PINO caliber . . . very fond of English language, literature and culture, even after exposure to Chaucer, but she has worries about:

"H. Shine, who stood by Pistol Creek,
Chewing his beard instead of "sneak;"
It wasn't as good as bread or meat,
But a darn' sight better than shredded wheat."

FINE ARTS: A real treat it was to be allowed to sit in on our friend J. H. STELLWAGEN'S lecture in Esthetics-or-another-excuse-to-show-my-pictures. We think we got the point and the not-exactly snapshots were really lovely . . . we wrote home about it. In another department, but under the same heading, is froshwoman CAROLYN ULRICH'S recent success story . . . it involves a tale of patience and the coming Artist's series program. How about that, now? And if you are one of those unfortunate few who didn't get to see the first class three-day cinema production of "Madame Curie," we recommend heartily a session with HANK CROWSON who sat through four shows and can recite every scene practically word for word from memory . . . slightly second-hand, but not bad.

In answer to the many queries about the oft-used phrase "just checkin' up" we offer this much—it really has nothing at all to do with the function of the student council on Town-nights, or, with the practise of library etiquette by force.

Report has it that KAY STOUT, one of those lovely things on wheels, carries a bottle of perfume to biology class these days . . . no doubt to counteract the prevailing "eau d' frogs legges and earthworms."

Up in the air went our latent curiosity over the contents of the huge package from some Baby shop in Indiana received by little Miss VIRGINIA LEE CAIN last Thursday eve . . . over-stuffed? maybe.

The SHORT short menagerie, second floor Pearsons, now boasts two chickens of assorted colors and a pair of live gold-fish, "Lumbago" and "Retonga" respectively speaking and good for each other. This inside dope was NOT gathered by first hand observation; "CIVIES" are not permitted up there.

SAD STORY OF THE WEEK: and statistical too; HAROLD HUFFMAN tells us that by actual count he and ADA averaged only two hours and fifteen minutes total time together last week, not counting Saturday night. Let's see, that's how much a year, on the same basis—117 hours; h'mm, not bad, not at all bad at that though hardly time enough to be boring.

This column is now receiving applications of candidates for membership into the newly organized "Igor" club . . . qualifications—having suffered an interrupted or broken neck; initiation by night-hawk Ralph Irwin, no dues or fees.

MISS JEWEL told of an aviation candidate who was washed-out for "bringing his plane down with a jerk" . . . probably he didn't know about the NO PASSENGERS regulation, or something . . . take a moral, 42nd.

Rumor has it that the REOTPECOTS have newly instituted "our lady of the perpetual sad countenance" and that their beloved patron St. Eulie has indicated his favorite passage: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock;" his Hymn Favorite is "I'll be somewhere, listening . . . " h'mm.

Side-glances were in order in Shaxspere class when the reading came to our favorite bard's comments on football players (see King Lear); as a man, the entire front row turned and looked at MRS. CAPT. TIPTON who refused to acknowledge or even appear the least bit ruffled. Anyhoo, the letter from "Tip" arrived, at last, and so chapel is once more mere routine.

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

DO YOU HAVE EXTRA BOOKS?

By BETTE LOU McCOY

Each day as we walk into our own Maryville library, we are confronted with an array of books too numerous to read, even if we wanted to. A book to suit our need can be had for the asking. Indeed, we have become so accustomed to the availability of reading matter, on any subject at any time, that the privileged quality of our state does not even enter our minds. We could not imagine a scarcity of books.

Yet there are groups of those who have the time to read, coupled with the thirst for knowledge, who lack books. Who? Prisoners of war!

Few of us have ever had occasion to discover what life must be like in a prison camp with nothing to do but brood, gradually becoming a victim of despair, that such boredom can lead to melancholia, mental stagnation, and a dimishing capacity to think. Hundreds of prisoners in camps will supply the wards in insane asylums.

In the prison camps of many European countries there are over six million prisoners of war. Thousands — tens of thousands — of these prisoners are men whose higher education in colleges or universities was interrupted by the war and the call to colors. There are many besides these who are men of student interests. Here are the picked of the nations' manhood; here are brilliant minds, capable of leadership, (men who will come back and build tomorrow), rotting behind barbed wire.

And the worst of the situation is that it need not be! Something can be done about it! We dare not ignore the plea that comes in their letters for material that will enable them to continue their studies: "Please send us difficult books. We have enough time to spend a day on a page." These men are determined to rise above their immediate circumstances and in this determination they have organized classes, seminars, lectures, and discussion groups in order to continue their study. And they have been helped in their determination. In 1942-43, 39,000 books were sent into the camps of Germany and Italy alone, through the splendid cooperation of the World Student Relief, War Prisoner's Aid of Y.M.C.A., the International Red Cross, and the Bureau of International Education. But these have not been enough, and the supply of books in Europe has been dimishing; more are needed from this country.

It is not just dime novels which the men want, but books with real meat in them: college or preparatory school textbooks; standard works in English literature, such as Shakespeare, Milton, Dickens, Galsworthy; language books—readers and grammars; and books on law, medicine, theology, etc.

A campaign for books and for funds with which to buy new ones is being inauguarated upon this campus under the sponsorship of Y.W.C.A. Here is an opportunity for us to show a litle constructive patriotism, by sympathizing actively with the needs of our fellow students; here is a chance to build for the peace by taking the long view. Send home for some textbooks you have which you might not ned as much as they do, or if you have them here, all the better. If you have none, you will be given an opportunity to contribute for the purchase of new books.

This movement has real signi ficance. It means the salvaging of many young people who would otherwise become liabilities instead of assets tomorrow. Not all of the lights in Europe should be allowed to go out. Will you help keep them burning?

Dr. Crothers Is Vols Speaker

Dr. Will H. Crothers will speak to the Student Volunteers Sunday, March 26 following Vespers. His topic is the Philippines. Dr. Crothers was formerly minister of the New Providence Church of Maryville. He spent two years in the Philippines teaching in the schools there. This work gave him many experiences and provided him with much material from which he will speak.

Mrs. J. H. McMurray, director of the College Maid Shop, spoke to the group last Sunday on "Fishers of Men."

Joe Brown, a senior history major from Pennsylvania, is the newly-elected president of the organization, which consists of those persons interested in the field of foreign or home mission work.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

By DOROTHY DICK

Did you ever wander, perchance, to third floor Fayerweather anytime on Monday, March 20? Or on any first Monday of the month? Did you wonder why the flurry and the scurry of those little gals in white? 'Twas in labor for a repast of that august body, the faculty, that those co-eds were bent. Chocolate pies, peaches, cherries, gelatin—all to tempt the palate of the ruling class. Behind that force of first-year-helpers stands the little trio of much-disparaged assistants. (This is a plug for them—for it really isn't so easy a job as one would wish to think . . . although I must admit a tempting one.) In fact, I should venture to say the only one on the campus where one would dare or care to eat the results of one's assisting labors!

Let me press for the moment and bring to light a few sundry, but much overlooked details: For your information, this department exists for any major with a yen for learning non-professionally the finer arts of daily living. Remember the groom's course for would-be-bottle-washers? Out for the duration; 'twill be back with the return of the species in larger numbers! And then, the bride's course for those who choose to tempt their lord and master's—prospective or unwon—fancy, for there is an old adage "the shortest way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Another reminder too, entirely in keeping with a recent campaign . . . there's a handicraft class in which you learn to crochet, needlepoint, embroider. You can make your Christmas gifts (a bit early to start, I agree)—but since knitting was banned from Chapel you might need that extra, early start!

Or is it a house-beautiful that's on your mind? Try taking in that Interior Dec course—no prerequisite except a desire to find out what it's all about!

Are you having trouble balancing your budget . . . or are you wondering merely just where your money goes? Sit in on Household Management for a way of

Or, are you having trouble keep-solving those columns in the red! ing the pace with your man who can be so easily diverted by the surplus of woman-power? Here's a new method of attack—costume design. That's looking to the figure you cut!

Are you looking to the future—I mean, nephews and nieces of course! In the catalogue of last year there's a course listed for child care—page 76. Perhaps then he won't grow up to be a little brat, or she won't be the impishly-sweet little mamma's baby . . .

Do you want a happy home life? Where there's a will there's a way. Here's the way—Family Relationships, 322—will you?

And so you see, there's more to this department than meets the ear unless someone makes a point of bringing it to the fore. Spring means next year's schedules and this is spring, so here's your chance.

Dr. E. Fay Campbell Speaks At Faculty Club and Chapel

Faculty Hear Discussion Of College Problems

Monday, March 20, the Faculty Club met in the Home Economics department for the regular March meeting at 7:30 p.m. The speaker for the evening was an out-of-town guest, Rev. E. Fay Campbell, D.D. of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. He spoke on the "Problems of Church-Related Colleges." Dr. Campbell has had a great deal of experience in that field, having been general secretary of the Christian Association at Yale University for 21 years, up to 1941. In 1934 he attended the World's Student Christian Federation of Geneva, Switzerland, as a special staff member. In 1928 he represented the Christian Student Movement of the United States at the International Missionary Council meeting in Jerusalem. Dr. Campbell is a graduate of Yale University and of the Yale Divinity School.

In discussing the problems of church-related colleges, Dr. Campbell began by saying that higher education and religion have tended to part company and go separate ways. The faculty of a church-related college have to live in two worlds. One is the world of higher education, largely dominated by intellectuals who disregard religion; the other, the world of organized religion, having among its leaders churchmen who fear and narrowly condemn higher education because they think it is destructive to religion. The faculty must work cooperatively with these antagonists.

Christian Faculty

In stressing the foundation of a college, Dr. Campbell said, "The college must be near the grass roots of the Church. It must have a vital religious experience at the heart of it." A church-related college must have a president who is a church man, but who feels called to head an educational institution as his work in the kingdom of God. The faculty must be a Christian faculty, for the emphasis must be on the Christianity of the whole of that faculty rather than on the Bible department. The unique thing about a Christian college should be what the faculty is and does.

"Then," said Dr. Campbell, "here are some observations on church and college relations of tomorrow. The Protestant Church has to be sold again to a belief in the church related college. The church college must recapture the church's interest, so that the Church will begin to support adequately its colleges. It must realize what Christian education can do for a democracy." We are living in the blackest epoch the Church has ever experienced. It is a revolutionary epoch. The world needs to realize that there is a God—revealed in Christ, and that a group of oncoming youth must be prepared for leadership in the church, youth who are more courageous in the great reforms than the passing generations were. This group needs to be prepared by Christian institutions of learning.

Maryville Beyond Requirements

In closing Dr. Campbell praised Maryville College as a place where this training is being carried on. Then, he stated the five standards approved by the General Assembly, for church-related colleges, and commented on the fact that Maryville College goes far beyond meeting these minimum requirements.

The next meeting of the Faculty Club will be held April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Home Economics department, Fayerweather hall. Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, and head of that department, will speak on the subject, "The Psychological Basis of World Peace." Dr. Briggs graduated from Maryville College, and earned both his master's degree and doctor's degree at the University of North Carolina. He attended the University of Chicago for one year. Dr. Briggs has been here at the college since 1936. This year he is serving as coach of the debate team.

Directors Meet To Discuss Plans For College Future

Dr. E. Fay Campbell, last Wednesday's chapel speaker, met in conference with the two outstanding committees of the board of directors early Wednesday afternoon. Nine members of the committees were present in the dining hall for a luncheon which preceded the business meeting.

Dr. Campbell as Secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the Presbyterian Board of Education met with the Administration and Finance committees of the board of directors to discuss the future plans of the college and the relationship of the college to the Presbyterian Church U.S.A.

Those present included the two committee chairmen—Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, chairman of the committee on Administration and Judge A. E. Mitchell of Knoxville, Finance chairman.

M Club Plans Overnight Hike To Mount Nebo

There are two more point system weeks left on the school calendar. To close the season "M" club is going on an overnight hike to Mount Nebo probably the weekend of the fifteenth. It is on this hike that the neophytes are dragged through the throes of initiation. Pete Peterson and some sophomores are co-chairmen of the committee for the torture of new "M" club members. In charge of food are Betsy Burleigh and Nancy Russell.

The softball tournament was not brought to a final close because rain called off the last game. Four games had been played ending in a two game win for each of the teams, the WACS and the WAVES. Stevie Boretsky, chairman, and Mrs. Queener have to decide what to do. Some decision will probably be reached after the paper has gone to press.

Track is the next item for exertation. There is just one week of practice followed by tests in shot put, broad jump, high jump, running, baseball throw, basketball throw. Points are given for a perfect show in each of these.

Student Council

The student council recently presented to the student body a proposal for the continuance of "Town Night." The proposal was unanimously accepted.

At the last council meeting on Monday night, March 20, a revision of the provisions in operation at present was submitted and passed favorably upon by the group. This new provision is to allow groups of three girls or more instead of at least four to be allowed to go to town on Tuesday nights. The executive council of the faculty has also passed the proposal. The remaining act to make this new part official will be its acceptance by the student body. The matter will be taken up before the students in the very near future.

New Hope For World After War Is Chapel Subject

"There is a new hope for the world after the war when we shall reach the happy medium between liberalism and fundamentalism in our religious life as a result of the back to the Bible movement!" Thus spoke Dr. E. Fay Campbell at the Tuesday morning chapel service. Dr. Campbell went on to say that though liberalism and fundamentalism have both done a great deal of harm and a great deal of good they shall both pass away in the near future to be replaced by some new religious idea. This new religious theory he explained is a direct result of the return of the peoples of the world to the Bible, which is the fundamental source of all knowledge. He further pointed out that each time there has been a movement back to the Bible a new and definite thesis has been evolved.

These were the basic ideas expressed by Dr. Campbell in his chapel address. Dr. Campbell is the Secretary of the Division of Higher Education of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. He was appointed to this office only in 1942, but prior to that time he had held various offices and posts in the realm of Christian enterprise. Among these are: General secretary of the Christian Association at Yale University, his alma mater; representative of the Christian Student Movement at the International Missionary Council at Jerusalem in 1928; staff member of the World's Student Christian Federation in Geneva, Switzerland in 1934. At the present time he is also the president of the Board of Trustees of the Student Volunteer movement in the United States.

ATHENIAN

Athenian society met last Saturday night in Athenian hall. In the business meeting they discussed the reports of the play committee and the banquet committee. More members were appointed to help in organizing and preparing for the banquet, which has tentatively been set for April 18.

For the program the fellows told of good jokes to play on their female favorites on the coming April Fool's Day. John Poland was awarded a bag of hot air for the first prize in the Tall Tale Contest which was held the week before. Owen McGarity was in charge of keeping a candle under the bag to keep it hot.

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

PING PONG

All of the first round matches in the annual Ping Pong tournament have been played off. Participation in that tournament is the main activity of the Intramural program at present. The date, March 30, has been set as the final day for the second round matches to be completed. The following is a list of the matches which have been played at this writing:

Easter conquered J. Turner (21-15), (21-7). Poland outscored Scott (21-7), (21-12). Huber crushed Dillener (21-2), (21-15). Cross emerged victor in the closest match thus far, a battle with McGarity, (23-21) and (22-21). Ross was eliminated by Parkinson (21-8), (21-19). Moehlman vanquished Cover (21-7), (21-10). Schieber defeated Lester to the tune of (21-13), (17-21), (21-12) in the only match that has taken three games to decide. Ferguson took Crowson into camp (21-7), (21-19). And Kemp beat both Dockendorf (21-17), (21-18), and H. Henry by the same score.

At this stage of the tournament Huber, or Poland, is favored to reach the finals from the upper bracket; and either Kemp or Buford is the probable one to become the finalist from the lower bracket. These matches are being played on a table set up in the wrestling gym in Bartlett Hall. The matches consist of the best two out of three games.

BASKETBALL ALL-STAR TEAM

The basketball all-star team has recently been elected. It consists of the following players:

First team:

Abbott Kemp, Team 1, forward.
Wally Easter, Team 1, forward.
Leroy Dillener, Team 1, center.
Paul Moehlman, Team 2, guard.
Tommy Parkinson, Team 3, guard.

Second Team:

Buford, forward.
J. Turner, forward.
Lester, center.
Poland, guard.
Cover, guard.

Kemp was high scorer for the whole season with 115 points to his credit. Dillener was second, scoring an even 100. And Moehlman got third place in the scoring race with 65 points. He was closely followed by Easter, Buford and Poland in that order.

The basketball season was formally ended on March 16 when Team 1 completed the season undefeated by conquering Team 2, 37-26. On March 14, Team 2 beat Team 3 in the game which decided second place, score 25 to 21. That game left the teams in their proper places in the final standings for the season. Team 1 finished in first place with nine wins and no losses; Team 2 was in second place with two victories and seven losses; while Team 3 ended up third best, winning one game and losing five.

Here are the line-ups for the

2 (25)		3 (21)
Buford 15	F	Parkinson 4
Schieber 2	F	Lester 2
Moehlman 4	C	Crowson 6
Burgreen	G	Poland 9
J. Turner 4	G	Brown

Substitutes: Team 2—Seel; Team 3—H. Henry.

3 (37)		2 (26)
Kemp 8	F	Buford 8
Robarts 2	F	Schieber 1
Dillener 7	C	Moehlman 12
Easter 12	G	Burgreen 1
Cover 8	G	J. Turner 4

Substitutes: Team 3—Ferguson; Team 2—Seel and Richard.

VOLLEY BALL

Volley ball is to be the next major sport in the intramural program. In fact the first game of the season was to have been played this last Thursday, but it had to be called off when the army students took over the gym due to wet weather. In other words, the game was called because of rain—indirectly. The teams for this sport are to have practically the same personnel as the basketball teams; there have been only one or two changes. And right here is a good place to make the plea for names for the volley ball teams. All during the basketball season we spoke of teams 1, 2, and 3, but that is both confusing and uninteresting. Wouldn't it sound better to say the Bobcats, Panthers, and Bears, or some such names? Why don't the captains of the three teams, Poland, Easter, and Dillener, get together with the Intramural Staff and decide on names for the teams. If no one else appreciates the action, it will certainly make for better comprehendability (Is that a word?) in this column when we get around to writing up the games.

Orchids to Huffman for making the Intramural program a real success. When the present Ping Pong tournament is finished there are to be two other minor activities to take its place. He already has the entrance sheets posted on the Carnegie Hall bulletin board for a doubles Ping Pong tournament and for a singles horse shoe tournament. They are to be the next sports along with volley ball.

POINT STANDINGS

The following is a list of the standings in points in the Intramural program as of March 16. This list of the top team men and their respective totals does not include the points gained from getting a place on the Basketball All-Star teams, nor does it include points made in Ping Pong. But it does include every other activity, both of this semester and last:

1. Kemp	125
2. Easter	113
3. Buford	112
4. Poland	105
5. Ferguson	102
6. Parkinson	95
7. M. Turner	95
8. Cover	95
9. Schieber	94
10. Dillener	93
10. Moehlman	93

Apprentice Seaman Wayne Stevens, class of '45, has just been sent to Asheville, North Carolina, where he is a member of the staff of the U. S. Naval Convalescent Hospital. He is awaiting further orders to dental school. Wayne if from New York State.

Verne Feebach, who would have been a junior this semester, has been accepted to the cadet nursing corps and has begun her training at the school of nursing of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. Verne spent the week-end here on the campus before reporting to Nashville.

Corporal Paul C. Kolter, class of '45, is stationed at Fort McClellan, Alabama. One-half of the division he has charge of is composed of American Japanese from internment camps. Paul has been in Alabama since July of last year.

Corp. Pratt

At that same camp, Fort. McClellan, Corporal Ted B. Pratt is stationed. Ted, who graduated in '43, was a sociology major from Ohio and quite active in campus affairs. He was Sports Editor of the Echo both his junior and senior years, a member of Writers' Workshop, on the YM cabinet his 3rd and 4th years, and a May Day attendant. Ted was also elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Pvt. Wilbur Chapman, who graduated in August of last year, visited on the campus two weeks ago, while enroute to Meridian, Mississippi. He is being transferred there to the quartermaster corps from Seymour Johnson Field, North Carolina.

Pfc. Claude Shell, Jr., an ex-member of the class of '44 is stationed at Camp Cooke, California. Claude, who is from Pine Bluff, Arkansas, has a brother, John, here who is a member of the freshman class. Claude is in a Tank Destroyer Division.

Pvt. Bob Milligan, from Brentwood, Pennsylvania, who would have graduated with the present junior class, is stationed in Arizonia. He has been shipped back and forth from Texas to California to Arizonia. Now, he expects to be sent to Camp Dix, New Jersey, and from there overseas.

Pvt. Bill Evans, who graduated in August of 1943, has been stationed at Camp Gordon, Georgia, in the 10th Armored Division for the past month. Bill was class treasurer of last year's junior class, ex-member of the debate squad and the national honorary debate society, Pi Kappa Delta. Bill was also very active in intramural athletics.

Lieutenant John Allen Kerr, class of 1941, whose home is in Greenback, Tennessee, is stationed in Columbia, South Carolina. He has charge of the convalescent training program at the station hospital of the Columbia Air Base.

Seaman First Class Lloyd Anderson, who left at Christmas time to enter the Navy returned to visit friends on the campus over the weekend. Lloyd, class of '45, just completed six weeks of boot camp training at Bainbridge, Maryland. While here as a student, he was an outstanding member of the wrestling team.

Pvt. Ralph Martin Hovel, who was an instructor in German and French here at the college from 1938 to 1942, is also stationed at Camp McClellan, Alabama, with Paul Kolter and Ted Pratt. Mr. Hovel graduated from Miami University, and spent a year at the University of Heidelberg, Germany, in foreign language study. He received his masters' degree from State University in 1937. He has been assigned (with rating coming) as Chaplain's Assistant at Fourth Regimental Chapel (North) at Ft. McClellan.

Law Club Hears Mr. Marvin Minear

Thursday, March 30, at 6:45 in the Spanish class-room in Anderson hall. Mr. Marvin Minear, assistant in the treasurer's office, will speak at Law Club. He will speak on economics in the post war. Mr. Minear graduated from Maryville College, and has been here since 1942. He has made a study of this subject. Everyone is invited to hear him speak.

The club is now making plans for a banquet to be held in Knoxville at the beginning of next month.

The Law Club is for all of those who are interested in politics and law.

Writers' Workshop

Wednesday afternoon Miss Jessie Johnson and Miss Elizabeth Jackson, assistant professors of English, read at Writers' Workshop. Miss Johnson read some blank verse: "Fate," "A Word for Dad", "Personalty Plus", and "Perspective". Miss Jackson read a short story entitled "Brother Sam." Edward Gates and Paul Moehlman were the critics.

Next week Evelyn Whitehead, a junior Spanish major from Erwin, Tennessee, and Robert Huber, a junior political science and history major from Passaic, New Jersey, will read.

Hays Elected New Theta President

Theta and Alpha Sigma are planning a joint picnic for Saturday night, April 1.

Theta officers, since the election this semester are: Jane Hays, president; Betty Lou King, vice president; Dorothy Justus, treasurer; and Margaret Witt, secretary. The program chairmen are Ruth Lloyd and Charlotte Proffitt.

PRE-MED CLUB

Mrs. Joy Stout, who is a Blount County public nurse, spoke to the Pre-med club at their meeting on Thursday evening, March 23, at 6:40. She told the group about the different parts of the work of a public health nurse. The meeting was held in the chemistry lecture room in Fayerweather Science hall.

I.R.C.

The International Relations club will not hold a meeting on Monday night because of the Artists' Series.

At a meeting which was held last Monday a report was given by Robert F. Huber, the Maryville delegate to the Southeastern Regional Conference of the International Relations club, which was held at Greensboro, North Carolina, on March 10 and 11.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian will meet this Saturday evening in Bainonian hall at 6:15 p.m. Jean Martin will be in charge of a Brazilian program of music and games—truly characteristic of "Down South American Way." Jean is the daughter of a missionary of Brazil. All society members are invited to join in the fun.

NATURE CLUB

At the meeting of the Nature Club on Monday, March 20, Jean McCall was the special speaker. Her subject was wild flowers.

The Nature Club is planning a hike sometime the second week in April. A biology teacher will accompany the group to explain plants along the way. The hike will be in the form of a scavenger hunt, with certain plants to find, and there will be a picnic supper outdoors after the hike.

FRENCH CLUB

French songs were sung at the regular meeting of the French Club Thursday evening, March 23, in the Y.W. room. Plans for a dinner meeting of the club were discussed. The dinner is to be on April 13, at the home of the president, Betty Ballard, a senior French major from Maryville.

Pi Gamma

Pi Gamma held a luncheon last Friday noon in the YW Rooms, with Louise Henry and Florence Gobillot serving as chairmen. Pi Gamma has recently decided to have regular luncheon meetings rather than afternoon programs. Jeana Eddleman, senior biology major from Maryville, is chairman of the organization.

Spanish Club

The Spanish club held a program in the nature of "Information Quiz" last Thursday evening, March 23, at six-forty in the Spanish classroom in Anderson Hall. Members of advanced classes in Spanish participated in the quiz.

The club is sponsored by Dr. John Stellwagen, assistant professor of Spanish. President of the club is Madeline Cooke, a sophomore Latin major from Cleveland, Ohio.

GERMAN CLUB

German club will hold a business meeting this Monday evening, March 27. This meeting is for the purpose of discussing plans for a picnic to be held sometime in the near future.

Members of the club participated in the Tri-language program last Saturday, March 18. They demonstrated folk dances in which the whole student body joined after learning how to do them.

ALPHA SIGMA

A program of musical entertainment will be featured at the meeting of the Alpha Sigma society tonight at 6:15 in the Fine Arts studio in the chapel. President Roy Dillener will be in charge of the program. At their last meeting the Alpha Sigs discussed the possibilities of having a joint Saturday afternoon outing with their sister society, Theta Epsilon.

DISC CLUB

Disc Club meets March 30, at 6:40 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. A program of American composers' music is scheduled. Mrs. Zimmerman will be the commentator.

GIRLS, DISHES, BEANS, BROOMS OR—HOW THE ARMY GETS FED

By THELMA RICHARDSON

When the soldiers arrived on the Maryville campus lots of changes were wrought, new things were introduced. Among them was a different species of worker known as the army waitress.

A contemporary of mine whose words are floating around this paper somewhere is letting you all in on what the home ec. department is cooking up, so here goes on the culinary capers of the girls who know how to dish it out. The recent showers have brought on these current feelings of domesticity.

Besides feeding ham and beans to the "cadets," A. W. has the happy privilege of greeting the new day at six o'clock. That is unless she has cultivated that invigorating habit of getting dressed in two seconds flat.

All that is mere dawdling, however, for it is at lunch time that the real race is on. Let us say she has a fourth period class. At 12:19 she lets the teacher know the time to leave is just about here by picking up her books and putting on her coat. By 12:21 she is in the dining hall putting on her apron and profusely thanking the lucky girl who has had the fourth period free. That gentle soul has come early and helped fix about 32 desserts and 16 salads. To get back to the beaten path at 12:23 she is sitting down to lunch. Boy, oh boy, hungry is her name! At 12:25 she is trotting in trays full of hot food. Boy oh boy hungry is her name. Then from the time somebody with a gold stripe yells, "Heats," until the rising up of the same, plates for more bread, cups for more coffee are waved, while a steady stream of white aprons whiz back and forth. Well, anyway some of them whiz, for there are two kinds of army waitresses. The one who butters the rolls for her table and the one who just doesn't. The former will smile and dash out trying to break the two-seconds-flat-even-if-the-bread-is-in-the-wrapper record. The other poses the plate on the tips of her fingers and saunters out singing, "This Will be My Shining Hour", and is back just as she is finishing the second chorus of "Mairzy Doats".

Army waitresses find it easier to work in twos. It's really handier that way. While sweeping the floor, your partner can be getting the glasses and silver, washing the table, drying the glasses and silver, and setting the table. Oh, it works much better that way.

But don't get me wrong, I love waiting an army table, and besides my roommate is an expert at scaring me out of the hiccoughs.

Wednesday Chapel

Dr. James A. Armentrout will be the speaker at the chapel service next Wednesday morning. Dr. Armentrout is an native of Tennessee and a graduate of Yale University. He is dean of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education in Chicago, which is closely connected with the McCormick Seminary.

Why was the little inkdrop so sad?

His father was in the pen, finishing a sentence.

Freshman Class Leads Sale of Stamps and Bonds

This week the freshman class led the sales of stamps and bonds with the total of $24.20. The juniors weren't far behind with $23.75. Each of these classes sold a $25.00 bond. Sophomore sales totaled $11.30 and senior sales, $5.75.

Possibly many of the college students do not understand about the system for selling bonds and stamps now in operation. The chief sales committee is representative of all the classes and is working to encourage competion between classes to secure more money for the purpose. Recent sales indicate that students do not seemingly realize the purpose of our weekly day, Friday, for selling bonds and stamps. The money received from these sales does not help the classes individually or any group sponsoring the work, but is our meager aid to the government in our war debt. It is not just a matter of competition between classes but is our duty in helping as much as possible with the financial burden of the war. The stamp committee pleads for as great participation in the program by the students as can be given. We want Maryville College to reach a good comparative average with other colleges in proportion to our enrollment.

A surprise party is being planned by the stamp committee. Definite planes will soon be announced.

Sunrise Service Is At 6 a.m. In Woods

Choir To Present Easter Cantata At Vesper Service

The Holy Week and Easter program at the College in which there have been brief services each morning and each noon during the present week reached a part of their climax in the Good Friday morning service in the chapel. The services to highlight the week will be the Sunrise Service at 6:11 Easter morning in the Amphitheatre in the college woods, and the cantata in the chapel Sunday evening at 7:15.

At the Good Friday morning service three members of the faculty, Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, and Prof. R. E. Walker, gave brief five-minute meditations on the seven last words. The choir sang special Good Friday music.

The Sunrise Service Easter morning is set for 6:11, which is the exact hour of sunrise on that date. Preceding it there will be music by an instrumental ensemble from the Maryville High School band and the usual gathering of participants and guests at President Lloyd's home for breakfast. The service will consist of music and readings lasting about three quarters of an hour. All are invited to attend.

The cantata Sunday night, given by the choir under the direction of Mr. Philip O. Jones, is that by Dubois entitled "The Seven Last Words of Christ". Soloists for the cantata will be Carole Paxton and Sibyl Tallent, sopranos; John Houdeshel and John Scott, tenors; and James Walker, bass. Accompanists will be Miss Katharine Davies at the organ and Mary Evelyn Jamison at the piano. To continue the theme of the cantata, and to close the presentation with the Easter message, the concluding number is Gounod's "Unfold Ye Portals".

"Christ is Arisen", Hirsch.

"Easter Bells", Christiansen.

"Alleluia! Christ is Risen", Kopolyoff.

"The Trumpet Shall Sound", Parry.

Mrs. John Walker Celebrates 92nd Birthday Easter

Mrs. John Walker will be 92 on Easter Sunday. She is known to most of the Maryville students for her many contributions for their benefit. Mrs. Walker resides at "Morningside" in the college woods. She came to Maryville in 1932 from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and on arrangements with the college built the home in which she now lives. Her decision to move here was the result of Mr. Walkers's death. He was associated with Andrew Carnegie in the steel business and died at the age of 87. Mrs. Walker was 80 at the time and came here to reside near her sister, the late Mrs. William Stevenson, wife of the College Pastor Emeritus.

Mrs. Walker is quite well and says she enjoys living on the Maryville campus. Many of her friends from the north visit her from time to time. She is known especially for her interest in beautifying the campus and buildings. One of her recent improvements was in planting shrubs behind the new addition to the kitchen. Mrs. Walker was responsible for remodeling Pearson's lobby and was also largely responsible for landscaping the Amphitheatre in the college woods that is to be used for the Sunrise Easter service.

Students appreciate Mrs. Walker's interest in them and it is a source of joy to her to have been able to help others as much as possible.

NO PROGRAM

There will be no planned campus activity this Saturday night because of the Easter preparations, but the swimming pool and gym will be open to students.

Mrs. Wright Gives Globe to Library

A new improvement has been added to the Maryville library in Thaw hall within the last few days, in the form of a floor stand globe. The eighteen inch globe ball is a gift to the college of Mrs. H. C. Wright, mother of librarian Miss Nathalia Wright. The ball, with a full movable meridian, is mounted on a walnut stand. It is forty inches over all and weighs one hundred and three pounds.

Shelf space for books in the reading room of the library has been enlarged considerably within the past two weeks. Bound volumes of periodicals have been placed on the east side of the room. Students are permitted to take these volumes for use in the reading room without the use of yellow slips. Such as "open stack" system is a privilege.

Following is a list of new books which have also recently been purchased: Allen, Bedford Vilage, Bailey, The Standard Encyclopedia of Horticulture; Cross, Connecticut Yankee — an autobiography; Cameron, Uncle Sam Takes a Tonic; DeVoto, The Year of Decision; Funk, What's the Name, Please?; Gatty, The Raft Book; Harris, Uncle Remus; Hindus, Mother Russia; Hutchinson, From Victory to Peace; Laske, Reflections of the Revolution of Our Time; Johnsen, Basic English; Lee, The Historic Church and Modern Pacificism; Lindbergh, The Steeple Accent; Pei, Languages for War and Peace; Sears, Song Index; Smedley, Battle Hymn of China; Traink Yankee Lawyer; The Pronunciation of 10,000 Proper Words; The Columbia Encyclopedia; Woodson, the History of the Negro Church; Economic Problems of War and Its Aftermath.

Evelyn Gregory Is Senior Choice For Queen of May Day

Paul Smith, Senior Class President Selected As King

Election results of May Day were announced last week and plans for the May party are now underway.

Evelyn Gregory was chosen by the senior class to be queen of the festival. Evelyn is an English major from Eton, Georgia. She is a member of Bainonian and Writers' Workshop. As her attendants she has chosen Ann Horton and Vickie Hoole. Paul Smith, president of the class of '44, will escort the queen. He is a ministerial student from Orlando, Florida.

Other class elections were held at the same time. The juniors chose as their representatives Margaret Hunt, a Spanish major from Sussex, New Jersey, and Abner Richard, a sociology major from Norristown, Pennsylvania. They selected as partners for the occasion Joe Brown and Jane Hays.

Peggy Claypoole, a home economics major from Woodbury, New Jersey, and Abbot Kemp of Atworth, Georgia, were elected by the spohomores. Their partners are John Houdeshel and Zenobia Bernardini.

Freshman attendants are Carolyn Winfreys of Tennessee and Rush Lester of Birmingham, Alabama. Rush's partner will be Joy Stewart. The other partner has not as yet been chosen.

General arrangements for the annual May Day festival are made by Mrs. Evelyn Queener and Mrs. Nita E. West in cooperation with the newly selected social committee of the Y.W.C.A. The two new members are to be Mary Evelyn Jamison and Cynthia Johnson.

It is the custom to have this celebration in the amphitheatre of the college woods. The theme and more definite plans will be announced soon.

Brown, Peterson Elected Presidents of YM and YW

McGarity, Gates, And Richard Are Other Officers

At the annual business meeting of the YMCA, held in the chemistry lecture room in Science hall Tuesday, April 4, President Bill Buford announced the officers elected for next year. They are as follows: Joe Brown, president; Owen McGarity, vice-president; Edward Gates, secretary; and Abner Richard, treasurer.

Joe Brown, the newly elected president, is a junior history major from Blairs Mills, Pennsylvania. He has been active on the YM cabinet. This, his second on the cabinet, he served as manager of the Chatterbox and as chairman of the Fellowship committee. He has been the vice-president of the association this semester, taking Lloyd Anderson's place. Joe is also president of the Student Volunteers. This is his third semester as a representative of his class on the Student Council. He has been on the honor roll. Joe is a ministerial student and has been tentatively accepted by Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Owen McGarity, who is to be the vice-president, is a sophomore political science major from Croydon, Pennsylvania. He has been working on the cabinet as chairman of the Community committee this year; he is assistant Cubmaster of the Maryville Pack and has done a great deal towards development of that program. Owen is a member of Student Vols, Law Club, and vice-president of Athenian society. He is a ministerial student and has been accepted tenatively by Princeton Seminary for 1945.

Edward Gates, who was elected secretary, is a junior and an English major from Maryville. He is a member of the Writers' Workshop and the Student Council.

Abner Richard, junior sociology major from Norristown, Pennsylvania, is the new treasurer. As a member of the YMCA cabinet this year he was on the Fellowship committee and worked on the Intramural staff first semester. In his sophomore year he was an Intramural manager. He was on the Student Council for two semesters and is now treasurer for the junior class. He is also the present secretary of Athenian society.

Other business at the annual meeting was the reading of the reports of the various committees of the work done by the respective chairmen.

Debate Team To Meet LMU Again April 14

Freshman Team Encounters Group From High School

The Maryville College debating team will hold their second debate of the year on Friday, April 14, when they encounter the representatives of Lincoln Memorial University.

Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, and coach of the team, has announced tentative plans for this debate, which will be held either in the chapel or the philosophy classroom. Miriam Wickham, or Byron Sprague, and Bette Lou McCoy will uphold the affirmative, while Robert Huber and Dorothy Dick will take the negative. The question to be debated is Resolved: That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis.

The first debate of the year was held on Friday, March 31, at Harrogate, Tennessee, and the opponent on this occasion was also Lincoln Memorial University. The results were as follows: Lawrence Sthreshley and Dorothy Lehman debated affirmative and won; while Marinell Ross and Ben Lynt bated negative and lost.

Arrangements have also been completed for a debate to be held here on April 12 with Berea College of Berea, Kentucky. The Maryville team also plans to travel to Berea for a return match and also to Cookeville, Tennessee, where they will meet Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. The dates for these debates are still tentative.

The freshman team had their first meet of the season Monday evening, April 3, when they encountered the representatives of Maryville High School. The results were as follows: Olinde Ahrens and Carroll Stegall debated the affirmative side and won; John Shell and John Poland debated the negative side and lost.

Plans are now in a formulative stage for the varsity squad to engage Berea College, at Barea, Kentucky, on Friday, April 28, and further announcement will be made in the near future.

Chinese Play Presented By Dramatics Class

"The Thrice Promised Bride", a Chinese play was presented by several Maryville students under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West to the members of the Chilhowee club last Tuesday afternoon in their clubhouse on Elm Avenue and Cates Street.

Members of Mrs. West's advanced classes in dramatic art took part. They made themselves up and used Chinese costumes borrowed from Mrs. Robert C. Cross. The actors were: Vicki Hoole, Merriam McGaha, Marion Schanck, Esther Farrow, Miriam Bowditch, Mary Grace Hall, Ruby Sellers, Nancy Russell, Shirley Scott, Thelma Richardson, and Dorothy Harned.

The next ECHO will be published April 22.

Choir Will Sing Request Anthems

Anyone who would like to hear again any of the following anthems, which have been given by the choir during the 1943-44 school year, is asked to put these requests in Mr. Jones' box in the Personnel Office, or to slip them under his door. From these requests will be selected the anthems to be used by the choir on the remaining five Sundays of this semester.

"Palms", Faure.
"Unfold Ye Portals", Gounod.

Lehman, Bellerjeau Pleyl, Richardson Are Also Chosen

Results of the recent election of Y.W.C.A. officers for next year have been announced. They are: Agnes Peterson, president; Dorothy Lehman, vice-president; Hope Pleyl, secretary; Jeanne Bellerjeau, treasurer; and Thelma Richardson, Nu Gamma chairman. The new officers will announce the other cabinet members at a later date.

The new president, Agnes Peterson, is from Knoxville. She is a biology major and serves as vice-president of the junior class. She is active in point system, is a member of "M" club, Student Vols, Pre-med, Bainonian, and works in the college bookstore.

Dorothy Lehman, a junior English major from Beverly, Kentucky, is to serve on the cabinet as vice-president. She is the editor of this year's Chilhowean, president of Pi Kappa Delta, and a member of the varsity debate team. Last year she was a winner of the T. T. Alexander oratorical contest. Dorothy has taken roles in several dramatic productions on the campus and will be in the daisy chain this spring.

Hope Pleyl, the newly elected secretary, is a psychology major from Providence, Rhode Island. She is a present member of the Y.W. cabinet, belongs to Bainonian, and also works in the bookstore. Hope was recently chosen to be one of the members of this year's daisy chain.

Jeanne Bellerjeau, treasurer, is a religious education major from Haddon Heights, New Jersey. She is a member of the junior class and of this year's Y. W. cabinet. Jeanne also represents her class on the student council, is on the cabinet of Student Vols, and works on point system. She is a member of Writers' Workshop.

The Nu Gamma chairman is Thelma Richardson, from Staten Island, New York. She is a dramatic art major and has taken part in several school productions. Thelma is vice-president of the sophomore class, a member of Writers' Workshop, the Echo staff, and Bainonian.

The annual point Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. retreat for the new and old cabinet members and Nu Gamma leaders will be held on Saturday, April 15, at Peck's Memorial.

PARISH CHURCHES TO HAVE SPECIAL EASTER SERVICES

Maryville Students Conduct Programs Sunday, April 9th

Easter services emphasizing the Resurrection and other spiritual aspects of the holiday season will be conducted at each of the Parish Project mission points tomorrow. The services have been arranged by the students who have been holding Sunday School and worship services at the various chapels during the semester. They will be assisted by ordained ministers and special musical selections.

The program planned for New Castle is typical of those to be conducted at the other points. The features of the service will be a sermon delivered by the Rev. Mr. Floyd R. Watt, director of the Parish Project, and musical selections by Helen Underwood, flutist. The program also includes appropriate hymns, poems, and stories. An egg hunt, which will be held following the worship service. This part of the service wil be led by the four students who have been conducting services at this chapel during the past year: John Taylor, Miriam Gutzke, Bette Lou McCoy, and John Kirstein.

Services of a similar nature will be held at Keeble Chapel, Marble Hill, Hickory Valley, Home Avenue, Lamar Chapel, and West Maryville.

Wednesday Chapel

The Maryville High School band, under the direction of Mr. Casius I. Gould, will give a short concert for the college in the regular Wednesday chapel service next Wednesday. The band has several numbers which they intend to play, but the program has not been released as yet.

Army Aircrew Program To Be Discontinued Here

When asked by the Highland Echo this week concerning the status of the Army Air Forces College Training Program at Maryville College, President Lloyd made the following statement:

"The College has not yet received full information from the Government or the Army as to the future plans, but it is our understanding that the present program is to be closed in all colleges within the next few months.

"On January 29 it was announced from Washington that the Army Air Forces Program would be terminated at 70 of the 151 colleges and universities then conducting it. Most of the 70 were in the North. Maryville College was on the list of 81 to continue.

"However, on March 31 it was announced in the press from Washington that the program would be closed by June 30 in all 81 of the remaining colleges. The reason publicly given is that training in the Army Air Forces is ahead of schedule.

"We have known, of course, that some such development would come eventually but had hardly expected it at this time or in this way. The Maryville College program for civilian students will continue in full and on schedule. The Fall Semester will open September 5. If the Army program does not continue throughout the summer it may be wise to make some change in our original plans about the Summer Session; we will make definite announcements about that soon.

"Maryville College stands ready to make whatever adjustments are necessary to serve the nation in these war years. For more than a year we have put unreserved effort into conducting the program assigned to us

Knaupp, Taylor Are Speakers In Oratorical Contest

Lyle Knaupp and John Taylor were chosen the finalists in the T. T. Alexander elimination which was held March 28. The final contest between these two will be held Wednesday, April 19, as a part of the chapel service, but they are to be chosen from capable men of the community.

Lyle and John were selected both on the content of their speeches, which had been judged prior to the elimination contest, and on the presentation. The judges for the contest were Mrs. M. M. Cummings, Dr. John A. Gates and Dr. H. E. Orr, of the Bible and religious education staff. Other participants in the elimination contest were Luther Cross, Paul Moehlman, Byron Sprague, and Carroll Stagall.

The contestants had to speak on one of the following topics: The Diety of Jesus Christ, Christ's Atonement for Sin, The Ressurrection, or Salvation Through Faith.

The annual contest, which has been in existence for many years, is named after a missionary graduate of Maryville College. Prizes are given each year to both the first and the second place winners.

"Tulip Time" To Be Presented April 29 By Glee Club

"Tulip Time", an operetta in two acts by Geoffrey F. Margan and Frederick G Johnson, will be presented Saturday night, April 29, in the chapel by members of the Glee club, under the direction of Mr. Philip O. Jones.

The plot revolves around the mistaken identity of Professor McSpindle, the botany professor, and is full of clever lines with a goodly sprinkling of romance.

Bob Seel plays the part of McSpindle, who comes with a group of botany students to study the tulips of Holland. In the group are Ned, played by Jack Scott, and Dick, portrayed by Carroll Stegall, who seem ot be more interested in "two lips" than in "tulips." At any rate, they lose no time in making the acquaintance of Louise Warwick and Lois Wilkes, two pretty Dutch maidens who go by the names of Christina and Katinka. Shirley Feeney takes the role of Aunt Anna. Christina's aunt. When Professor McSpindle meets her, he begins to have a "change of heart" also. The two comic characters in the operetta are the burgomaster — Owen McGarity — and Hans, the town simpleton— Douglas McMartin. The burgomaster with Hans' assistance arrests McSpindle, who fits the description of a man who has been stealing valuable tulip bulbs. For awhile things look dark for McSpindle, but in the end everything ends happily.

The chorus of Dutch boys and girls is made up of members of the Glee club. There is also a small chorus of American students.

Mrs. Evelyn N. Queener, instructor in physical education, has been coaching the chorus in their dance steps. Thelma Richardson is assisting the leads in their acting.

Mr. Jones has selected a small orchestra from the regular college orchestra to play for the performance. Annette Bills is the pianist.

President of the Glee club is Lenore Wise, who has given special attention to the costumes. With the exception of the Americans, everyone will wear Dutch costumes.

Hank Crowson and By Sprague have been working on some flower stands and a windmill to lend atmosphere to the setting.

Charlie Burgreen will be the stage manager for the forthcoming production.

Rehearsals for "Tulip Time" have been underway since the opening of the second semester. Clever lines, catchy tunes, and a well-chosen cast all promise an entertaining performance.

DID YOU?

We write editorials and comments on how advanced we ourselves are, and how we are ready for this or that new idea because it is a step forward. But when an opportunity to exercise our new ideas arrives on the scene, we indicate we are still in the neolithic stage. Reference is pointed to some recent class meetings, in which there was little if any parliamentary procedure.

The senior class, which by authority of tradition should be the nearest impeccable, exercised in the opinions of many a veritable mob scene. Loud comments on the nominees or other pertinent subjects were much in evidence. And when the votes were counted by the showing of hands, anyone—and several did—could raise his hands more than the asked-for once. Some of this may rightly be blamed on the fact that no one could hear, since we were collected directly in front of the choir. That matter too should have been foreseen enough to provide a quiet meeting place if a gathering is worthwhile.

Similar deviations from rectitude occurred in the junior class. Only two underclasses expressed any practice of correct parliamentary procedure. It is figuratively true that " . . . a little child shall lead them."

We do not advocate long dry strictly formal business meetings. Our time at Maryville is entirely too valuable. But a short meeting can be carried forth as easily in order as it may in a disorderly manner.

Otherwise, why not disregard elections, if they mean no more to us than they do to some? Or why not have signed ballots. Such systems are not democratic, but that is at least one way to obtain effectiveness. Better still—conduct ourselves according to the accepted parliamentary procedure, with not very much more effort.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY

During the past semester there has been considerable talk among the students over matters such as student goverment and campus social conditions. Many expect complete student government and other changes to materialize, yet they make no effort to change their attitudes. which are at times, detrimental to the setting up of any new plan.

We fail to realize that the whole burden of responsibility, or at least the greater part of it, rests upon our shoulders and that we must prove ourselves to be capable and ready for such changes; we must show that we are responsible citizens of the campus by our actions. One way to do this is simply to obey the rules of the college, for those rules have a purpose and a place in our daily lives.

We cannot act in whatever manner we desire or say the things that pop into our minds whenever and wherever we please, but we must realize that college life is a society life and that the actions of one person or group of persons affects the whole college and each individual in it. We cannot act in an independent manner, but must act with this fact in mind, and all of this is part of our responsibility.

Lately, some people have violated the Town Night ruling, saying they see no good reason for such strict rules as were imposed, and, that they had always been able to take care of themselves before. But here again a person's actions affect the happiness and life of every other student. One who violates the college rules is not just sticking out his own neck but also those of every other student, or, as Miss Braly puts it, "they are helping to mangle any security those more trustworthy have founded."

POSITION OF THE FACULTY

Many times when we run across, or afoul, of a rule that seems obnoxious to us, we are apt to blame the faculty for it. But, we must realize, and this too is a part of our responsibility, that it is the duty of the faculty to maintain the standards of the college which are threefold: to maintain low expenses; to maintain high academic standards; and to provide a positive Christian emphasis. Anything that they do is in the support of these basic principles, and the benefits we receive from their maintenance are innumerable. They are responsible for the welfare of the college and for the welfare of each individual student and the programs and policies which they plan are done so in the light of a long range policy. We are here but a short time while they must maintain these principles over a longer period of time. Our ideal sand ideas are still in the formulative Our ideals and ideas are still in the formulative are to help us in this task.

COOPERATION

Changes have been and always will be made, but they must accrue. Within the past year the students and the faculty have cooperated in the matter of Town Night and at the present time the Student Faculty Senate has a committee working on a proposal for student government. Here are two definite examples of cooperation between the students and the faculty.

Recently, the executive committee of the faculty, as well as the Student Faculty Senate, approved the idea of allowing groups of three girls to go to town instead of the previously required four. This is certainly an indication that both students and faculty are conscious of present-day conditions and that they are willing to see changes comes about when there is a real need for them and when that policy of change seems advantageous to all concerned.

WHAT WE CAN DO

What can we do as students to foster more cooperation and better relations? Certainly we can, and we must, show that we are responsible citizens of the college, (especially as long as some continue to violate rules, in total disregard of the rights of others and with no consideration of the effect it will have on the whole), by doing our best to live by the rules and principles of this, a Christian college.

OVERTONES

By THELMA RICHARDSON

It happens on Spring evenings, well on these April, 1944 bits of twilight and dusk, anyhow; khaki pouring in and out of the Chatterbox, millions of couples walking between Pearsons and the chapel, girls dashing to the swimming pool, Elly and Don (one of the Barker boys), two-dip ice cream cones and no rain (?)

Jean Messer really has a system. She keeps her after supper dates busy drying her dishes for her. Maybe there is method in her madness. Just thought I'd put you poor unsuspecting boys wise.

Notes on the program: Daryl Stull and the boys in the band-13 of the vanishing cadets in a recital of swing gave us a musical lift. They took us clear out of a world of campus blues, exam woes, Spring droops, and frenzied searchings for time. Additions to help beautify the program were Helen Wilhoit, red and blue lights, and sheets straight from the quartermaster to make bandstands. Wouldn't you like to hear more of "Cherokee", "I'll Be Around," and "In the Mood"? That Tuesday night is something that will stay with us for a long time.

Nuts on the program, or the "Haunted House" with spooks like Soapie, Betty Lou, Margee, Katy S., and Lottie. Or—you can't keep good men down especially if they're McGarity, Easter, and Dockendorf. (Even if you cast aspersions on them.)

I don't know whether the impersonal viewer would catch it or not, but Jack Scott is developing into a wolf. Lest you jump at conclusions, that's what he's supposed to be in "Tulip Time," the operetta to be given in a few weeks. It also has dozens of the catchy little tunes in it, and cute Dutch girls floating around behind tulips.

There are two sixty-four dollar questions this week, and if you can answer them I'll give you my hard boiled egg the next time we have them for breakfast.

Number One: Is Winnie Sommers engaged?

Number Two: Why was Carol Titus so tremendously, super, overjoyed because she got four letters from India this week?

Some people are getting things out of their courses this year. Take Florence Gobillot for example; Goby is taking music appreciation. Just ask her to whistle practically anything (or sing if you like) from Bach to Brahms. Bob Seel is the other shining example. Bob fell asleep during a lecture one afternoon at 4:05. This is a confidential observation from an interested bystander, who clocked him. At 4:20 the class courteously tiptoed out and the professor turned out the light. Something happened to arouse him from his slumber at 4:35. Who knows maybe he had a nightmare, like dreaming he fell asleep in class.

If you have time, or some day when you happen to be passing Baldwin take a look at and a whiff of the lilac bush in front of the dorm. Spring time is one big nostalgic plot against us poor college students.

As a preview to the graduation crowd just oodles of mothers, brothers and sisters have been riding in. Dash Dick's little brother Ronnie has already taken the place by his charm. He has dubbed Pistol creek the swimming pool and wants to go wading there.

Lots of girls are making their own Easter bonnets this year. One freshman cutie sporting her own handiwork of flowers, veil, and a bit of extraneous material is Jessie Lou Brunson. Look at it when she isn't looking.

Oh to be in the choir—at least Monday anyway. What with picnics and excused cuts! They deserve it though, don'tcha think?

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

Dr. David Briggs Talks At Faculty Club Meeting

"Some Psychological Bases Of World Peace" Is Topic

The faculty club held its last meeting of the year Monday evening, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the home economics department in Fayerweather Science hall. The speaker of the evening was Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, and head of those departments. Dr. Briggs graduated from Maryville College, and earned his Masters and Doctors degrees at the University of North Carolina. He also attended the University of Chicago for one year, and has been a member of the faculty here since 1936.

Dr. Briggs spoke on the subject, "Some Psychological Bases of World Peace".

This problem of a lasting world peace occupies a prominent place in the minds of individuals and nations. Dr. Briggs introduced his subject by saying that "Since the beginning of civilization, man has deliberately sought to find a solution to individual and group problems in order that permanent happiness might result. Since the dawn of Christianity, four specific types of ideologies or concepts have been tried as a means of securing these desired ends." He went on to name them as that of Spiritual Man, in which emphasis centered on only one side of human nature, the spiritual; then came the Renaissance, in which period Intellectual Man excluded thoughts of the other aspects of human beings. The concept of Economic Man perforce has to be given up also, for, like the first two, all of man's nature was not considered in an equally important way. Peace did not result. "At present", said Dr. Briggs, "the allies are trying to destroy the result of the fourth concept, Heroic Man, as put forth by Japan, Germany, and Italy. Then, quoting Edward C. Tolman, a noted psychologist, the speaker suggested the fifth concept which must be established to bring peace, that of the Psychologically Adjusted Man. Religion is an outlet for pent-up emotions and feelings. Education raises individuals to a higher level of reasoning, above the level of war and its resulting calamities. What we need is intelligent and sane diplomatic service, along with education and religion, to reduce conflicts along nations by increasing the understanding on the part of all.

"The causes of War", continued Dr. Briggs, "are bound up in the frustration-aggression complex or theory which is an important study of psychologists at this time. Aggression is an attempt to relieve the tension caused by frustration. There are certain biological and social drives or needs that must be allowed balance if individuals are to become normal beings. And the same holds for nations and their position in the world." Then Dr. Briggs outlined the rise of frustrations in Germany after the last war—created in a large part by the unjust treatment of the Allies. First the result of thise frustrations was the attack on the Jews, then on the small countries, and finally on the very victors of 1918.

"Two conditions must be changed if national behavior which includes war and other undesirable forms of national and international conduct due to frustrations, are to be controlled. First the number of conditions that lead to frustrations must be greatly reduced, and second there must be developed national conditions that furnish harmless and semi-harmless means of releasing tensions arising out of frustrating experiences. Dr. Briggs pointed out that democracies have various means of releasing tensions of social living that dictatorships have not. Individuals are allowed initiative and freedom of action and expression. "A democracy, although far from being perfect, is the best type of goverment yet developed to permit a draining off into harmless channels of aggressive tendences caused by frustrations.

In addition to removing causes of frustrations and providing outlets for others, a program of social conditioning is necessary for world peace. "Peace and war are products of learning and are acquired. Man's original nature is neutral to war and peace alike. Hitler used excellent psychology in preparing his people for war—thus erasing their neutrality towards it. The youth of Germany were taught to hate and to fear the people of the nations whom Hitler wished them some day to fight. On the other hand, Americans, Frenchmen, and Englishmen were learning the ideals of peace, and they were being conditioned against war. Thus, all over the world, social conditions, that develop just the opposite attitudes and motives Hitler teaches, must be taught and stressed if peace instead of war is to dominate the world.

In conclusion, Dr. Briggs explained that "drives toward war are motivated both from without and from within. If we can create external conditions that reduce and release aggressive tendencies caused by frustrations to the point where the individual does not leave his conscience behind when crossing international borders or racial lines, then, and only then will the Prince of Peace reign on earth."

The salad and dessert served to the group before the speech of the evening was prepared by the members of the freshman foods classes under the supervision of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of home economics, and head of the department.

EASTER PARADE

By BEN LYNT

At the risk of becoming maudlin, or worse, of being accused of editorialising without invitation, the Easter season presents itself as the most timely subject for a feature—too good to be restricted.

Was back when knee pants were our daily garb, the Easter season meant a lovely combination of new clothes, colored eggs, pawed baskets of paper grass, jelly eggs and chocolate bunnies, not to mention too many hard-boiled eggs and other people's frilly new bonnets. But those were the festive, gala days of our not-too-remote youth, before growing pains and broader horizons impressed us with the needs and cares of other people; when the White House lawn was thrown open on Easter Monday to the general public of egg-rolling youngsters, and adults were admitted only when accompanied by children.

Since then, we have become men and women and have very nearly put away childish things. This past week, at Maryville college, we have participated in daily devotional programs, designed to renew our ever-deepening sense of the spiritual meanings of the Easter season; it has been a broadening, worthwhile experience, for these days are troublous days, when our boys abroad are daily dying violently that we may enjoy the rights of freely expressed religion and democracy.

This Easter Sunday morning, a great host of our former associates—and other young men just like them—will take a firmer grip on their battle weapons and dig a little deeper into the bloody mud of yesterday's shell hole; new clothes, laughing children and college campuses will be to them but hazy memories of an unreal world.

Running through the back of my mind during the moving experiences of this Holy week has been the haunting phrase, penned in a letter by a graduate of this college now in the Pacific theatre—"What have you done today for democracy?"— and the shape of any possible reply amounts to precious little.

But, there are at least two programs on this campus which provide the means for us to do even our precious little: the book-gathering campaign to provide books for the freeing of imprisoned men's minds, and the war stamp campaign to provide the cash for building the materials of war to speed its end and bring our men and other nation's men home from foreign battle fields.

As we have renewed our grip on the significant things this week, let us hope that we have also toughened our moral fibre and resolved to give all, that our boys might return the sooner and that Easter rabbits and laughing children might once more freely reign, signifying that peace and prosperity have once more been made secure.

INTRAMURALS

PING PONG TOURNAMENT

On the night of April 4, Paul Moehlman conquered Bob Huber in the finals of the singles ping pong tournamant to take that championship. The final match was a very close one with Moehlman taking the first game by the large score of 21-7, then Huber came back to even the match up at one game each by winning the second 22 to 20. In the third and all-deciding match—and after some mighty good ping pong—Moehlman emerged victor. Score of the final game was 21 to 19.

Moehlman had reached the final round by victories over Cover, Parkinson, Buford and Kemp in that order. His win over Kemp in the semi-finals was just about the biggest upset in the whole tournament. Huber had beaten Dillener, Poland, and Easter in the earlier rounds to gain his position in the finals.

Easter and Kemp, who were both eliminated in the semi-final round did not play a consolation game to determine third place in the tournament.

DOUBLES

The doubles ping pong tournament is under way. The first round has been played with the following results:

guson and Dockendorf (21-6), (19-21), (21-15).

Buford and Lester won over John and Marvin Turner (no relation) by a 21-16 and 21-15 score.

Huber and Poland outscored Cross and Schieber (21 to 16), (21 to 18).

Seel and Cover conquered Dillener and Burgreen by the close score of 22 to 20 and 21 to 17.

Moehlman and Easter drew a bye in the first round.

This is a double elimination tournament; that is, a team has to lose twice to be eliminated, so none of the teams are out of this tournament yet. The last date for second round matches to be played is Monday, April 10.

VOLLEY BALL

The volley ball schedule which was postponed so long because of rain is now being rapidly played off in the Intramural program.

On March 20 the first match was played between Team I, captained by Leroy Dillener, and Team II, which Wally Easter serves as captain. Team I, although they had only four players instead of the regular six, won two out of the three games to take the match. Scores were: 21-13, 13-21, 21-17.

Then on April 4, Team II took a match from Team III, John Poland, captain. It only took Dillinger's team two games to end this match with Team III, which mustered only four players and played with three for a short peroid.

The match which was supposed to have been played March 23 was finally played between Teams I and II on Thursday, April 6. Team II played with four players this time and they lost 21-12, 4-21, 21-11. On the same afternoon Team I played Team III in a regularly scheduled game, and Team I received its first defeat of the season. In this match which saw both teams with full teams of six men for the first time this season. Team I won the first game 21 to 12, but the second game was much closer. Even after both teams had passed the 20 point mark, which usually ends a game, service changed several times and neither team was able to get two points ahead to win. But Team I finally did, and won 24 to 22.

That leaves Team I ahead in the standings, having won two and lost one. But team II has won one and lost one, while Team II has won one and lost two. And there is no telling who will be the winner of the season after the last two games are played. Team III has to play both other teams once more and then the season will have been completed. Both of these matches may be played next Tuesday afternoon.

COMING ACTIVITIES

The singles horse shoes tournament has already been drawn up, and although none of the matches had been played at this writing, April 13 has been set as the last day for first round matches to be played.

The entry blank for all those interested in softball is posted on the Carnegie Hall bulletin board at present. These entries close April 10, and it is hoped that the first game in that sport can be played next Thursday.

And there is also an entry blank posted for a doubles horse shoes tournament, which is to be held as soon as the singles tournament of that sport is completed. All entries must be in for this by April 12.

Then a doubles tennis tournament is due to be held when the other tournaments have been finished.

COLLEGE vs. ARMY

Recently a team composed of the Army officers stationed on this campus, commissioned and noncoms, engaged a team of civilian students in two basketball games in Alumni Gym. Each team has won one of the games at present, and arrangements are being made for a final game to be played between the two teams to decide the winner of the whole series. That will probably be on Monday night.

In the first game, March 29, the college team came out winner by the lop-sided score of 59 to 25. Bill Buford was hot, scoring 16 points to become high point man. Sgt. Clift led the Army team with 14.

But the Army evened up the series by winning thesecond game 32 to 29 on the night of April 3. Clift was again high point man for the military team with 15 points for the game. Kemp led the college team with 14.

The following are the lineups for the games:

College (59)	Pos.	Army (25)
Easter 8	F	Garrison 2
Poland	F	Taylor 4
Dilliner	C	Clift 14
Buford	G	Ladd 3
Kemp	G	Bottinisky 6

Subs: Coilege—J. Turner 6, Lester 4, Cover 3, Huffman 8, Burgreen; Army—Chasener 2, Watson.

College (29)	Pos.	Army (32)
Easter 6	F	Clift 15
Turner 2	F	Taylor 7
Huffman 1	C	Blazek 2
Kemp 14	G	O'Rourke 6
Buford 4	G	Mishton 2

Subs: College—Cover 2, Burgreen; Army—Ladd, Ryder.

SEASON WITH SPRING

By GINGER CLABOUGH

Hey dere! Dess whut's happened? Whut wif de widdle fwowers a bwoomin' an de twees a buddin' an' de boids a singin' an' de sun a shinin' an' evwen wif jus' de weensiest pilece a blue in de sky; it still wooks wike—well, dothen it doe?

Ignoring the first paragraph, which incidentally must be read in the best Red Skelton baby-talk to be understood, we come in a very unscientific way to the scientific fact that "spring has sprung". 'S funny thing about dis (oops! I dood it adin), I mean spring business. All of a sudden-like, a pretty day pops up from under all the snow (well, we can dream can't we?) and ice and stuff. And Presto! It's here! The bargain you've been waiting for. (NO! No! Mabel, that's the wrong paper) Anyway, to get back to the subject, when the girls start painting their toe nails and going without socks, and the boys start casting sheep's eyes at everything in a skirt, and everyone starts going to sleep in class, you'll know it's here. I don't have to tell you it's here. You've heard about it! Now you see it with your own two eyes. The only man in the world who is half—(Mabel! Please!) What are you going to do about a girl like Mabel? Her eyes are like saucers, her ears are like teacups, her nose like a napkin ring; and she's got two new plates—she took 'em out and showed 'em to me. Maybe I oughta give her away with the next ten tickets to "Custer's Last Stand". Her father would like that. He's been trying to give her away for years.

Anyhoo, to get way from this "It's spring again; the birds on the wing again" nonsense and get down to the more sordid details such as rain and mud and mud and rain. Whoever wrote "April in the Rain" couldn't have been influenced by anything so gruesome and galling as the slosh we have around here every nine out of ten days. Which reminds me—statistics show that nine out of every ten boys nowadays are wolfs, and this is just the time of the year when "sheep's eyes" are a pretty good sign of a wolf in sheep's clothing. So beware! And remember when the wolf's at the door to give him my phone number.

"After all is said and done there is really only one" and that's—oh, well, you more than likely know him better than I do. Besides, if you've followed all this fiddle-faddle up to this point, you're probably gnashing your teeth already.

Heck! I should worry! There are always a few things I can count on—my fingers!

Man's Thoughts Again Turn To Spring Baseball

By JOHN C. TAYLOR

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." But every year about this time the fancy of many others lightly turn to thoughts of—baseball. (The writer would like to be included in both categories, however.)

The big league season this year will begin on April 18 and already all of the clubs have started their spring training program. Many exhibition games have been played by the teams in order to prepare themselves for the season. Because of transportation difficulties all of the teams are forgoing their usual trek south and are training in northern and midwestern cities. For instance, the Philadelphia Athletics are at Frederick, Maryland, the New York Giants, at Lakewood, New Jersey, and the Boston Braves, at Wallingford, Connecticut.

As was the case last year, many of the big names like Joe DeMaggio, Hugh Mulcahy, and Terry Moore will be missing because they are serving in the Armed forces. Nevertheless, many of the veterans will be back, and together with the stars who have come up from the minors, should provide a lot of thrills for the baseball public.

Melchoir, Bampton In U-T Concert

Wednesday, April 12, will be the date of the last of the concert series to be held at the University of Tennessee this season. Miss Lily Pons, who was to have been the performer at this time, has cancelled her program to make a tour of the camps overseas. In her place will be Lauritz Melchoir, baritone, and Rose Bampton, contralto.

Keirn, Smith Present Recital

Thursday evening, April 6, Marcia Keirn and Frances Smith presented a junior music recital in Voorhees chapel. Each year at the end of the second semester junior and senior music majors give these recitals to gain experience along the more professional lines of music. These recitals were instigated by Miss Katherine Davies, head of the music department here at Maryville, when she came here nine years ago.

Marcia Keirn and Frances Smith are both junior music majors from Maryville, Tennessee. Marcia, who is a dramatic soprano, began studying music here at the college when she was a junior in high school. Mr. Ralph Colbert was her instructor at that time. After she leaves college, Marica plans to continue her music studies in New York.

Frances, who is a mezzo-soprano, also began her voice lessons under Mr. Colbert in her freshman year at Maryville. She is planning to study at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. Both students are at present pupils of Mr. Phillip O. Jones.

The program for the recital on Thursday night was as follows:

Polly Park To Wed Roy Laughmiller In Chapel Sunday

The Bridal Party Will Include Several Former Classmates

Polly Priscilla Park, class of '43, is to be married Sunday, April 9 at four p.m. in Voorhees Chapel to Lt. Roy William Laughmiller, Jr. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of the college, will officiate at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. G. W. Burchfield of Maryville is to be the organist with Mrs. Bruce Leslie of Knoxville as soprano soloist. She will sing "At Dawning", "Because", and Gounod's "Ave Maria". Of special interest to the student body is the fact that the college choir is to sing Malotte's "Lord's Prayer" during the marriage ceremony. Polly was a member of the choir during her college days.

Two junior bridesmaids, Misses Pat Regan of Knoxville, and Genyth Chandler, of Maryville, will lead the wedding party. They are to wear jonquil yellow net dresses and carry lighted green tapers sprayed with spring flowers.

Four bridesmaids have been chosen from among Polly's former classmates. Marcia Keirn, '45, Pat Howarth, '44, Katy Tomlinson, '44, and Helen George, '43 will be gowned in spring green net. They will carry spring bouquets of yellow roses, tulips and jonquils.

Ann Ellison, U.T. '44, and a former Maryville College student, has been chosen to be maid of honor. Her dress will be jonquil yellow net with a bouquet of yellow roses, blue Japanese iris, and narcissus.

Flower girl, Edith Ann White, will wear spring green. She will be accompanied by ring-bearer, Bill Haddox, Jr.

The bride will wear her mother's wedding gown which is now a deep ivory, satin-waisted with a sweetheart neckline of Chantilly lace. The skirt of the gown contains two hundred yards of ivory net ruffle. Polly is to wear her cousin's veil, a full length one and also a fingertip veil before her face. She will carry white gardenias, and roses centered with a white orchid.

Best man to Lt. Laughmiller will be a fellow officer at Craig Field, Selma, Alabama, Lt. Frank D. Kirkpatrick of Cardova, Alabama.

Polly has chosen her four cousins to be usherettes: Mary and Margaret Proffitt '43 in blue, Elizabeth Proffitt '46 in green, and Charlotte Proffitt '47 in peach.

The groom, Lt. Laughmiller, attended Maryville College 1940-42. He was then inducted into the armed services. He is now an instructor in Advanced Flying at Craig Field in Selma, Alabama. His home is in St. Petersburg, Florida.

For a brief wedding trip, the bride will wear a soft green wool suit with yellow accessories and orchid corsage. Lt. Laughmiller expects a twelve day furlough.

All friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Senior Recitals To Be Next Week

There will be another student recital on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. All students studying music in individual lessons are required to attend.

Frances Grosh and Bernice Cathcart will present their recital on Monday evening, April 17.

One of the last student recitals will take place on April 18.

Pvt. Arty Spears, class of '46, receives his mail now in care of the post office of San Francisco, California. Arty, whose home is in Maryville, is in the Quartermaster Corps.

Winton Enloe, a member of the present sophomore class, has recently been made a corporal in the Marines. Winton, from Pigeon Forge, Tennesseee, is stationed at Cherry Point, North Carolina. During his one year here as a student, he played on the football team.

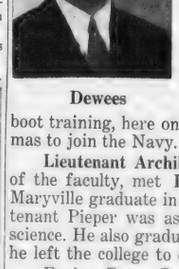
Stevens

Apprentice Seaman Wayne Stevens left Asheville, North Carolina, last week for the University of Illinois in Chicago, to begin a three year accelerated course in dentistry. Wayne had been stationed at Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tennessee, with a number of other former Maryville College students. He was a member of this year's junior class.

Aviation Cadet Chuck Edwards, class of '45, received his commission as second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps this week. He is stationed at Perrin Field, Texas.

Sgt. Harvey Overton, an ex-member of the class of 1940, is in the Headquarters Company, 15th Battalion at Fort McClellan, Alabama. He is awaiting shipping orders there.

Aviation Cadet Jefferson I. Breazeale, Jr., of Loudon, Tennessee, and a former member of the present junior class, has completed the first stage of his flight training at the AAF primary school operated by the Raymond-Richardson Aviation Company. He has been transferred to Cochran Field, Macon, Georgia, where he enters the intermediate phase of his flying training.



Faulkner

Pvt. James Faulkner, class of '43, is cadre in an anti-tank company at Fort McClellan, Alabama. Jim, who was business manager of the Chilhowean last year, has charge of a platoon. He was a visitor on the campus last week-end and will return tomorrow to spend several more days here. Then he expects to be sent to the west coast proir to being sent overseas.

Second class gunner mate Harlan Husk, class of '43, visited on the campus two weeks ago while on furlough after completing 23 months of service with the Seebees in the Solomon Islands. His home is in Maryville. His headquarters are Camp Parks, San Francisco, California.

Evelyn M. Bunch, a former student at Maryville, is a pharmacist's mate third class in the WAVES. She is stationed at Jacksonville, Florida, at the Naval Air Base Hospital. Bunchy spent some time here on the campus a week ago while on her first furlough. She has been in the WAVES for the past eight months.

Dewees

Lieutenant Ray Dewees, a graduate of '42, is stationed at the United States Marine Base in El Centro, California. Ray is first pilot of a B-25. While here at the college, Ray was a chemistry and physics assistant.

Hospital Corpsman First class Lloyd Anderson is stationed at the Bainbridge Naval Hospital, Maryland. Lloyd spent part of his furlough, after completing his boot training, here on the campus. He left at Christmas to join the Navy.

Lieutenant Archibald Pieper, a former member of the faculty, met Lieutenant Arnold Kramer, a Maryville graduate in Hawaii a short time ago. Lieutenant Pieper was assistant professor of political science. He also graduated from Maryville. Last year he left the college to enter the Marines.

Ensign Doug Roseborough, stationed in Australia, wrote that he ran into Captain Bill Baird, class of '41, who expects to become a major in the Marine Air Corps. Bill mentioned that Doug was the first Maryville College student he had seen since he went overseas. Bill was his "big brother" the first year Doug was here.

Theta, Bainonian Meet Together

Bainonian and Theta will meet together in the Fine Arts Studio tonight at 6:15 p.m. for an Easter program.

June Townsend is directing a choral speaking group made up of girls from both societies. They will read a story called "Mary" by Margaret Sangster.

Frances Grosh and Sibyl Tallent will each sing a vocal solo. Frances will sing "Before the Crucifix." Sibyl's selection is "Crucifixus" by Favre. There will also be a flute solo by Helen Underwood.

The program has been worked out by Marky Cross and Eleanor Stout from Bainonian and Ruth Lloyd and Charlotte Proffitt from Theta.

I.R.C.

International Relations Club will hold election of officers at the regular meeting on Monday, April 10. At the last business meeting Mary Barnwell and Aimee Wriggins were elected to membership.

IRC has asked Dr. David H. Briggs to read in the near future his paper recently prepared on the psychology of peace and war.

War Stamp Sales Low This Week

War stamp sales for the selling day on March 24 were low in comparison to previous sales. Freshman sales amounted to $3.40; sophomore, $30.00; juniors $6.00, and seniors, $6.80. On March 31 sales amounted to $23.75, $11.70, $3.25, and $3.45 respectively. The total for this past week was $62.85, an increase of $16.45 over the sales of the previous week. Both town and students living on the campus are urged to participate in our selling campaign as much as possible.

Seniors To Take Comprehensives

Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of next week seniors will take comprehensive examinations in their major fields, and sophomores will take cooperative tests in the chapel. Other scheduled classes wil lnot meet these afternoons.

These examinations deal with subject matter of the student's major field, and the prescribed related subjects. Results of the examinations are measured in grade points and are a part of the student's total record of college work. The total average to graduate is a standing of C or above and the required number of hours completed. Comprehensives will also be given during the summer semester.

The sophomore tests are sponsored by the American Council on Education among the colleges of the entire country. The results of these tests are placed on the student's permanent record card and are used for reference. The results are also compared to that of other colleges.

ALPHA SIG

Tonight at 6:15 in Alpha Sigma hall Alpha Sigmas will hear a musical program presented by college students. Plans will also be discussed for the stage of "Ladies in Retirement", the Bainonian and Athenian play.

Last week Charles Burgreen a senior sociology major from Homestead, Florida, played the piano. piano.

GERMAN CLUB

German club will meet Monday at 6:45 p.m. in the German classroom to plan for a picnic social. The picnic will probably be scheduled for either a Monday or Saturday evening sometime in the near future.

This will be the first meeting since the Tri-Language Saturday night program inasmuch as the meeting last scheduled was canceled because of the Artists' Series.

NATURE CLUB

Nature club will meet on Monday night, April 10, and have as the speaker Prof. E. R. Walker, whose topic for discussion will be "Why We Have Weather". The meetings are held in Miss Susan Green's lecture room on the third floor Fayweather Science hall.

The last meeting was Monday of this week. Dr. L. L. Williams talked on some of the more common birds of Tennessee and North Carolina. Plans are under way for a picnic soon, but as yet only tentative arrangements have been made. Definite announcements will be made at an early date.

Writers' Workshop

Miss Nathalia Wright and Edward Gates were the readers at Writers' Workshop last Wednesday afternoon, April 5. Miss Wright presented a sketch called "The Lynching." Ed read a collection of his own poetry. They were criticized by Frances Grosh and Jane Short respectively.

There will be no meeting next week because of comprehensives. Thelma Richardson and Isabel Muir will read April 19.

Law Club

Approximately ten members of the Law Club boarded the Maryville-Knoxville bus at five tonight, April 8. A banquet room was reserved in the S. and W. cafeteria in Knoxville. Following their dinner, a program was planned: the theme a surprise. The members of the club went to the Tennessee Theatre before returning home to Maryville campus.

Pi Gamma

Jeana Eddleman, president of Pi Gamma, announces that the elections for the officers of the organization will be held after comprehensives, which are April 12 and 13. This group of town girls attending the college will choose someone from their number to be president. The girl elected will thus become a member of the YW cabinet.

ATHENIAN

Owen McGarity, program chairman of the Athenian society announces a "Fellows, come-prepared-to-do-anything" meeting for tonight, April 8, at 6:15 in Athenian hall.

Harold Kidder, freshman music major, was the commentator for a program of classical swing records at the last meeting of the organization, Saturday, April 1. Guest conductor was Harry James.

Spanish Club Elects Officers

Louise Corbett, Edelmira Pino, Mary Johnston, and John Poland are the newly elected officers of the Spanish club chosen at the meeting Thursday. Their offices are, in order: president, vice-president, and program chairman, secretary, and treasurer. These officers will not take office until next fall.

At the program there was also some Spanish folk dancing led by Betty Hoagland. "Brazil," the first of a proposed collection of records, was heard by the members for the first time. The club hopes to build up a record collection which will be the permanent property of the Spanish club and will be left here for succeeding clubs to use and add to.

The meeting was held in the Y rooms at 6:30 on April 6.

Maid Shop Uniforms Cover The World

Soon after the United States entered the war, it was found that College Maid Shop uniforms were being worn all over the world. When LIFE magazine came out with the article "Nurses Go To Sea With The Fleet", the nurses in the pictures were found to be wearing College Maid Shop uniforms. In the picture "The Navy's Only Sea-going Woman," all twelve nurses in the picture were wearing them. They were aboard the U.S.S. RELIEF.

The nurses in Marine hospitals like the uniforms so well they have been writing to the War Production Board asking them to give the Maid Shop priority on all materials used by Marine nurses.

Orders have already been received for almost every month in the year up to January 1945.

There is always work for any girl who wants it in the Maid Shop.

Annual YM-YW Retreat Held At Peck's Memorial

Candlelight Service For New Cabinet Climaxes Event

Peck's Memorial Chapel was the scene of the annual joint YM-YW cabinet retreat last Saturday, April 15. Cabinet members left at 8:30 in the morning and returned around 10:30 p.m.

"Living for Christ" was the theme for the day. The morning was devoted to worship and planning. The retreat officially began by worship service at which John Taylor talked on "Why Live for Christ?" After that period of worship, there was a joint meeting of all four cabinets to discuss plans for those activities which will be sponsored by both organizations. Then the old and new cabinets of each organization retired to review their work during the past year. Following this, each cabinet divided into groups such as music, social, worship, each of which outlined its plans for the coming year.

Both the dinner and banquet were prepared and served by the women of the church. After lunch there was a community hymn sing. Marian Fershee led a period of meditation on the question "How Live for Christ?"

The remainder of the afternoon was turned over to volleyball, softball, hiking, croquet, and less strenuous games like chinese checkers and puzzles.

Wally Easter was toastmaster at the banquet which began at 6 p.m. Helen Anderson, Agnes Peterson, Bill Buford, and Joe Brown—the four presidents—each gave a short talk. A variety of musical entertainments followed. Owen McGarity and Jean Bellerjeau directed singing. Jack Houdeshel

Huber Elected New Head of IRC

Dr. David Briggs To Speak Monday

The International Relations club held an election of next year's officers during the past week and the following were elected to fill positions on the executive council:

President: Robert F. Huber
Secretary: Miriam Wickham
Treasurer: Olinde Ahrens
Faculty Sponsor: Dr. Hill Shine

The new president, Bob Huber, a junior history major from Passaic, New Jersey, is managing editor of the ECHO, president of the governing board of Writers' Workshop, and president of the Law club, and a member of the debate team. Miriam, a psychology major from Spokane, Washington, served as treasurer of IRC during the past year and is a member of the debating team. Olinde is a freshman from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and a member of the ECHO staff and the freshman debating team.

The next meeting of IRC will be held Monday, April 24, at 7:00 p.m. in the YW rooms, at which time Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, will speak on the subject: "Some Psychological Bases of World Peace."

Plans are now being made for a party to be held on the regular meeting night, Monday, May 1. This will be the final meeting of the year and will be in charge of Aimee Wriggins.

Last Monday evening Dr. John H. Stellwagen, assistant professor of Spanish, spoke on the subject: "Geo-Politics." In his address Dr. Stellwagen pointed out the importance of Russia and Brazil in the world situation and the political rise and decadence of nations.

"Ladies In Retirement" Is Presented Tonight At 8:15

Rev. F. Kinsler Is Vespers Speaker

The Reverend Mr. Francis Kinsler will be the speaker at the Vesper service tomorrow evening at 7:15 in Voorhees Chapel.

Mr. Kinsler graduated from Maryville magna cum laude in 1925. In 1928 he went out to Korea (now Chosen) as a professor in Union Christian College in Pyengyang. The college is an American Presbyterian Mission. While home on furlough in 1936 he secured his Th.M. at Princton Theological Seminary. Mr. Kinsler returned to America a few years ago because of the war. He comes here from Long Island, N. Y., where he is serving as pastor of the East Hampton Presbyterian Church.

The choir will sing "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock" by Roberts and Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" with a violin obligato by Estelle Farrow. Kay Bonner will sing Gounoud's "Ave Maria." Frances Grosh and Frances Smith will sing "Love Divine", a duet by Stainer.

Debaters Meet TPI In Tourney At Cookeville

Freshman Team Attends Debate With Varsity Group

The Varsity and Freshman debating teams left the campus early Friday morning for Cookeville, Tennessee, where they met Tennessee Polytechnic Institute that evening.

The Varsity team was composed of Miriam Wickham and Bette Lou McCoy (Affirmative); and Robert Huber and Dorothy Dick (Negative). Ben Lynt accompanied the group as an alternate. In keeping with the arrangement made by letter with Dr. David H. Briggs, coach of the team, no decisions were given. The topic debated was: "Resolved that the United States should Cooperate in Establishing and Maintaining an International Police upon the Defeat of the Axis."

The Freshman team composed of Olinde Ahrens and Carroll Stegall (Affermative); and John Shell and John Poland (Negative) met the TPI freshmen on the same subject. In the afternoon they encountered Cookeville High School on the national high school question for this year: "Resolved, that the United States should join in Reconstituting the League of Nations."

The first debate of the year on the Maryville campus took place on Friday, April 14, in the philosophy classroom, with representatives of Lincoln Memorial University of Harrogate, Tennessee, providing the opposition. The two debates were held and Maryville broke even, winning the first and losing the second.

In the first debate, Robert Huber and Dorothy Dick, upholding the Negative side, defeated the L.M.U. representatives, Hazel Miller and Maurice Natanson. In the second debate, the L.M.U. team composed of Edith Varner and Sue Weddle, were victorious in defending the negative side against Miriam Wickham and Bette Lou McCoy.

Class Meetings

The senior class will meet after chapel next Wednesday morning, April 26. The president, Paul Smith, stated the purpose of the meeting as that of discussing financial problems before the class.

The three other classes, junior, sophomore, and freshman will also meet on Wednesday, April 26. They are meeting in order to nominate officers for the coming year.

Richardson and Buford Lead In Athenian-Bainonian Play

"Ladies in Retirement", a three-act tragicomedy will be presented in Voorhees Chapel tonight April 22, at 8:15 p.m. This is the annual presentation of the Athenian-Bainonian Societies.

Thelma Richardson, a dramatic art major from Staten Island, New York, is to play the leading part of a middle aged housekeeper. Thelma is vice-president of the sophomore class, a member of Writers' Workshop, the Echo staff, and has recently been elected Nu Gamma chairman of the Y.W.C.A. cabinet for next year. She has taken part in several school productions both on the producing and business staffs.

Bill Buford assumes the part of Cockney Albert Feather, furnishing quite a love interest. Bill, a biology major from Florence, Alabama, transferred here in his junior year from Vanderbilt University. He served this year as president of Y.M., is a member of the Student Council, was Barnwarming king, and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Bill appeared in the productions of "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Dark Victory".

Shirley Scott, a home economics transfer student to Maryville this year, plays the love role opposite Bill Buford. She portrays the character Lucy.

The two moronic sisters are represented by Nancy Russell and Mary Grace Hall. Nancy is a dramatic are major from Boston, Massachusetts. She has appeared on the stage at Maryville in dramatic productions since here freshman year. She has had an active part in "M" club, is a member of Bainonian and was elected this year to Theta Alpha Phi. Mary Grace Hall, also a dramatic art major, is a Maryville resident. She made her debut on the chapel stage last year in "Arsenic and Old Lace". Since that time she has appeared in several plays.

The lady in the red wig, over whom the mystery hangs, is acted by Ruby Sellers. Ruby is a sophomore dramatic art major from Maryville, having appeared to the college audience several times before in other roles.

Dorothy Toomey portrays Sister Theresa, the nun. She is a sophomore English major from Hanover, Pennsylvania and has been on both production and business staffs of various plays.

The scene of the drama is laid in the living room of an old house on the marshes of the Thames estuary, some ten miles to the east of Garessend, and begins on a June morning in 1885. Trouble begins when Ellen, the housekeeper and companion of the auburn-wigged Lenore invites her two half-witted sisters to the house for a short visit and extends the visit permanently. The suspense of the story is heightened when Lenore leaves unexpectedly "on a trip", and Albert Feather, Ellen's nephew comes to take up his abode at the house.

The cast of the play is under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West, professor of dramatic art at the college.

The production staff consists of: Dorothy Lehman as assistant director. Dorothy is a junior English major from Beverly, Kentucky. She is editor of this year's Chilhowean, president of Pi Kappa Delta, and a member of the varsity debate team. She won the T. T. Alexander oratorical contest, has recently been elected vice-president of the Y.W. cabinet for next year, and will be a member of this year's Daisy Chain.

Charlie Burgreen and LeRoy Dillener are stage managers, upholding their usual positions. Others on the staff are: Joe Brown and Byron Surague, business managers, Bette Lou McCoy and Carroll Stegall, advertising managers; Esther Farrow and Miriam Bowditch, property managers. Bob Seel is the electrician. Members of the stage crew are: Rebecca Davis, Peggy Fisher, Joe Henry, and Duane Collins. Ushers will be: Harry Ferguson and Bobby Jo Reed, Harold Kidder and Catherine Sick, and James Witherspoon and Ruth Jones.

Operetta Tickets To Go On Sale

Tickets for "Tulip Time," the Glee club operetta, will go on sale Monday morning in the bookstore and Chatterbox. Admission price will be forty cents. The performance will begin promptly at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 29, in Voorhees Chapel.

The backdrop for the stage has arrived from Chicago and the windmill, flower boxes, and other props are nearly finished. Members of the Glee club have made their costumes; so next week there will be several dress rehearsals.

The Glee club and operetta orchestra are under the direction of Mr. Philip O. Jones, assistant professor of music.

Theta Elects New Officers

Wednesday afternoon Theta Epsilon held elections for new officers. Peggy Caldwell, a sociology major from Tallahassee, Florida, was elected president. Betty Lou King, a sophomore Spanish major from Knoxville, was elected vice-president. Phylis Irshay, a junior home ecenomics major from Campbell, Ohio, was elected treasurer. Charlotte Profitt, a freshman from Maryville, was elected secretary.

Anne Kerr, a junior sociology major from Suffern, New York, and Leslie Ford, a sophomorebiology major from Steubenville, Ohio, were elected to head the program committee.

Chilhoweans May Arrive by May 13

The Chilhowean is on its way. The general problems of publishing an annual during war times have caused various delays. But at present, prospects for an attractive book are very promising.

The immediate thing of interest to students is the date of arrival of the Chilhowean. Proofs have already been received, read, and returned to the printers. Dorothy Lehman, editor of the Chilhowean, has issued this statement to the ECHO:

"The printer has given his word that all books will be here by the 13th of May; however, as we have no guarantee of this fact, there is still some uncertainty as to whether the book will arrive before students leave. Because of this uncertainty all accounts due on books from individuals and organizations should be paid before the close of school. This will make it possible to ship the annual to the proper owners as soon as they arrive. No books can be mailed until accounts are cleared. All students should also be sure to leave their exact address with the business manager, Carol McCutcheon."

Thomas, Cathcart To Present Senior Recital

Thursday, April 27, Jean White Thomas and Ruth Cathcart will present a senior music recital in Voorhees Chapel at 8:10 p.m.

Jean came here to college in 1939, but left last year to exchange her college career for one of marriage. However, she is back this year as her husband, Lieutenant James E. Thomas, graduate of the class of '41, is Finance Officer attached to the 42nd detachment stationed at the University of Tennessee. Jean has had fourteen years of music study; four of these have been at Maryville under the direction of Miss Katherine Davies, professor of music here at the college. After leaving college, Mrs. Thomas plans to continue her study of music for a while and then teach. Both Mrs. Thomas and her husband are from Maryville.

Ruth Cathcart started taking voice lessons at the college when Mr. Ralph Colbert was here. This was during her sophomore year. Last year she studied under Mr. Richard Vine, and this year under Mr. Phillip O. Jones. Ruth intends to attend the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago when she graduates. From there she hopes to go into radio or church singing. Ruth, also, is a native of Maryville.

Mrs. William Berst Is Vols Speaker

Sunday evening after Vespers Mrs. William Burst will speak to the Student Volunteers. Mrs. Burst is the wife of a medical missionary to China.

Dr. and Mrs. Burst were ready to come on the first trip of the Gripsholm. They had their baggage at the dock when they were told that they couldn't come. So they lived in an attic for a time.

They were here on furlough about six years ago when war broke out, so Dr. Burst returned after about four months here. Mrs. Burst remained here for the entire furlough. The last thing she did before leaving was to speak at Student Volunteers.

She has been in China ever since she graduated from college, and all of her children were born there.

Knaupp Awarded T. T. Alexander Prize Wednesday

Taylor Wins Second Place in Annual Oratorical Contest

Speaking on the subject of the "Meaning of the Atonement," Lyle Knaupp, senior English major from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was awarded first place in the T. T. Alexander oratorical contest finals Wednesday morning at the regular chapel hour.

The runner-up in this contest was John Taylor, a first semester senior from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, whose topic was the "Resurrection of Jesus Christ."

The T. T. Alexander prize fund was established by a friend of the college, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. Provisions allow for prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty.

The plan of alternation employed in conducting the contest provides for women participants one year and men the next. Last year the two winners were Dorothy Lehman and Phyllis Anne Cain.

Judges of this year's contest were Dr. Shelton, pastor of the First Methodist church of Maryville, Mr. Joe Gamble, member of a local law firm, and Mr. L. M. Ross, Blount county school superintendent.

YWCA Cabinet Announced At Candlelight Service

Discussion Group Tomorrow On Student Conference

Agnes Peterson, Louise Henry, Joe Brown, Owen McGarity, Margaret Messer, Carol Titus, Don Barker, and Mr. Marvin Minear will lead the joint YM-YW meeting Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the YW rooms. They will conduct a round-table discussion on the plans drawn up at the Conference of Tennessee State Student Christian Convention which they attended last February.

The conference was held at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tennessee. These students represented our YM, YW, and Student Vols. Mr. Minear was the faculty representative.

Last Sunday night the new YWCA cabinet was installed at a candlelight service in the Y rooms. The cabinets formed a large circle. Each new member lighted her candle from the taper of the girl whom was succeeding on the cabinet, and then the girls marched out two by two.

The following girls are now in charge of YW activities:

Artists' Series—Marjorie Schneeweiss.
Devotions—Margaret Hays and Eleanor Stout.
House—Nell Louise Minear and Helen Marie Wilson.
M-Book—Marinell Ross.
Missions—Home Avenue, Marky Cross; Negro—Miriam Bowditch.
Music—Ruth Freeman.
Orphanage—Marian Garvin.
Program — Marian Fershee, Louise Henry, and Becky Davis.
Publicity—June Gowanlock.
Social—Cynthia Johnson and Mary Evelyn Jamison.
World Fellowship—Carroll Titus.

Pi Gamma—Lula Callaway.

Advisers — Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Miss Katherine C. Davies, Mrs. L. L. Williams, and Mrs. Marvin Minear.

On Sunday afternoon, April 30, our Y's will be guests of the YW and YM of Knoxville College. Those able to go should sign up with Agnes Peterson, Marian Fershee, or Joe Brown.

There will be an ECHO published next week.

Mr. James P. Shaw, Maryville Graduate, Wins Silver Star For Gallantry In Africa

James P. Shaw, Maryville '36, has been awarded the Silver Star for Gallantry by the U. S. Army. Shaw, Red Cross Field Director, is the first American Red Cross field worker in the present war to be given this award.

After leaving Maryville Mr. Shaw went to Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. He served as pastor of Raccon Presbyterian Church there. In 1940 he moved to Erie, Pennsylvania, where he was director of Neighborhood House until late in 1942 when he joined the Red Cross.

Mr. Shaw was given the Silver Star on February 29 for acts of Gallantry performed in Sicily last July. He rescued American soldiers from the sea after their landing craft had received a direct bomb-hit, and cared for the wounded despite the fire of attacking enemy planes.

The citation accompanying the award reads: "For gallantry in action on July 11, 1943, near Licata, Sicily. An enemy dive bomber scored a direct hit on a landing craft which had almost reached its position for debarkation. Mr. Shaw, who was already ashore, immediately left his position of comparative security, waded back into the rough water and assisted many men into safety. He continued to assist until the last man had been brought to shore and the wounded cared for. All of these acts were performed at the risk of his own life due to attacking enemy planes, the explosion of ammunition on the damaged craft, and the turbulent and treacherous water. The gallantry of Mr. Shaw on this occasion is a distinct credit to himself and the American Red Cross."

It is rather ironical that Shaw was supposed to have left North Africa on the very barge whose men he helped rescue. He had insisted, however, that he be with the first landing forces, and so had come across a day earlier.

Not only was Shaw the first Red Cross worker to land in Sicily, but he also participated in the baptism of the first baby born in liberated Sicily—one hour after the first invasion forces landed. In the hour of pre-invasion bombardment by Allied planes, many civilians sought shelter in a deep cellvert not far from shore. There, amid shellfire, the first baby of liberated Sicily was born. As the Americans landed within the next hour, excited natives brought the news. Mr. Shaw and Father Flynn chaplain, hurried to the culvert. Father Flynn conducted the baptismal ceremony. The American Red Cross served the accompanying "feast"—D-rations (chocolate bars) and cans of C-rations—with James Shaw as host.

Shaw had made three amphibious landings under enemy fire—North Africa, Sicily, and Italy—with the crack infantry unit to which he was transferred shortly after his arrival overseas in December, 1942. He has traveled with the regimental command post at all times as part of "the family," and has lived so close to the men throughout front-line action in Italy, that he heard—and saw—shellfire every night from September 18 to New Year's. Once he was able to return to Naples for "a good night's rest," but that was a night the German bombers came over again.

As the troops moved forward—slowly, painfully, through inky blackness, bomb-blown roads, and endless mud—so moved Shaw. "There were times when the Germans were on three sides of us. Once near Volturno they were on all four sides, moving in behind our last patrol," he says.

The lean, sandy-haired former minister is now on leave in the U. S. before being assigned to another theater of war. He is in Connecticut visiting his wife, the former Myrtis E. Baldwin, also Maryville '36. They have two children—daughters aged five and two.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

THE PRESIDENTAL RACE

The days preceding the national conventions of the two leading political parties of the nation are becoming fewer and fewer, and the interest of the people of America is increasing proportionately. This year there are apt to be many college students who will vote for the first time, and all of these must of necessity look at the issues at stake and consider the merits of each candidate. A college student is expected to manifest more interest and to vote intelligently than the average man on the bus.

THE ISSUES AT STAKE

To most observers there seem to be two major issues at stake in the coming November election. First, that of the foreign policy of the administration and the prosecution of the war, and second, its domestic policy. The Roosevelt administration, in dropping the name of the New Deal and constituting itself the Win The War Party, is apparently determined to fight the election on the grounds of its foreign policy, but the opposition, including both Republicans and anti-New Dealers, has already demonstrated its intention of attacking both issues to the limit.

The administration forces will ask the people to return them to power for the fourth consecutive time on the grounds that their foreign policy has been a notable success. They say that our relations in trade and good will with South America have improved a thousand fold since 1933, that our future depends upon world cooperation and that the administration is laying the foundations for this now, and that in the prosecution of the war the administration has kept the number of casulties to the limit and that the war is moving along successfully. These are some of the issues on which the Roosevelt forces will take their stand.

How will the opposition forces attempt to win the support of the people. In two ways. First by attacking the administration, and second, by proposing some definite plan of action including world cooperation. They will attack the administration on its muddling of price control, rationing, the draft and manpower situation, beurocracy, spending and the debt, increased taxes, censorship, etc. And in the field of foreign policy they will maintain that the war has been bungled, that our success is not progressing as could be expected, that the administration is attempting to commit the U. S. to a policy which the Congress has not approved, that it is taking too much power from the Senate, and that capable military leaders are being kept in the background for political purposes. These may be some of the issues on which the campaign will be fought, and is intelligent voting college students must have a knowledge of these issues and the stand of the various candidates upon them.

THE CANDIDATES

At the present time it appears quite probable that Roosevelt will be nominated, and so there is no apparent need for discussing the candidates for the Democratic nomination. However, in the event that Harry F. Byrd of Virginia does by some stroke of good luck get the nomination then the issues of the election will be entirely different, but such a situation does not seem probable.

One of the most prominent candidates for the Republican nomination was Wendell Willkie, but after his disasterous defeat in the Wisconsin primaries he is no longer in the race. But that certainly does not indicate he should not be here considered. He will undoubtedly play a major role in the coming campaign since he was the Republican candidate four years ago.

The Republicans have many lesser-lights who have announced their candidacy among who are Gov. Earl Warren of California, recently named as the key-noter at the national convention, Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, Gov. Hickenlooper of Iowa, Gov. Saltenstall of Massacheusetts, Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, General Douglass MacArthur, and several others. Any one of these may become a dark horse candidate.

But the leading contender, and the apparent favorite of the nation, is Thomas Edward Dewey, governor of New York. He has repeatedly stated that he does not intend to seek the Republican nomination and that he intends to finish out his term as governor, but that does not preclude his being drafted for the nomination.

Would Tom Dewey, the racket busting district attorney and governor make a good President? "I am sure that Tom Dewey does not know all the answers. I am sure that he is not as well informed on Jugoslovia and Sinkiang as Roosevelt. But he will organize an efficient administration; he will cut the red tape; he will move in direct lines and the men under him will follow his examples and will adhere to his policies. Tom Dewey is the kind of efficient, kindly, quiet American who can run a steel mill, an airplane factory, a law office, a hospital, or a university. And there will be no administrative and personnel messes to clean up after him." So says George E. Sokolsky, noted columnist on national affairs.

THE OUTCOME

What are the trends today? What will be the final outcome? Naturally no one can predict accurately, but we can take certain cues from the statements and actions of the people. Take Blount county for an example. Within the past two weeks the Republicans of Blount county unanimously and enthusiastically pledged their delegate to the national convention to cast his ballot for Tom Dewey, "the fearless defender of the people's rights." And the primary elections that have been held thus far have produced similar results. In Laguna Beach, Calif., life-long Democrat, Mrs. Lenora Northcrass, 103, registered as a Republican. Is this a trend? Asks TIME!

In any event, no matter what the outcome, it will be a victory for democracy. The people will have again had a chance to express their opinions and to put in power the leaders of their choice whether it be Tom Dewey or Franklin Roosevelt.

And we as college students, as future leaders, must interest ourselves in the affairs of our government and in such political campaigns as this.

Suzie Snoop Says

By HANNAH DUKE

Prof Walker forecasts spring weather from here on out. Speaking of spring, it's definitely the time for romancin'—Well, one of the times anyway—Seems as if we might as well leave that to the freshman girls in Memorial. Understand they have accurate apparatus for determining the whereabouts, etc. of the cadets lodged near to them.

"Y" retreat last week-end was definitely successful in some respects, namely Ruth Broadhead and Ann Anderson.

"Squire" Kemp thanks his lucky stars sophomore cooperatives are over. He's convinced his grade will doubtlessly exempt him from comprehensives . (That one is as good as the story of the "college seal".)

The rage of the campus is Egbert—most photogenic sailor ever located. One glance at him will weaken the heart of any young miss. Come to 412 Pearsons to secure a miniature. This great speciman is comparable only to Frank Sinatra. (Better drop by, Pixie.)

Physics classes are really a riot for the cadets—anything from Dietics to cutting out paper dolls, and this is no exaggeration. One fellow congratulated Prof. Walker for his son's solo in the Easter Cantata!—Meaning Jimmy, of course.

Star of parlor chemistry is Velma Durbin. What won't she mix up with? No doubt something with sound effects.

WANT AD

Wanted: Experienced dog catcher. Must be familiar with canines of all descriptions, regardless of size, pedigree (or not) and color. Apply at Echo Pound Office.

Merry Christmas, Winnie. Australia isn't just around the corner, you know.

Note to John Turner: It is customary to break even at least with hours at the end of the year. The price is half an hour per overcut.

Coach Davis' chapel service lasted 90 seconds flat. What's the matter, is coach slipping? Record time is 35 seconds.

Whitford did break down. Remember the solemn oath he took about no women?

Grace Betts didn't stop with apples or flowers, No, she took a dog to Miss Jewell, the former promptly taking a stand upon the teacher's desk and beginning a severe attack of hiccoughs.

Incidentally, if you don't know a four legged creature called Bob you haven't been around. Right, Lyle?

Dear Sirs:

This is to notify you that I have successfully vamped a sailor. I shall forward you fee as soon as his bank account is in my hands which will be in the near future, approximately two weeks.

An ever grateful patron,
Ruth Carter

The transfers are dragging out college catalogues again in search of another cadet detachment with school attached.

We pause now to pay tribute to those dear souls that have (un)willingly given their lovely lives for the benefit of the botany students.—the campus flowers.

Give Harold Eaken credit when it comes to color selection. At least, his choice was a "knock out"!

Well, so long for now. See you at Maryville's renowned beach for sun tan . . . (back yard Baldwin).

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

Japanese Student Originated Many Maryville Improvements

By OLINDE AHRENS

Have you ever wished that buildings could speak—could tell of the human spirits that dared to love, to hope within their walls? The cornerstone of Bartlett Hall could tell us one of the most dramatic stories on Maryville campus. Th estory begins in Japan and ends—but who can say that such a life story ever ends?

His name was Kin Takahashi, and he was born December 8, 1872, in Yamaguchi, Japan. His father was a prominent merchant and sent his son to America at the age of fourteen, in order to learn English and prepare himself for a successful commercial career. But during two years in San Francisco Kin Takashahi learned more than English—the young Shintoist found The Way. When his parents learned that he was a Christian, he was cut off entirely from his family and his income.

How to get a Christian education without any money? Some Christian friends suggested Maryville, and so he came to enter the preparatory course in 1888, and graduated with an A.B. in 1895. That A.B. degree represented not only courses of study completed but hours of cooking, waiting on tables, sweeping, lecturing, canvassing for the college—for he had to earn every penny of his expenses for those seven years.

But that was not all. This stranger, this alien who spoke broken English, soon became the center of campus life because of his friendly personality and Christian spirit. His personal need of bread and butter made him think of other students in the same situation, and he organized a group of students who helped themselves through college by gardening on unused part of the campus. These were contributing factors to the early growth of Student-Help, which has played such a large part in making Maryville the school it is today.

Enthusiasm he had plenty and to spare for every worthy and needy cause, and for football, which he introduced to Maryville. Midnight might find this five-foot-two, 123 pound football captain concentrating at his desk where he was moving twenty-two grains of corn into various positions. They represented two football teams, and the next day "Kentucky Hossie," as they nicknamed him, would lead the Maryville team to victory with his lightning end runs. But he did not rely entirely on the grains of corn and the midnight oil—he prayed with his team before each game.

Kin thought a lot of the Maryville girls in general—and more of some in particular. No, you can't marry ten pretty girls, but you can beau them around, and Kin did his share of that. Friends of his laugh over the story of his early days in San Francisco, before he knew many phrases of English. He was watering lawn with a hose one afternoon when two attractive girls walked by. He was more interested in them than in watching his hose, and the stream of water followed the direction of his eyes, sprinkling the girls. He ran after them to apologize, but not knowing how to say "excuse me" he bowed and said, "Thank you, thank you."

"The college has done so much for me and the Christian Church in America has done so much for my country, that I, a Japanese, want to do something to show my gratitude," he used to say, and he purposed in his heart to build a YMCA building and gym. He prayed over it, talked it up among students and faculty, and began to get subscriptions of money and work. The year he graduated he stayed at Maryville College during the summer, built brick kilns, and started the college boys burning brick. That summer they burned 300,000 bricks at a cost of only $1300. Then he launched a publicity campaign, lecturing and raising money for the college. He refused to fail or be discouraged before he had raised sufficient funds to build Bartlett Hall, which stands today as a monument to his love for Maryville College and Christian young people. The cornerstone bears the motto of his choice — "Christ Our Corner Stone."

Followed by the love and prayers of his many friends, Kin Takahashi returned to Japan in 1897 to take up his life's work in the YMCA field. Though he was struck almost immediately by a fatal disease, his Christian work could not stop for that. He gathered a class of boys about his bed and began to teach them English—and Christ. This class grew, and soon there were nine teachers and a school of 120 boys. When Kin Takahashi died in 1902, Japan lost one of its most vital Christians. But his work is not ended. His spirit is still part of Maryville and shall be while Christ is our Cornerstone.

Y RETREAT

and Rush Lester played some selections on their "sweet potatoes" and rendered a couple of song and dance routines. James Witherspoon contributed a unique song about his girl.

At the evening worship service the Reverend C. P. Hardin of the Broadway Methodist Church concluded the meditations on the theme by presenting the "Values of Living for Christ."

Climax of retreat came with the candlelight installation of the new YM cabinet. Members of the old cabinet formed a triangle. Each of them held a lighted candle which he gave to the one who was taking his place in the new cabinet. When the service was finished, the new cabinet members had received their candles and formed a new triangle.

IDLE KINGS

By JOHN POLAND

(If you can find any resemblance between this and Tennyson, thanks!)

Way back when knighthood was in bud and chilvalry still growin', there lived in England a tough jerk who ruled the roost as far as the rest of his union members were concerned. (Boilermakers local 1001) Well, it seems that this jerk was quite the dude with the dames, includin' old King Art's wife. King Art didn't seem to know much about the situation, but for everybody else it was a choice hunk of gossip.

However, to jump back to the beginning of this tale. One day while strolling through the woods, Art had come upon a crown with nine diamonds in it. Being an honest man, he took it to the lost and found department, but since nobody claimed them, he started giving them to the winners of the big free-for-all which he staged every year.

Up to this time our handsome jerk, Lancy, had won eight of the diamonds and so he didn't particularly want the last one when he found that Queeny wouldn't be there to watch him. Well, Queeny wanted all nine of the diamonds so she set Lancy off to the contest with a good luck smack.

Then Lancy's conscience began to hurt so he decided that he would enter the contest unknown and see if he could actually win the last diamond. While thinking, he gets himself lost in the woods and finally ends up turning his lamps on a beautiful little hunk of femininity by the name of Elaine.

Since Lancy wants to go without any one knowing him, he borrows the babe's brother's shield and leaves his with her. She shines it a dozen times a day and takes real good care of it—meanwhile falling deep into love over the overgrown gigilo.

Lancy and Lavy, Elaine's brother, beat it to Cameldown where the big scrap is going to take place. Lancy, as good as his word, wears the babe's scarf in the battle but even then comes out like a stuck pig, although the king awards him the diamond. Well, Lancy is pretty bad off but after a long time a retired doc in the woods puts him back together. In the meantime King Art sends his men out to find the unknown one-man army, since he stills doesn't know that it's the big cheese, Lancy.

King Art's messengers return, having given the diamond to the beautiful Miss Astolot of 1111, and tell everybody that Lancy has found himself a new chick and that he must have decided to dump Queeny. When Queeny hears the story she has a fit and had our handsome hero been near she probably would have saved the several ration points for the coming week—the cooks serving a la Lancy.

Finally Lancy gets well and like the heel he is, he leaves the fair beauty broken-hearted and beats it back to Queeny. Queeny is still mad and when Lancy gives her the nine diamonds she tosses them out the window into the creek below. Just as she does this Elaine floats into view.

Elaine has died of a broken heat and at her request has been floated down the river on a P-T boat. Then Lancy buries her and continues to love Queeny. However the love is never the same as before and Lancy lives an unhappy life until he finds the Holy Grail—and that again is another story.

(For fear of the English department, author has taken out several thousand dollars worth of life insurance).

Thanks dairy much!
Thank you pretty cow that made
Pleasant milk to eat with bread,
Still, you lazy pasture strutter,
Where the thunder is my butter?
or
The milk maid milked the pensive goat,
And, pouring, paused to mutter,
"I wish, you brute, you'd turn to milk!"
And the animal turned to butt her.

VOLLEY BALL

Volley ball season has finally been completed, and the team which came in last in the basketball season is the team which won the volley ball program—Team 3. The final match was the deciding one; team 3 met team 1 on Thursday afternoon, April 20. Five players showed up to play with the winners: Capt. Poland, Lester, Parkinson, M. Turner, and Ross; but only three team 1 men were available to play—Kemp, Ferguson, and H. Henry. In the first game Team 3 took no chances and played with all five players, winning 21 to 8. Then they decided to even the sides up some and won the second game 21 to 15, playing with only three players.

That leaves Team 3 in first place for the season with three victorious matches to its credit and one loss. Team 1 came in second, losing two and winning two. While Team 2 lost three and won one.

PING PONG

The doubles ping pong tournament is running behind schedule, but it is now approaching completion. Easter and Moehlman, by virtue of their victory over Kemp and Parkinson in the final match of one bracket of the tournament (21-19), (18-21), (21-17), have already earned a place in the final match of the tourney. There are three once-beaten teams remaining in this double elimination affair which are to play among themselves to determine the other finalist team. Buford and Lester are to play Poland and Huber; the winner of that match is to meet Kemp and Parkinson. And that winner gains the right to meet the favored team of Easter and Moehlman in the final match of three out of five games.

Intramural manager Huffman urges that these matches be played as soon as possible.

HORSE SHOES

The singles horse shoes tournament is starting very slowly with only three of the first round matches having been played. Kemp eliminated Ferguson (21-8), (21-4). Parkinson beat Schieber (21-8, 21-2). And M. Turner conquered Lester in the only match played so far, scores, (21-17), (21-12).

The management of this tourney warns that now that horse shoe courts are dry enough for playing, if the matches are not played soon all over-due matches will be forfeited.

SOFT BALL

Soft ball is due to get started next week. It has been postponed this long to allow some of the tournaments to be completed. There are to be only two teams in the soft ball program, and at present the plan is to have the two fellows with the highest totals of intramural points choose players for the two teams from the list of men who signed up for soft ball.

The doubles horse shoes tournament had not been started at this writing.

IN A LITTLE BITTY POOL

By RUTH CHANDLER

Down the steps, out the door, across the campus, a cold shower, a swift push from behind, and you're in the pool, trying to convince yourself that the water isn't as cold as it was three nights before. Thus begin the bi-weekly swimming lessons. The classes are divided into three catagories—beginners, intermediates, and advanced. Don't let the titles fool you, the difference is quite slight. The beginners have never learned, the latter two have learned all right—the wrong way.

Those first nights were enlightening. You were told you were going to look for Mr. Jones in the bottom of the pool. You gasped, gulped, and asked what Mr. Jones was doing in the bottom of the pool. Then you learned that Mr. Jones was a stuffed man that would sink to the bottom and that you would dive down to look for him. You also learned that it was easy to keep your eyes open under water, they just got red, and sore, and the next day you had dark circles. You found that floating on your back was simple. Your feet just fell to the bottom, and that brought your whole body down, and you had your mouth open; so all the swimming pool poured into it. You took the "sinkers test" and found you sank. There was one doubt in your mind, however; was the title-giver having hypnotic delusions when he dubed the elementary back stroke or what was wrong with him? Learning to manipulate your arms and legs in that stroke isn't taught in any elementary school.

In due time the breast stroke was presented. "It's easy and natural," said the instructor. "It's the way frogs swim." They demonstrated (the instructors not the frogs), you watched and decided that it was easy. You tried—arms first (swish), legs up, knees out and around, glide, and repeat. You were across the pool in no time flat. Up came your shining face. "Didn't you forget something?" was the greeting.

"Don't think so."

"Did you breathe?"

"I've been breathing all of my life, I don't see any reason I should have stopped then." Then it was carefully explained that you had held your breath all of the way across, and that it was alright for short distances, but if you attempted that when doing four lengths, "dead" would be your name. So then the fun began, trying to get your head out of the water, your arms back, knees up, all in a smooth coordinated stroke. After several nights of this you probably decided to leave that one for the frogs to work on.

Next came the restful stroke (so the book says). The side stroke wasn't too difficult, except that keeping your balance on your side wasn't as easy as the book might lead you to believe. Finally, you were able to do something that resembled the side stroke. In fact, the insructors thought you had mastered the stroke. "Everybody is ready to do four lengths now" was the statement. Who am I to doubt her word you thought; so off you pushed—feet up, out, together, glide, and repeat, and repeat, and repeat. Soon you felt quite sure that the pool was twenty-five miles in length instead of the twenty-five supposedly short yards.

The night has finally come for the crawl and some diving. This is what you have been waiting for. Pictures of beautiful and graceful swan dives pass through your mind. You swim around a while practicing the crawl, you wear yourself out kicking, and find yourself bringing your head out of the water at the right time but not breathing right. Just when you are about to reach the point of exhaustion, everyone is gathered around the outside of the pool. Finally your big moment has come, you are about to attempt the are of diving. Get ready, feet together, head down, arms out, go—wow! An exceedingly skillful dive, landing flat on your stomach, accompanied by one hundred and . . . well, accompanied by your entire weight. "Never give up" is the instructor's motto; so "Try again" is yours. Yes, just call those swimming instructors "patience" for short. And if you have to call us would-be-fish anything, just "patients" for long. Well, I'll be swimming yu.

M Club Members Go To Mount Nebo

M club is ending the point system season by a week-end sojourn at Mount Nebo. They left this afternoon after lunch with their blanket roles and eight poor, suspecting neophytes. One of the reasons for the hike in addition to having a good time, is to initiate these new "M" club members. Those who earned a letter via 400 points, plus the right to be punished are Jeanne Bellerjeau, Margaret Hunt, Dot Justus, Betty Lou King, Jackie Odom, Catherine Stout, Margie Witt, and Ruth Wood.

Four people who are receiving sweaters and letters are Johhnye Gudel, president of "M" club. Margaret Hunt, Agnes Peterson, and Nancy Russell.

Jean Balch, Betsy Burleigh, Skip Farrow, Lottie Lavender, Rhea Parker, Donna Smalley, and Marion Stout earned monograms.

The seniors don't do any work on the hike, sophomores and juniors are in charge of committees, and the freshmen do most of the manual labor. Betsy Burleigh, Nancy Russell, and Ann Horton are to take care of the food: Barbara Jean Burnett, Agnes Peterson, and Thelma Richardson are cooking up the initiation plans.

Point system is over for this year, but don't those tennis courts and doesn't that golf course look good!

Athenians Hold Annual Banquet

"What is that in thine hand" was the subject of the talk given by Rev. James R. Smith at the Athenian banquet last Tuesday evening in the banquet room of Coulter's restaurant. Mr. Smith especially dedicated this talk to those of the society who were graduating this spring. Mr. Smith further brought out in his talk that constantly through life we should take notice of what our hands are doing, or, in other words, what we ourselves are doing with our lives. Mr. Smith also pointed out in the course of his speech that it is man's hand in itself that has helped put us on a plain much higher than that of the other animals.

At this annual banquet Jack Houdeshel acted as toastmaster for the group. Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. John March. Prior to Mr. Smith's address Malcolm Thompson, president, spoke a few words to the group acknowledging those taking part in the program and these who had organized the banquet and program.

Helen Wilhoit, accompanied by Betty Tuvfander, sang "Embraceable You" and Thelma Richardson gave a reading. Jack Scott sang "Stout-hearted Men" and "Old Man River." He was accompanied by Mary Barnwell. Rush Lester and Owen McGarity presented a skit, "To Be or Not To Be."

The committee who worked out the details for the banquet were Wally Easter, chairman, James Witherspoon, Hubert Rust, and Robert Dockendorf. There will be no Athenian meeting tonight because of theAthenian-Bainonian play.

Getting out this paper is no picnic,
If we print jokes, people say we are silly,
If we don't, people say we are too serious.
If we stick close to the desk all day,
We ought to be out getting news.
If we go out and hustle,
We ought to be on the job at the desk.
If we don't print contributions,
We don't appreciate genius;
And if we print them the paper is full of junk.
If we make a change in the other fellow's write-up
We are too critical;
If we don't, we're asleep.
If we clip things from another paper,
We are too lazy to write them ourselves.
If we don't we're struck on our own stuff.

SERVICE

BY DOROTHY DICK

Technician, fifth class, Danny Eveland, class of 44, has just been transferred to Atlantic City, New Jersey. He says the hotel faces the ocean, beach, and boardwalk which makes it hard to concentrate at present.

John Morrow, a former member of this year's junior class, is now a Sergeant in the Air Corps, stationed in England. From Newport, Tennessee, John is part of a quartet of his division which sings at various functions. He was a member of the choir, band, and glee club while a student here.

Arthur Crimmel, Port Royal, Pennsylvania, is enlisted in the Air Corps and stationed at Greensboro, North Carolina. Art, who was a freshman last year, is in a band and glee club which broadcasts every week.

Staff Sergeant Bob Miller, who would have been a senior this year, is now in Northern Island in the medical division of the army. He was on the baseball team here at Maryville.

Bill Sweeney

Lieutenant Bill Sweeney, who graduated in December of 1942, visited on the campus last week-end. Bill, who just graduated Friday, April 14, from Flight School, Valdosta, Georgia, received his commission then. He expects to return to Georgia as an instructor. Quite a prominent student on the campus, Bill was editor of the Chilhowean, a cheerleader—and captain of the squad for three of his four years participation, and a biology assistant. He made the honor roll two years, reported for the Echo his freshman year, and served as Sports editor his sophomore year; he also belonged to Hi-Trail.

Pvt. Sam Pemberton, class of '45, has been transferred to Iran. From Huntsville, Tennessee, Sam is in the army medical detachment, working in the dispensary of a field hospital. He left Egypt and North Africa two months ago to go to Iran. Sam was an outstanding participant in the Intramural program sponsored here at the college.

Ensign Glenn Paul, from Lavelle, Pennsylvania, has been stationed in England since December. Enteering the Navy last year, he received his commission from Notre Dame, Indiana. Glenn graduated from Maryville last May; he was an Economics major.

Another recent visitor on the campus was Glenn Winkle who spent Easter week-end visiting friends tioned at a hospital base in Sheepshead, New York, in the Merchant Marines. In another month he hopes to apply for active duty or duty on a training ship. He graduated from Maryville last May, majoring in Chemistry.

Lieutenant J. G. Bob Martin is stationed in Honolulu in the Navy. Bob left Maryville in '41 to study meteorology at New York University where he received his Bachelor's degree.

Fred McDaniel, who is stationed in England, is now a corporal. Fred was a student here last year as a freshman. He was president of his class the first semester.

Pfc. Bill Short, class of '40, is a student at Medical School of Temple University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He expects to complete his course there very shortly.

Pvt. Jim Robison, class of '45, is now in the infantry at Camp Claborne, Louisiana. In the A. S. T. Program for Civil Engineering until it was closed, Jim was stationed at V. P. I. in Virginia. He played baseball here at Maryville.

Bob Lockwood

Lieutenant Bob Lockwood, a '43 graduate, recently graduated from the school of cryptology at Chaunalt Field, Illinois. Bob was a chemistry major here, and served as a chemistry assistant one year, and a physics assistant his senior year. He also participated in Intramural Athletics.

Ensign George Callahan received his "wings of gold" in the Navy after completing his training at the U. S. Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi, Texas. He was a student here at Maryville for three years, but left in September of 1942 to enlist in the air corps.

CLUB NEWS

PRE-MED CLUB

The Pre-Med club held a general business meeting Thursday night, May 20, in the chemistry lecture room. A constitution was adopted at this meeting and officers were elected for the next semester. The officers chosen are: president, Ethel Brocker; vice president, Marie Deerman; secretary, Mildred Cundiff; and treasurer, Peggy Case.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian girls met Saturday night, April 15, to erase all marks and handwriting from the books which had been collected by the Y groups for use by the prisoners of war. The work was under the direction of Dorothy Toomey and Esther Farrow.

Bainonian will not meet this Saturday because of the play, Ladies in Retirement, which it is presenting Saturday night in cooperation with Athenian.

FRENCH CLUB

French Club members are planning a dinner meeting to be held in the Y rooms.

This meeting will be in the form of an initiation for the new members elected into the club recently. It will also be the last meeting of the group this year.

Miss Ruth E. Cowdrick, assistant professor of French, was in charge of the last meeting, April 13. She spoke on photographs she had taken while in France studying. The views were mostly of Paris and surrounding country.

SPANISH CLUB

Plans for a picnic to be held in the near future will be discussed at the next meeting of the Spanish Club, April 27. Spanish folk dancing will complete the program. The club has acquired a new record for their dances, according to Carol Reynolds, program chairman.

LAW CLUB

Law Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 27, in Miss Wilkinson's classroom. Officers for next semester will be nominated at that time.

The officers who have served this semester are: president, Bob Huber; secretary, Marinell Ross; sergeant-at-arms and program chairman, Miriam Wickham.

DISC CLUB

Thursday, April 20, Disc Club met at 6:40 p.m. in Voorhees Chapel. The program was Shostakovitch's "Fifth Symphony". Shostakovitch is a major Russian composer, whose latest symphony has just recently been performed in the United States. John Kirstein was the commentator at the Thursday night program.

Student Council

Last fall a committee on rules and regulations for the elections committee decided that a 80 per cent vote would be necessary before a student could be elected to an office. Recently the Student-Faculty Committee decided that this was too high percentage, so a committee has been appointed to investigate. The members of the committee are Jean Bellerjeau, Jean Blanchard, Fay Cameron, and Edward Gates.

The regular spring elections will be held soon and all students are urged to take part.

GERMAN CLUB

Plans are being made for a special final program of the German club to be held in the YW rooms. The picnic originally scheduled for Wednesday, April 26, has been canceled. Refreshments will be served at this last meeting of the organization this year. These plans were announced by Rebecca Davis, sophomore sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky, who is presidetn of the club.

Writers' Workshop

Isabel Muir and Thelma Richardson were the readers at Writers' Workshop last Wednesday at 4 p.m. in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Bette Lou McCoy and John Taylor were the critics.

Both girls read short stories. "Mission Completed" was Isabel's. It was reminiscences of a dying navigator. The Staten Island ferryboat was the setting for Thelma's story, "The Ride."

Next Wednesday, April 26, John Taylor and Bette Lou McCoy will read with Isabel and Thelma as critics.

Pi GAMMA

Election of Pi Gamma officers for next year was held on April 14. The election was open to women of the college residing in town. Lula Calloway, a junior biology major, was elected chairman. She is to succeed Jeanna Eddleman, the present chairman. Nancy Bryant, a junior biology major, and Peggy Claypoole, a sophomore home economics major, were elected to head the social committee. Catherine Sisks, a sophomore music major, and Sibyl Tallent, a junior biology major, were elected to head the program committee.

Strong, silent type?

He: "He's just bashful. Why don't you give him a little encouragement?"

She: "Encouragement? He needs a cheering section."

—Ward-Belmont Hyphen.

NATURE CLUB

Nature club members are anticipating a picnic to be held in the form of a treasure hunt on Saturday, May 6. This final meeting of the group will be open to any others interested. Club president, Martha Jeane Shaw from Norristown, Pennsylvania, announces the next regular meeting for Monday, May 1, as the one in which officers will be elected.

Associate Prof. E. R. Walker addressed the group at their last meeting, April 17. He spoke on the weather. Among other things, he explained to the members present why Tennessee was the recipient of so much rain.

Sen. J. C. Crawford Speaks to YMCA

Senator John C. Crawford, Jr. of the Tennessee State Legislature was the main speaker ot the annual Y.M.C.A. banquet, held this year in the college tea room, Thursday night, April 20, at 7:15. The banquet was served by the senior tea room girls of the college home economics department. On the program for the evening was Sybil Tallent, who favored the group with two vocal solos; she was accompanied by Betty Tufvander on the piano. Bill Buford, as retiring president of the association, made a few remarks expressing his appreciation to the members of the Y.M.C.A. for their cooperation throughout the year. Dr. John A. Gates was toastmaster for the occasion.

Senator Crawford, who was formerly a student at Maryville, spoke on the subject "Today's Challenge To Youth." He stated that a generation ago the youth of the world failed to put into practice a workable peace when they had their chance at the close of World War I. Mr. Crawford went on the say that the youth of today must profit by the mistakes of the past generation, and upon the defeat of the Axis, institute a lasting peace. He advocates some form of world police force as the only method by which a lasting peace can be obtained.

Lincoln's Life and Character Revealed Through Poetry

By JOHN TAYLOR

All the material written about Abraham Lincoln is not confined to history books. The writer discovered this some time ago while making a study of the numerous poems, essays, novels, and dramas which have been written on his life.

The date of the earliest poem found in the college library was 1909. It was entitled "The Nativity of Lincoln" and was written by Percy Mackaye. However, undoubtedly many have appeared many years before this time. Altogether I read sixty-one poems, which were taken from such magazines as "The Atlantic Monthly," "The North American Review," "Good Housekeeping," "Christian Century," "The New Republic," among others. Some were writen by men who have high places in the literary world; others by obscure writers.

One of the best-known poems about Lincoln is "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight" by Vachel Lindsay. In this writing the poet depicts Lincoln walking the earth again, with bowed head, troubled by our warring world, unable to rest amidst the despair and sorrows of our contemporary scene. "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloomed" by Walt Whitman is another poem which portrays the great spirit of Lincoln. The poet deals with the idea that the characteristics of springtime—lilacs blooming, birds singing, leafy trees—reminds him of the death of Lincoln. Throughout the poem there is a tone of a deep personal sence of loss and Whitman refers to his subject as "him I love."

Many personal characteristics of Lincoln are mentioned repeatedly in the various poems. Two of the most prominent are his courageous spirit and his heroic and virtuous character, which are seen in another writing by the same poet, "O Captain! My Captain!" In the poem Whitman pays tribute to Lincoln as the "captain" of the nation who has guided the ship in safely and now lies "fallen cold and dead."

The fact that the Spirit of Lincoln is eternal and his influence is felt in the world today is also stressed. It is seen particularly in a poem by Arthur Guiterman entitled "He Leads Us Still" in which the writer deals with the fact that Lincoln still leads us and we must —inspired by him—continue the work he began.

"The Lincoln Statue" by W. F. Collins, indicates two more characteristics of Lincoln; namely, his faith and trust in God and his capacity for understanding people.

There is a widespread belief that he was not handsome in physical appearance and often was sorrowful and moody. These two aspects of his personality are mentioned in several poems, as well as the fact that he rose from poverty and adversity to become one of the greatest men in the history of our nation.

As has been the case with many great men down through the centuries the true greatness of Lincoln was not fully recognized until after his death. Edward Arlington Robinson stresses this aspect of Lincoln's life in his poem, entitled "The Master," in which he states that many times Lincoln was misunderstood, laughed at, and ridiculed while alive. But Robinson vindicates Lincoln as a man of strong character who was fully justified in his beliefs and actions.

AMERICAN HOLIDAY

VOLUME 29 — MARYVILLE, TENN. APRIL 29, 1944 — NUMBER 18

Evelyn Gregory Reigns Over May Day Monday

American Holiday Is Theme For 1944 Program

Trumpet fanfare will announce the beginning of the annual YW May Day program Monday, May 1, at 2:30 p.m. in the Amphitheater of the college woods. This year's theme will be "American Holiday—1944." There is also a theme song this year, "We Ain't Got No Gas."

Following the usual custom, the entrance of the court and crowning of the May Queen will initiate the afternoon's program. Evelyn Gregory, a senior English major from Eton, Georgia, has been elected by her class to be May Queen. Her escort, the king, will be Paul Smith, a senior psychology major from Orlando, Florida. Paul is president of the Senior class.

Evelyn has chosen Anne Horton and Vickie Hoole for her attendants from the senior class. The junior courtiers will be Margaret Hunt with Joe Brown and Ab Richards with Jane Hays. Peggy Claypoole accompanied by Jack Houdeshel and Abbott Kemp walking with Zenobia Bernardini will be the sophomore attendants. Freshmen Carolyn Winfrey with John Poland and Rush Lester with Joy Stewart will complete the royal party. Flower girl and crown bearer for Her Highness will be Anne Kennedy and Dickie Anderson, two Maryville children.

Program

At the Queen's command the entertainment will begin. The outline of the pageant is as follows:

Debate Team Meets Berea

The Maryville College varsity debating team engaged the representatives of Berea College at Berea, Kentucky, last Friday evening on the question: "Resolved, that the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis."

Those who composed the Maryville team were: Lawrence Streshley and Dorothy Lehman (Affirmative), and Benjamin Lynt and Marinell Ross (Negative). In keeping with the arrangement made by letter with Dr. David H. Briggs, coach of the team, no decisions were given.

Last Thursday evening in the philosophy classroom a practice debate was held between the two Maryville teams mentioned above. Before the contest questionaires were filled out by those present in order to get student opinion on the question. Following the debate the an open forum was conducted.

Summer Session Announced For One Six Weeks

The revised schedule of summer session offerings has been announced by Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum. Classes will begin on May 17 and will continue for six weeks, closing on June 29. The classes will meet six times a week, for a period of eighty minutes each time. On Saturday afternoon there will be no classes, for the first class in the morning will begin at 8:00 a.m. instead of 8:30 a.m. so that the sixth meeting of the afternoon classes can be held in the morning. The last class Saturday morning will then dismiss at 12:20 instead of 11:50. The regular lunch hour will be 12:30. Below is the schedule of classes offered:

These selections were made by the Publications Committee from the faculty, consisting of Dr. F. A. Griffitts, committee chairman, Miss Carolyn Bassett, Dr. Ralph T. Case, and Dr. Hill Shine; Professor E. R. Walker of the Student Business Managers Commitee, who serves as auditor of business accounts, and Edward Gates, a member of the Publications Committee from the Student Council.

At a recent meeting, promotions were made on the editorial staff of the ECHO. The staff for next year stands as follows: rising seniors, Hannah Duke and Robert Huber; rising juniors, Ruth Chandler, Madeline Cooke, Dorothy Dick, Thelma Richardson, Helen Marie Wilson; rising sophomores, Olinda Ahrens, Virginia Clabough, Tommy Parkinson, and John Poland.

These selections were made by the Faculty Publications Committee, consisting of Dr. Griffitts, Miss Bassett, Dr. Case, and Dr. Shine; the Publications Committee from the Student Council, consisting of Edward Gates; and the senior members of the editorial staff of the ECHO, consisting of Billye Ruth Braly and John Taylor.

Billye Ruth Braly, editor of the ECHO, acted as chairman of this meeting.

The election of next year's editor will be at a later date.

Pi Kappa Delta Elects Members

The Tennessee Alpha chapter of the national honorary forensic society, Pi Kappa Delta, will hold its annual banquet and initation of new members on Tuesday, May 2, in the Y. W. rooms at 7:30 p.m.

Those to be initiated include Dorothy Dick, Robert Huber, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Lawrence Sthreshley and Mariam Wicknam, all having been voted in and approved at a business meeting of the local chapter held last Wednesday.

Among the faculty guests at the banquet will be the members of the faculty committee on forensics, Mrs. Verton Queener and Dr. E. R. Hunter.

Alumni Magazine

The spring issue of the Alumni Magazine is now at the printers and is expected to be out by the beginning of May. This is the first publication since the fall issue. Of special interest will be a list of all Maryville alumni in the service who are now overseas and a completed list of other Maryville College alumni in the service. There will also be accounts of the February Meetings and special Easter services. The Alumni Magazine is compiled through the Public Relations Office.

LET US VOTE

(An Editorial)

By Robert F. Huber

During the past week the several classes held meetings for the purpose of making nominations for class officers and student council members to serve for the next school year. The members of the classes have attempted to select the persons whom they believe would make the best candidates and officers.

But the nomination of students for the various offices is just the preliminary step in the whole procedure, for the students must cast their ballots in the final election for the candidates they feel would best represent them and the class.

And this is where the difficulty arises, for in the past too few have bothered to vote, and, in many instances, the result did not reflect the opinion of the majority of the class members. But we believe in a democracy, and in a democracy all elected representatives should reflect the majority opinion of the voters.

The main point to be considered is not who to vote for, although that is important, but that you do vote. And so, since we believe in a democracy and in democratic procedure, and since we desire our representatives to reflect the opinion of the majority of the class members, we should all make a definite attempt to vote at the election which will be held next Wednesday. The vote of every individual is important in the scheme of things, so let us all make the most of our opportunities and fulfill our democratic duty and privilege of voting. Let's all vote next Wednesday.

VESPERS

The Reverend Mr. Maurice Hopson of the St. Andrew's Episcopal church of Maryville will be the guest speaker at the vespers service tomorrow evening. Mr. Hopson will use for his text, " . . . choose you this day whom ye will serve"—Joshua 24:15.

OF THE FUTURE

Today more than at any time in the history of our country there is money to be earned and the race is to see who can succeed in getting more. Young people are offered innumerable opportunities to make large salaries without experience or educational requirements. At present the temptation to discontinue our educations is so great that college enrollments are decreasing to a large extent due to this cause. This decrease is caused, of course, by so many of the men being called into the service, but we have not seemingly realized the seriousness of others dropping out of school to join in the money-making. It is hard to realize that money isn't everything. Right now it seems to be all that counts in life but there is a future to look forward to in which other things will be important.

A depression is predicted by many at the end of the war. We do not know what the financial status of the country will be then but we do know that there will be a mad clash of job hunters with the discontinuance of the war industries that are the sources of most of the present money making. Logically those who succeed in securing good positions will be those who have the best qualifications and that includes a good education above all things. Yes, we can't neglect the future. We must plan for it. The man and women with college educations will be the coming leaders. They will determine the financial status of our nation after peace is restored.

The servicemen are exceptions in many instances because many of them have their old positions promised to them upon their return. But the rest of us are excluded from any sense of security then. It is up to us now to endeavor to complete our educations so that when this time arises we will be among those who ranked as more capable and who can better serve reestablishing the normal, peaceful country that we are fighting for.

—H. D.

HERE AND ABOUT

By ROBERT F. HUBER

INVASION LEADER

Today, as the hour of invasion comes nearer it might prove useful to take a look at our "invasion leader" and to see just what his qualities are and why he was selected for the job. This position is of prime importance because the man who holds it must have a thorough knowledge of geography, military, tactics, and men. He must be able to coordinate all available branches of service into one mobile working unit of operation. His success will be measured by all of these standards and on how well he applies the science of logistics.

The man who has been selected to lead our invasion forces against Hitler's European fortress is General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the army's favorite general. A little over two years ago Eistenhower was just one of the many colonels in the army of the United States, but today he is one of the army's sixteen Lieutenant Generals, holding rank equivalent to the highest which George Washington ever attained.

A little over a year ago "Ike" was sitting behind a desk in Washington as the chief of the War Plans Division, a position which carried with it the responsibility of formulating the grand strategy for U. S. forces in both hemispheres. It was he who first suggested plans for the invasion of the coast of Europe, and so today he has been given the toughest assignment a general ever had, that of piercing the iron defenses of Europe. As the Commander of U. S. Forces in the European Theater of Operations, he has now become our invasion leader, and it is upon his success that American and Allied hopes are based.

HIS RECORD

His record is as outstanding as that of any American general. At West Point he stood well up in the top third of his class, and he was one of the best half backs the Army football team has ever produced. During World War I Eisenhower was assigned to the Army's incipient Tank Corps where he was placed in command of the tank training center at Camp Colt with 6000 men under him. When the war ended he received the Distinguished Service Medal for "displaying unusual zeal, foresight and market administrative ability in the organization, training, and preparation for overseas service of technical troops of the Tank Corps."

As chief of staff to General Douglas MacArthur in Washington, in the early 1930's, he helped evolve plans for centralizing the control of military air power. Some time later, as MacArthur's special assistant in the Philippines, he organized the Filipine Air Force, laid out air fields, and worked out defensive strategy employed against the Japs at Corregedor and Bataan.

OVERSEAS

One day, after plans had matured for action in the European theater of operations, General Marshall told Eistenhower abruptly, "You're going over to command the European divisions. When can you leave?" Eisenhower gulped, and said, "Tomorrow morning."

And so today General "Ike" Eisenhower, our invasion leader, is over in Europe training Allied troops, for the big, decisive thrust into Europe.

HERE AND ABOUT

The War Department Bureau of Public Relations has prepared an official glossary of military slang—perhaps so the girls can understand their men when they come home. Armored cow—canned milk; battery acid—coffee; blind flying—a date with a girl you have never seen; china clipper—dishwasher; dog show—foot inspection; galvanized welding—a tank; general's car—a wheelbarrow; hashburner—cook; homing device—a furlough; jackson—a form of address for any soldier; refugees—newly arrived selectees; roll up your flaps—stop talking; serum—intoxicating beverages; shot down in flames—jilted by a girl friend; side arms—cream and sugar; skirt patrol—search for feminine companionship; and sugar report—a letter from a girl.

We had to promise by the wart threat that we wouldn't tell them. Military? With sleep getting so much publicity this week, here's a $64.00 problem. A senior was gaily but carefully counting sheep the other P.M. They were a beautiful hazy white, and they jumped over the traditional fence in perfect timing. Only someone hastened the music, and the counter lost count. At present we don't know whether there were 90 and 9 or just what was the figure. It kept us awake all night wondering if there were some poor lost sheep.

It's done by Maryville students department: They know the art of putting frogs' legs in beds—they print in Anderson—they hike in the rain—they play hide-and-seek—they save cats' tails—they bare their feet for tennis. For exact names, please bring a signed statement that you have read all of this week's ECHO. We'll not only give you the names—we'll donate the smelling salts likewise.

Patterns of life, 'er something. Biology labs and cut-outs and all that well-blended, and if Miss Green doesn't have a new dress, it won't be her fault.

We pause to quote a rather profound statement made to the world in general. Jane Craig and company were holding down the campus greenery (no, grass) when she shouted, "I got him!" That's all we know too—

Below are listed the most recent results of a somewhat galloping poll—purely unconstitutional and all that:

Most publicized ..... Pixie and McGarity (it was a tie)
Most eager to sing ..... Superman McMartin
Most suntanned ..... they all faded this week

Having learned to sing almost two lines of a well-known hymn, we give full credit to Louise Henry, the only example of the big blonde brute type as discussed in FUNDAMENTALS OF class. And a waffle good time was had by all—mainly Wally and Dockendorf. Their theory: safety in numbers.

We visited the second grade the other day, and we saw the angry scramble in the girls' dorms to see what next year's addresses would be—and that's a tie too. In case you have the time, be on hand Wednesday about 4:30 and see the new members of Writers' Sweatshop on the verge of performing. See you in the funny papers anyway—

TALK OF THE WEEK

By PIXIE KEYES

TO A WILD WAITRESS

By BETTY LOU McCOY

A thing that is given too little publicity recognition on this campus is the meritorious performance of the waitress. Meal in, meal out, she appears, to carry out her duty, to minister to the starving, who are all too ungrateful and too unconscious of temptations which oftimes almost succeed in calling her from service. It is with her valorous deeds in mind, and memories of my own need for fortuitousness in this proportion, that I recall my fiery trials while once holding such a job and thus dedicate this:

TO A WILD WAITRESS

Each night, with the best of intentions, (Not minding the fact that the road to hell is paved with such),
I set my alarm for six a.m.
And place it by my bed.
Comes dawn's first pink tints—
Nay, yet before the dawn,
And with a most annoying faithfulness,
Not e'en in gentle, coaxing tones,
But language shrill enough to waken Morpheus,
Said clock shrieks out the fateful hour,
And startles sleep from weary lids.
But not for long—ah, no;
Determined not to be bested
By this loud-mouthed
Authority-assuming
Lump of springs and coils,
I rise from inertia long enough
To silence the disturber,
And sink happ'ly back into the sheets.
A second instinct comes:
I reach out my hand and place the clock
Upon the bed
Beside my head
Where I can keep one eye upon it,
Lest it sulkily attempts
To speed the minutes through its hands.
That single open eye soon closes,
though,
After the decision that
Just five minutes more of sleep
Will contribute greatly to my well-being
Through the day.
Tempus fugit, and
Fifteen minutes later, for some reason or other,
(Perhaps a guilty conscience),
I waken violently to see the hour
Is just a quarter past.
A snooze of five more minutes,
And my safe arrival
In the dining hall
At six forty-five
Is still assured.
And anyway it is too late
To rise early now
To finish that assignment
Which should have been done last night.
Ten minutes later, my room-mate,
Sans due consideration for my
"please do not disturb" attitude,
Rudely tears the covers away
And rolls me on the floor.
On staggering to a mirror and peering in,
The first impulse,
Upon recovery from shock,
Is to flee to bed again,
For something that looks like that Should be hidden under covers anyway.
A glance at the clock
Stimulates the Sandman possessed mind.
A mad scramble into clothes,
Rapidity of which motion
Makes arms and legs undistinguishable, Follows.
Then a rush out the door.
Seconds later
There is a rush in the door again—
Realization has come
That curlers still adorn my hair.
Having remedied the evil,
I take my final departure—
Also two steps at a time downstairs.
And so another day begins.

Home again

Following this will be the traditional May Pole dance and then the recessional.

Mary Evelyn Jamison and Cynthia Johnson are the YW cabinet members in charge of May Day. Working with them are Mrs. Nita Eckles West as advisor, Mrs. Verton M. Queener, in charge of dancing, and Mr. Philip O. Jones, in charge of the singing. Several committees have also been appointed.

Costumes—Grace Rogers.
Decorations—Skip Jamison and Cynthia Johnson, chairmen—Ruth Wood, Louise Cleveland, Polly Edmunds, Helen Barber, Ruth Kaye, Thelma Richardson.
Flowers—Ethel Broker.
Properties—Marky Cross.
Public address cystem—Bill Cover.
Publicity—Dorothy Dick.
Records—Ruth Freeman.
Ushers—Becky Davis, chairman—Becky Davis and Charlie Burgreen, Peggy Fisher and Leroy Dillener, Jane Craig and Tommy Parkinson.

Lyle Knaupp will escort the sponsor. The name of this person to whom the program is dedicated is always kept secret until the time of the program.

Harold Kidder and Paul Moehlman will be the trumpeters.

Wally Easter has organized a male chorus which will sing several songs throughout the pageant. The chorus will include: Bill Cover, Hank Crowson, Wally Easter, Harold Kidder, Douglas MacMartin, Owen McGarity, Paul Moehlman, Jack Ross, Hubert Rust, Jack Scott, Carroll Stegall, Jimmy Walker, and James Witherspoon.

There will be no classes Monday afternoon on condition that it doesn't rain. If, however, it should rain, May Day will be postponed and classes will meet as usual.

Very Merry Month of May Means—

By DOROTHY DICK

Two days hence, 'twill be the merry month of May! May . . . fanfare, queens, attendants, king! . . . oh, May! . . . brides, grooms, music and romance! Herein, my children, lies the tale!!!!

Perfect ages ago, and I do mean perfect — there wasn't a war, a draft, or a scarcity of men to frolic with their lady-loves on May-Day— this Spring ritual began. Whether of pagan or Christian origin, the ceremony signifies the renewal of life in spring, and is a praise of nature. In case you didn't know, the queen isn't just a pretty blonde chosen for the occasion, there's a reason for a queen, for she means the spirit of Summer! Her smiles are rays of sunshine, and oh, lucky boy, to feel that ray of warmth! In pagan Rome and Merry England all lively young lads and lasses adorned themselves with leaves, flowers, and tripped merrily along, going in the front door and out the back of all the cottages. And why? To spread the spirit of Nature and Growth through every nook and cranny. The Maypole is, I realize, a part of a tree, but let's use some imagination—it was the tree of life long, long ago. England added to the spirit of the times and included purity with the thoughts of May. Wells were cleaned and decorated with flowers and lanterns to be lighted at night. Bathing ceremonies became the rage of the day. No hopeful young lassie ever missed washing her face with dew at sunrise . . . there any young hopefuls here who want to try this beauty formula? Here is the method in this little ditty.

"The fair maid, who, the first day of May,
Goes to the fields at break of day
And washes in dew from the hawthorn-tree
Will ever after handsome be."

Did you say you'd rather be pretty anyway, than handsome some day? With the queen of May attendants were chosen for a real reason, not merely to look beautiful (or is that a time consuming task that leaves no room for lesser duties?) but to represent powers of nature like the rain, wind, snow, sunshine.

England's May Day festivities are far more elaborate than ours—May fire processions, floas, chimney sweeps blackened by smoke of May day fires, groups of bedecked peasants, even Sherwood Foresters well equiped with bows and arrows were the order of the day. Not to be forgotten was the annual play or mask of St. George and the Dragon! Many and varied were the versions, but beloved none the less by all the spectators.

We Americans have retained the beauty of the scene and the spirit of song and dance which after all is the best way of expressing renewed vigor and love that flames forth after a trying and weary wintaer.

So, swirling skirts, lovely pastels, red, red roses, flowers for all the party, smiling faces, the chirping love songs of the birds, signs of nature's release from winter imprisonment . . . all these add to the joy and happiness of that early traditional beginning.

May first may mean to some worn students just 'no classes', a respite before those final testings of the knowledge one didn't gain. It can mean more—a May pole dance and gala fete, a queen to rule o'er the day, not in Maryville alone, but in north, south, east and west, where tasks are put aside a moment to pay homage to the Beauty of the Day.

INTRAMURALS

By TOMMY PARKINSON

VOLLEY BALL ALL-STARS

Friday night the all-star team for this past volley ball season was announced by Intramural Manager Huffman. The players were selected by votes cast by the captains of the different teams and one vote by the intramural manager. The team is as follows:

Wally Easter
Abbott Kemp
Tommy Parkinson
Johnny Poland
Rush Lester
Bill Buford

SOFTBALL

The first softball game of the year was played between the two teams chosen by Squire Kemp and Wally Easter respectively. That means that those two are leading in intramural points at present, for it was announced that the teams were to be chosen by players with the two highest totals of points. To make the stories of these softball games more readable and more understandable we are going to give them names. Kemp's team will hereafter be known as the "Democrats" and Easter's, "Republicans" in this column if nowhere else.

On Tuesday, April 25 the "Democrats" outscored the "Republicans" 4 to 2 in a game which was very close and very good, considering that it was the first game of the season. Leroy Dillener was the winning pitcher and had a shutout game until there were two out in the last inning of the 5 inning affair; Cover was his catcher. Wally Easter was the pitcher for the losers and he also pitched a good game. He had more strikeouts to his credit than did the winning hurler. Moehlman was behind the bat for him.

The lineups for the game was as follows:

"Democrats" pos.	"Republicans"
Cover ..... c	Moehlman
Dillener ..... p	Easter
Taylor ..... ss	Turner
Parkinson ..... fb	Lester
Burgreen 2b	Huber
Kemp 3b	Buford
Schieber ..... lf	Seel
Crowson ..... cf	Ross
J. Henry ..... rf	Kirstein
..... sf	Poland

MINOR TOURNAMENTS

Buford and Cross beat Seel and Cover in the only match played this week in the over-due, doubles ping pong tourney.

HORSE SHOES

Friday night, April 28, after supper, Squire Kemp and Paul Moehlman got together and ended the long overdue horse shoes tournament. Kemp tossed some pretty good horse shoes to take the final match of the tourney with the score of (21-8), (21-12), and (21-14).

Moehlman defeated Buford in a match the same night to determine who would meet Kemp in the finals. That match had the score of (21-11), (21-7). In earlier rounds of the tourney he had outscored Parkinson and Cover.

Kemp outplayed the following to gain his place in the finals: Ferguson, Huber, and Poland.

According to the schedule drawn up, the doubles horse shoes tournament was to have been completed on April 27, but at this writing not a single match has been played.

PLANS

The softball teams are scheduled to play on the regular Tuesday and Thursday and on Wednesday of next week to make up the game which was rained out last Thursday, according to Huffman.

From the same source came the announcement that the doubles tennis tourney will be started next week and that tourney, besides the other tourneys which have been started previously, will all have to be completed by next Saturday, which is to be the absolute deadline; for that will be the time that all intramural points will have to be turned in for the final point standings to be figured up. That is so the intramural awards can be made to the fellows who end the year with the highest totals. There will be awarded keys for the three with the greatest number of points; blue, red, and white ribbons will be attached to designate first, second, and third places, respectively. And the next ten, in order of standing, will receive intramural emblems for their awards. Manager Huffman is to get an M Sweater for his efforts, both for this year and seasons past when he served as underclass manager. There are to be two junior manager awards; they are for Wally Easter and Bob Seel who are serving as assistant managers this semester.

THE POCKETBOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

SERVICE

BY DOROTHY DICK

Corporal Harry Lyle, class of '44, has just been transferred to Camp Pickett, Virginia, in the Infantry. Until the recent order to discontinue the Army Specialized Training Program, Harry was in the Army Air Corps unit of the program at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. Harry was a member of the choir as a student here.

A-c Bill McCord, who would have graduated this year, is in the advanced training school of the Navy Air Corps, at Jackson, Mississippi. Bill expects to get his wings in the middle of May. He played in the college band, and was a member of the wrestling team.

Bob Milligan is now stationed at Fort Dix, New Jersey, awaiting embarkation. He was also in the A.S.T. Program until it was discontinued. He would have been a member of the present junior class.

Pvt. Baxter Cato, who visited here on the campus March 27, was until recently stationed at the University of Oklahoma in the A.S.T. Program. A member of this year's sophomore class, Baxter expects to go back to the Infantry very shortly.

Pvt. Gordon Stone, a sophomore last year, visited on the campus this week while on furlough from Camp Barclay, Texas, where he has been stationed for about a month. He is attached to the Medical Corps of the 12th Armored Division. In the A. S. T. Program, formerly, Gordon was stationed for some time at Camp Roberts, California, with a number of other Maryville students. Since then he has been transferred to other camps in California and New Mexico before being sent to Texas. He does expect to be sent overseas very soon. Gordon was quite outstanding in music here at Maryville, playing for the choir and giving a recital last year with a senior.

First Lieutenant Carl Miller, class of '44, has been stationed with the Army in England for three months. He is in the Intelligence branch, and at present is taking paratroop training. Before going across, Carl was at Camp Ritchie, Maryland.

Sgt. Jack Gilmore, who left two months before graduation, has been overseas for one and one-half years. He is now stationed in Italy with the Army. Jack is doing radio work with the British 8th Air Force. He, too, was a choir member while here at Maryville.

A-c Jack Lippard, w h o graduated in August of '43, has been in the Navy Air Corps for the last five months. He is stationed at the Arkansas Polytechnic Institute at Russelville, Arkansas. He has been there for two months for his Flight Training. Jack is both wing leader and squadron leader. Jack was one of the solists in the Messiah last year, and sang in the choir also.

Jane Trotter, Maryville, Tennessee, who attended Maryville College last year, has joined the Engineering Section of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation's Columbia plant, after completing a 10-month special aeronautical Engineering Cadette training course at Purdue University. The plant produces the famed SB2C Curtiss Helldiver dive bombers, which have been victorious in action against the Japs, and the Curtiss Seagull, naval scout observation plane.

A-c Bill Ford, who would have been a senior this this year, is stationed at Turner Field, Albany, Geor- at Great Lakes, Illinois. Upon his return to Great to get his wings May 23. He will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps at that time.

A-s Trevor Willams, a former member of the present junior class, visited on the campus last week while on furlough after completing his boot training ata Great Lakes, Illinois. Upon his return to Great Lakes, he will become a Petty Officer, 3rd class. Trevor, who was a member of the wrestling team here at Maryville, and a pre-med student, expects to be sent to medical school before long.

M Clubbers Hike To Mt. Nebo For Annual Outing

M clubbers gave Johnnye Gudel, their old president the traditional burial and elected a new set of officers for the 1944-45 school year. Pete Peterson is the president; Winnie Sommers, vice-president; Betty Lou King, secretary; and Margaret Hunt, treasurer. The program chairmen are Jean Bellerjeau and Catherine Stout.

All this was done on the Mt. Nebo overnight hike, in addition to sunning, hiking, sleeping under the ivy (even if it was poison), and initating neophytes.

A highlight of the trip was the little entertainment Margie Witt put on during the night. It wasn't any effort on Margie's part because she didn't even wake up to see what it was all about.

Big event number two was the journey homeward. No means of transportation except for what the feet and the uplifted thumb sent back in a jerky motion will bring, plus buckets and buckets of Tennessee rain coming down in its best fashion, were the ingredients that made that trip (it was more like a stagger) the event that it was.

The hotel they stayed at on Mt. Nebo was once a fashionable mountain resort. Where once it stood out white and new against the hills, its grey structure is not so easily seen from a distance. If you look hard enough you'll find it and maybe the remains of a good old time in the mountains spent by 25 M-club members.

See you next year at Point System!

Bellerjeau Is Vols President

Student Volunteers have recently elected their new officers for next year. They are: Jeanne Bellerjeau, president; Helen Marie Wilson, vice-president; Rebecca Davis, secretary; and Owen McGarity, treasurer. Carol Titus is the new member of the program committee to serve with Margaret Messer.

Kay's Ice Cream and Sherbets

Jeanne is a junior religious education major from Haddon Heights, New Jersey. She is active in many campus organizations, including the Y.W.C.A., and has been a student council member.

Helen Marie is a sophomore English major from Fairview, Pennsylvania. She is a member of the ECHO staff and has debated in college. Rebecca, also a sophomore, is a sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky. She serves as president of the German club. Owen McGarity, a sophomore political science major from Croyden, Pennsylvania, is active in Y.M.C.A. and has been a choir member. Carol, a freshman now from Maryville, has spent most of her life in India. Her major is English.

The program for Sunday will consist of the installation of the new officers and a program to be presented by the negro church of Maryville.

Ruth Carter Weds Lt. Ross Miller In Florida May 6

Ruth Shields Carter, class of '44, will be married May 6 to Lt. (j.g.) Ross Sheldon Miller of the Naval Air Corps in Pensacola, Florida. The wedding will take place at 5:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Pensacola and will be officiated by Dr. John D. Thomas, pastor of the church.

There will be four attendants to the bride. The maid of honor will wear yellow and carry a bouquet of talisman roses. The three bridesmaids will wear blue and will also carry talisman roses. The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. P. W. Carter, will give the bride away.

The bride's wedding dress will be of white lace and chiffon with a train. Her veil is to be full length with a crown of embroidered seed pearls. She will carry white iris bouquet with a center of white orchids.

A reception after the wedding will take place at the home of Mrs. E. F. Ashley, aunt of the bride. Prior to her wedding, Mrs. R. N. Chaflin of Maryville honored the bride-elect with a linen shower. A number of parties are being planned upon her arrival in Pensacola.

Lt. Miller is a graduate of the University of California. His home is in Oakland, California. For the past two years he has been an instructor at the Pensacola Naval Air Base and has recently received more training at Hollywood Beach, Florida.

Ruth graduates this spring as an education major. She is a member of Theta Epsilon and was a member of last year's Daisy Chain. She has also attended Florida State College For Women in Tallahassee.

Dr. Shine Speaks To Ministers

Plans Announced For Approaching Banquet

Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, addressed the Ministerial Association at their biweekly meeting Thursday evening, speaking on the subject of "Some Seventeenth Century Sermons."

Dr. Shine approached the subject by first sketching briefly the practices employed in sermon development in the Medieval period, and giving a fairly comprehensive survey of the available biliography on this particular aspect. He then took up the Seventeenth Century preachers and sermons and dwelt at some length on Isaac Barrows.

There was a short business meeting just prior to Dr. Shine's address, at which time various items were discussed including plans for the approaching banquet.

Lyle Knaupp, chairman of the banquet committee reported that most of the final plans had been completed and that the banquet would be held, as previously announced, at 7:30 the evening of May 4th, at Coulter's Restaurant. At this time he also announced that the toastmaster would be Dean E. R. Hunter, and the speaker of the evening would be Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German and French.

Stamp Drive Closes Friday

The war stamp drive for the entire year reached its climax this week with the selling of war stamps and bonds everyday. The freshmen had charge of the sales on Monday, selling $4.95; sophomores on Tuesday, $13.25; juniors on Wednesday, $8.00; seniors on Thursday, $11.60; the stamp committee on Friday $8.55. The total sales for the semester is approximately $700.

The selling of the war stamps and bonds has been under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club. Peggy Case, a junior biology major and transfer from Montreat Junior College in North Carolina has been head of the drive.

Mary Evelyn Jamison, a sophomore education major from McAlisterville, Pennsylvania, has handled the financial part of the drive, assisted by Polly Edmunds, a sophmore major from Charleston, West Virginia.

Each class has had a chairman for their selling committee: Ruth Broadhead, freshman; May Mell Fleming, sophomore; Hannah Duke, junior; and Estelle Farrow, senior.

ALPHA SIG

The next Alpha Sigma meeting will be held the night of May 6. At this time the Sigs will hold their elections for the next semester officers, and refreshments will be served. The Alpha Sigmas decided to postpone tonight's meeting because so many of their number are working on the stage crew of the operetta.

BAINONIAN

On Wednesday, April 26, Bainonian held its election for new officers for the fall session. Margaret Messer was elected president; Thelma Richardson, vice president, and Eleanor Stout, secretary, while Skip Jamison was elected treasurer. For program committee Nancy Russell and Shirley Scott were chosen as one group, and Miriam Bowditch and Florence Gobilot were selected as another. June Gowenlock is the new sergeant-at-arms. The pianist is Betty Tuffvander; and the house committee consists of Fay Cameron and Betty Anne Showalter.

Tonight at 6:15 Bainonian is having a baby show where pictures of the members, from by-gone days will be exhibited.

Pre-Med Club

The Pre-Med Club had its last meeting of the year on Thursday night, April 27. The meeting was in the form of a social program, with Millie Cundiff and Agnes Peterson in charge.

IRC

The final meeting of the International Relations club for this year will be held Monday evening at 7:00 p.m. in the "Y" rooms.

A party consisting of games and refreshments will be held under the direction of Aimee Wriggins, senior home economics major from Shortsville, New York.

The meeting last week was addressed by Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, who spoke on the subject, "Some Psychological Bases for World Peace."

GERMAN CLUB

Monday, May 1, the German club will hold its concluding meeting of the year in the German class room at 6:45. At this last meeting games will be played and refreshments will be served. The sponsor of the organization is Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German. The president is Rebecca Davis, a sophomore sociology major from Sturgis, Kentucky.

FRENCH CLUB

Thursday, April 27, at 6:00 the French club held a dinner in the Y rooms. There was a brief business meeting followed by the initiation of the new members. The program was planned by Nell Ousley, a sophomore education major from Maryville, and Imogene Everett, a sophomore French major from Maryville. This was the last meeting of the year. New officers will be elected next week.

Spanish Club

Carol Reynolds was in charge of folk dancing, and Mary Batchelor led community singing at the last meeting of Spanish club Thursday, April 27, at 6:40 p.m. in the Y rooms. Plans were also made for a picnic to be held in the college woods next Friday. Members of the social committees—Carol Raynolds, Lois Collette, Gladys David, and Abbott Kemp—are in charge of refreshments. This was the last regular meeting of the year.

YM and YW

On Sunday, April 30, a delegation of from fifteen to twenty members of Maryville's YWCA and YMCA will journey to Knoxville College where special services will be held. The group will leave here on the one o'clock bus and return at four. One member of the Knoxville group will give an address. Jack Scott will sing. Following the worship service there is to be a discussion period. The purpose of the session is to further understanding between racial groups.

Nature Club

Nature Club will meet Monday night, May 1, at 6:40 in Miss Susan Green's lecture room. Business will include election of officers for the coming year and discussion of plans for a scavenger hunt to be held soon.

Dr. Lloyd Returns From Trip North

Last week President Ralph W. Lloyd made a quick trip through the north visiting Philadelphia, New York, and Washington, D. C., before returning to the Maryville campus. His primary purposes were to find a more definite statement concerning pre-professional school men and to carry out financial and standardization negotiations for Maryville.

Dr. Lloyd found that as far as pre-professional men were concerned, if they are not in professional school by July 1 of this year they will be subject to the draft.

While in Philadelphia Dr. Lloyd attended the meeting of the Executive Committee of Presbyterian Colleges. The committe discussed financial problems and those problems concerned with the upkeep of the present standards of the colleges under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. These problems have all been greatly magnified due to present conditions.

In New York he investigated college investments and found out about new Alumni Association plans.

Choir Festival

May 7, will be the date of the annual all-choir festival to be held at the First Methodist Church at 4:00 p.m. Four Maryville choirs and the college will participate in this musical performance.

Everyone is invited to attend.

MARYVILLE'S HIDEWAY

By HELEN MARIE WILSON

Who was it said "people are funny"? Well, whoever originated the phrase certainly knew what he was talking about. Of course, I may be prejudiced. But perhaps a few pictures of student activity within Lamar Memorial Library will serve my purpose.

Those who enter the center doors of the library may be classified into several distinct types. First (lest they be forgotten in the hordes to come) are those who come for the sole purpose of following their intellectual pursuits in search of knowledge. Although almost impossible to believe, there really are some. They are the ones who do NOT glance up every time other students enter the silent hall or a passing footstep is heard.

In the second group we find those who just must get away from the dorm. Perhaps the floors are being waxed or the roommate is entertaining. They too, seem to adjust themselves easily to the ways of the library. They may belong to the aforementioned class or to a new division.

The tables in the periodical and reading room alcoves are familiar with this class. Love stories and the latest fashions receive close attention. Some particularly appealing illustrations are often discovered missing. Of course, the library belongs to its patrons, or does it? It seems quite apparent that the above remarks are directed to the women readers. However, the "stronger sex" is known to frequent the alcove, too. Usually magazines on aviation and science seem to interest him most. But he has been seen reading feminine (?) literature!

Then a large number of library patrons fall into this last class: those who come for the sake of fellowship. That word conveys any number of possible connotations. The sight of a boy and girl studying together is indeed a sign of fellowship. There can be, and is, fellowship among girls also. A brief or lengthy discussion of his merits or the color of her sweater is often carried on by two enjoying the fellowship of it all. There has entered the minds of certain persons the question as to whether those assembled in the Echo office are there to put out a newspaper or if it is just a case of "mixed" fellowship.

Desk attendants are often perplexed at the peculiar and persistent requests made them by these various types of students. Any library assistant will be glad to inform the un-informed of the joys involved in obtaining a New York Times Magazine section for a home ec. major, usually. The assistant sets out on his pilgrimage to the lower parts of Thaw. To suit Fate's whims, the issue wanted is usually three-fourths of the way to the bottom of a thirty-inch stack of papers. Just to lend a touch of adventure, the writer remembers one time when a flood was discovered. This called for sudden, emergency measures on the part of two student assistants plus the two librarians. With herculean efforts, the two assistants first dislodged the top row of valuable old volumes before notifying the librarians. Oh yes, we must not forget the home ec. major patiently waiting her magazine section. She got it!

The appellation of "funny" does not apply alone to college students using the library. A phone call some weeks ago confirmed this statement. A woman wished to know if the library knew where she might acquire two white rats. She was informed that, at one time, the psychology department had some which were now quite extinct, however.

A member of the armed forces once asked for a Maryville Directory. That did not fulfill his desire, for he next wanted a map of the town and surrounding country. He finally presented himself at the main desk with the firm conviction that Maryville had nothing to offer him. Upon learning that he wanted to go horseback riding, the desk attendant called a friend from town who was abe to supply the information.

The library population, their conduct and requests are of such nature as to keep the librarians and assistants from being lethargic or bored. Are people funny? You decide.

Primary Children To Show Ability

Pre-school children will hold a demonstration of class work in Voorhees Chapel at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, May 6. The advanced class will play individual selections; others will play in groups. One part of the program will be a rote book review. The second is to be eurhythmics; the last part will be blackboard drill and individual performances.

Fruit vendor (yelling in front of his stand): "Twenty cents a doz!"

Bystander (soused): "Twenty cents he don't."

GIRLS ELECTED TO PROMINENT POSTS

Ministerial Club Installs Officers

Banquet Held Last Thursday

The annual installation service of the Ministerial association will be held Thursday, May 11, at 6:45 p.m. in the College Woods.

Dr. John A. Gates, associate professor of Bible and Religious Education, will speak and install the following officers:

President—James C. Witherspoon.

First Vice-president — Robert Dockendorf.

Second Vice-president — Luther Cross.

Secretary-Treasurer, William Robarts.

In keeping with tradition, this event will be attended by a mixed group, and refreshments will be served after the service.

The Ministerial association held their annual banquet last Thursday evening in the banquet hall of Coulter's Restaurant. Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum and professor of English, acted as toastmaster and Dr. Ralph Stokes Collins, associate professor of German and French, addressed the group on the subject: "Absurd Fermentation."

Dr. Collins described his address as a "revolutionary, radical, reactionary, progressive, observation on the world situation." The musical portion of the program was presented by Frances Grosch, who sang "The Spirit Flower," accompanied by Betty Tufvander, and Fay Cameron, who presented two selections on the violin: "The Old Refrain," by Fritz Kreisler, and "Gypsy Love Song," by Victor Herbert.

In his address Dr. Collins recalled his college days as a student at the University of North Carolina and pointed out various features of its program, particularly the stress on progress. He also noted the program of Maryville College, especially its emphasis on a Christian society, and declared that these two factors are basic to our civilization.

The speaker then discussed the achievements of Russia, especially in education, and the question of freedom in a planned democracy. In dealing with these subjects, he presented exerpts from Howard J. Laski's recent book, "Some Reflections on the Revolution of Our Time." In concluding, Dr. Collins explained the title of his address by stating that it was arrived at from comment made by Mephistopheles in Goethe's "Faust": "However absurd the fermentation of the grapes, it finally yields a wine."

Chilhoweans Expected Soon

This week the business staff of the CHILHOWEAN has been making a special drive to secure all additional payments on the yearbook. Individuals and clubs are urged to pay the balance on their annuals as soon as possible. Statements have been sent all clubs and organizations so that the amounts outstanding on club pictures can be paid promptly. Business manager Carol McCutcheon announces that no CHILHOWEANS will be given students who have not paid in full for their books.

No additional word concerning arrival of the CHILHOWEANS has been received. They are still expected on May 13.

Stamp Sales Close

Although the war stamp drive for this year formally closed last Friday, stamps will be on sale at the book store again this Friday and students may purchase them there. This semester's stamp sales netted approximately $700, according to Peggy Case who has had charge of the stamp drive under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club.

Register Now For Fall Term

Registration for the Summer and Fall terms began last Friday and will continue through Saturday, May 13. Student schedule slips containing a list of the courses to be taken must be filled out and approved by the major advisor. They must be turned in to the Personnel office within the dates mentioned above or a late registration fee of $2.50 will be imposed.

Anyone who changes his major, or anyone who has not turned in a major card, should take care of these matters immediately.

The Summer term will begin May 17, and the Fall term, September 5.

Seniors Plan To Begin Teaching, Enter Seminary

Many Uncertain But May Be Announced Later

Many of the seniors are as yet undecided as to what they will be doing after graduation, but after a number of interviews we managed to find a few who are rather definite as to their future careers.

The teaching profession is being greatly enlarged when this class gets in operation. Evelyn Gregory, Dorothy Jean Thomas, Lois Wall, Louise Storey, Betty Jane Miller, Estelle Farrow, Margaret Spade, and probably a few others plan to teach next fall.

A few lucky people are getting married soon. Ben Lynt and Lawrence Sthreshley will be married right after graduation, and Katie Tomlinson plans to be married in the latter part of the summer.

Shirley Montgomery will begin nursing training in October at Yale Freda Buller will study nursing at Western Reserve in Cleveland. Grace Betts will be a cadet nurse at Johns Hopkins.

A number of the senior ministerial students will leave soon for study in various seminaries. Paul Smith will begin his work at Columbia Seminary on June 8. Malcolm Thompson plans to attend McCormick seminary in Chicago but will be on the Northwestern campus this summer. Ben Lynt and Lawrence Stresbley will go to Richmond after they are married. Charlie Burgreen will go to Sewanee. Lyle Knaupp, and Duane Collins will be in Princeton. Hubert Rust will also be in Princeton under the Navy V-12 program.

Helen Anderson will be a personnel assistant or a receptionist. Virginia Cain plans to be a statistician or an accountant. Merriam McGaha will work in some laboratory as an analytical chemist. Two roommates. Stevie Boretsky and Johnnye Gudel will be together at Clinton in the electrical engineering department of the Clinton works.

Several Home economics majors will continue in the field of dietetics. Elizabeth McConnell will begin her internship at Shadyside Hospital in Pittsburgh. Lucile Gaultney will do her internship in Vanderbilt. Margaret Weldon will begin work as a dietition near Atlanta. Ann Horton expects to be an assistant dietition in a camp in New Hampshire.

The only senior planning to attend medical school is Bill Buford. He will go to Temple medical school under the Navy program in October.

Others who have not yet decided upon their plans will probably be announced later.

1944 Catalog

The 1944 catalog is now at the printers, but no definite date can be announced as to when it will be finished. This will be a complete catalog with the list of courses and description of them. The 1943 edition had these omitted, because it was abridged due to the war.

Six Elected To Membership In Pi Kappa Delta

Annual Banquet Held This Week For Formal Initiation

The Tennessee Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic society, held its annual banquet and formal initiation of new members Tuesday evening, May 2nd, at 7:30 in the Y. W. rooms at the rear of Thaw Hall.

Presiding over the banquet was Dorothy Lehman, president of the Maryville chapter and varsity debater for two years. She was assisted by Ben Lynt, graduating senior member and acting secretary-treasurer of the chapter for the past year.

Guests at the banquet included both the faculty committee on forensics and members of this year's debate squad. Dr. and Mrs. David H. Briggs were seated at the head table, Dr. Briggs having served this year as debate coach in the absence of Dr. Verton M. Queener, who is now serving with a government agency in Washington, D. C. Other faculty members present were Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Case, Miss Jessie Johnson and Mrs. Verton M. Queener.

Dorothy Dick, Robert Huber, Bette Lou McCoy, Marinell Ross, Lawrence Sthreshley and Mariam Wickham were present as guests of the chapter and as candidates for admission into the forensic honor society, having become eligible through service on the debate squad.

Lehman Speaks

During the course of the program following service of the meal, Dorothy Lehman made a few remarks in which she outlined the activities of the squad during the past year and praised Dr. Briggs for his splendid work. She commented on the fact that at the opening of the season there were serious doubts in the minds of faculty and interested students as to whether or not a speech program would be possible or practicable, and that no one expected Maryville to participate in intercollegiate debating this year, but that under the guidance of Dr. Briggs, the teams had managed to round out a full program of speech work, including three trips to other campuses. The trips made were to Lincoln Memorial University, Tennessee Tech and Berea College, Kentucky. She also thanked the other members of the faculty committee on forensics for their continued interest and efforts during the season just past.

Following these remarks by the president, Ben Lynt introduced the candidates individually and announced topics for two-minute speeches by each, asking Miss Johnson to serve as critic. The speeches varied in subject matter and included "Interior Decoration", "Synthetic Love," "The Real McCoy," "Time, the Forgotten Element," "Not By Bread Alone," and "One, Two, Three." Both the speeches and their respective criticisms as rendered by Miss Johnson contributed to the entertainment of the evening.

Adhering to long established custom which decrees that all graduating seniors of the society deliver speeches at the annual banquet, Ben Lynt spoke briefly on "A Few Words." At the close of his address because of his "especial interest in forensics" as demonstrated by his excellent work with the squad this year.

Dr. Briggs Speaks

The concluding speech of the evening was delivered by Dr. Briggs in which he drew clever analogies between members of the squad and specimens of prize iris which he displayed and presented to the persons correspondingly characterized. He also thanked the squad for the gift which Dorothy Lehman had presented to him just before he began his address.

The menu and meal were plan-

YW To Meet In Woods Sunday

The last YWCA meeting of this year wil lbe held this Sunday at 2:00 p.m. in the amphitheater of the College Woods. The theme of the program is "The Beauties of Nature," and senior girls are in charge. Ruth Case will speak on summer, Lucile Gaultney on fall, Ruth Meineke on winter, and Jeana Eddleman on spring.

Mr. Louis Black Attends Meeting

Mr. Louis A. Black, Director of Maintenance, has been in Atlanta since Wednesday in attendance at the Annual Convention of the Educational Buyers Association of the Colleges and Universities of the country ,which is being held this year in conjunction with the Annual Meeting of the Southern Association of College and University Business Officers. The theme of the convention is: "Post War Planning". Some of the speakers will be Dr. Goodrick C. Whitie, president of Emory University; Professor Howard T. Lewis, professor of marketing at Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; Mr. Clifton Mack, chief, U.S. Treasury Procurement Division; and Mr. Stuart F. Heinritz, editor of "Purchasing".

Senior Chapel Is Next Wednesday

The annual Senior Chapel Service will be held on Wednesday afternoon, May 10 at 2:00 p.m. The program will begin with the processional of the class in their caps and gowns. Peggy Fisher will be at the organ. Hubert Rust will pronounce the invocation. After singing of the first hymn Marion Stout will read the scripture followed by a prayer by Betty Jane Miller. Special music for the program will be provided by Frances Grosh, who will sing a solo, and Estelle Farrow, who will play a violin solo. Dorothy Harned will give a reading. As is customary each year at the senior service, the outgoing class will form lines around the chapel and the future senior class, the present junior class, will move up to the senior section to occupy their seats. Malcolm Thompson will lead in a prayer for the Alma Mater after the last hymn. The program will be ended by the entire audience singing the Alma Mater.

Next week's issue of the ECHO will be the concluding paper for the school year.

"Tulip Time" Reviewed

By MADELINE COOKE

"Tulip Time" sang its way to a huge success before a nearly full house last Saturday, April 29, at 8:15 p.m. in Voorhees chapel. The money remaining from the ticket sale after all bills are paid will be used to create a fund for future glee club activities.

Chorus and leads were right on cue all evening from hte opening "Come Along, Come Along" through the finale. Perhaps the most popular chorus was the dancing lesson with Doug MacMartin as instructor Hans. Doug was a bit nervous at first, but he overcame it after a few lines and made one of the biggest hits of the whole show. Owen McGarity brought a lot applause as the burgomaster. He and Doug kept up the humorous side of the plot—Owen for his big words and pompousness and Doug for his naivete. Jack Scott and Carroll Stegall gave a consistently good show of sarcasm, scheming, and love-making. The village maidens had not only looks but also the good voices necessary for their roles. Louise Warwick had a very sweet, clear voice. Lois Wilke's voice has a bit more depth to it. Their duet, "Many Long Years Ago," was one of the prettiest from the standpoint of the blend of voices. Bob Seel was good as the pedantic Professor McSpindle. Shirley Feeney's role as the more mature Aunt Anna was rather difficult, but she did it well. The romance between the Professor and Aunt Anna gave a little humorous twist to the story. With the exception of Jack and Owen, the operetta was the first appearance on the Maryville stage for the leads.

Mention must be made of the fine job done by the orchestra. They stayed right with the chorus all the time. A good word should be said, too, for the flower dance done by the two Shine twins and the graceful toe ballet solo done by Jean Smith.

Credit for the fine performance goes to Mr. Philip O. Jones and Mrs. Verton M. Queener. Mr. Jones was in charge of all the music for both the chorus and the orchestra. Mrs. Queener coached the chorus in their steps. Thelma Richardson coached the leads with their lines and acting. Lenore Wise was in charge of all costumes and general manager. In return for his work, the members of the Glee club presented Mr. Jones with two albums of records—Ravel's "Bolero" and Tschaikowski's "No. 1 Piano Concerto." As a token of appreciation of their hard work, the club gave lovely white purses to Lenore and Annette Bills, club pianist. The night of the performance there were white carnation corsages for Lenore, Annette, Mrs. Queener, and Thelma.

Backstage work the night of the performance was done by Charlie Burgreen, Bill Cover, Becky Davis, Leroy Dillener, Peggy Fisher, and Joe Henry. Credit for the flower stands and windmill goes to Hank Crowson.

Members of the Glee club will celebrate their success at the picnic this afternoon. They will meet in front of the chapel at 2:30 and hike out to the college farm. Mary Batchelor, Hank Crowson, Rush Lester, Owen McGarity, and Margie Roth are in charge of the program.

CALDWELL AND HENRY TIE FOR PRESIDENT

Richardson and Ross Will Edit and Manage CHILHOWEAN

Evelyn Gregory And Her Court Reign At May Day

Several hundred students, faculty, and townsfolk scattered on the hill above the Amphitheater Monday afternoon to watch the annual May Day program. Evelyn Gregory reigned as queen, dressed in the traditional white, carrying red carnations. Paul Smith shared the honors with her, acting as her escort and king. Evelyn is a senior English major from Eton, Georgia. Paul is a senior psychology major from Orlando, Florida.

Announced by the trumpeters, the freshman attendants entered first. Carolyn Winfrey and John Poland, Joy Stewart and Rush Lester represented this group. The girls were dressed in yellow and carried a bouquet of flowers. Following were the sophomores, Peggy Claypoole accompanied by Jack Houdeshel, Zenobia Bernardini accompanied by Abbott Kemp. These girls wore blue dresses. Next the juniors entered, Margaret Hunt walking with Joe Brown, and Jane Hays with Abner Richard. The girls wore peach colored dresses. Then the queen's attendants entered, Anne Horton dressed in an orchid dress and Vickie Hoole dressed in green. The procession was brought to a climax when the king and queen entered. Accompanying the couple were the flower girl and crown bearer, Anne Kennedy and Dickie Anderson, two Maryville children.

The program was dedicated to Miss Almira Bassett, assistant professor of Latin. She was escorted to the queen's chair by Lyle Knaupp, a senior English major who transferred from Bob Jones College this year.

At the queen's signal the program got under way. The theme throughout was "American Holiday—1944". There was a small skit, "We Ain't Got No Gas," a play about a family who planned to spend their vacation at home. However, a small boy found a way for them to travel, by pedaling to the East, to the West, to the North, and then South, and home.

Concluding the program was the traditional May Pole dance and the recessional by the court.

A choir organized by Wally Easter sang several songs during the program. The group consisted of Bill Cover, Hank Crowson, Wally Easter, Harold Kidder, Douglas MacMartin, Owen McGarity, Paul Moehlman, Jack Ross, Hubert Rust, Jack Scott, Carroll Stegall, Jimmy Walker, and James Witherspoon.

The trumpeters who announced the attendants were Harold Kidder, a freshman from Berwyn, Maryland, and Paul Moehlman, a senior English major from Indianapolis, Indiana.

YMCA To Lead Sunday Vespers

Departing from the usual custom of having one speaker at Vespers tomorrow several members of the YMCA will speak. The theme will be "Christian Youth". John Taylor, a senior English major from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will speak on "Christian Youth in College." Harold Huffman, a junior philosophy major from Rockford, Ohio, will speak on "Christian Youth in War."

Joe Brown, a junior history major from Blairs Mill, Pennsylvania, will introduce the speakers and lead the responsive reading. Edward Gates, a junior English major from Maryville, will read the scripture and lead in prayer.

Campus elections of class officers and Student Council members took place Wednesday, May 3, and the Student Council Elections Committee has announced the results. Members of the Elections Committee are: seniors, Malcolm Thompson, chairman, Helen Anderson, Marion Stout; juniors, Jeanne Bellerjeau and Joe Brown; sophomores, Dorothy Dick and John Goins; freshmen, Fay Cameron and John Poland. Miss Ruth Grierson, Librarian, was also present at the counting of the ballots. Results of the election are as follows:

For president of the senior class of '45, Peggy Caldwell and Louise Henry tied. The run-off for the final election will be announced at a later date. Peggy is a sociology major from Tallahassee, Florida, is chairman of the junior class social committee and will be a member of this year's daisy chain. Louise is an English major from Maryville, has recently been elected to Writers' Workshop, is a member of the YWCA cabinet, and is at present a member of the Student Council.

Hope Pleyl, a psychology major from Providence, Rhode Island, is the new vice-president. She has recently been elected secretary of next year's YW. She works in the College Bookstore and will be in the daisy chain. Shirley Scott, a religious education major from Altoona, Pennsylvania, is the newly elected secretary. She will be remembered for a leading part in the dramatic production, LADIES IN RETIREMENT. Phyllis Irshay, a home economics major from Detroit, Michigan, is the new class treasurer. She has recently been elected to membership in Writers' Workshop and is a home economics assistant.
